Rural Recipes.

PRUNE SHORT CAKE.—Make a short cake, using a regular biscuit crust or a short cake batter. For the prune filling wash a pound of prunes, thoroughly cover with cold water and let soak for 24 hours. Then put prunes in double boiler, water and all, and let cook slowly until perfectly tender. Slice a couple of lemons very fine and add to the prunes when half done. Drain off the juice, add half as much sugar and boil to a thick syrup. Put the prunes into a colander and mash with a potato masher so that the pulp will go through and the stones and skins remain. Add syrup and spread over cake while both are warm. Serve with or without cream.

ICE CREAM CAKE.—Stir one cupful of butter and two cupfuls of sugar to a cream. Add three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder to two cupfuls of sifted flour, add also one cupful of cornstarch and sift again. Add this alternately with one cupful of milk to the creamed butter and sugar, add one teaspoonful of vanilla extract; finally lightly and thoroughly mix in the stiffly-beaten whites of eight eggs. Divide the mixture evenly among four jelly-cake pans and bake in a moderately hot oven 10 to 15 minutes. For the icing, shell and cut in pieces enough pecans to weigh four ounces. Make ready also four ounces of raisins cut in pieces and weighed after being seeded. Cut four ounces of citron in small thin strips. Put 1/4 pounds of sugar into three-quarters of a pint of boiling water; boil without stirring until clear and thick—it should pour from a spoon in a continuous thread. Pour this hot syrup slowly on to the beaten whites of four eggs and stir until cool. Build the cake with this icing between, sprinkling the mixed pecans, citron and raisins over the icing on the three inner layers and press all down gently. Ice the top without the fruit.

CRACKED WHEAT MUFFINS.—Two cupfuls of cracked wheat; soak over night in two cupfuls sweet milk; add one teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar, the beaten yolks of two eggs; beat vigorously, fold in the stiffly-beaten whites, and last add one rounding teaspoonful baking powder; bake in well-greased muffin tins in hot oven; break open; do not cut.

HAM CROQUETTES.—One cupful cooked ham chopped, two cupfuls mashed potatoes, one tablespoonful butter, yolks of three eggs, a dash of cayenne; mix the hot mashed potatoes butter and yolks of two eggs with the cayenne; beat until smooth and turn out to cool; put the remaining yolk with the ham in a frying pan and stir over the fire for one minute; remove, and when cool form a ball of the mashed potato, pressing into it a large teaspoonful of ham; fold the potato over it, roll in egg and crumbs and fry.

CABBAGE AND CHEESE.—Cut the cabbage in good sized pieces. Put one piece at a time into rapidly boiling water, having added a tablespoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Boil rapidly without covering for 25 minutes. Turn in a colander, drain and cool. Then chop. Make a sauce of one tablespoonful of butter and flour each, one cupful of milk, saltspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. Spread a layer of cabbage in baking dish, cover with sauce, then a layer of grated cheese; repeat, and on top place a layer of crumbs which have been rolled in butter. Bake until the sauce bubbles through the crumbs.

EGG RINGS.—The ingredients for this delicious tea bread are seven eggs, a pint of boiled milk, one quarter pound of butter, one-half pound of sugar, two pounds of flour, a saltspoon of salt and a pint of flour into which a half teaspoonful of soda has been sifted. Beat the whites and yolks separately and as lightly as possible. Into the boiling milk drop the butter and sugar, and after mixing thoroughly add the flour and yeast powder, and lastly the eggs. Put in a warm place to rise, and when light add the pint of flour and soda. When risen the second time, make into small rolls, wipe the tops over with the white of an egg, sprinkle sugar and chopped almonds over them and bake a light brown.

Capturing a Passenger

"I like perseverance in a man—even in a hackman," began Peterson, "and there is one particular Jehu doing business in Washington, D. C., who possesses that quality in the superlative degree. "When I visited the Capital City I had my mind fully made up to have nothing to do with the hackman; so when I stepped off the train and a crowd of these gentry began shouting at me I simply shook my head and passed on. One of them, however, was not to be thus easily disposed of. Dancing around in front of me, so as to block my progress, he vociferated; "Hack, mister? Take you to the Washington Monument or the Capitol? Only half a dollar!" "Again I shook my head. "Smithsonian Institute or Treasury Building? Take you to both of 'em for seventy-five cents!" "Still I shook my head. "Arlington and Fort Myer? Drive you over and back for two dollars!" "As before, I responded with a shake of the head. "Navy-Yard or Soldier's Home? Either place for a dollar!" "Another shake of the head. "Want to go to the White House and see the President? Drive you, right there for fifty cents!" "More head-shaking. "Patent-Office or State Department? Same price as the White House!"

NET SET WITH FOLDS.—Net set with folds is a stylish method of trimming handsome silk or crepe gowns. One of these has the lower edge of the skirt finished with net, which forms the lower edge of it. This is set at intervals with narrow bias folds of the silk and is finished at the top with an incrustation in the silk of a thin lace, which is used in other parts of the gown. The yoke of the gown is also of the net, set around with folds stitched at the top only, in the same way. Frills of the net with folds finish the lower edge of the silk sleeve above the undersleeve, just below the elbow.

"Another shake. Mind you, all this time I hadn't opened my mouth or uttered a word, and from the puzzled look on the hackman's face I thought I had him about discouraged; but as I shoved past him, thinking to make my escape, his countenance suddenly brightened up, and I heard him mutter:

"By George, I've hit it now! I'll try him just once more! And then running around in front of me again, he spelled out on his fingers, in the deaf and dumb alphabet, with which I chanced to be familiar, 'Deaf and Dumb Asylum? Take you right to the door for a quarter!'"—WILL S. GRINEX in the July Woman's Home Companion.

The Real Eloquence of the Negro.

The Rev. John Jasper represented the highest type of ignorant eloquence. Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for July contains an interesting account of the famous old preacher. There were many other discourses, says the author, just as good as the "Sun-do-move" sermon, though not so well known. In every one he wrought himself up into a pitch that was astonishing. In preaching one Sunday on the final triumph of Christ's kingdom he soared aloft in his imagery. The audience, white and black, were wrought up to the highest pitch.

"An' Death," he said, "whar will Death be den? Chained—tied fas' to de golden chariot o' de Lawd. He will be groamin' an' stumblin' an' fallin'!" And taking up one foot in his hand, with the suppleness and the activity of a trapeze dancer, he hopped and hobbled and sprawled and fell around the pulpit until the congregation, run wild with the perfection of the acting, almost thought they were in the very presence of the chained Death, and the women shrieked and shouted like wild.

In his speech John Jasper was denunciatory and as sarcastic as a man could be. He roasted his enemies alive. His strong point was his ability to ridicule his opponents. He could say more in a cynical grunt or a laugh or a wave of his long arm than most men can say in a paragraph. Jasper could argue all day, if necessary, and none could beat him. He knew nothing of syllogisms, of their premises and their conclusions, but he proved what he said by staking upon it his own character.

"Ef tain' so, frien's, go into de highways an' de by-ways 'n' de streets an' de hedges an' tell ev'rybody you meet dat John Jasper is a liar."

IRISH NAMES IN FRANCE.

O'Quin d'Etcheperac Is an Example of an Odd One.

France with its MacMahons, O'Neills, O'Connors and Nugents, possesses many Irish names. The Boulanger movement introduced to us Count Dillon, in whose gardens the Floquet duel was fought. Most of the Franco-Irish, though two hundred years may have passed since their ancestors left our shores, have preserved a great affection for Ireland, and each St. Patrick's day sees a certain number of them united to celebrate the feast of Ireland's patron saint. I had the pleasure of being present at one of these "dinners de St. Patrice," under the presidency of the Vicomte O'Neill de Tyrone, a charming nobleman, who claims descent from Owen Roe O'Neill. Among Irish names in France I may mention Crebillon de Ballyhigue, MacGuokin de Slane, Mahon de Monaghan, O'Quin d'Etcheperac (formerly mayor of Pau), Harty de Pierrebourg, Harden-Hickey (who shows his Irish origin by editing the principal comic paper in Paris, the "Triboulet"). There are a few names with the prefix "O," and it is hard to know how they came by it. There is a Baron O'Tard de la Grange, and a Comtesse O'Pole, and I have also seen in a list of students O'Diette and O'Lanyer. These are to be distinguished, of course, from such noms de guerre as O'Monroy, O'Diu, O'Squarr, etc.—The Gentleman's Magazine.

WOMAN AT DISADVANTAGE.

Makes Mistakes Through Limited Knowledge of Social Geography.

Woman is always more or less at a disadvantage. She is seldom absolutely sure of her footing. The world is full of unsuspected quicksands into which she may fall through a limited knowledge of social geography. She has a keen sense of her limitations and makes it her first business to hide them. Often she is unsuccessful, for where one can hide her weaknesses beneath a pleasant manner and a smiling exterior, a dozen choose a method which but accentuates what they so earnestly try to hide. And the world has an unpleasant little knack of judging by one's good points. When all is said and done, woman's failings, as a rule are trivial and possess far more importance in her own eyes than in the formation of any one else. Her faults are more often of the head than of the heart; of inexperience rather than of thoughtlessness and there's usually a good excuse for each little weakness. It's the fancy nowadays to sneer—just a little—at our sex. Some of us openly declare that we wish it, even while keeping silent. Yet to be a woman is a privilege for which we should return thanks, if we ever return thanks for anything. If our lot seems harder than that of our brother, it has compensations that outweigh the grief that must sooner or later come to all of us. The woman who, in admiration of her masculine relatives is led to ape them in manner or dress, commits the greatest mistakes of her life and one she will assuredly regret.

Ice on of Sea.

In the Baltic in many northern regions the lower water is so much colder than the water at the surface that ice forms at the bottom while the surface waters seem warm. This phenomenon puzzled scientists for many years. The ice formed in small cakes or flakes and rises to the top, where it melts if the weather is warm or the cake freezes into a solid mass if the weather is cold. Scientists have discovered that the phenomenon is due to an undercurrent of very low temperature. Boatmen, when they see the ice cakes rising to the surface, hurriedly take to the shore if frigid weather exists, for otherwise their boats would be rapidly ice bound, and they would be unable to escape.

LI. JGHS.

The Insignificant Minority.

"Pa, what is a 'quorum'?" "Sonny, it is when there are so few of us home to dinner that your mother won't cut the cake!"

Between the Lines.

Percy—"I shall treasure forever every word of endearment you write me, Pauline." Pauline—"Oh, no; my love-letters are not necessarily a guarantee of good faith; they are only for publication."

A Jintown Effort.

"Well, how did the cantato go off?" "Oh, fine! Saul sat on a red calico throne trimmed with lace curtains; he wore a big button hole bouquet—and fanned himself with a Japanese fan."

His Way.

"The weather man is the most talented long-distance mind reader in the world." "What makes you say so?" "Just let me barely think of going into the country on a pleasure trip and he gets up a rain."

Temperatures of the Higher Air.—Recent balloon ascensions have furnished the following data: A balloon sent up at Craocow to a height of 4,000 meters (13,123 feet) registered a minimum temperature of 23.9 degrees C. (11 degrees Fahr.). A balloon from Berlin rose to 9,490 meters, (31,135 feet) and registered 55 degrees C. (67 degrees Fahr.). A balloon from a point near Paris rose to 12,700 meters (41,666 feet) and registered 55 degrees C. A balloon sent up at Strasburg rose to 8,000 meters (26,247 feet) and registered 45 degrees C. (490 degrees Fahr.). Other ascensions at Vienna and Berlin gave results agreeing with the foregoing.

The Conger Reception

U. S. Minister to China, Edwin H. Conger was given a reception and banquet at the Hotel Whitcomb, St. Joseph on Monday evening the affair being a big success in every particular, and the Twilight Club is to congratulate for the admirable manner in which the arrangements were carried out.

A special train came down Sunday over the M. B. H. & C. R'y to meet Minister Conger and his party who came from Buffalo over the M. C. reaching here at 1:39 o'clock. Quite a party of Benton Harbor people came down on the train to meet the distinguished party. Few people in Buchanan knew of the coming of Mr. Conger, and only a small number were at the depot when the train arrived. A Record representative had the pleasure of a brief interview with Minister Conger, who expressed great pleasure in being back in his native land, but was eager to return to his post, and finish the difficult and trying diplomatic tasks, that awaited his coming for their successful adjustment. Upon arrival of the Conger party at Benton Harbor, they were escorted to the residence of Mr. F. D. Conger and an informal reception. Monday evening there were about 200 guests present at the Hotel Whitcomb when Null's orchestra struck up the delightful music which announced the readiness of the banquet. The banquet room was decorated with a profusion of American flags, and the tables looked beautiful as those present stepped into the room and proceeded to their seats. Rev. E. L. Conger of Pasadena, Cal. pronounced grace, and those present then discussed the menu which was such as only hosts like Messrs. Vincent & Blake know how to prepare.

At the conclusion of the menu, President N. A. Hamilton of the Twilight Club, in a few words introduced as toastmaster Hon. V. M. Gore of Benton Harbor. Mr. Gore it is needless to say filled this position in an admirable manner, his witty sallies as he introduced each speaker being greeted with laughter and applause. Mr. W. F. Sesser's response to the toast "To far Cathay" was an excellent one which gave added interest by the fact that the speaker had travelled in Far Cathay himself. Rev. Hoffman whose response to the toast "Recent American Diplomacy in the far East" was an able and eloquent tribute to Minister Conger's effective work in those trying times which have been enacted within the past year. The next speaker was Mr. Conger and his remarks were listened to with closest attention, Mr. Conger modestly disclaiming any personal credit for the splendid gathering assembled before him, but claimed that it was a tribute to the magnificent government which he represented. In speaking of the trying scenes in Pekin he paid a glowing tribute to the American private soldiers and the marines who so gallantly defended the legation.

The other speakers were Mr. G. M. Valentine of Benton Harbor who responded to "The White Man's Burden" and praised the policy of President McKinley and urged that the U. S. take no backward step. Congressman Hamilton responded to the toast "The Chinese Dragon; What shall we do with it?" and the eloquent and genial member from our district fully sustained his reputation as a forensic orator. Rev. W. P. French responded to the closing toast and paid a glowing tribute to woman, in his remarks about the "American Maid and the Chinese Maiden." President Hamilton made a few brief remarks congratulating everybody on everything connected with the banquet and the delightful event passed into history, adding one more laurel to those already won by the Twilight Club of the Twin Cities.

Suits Made to Order

From $15 up. Guaranteed to fit. JOHN MORRIS, Leading Tailor of Buchanan.

You will enjoy a dish of ice cream at Mrs. Crotser's parlors.

Veni, Vidi,

We came, we saw, but the South side base ball team did the rest, in Tuesday's base ball game between the North and South sides.

The score stood 11 to 1 or 2 to 1 we do not just recall which. The score by innings resulting as follows:

As will be noted the first innings was a Waterloo for the North side, and although the boys tried hard they were presented with a goose egg each inning until the last when short stop Sparks made a heroic effort, and succeeded in scoring, this event so "gingering up" the North side that the South side became alarmed and suddenly discovered that it was time to stop. The great features of the game were "Doc" Curtis pitching for the South side and Sig Desenberg's marvelous pitching for the North side. Many interesting events occurred, although both sides were greatly handicapped by the non-arrival of their new uniforms, and as a consequence the brilliant plays were few and far between. A return game is being arranged for, two weeks from Tuesday and we predict that there will be a lot of practicing going on in all corners of the town, and many new plays will be practiced to be ready for this game. Should you doubt it ask A. A. Worthington.

AN HISTORICAL LOCATION.

Northwest World's Fair Site Association Discovers Interesting Facts. The officers of the Northwest World's Fair Site association claim to have made a discovery which they think will have much weight in the selection of the site for the Louisiana Purchase exposition, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. They say the home place of Gen. William H. Clarke, governor of the territory of Missouri, is located on Goodfellow avenue, in northwest St. Louis, and covers part of the vast property on which the association has obtained options for the benefit of the directors of the World's Fair. Secretary E. T. Grether, President Lewis E. Snow, Treasurer J. M. Williams and others have been visiting the different property owners for the past two weeks, spending hours daily in interviewing the oldest inhabitants and looking over old municipal documents in an effort to get historical data. It was while on these expeditions that they gathered data which they assert shows conclusively that on the identical spot where now stands the Goodfellow mansion, Goodfellow avenue and Natural Bridge road, formerly stood the residence of Gov. Clarke, at which place, known to the Indians as Council Groves, the Indians met to make their treaties, and from where started the Lewis and Clarke expedition. Directors Fred Deibel, Jewett Wagoner, John Fitzgerald, H. H. Ellers, Judge David Murphy, Ed W. Greer, J. L. Grether, Edward H. Bickley, George P. Prendergast, W. S. Brawner, M. M. Fitzgerald, Fred Spangler, H. B. Schilling, W. J. McDonald, W. H. Redemeyer, Sidney E. Davis and Charles H. Filley, the executive committee, will go before the World's Fair site committee to state that the Goodfellow place is singularly appropriate for a fair site and that the natural conditions surrounding it fulfill all the requirements. The history associated with this place, they will argue, could well be preserved by permanent buildings commemorating the exposition.

SWEET CONCEIT.

From the Denver Times: There was moonlight and the waters of the lake glistened like molten diamonds. A thrush sang sleepily and from a boat rocking on the bosom of the placid waters came the faint tinkle of a guitar.

"What would you say," he cried in low, husky tones, leaning toward the dainty vision occupying the other end of the boat, "if I were to tell you that I think of you day and night and even dream of you?"

"Well," she replied, with a soft-stop gurgle, "I would say you were capable of most beautiful thoughts."

After that he rowed viciously.

Lesson That Was Needed.

A Philadelphia railroad contractor, who has recently returned from abroad, tells of an experience that befell him in Munich illustrative of the difference in prevailing customs. Armed with a number of letters of introduction to European railroad officials, he made it a point to inquire into the workings of the various systems, and was treated with uniform courtesy. At Munich he thought he had acquired all the information he was after, and as he passed out of the office of the man with whom he had been talking he put on his hat. He had scarcely been ushered out when it occurred to him that there was one matter about which he had forgotten to inquire. "I immediately retraced my steps," said the Philadelphian, "and again entered the office, neglecting to remove my hat. I saw the same official with whom I had been talking, and, apologizing for taking up so much of his time, I put the question to him. Without a word he reached up, took off my hat and placed it in my hand. Then he answered my query and bowed me out. It made me feel rather cheap."

OBITUARY

AUSTIN POULSON.

Austin Poulson was born in Cass Co. Mich., July 1869, where he died June 16, 1901. He was married to Miss Dora Rollings of Berrien Co., Sept. 25, 1895, with whom he lived happily until his death.

Last winter he was taken with la grippe, from which dread disease he never fully recovered. Austin was a young man of fine ability, and good social disposition. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was ambitious to obtain a home for his family, for which he industriously almost to a fault often laboring beyond his strength. His grief-stricken wife, to whom he was ardently devoted feels her loss most keenly but with that womanly grace sifting through the darkly lined clouds of sorrow and bereavement, she humbly bows in meek submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. It was a real comfort to see her loving sisters and brothers rally to her assistance in this hour of sorrow.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. F. Bartmess at the church near the cemetery, a few miles south east of their home. After this the remains were laid to rest in the presence of a large and sympathizing congregation. The floral offerings were most abundant and beautiful. His aged father and two sisters also mourn the loss of a son and brother.

Austin thou hast surely left us And the loss we deeply feel But if God hast thus bereft us He will all our sorrows heal

JONATHAN KRIGLEY

Was born near Waynesburg, Green Co., Pennsylvania Nov. 8th, 1818. When quite a young man he removed with his parents to Palmyra, Portage Co., Ohio. On Dec. 8th, 1836 he was married to Miss Nabmi McDaniel, and in the spring of 1852 he settled on a piece of land which now includes a larger part of the village of Eau Claire in Berrien Co., Mich. Here he continued to live till his death, which occurred on Sunday, June 23d, 1901 at the age of 87 years, 7 months, and 15 days. He was the founder of the village of Eau Claire. His wife passed away June 16th, 1869. He leaves a son and daughter to mourn his departure. In 1837 he was converted to Christ, and has ever since till his death, been an earnest and faithful member of the Christian church.

On June 25th funeral services, conducted by Elder Wm. M. Roe, were held in the Christian church in Eau Claire where the presence of a large assembly of people attested their respect for the deceased. Interment made in Maple Grove cemetery.

LEAH STRAUB

Wife of Mr. Geo. Straub residing on the Hoese farm 6 miles south and east of town, died this morning, at the age of 87 years. The funeral will be held from her late residence Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Ostroth of the Portage Prairie Evangelical church.

Save Your Money.

Perry F. Powers, auditor general, states that letters are being sent out from Ann Arbor and elsewhere making promises of assistance, for a stipulated amount, in securing money due to individuals and estates, in cases of double payments of taxes occasioned in most cases through redemption by the owners after the purchase of state tax certificates. It is the policy of that department to ascertain amounts due and to remit such amounts as rapidly as possible.

Our readers are requested not to make any payment to individuals to secure amounts due them and to send such letters and postal cards or any information which they may possess relative to amounts due them to Mr. Powers at Lansing and these claims will be promptly adjusted in full. Inasmuch as some of these unsettled matters have been on the books of the department for forty years or more it will require time and labor to properly adjust them, but work in this direction is now in progress and will be hurried forward until completed.

Entertaining Newspaper Features

Probably no other newspaper in the United States can show so brilliant an array of special features as is found in the columns of the Chicago Record-Herald, which combines in one great newspaper, all the entertaining departments of both the Chicago Record and the Chicago Times Herald. The daily and Sunday news and special features of the Chicago Record-Herald include the Washington letter of Wm. E. Curtis, the Record-Herald's special New York dispatches, its unequalled foreign news service, embracing its own special cables with those of the New York Herald, the New York Tribune and the Associated Press; its pages devoted to the markets and financial and commercial intelligence—exhaustive to the most satisfactory degree, its popular sporting page, its extended editorial department, "Queer Sprigs of Gentility," Kiser's humorous "Alternating Currents," "Stories of the Day," "The Current Topics Club," the departments of railroad and insurance news, music, and the drama, society and clubs; the column of book reviews, the continued story, the "Woman Beautiful," department, the daily fashion article, "Meals for a Day," news of the great lakes, etc.—all uniting to furnish to the people of Chicago and the northwest, a newspaper which commends itself to discriminating readers as only a newspaper can which combines the world wide facilities of two of the greatest metropolitan newspapers of modern times.

BUCHANAN, MICHIGAN

NERVOUS SYSTEM IS DUAL

Development of One Set Benefits All Parts of the Human Body.

Prof. Scripture of Yale university has invented a new term, "cross-education," which he gives to the results upon the organs of the opposite side of the body from exercise of a limb or organ. The simplest instance is that a gain of 70 per cent in strength of the right hand from exercising it alone secures a gain of 50 per cent in the unexercised left hand. The law holds not only as regards strength, but also in other qualities. The fact helps to explain why in right-handed people, for instance, the left retains so much strength and expertness. The question also arises if other organs than corresponding ones may not be influenced, for example, the left foot by means of exercise of the right hand.
Why are right-handed soldiers required to step off with the left foot first? Finally, the development in the defective classes of mental and moral characteristics by systematized physical instruction which teaches order, rhythm, accuracy and judgment is explained and put upon a rational basis.
The claims of the manual training advocates are justified and made clear.
The experiments at the Elmira reformatory thus elicit the greatest interest. How far it may be possible to educate into something like normality the weak minded, criminally inclined and even the idiotic becomes an important study. Prof. Scripture calls this "the principle of character building by motor activity."

An Interesting Letter.

NAIC, PROV. CAVITE, P. I.

April 3rd, 1901

My Dear Parents and Sisters:

I received your kind and welcome letter some days ago and was glad to hear from you.

I am still employed in the commissary here and am having a pretty good time.

If you want to keep on the right side of the average mother speak well of her bad boy.

Some people imagine that their love for arguing scripture is the Simon-pure religion.

I don't like the idea of teaching a fear of God. I can't believe that God's love has got a hell attached to it.

We are all of some specific use; if we aren't stirring up the people, we are some of the people getting stirred up.

All men are not Christians. A big majority are satisfied with no other qualification than belonging to the church.

There is danger in stretching your lies beyond the point you are accustomed to stopping at.

If men would strive to see how good they could be, instead of how rich they can get, you could drop your purse in the church and go back next day and find it again.

Man cannot believe at will. There is no shadows where there is no light, no intellect where there is no thought, no doubts where there is nothing concealed.

Too much valuable time is lost in digging up reasons why God should damn the world, which could be used far better in trying to bless the poor people who are already damned.

The American laboring people can only buy and consume so much of the country's productions as their wages will buy.

Men who become suddenly rich are like boys; they love to toot their horns.—Finnickey Finnukin in Pennsylvania Grit.

HOME-MADE PHILOSOPHY.

All men are not robbers. The majority are satisfied with being robbed.

All men are not honest. The majority are satisfied with the pretense of honesty.

A CURIOUS NARRATIVE.

An Incident That Led to a Chapel's Construction. In the outlying hamlet of Mugginton there is a quasi-Palladian chapel, about fifteen feet square, which is commonly known as Halter Devil chapel.

"Francis Brown in his old age Built him here this hermitage."

The register of Mugginton parish contains the following entry: "1781, June 11th, Francis Brown, of Huland Ward, buried. Intakes Founder of Chapel in 7th Intakes Ward, to be annexed to Mugginton forever, after death of his widow, his daughter and her husband, Edward Allen."

We read in the daily papers that a Frenchman left 10,000,000 francs to the city of Rouen for the purpose of giving a prize annually as a marriage gift to two giants, the design being to improve the physical stature of the race.

Senator Benton, it is said, once addressed a public meeting as follows: "Ladies and gentlemen, there are the sages of the past and the sages of the future. I stand before you tonight the connecting link between the sages of the past and the sages of the future, and soon I, too, will be numbered with the sages of the past."

Short Talks On Advertising

By Charles Austin Bates.

No. 13.

Economy often defeats its own ends. Sometimes economy is extravagance. Sometimes not spending is more expensive than spending. So in advertising. That is an economical expense. I call it an expense to avoid argument. In reality it is an investment.

In a ten-dollar advertisement the last two dollars pay better than the other eight. Maybe an eight-dollar ad. wouldn't pay when a ten-dollar ad. would. Maybe that extra space is just what the ad. needs to lift it out of oblivion—to make it prominent—to make it pay. Don't buy more space than you need, but don't buy too little, either. Better buy 600 much than too little. Better put an eight-dollar ad. in a ten-dollar space than to put a ten-dollar ad. in an eight dollar space. One way you are only two dollars, the other way you are out eight dollars.

"DON'T BUY
(THAN YOU NEED)"

Save money on your advertising if you can, of course, but save it in the right way; Cut off the little leaks—the programs, the bills of fare, the directories, the wall charts, the pages in "sovereigns." Cut them all off, and your trade will never feel the difference.

Cut off the inconsequential papers if you have to, but always keep your adv. in your best papers, big enough to do you justice. It is better to convince a few people than to talk to too many.

You will always find that the best papers give you more for your money than any other media.

Don't think one paper high-priced because the rate is a dollar an inch, and another one low-priced because it is ten cents an inch.

Usually the more you pay for advertising the cheaper it is.

There are exceptions, of course. They prove the rule.

One way you are only out $2.00 the other way you are out $8.00.

THEY PURCHASE OUR PICTURES

Great American Painter. All Represented in French Art Galleries.

I am no great admirer of the French government of the day, for I am too good a patriot to believe in cosmopolitanism and I have never seen anything admirable in breaking church windows. When I was a youngster there was one bad boy in our neighborhood. I know he was bad because he used to throw stones at the minister's cat. The socialists and internationalists who rule France today are too much like that bad boy to suit my conservative tastes. Still they are good men in their way. Their theories aside, they act like decent fellows, instructed, art-loving men and Frenchmen. Every now and then the government announces that it has bought some picture and—by placing it in a public gallery—given it to the people and the world. Not one great American painter of the day is unrepresented in the national art galleries of France. Look at the Luxembourg, with its collection—finer than any in the United States—of pictures by our best men, Whistler, Sargent and a score of others. He, too, works for his country who only stands and paints.

However, while the best of the great American artists' work is being bought in by the French government to enrich France, the government of our own country is quite unconcerned. And in a few years what would we not give for Whistler's Portrait of My Mother, for Walden's Cardiff Docks, for Sargent's Carmencita?—a king's ransom, my friends. And that is the right kind of patriotism—the national preservation of the works of our men have made. It makes for the future. Seed may be sown on a canvass as well as on the prairies of the middle west. All this means that the French government has bought Lionel Walden's last Salon picture—that should have gone to the new home of art that some statesman will found some day or other in Washington, D. C.—Saturday Post.

Fingerless Lace Gloves.

Last evening I found Dolly busy with some pieces of old lace louncers. For some time I watched her cutting, snipping, taking up the threads and tying little knots here and there to keep the lace from raveling before I discovered what she was doing, says a writer in the Minneapolis Times. Then at last, when she had transformed one of the pieces into a funnel shaped affair and had pulled it over the hand and forearm I concluded she was making gloves. These lace gloves she tells me are to be the rage this summer for dinner and garden parties. They are fingerless and may be elbow or shoulder length. At the stores they are sold for $50, $60 and even $100 a pair, but Dolly says that any girl who is skillful can make her own lace mittens. Silk mitts will also be worn, I suppose, as the vogue of the fingerless lace glove will suggest the wearing of lace mitts.

Shakespeare's Birthday Celebrated.

The German Shakespeare Gesellschaft celebrated the birthday of the great English poet at Weimar with all the customary enthusiasm. Herr Von Possart, the manager of the Bavarian court theater at Munich, gave a lecture upon "Scenery" in Shakespeare's time, which was illustrated with a model of the primitive Elizabethan stage. The meeting, at which several English and American guests were present, was presided over by the venerable Dr. Oschelhauser, one of the founders of the society, who is now in his eighty-first year.

Helen Gould's Only Sport.

Bowling is about the only sport Miss Helen Gould cares about, and in order to be able to entertain bowling parties on a magnificent scale she built a beautiful bowling alley at Lyndhurst, her country home at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. The building stands at some distance from her house, on the river's bank, and is perhaps the most complete establishment of its kind in the world. There is the regulation alley, which takes up the center of the building. At either end are round towers; on the first floor of each, opening from the alley, are reception rooms, delightfully cosy, with easy chairs, divans and huge fireplaces. A wide veranda on one side overlooks the tennis court; in summer a roof garden is a feature of the place, with awnings, growing plants, and the most beautiful of views—a charming place for the cup of afternoon tea or a moonlight reverie.—Leslie's Weekly.

To Keep the Hair in Curl.

First dampen your hair with alcohol and allow it to dry thoroughly. Then take it, a piece at a time, dip your brush in any good scent—eau de cologne for preference—and brush the strand to be curled with the damp brush. While still damp apply heated curling irons or wavers and hold the hair in place with them till it is quite dry—probably a minute. Then take the next strand and treat it in the same way till all are curled. Done in this way the waving will last for several days, unless the weather hap-

Fruits for Children.

For children especially fruits in their season are an ideal diet, and should be conscientiously insisted upon. A small bill for the doctor would buy fruit for a long time. One who makes a business of the study of such matters says that the value of fruit is fresh, canned, preserved or dried. "If," says Professor Allen, "one-half the meat, one-fourth the bread, and all the candy given to children could be made to give place to fruit, the death rate among the children would be greatly reduced, their bodies would be better formed, and they would be more healthy than most of them now are."

'Twas Johnson.

From the New York Evening Sun: It was in Magistrate P.'s court a few days ago. A white woman had her husband, a big negro, up for non-support. She said that he would not support her, because he was jealous of another man, who had paid her some attention. The magistrate heard the story, and then turned toward the prisoner and asked: "Well, Mr. Othello, what have you to say to that?"

The policeman who made the arrest leaned over and whispered to the magistrate:

"His name isn't Othello, your honor," he said. "It's Johnson."

HOG PASTURE PLAN.

BEST WAY TO GET MOST OUT OF THIS VALUABLE ANIMAL.

Rotation of Crops on Their Feeding Grounds—Provide Dry, Comfortable Sleeping Quarters—Plenty of Sunlight the Best Disinfectant.

Mr. Arthur Seebach of Minnesota, in a recent contribution to Breeder's Gazette on "How to Get the Most Out of the Hog," lays stress on the value of the hog pasture. Mr. Seebach says:

The permanent pasture, A, can be seeded down to June grass, white clover, blue grass and timothy—in fact, almost any grass that will not freeze out. Pasture B is for clover for summer grazing; also for winter grazing if wanted and possible. Pasture C is for corn or green corn fodder raising. Just before laying the corn by for the season sow 15 pounds of clover seed to the acre and cultivate it in when going through with the corn cultivator the last time, usually not deeper than two to four inches. By this time the ground is generally quite well shaded enough by the corn to hold the necessary moisture to insure a good stand of clover even in a dry season.

The next year pasture C will be your clover grazing ground, and in pasture B the clover sod will be turned under for corn and seeded down to clover again as before. Every year change the clover on the corn pasture and the corn on the clover pasture. By this continual exchange of grazing ground the pasture soils will be getting richer every year and growing larger corn and more clover. This is also a good place to pick out your seed corn.

Make the feeding floor of cement. It was stated that it was thought to be better not to have a roof above the feeding floor, so as to get all the sunshine on top of it, but that there could be a three foot tight board fence around the sides of the floor to keep off the chilly winds.

Fig. D is a water barrel with an automatic fountain.

Provide dry, comfortable sleeping quarters, with plenty of light, sunlight being the best disinfectant. On a cold winter day you will frequently see the hog go out to graze on a clover field if he can get at it. If each one of the pastures contains 15 acres, the plant outlined will usually be sufficient for 150 to 175 swine.

In a paper on the care of the sow and her litter read before the Illinois Swine Breeders' association Mr. T. B. Hart said:

It is of greatest consequence that the sow be fed in a manner to put her in the best possible condition before farrowing in order to maintain the health and vigor of the sow and litter after farrow. The feed before farrowing should be about the same as after farrow, except with old sows it should not be so liberal. The most important factors to be considered are shelter, proper feed, cleanliness and exercise, good blood, pure water and proper matings. Good shelter is necessary for obvious reasons.

Cold drafts must positively be avoided, as pigs and young hogs are perhaps more susceptible to colds and pneumonia than any other animal. Cold drafts will produce these afflictions sooner than you know, and when the pigs once contract the disease they are only a little way from the grave. The shelter having been provided and taking for granted that the sow is in good, strong condition, neither poor nor laden with fat, it is now necessary to look after the new arrivals and get them properly started on the road to market and crowd them along.

It is conceded by experienced breeders that for the first three days of the pig's life its dam should be fed very moderately on thin slop. Heavy feeding at this stage will produce a greater flow of milk than the little fellows can consume, leaving the surplus to fever and curd in the udder, which in turn will prove disastrous to the life of the pig. The feeding of swill to the sows while the pigs are young will also produce evil results, usually causing dysentery, and when this trouble once assumes aggravated form it is most sure to claim some of the best of the litter as shaming marks. It is probable that more pigs are lost by improper feeding of the dam during the first week of the pigs' life than from any other cause. About a week will be required to bring the sow up to full feed. Then rush the whole family along till weaning time. It has been our practice to allow the pigs to run and feed with their dams till about 10 weeks old, at which age they will practically have weaned themselves. At this period a separate pen should be provided in which to slop and feed the shoats, "leaving the old sows to weep and wail on the outside." A couple of ears of corn would be good for the old sow, but if it is intended to keep her over for another litter her principal feed should be grass. It has been my practice to clean out the sleeping apartments at least once a week and oftener if the bedding becomes damp or soiled. Damp bedding is about as disastrous to the thrift of the pig as cold drafts.

SPRING LAMBS.

Constant Attention Needed to Fit Them For Market.

As soon as the lambs are dropped remove them, with their mothers, from the flock to another pasture, writes W. K. Stiles of Kentucky in American Agriculturist. A good ryefield sowed early for that purpose is almost indispensable. For lambs dropped at this season, when it is apt to turn cold and damp, suitable shelter must be provided. A roomy barn or straw shed sufficiently large to accommodate the flock should be built. It can be made very cheaply. This shed should be 10 to 15 feet wide and long enough to accommodate the flock. Fasten the north side and both ends, but leave the south side open with access to a lot. Two small separating pens should be made in connection with this shed. Sometimes the ewes do not have any milk for several days or fail to own their lambs. In such cases it is important to have a place to put them where they can be conveniently attended to by one man.

Damp, cold, drizzly days are death and destruction to lambs, especially weak ones, and it is important to be among them on such occasions. I have had lambs dropped in just such weather that concentrated a cold from which they never recovered. Dry, cold weather is not so destructive to lambs as damp, but always go among them with bottle and something to wrap the little fellows in when they need attention. In exceedingly cold weather when lambs are liable to freeze to death before they get on their feet it is advisable to have a room heated by a stove as close to the sheep barn as possible where the lambs can be cared for until the danger is over.

Sometimes lambs are left without mothers and ewes without lambs. In such cases it is not much trouble to make them take up with one another if it is done immediately. If neglected a day or two, it will be almost impossible, although I have done so by confining them about a week and whipping them into submission. I do not believe this pays when other things demand attention.

When there is no grass or other green stuff for the sheep, early cut clover hay should be substituted, with a liberal supply of ship stuff and corn on cob, which will prevent the more greedy ones from getting more than their share. The ears should be cut into halves or just long enough to keep them from falling on the ends. Ship stuff or wheat bran should be fed in low troughs. When the lambs learn to eat, they should be fed by themselves. Give just what cornmeal they clean up and no more. Sheep should have salt regularly twice a week. While sheep can do without water a long time it is best to provide an abundance at all times.

MARKINGS IN HORSES.

White Legs, Feet and Blaze Indicate Weak Lasting Powers.

The increase of white markings in our horses has become much more pronounced as compared with former years, but their presence does not seem to enter into the calculations of our breeders in the very slightest degree, writes C. L. S. in London Live Stock Journal.

White legs mean white feet, and white feet mean brittle feet, and this fact has long been recognized by the breeders of all countries save dear old haphazard, "muddling through" England.

I happen to have spent from time to time a good portion of my life among stock breeders in France, Spain, Italy, the Mediterranean and the United States, and I have from time to time endeavored to induce the continental breeders, especially of heavy draft horses, to come over to our shows here and buy some of our breeding stock with a view to help along horse breeding generally in this country. In, I think, 1897 and 1898 the government professor of agriculture for the west district of France attended officially and on my recommendation the Shire horse shows in London with a view of buying some stallions, but when he saw the amazing amount of white in nearly all of them he absolutely and entirely declined to have anything to do with them and on his second visit hinted to me that I had brought him over on false pretenses!

When I suggest to Italian and Spanish breeders to come to this country for their horse breeding stock, and I have to own to the presence of white legs, feet and blaze, they shake their heads and at once decline. In this way the chance of a foreign market for some of our surplus stock is reduced, and this is a fact that should be regarded seriously by our breeders.

These markings are known to be detrimental to the lasting powers of a horse, and yet no attempt is made to limit them or breed them out. They are wonderfully on the increase in many strains of the Shire horse, and as far as legs are concerned they now sometimes reach the stifle and beyond.

Let us, before it is too late, wake up from our wonderfully self-satisfied position and take a lesson from the foreigner. We can learn much from him and more still from the United States of America.

Corn In Pork.

One of the great problems in profitably carrying on the hog industry is to secure the large gains from a bushel of corn that at one time it was thought impossible, but is now being proved almost daily. While ordinary good feeding is eight to ten pounds gain, superlative feeding brings 15 pounds. We find the report recently made by C. G. Neff of Ohio that by careful feeding he made an average on a bunch of 500 hogs of 15 pounds 8 ounces gain for a bushel of corn, and after the second period a gain of 15 1/2 pounds per bushel was made.—American Swineherd.

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peak time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tablets, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tablets will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

WANTED.—A case of bad health that Ripans Tablets will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word "RIPANS" on the package and accept no others. For $1.00 10 for 5 cents or twelve packets for 45 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one testimonial will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., 225 E. Spruce St., New York.

If you have sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, bad breath, dizziness, inactive liver, heartburn, kidney troubles, backache, loss of appetite, insomnia, lack of energy, bad blood, blotched or muddy skin, or any symptoms and disorders which tell the story of bad bowels and an impaired digestive system, Laxakola Will Cure You.

It will clean out the bowels, stimulate the liver and kidneys, strengthen the mucous membranes of the stomach, purify your blood and put you "on your feet" again. Your appetite will return, your bowels move regularly, your liver and kidneys cease to trouble you, your skin will clear and freshen and you will feel the old time energy and buoyancy.

Mothers seeking the proper medicine to give their little ones for constipation, diarrhea, colic and similar troubles, will find Laxakola an ideal medicine for children. It keeps their bowels regular without pain or griping, acts as a general tonic, assists nature, aids digestion, relieves restlessness, clears the coated tongue, reduces fever, causes refreshing, restful sleep and makes them well, happy and hearty. Children like it and ask for it.
