SEVERAL BLOCKS ARE

Fire Destroys Two Blocks.

The burned district embraced two square blocks bounded by Zepp, Utah, First and Kosciusko streets. The fire broke out at 12:25 o'clock in one of the Anheuser-Busch ice houses, all of which are connected. A spark from a passing switch engine is credited with having ignited straw in the loft. While the fire was in progress a stiff southeast wind blew across the river from the Ililnois side, fanning the flames and making the work of the firemen an exceedingly difficult one. Piles of lumber adjacent to the storage house quickly ignited, causing a heat which was intense. The wind blew great clouds of smoke into the faces of the firemen. Several valuable buildings, which escaped damage, were seriously threatened. By far the greater danger attached to buildings more remote from the scene of destruction, but in the direct line of the wind. For miles the river levee is fronted with lumber yards, factories and warehouses, while on the railroad tracks, with their numerous switches were score of cars, many of them loaded with lumber and other material which would make a rich food for the flames.

High Winds Helped Fire Along. The high wind lifted burning embers and carried them for blocks to the Three Men Suffocated in a Blaze in the northwest, terrorizing residents, and several times the department was compelled to divide its force in answer to reports of the igniting of fires elsewhere. No buildings not in the immediate path of the flames suffered damage, however, although cautious residents and business men as far away as six blocks from the scene removed goods and furnishings from dwellings and stores in a fear that the fire would develop into a widespread conflagration.

St. Louis, March 19.-The St. Louis Steam Forge and Iron works, better known as McDonald's Forge works. was destroyed by fine at midnight last night. The immense warehouse of the St. Louis Cotton Compress company, which extends for blocks on the river front, north and south of the forge works, were jeopardized by the flames. but the cordon of firemen stretched around the premises prevented a spread in either direction. MISSOURI TOWN IN FLAMES.

Bismarck on Fire and Telegraph and Telephone Wire Are Down.

St. Louis, March 19.-The little town of Bismarck, Mo., situated seventyfive miles from St. Louis on the Iron Mountain railroad, was almost wiped out of existence by fire yesterday. Leading business houses and many residences were burned. The loss is estimated at $100,000, with very little insurance. The fire started in a barber shop and spread in all directions. The inhabitants of the place were without means of fighting the flames and were compelled to stand by helplessly and witness the destruction of their property.

A gale from the southwest drove the lames forward irresistibly and carried into space flaming pieces of cinders, that falling on the roofs, started new fires, jumping streets and blocks. There were only a few water buckets and a scant supply of water with which to fight the flames, which swept on until forced to stop by lack of material. The Iron Mountain railroad divides the town and the west side escaped. All the buildings were frame and insurance rates being high, very little insurance was carfed. The total loss will fcot up over 100,000 and total for in-surance will be not over $15,000. Many have lost their all and a feeling of helplessness pervades the community.

FATAL FIRE AT BOSTON.

Advertiser Office.

Boston, March 16.—Three lives sacificed, nearly a dozen men more or less injured and many thousands of dollars damage were the results of a ferce fire in the Daily Advertiser and Record seven story granite front building in Newspaper row last night. The dead are: James Richardson, Sr., proofreader, of Boston; Judson Craft, proofreader, of Cambridge; Walter uscombe, proofreader, of Salem.

How the fire started is not known, but it was first seen in the press room, and it spread to the elevator well and darted to the top so rapidly that before the occupants of two upper floors were aware that the building was on fire their rooms were filled with flames and smoke. In the editorial room on the sixth floor there were but five men. All had to run for their lives. On the upper floor, occupied by the composing room, were eighteen compositors and proofreaders, whose situation was most critical. Panic-stricken they rushed for the windows leading to the fire escapes and all but three of them succeeded in gaining the roof of an adioining building.

Streets Full of Marching Men.

Shortly before this a string of carriages containing Governor Durbin and other officials of the state had started by another route and numerous other uniformed bodies had gone, were going and preparing to go to the place of rendezvous in front of the Harrirson residence. The streets in every direction were full of marching bodies and the crash of bands was heard almost in every street that afforded access to Delaware street. The parade proper was formed after the arrival at the Harrison home. Despite the fact that all the preliminary arrangements had been most carefully made there was some confusion and delay before everything was in readiness for the return march to the capitol. A committee composed of General Lew Wallace, representing the army; Admiral George Brown, the navy, and Judge John H. Baker of the United States court, the civil power of the state, was delegated to take charge of the body from the time it left the house until it was returned there late at night.

Remains Placed in Hearse,

Inside the house the ceremonies were very brief. General Lew Wallace and his fellow-committeemen announced that they had come to assume their charge and the casket containing the remains was turned over to them. It was at once lifted by twelve soldiers and carried through the door to the hearse. As the casket appeared, covered with the national colors, which had been presented for the occasion by the members of the Loyal Legion of Indiana, the soldiers presented arms. the civilian bodies un covered, as did the thousands of spectators who filled the streets in every direction. There was not a sound as the body was placed in the hearse with the exception of the mufiled roll of the drums. As soon as the members of the escort committee had reached their carriages, the order for the return march was given, and, headed by the state guard marching with reversed arms and in slow time to the music of the dirge played by the band, the parade moved slowly away.

The casket containing the remains was placed in the rotunda of the capitol and thousands of people took the opportunity to take a last look at the dead.

THE FARM SEPARATOR.

Its Advantage Unquestioned When Butter is Made at Home.

At every dairy convention the farm separator is one of the topics exciting great interest, says E. C. Bennett in the creamery men's standpoint, and the dividing line is strictly whether the butter from cream hauled to the factory is of as fine a flavor as that where the whole milk is taken to the factory and the separating and all the other work done by the factory expert. On this question there is a division of thought, but where the milk is made teacupful of cream, or half milk and into butter at home there is but one side to the question. The farm separator stands unquestioned. But in some localities the separator is not well enough known to enable the farmers to judge whether it will pay them to invest. There come up the questions of how many cows will warrant the investment, how much time is required to operate it, what degree of skill is necessary to make it a success and finally whether for the average farmer it is not wise to do the best he can in and not udders noticeably deficient in the old way.

Just as good butter can be made from cream raised in the common tin pan or the deep setting Cooley can as from same observer took 13 cows that had a separator cream, but it is not so easy more or less inferior front conformato do it at all times, for the weather tion and weighed separately the milk has greater chance to harm the cream by these old ways than when a separator is used. It is burdensome to churn every day on the farm, and twice a week is the rule.

Thin cream-that is, cream containing a great deal of milk-will sour quicker and go off in flavor sooner than that which has more butter fat and less milk and casein in it. Always there is a little impurity in milk, especially winter milk, and the more milk significant difference. there is in the cream the more impurity there is. This causes an undesirable fermentation. But if the cream is thick it can be held little changed for three or four days, then thinned with sized udder containing the maximum number of secreting cells could be easily carried when full. A little thought will show us that the shape of this udder must necessarily form part of an arc of a circle, but that both the back and front part of the udder will extend beyond the circle and thus form what we know as a square, well balanced

The udder should, of course, be free from much flesh. The amount of flesh an udder will show on milking out, however, will depend on the period of lactation, as the more active the secretive cells are the more apparent fiesh will the udder show after milking. A fleshy udder is readily distinguished by the fact that the superfluous flesh that it contains usually seems to drop more or less to the bottom of the udder, making it pendulous. Such an udder not only is unsightly, but the cow with such an udder is quite likely to transmit this undesirable quality to her offspring. The most common fault found in the udder is the imperfect development of the front. This is often seen in a very marked degree in certain families or sometimes whole breeds.

I believe the lack of development in the front udder is the cause of a large aggregate loss to the dairymen of our country, and it is well worth the while to at least make the effort to overcome this fault, which is so common in our dairy cows. To give some idea of the great difference between the quantity of milk produced by the front and rear udders I quote the results obtained by Professor Plumb in some studies of the udder which he made a few years ago. In 226 different lots of milk obtained from 65 different cows, representing several types of udders, he found that the average yield of the 226 front udders was 4.1 quarts, while the average yield of the 226 rear udders was 4.9 quarts, or a difference of over 16 per cent. It should be borne in mind that these were average udders one part or the other.

To note the effect when the front udder was noticeably undeveloped the produced by the rear and front udders. In these cases it was found that the rear udder produced 57 per cent more milk that the front udder, which plainly shows the difference in the yield of the front and rear udders, where the udders were well balanced. In the nine cows studied it was found that the difference in the milk yield of the front and rear udders amounted to only 4 per cent-a comparatively in-

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel ot quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upor a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never peen without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since l commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

The final debate in the Central Debating League will be held in Chicago April 5, 1901, between the teams representing the Universities of Chicago and Michigan. The question for discussion is, Resolved that the United States Should Subsidize its Merchant Marine.

The University Regents.

Every citizen of Michigan is proud of the university of the state, and it is a cause for general congratulation that such practical and successful business men as Frank W. Fletcher and Henry W. Carey, the Republican nominees for members of the board of regents, can be induced to give this institution the benefit of their wide business experience and capacity. Both nomines have won eminence in the commercial world, and they will bring to the service of the university just such qualifications as are needed to keep that great institution at the head of the of the great educational institutions of the country, and insure the wise and careful expenditures of the money which the taxpayers of Michigan so willingly contribute to its support. Through a service of six years on the board of regents Mr. Fletcher has thoroughly familiarized himself with the scope and needs of the university, and will be enabled to render it still more valuable services during his second term. Mr. Carey's experience as a man of affairs and in the handling of extensive business interests will make him an ideal regent. The people of the state will not be slow to avail themselves of the services of two such grandly equipped men.

OBITUARY

Judge Montgomery.

That Judge Robert M. Montgomery. the Republican nominee for justice of the supreme court, has had a successful career upon both the circuit and supreme benches is demonstrated by the following extracts from the "Bench and Bar of Michigan:"

"It is not too much to say that he won at once and maintained while on the bench the universal respect of the bar and litigants who had occasion to appear before him. As a judge he was exceedingly painstaking. On any doubtful question he invariably supplemented the briefs and arguments of the counsel by the most rigid examination of the law of the case before him, by a thorough search of the authorities and in the light of his own reason. He was prompt in his rulings and almost uniformly correct, while he was careful to see that the merits and justice of the case should neither be obscured nor deated by objections or irregularities that were closely technical and technical only. His instructions to the jury were usually prepared in writing and with great care. The old files of his law office today disclose hundreds of such charges, many of which are very. valuable and useful briefs in in cases involving the questions which called out the instructions."

"His work as a justice of the supreme court must be judged by its expression in the official reports. Those he has written are marked by directness and perspicuity. There is in them no extra verbiage-no surplusage. He makes his points so

POULTRY

Bantams For Business.

The title strikes one queerly, doesn't it? It is not quite accurate, for it is not intended to show that Bantams are really designed for all markets, but only that they are real ly profitable fowls, and well adapted for home consumption. The market is the home market. The business is one that is | fees must not rest content with finding done with one's self in supplying poultry products for the table of the owner. As the poultry business is now conducted, the cggs are somewhat too small to be sold by to meet the demands of the ordinary buyer. Yet, as the business of life is to provide the necessaries and luxuries for the home, the title is not wholly misleading.

A somewhat extended experience in keeping a number of breeds of Bantams has convinced me that they are not properly regarded by the public, who look upon them as purely ornamental fowls. Ornamental they really are, but they are also really practical and profitable, as the following considerations will I think show:

Laying aside the undoubted and unquestioned fact that Bantams are the only fowls which many people can keep, and that they are especially fitted for those who dwell in thickly-set:led communities, we find that Bantams can be more cheaply housed than the larger fowls. A house which would comfortably protect ten large fowls will serve very well for more than five times as many Bantams. Here, at the outset, we have, in this one factor, the cost of production greatly reduced. And the same proportion exists in respect to the area of land which must be devoted to their use. These are items of some consequence, when profit and loss are to be figured.

Again, a Ban am will consume but a very small quantity of food. The grain needed to support ten Brahmas will be sufficient

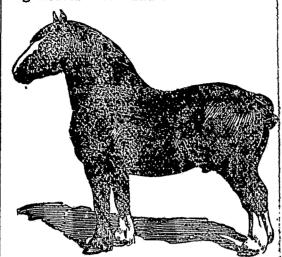

SELECTING A HORSÉ.

POINTS FOR GUIDANCE IN CHOOSING A STALLION.

General Equine Characteristics Be Considered - Concerning the Head and Ear-Quality Better Than Size.

The buyer seeking to provide himself with a horse to breed either to his own mares or to those of his neighbors for one that is sound or nearly so and large boned. There are many other points in which the horse must excel if he is to prove a satisfactory breeder, says the dozen, and the fowls not large enough | The Breeder's Gazette. A few of these | large extent equalized. Director Wilpoints have been mentioned previously, but in closing this series of articles it will be well to cover some of them once more.

To begin with, the stallion must look like a stallion. Some really good breed ing horses have had effeminate necks

PRINCE GOODWIN, CLYDESDALE. and heads-old Holland Major is a case in point—but as a rule it is the horse with a stallion's neck, head and presence that stamps his own image on his progeny. The neck must be properly set into a pair of sloping shoulders to give it and the head the right "set." The head ought not to be too small nor. should the ears be too fine. The drooping piglike ear is to be avoided, but if a horse has a big ear that sits up properly when cocked and does not droop when in rest he should not be faulted for it.

The little fine pointed ear set close to its mate and right on top of the head is as bad as the "sow lug" and always comes with a narrow forehead betoken-

GRAIN FOR SOWING.

Persistent Productiveness a ,Thing to Be Considered.

The results of experiments with varieties of grain to ascertain their relative productiveness become much more reliable and conclusive when the average experience of a series of years can be given. In this way slight variations, arising from inequality of soil and variability of season, are to a liam Saunders of Colorado has carried on tests which are among the most thorough and extensive of any recently made, and he reports the following facts:

Out of 41 different sorts of oats which have been subject to uniform tests for six years 9 have appeared among the 12 most productive sorts every year for the whole period, and the other three places have been filled during the time at irregular intervals by six other varieties. Hence only 15 of the 41 varieties have produced a

THE FATAL SORGHUM.

Neither "Inherent Poison" Nor "Second Growth" Solves the Problem. The use of sorghum as a forage plant is extensive. With its increased importance for this purpose in Nebraska the number of deaths caused by feeding it increases. During the past year 144 fatal cases in cattle were reported. Professor Hiltner of the state station undertook to determine if possible the nature and cause of these cases of poisoning.

Frequent reports are made of bloat caused by the use of sorghum for forage. It has been supposed in some cases that the cause of death from using sorghum was to be found in the presence of parasitic fungi on the leaves of the plants. In a number of instances it has been believed by stockmen that plants were maliciously poisoned with strychnine, paris green or arsenic. Analyses made by the station of plants thus suspected indicated no trace of any such poison.

Another suggestion made to explain poisoning by sorghum is that the plant takes up an unusual quantity of potassium nitrate during certain seasons or in certain localities. A number of samples analyzed indicated only a trace of nitrates.

The most commonly believed theory for the explanation of poisoning by sorghum is that the plant under certain conditions develops a poisonous principle. In reports from stockmen it was noted that the symptoms were nearly uniform in all parts of the state and that the poisoning was not confined to animals of any particular age. Samples of sorghum which had caused the death of cattle were analyzed and tested for chemical poisons, but none was found. It is of importance to note in this connection that the nitrogen content of the samples which were analyzed was not above the average.

The opinion is somewhat widespread that the second growth of sorghum is more dangerous than the first growth. This may have been the experience of stockmen in some localities, but when all cases which have been reported still unsolved.

More things enter into advertising than are generally supposed. In fact every thing that connects a name and a business in people's mind is advertising.

Membership in churches and clubs and societies, the giving of social entertainments, public charitiesall these things and more are advertising. But greater and broader, and better and easier than all these is newspaper advertising. You may think of that without thinking of the other plans, but no scheme of publicity is complete without the newspaper.

Properly prosecuted, newspaper advertising will always pay. That here and there is a man who says: "Advertising dosen't pay, I've tried it," proves nothing but that his method was faulty.

Advertising is business news. It tells of things which are of great daily importance. It is of more account to the frugal housewife to know where she can get certain necessary commodities at a less price than usual than to know all the troubles in Siam or Alaska

The news should be news. It should not be allowed to grow stale with repetition in the same old way.

"Find some point in which you excell and harp point in which you excell and harp on that. Give tend to your advertising properly. Really, you haven't time to do anything else. Advertising is the most important thing about any businsss. It is the vital spark. What good does it do you to have the very best things or the very greatest bargain on earth if people do not know it?

In running a newspaper, James Gordon Bennett, Sr., said, the important thing was to "get the news and then make a dom fuss about it."

First get the right sort of goods, in the right location, at the right prices, and "then make a dom fuss about it" in the best paper you can find.

The trade will follow.

flax in those countries being only an insignificant percentage of their consump-tiön. The spinners of Germany, Austria Belgium and France have made an agreement that on and after Jan. 1, 1901, only 85 per cent of their spindles shall be operated.

Austrian flax spinners have united and bought one of the largest Bohemian mills, with 12,000 spindles, with the positive agreement that the machines are to be sold and that the mill shall never again engage in the spinning of flax.

All this trouble arises solely from want of raw flax. European flax spinners hope that American growers will take advantage of this opportunity to introduce flax into Europe.

It is certain that American flax could at all times successfully meet Russian competition. It was only the other day that I learned from a German flax expert that the American flax fiber on the average is much superior to the Russian.

So reports W. K. Herzog, consul at Zittau.

The Popular Maple Sirup Package. What is the most popular style of package for sirup and sugar? Through wide acquaintance with the wholesale trade an Orange Judd Farmer correspondent answers: The gallon can for sirup is the general favorite, preferably full measure and with a screw top. Consumers expect the sirup to be of good body and good color. In some of 12.04 pounds of butter. The type is not the western markets these cans are of so much significance with the steer packed in barrels in sawdust and in this way save a little in the cost of package and freight. The half gallon can is a good seller in New York city and also in Chicago and some points of the northwest, yet it is not the standard size. Sirup packed in bottlesquarts or five to the gallon-are not special favorites.

So far as sugar is concerned, wholesale dealers as a rule prefer the tin buckets containing about ten pounds and bricks weighing about one pound. The brick of fair size is in more general favor than any other one shape.

San Jose Scale.

While it can undoubtedly be asserted that San Jose scale is to be a permanency, it by no means follows that the profitable growth of deciduous fruits is seriously menaced on this account. The experience in California, covering many years, has abundantly demonstrated that this scale insect can be controlled. and the more recent experience in the east points indubitably to the same conclusion. In other words, according to Entomologist Marlatt, by proper repressive and remedial treatment an orchard can be protected from serious in-

it. In 24 examinations there were seven in which no odor of the ensilage was detected, and they acreed that "the odor taken by these milks was much less pronounced than is found in milks produced where ensilage is fed just before milking."

Then a quantity of milk was divided into two parts, and one was cooled by having the air from the silo forced through it 1.000 times by a hand bellows. The other was only exposed to the outside air. Both lots were tested for acidity, and the milk treated in the silo indicated less acidity than the other. When both were aerated in the same way, one with air from the silo and the other with outside air, the acidity was decreased about alike in each. This seems to dispose of the objections that feeding silage or having the silo connected with the barn will cause the milk to sour more readily, also that it will impart a disagreeable odor to milk and flavor to the butter when it is fed, as it does not when fed after milking.

Cost of Meat and Butter.

The same feed which is required for producing one pound of butter will make two pounds of gain on the steer. The Minnesota experiment station found that 100 pounds of grain mixture with an equal amount of hay and roots fed to four steers produced 24.19 pounds of gain and an equal amount of the same food fed to four cows produced as with the dairy cow, for the reason that a steer not of good type may be a large feeder and a good digester and convert all the food taken over his own maintenance into gain, while a cow not of the dairy type has the alternative of converting food either into milk or gain, and she may choose the latter when the owner wants only the former.

If you can advertise only in a small way, pick out the best paper in your territory and spend all of your advertising money in that. Don't scatter. When your business grows, and you can spend more money, buy more space in the same paper, until you are sure you are using all you profitably can. Then add another paper. I would rather have one good "ad." than half a dozen poor ones. When "hunting for bear" I would rather take the best gun I had and load it properly than to scatter my powder in half a dozen poor guns, and so "make a flash in the pan."

THE SEED BED.

Make It Early For Late Vegetables. Famous Growers Do This.

Contrary to general custom, the seed bed for late plants should be made as soon as the soil can be worked to good advantage, according to advice of row or rake can make it. Then roll until the surface is perfectly smooth, after which cover to the depth of three inches with coarse stable manure. This should be left on until it is time to sow the seed, when it should be carefully raked off, avoiding breaking the surface of the soil. Make shallow trenches for the seed. Sow thinly and cover the seed with fine sand to the depth of one-fourth of an inch.

This is the custom of the best seed growers on Long Island and is one of the greatest importance, as the mulch will not only keep the soil moist, but the moist, warm air from below will completely pulverize the small lumps, leaving the soil in best possible condition for plant growth. No matter how dry the season may be the soil will retain sufficient moisture to carry on the young plants until they are sufficiently large for transplanting.

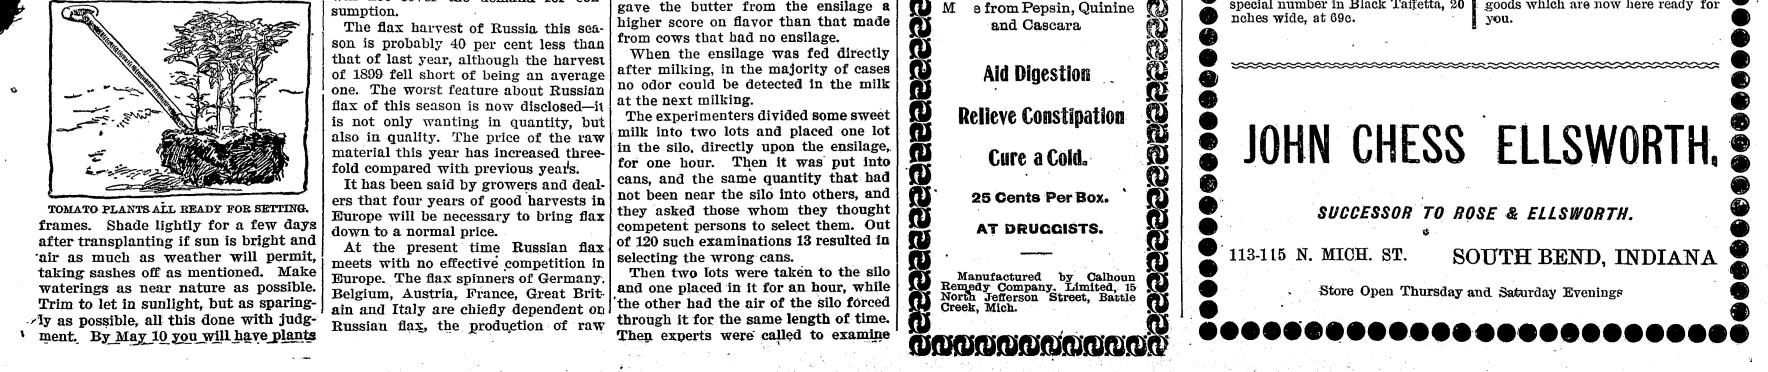

The importance of preparing the seed bed in this manner cannot be overestimated. It is utterly impossible to secauliflower without good plants, and this method, barring accident from insect enemies, will always secure strong, healthy plants. This was proved conclusively last year when those who prepared their seed beds in the usual way lost heavily, both in the quantity and quality of their plants, while those who prepared their seed beds as recommended were successful.

GETTING QUICK GROWTH.

Tomato Plants That Start Right Off From the Hour of Setting.

A New Jersey man's method of handling tomato plants from seed sown in hotbeds the last week in February is: Air freely and do not let them get more than four inches high by April 1 (and half that height is sufficient if you are going to transplant twice), when it will be time to transplant to the cold

Commenting upon this man's plan, Rural New Yorker says: Water is very necessary for the plant babies. In taking them out the soil was cut into squares with a sharp knife, and then the squares were lifted out on a fork, as shown in the picture. When finally set in the ground, these squares were cut again, so that each plant had its little block of soil. When this is set in a hill and the earth packed up around it, the plant barely waits an hour in its American Agriculturist. Let the soil growth. Of course this plan of hanbe worked until it is as fine as the har- | dling pays only with the very earliest plants. Mr. Hulsart's system aims to induce earliness and to promote rapid and vigorous growth, in which it is most successful.

Getting Ready For Potato Planting. Go at the early potato field "hammer and tongs." Put on the disk, spring tooth, acme, smoothing harrow and plank drag or anything else that you have that will chop it up and help to make it as fine as an ash heap. Then do it again. Set the disk to cut deep and fairly plow it up, crossing the piece once or twice, allowing the disk to lap one-half. Do not stop at pulverizing the surface for this or any other crop, but cut and mellow and make your soil fine right down to the bottom of the furrow if possible, which will give the millions of tiny hairlike rootlets that will later penetrate to this depth every opportunity to reach and feed on all of the available plant food contained in every small particle of the soil. When satisfied that your soil cure a good crop of either cabbage or | cannot be better prepared, you are then ready to make the first application of fertilizers, in which you can afford to be very liberal, since any surplus left from the rank feeding potato plant will America's Opportunity to Supply It Prices Exorbitant.

There never was a more opportune time to introduce American flax into Europe than the present.

The annual flax markets in Decembee at Breslau, Germany, and Trautenau, Bohemia, were largely attended. but very little business was transact ed on account of the exorbitant prices of raw flax. Russian raw flax is going up in price daily, and it is evident that the material on hand in Europe will not cover the demand for con-

It is certainly very unwise and wasteful to dig up and burn a large portion of an orchard because it is infested with this scale insect, especially since the replanted stock, even if clean when purchased, would, with little doubt, be in the same condition of infestation in a very short time.

How to Lay Tile.

To drain a wet strip two to four rods wide a Rural New Yorker writer advises:

First, see that you have a good outlet for the water; second, dig a narrow ditch along the center of the wet strip deep enough to drain the land, say three to four feet, according to the nature of the soil. If it is liable to settle down much after the water is drawn off, it should be deeper than it would otherwise. Trim the bottom of the ditch carefully to a true grade. A string stretched over the center of the ditch is a very efficient help in getting both line and grade.

The line of the tile should be as straight as the circumstances will permit and the tile laid to a true grade. which may be ascertained exactly by measuring down from the string. A sag in the tile is sure to be filled with silt sooner or later, destroying its usefulness.

I would not use smaller than four inch tile. If there are springs, they must be provided for. When the bottom of the ditch is very truly and carefully brought to grade, the tile may be laid end to end along the bottom, the joints covered with an inverted sod to keep loose dirt out and the ditch filled up.

ODOR FROM ENSILAGE. Experiments Show That It Has No

Bad Effect on Milk.

The Wisconsin experiment station has been testing the effect of the odor from ensilage and from the silo upon the milk. It was demonstrated that when it was fed to the cows shortly before milking it gave the milk a sweetish odor by which it could be detected easily. When this milk was made into butter, the same odor could be detected in that, but the Chicago experts gave the butter from the ensilage a
