FAIL TO RETURN TO WORK

OPERATORS ARE SURPRISED AT THE FAILURE.

Promise of Protection by State Troops Did Not Have Effect Anticipated on Miners Desiring to Work.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—At 1:30 this morning 300 strikers started from McAdoo for collieries at Derringer, where men returned to work, followed by sheriff and deputies. Strikers won first test in anthracite region, smaller number of men working than on Saturday; 5,000 miners at Shenandoah victims' funeral swear never to yield. No disturbances reported.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 24.—To-day was expected to witness either a big break among the strikers or the going out of a large additional number of mine workers, but neither happened. Reports were received here from most of the mining towns that there were no big gains or losses on either side.

Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 24.—The promise of protection by the state troops failed to encourage the mine workers of this region who expressed a desire to continue at work, and the strike in this region is to-day more extensive than at any time since the strike was inaugurated.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 24.—Notwithstanding the efforts of operators, none of the collieries in this vicinity resumed work this morning. The miners as a body remained away from the collieries.

Shenandoah, Pa., Sept. 22.—Two killed and two score wounded, several seriously, here yesterday, in a street battle between a sheriff's posse and riotous foreigners. How many more are hurt cannot be learned, as many who fell were carried away by their friends, but it is estimated more than forty were wounded.

Three regiments of state guards, one regiment of cavalry, and a battery of artillery have been ordered out, and several companies will be here tomorrow morning to aid the local authorities in maintaining order.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 22.—President Mitchell has issued an open letter to the public in which he explains that nine railroads produce 72 per cent of the hard coal and are the carriers of the entire output of the region. For the transportation they charge three times as much for anthracite as they do for bituminous coal, thus reducing the apparent profits on the product, and making it impossible for the independent operators to grant concessions to employees which the big concerns refuse.

Even should the independent firms agree to the miners' demands, now that the other workings are closed, Mr. Mitchell says if the strike fails as regards the railroad miners the old conditions would have to be restored or the smaller firms could not compete with their rivals. This, he claimed, was the chief argument against a partial settlement, and the men must stand together.

Hazleton, Pa., Sept. 20.—There is a possibility of an early settlement of the great coal mines strike. The proposition made by the Philadelphia North American that the operators and heads of the United Mine Workers meet in New York to attempt to arrange for arbitration, has been consented to by President Mitchell. Archbishop Ryan is to be named as mediator.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—President Mitchell says striking miners are making gains. Estimates number out at 113,000. Philadelphia and Reading advanced price of all sizes 25 cents a ton. Archbishop Ryan, Philadelphia, went to the coal fields to urge arbitration.

Col. J. H. Wood Dies Suddenly. Chicago, Sept. 22.—Colonel Joseph H. Wood, grand marshal of the Grand Army parade during the recent national encampment, died of angina pectoris at midnight at his residence in this city.

Colonel Wood retired an hour before his death, apparently in perfect health. At 11:30 his wife noticed that he was breathing heavily. She tried to rouse him, but could not. When a doctor arrived the colonel was beyond medical skill.

Joseph H. Wood was born in the state of New York in 1839. He came of a family that had many fighters in the famous battles of American history. He made a gallant record during the rebellion. He was a nephew of "Fighting Joe" Hooker.

E. J. Baldwin Makes Strike. Seattle, Wash., Sept. 21.—According to advices which came on the steamer St. Paul "Lucky" Baldwin and his party of prospectors, who recently started on a secret trip to Kougrock district, returned to Nome on Sept. 6. Baldwin said:

"I think things are coming my way again. Out of this new deal, which is as yet my secret, I expect to make over $1,000,000. My men secured all the way from 50 cents to $1 a pan in prospects. We made over 100 locations, all of which are my possessions."

Gen. John T. McClelland Dead. Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—General John T. McClelland, who has been critically ill in this city for many weeks, died this morning.

His death was the result of old age and general breaking down of system. He had been in feeble health for years, and two years ago suffered an attack which nearly ended fatally. General John Alexander McClelland was 88 years of age May 30, 1900. While he was born in Kentucky, his life was spent in Illinois.

RETAKES LOST COLENSO GUN.

Lord Roberts Reports Number of Successes by African Forces.

London, Sept. 23.—The following dispatch has been received from Lord Roberts: "Pretoria, Friday, Sept. 21.—Methuen completely routed a Boer convoy at Hart river, west of Klerksdorp, and recaptured a fifteen-pounder lost at Colenso. He also captured twenty-six wagons, 8,000 cattle, 4,000 sheep, 20,000 rounds of ammunition, and twenty-eight prisoners.

"Hilgard occupied Vryheid Sept. 19, turning out the Boers from a strong position. The British casualties were few.

"Cleary has captured a Hollander-American belonging to Theron's scouts, confirms the reports of Theron's death."

London, Sept. 21.—Lord Roberts cables from Nelspruit, under date of Wednesday, Sept. 19, as follows: "Of the 3,000 Boers who retreated from Komati Poort before the British advance from Machododorp, 700 have entered Portuguese territory, others have deserted in various directions and the balance are reported to have crossed the Komati River and to be occupying spurs of the Lobomo Mountains, south of the railway.

"A general tumult seems to have occurred when they recognized the hopelessness of their cause. Their long toms and field guns have been destroyed and nothing is left of the Boer army but a few marauding bands. Kelly-Kelny is dealing with one of these, which occupies a position at Doornberg.

London, Sept. 19.—Boers captured and looted Komatipoort. Pitched battle near Hector Spruit; Boers' loss heavy. General French captured fifty locomotives. President Steyn arrived at Lourenzo Marques.

MOB HANGS FOUR NEGROES.

Louisiana Again Scene of Violence—Men Lynched Suspected of Robbery.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 22.—Four negroes were lynched at Ponchatoula, Tangipahoa parish, at 9 o'clock last night. The lynching follows a robbery committed on Tuesday night by several negroes at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoffeier, when $250 was secured by the robbers. Immediately the alarm was given, the citizens of Ponchatoula secured arms, and yesterday afternoon brought in fourteen suspects—all negroes.

At 9 o'clock a band of white men proceeded to the jail. The keys of the building were demanded of the sheriff, who refused them. The citizens, who had secured axes and implements, gained an entrance in a few minutes, and four of the negroes were dragged out and strung up to a single tree.

Texas Sufferers.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 22.—The Galveston Bay bridge was completed yesterday, and the first train to arrive since Sept. 8 pulled into the union depot. It was a Santa Fe train.

Full passenger train service has been resumed by all the lines entering the city via Virginia Point.

Galveston, Tex., Sept. 18.—To put Galveston on her feet will require $5,000,000. Such is the opinion of Congressman Hawley, one of the representative business men. This does not mean that the sum mentioned will come anywhere near restoring the city to the condition before the storm. Far from it.

Elevator Falls and Injures Many.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—The passenger elevator in the Fisher building, Van Buren and Dearborn streets, dropped from the fourth floor at 6 o'clock last night and injured ten of the occupants and one other man. The injuries of but one of the passengers are dangerous, though several were seriously hurt. The accident, which wrecked the car and left cable strands in a tangle, was caused primarily by the bursting of a water valve. The safety clutches failed to hold.

Peace-maker Is Killed.

St. Louis, Sept. 21.—Francis McGuire, a discharged employe of the St. Louis Transit Company, shot five times and instantly killed in a pistol duel on the street last night Wesley P. Haynes, a road officer of the same company. McGuire attacked a conductor named Scott, accusing him of having caused his discharge. Haynes interfered as a peace-maker, and McGuire knocked him down. A pistol duel followed, Haynes receiving five bullets in various parts of the body, any one of which would have caused his death.

Yellow Fever Gains Rapidly.

Havana, Sept. 24.—Thirty-one new cases of yellow fever have been officially reported since Friday, making nearly 100 now under treatment. Captain George S. Cartwright, Twenty-fourth United States Infantry, Quartermaster's department, who was taken down with the fever last Monday at Camp Columbia, is dead. Robert Thomas and Alfred Kilborn, Second United States Artillery, were attacked yesterday.

Boy Horse Thieves Convicted.

La Grange, Ind., Sept. 21.—Lewis Sprout, Otis Sprout, Andrew Perry and Adrian Lamunyon, members of a gang of boy horse thieves, were convicted in the Circuit Court. The gang operated in Indiana, Michigan and Ohio, and caused police officers a long search. Each of the four is 19 years old.

AMERICA ALIENS ALLIES.

PREDICT DISASTER ON WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS.

Both Germany and England Believe Move of United States Will Encourage the Chinese to Resist Allies.

London, Sept. 25.—Charles Williams, London war expert, thinks withdrawal of United States from allies' concert will lead to trouble. Reported in Russia that powers are working to induce Germany to modify note. Berlin correspondent of London Express says Germany is formulating new note suggesting international court to try Chinese leaders.

Berlin, Sept. 24.—Discussing the answer of the United States government to Germany's proposal regarding the Chinese settlement, the Vossische Zeitung says to-day:

"America's abandonment of the concert of the powers will not have serious consequences for their diplomatic negotiations, but it will render their task more difficult, inasmuch as nothing so increases Chinese presumption and insolence as the knowledge that harmony in the ranks of their opponents has been disturbed."

London, Sept. 24.—The Standard alone of all the London morning papers comments on America's newest declarations regarding the Chinese problems. This paper fears that the action of the United States will tend to weaken the moral influence of the allies, as any sign of dissent will unquestionably encourage the Chinese.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 23.—Elaborate preparations of a naval character are being made to protect American interests in China. The strong naval force in Asiatic waters is to be largely reinforced, and in the final settlement of the Chinese questions the European powers will be compelled to respect the interests of the United States.

Washington, Sept. 22.—President McKinley ordered Chaffee to withdraw all troops from China to Philippines except small guard for American legation. Conger directed to open peace negotiations with Prince Ching. German foreign office received replies from Italy, Austria and France agreeing to German note.

Li Hung Chang arrived at Tien Tsin. Only Russians and Japanese called on him.

London, Sept. 21.—A dispatch from Taku says: "The battle of Tiansiang on Sept. 14 was marked by two striking things. The more startling was the way the German soldiers carried out their Emperor's order to exact exemplary punishment and vengeance." During the fight they had taken 150 prisoners. After the battle these were stood up in a row and shot.

Washington, Sept. 21.—Active military operations about to be resumed against Boxers. Allies bombarded forts near Taku. General Wilson with 800 Americans and 600 British started from Peking to capture Pei Ta Chu. McKinley is preparing replies to all diplomatic notes on Chinese question to be delivered at same time.

Correspondent of London Standard tells of massacre of Chinese by Russians. In Chinese villages and strewn about the Russian bank of the Amur river not less than 7,000 men, women and children were put to death.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Reply of United States to German note will be that government is anxious to begin negotiations for peace which will include reparation and punishment. France and Russia made known their intention to begin negotiations with Li Hung Chang. Government at Washington reached conclusion Germany and England are aligned against France and Russia, with both sides seeking adherence of United States. Minister Wu declared conditions of German note impossible. Cause of note said to be admission by Li Hung Chang placing guilt on high mandarins.

London Mail's St. Petersburg correspondent says Russia will demand an indemnity of $500,000,000 from China.

London, Sept. 19.—Reported Salisbury cabled Li Hung Chang that Chinese Emperor must be brought to Peking for protection before negotiations proceed.

Germany sent note to all the powers saying Boxer leaders must be given up to allies and punished before peace negotiations opened.

SIGN IRON AND STEEL SCALE.

Workers and Employers Reach Agreement and Mills Will Resume.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 24.—Sunday morning both sides in the wage conference between the amalgamated workers and the iron and steel companies signed the scale. Each side made compromises. By this act positions were reopened for 60,000 men who have been idle since June.

When the annual shutdown occurred on the 30th of that month it was expected that resumption of operations was not far off, but delays in reaching an agreement have kept the mills closed far beyond the anticipated time. The scale that was adopted to-day, effective until July, 1901, is known as the yearly scale, which begins always with July.

Justin McCarthy Retires.

London, Sept. 21.—Justin McCarthy, the novelist and historian, who has been a member of Parliament for North Longford since 1892, and who was formerly chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, announces his retirement from Parliamentary life on account of failing health.

MOB TARS DOWIE ELDERS.

Angry Citizens of Mansfield, O., Resort to Extreme Measures.

Mansfield, O., Sept. 24.—Two Dowie elders, Silas Moot of Lima and Ephraim Bassinger of Bluffton, were stripped of their clothing and painted with tar by a mob of 6,500 Mansfield citizens yesterday. The two elders were roughly handled by the mob, and Elder Moot, who showed a disposition to resist, was beaten and kicked into submission.

After the tar had been applied the two elders were marched through the streets until a squad of policemen rescued them. They were taken to police headquarters, where lard, vaseline, and benzine were applied to the elders, and, after a couple of hours' hard work, the tar was removed and the elders were given a bath and provided with a change of raiment from a local clothing store. They were taken to the Erie depot at noon followed by jeering crowds and sent on to Lima.

CUBA NEEDS A GUARDIAN.

May Require Troops Until Natives Are Taught Self-Government.

Washington, Sept. 24.—General Fitzhugh Lee arrived here and in discussing affairs in Cuba was not enthusiastic over the outlook there. General Lee's opinion substantiates the story published a few days ago to the effect that the Cubans are unfitted for self-government.

While General Lee did not go into all the details, on account of his official position, he indicated plainly that it will be necessary for this government to teach the Cubans how to govern themselves, and he also said the interests of foreigners in Cuba would be placed in jeopardy upon the withdrawal of the United States troops.

NO PEACE FOR AGUINALDO.

Philippine Leader Says He Will Not Compromise—Issues an Edict.

Manila, Sept. 24.—Senor Buencamino has received from Aguinaldo an answer regarding his peace proposals. Aguinaldo declines to consider them and declares that he is unwilling to agree to a compromise.

The amnesty expired Sept. 21, and the conditions that existed previously have been resumed.

An insurgent proclamation, signed last month by Aguinaldo, directing that American prisoners be set at liberty, that good treatment be accorded to captives, and that $40 be paid to each American surrendering, has reached Manila.

Marshal Campos Dead.

Madrid, Sept. 24.—Marshal Arsenio Martinez de Campos died this morning at Zarauz, near San Sebastian, aged 66 years. He had been suffering for some time with diabetes and on Friday became suddenly worse.

Marshal Campos, known to Americans principally as the most humane Captain-General Cuba ever had, is to Spain the man who put down the Carlist rebellion and who, with General Jovellar, placed Alfonso XII. on the throne, and as such he will live in Spanish history.

Says Porto Ricans May Vote.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22.—The Board of Supervisors of Elections in Baltimore, acting upon advice of counsel, to-day decided that Dr. Francisco Del Valle and other natives of Porto Rico are citizens of the United States, and that as they have resided within the state for a year and within a given legislative and congressional district for six months, they are entitled to be registered and to vote.

His Wife's Nerve and Good Marksman-ship Saves His Life, She Driving the Animal Away With a Gun.

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 24.—The heroism of a wife who could handle a gun undoubtedly saved the life of Benjamin Eakwright, a Moorland township farmer. Eakwright was attacked by a vicious bull and thrown to the ground. He kept the brute off with the aid of a "poke," meanwhile calling lustily for help. His wife came to the rescue with a shotgun and the man called to her to shoot the animal in the flank and if it still resisted in its efforts to kill him to shoot to kill. which was formed in London. Dr. Blumer, Superintendent of the State Hospital at Utica, is active in the society, and the New York Central railroad has taken up the matter, with the object of protecting the natural scenery along its route from the ravages of the man with the paint pot and brush. Advertisements of various nostrums for the cure of all kinds of unpleasant diseases are the most conspicuous offenses in the way of objectionable advertisements, although many other articles, from soap to lotions in "Lonelyville," stare at one from every point of vantage. In many cases there are indecent pictures illustrating the advertisement, and these will all be abolished, if the society can carry out its intention. Sign painters and agents for this form of advertising are up in arms already, but public sentiment is against them, and on this the society depends largely for success.

What is a Man Worth.

Perhaps the best estimate of the average man is to be found in his obituary—not what is said of him, but how much. Blessed few men of to-day are worth a column. Those worth a page may be counted on the fingers of one hand. The most conspicuous man in the world to-day is the Prince of Wales, personally popular and about to step on the throne of England and India—with possibilities in China. McKinley, ex-officio, is worth a page. Cleveland and Harrison, two living ex-Presidents, are worth a couple of columns apiece, having had their say and day. We have lost interest in them. Lord Salisbury will cut up well, but not to the extent of a page. Nobody in France is worth more than a column. The murdered King of Italy got a big show because of his tragic taking off. Had he died a natural death in bed a column would have finished him.

My old friend Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the leading financier of the world, would be worth three or four columns. He has done things. Mr. Richard Croker will get a splendid send-off. Any obituary fiasco could write pages about the Tammany boss. Platt will not be the most neglected dead man when he shuffles off. Things to the extent of two columns or more will be said of the easy boss. We haven't a general or admiral worth more than a column. The leader of the bar may not get more than half a column. The most prominent physician or surgeon is worth little more. Mark Hanna, were he to step off suddenly, would cut up well for the space writer. He has made an impression. John Hay has exhibited a quantity and quality of brains that Americans like. He is worth half a page, being the ablest statesman of this generation.

The Dewey Arch.
Soaked by the rain, shaken by the wind, with its big symbolical figures streaked with grime and in a condition altogether unlovely, the Naval Arch, formerly known as the Dewey Arch, presents a sorry spectacle as the gateway to Madison square.

To judge from the comments of New Yorkers, they are heartily tired of the structure that has fallen into such a dilapidated state. It no longer impresses out of town visitors as a thing of beauty, and even the officers of the citizens' committee for perpetuating the arch say that the present structure should be removed, as it is a base libel on their project.

Although the Municipal Council appropriated $2,000 for keeping the arch in repair, the patches of fresh plaster and coats of whitewash industriously limed on the columns and piers serve only to emphasize the process of disintegration to which the copy of the famous arch of Titus has fallen a victim.

The Dewey Arch.

Street sweepers utilize the nooks at the bases of the triumphal arches as a resting place for their brooms and carts of refuse. There is scarcely one arch the base of which has not been mutilated by some passing truck. At Twenty-third street the great subsidiary groups rest on pedestals from which the plaster has been torn in great strips.

Weather beaten boards show on the sides of the big piers of the arch. On the northwest pier a board surface of from fifteen to twenty feet has been exposed. On the southwest and southeast piers of the arch not only has the plaster covering fallen away but big gaping holes have come to view. Wind and rain have removed the paint from the supports of the big white globes surmounting the triumphal columns, and these globes now appear to be resting on ordinary soap boxes, the nailed boards being plainly discernible from the street.

Either Would be Effective.
"Oh!" sighed the poet, "could I but escape the cold, unfeeling gaze of a critical world! Could I but lapse into obscurity and be forgotten!"

"Well, sir," remarked the observing man, "two ways are open before you."
"And what, kind sir, are those two ways of escape for a world-sick soul?"
"Either get elected Vice-President or make a trip to the pole in a balloon."

A ROMANTIC ENGLISHMAN.

Sir Edwin Arnold's Life in the Flower Kingdom.

Sir Edwin Arnold, who legalized his union with a fascinating Japanese widow by an English marriage service was always cosmopolitan in his ideas. Surely no Englishman born and bred has ever succeeded in merging his own individuality into that of other people's as the author of "The Light of Asia," and "The Light of the World" has done. When he was in India in his young days his work showed his intense sympathy with the Buddhists, and in the preface to "The Light of Asia," he wrote: "This book was written by one who loved India and the Indian people."

For two score of years he was English to the core of his heart in the editorials he wrote for the London Telegraph, and in 1890 he came to America, seemed quite able to understand us (as few of his countrymen could do), and then he went on to Japan and immediately began to live a la Japonais.

He lived in a native house, left his shoes at his door, slept on a thick quilt and, they say, ate in true Japanese style. In his bed room he had a cheap European washstand, two Japanese chests of drawers of white wood and black ironwork, and the usual sliding cupboards, into which his bed was put when it was rolled up in the daytime.

The walls of the room were of tissue paper panels, powdered with silver maple leaves, and a clear glass belt ran around the room "at a height inconducive to propriety," as one correspondent of the day remarked.

The drawing room was glass-paneled from floor to ceiling, and the only thing in the whole house that hinted at other civilizations was an American stove, which stood in one of the corners.

With such surroundings it is not much wonder that the impressionable poet found himself going through the ceremony of tea drinking with his charming companion of the hour, and that he was content to accept the ceremony as a bona fide marriage is tribute to his kinship with genius that since the world began has ever flouted a little the staid laws and regulations that ordinary folk find necessary to comfortable existence.

It was in Japan, by the way, that Sir Edwin began "The Light of the World," and, indeed, completed it, too, during his stay of several years.

He says himself that he was in a tea garden one night surrounded by music, flowers, handsome dressing and all the delicate luxuries which Japan knows so well how to combine, when suddenly he began to write. So absorbed was he that he was unconscious of his companion until one said: "Be quiet, Dana Sama is writing," and then he found he had put on paper the first lines of his beautiful lyric:

Peace beginning to be
Deep as the sleep of the sea
When the stars their radiance glass
In its blue tranquility.

"Yiss, Mr. Ellis, I was. Bless me if I weren't a-layin in the gutter wid a pig. Father Ryan came along, looked at me, and says, says he, 'One is known by the company he keeps.'"
"And did you get up, Patrick?"

"I wish I were the glove that presses your lovely hand," he said to the charming maid.

You hasn't said yit, sah, if you would hab 'em wid or widout pearls."

"I hope, Ophelia, that you are not so foolish as to call yourself a 'wash lady.'"

"Deed I don't, Miss May. I calls myself a laundry lady."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Your American public is pretty thin-skinned," commented the visiting foreigner.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the native statesman. "It seems to stand about as much skinning as any other old public."—Indianapolis Journal.

"There's that pretty Miss Smart."
"Yes. I understand she has just given Richer the mitten."

"It was worse than that. She did it so emphatically he thought it was a 'boxing glove.'"—Editor's Drawer, Harper's Magazine.

The Chicago Tribune

is a newspaper for bright and intelligent people. It is made up to attract people who think. It is not neutral or colorless, constantly bringing in an endeavor to please both sides, but it is independent in the best sense of the word. It has pronounced opinions and is fearless in expressing them, but it is always fair to its opponents.

Matters of national or vital public interest get more space in THE TRIBUNE than in any other paper in the West.

For these reasons it is the newspaper you should read during the forthcoming political campaign.

THE TRIBUNE'S financial columns never mislead the public.

Its facilities for gathering news, both local and foreign, are far superior to those of any other newspaper in the West.

It presents the news in as fair a way as possible, and lets its readers form their opinions.

While it publishes the most comprehensive articles on all news features, if you are busy the "Summary of THE DAILY TRIBUNE" published daily on the first page gives you briefly all the news of the day within one column.

Its sporting news is always the best, and its Sunday Pink Sporting Section is better than any sporting paper in the country.

It is the "cleanest" daily printed in the West.

NOTES FROM GOTHAM

ODELL AND WOODRUFF SELECTED TO HEAD REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

Col. Morgan Passes Away Shortly After He Had Received a Renomination—Platt is the Leader—The Dewey Arch—Summer Girls Help Firemen.

The political cartoonist is reaping a rich harvest in these busy days for the politician. Nast was the first to successfully introduce effective cartoons into a political campaign. Others have followed and have outdone him. Davenport and others are the famous artists, of this class, of to-day. They are ever on the alert to catch the drift of opinion, and to seize on any new feature of the campaign. Some of the cartoons are exactly to the point, while some need to have the point elaborated in order to have it seen. Many of these artists make from $80 to $150 a week at their profession. The daily papers are made up so largely of illustrations that the artists are in good demand.

Platt is the Leader.

If any one had any doubts of the fact that Senator Platt is the undisputed ruler of the Republican party of the State those doubts should be dispelled by the result of the Saratoga convention. The nominations have gone just about as Mr. Platt desired, and he has a State ticket entirely to his liking. The results of the Democratic nomination will be interesting, and when all have been made, the campaign will be in full swing. Mr. Odell, the Republican candidate for Governor, is said to be popular in his home, and it is asserted that as he came up from a hard working boy that the young men will find in his candidacy an inspiration.

Timothy L. Woodruff was renominated for Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. Woodruff was in the race for Vice-President and after being beaten by Governor Roosevelt for second place on the national ticket declined to take the re-nomination for Lieutenant-Governor up to the last moment when it was forced upon him by the party leaders.

John T. McDonough was selected to run for Secretary of State, as was William J. Morgan for Comptroller, John F. Jaekel for State Treasurer, John C. Davies for Attorney-General and Edward A. Bond for State Engineer. All these men have filled the respective places for which they were nominated and have pleased the leaders so well that they were given a second chance to run on the ticket.

The delegates had barely reached home when they received the sad news of the death of William J. Morgan, who less than ten hours before had received the nomination for Comptroller for a second term. The news came like a thunderbolt to all circles, official and civic, for it was not thought he was seriously ill, and the news could hardly be credited at the time.

Of course the progress of the census for Manhattan and the Bronx are not "up to the expectations" of the Board of Health. This important body has been adding hundreds of thousands to the population of the whole city in the hope of concealing the leap of the death rate back to the old Tammany level after the Tammany restoration. But every one else in the country, and especially the residents of Cook county, Illinois, will be surprised that the old city of New York has passed the 2,000,000 mark. The postponement of rapid transit, the outgrowing of harbor facilities, the virtual abandonment of the Erie Canal, the generally reckless indifference of people and government to the city's menaced supremacy, all pointed to a relative decline in its population. We don't know that it's anything to be proud of that there are 2,050,600 of us old New Yorkers, and that we have "beaten Chicago" without any need of consolidation. But it is something to be wondered at, a marvelous new evidence of the self-preservative power of the city.

Summer Girls Help Firemen.

The Rockaway species of summer girl is full of life and intrepidity. This fact was proved early this morning, when half a dozen young women, in party dresses, took hold of the ropes of one of the hose trucks of the volunteer fire department and helped to put out a fire. They were on the piazza of their hotel when they saw the cart going past, and noticed that the lines were not fully manned. Without a moment of hesitation the bevy of summer girls rushed to the rescue and worked like Trojans. The fire was at the Rockaway Beach Gas Light Company's building, and threatened to be a serious one. As it was the buildings were destroyed, but the assistance of the summer girls prevented its spreading, and the young women are now the heroines of the place.

Fluctuation in Values.

Seats on the Exchange reached low water in 1893, when they went begging, so to speak, at $13,500. When, in November, 1898, $27,500 was bid, our voluntary, unincorporated financial power took on a new lease of life. Members who had lived on sandwiches and beer suddenly renewed their diet of canvasbacks and champagne. It was the highest price offered in thirteen years. Eight days later a seat was sold at $28,000, and hopeful members declared that the high record of 1895 might be equalled. In that year (November) J. R. Waters bought a seat for $34,000. The initiation fee of $1,000, the gratuity fund fee of $10 and the annual dues of $50 brought the price up to $35,000. I have heard that the highest price on record in any year prior to 1898 was $35,400. Possibly.

"DARKNESS AND DAWN."
 A Weird and Fascinating Feature of the Midway at the Pan-American Exposition.

"Darkness and Dawn," which is to be one of the features of the Midway at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo next year, is a presentation of Dante's Inferno. It is remarkably realistic, with enough of comedy to relieve the gruesomeness that otherwise might jar sensitive natures. The visitor is taken in hand by guides and conducted to an elevator by which he seems to go down, down into hopeless darkness. As he steps from the cage he finds himself in a cool retreat with jovial companions, such as a living skeleton, a widow in her weeds, and an undertaker or two. It is the threshold of the place which the good people expect to avoid in the hereafter. The visitor, under the protection of guides is assured of safety. He is led through a series of corridors and grottos, along burning lakes and other devices of torture, where he may witness the punishment of those who juggle with the truth, who borrow umbrellas and neglect to return them, who gossip about their neighbors and who otherwise trespass on the rights of others. The lesson is a salutary one. Presently the scenes of purgatory are passed and the visitor comes to the "Grotto of Dawn," where maidens are dancing and singing and wonderful illusions greet the eye. The music and brilliant scenes form a happy ending of the journey. After tarrying a few moments in the grotto the visitor returns once more to the realm of everyday life.

THE NORTH BAY.
 One of the Park Scenes at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo.

The view here shown of the North Bay of Delaware Park, which is included in the site of the Pan-American Exposition, to be held at Buffalo next year, is taken from a point north of the site of the Albright Art Gallery. This is destined to be, in view of its magnificent surroundings, in the near future, one of the most beautiful reaches of water in the country. The bridge in the picture, graceful and substantial as it is, is to be replaced by a far more imposing and ornate structure. The bridge crosses a narrow neck in the Park Lake and carries the broad and beautiful driveway which leads from the main southern entrance at Forest Avenue to the Exposition Buildings. On the north side of the North Bay will stand the fine substantial and permanent building to be erected by the State of New York, and which will become, after the Exposition, the home of the valuable collection of Indian, colonial and pioneer relics and library owned by the Buffalo Historical Society. Opposite the New York State Building on the south side of the Bay will stand the Albright

Art Gallery, which is to serve the purposes of the Exposition for the Department of Fine Arts. This building is the gift of Mr. J. J. Albright, of Buffalo, to his fellow citizens. It is to be strictly fireproof, of white marble, in the Ionic style of architecture, and will stand on a broad terrace sustained by a wall of granite blocks. The building will be 250 feet long by about 150 feet wide, and is to be of such a substantial character as to withstand the elements for many generations. It will become the public art gallery of Buffalo at the close of the Exposition, the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy having the custody of the property.

TURNED OVER BY A MACHINE.
 A Contrivance Which Enables One Man to Pass the Nights in Comfort.
 The San Francisco Examiner tells about a man who has invented an apparatus to turn him over in bed. The man is Walter Hyde. Mr. Hyde is quite old and is troubled with an incomplete circulation of the blood, causing sleeplessness. If he remains in one position long a mild form of paralysis follows and he cannot sleep at all. Mr. Hyde concluded that if he had some mechanical means to turn himself over hourly at night he could go to sleep and not be under the necessity of awakening.

Being somewhat of a mechanical turn of mind, Mr. Hyde concluded to experiment. The result of his tinkering and thinking is the mechanical contrivance which hourly turns him over without awakening him from his slumbers, and which he says works so charmingly that his paralysis with accompanying sleeplessness is a thing of the past. The frame on which the mattress rests hangs from the bedstead by means of pinions, one at the head and the other at the foot. The frame is kept in position by being secured at the sides to a clock-like apparatus with cogs and levers to tilt the mattress frame, the motion of the rocking being governed by the clock and spring apparatus. The tilting of the frame is so nicely graduated that the sleeper is unconscious of the change, but continues undisturbed in his night's sleep, as the mechanism attached to the frame automatically changes his position during the hour to the right or to the left side as the case may be.

MONEY IN APPLE CORES.
 Used by Confectioners in the Manufacture of Jelly and Syrups.

A market for cores and skins of apples has been opened in South Water street, Chicago. In the large hotels the apple cores accumulate in goodly quantity each day and the collection of a month would have a selling value of several dollars. In most of the restaurants and hotels this fruit refuse is thrown away with the garbage. If it were collected and desiccated it could be turned into delicious jelly and syrup. This is the use to which the apple cores and skins are put in Chicago and this is the reason there is a market for them. Confectioners purchase them occasionally in large quantities and pay as high as one cent a pound. The average price is about one-quarter cent a pound. It matters not what kind of an apple core it is. Nor is it important whether the core has been cut with a silver knife or gnawed by the teeth—everything goes, for when these dried cores and skins are used to make jelly, syrup or gelatine they pass through a process of cleansing and filtration.

THOS. S. SPRAGUE & SON, PATENTS.
 Wayne County Bank Bldg., DETROIT
 Pepto Quinine Tablets.
 These tablets relieve and cure constipation. 25 cents.

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

The Party (Democratic) stands where it did in 1896 on the Money Question.—Wm. J. Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

According to the reports from the Land Commissioner's office Michigan ranks second as a beet sugar producer. This is truly a remarkable showing for our state.

The New Buffalo Telephone comes out this week with a new editor in charge. Mr. J. T. Boyd who has been a resident of New Buffalo for some time is the new editor.

Voting for Bryan on the theory that a Republican Senate will prevent him putting his heresies into practice is not a practice that will appeal strongly to the intelligence of the country.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."—From the speech of William Jennings Bryan at Knoxville, Tenn.

For Judge of Probate.
The position of Probate Judge of a county is a responsible one and doubly so in a county like Berrien. For this reason the republican party is extremely fortunate in its nominee for this position of trust. Mr. Frank H. Ellsworth of Benton Harbor is a general gentleman and a thorough lawyer. He has had exceptional advantages of training for Probate court, having been for six years clerk of Probate court in another county of this state. His excellent record as City Attorney for three terms in Benton Harbor, which added to his affable and courteous manner makes him friends wherever he goes. Vote in November to make his official title Judge of Probate and you will never regret it.

Mr. Bryan produces a decided novelty in argument when he declares that the way to continue McKinley times is to defeat McKinley.

When Mr. Bryan is engaged in making a calamity speech the foot of a factory whistle is every bit as annoying to him as the hiss of an auditor.

Fictitious fears and false forebodings constitute the Democratic stock in trade.

Four years of Republican administration have made hives of industry out of more than 350,000 haunts of idleness and soup-houses.

Main, Vermont and Oregon's pluralities were large enough to take these States out of the "doubtful" column.

President McKinley's letter of acceptance may properly be said to be a message to the American people.

The most remarkable significance in Mr. Bryan's letter of acceptance to the Democrats, is his silence upon everything and every subject in which American workingmen as a class have an interest.

Proclamation.

To the People of the State of Michigan:
The news of the terrible calamity which has befallen the people of Galveston, Texas, has by this time reached the remotest parts of Michigan. The reports of the number of deaths and the extent of the destitution resulting from the flood and storm are as yet somewhat conflicting.

Probably the most reliable statement is that which comes from the Mayor of Galveston, that the loss of life will exceed 5,000 and that there are 25,000 people homeless, in need of shelter, food and clothing.

I am sure that these facts need only be stated to bring a prompt and generous response from the people of Michigan. I earnestly hope that this State, in proportion to its population and wealth, will be second to none in the size of its contribution to the fund for the relief of the unfortunate people of Galveston.

Money orders, checks and currency in amounts, no matter how small, may be sent to Hon. Geo. A. Steel, Treasurer of the State of Michigan, Lansing, Michigan, who will see that the funds are forwarded to the proper authorities for the aid of the sufferers.

In those cities where persons have already been designated to receive funds, it will facilitate matters to hand contributions to them. This call is intended not only to urge all those who have not done so to contribute, but also to name someone to whom people in the smaller towns and in the country, where arrangements have not been made, may forward contributions.

Daily, weekly and trade newspapers and journals throughout the State are requested to do their part by publishing this proclamation as conspicuously as possible without expense to the fund or the State. Mayors of cities and presidents of villages, who have not done so, are requested and strongly urged to call mass meetings, appoint local committees, issue appeals through the press, or to take other immediate action as they may deem best.

Fortunately calamities like this very seldom happened to the people of our Republic, but when they have, our duty to our fellow countrymen has been promptly and well done. Let the response in this case be liberal.

Given under my hand and the State of Michigan, at the Capitol, in Lansing, this 14th day of September, and of the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.

By the Governor:
J. S. STEARNS, H. S. PINGREE,
Secretary of State. Governor.

Only one man in a hundred on a farm is with a cent:

What's the use to spile a farmer, jest to make a President?

Now there's Bryan, down to Lincoln, doin' most uncommon well,

Raisin' garden truck an' sich like where he once was raisin'—

Windmill whirlin' in his medder when the neighbors' never run,

From his stoop he keeps 'em goin', speakin' on 16 to 1.

Folks that buy their produce of him has to pay their money rust,

For the farm's so Democratic that it's strictly anti-trust.

Sittin' on his porch young William is the picture of content,

What's the use to spile his farmin' jest to make a President?

There is silver dollars growin' on his 48-cent trees,

An bequeath 'em drones the hummin' of the Presidential bees;

William sits an' listens to 'em, with his hardset face relaxed,

Never thinks the man that keeps 'em may be jest the one that's waxed.

Mornin' he will dig fur hours where the beets is growin' red.

Notin, with great satisfaction every one of 'em is dead,

Fur dead beets repudiation very patly represent.

Who would spile so great a farmer, jest to make a President?

Every plant around the garden's tightly tied up with a band,

So there's not the slightest danger any of 'em can expand:

All the cows down in the medder wears encircled of their horns,

Rosebush halos, which, examined, proves to be a crown o' thorns,

And at sunset, when the lambkins all come stealin' to the fold,

On the neck of each un' every, you will see a cross o' gold.

Only one man in Nebraska's got a farm that's with a cent,

What's the use to spile this genius, jest to make a President? Exchange.

How's this for Prosperity.

Since the Democratic days of 1894, there has been an increase of 2,109,547 bank depositors in the whole United States.

This number more people have had money to deposit during McKinley prosperity.

The total amount of money deposited to the credit of the people was $2,374,584,406 in 1894.

In 1899 it was $4,088,000,000, showing an increase of almost one and three-quarter billions of dollars to the credit of the people who had bank accounts in the five years since the country was suffering the agonies of a democratic administration.

Not only has there been this vast increase in the aggregate amount of money placed in the banks, but the average amount of each bank account has increased from $520, in 1894, to an average of $602 per bank account in 1899.

Who will say that the promises of the Republican party have not been fulfilled?

Who will say that the Advance Agent of Prosperity has not visited the American people under the Republican administration of President McKinley?

Last Friday evening the members of the Presbyterian Church gave a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Boardman. A pleasant evening was passed in music, song and social conversation, the surprisers leaving Mr. and Mrs. Boardman a beautiful silver server engraved "Boardman 1900" and two handsome oak rockers, as a memento of their visit. The recipients of these presents have labored faithfully and long as leaders of the Presbyterian Choir and this was a slight recognition of the high esteem in which they are held.

Big Pay Roll.

If anybody still doubts the value of the Dowgiac Canning company as an adjunct to Dowgiac's growth and prosperity of the current year, they may be of a different opinion when informed that the last two weeks' pay roll amounted to $1700, or $850 per week. Much of this money passed into the hands of women and girls who heretofore had not been able to find suitable employment in Dowgiac.

The factory in a day or two will be through with the season's corn crop, and will at once begin work on the apple crop. Tomatoes, which were an unprecedented large crop this year, will last for about two weeks more.—Dowgiac News.

In accordance with the suggestion made in the Governor's proclamation I hereby request that our citizens respond to the cry for help from our stricken city of Galveston, and all desiring to contribute are hereby notified that Village Clerk W. ### OBITUARY.

LEVI SPARKS, was born Oct. 8 1828, in Center township, Ind., removed to Niles township, Mich., in 1828. In 1880 he moved on the farm in Berrien township where he lived until his death, Sept. 20, 1900.

He was married Jan. 2, 1845, to Maria Martin, who with one son, Edwin survives him. He also leaves four grandchildren, three brothers and two sisters.

On Dec. 17, 1854, a number of persons met together in Buchanan to organize a church known as the Disciples of Christ. Among the seventeen persons who handed in their names was Levi and Maria Sparks.

In 1875 he was elected to the State Senate, and while at Lansing made the acquaintance of Mr. Davis who at that time was chaplain of the senate. The funeral service was held Sept. 22, at East Union church, near Berrien Center, conducted by his friend of so many years, Elder Davis.

Rally Day.

The State and County Sunday School Association urge the celebration of what is known as "Rally Day" in the various Sunday schools. This occurs the last Sabbath in September. The object is to secure the attendance of all the regular members of the school and church and as many additional members as possible; the filling up and arranging of classes; the organization of new classes in case sufficient number of new scholars come in. It is customary to hold special services such as songs, recitations and short talks on the value of the Sabbath school and the many ways in which it can be improved and outsiders become interested.

We earnestly urge all schools in Berrien county to plan for the recognition of this day, and to enter upon the fall months with new zeal and energy.

Sincerely yours,
E. K. WARREN, Pres.
D. W. KEAN, Sec'y.

County Sunday School Association.

REPUBLICAN EDITORS.

Hold Annual Meeting at Kalamazoo.

The Republican Newspaper Association of Michigan held a very successful annual meeting at Kalamazoo, Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Owing to the stormy weather very few of the editors reached Kalamazoo before Thursday, and the Wednesday session was omitted. In the evening the party attended at the Academy of Music, by invitation of Manager Bush, the rendition of "My Friend from India" which was excellently played.

Thursday morning the members of the association and their ladies enjoyed a ride about the business and residence portions of the beautiful "Celery City" and also visiting the State Asylum, being conducted through the same by Supt. Dr. W. E. Edwards, assistant Dr. Herman Ostrander and other members of the staff to whom the party acknowledge numerous courtesies.

The Asylum grounds are located on a high hill and overlook the city making a pleasant and health restoring location. After leaving the Asylum the party visited the great fields of celery now green and fragrant with a second crop for the present year. After dinner a business session of the Association was held and the members were pleasantly entertained by Mr. Henry M. Rose clerk of the U. S. Senate and a former proprietor of the Benton Harbor Palladium. Mr. Rose read a paper on "Interesting scenes in the Senate and House of Representatives" and his descriptions were highly interesting. The election of officers was then held and resulted as follows:

President—Edward N. Dingley, Kalamazoo.
Vice President—E. J. Marsh, Hillsdale.
Secretary—D. H. Bower of Buchanan.

Treasurer—Mrs. T. S. Applegate, Adrian.

Executive Committee—First district, W. J. Hunsaker, Detroit; Second district, J. E. Beal, Ann Arbor; Third district, E. W. Moore, Battle Creek; Fourth district, A. N. Moulton, Decatur; Fifth district, H. C. Cowdin, Rockford; Sixth district, Robert Smith, Lansing; Seventh district, H. A. Hopkins, St. Clair; Eight district, J. A. Trotter, Vassar; Ninth district, R. E. Frederick, Sherman; Tenth district, Eugene Foster, Gladwin; Eleventh district, T. N. McCall, Ithaca; Twelfth district, H. O. Fifield, Menominee.

In the evening the citizens of Kalamazoo tendered the visitors a complimentary banquet at the Auditorium and a very pleasant event it proved, to those present numbering about three hundred all told. Hon. James O'Donnell of Jackson was toast-master, the address of welcome being delivered by Mayor Mills of Kalamazoo, and responded to by Mr. J. N. McCall of Ithaca. Postmaster H. B. Coleman introduced toast-master O'Donnell who in turn introduced each speaker with some witty sally. Remarks were made by Editors F. R. Gilson of Benton Harbor, J. E. Beal, Ann Arbor, Geo. E. Gillam, Hillsdale, Col. E. J. March, Hillsdale, D. H. Bower, Buchanan, and a masterly speech was delivered by Congressman Washington Gardner of the 3d district. The speeches were concluded by a brilliant one by Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz of California who spoke upon the issues of the campaign. Music interspersed the speaking and all present joined heartily in the adoption of a series of resolutions recognizing the courtesies and hospitality extended the Association by Kalamazoo and her citizens. The members left for their homes much pleased over the success of their meeting.

The Primary School Fund—A Big Showing this Year.

Dispatches from Lansing say: "The semi-annual apportionment of primary school money to be made Nov. 6 will distribute $1,170,000 among the counties of the state at the rate of $1.65 for each child of school age in the respective counties. This is the largest rate by nearly $1 per capita ever known in the state, and will give the school funds a substantial boost. Last May the rate was 50 cents per capita. The increase is due partly to the increased earnings of the railroads, insurance and other corporations paying specific taxes, which go to support public schools, and partly to the collection of railroad taxes in July instead of January as formerly.

THE FARMER'S MODEL ACCOUNT BOOK

This is something new and will interest farmers generally. On one page of this book is printed the history for one season of a farmer's cash affairs just as they occurred on his farm. On the page opposite this history the Cash Account is written out in legal bookkeeping form. This forms a correct model to which the farmer may refer and correctly write his own cash account on the properly ruled blank pages farther along in the book.

On another page are printed the facts concerning a season's business with a cornfield. The bookkeeping work in correct form is written out on the page opposite, showing all outlays, receipts, and the final profit.

All is made so plain by full explanations that any farmer can on the succeeding blank pages keep in strictly scientific and legal form his own accounts with any grain or hay field.

In a like manner a model is given for an Apple Orchard Account which may be applied to any orchard; as plum, peach, or to a berry field.

A model Account with Cows is given, from which any farmer may keep any stock or poultry account.

A model account with a hired man is given. Also with another person. There is also a correct legal model for recording notes.

With this book, containing models, full explanations and properly ruled blank pages, a farmer may by a few minutes' work each week keep his account in the same correct and legal manner as does a merchant or any careful business man. No matter how poor the writing, the form will be correct and would stand in any court of law.

No farmer can afford to be careless in the matter of his accounts any more than any other business man. It is of daily occurrence as shown by the newspapers that unexpected legal complications, accidents, and death, cause serious trouble that might have been avoided had the person's accounts been kept properly.

It will surprise any one, who has not seen the FARMER'S MODEL ACCOUNT BOOK to learn how plain it is, how easily followed out, and with what little loss of time. It will not require for the ordinary farmer more than twenty minutes a week to keep his accounts in clear, legal shape that will be a source of satisfaction to himself, and a valuable matter to his family in case of death.

This book is retailed at $1.50 each, but through an advantageous offer of the publishers we are able to make the following liberal offer. We will send you the

VELVET IS IN VOGUE.

SEPARATE WAISTS OF THAT MATERIAL WILL BE FASHIONABLE

The Redingote Will Also Be Popular—Vests for Fall Coats—Fall Jackets Bring a Change From the Ever Present Eton—Barege Appearance.

Indications of autumn and winter fashions are every day becoming more pronounced, and through the blistering summer heat we are straining our eyes to pierce the veil of the future and learn all the particulars of the cold weather fashions. In truth we may congratulate ourselves upon the fact that no hard and fixed lines are to bind us down and the autumn fashions are marked by a rich variety of fabrics, colors and cuts. So far it may be claimed that the Directoire has never been so temptingly set forth. The severe mannish vest is to appear again in fall costumes. These vests are to be made of satin or silk, and are worn with festive and frivo-gown of white silk, the front of which glistened with untold numbers of rhinestone bangles, the same thick dotting of sparkling crystals appearing also upon the simulated bolero fronts. The cut of the gown was of the Empire form and the glistening panel which extended from the little short waist line to the floor was outlined on each side by garlands of beautiful white roses with green foliage. These garlands diverged from the panels near the bottom of the skirt and formed a charming border above a wide gauze flounce which gave the necessary flare to the skirt, describing in their artistic arrangement the outline of a long tunic. A cluster of the same snowy roses was caught upon the left shoulder of the bodice and the simulated spangled bolero was bordered in the most fascinating and original way by the crossing of two deep bands of heavy guipure lace upon the bosom; each band of lace continuing from the shoulder diagonally across the body to form the lower border of the bolero front. The fullness of the gown fell in long unbroken Watteau folds from the centre of the back, where the little bolero appeared to part.

Unfettered Effects.

Flowing outlines and free unfettered effects are continuing to be more and more popular. It is even said that the corset which has reached such a degree of shortness that it is now scarcely more than a ceinture, is to be dispensed with altogether, and to this easy and ungirthed fashion the Empire gown is singularly well adapted. Another example of the long straight lines was shown in a most royal opera cloak which had the most elaborate and fanciful mingling of lace and fur imaginable. The body of the garment was of the heaviest white guipure mounted upon white peau de sole over an eider down interlining.

The guipure was enriched and heavily encrusted with embroideries and flowers embossed in tufts of white chiffon—this motif in trimming by the bye is in the highest possible favor—and besides this, a design in silver spangles arranged in diagonal crossings added to the rich and elaborate effects of the coat. A wide border of silver-gray Chinchilla which blended charmingly with the silver spangling on the lace was placed at the bottom of the coat and continued up the front in two narrow bands which diverged at the chest to form a capuchon which gave a graceful contour to the shoulders. The sleeves were unique, cut in long sloping bells with a wire Chinchilla band at the bottom.

It would be impossible to give an idea of the richness of effect in this combination of lace, fur, embroidery, and spangles, but for perfect elegance and magnificence nothing could be more successful. Another Parisian evening cloak just imported and offered for inspection to a few chosen spirits and lovers of dress was on view at an importers on Fifth avenue, New York, recently, and received enthusiastic applause. It was of green velvet and trimmed with a profusion of sable tails which showed down the front.

Separate Waists in Velvet.

lous little jackets of gauze and silk. For street wear they are to be of broadcloth, of some strongly contrasting color. At this early and formative period of the styles, it is in the evening gowns and wraps that the first crystallization takes place and from Paris we have some alluring beautiful models that plainly show the trend of the modes and as clearly assert that the extravagance and elaboration which mark the spring and summer season is by no means waning.

As examples of the tendencies of the fashion I describe a few of the truly regal confections in dress which were imported for one of our American heiresses who is making her preparations for a triumphant first season in society.

Exquisite Evening Gown.

There was an exquisite evening

Its immense collar was of ermine, framed in a band of the rich brown sable.

Velvet is Popular.

Velvet, bye the bye, is the fabric of all others for next season, and panne will be used lavishly both for dress-making and millinery. Panné, however, is by no means the only form and disguise which velvet takes. It is showing itself in a truly bewildering number of forms. Besides plain velvets and plushes, there are beautiful brocades in rich Persian, Byzantine, and Arabian patterns and colors, also many mingled color effects in prints, dots and lines. Some of the newest and smartest velvets have a series of shaded changeable dots over a ground of a much lighter tone. Varied colors of shading and toning into each other in undulating lines is another new and charming effect in velvet, and hand painted velvet is a conspicuous fad.

It is prophesied that separate waists of velvet are to be greatly favored. These are not to follow the regulation shirt waist cut, as of old, but are to be in the jaunty Directoire style, open in front with wide lapels and disclosing a vest of white or creamy lace the lower sleeves being of the same material. The velvet used for these waists is preferable in rich coloring and brocades, and they are to be extremely dressy affairs.

Other waists upon which velvet is to play an important part, and which are to be very fashionable, are constructed of all over lace and of very heavy nets of white or cream, latticed over this in a trellis design are bands or ruchings of narrow velvet. The lace is mounted upon silk of a paler shade but of corresponding color to that of the velvet.

Sleeves for Jackets.

The disposition in sleeves for jackets and coats is toward fullness—a slight suggestion of fullness at the shoulder and a marked fullness from the elbow which is gathered into a band at the wrist. The jacket sleeves which forms a bell and flowing shape over the wrist also seems to hold its place, and sleeves which are tight at the lower arm and full at the shoulder show very large turned back cuffs of fur or of stitched and strapped material like the rest of the jacket.

Barege Appearance.

Late in the season comes a new Parisian creation, wrought in barege. This material savors so of the musty past, the opening of old family trunks and bygone fashions that its sudden appearance meets with great surprise. But as a light late summer and early fall fabric it seems to take its place with singular fitness and for dresses in the Empire style it is particularly successful.

The model referred to has a deep yoke composed of alternate bands of embroidered and bands of the barege. The sleeves also are constructed in the same way. The skirt descends in straight gathered folds from the yoke to the floor, and a spangled girdle which is high in the back and fixed close to the figure slopes gently toward the front where it is tied in a careless bow without confining the straight lines to the waist. The barege is of a black and white pattern and extremely effective, but the somewhat wrappy style of this new model is not to be gainsaid. Its name, however, the Robe de la Rolland after the famous French women, lends it additional prestige.

An Eton With Waist.

This smart Eton is developed in dark green Venetian. The back is close fitting without a centre seam, and extended to the waist line. A perfect adjustment is produced by using an under-arm girth. The fronts are shaped with single bust darts and decorated with small velvet buttons.

An Eton Jacket.

The rolling collar of velvet forms narrow revers in front. The vest of white corded silk shows polka dots of dark green. It fastens in the centre with tiny buttons and is included in the shoulder and under-arm seams. It may, however, be made separately on a lining back if preferred. The velvet plastron and collar match the trimming on the Eton. This may be omitted in favor of linen with a jaunty necktie.

The Redingote.

The redingote also promises to obtain great popularity and a new style has appeared with a perfect fitting body pointed with the "Louise Seize" point in front with the basque just covering the hips; a second basque cut almost straight and in imitation of a man's dress coat, though so long as to reach nearly to the foot of the skirt, starts from the centre of hips and continues around the back. This is a very much admired model and doubtless be generally adapted as the season advances.

A SUCCESSFUL CATCH.

SOME INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT SEA FISHING.

A Famous Angler—Excellent Opportunity for Fishing—Some of the Richest of Success Wire Lines—Mackerel Plentiful.

G. P. Morosini, Jr., of Riverdale, famous among all anglers of New York for the seamy striped bass which he has been taking out of the Hudson river during the past years with rod and line, has added a new and unique record to his long list. This time it is a channel bass weighing sixty pounds, and the unique feature of the catch is the quick time in which he did it. There are probably more than two thousand anglers in New York who would willingly and unhesitatingly agree to spend two weeks in fishing steadily if they could make such a catch as this. Mr. Morosini left his home in Riverdale at 7 o'clock in the morning, reached Edgemore, Far Rockaway, at 10:15, had hooked and landed his fish by exactly noon and was home again at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The general safety of the salt waters around New York city and the immense fleets of good craft, from flat bottomed skiffs to schooners and steam vessels, serve to lead most salt water anglers of the city away from the shores to seek their quarry in the open waters and channels. Few know, therefore, what a field there is within sight of the city's spires for the eager from river or bay beaches or in the surf. The best season for this form of fishing is approaching now.

Through September the big bluefish run in on the edge of the surf, particularly along the upper New Jersey coast. Further south, from Seabright down, the huge striped bass ("bull bass") and drum-fish nose along the sand, often in water so shallow that their backs are exposed as the big rollers recede. The drumfish are of two varieties, the black and the red, the black being the more common. The drumfish is related closely to the blackfish. He has a mighty human-like set of teeth like his smaller cousin and is similar to an extent in general shape. But he exceeds the tautog far in weight, for drum run to 100 pounds and over. Fish of from sixty to eighty pounds are not rare.

A Requisite.

A first requisite for a successful surf or river beach angler is that he be a past master in the art of casting. It is a kind of casting different from that used in casting flies or bait for salmon, trout or black bass, and an expert at any of these may be a sad bungler at the other. The bait must be thrown at least 200 to 300 feet into the surf, and when the heavy lead is sent forward on its journey, disaster sudden and complete awaits the clumsy tyro. The reel must be controlled from the instant that the rod is swung. If it isn't, something will smash, for the line, jerked through the guides by the velocity of the lead, will either snarl around guide or tip, when rod and all may be involved in ruin, or more probably, will overrun the reel and either part or break the rod or tangle itself so thoroughly in and around the reel that it will be the work of hours to unravel it. There is no worse tangle than that caused by an over-running reel line. Often there is no remedy, and it is found necessary to cut the whole line to pieces to get it off the reel. To prevent this accident it is necessary to keep the thumb on the spool of the reel in such a way that it will not check the line an instant before it is out as far as it possibly can go, and yet to check it not an instant later. If the angler is the thousandth part of a second too late, the line, no longer being pulled out by the lead which has reached the limit of its flight, slackens suddenly while the swiftly revolving reel continues to spin. This releases more line, which, not being dragged out, falls in a wild, crazy snarl on the reel and goes helter skelter around with the spool, knotting itself amazingly in an instant.

Wire Lines.

Sea anglers in England have been using wire lines recently with a fair average of satisfaction and success. They are made of the finest kind of piano wire and are so flexible and delicate that they run through the rod guides as freely as linen line would do. The great advantage, beside superior strength and freedom from rotting and snarling, which is pointed out by the users of wire lines, is that they resist the pull of the tide so much that the angler need not handicap himself with heavy sinkers. Every salt water angler knows how enormous the strain of the tide is on even a thin line when 200 or 300 feet are out.

Mackerel Plentiful.

Mackerel are plentiful in the bay, and in the autumn are taken in great numbers by the rowing boats in shallow water, usually round Two S and Littleham Cove. The early morning is the best time, and several dozen may be taken. Three lines are used, a leaded one on each quarter, and on a bobber at the stern; the two leaded lines baited with a slip from a mackerel's tail, and the unleaded one with three flies with a baby spinner over the bottom one. Some season numbers of twait and Alice shad come in with the mackerel, and are taken on the lines with them.

Peoniar Peruvian Pottery.

A distinguishing feature of much of the Peruvian pottery is a long, slim neck, and nearly every vessel is ornamented with a figure of some sort, having holes to represent eyes and other openings. These afford a passage for the air forced out by the liquid when poured into the vessel. By an ingenious contrivance the air in escaping produces a sound similar to the cry of the creature represented. Thus a utensil decorated with two monkeys embracing each other, on having water poured into or from it, would give a sound like the screeching of those animals. One decorated with a bird would emit bird-like notes, while a mountain cat on one jar would mew, snakes coiled around another would hiss. One of the most curious of these figures was that of an aged woman. When the jar was in use her sobs became audible, and tears trickled down her cheeks. The manufacturers seem to have known all about atmospheric pressure.

BUSINESS FACTS.

Commercial Prosperity Results from a Protective Tariff.

Official Figures Show United States Now Second in the World's Foreign Trade.

Calamity Cries of Bryan and His Followers Are Set at Naught.

Markets of the World Being Captured—Gold Standard and Protection Triumphant.

Mr. Bryan is an advocate of free trade and free silver, but he and his followers have always maintained that a protective tariff would "deprive us of the markets of the world," while the gold standard, if maintained, would result in our absolute expulsion from them and our commercial ruin.

What are the facts? We give below a table made from the official figures furnished by the treasury department of the United States, showing the foreign commerce of the six great civilized and gold standard nations of the world for the year 1899. The figures for 1900, so marvelous is the increase in our prosperity, it is confidently predicted, will put us at the head of the list or only excelled by one country, Great Britain. We have already, it is known, surpassed Great Britain in the volume of export trade.

Country.	Total Commerce.
Great Britain	$3,650,591,028
United States	2,244,198,243
Germany	2,138,846,240
France	1,634,513,023
Netherlands	1,222,138,000
Russia	490,093,000

In 1899 our commerce exceeded that of Germany by $57,347,203, making us that year the second nation in the world in foreign commerce, which is doing pretty well toward "capturing the markets of the world," and puts the calamity cries of Mr. Bryan and his followers in this respect on the list of discredited ravings of men grossly ignorant of the history of our commerce.

But in the eyes of Mr. Bryan and his followers the gold standard "that the conspiracy against the human race" was to be the final nail in the coffin of our business in the markets of the world. In 1873, when the terrible "crime" was committed and "silver was assassinated," we bought of foreign countries $56,328,651 more than we sold them. In other words we failed by that amount or capturing any of the markets of the world. In 1872 before "silver had been struck down" we failed by $116,283,646 in capturing any of the markets of the world, for we bought just that much more of foreign countries than we sold them.

But in 1896 the people of this country voted to adopt both a protective tariff and the gold standard. The result in "capturing the markets of the world" is shown by the following table taken also from the official reports of the United States treasury department:

AMOUNT SOLD FOREIGN COUNTRIES MORE THAN WE BOUGHT.

Year Ending.	Amount Sold Foreign Countries More Than We Bought.
1897	$273,023,355
1898	551,028,255
1899	504,028,255
1900	571,384,051

This looks as though we were "capturing the markets of the world" under a protective tariff and a gold standard faster than any other nation in the world ever captured them, and when the figures for the coming fiscal year are in it will be the prosperity record of the world. The truth of this is shown by the fact that for the year ending June 30, 1900, the total commerce of the year surpasses by the vast sum of $317,729,250 that of any preceding year, and we are still expanding. Do we want to take any step that will establish free trade and free silver and at one step paralyze this magnificent progress we are making? Ponder the above and answer with your ballot in November.

IN SPLENDID SHAPE.

Evidence That Labor is Flourishing Given by America's Foremost Labor Leader.

The labor conditions in 1899 and 1898 are stated tritely and truly by Samuel Gompers, the head of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers' exact words are worth placing in parallel columns. He said:

1898. Since August of this year we have been in the greatest depression since the industrial depression past year is one for this country has ever known. It is beyond exaggeration to say that the wages of the organized workers have been reduced or at least maintained.

1899. The revival of industry which we have witnessed within the past year is one for which I have never known a parallel. It is beyond exaggeration to say that the wages of the organized workers have been increased, and country are without in many instances the employment, and hours of labor either have been reduced or at least maintained.

Mr. Gompers, besides keeping his position at the head of the American Federation of Labor for many years (which is a tribute to his ability), has usually been classed as a democrat; which would, of course, make his opinion as significant as possible.

Once Borrowing, Now Solvent. The United States borrowed $262,000,000 in gold in the last Cleveland administration in order to save its credit. The United States has $300,000,000 in bank to-day.

FARMERS GAIN WIDER TRADE.

The More Markets Opened, the Better Prices Are Certain to Be.

It is often asked how expansion benefits the farmer; how good prices and steady prices are to be obtained for his crops if our foreign trade is extended; how, in short, the policy which our country has just begun to enter upon is going to affect him in the future.

Expansion is the natural, economic, inevitable outburst of a growing nation, which cannot sell advantageously enough all of its products at home. Not only do the other nations of the earth wish to buy our food products, but they are feeling a greater and greater need for our machinery and all the other products of our mills, in order that they, too, may enter for the race of progress. Their demands have possibly been anticipated by our captains of production, industry, transportation and finance; perhaps we have been ready for them just a little before they were ready for us. At all events, we have the goods; and they have the use for them and the money to pay.

The foreign market is diversified and steady. Uncounted millions, almost, stand ready to draw upon us for supplies; they simply need to be reached. American goods simply have to be shown. When their superiority is seen millions of dollars worth of business can be done. This cannot mean anything except that those who raise and sell our food products, those who manufacture and sell our machinery, cotton goods, and any one of the thousand and one other goods, are going, if there is anything in the law of demand and supply, to have a wider and steadier demand, to meet a higher and steadier scale of selling prices. There is this other thing in it all; it is, in a word, the tremendously beneficial effect of the growth of a foreign demand upon a local demand. The figures show that the increase of our export trade in the last two years has been simply astonishing; still more so has the growth of our imports of raw material or of material used by manufacturers. It is inconceivable that our monthly excess of $50,000,000 of exports over imports should mean anything, to the biggest city or the smallest, to Maine or Texas, to Washington or Georgia, but an increased demand locally, everywhere, and growing steadily everywhere, for the products of the farm. Does it mean nothing to the neighboring farmer that those of our cities that the census office has already reported upon have increased their population from 25 to 50 per cent? Surely it means that, within the range where this additional and growing population must buy advantageously, the prices of farm products that they must have will rise.

It may be said in a general way that it is impossible for one group in the body politic to enjoy prosperous conditions unless every other one does. Things industrial and commercial adjust themselves fairly for all concerned; they do it ultimately and soon, because they do it automatically. The rich man cannot prosper unless those who earn their daily wages do; nor can the working people prosper unless some in the community assumes the heavy responsibilities, and, just as inevitably, gains the great returns of leadership. Always, however, the tendency in every quarter is onward and upward; onward and upward for price returns for products or for labor, always onward and upward in the scale of living; which means that the last and most important of all the stages of human improvement, the social and the intellectual, must climb, and ever climb higher, also.

ALL PRODUCERS HAVE GAINED

Farm Products Are Worth a Billion Dollars Annually More Than in 1896.

The growth in the exports of American manufactures has been accompanied by a growth in all other classes of exportation and home consumption. Exports of agricultural products in the three years under the Wilson law amounted to but $1,805,560,000, while in the three years under the Dingley law they amounted to $2,474,584,000, an increase of over 33 per cent. Exports of products of the mine averaged $20,000,000 per annum in the three years under the Wilson law, and in 1899 under the Dingley law amounted to nearly $29,000,000, and in 1900 to $38,997,550. Products of the forest exported under the Wilson law averaged $33,000,000 per annum and in 1900 under the Dingley law amounted to $52,309,484. During the three years' operations of the Wilson law the total exportations of domestic and foreign goods averaged but $76,000,000 per month, while during the three years' operations of the Dingley law they have averaged over $100,000,000 per month, and in the fiscal year 1900 averaged $118,000,000 per month, or more than 50 per cent greater than the average under the Wilson law.

The total exportation of farm products during the three years' operations of the Dingley law exceeded that during the three years under the Wilson law by $670,000,000 while the increased market at home, according to the lowest estimates, has been more than double the increase in exportations, thus indicating that the sales of the farmers during the three years' operations under the Dingley law have exceeded by over two billions of dollars their sales under the three years' operations of the Wilson law.

An estimate recently made by the department of agriculture shows that the value of principal farm crops and farm animals in the year 1900 exceeded by more than $1,000,000,000 the value of principal farm crops and farm animals in the year 1896.

WILL WE HAVE HARD TIMES?

Answer All Depends on How the Voters Cast Their Ballots in November.

Whether we shall have hard times this fall and for four years to come depends upon the voters. No patriotic publisher, business man or citizen of any kind wants to see hard times in the fall or ever. Still less does anyone who deserves the name of citizen want to see a panic. Moreover, no public man, of any kind, nor any citizen, will do anything, no matter how little, to bring on hard times from any political motive whatever. It would be the basest kind of act, unworthy of any true man. Unluckily these business affairs are sometimes beyond the control of any person or group of persons. The panic of '93 was caused not because anybody wanted it, or tried to bring it on, but began, and waxed more terrible as time went by, in spite of the efforts of hundreds, perhaps of thousands of patriotic and strong men.

To understand how a season of hard times or panic will begin is almost impossible. A person, or persons, perhaps a dozen or perhaps 10,000, have felt that a period of contraction and of stagnated business was about to come upon them; and then the dozen or 10,000 as a matter of self protection must curtail their own operations of whatever kind. Perhaps they must loan less, or sell less, for fear that they cannot get their pay. That feeling may not be necessary, but it cannot be denied that it is natural. If it were possible to prevent everybody from imagining that any untoward circumstances could happen, it might be possible invariably to prevent a panic, but there is no controlling the timid. Indeed, in such a matter there is no controlling the brave. Men of immense financial resources and of uncommon nerve have been known to risk their entire fortunes, seeking to prevent financial disaster, for others as well as themselves, and they failed—failed to do this, and failed financially.

It is to be hoped for our own sakes, as well as on account of numberless laborers and capitalists of the country, whose interdependence upon one another cannot be denied, and all of whom depend upon a mutual confidence each for the advancement and happiness of the others, that nothing like a stringency in the money market, nothing like a curtailment of credits, nothing like the faintest timidity on the part of business men anywhere, will be perceptible as the next two or three months pass by. Perhaps it may seem optimistic to give the following advice. It is that everybody, great and small, high or low, who is charged with the making or marring of business, shall consider in the utmost seriousness whether he or she cannot do a little towards promoting that confidence which is so necessary for a continuation of good times, by distinctly determining to continue things political and economical as they are, and by distinctly determining not to help bring about a change. It is easy to say that a panic is not likely. We pray that it is not. It cannot be denied that the slightest appearance of dread at great political or economic changes has hitherto at times started a retrograde movement of financial devastation, which it has been beyond the power of any man, or any group of men, no matter how large, to stay.

A RECORD TO BE PROUD OF.

Cuba Has Been Rapidly Getting Into Shape for the Promised Self-Government.

The work of American occupation in Cuba may be briefly summed up as follows: Good order prevails all over the island. The country is self-supporting, with a much lower taxation than imposed by Spain, and at the close of the last fiscal year there was an available balance of $2,500,000. Thirty-one hundred schools have been opened, 3,500 teachers employed and 30,000 children are in school. Seven courts having trial by jury have been established in the larger towns. The elections for mayors passed off quietly and no arrests were made. Preparations are now going forward for electing delegates to a convention whose duty will be to prepare a constitution and form of government for the island. The troops are being gradually withdrawn and the way to complete Cuban independence is being rapidly prepared. This record, unparalleled in the history of the dealings of one nation with another, is evidence of the fact that the republican party is a builder and supporter of republics, and not the friend of imperialism. It does its duty, untroubled by the shoutings of all the Bryans, Baileys and Blackburns, who would shirk responsibility, minimize patriotism and refuse to guide the weaker nations into the noble, self-denying path of liberty.

Iron Trade as Indicating Prosperity.

Under the McKinley administration blast furnaces largest of use have been fired up, new ones built, and unprecedented prosperity inaugurated in the iron and steel business. The following table shows the wonderful growth in iron products:

Month	Capacity in Blast.	Gross Tonnage.
September 1, 1897	111	185,600
September 1, 1898	126	212,000
September 1, 1899	157	267,200
October 1, 1899	225	375,800

It will be seen from this table that during the year following September 1, 1897, the capacity of furnaces increased at the rate of over 27,000 tons a week, the next year at 54,000 tons a week, and then in the single month of September, 1899, it jumped 11,000 tons a week. In two years' time the number of blast furnaces increased by nearly 100. These figures are from the statistics given by the Iron Age, and are correct.

"What's the Time?"

A booklet with this title, just published by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, should not only be in the hands of every traveler, but should have a place on the desk of every banker, merchant or other business man.

The four "Time Standards" which govern our entire time system and which are more or less familiar to most of the traveling public, but by many others little understood, are so fully explained illustrated by a series of charts, diagrams and tables that any one who chooses can become conversant with the subject in question. There are also some twenty-four tables by which almost at a glance, the time at any place being given, the hour and day can be ascertained in all the principal cities of the world.

A copy of this pamphlet may be had on application to Geo. H. Hearford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, enclosing two-cent stamp to pay postage.

A Health Resort.

Excelsior Springs, Mo., on the Kansas City line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway has become one of the leading all-the-year around health and pleasure resorts in the United States. The use of its waters has benefited a great many sufferers.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway has just issued a finely illustrated booklet, describing the resort and telling of its advantages, which will be sent free on application to Geo. H. Hearford, General Passenger Agent, Chicago, with two-cent stamp enclosed for postage.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

For September 29 is a special double number. The plan of The Saturday Evening Post is to give each week a magazine of the best current literature that will be equal in literary quality and illustration to the monthlies. The cover of this double number is by Gibbs, and is in color.

The opening feature is the first installment of Gilbert Parker's new serial, "The Lane that Had No Turning." Those who have read this story pronounce it the strongest work that Mr. Parker has yet done.

Honorable Champ Clark has a lively article on stamping in Old Missouri. There are installments of Mooswa of the Boundries, W. A. Fraser's animal story, and of The Eagle's Heart, Hamlin Garland's novel of the far West. On the page devoted to Men and Women are stories of people prominent in the public eye. The editorial page treats of politics, the census, and other current themes. The "Public Occurrences" department tells how, through coal and gold, the United States has captured the supremacy of the world. Besides these attractions there are articles giving the latest scientific discoveries, Secretary Wilson's view of Farming as a Business, Old Time Minstrel Men, with new stories and anecdotes; the latest gossip about books and literary people and short articles and sketches.

Especial interest will attach to a special article in the Campaign Number of McClure's Magazine, entitled "The Strategy of National Campaigns." This article in the October issue will describe some of the most striking strategic measures adopted by Presidential campaign leaders during the past twenty-five years, concerning which almost nothing has hitherto been divulged to the public at large. The author, doubtless because of the prominent part he has played in the struggles he describes, prefers to write anonymously. Mr. Hambridge's portraits illustrating the articles are of unusual originality and merit.

The work of Mr. Walter Glackens for the magazines has attracted much attention of late and his illustrations to "Santa Claus's Partner" by Thomas Nelson Page, published last year, made it one of the most attractive books of the season. Mr. Glackens will illustrate a quaint, charmingly told love story in the October McClure's entitled "The Lady with the Waterfall."

Minister Wu Ting Fang will present in the October Century "A Plea for Fair Treatment" in behalf of his fellow countrymen. This is one of half a dozen articles in the same magazine, in which the Chinese question will be treated, directly or indirectly. Bishop Potter writes on "Chinese Traits and Western Blunders"—the first of a series of travel sketches and studies.

A Painter of the Indian.

Charles H. Stephens whose painting decorates the cover of the October Ladies' Home Journal, is a close artist-student of the Indian and Indian life, and is regarded as a very high authority on all that pertains to the picturesque side of the Red Man. He was formerly an instructor in the Philadelphia Art School, where his most apt pupil in illustration was Miss Alice Barber, who subsequently became his wife, and whose drawings, signed Alice Barber Stephens, are the admiration of all lovers of black and white art.

Saginaw Shows Heavy Loss.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Saginaw, Mich., is the sixth city to show a decrease in its population during the last decade. According to the returns given out at the census office today Saginaw has a population of 42,345, a decrease of 3,077, or 8.59 per cent, since 1890, when the population was 46,322.

Young Man Killed by Cars.

Vicksburg, Mich., Sept. 21.—An unknown young man, aged about 20, was found hanging between the baggage and mail car on train No. 5, Chicago & Grand Trunk, being pinioned by the vestibule. When the discovery was made the train was stopped and the vestibule pried apart with a crowbar enough to release the man. His skull was fractured. It is supposed he boarded the train at Battle Creek to steal a ride, as that train does not stop between that place and this city. In his pockets was found $13.10 in money. There was no mark of any kind or anything to indicate his name or residence.

Coal Dealers Charging $7 Per Ton.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 23.—Jackson coal dealers, who have a neat little trust of their own, advanced prices on anthracite coal from $6.50 to $7 per ton. They claim that market conditions brought about by the strike necessitates this course. Stocks in this city are unusually low for this time of year, and fewer people than usual have laid in a winter supply at the low summer prices. Prices on soft coal are unchanged.

Asked to Pay Over $170.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 22.—A petition has been filed in the Probate Court asking that Dan J. Wilson, as guardian for three county charges, pay over to the county superintendent of the poor certain sums amounting to about $170 in his hands. Wilson was a former poor superintendent, and the present board holds that he has not made proper returns of money in his hands.

Fire Damp Explosion in Copper Mine.

Houghton, Mich., Sept. 23.—By an explosion of fire damp in the Phoenix copper mine, Keweenaw Co., Capt. John Mitchell and two miners, Ernest Platt and Michael Phillips, were severely injured. Only one similar explosion has ever occurred before in a Michigan copper mine and that was also at the Phoenix, nearly a quarter of a century ago.

Blank Deer Licenses.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 22.—The secretary of state is sending out blank deer licenses to the county clerks of the several counties for the coming open season.

Killed on the Track.

Long's Family as Voters.

Long and Miss Helen Long, the wife and daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, also Mrs. Glover, his mother-in-law, and his second daughter, registered here to-day as voters, and will exercise the suffrage at the coming elections. The party has been here for about a year, coming to improve Miss Helen Long's health. All the women answered the prescribed questions unhesitatingly and showed familiarity with the fine points of politics.

Serious Accident to Young Man.

Plymouth, Mich., Sept. 22.—As Will Green, of Livonia, was returning from the Plymouth fair, his western pony in some way became frightened, and throwing him out, seriously injured his head and severed the right ear from his head. He was found by people going home from the fair, and was taken to the hotel, where it was found necessary to take thirty stitches in the head. He was hurt internally and has concussion of the brain. The doctors think his recovery doubtful, as he is in a critical condition.
