HODGSON'S LONG TALK

Puts in Another Day Telling What He Knows About the Brooklyn

AND HER CONDUCT OFF SANTIAGO

He Sticks to That "Cuss Word", Story But Says the Ship Did Her Duty.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Lieutenant Commander Hodgson yesterday again occupied the greater part of the time of the Schley court of inquiry as a witness. He was followed on the stand by Captain W. M. Folger, formerly chief of the bureau of ordnance of the navy department, but commander of the New Orleans during the Spanish war. Captain Folger said the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon on May 31 had been successful in developing the strength of the Spanish shore batteries, and had shown them to be very weak. He also said that if the Spanish vessels had attempted to escape at night they could not have been seen by the blockading fleet in bad weather, and that when the attack was made on the Colon as she lay in the mouth of the harbor there was no plan of battle announced, so far as he knew.

Insists That Schley Said D—N.

Commander Hodgson repeated and extended his story of the battle of July 3, giving the opinion that Commodore Schley's conduct on that occasion was such as that of a commander-in-chief should have been. He also explained at some length his correspondence with Admiral Schley concerning the alleged colloquy between them while the Santiago engagement was in progress. He said he had had no controversy with the commodore, but he repeated that the commodore had said "Damn the Texas," when told that that vessel was in danger. Rayner asked a good many questions whose object was to prove that the charge that Schley was a coward was untrue, and the witness gave abundant proof.

Sampson Not Likely to Testify.

During the recess counsel for Schley said Admiral Sampson probably will not be called as a witness after all. Attorney Rayner, in answer to a question, said that he had received information that Sampson's condition precluded his appearance on the stand, and that to keep the record clear the judge advocate would be compelled to inform the court of that fact. The record now shows that Schley's counsel asked to have a summons issued for Sampson, and the plan is to have this statement from the judge advocate explain why the demand was not pushed.

PITH OF THE CONTROVERSY

Between Schley and Hodgson—Witness Examined by Rayner.

The nub of the controversy with Schley is about this: Schley wanted Hodgson to deny "this grotesque lie," meaning the story that he (Schley) said "Damn the Texas." Hodgson thought the "grotesque lie" was the newspaper's representation of him (Hodgson) carrying on a controversy with his commanding officer in the midst of a

VERY IMPORTANT STEP

Taken by the House of Deputies in the General Episcopal Convention.

PROPOSES A VARIATION OF RITUAL

So That in Certain Cases Congregations Can Go Outside the Prayer Book.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Yesterday was a day of oratory in the house of deputies of the Episcopal general convention. The debate, which began last Saturday, on the proposed addition to Article X of the constitution, prescribing the form of worship, was continued all day and finally resulted in its adoption. As adopted it reads as follows: "But provision may be made by canon for temporary use of old forms and directories of worship by congregations not in union with this church who are willing to accept the spiritual oversight of the bishop of the diocese or missionary district." The vote was as follows: Clerical—Ayes, 30; nays, 16; divided, 13. Lay—Ayes, 35; nays, 14; divided, 5.

Raised Quite a Lively Debate.

The debate was very animated, and until the result was made known it was the prevailing opinion that the vote would be much more evenly divided than it was. It was strongly urged by the advocates of the proposed change that its adoption would open the way to a great increase in the membership of the church, while its opponents regarded it as too radical an innovation.

Dr. Huntington's Final Plea.

Rev. Dr. Huntington, of New York, made his closing argument. He declared that the purpose of bringing the proposed change before the convention was to bring the provisions of the constitution into line with the actual conditions of the church. He said that the American people are not interested in the minutiae of the ritual, but in the spiritual life of the church. He said that the proposed change would not be a departure from the principles of the church, but a necessary adaptation to the needs of the people. He said that the proposed change would be a step toward the unification of the church, and that it would be a step toward the realization of the kingdom of God on earth.

Presiding Bishop Made Elective.

The house of bishops adopted the amendment to Article I, Section 13, of the constitution, already approved by the deputies, which, in effect, makes the presiding bishop of the church elective for a term of three years by a majority of the bishops. It was voted, in view of the growing importance of missionary work in China, to divide the district of Shanghai into two departments, to be known as those of Shanghai and Hankow. The bishops considered a number of reports and transacted much routine business.

Daughters of the King.

The Daughters of the King elected a council and decided to hold meetings triennially hereafter, preferably in the convention city. The American Sunday School Institute elected Bishop Talbot, of Central Pennsylvania, president, and retained Rev. H. L. Duhring, of Philadelphia, as secretary-treasurer. Its sessions were addressed by several Sunday-school workers.

HELD FOR BIG SWINDLE

Frank Stafford, Wanted in New York, Arrested in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Frank Stafford, alias Williams, wanted by the New York police on the charge of forgery, has been arrested here by Detectives Hogan and Zimmer at 6269 Stewart avenue. The arrest was made on a telegram received by the local authorities from New York, stating that Stafford had left there for Chicago a week ago.

According to the police Stafford is a member of a gang of real estate swindlers who have operated extensively in New York and vicinity. The swindlers got out a map of Staten island and blocked out into lots the entire east front of the island. Bogus deeds to the lots, it is said, were issued by these men and many people were defrauded out of a large sum of money. Stafford married a public school teacher in New York a few years ago and when she died a year ago she left her property to him and her two brothers. Stafford is accused of forging the names of the two brothers to a deed of the property. Detective P. F. Gargan of New York has arrived in Chicago and will return with Stafford.

Massachusetts Republicans.

Boston, Oct. 5.—The Massachusetts Republican state convention, held here yesterday, nominated a full state ticket and adopted a platform which was standard Republican. Crane was renominated for governor. Senator Hoar, in the course of a speech, said that the right of free speech must not be denied, "but caricature, denunciation, foul abuse and contemptuous ridicule of the American president, from whatever source they come, must cease."

H. Clay Evans to Stay.

Washington, Oct. 7.—President Roosevelt intends to retain H. Clay Evans as commissioner of pensions. So says a member of congress who called to recommend a successor to Evans.

NOW HERE COMES ANOTHER

Alger's Book Is Out, and the "Embalmed Beef" Row Is Wide Open.

Washington, Oct. 7.—With the Schley inquiry sending out volumes of stuff calculated to "beat up" the Sampson-Schley controversy it would seem that there was "glory enough for all" who wanted a "scrap" over the question as to who had the supply of brains in the navy in 1898. But that there may be no lack of anything to make things lively in the controversial way word comes from New York that General Alger's book is about to come out—will be issued next Thursday—and copious extracts from it are already printed in the papers. The book deals with the Spanish-American war up to the end of the campaigns in Cuba and Porto Rico.

From advance sheets it appears the feature of the book is General Alger's criticism of Major General Miles and Admiral Sampson, his strictures against the "round robin" (which, by the way never was a round robin at all, or anything like a round robin) signed by the commanding officers at Santiago, and his defense of the plan of embarking the army at Tampa.

General Alger declares that General Miles was not honest "in making his dilatory charges that tinned beef was issued as the pretense of an experiment." He describes Miles' conduct by the words "strange," "inexcusable," "unmilitary" and "questionable."

Regarding Rear Admiral Sampson, the book devotes some space to that naval officer's "contradictory statements," and General Alger remarks that "the admiral's conduct may be due to the keen disappointment resulting from his non-participation in the engagement with Cervera's squadron."

yesterday were $15,543.40 cash and $7,500 in pledges. Of this amount the firm has sent $35,000 to the state department, to be forwarded to its consular agents at the place where it can be used most expeditiously.

London, Oct. 8.—"It is reported from Sofia," says a dispatch from Vienna to the Daily Express, "that United States Consul Dickinson and an envoy of the missionary society arrived there Saturday, intending to follow up Miss Stone, the abducted missionary, and to deposit a portion of the ransom. The brigands have extended the time for payment one month."

GREAT WEEK AT THE PAN

Illinois Day Opens It With a Large Crowd of Prairie State Visitors.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Another banner week at the Pan-American exposition opened today with Illinois day. Governor Yates and his staff, Senator Mason, Hon. E. A. Mungler and a large delegation of Chicago city officials and others prominent in commercial, social and political circles were on hand. The ceremonies included the presence of the first regiment. The programme was: Parade from the Niagara hotel, where the governor and his staff had their headquarters, to the exposition grounds, to the Temple of Music, where the formal ceremonies of the day were held.

The speakers were Governor Richard Yates, Lieutenant colonel F. O. Lowden, Senator Mason, Hon. E. A. Mungler and President Milburn, of the exposition. A dress parade and drill will be given this afternoon in the Stadium, a tea in the woman's building, a dinner to Chicago officials by the mayor of Buffalo and the board of aldermen in the evening, and a reception and dance at the Stadium restaurant in the evening.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Some Delicate Home Dishes.

STEAMED CARROT PUDDING.—Here is a receipt for carrot pudding, which many who have eaten say they prefer to an English plum pudding, because it is less injurious to health and better for digestion. One half pound of flour, one-half pound of sugar, one-half pound chopped suet, one-half pound grated carrot, one-half pound currants, one-half teaspoonful salt. Mix in the order named; use full-grown but fresh carrots, and grate them fine. When thoroughly mixed, put into a mould that has been buttered inside and steam three hours. Serve hot with wine sauce that is well spiced.

ICE CREAM.—In making ice cream, it can be greatly improved by adding two spoonfuls of flour to each gallon. To use it, mix three full spoonfuls of flour with one of sugar in the yolks, also one-half a teaspoonful of vanilla or lemon extract as preferred; whip both the yolks and whites as stiff and dry as possible. Stir the white gently through the yellow. Put into a buttered baking pan or dish, and cook for ten or twelve minutes in a moderately hot oven; serve as soon as finished, for it will soon lose its light fluffy appearance as it cools.

BLACKBERRY CORDON.—Squeeze blackberries enough to make a quart of juice, add to it a pound of loaf sugar and let it dissolve, heating it slowly. Add to it one teaspoonful of cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Boil it all together twenty minutes. On removing from the fire, add a wine-glassful of brandy. Put in bottles while hot, and seal. Use a teaspoonful for a glass of iced water.

RASPBERRY VINEGAR.—Take three quarts of red raspberries and put in to a stone jar; add three quarts of good cider vinegar; allow them to stand over night. Put into a jelly bag and squeeze out all the juice, to this add three quarts more of hfe berries, and allow to stand some length of time. Put this through the jelly bag; get out all the juice possible; to each pint of the juice add one pound of white sugar; boil till the sugar is all dissolved; bottle and cork while hot.

PREPARING EGGS.—Few people understand how to cook eggs, even in the plainest manner. They can be fried until almost as tough as leather, or may be made a tender dish. Even the boiled egg and the omelet are often spoiled in the process of cooking. We often hear it said that a cook does not know enough to make soup or cook an egg, while in fact these two accomplishments should be classed among the hardest to do properly and well.

FOR BREAKFAST.—Eggs can be used as a delicate breakfast for the sick, if nicely boiled and properly served; but for this use they should be fresh-laid eggs; from properly-fed hens. If the hens that laid the eggs have been eating onions or garlic or kerosene in their food these will taint the eggs, and make them fully as disagreeable in taste as a bad egg. It is quite easy to tell whether an egg is fresh or stale by breaking the shell and turning the contents into a saucer; if fresh, the yolk will stand up round and plump like a ball. As an egg becomes older, the yolk begins to flatten and spread out, until it will almost settle flat on the white as it floats about in the saucer.

FOR BREAKFAST. the meat omelet may be quickly made; any kind cold cooked meat will do, whether beef, veal ham or chicken. The meat must be chopped very fine, so as to separate and not cling together. Beat well as many eggs as you wish for the omelet whip the yolk and white well together; stir in the meat before cooking. You can flavor with some onion, garlic or sage to your liking, or have it plain. Use much or little meat as you prefer.

FOR LUNCHEON.—The baked omelet is a very nice dish. Beat thoroughly three eggs in a bowl, add three full spoonfuls of sugar in the yolks, also one-half a teaspoonful of vanilla or lemon extract as preferred; whip both the yolks and whites as stiff and dry as possible. Stir the white gently through the yellow. Put into a buttered baking pan or dish, and cook for ten or twelve minutes in a moderately hot oven; serve as soon as finished, for it will soon lose its light fluffy appearance as it cools.

FOR DINNER.—Boil as many eggs as you will need; remove the shells, cut the white carefully from the yolk in to halves, lengthwise is the best; keep each pair together, take the yolks and mash them fine, mix one spoonful of butter to each six eggs; some finely chopped ham, tongue or chicken as preferred; flavor with onion juice or to the taste; season with salt, pepper, mustard or cayenne pepper as you prefer. Chopped parsley may be desired by some. Fill the whites with the yolks thus prepared; smooth them even, so they will go together nicely and not show they had been separated. Spread the surplus yolk in the bottom of a dish and lay the eggs upon it. Cover with a white sauce or chicken gravy; sprinkle some crumbs of cheese crackers on top and bake in the oven till the crumbs are nicely browned. Serve as a vegetable.

FOR SALAD.—Deviled eggs may be served. Take as many hard-boiled eggs as are needed; remove the shells, cut them in two, crosswise; remove the yolks and mix with vinegar, pepper, salt and mustard to taste. Pour the yolk back into the white as full as full as the mixture will make them; place the halves among lettuce leaves in a salad dish and serve.

FOR SUPPER.—Mushrooms and eggs may be transformed into an attractive dish. Cook two tablespoonfuls of mushrooms, one tablespoonful of chopped onions and two tablespoonfuls of butter for five minutes, add gradually one tablespoonful of flour and one cupful of milk and mushroom juice, equal parts, season with one-half teaspoonful of salt, one quarter teaspoonful of cayenne pepper; remove the shells from six hard-boiled eggs while hot. Cut the white into rings, the yolks into squares, the ends of the white and yolk cut into small pieces. Cook together and turn into a platter, garnished with parsley. Save some of the white rings to garnish the top. Serve hot.

Boil a dozen eggs for 20 minutes, remove the shells while hot, cut into halves, place in a vegetable dish and pour over them a white sauce made of flour and drawn butter, the same as is used for asparagus. White sauce can be made of one pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two heaping tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half a salt spoonful of pepper, one-half a salt spoonful of onion, one-half a salt spoonful of milk, and one-half a salt spoonful of butter.

and allow it to thicken; when finished add salt to suit the taste.

Poached eggs and tomato sauce make a pleasant dish. Poach as many eggs as are needed; place upon a hot platter; cover with tomato sauce, sprinkle over with a little fine parsley and cheese; put into the oven for a few minutes. When preferred, toast may be used under the eggs, and should be very hot when served.

LIVING ON "AN ABANDONED FARM."

The Servant Question, Marketing, Means of Transportation, and other Practical Matters.

William Henry Bishop tells in the October Century of his fortunes in a new country home.

I shall touch briefly on the practical aspects of the case. I had feared at first to have to spend half my time hurrying to the market-town to provision the family, and I thought it worth doing even then. But, quite to the contrary, the housekeeping has proved to be even easier than in town. This is much due to the daily stage. Though a lumbering, slow conveyance for travel or for bringing out one's friends to the farm, it is a capital resource for procuring supplies. We signal it by means of a blue placard swung out of the window, and it stops under our maple-trees by seven in the morning. The amiable takes a prepared list, and he is back again before noon, bringing say, meat from the butcher's—and of excellent quality, too, even by town standards—fruit and confectionery, a new broom, and some cotton cloth for the servant, embroidery-thread for the mistress, light lumber and cans of paint for this deponent, and a drum for the son of the house. For such miscellaneous shopping his own charge is about ten cents. The stage-driver is the Mercury, the special providence, of the dwellers all along his line. An old woman awaits to give him huckleberries to sell, another hands up an old saucepan to be soldered. The complete history of one of his trips would make an interesting and amusing compendium of rural existence. Besides this resource, other butchers, bakers, fish-men, and fruit-men, too, drive by on certain days of the week, jingle their little bells at our door, and await our pleasure.

The servant question is often alleged as one of the drawbacks to a country life, but here again, judging from our experience and observations we are obliged to think the dread is exaggerated. Our own domestic has followed our fortunes throughout. "Nora" has plenty of merits, to which I here gladly pay tribute, but she cannot be greatly different from her kind, and yet, so far from being discontented or "lonesome," she shows and declares great satisfaction with the new life and with the respite from that of the city. She like to compare the way things are done here with that of her farm-house home in Ireland (to the great advantage of the latter). It is a pleasure to see Nora cruising down the shrubbery popping ripe raspberries into her mouth, or sitting in the orchard with her lap full of ripe apples; and if the kitchen fire were not so hot,—though the next time I am going to try one of the patent stoves that go with oil or gasolene,—she would get as much benefit out of it all as the rest of us. Thus far an epidemic of good health has prevailed among us all, and we have had no doctor's bills to pay.

Our experiment has been an unmistakable success; the life is agreeable, it is healthy, and it is cheap. You have noticed that the one conclusion reached by nearly all persons who have passed their summer at the usual boarding-house, hotel or hired cottage is that they never want to go to that place again. We do not say that and we do not think it. We keep the farm much in mind in the winter time, we talk it over with pleasure, we recall how we used to watch the birds there, and the fireflies, and those larger fireflies, the stars, and we are anxious to get back at the earliest moment.

Such is what one of the improved methods of transportation has done for us. As they become more common they must influence immensely the filling up of the farms with summer residents. Perhaps, indeed, the next step may be a general scramble for these farms, and the call upon those who have not ready.

the farm, and the call upon those who have not ready. The very practical influence upon whatever legislation will take place. Mr. Dodd's conclusions are: "It has been suggested that attempts upon the life of the President and other high officials be made treason. This would be impossible without an amendment to the Constitution. It is fortunately not necessary to wait for uniform State legislation, nor an amendment of the Federal Constitution in order to take steps which might prove efficacious against the hideous crime of anarchy. "There is in the Government of the United States an inherent power to deal practically with anarchy. "This power is clear when anarchists assault or threaten to assault officials of the Government in the discharge of the official duties. "Congress certainly has power, if severe laws are necessary, to make all attempts upon the life of the President of the United States, or other high officials, including all conspiracies of a like nature, punishable with death. It also has power to prevent the importation into the United States of persons known to hold anarchistic sentiments, whose presence would be dangerous to our peace and security. "The present emergency demands Federal rather than State legislation, and need not await the delay and uncertainty of Constitutional amendment."

Little is thought and less is known by the average man concerning the lives and aims of the 400,000 men and boys who delve under the surface of the earth in places of darkness and danger, where hardly a day goes by without recording the death by falls of rock, coal or slate of more than one unfortunate miner. An article on this subject at once impartial and vitally interesting is contributed to the Cosmopolitan for October by John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, whom every one recalls as the man who organized the miners and carried through to a successful termination the great anthracite strike of 1900.

General Jackson's Defeat of the British at New Orleans.

He had attacked the British advance in the night of their arrival (December 23d,) on the Mississippi, had resisted their counter-attack on the 28th, had dismounted their guns and demolished their batteries by the superior accuracy of his fire, when they opened an artillery duel on January 1st; and when they rashly attacked his intrenchments across an open field on January 8, his backwoods riflemen mowed them down at less than two hundred yards as the mower cuts the grass. Of four major generals present two, including Pakenham, were killed and a third wounded. In one regiment 505 were killed or wounded out of a total of 775. The losses of the whole command were 2,036 out of 6,000 engaged. Jackson lost only eight killed and thirteen wounded on his own side of the river, and counting the losses in Morgan's command on the west bank the aggregate was only seventy-one. It is hard to find in military annals a record of a defeat so complete, under such unfavorable circumstances. On the British side, were regular troops, the veterans of Salamanca, Badajos, and Ciudad Rodrigo, commanded by officers especially selected for their skill and experience in actual war; while Jackson commanded the most picturesque and motley aggregation ever brought together; two regiments of regulars, two brigades of backwoodsmen, forming the militia of Kentucky and Tennessee, a battalion of free negroes, a detachment of Lafitte's pirates, a squad of French soldiers who had served under Napoleon, a battalion of San Domingans another of Louisiana creoles, some sailors; and Jackson towering above them all, riding the whirlwind, and "by the Eternal" bringing order out of chaos. Nothing was lacking to heighten the dramatic effect, and in these three weeks Jackson gained a popularity among the masses of his countrymen which no error or indiscretion during the subsequent twenty two years of his public life could ever shake or diminish. He remained in command at New Orleans after the close of the war, being retained in the army in the reduction of 1815 as one of the two major-generals—From "The United States Army," by GEN. F. V. GREENE, in the October Scribner's

An article of unusual value on the measures which may be taken against anarchists and their attempts on the life of the President of the United States opens the North American Review for October, under the title of "Congress and Anarchy: A Suggestion." The author is Mr. Samuel C. T. Dodd, who is General Solicitor of the Standard Oil Company and has for twenty years in that capacity made a study of the different State laws of this country. His judgement is that it is practically impossible either to secure uniformity of action from all the States of the Union, or to procure an amendment to the Constitution to bring about this legislation. There is probably no higher living authority on such subjects, and his conclusion therefore of great importance.

Mr. Dodd's conclusions are: "It has been suggested that attempts upon the life of the President and other high officials be made treason. This would be impossible without an amendment to the Constitution. It is fortunately not necessary to wait for uniform State legislation, nor an amendment of the Federal Constitution in order to take steps which might prove efficacious against the hideous crime of anarchy. "There is in the Government of the United States an inherent power to deal practically with anarchy. "This power is clear when anarchists assault or threaten to assault officials of the Government in the discharge of the official duties. "Congress certainly has power, if severe laws are necessary, to make all attempts upon the life of the President of the United States, or other high officials, including all conspiracies of a like nature, punishable with death. It also has power to prevent the importation into the United States of persons known to hold anarchistic sentiments, whose presence would be dangerous to our peace and security. 25th Michigan Volunteers' Eleventh Reunion

The eleventh annual reunion of the 25th Michigan Volunteers was a grand success in every respect. The boys began to arrive in town Wednesday of last week and by the hour set for the Campfire that evening over sixty members of the gallant 25th were on hand to greet their old comrades some of whom they had not seen for years. The Campfire was held at the Presbyterian church and long before the hour appointed the church was well crowded. At half past seven the members of the regiment "fell in" at the Post headquarters and preceded by a file and drum corps marched to the church and filled the seats reserved for them. President Wm. Conradt called the campfire to order and the following program was rendered.

Instrumental, Organ and Clarinet, DR. GARLAND and ARLEN CLARK. Song, America, by all. Prayer, REV. W. J. DOUGLASS. Solo and Quartette, Greeting, Glee Club. Address of Welcome, REV. W. J. DOUGLASS. Response, BISHOP ANDREWS of Three Rivers. Instrumental Music, CONRAD FAMILY. Quartette, Reunion Song, Glee Club. Speech, A. A. WORTHINGTON. Solo and Quartette, The Flags that we captured are ours, GLEE CLUB. Recitation, MISS LURA KELLER. Solo and Chorus, We drank from the same Canteen, GLEE CLUB. Speech, W. JENNINGS of Benton Harbor. Solo, Campfire, MRS. E. A. BAIRD. Speech, REV. C. E. MARVIN. Solo, When you and I were Soldier Boys, E. A. BAIRD. Address, DR. R. HENDERSON. Instrumental Music, CONRAD FAMILY. 5 minute talks from Comrades present.

The addresses were all excellent and were listened to with close attention by both comrades and audience. Rev. W. J. Douglass paid a glowing tribute to the bravery of the regiment, and related an incident which occurred one 4th of July morning when Col. Moore and five companies of the old regiment kept at bay and repulsed three thousand of Morgan's Raiders. Mr. Douglass in fitting words welcomed the comrades to Buchanan. The response of Bishop E. Andrews of Three Rivers was an able and appropriate address and testified to the manner in which the "boys" had appreciated their treatment by the citizens. Attorney A. A. Worthington delivered an eloquent address touching on the patriotic phases of the reunion, and the need of instilling in the minds of the young the true spirit of patriotism. Comrade M. W. Jennings of Benton Harbor made a brief but thrilling address, paying a touching tribute to the part played during the war by the women, the wife, mother, sister or sweetheart of the soldier. Mr. Marvin made a very brief address but it was full of good things and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Dr. R. Henderson gave a reminiscent account of the battle of Ball's Bluff of which he was an eye witness being then a lad of 13 years and residing at Leesburg, Va. The genial doctor showed that he is not losing any of his powers of description and his talk was greatly enjoyed. Five minute talks were given by Comrades Harry Couse, C. C. Phillips, B. J. Van Raalte, Wm. Mears, J. Gilchrist, Pat. E. O'Brien, E. P. Chadwick, David Washburn, Capt. John Handy. After the talks by the Comrades the entire audience rose and joined in singing the thrilling chorus of "Marching through Georgia" the benediction being pronounced by Rev. J. R. Neirgarth.

The interior of the church was handsomely decorated with palms and flowers, American flags being draped artistically about the choir gallery and platform, the desk being draped with the flag given Co. K. by the ladies of Buchanan when they started for the front forty years ago. A general social hand shaking time was indulged in by the Comrades and an adjournment was made until the business meeting at eight o'clock Thursday morning.

Thursday morning at 8 o'clock President Conradt called the business meeting to order at the Presbyterian church with a goodly number present. The report of treasurer Bishop E. Andrews of Three Rivers, showing a balance of $29.55 was read, accepted and placed on file, the funds being turned over to his successor, Mr. Solomon Wyrick of Buchanan. The roll was called by companies and the following deaths were reported:

Co. C., Lodo C. Leeds, Dallas, Tex. Co. D., Jasper N. Shaw, Athens, Mich. Co. E., Lieut. B. F. Travis, Paul R. Baldy Co. H., Wm. Bennett

It was decided to hold the next reunion at Schoolcraft, and Phil. D. Miller of that place was elected president and authorized to appoint his own Secretary and Treasurer.

Resolved, That the members of the 25th Michigan Volunteers present at this reunion do hereby send our hearty greetings to those members who are unable to attend this reunion, and especially to Lieut. Col. Jesse Moore, Loveridge, of Coldwater, and Mrs. Eli Orcutt, of Kalamazoo, and be it also Resolved, That we tender our hearty and sincere thanks to the citizens of Buchanan for the open handed hospitality they have displayed, and to the speakers, singers, musicians, and all who participated in making our campfire so delightful and pleasing a feature of the reunion.

A collection was taken toward defraying reunion expenses amounting to $18.25, after which the meeting was adjourned.

The comrades then went down to Lee & Porter's Axle works and were shown through the shop being greatly pleased with their inspection and then viewed the improvements being put in on the other side of the river at the power house.

Promptly at twelve o'clock the comrades assembled at Post Headquarters and preceded by the drum corps marched to the church where the ladies had prepared a fine dinner in the basement of the church, and quickly fell to work at discussing their bountiful fare which was enjoyed thoroughly by over one hundred who partook. After dinner the comrades visited and exchanged reminiscences until their trains left for home and the reunion had passed into history, Buchanan feeling proud to have entertained so fine a body of men as the members of the 25th Michigan showed themselves to be.

Letters of regret were received from the following comrades:

You wouldn't pay for a dozen oranges and accept half a dozen. Yet you pay for a pound of coffee and accept half a pound! Suppose you look at it in this way:—You buy coffee for its flavor and aroma. Roasted coffee parts very quickly with both when exposed to the air. It is possible for a pound of coffee to lose one-half its strength. It is then of no more value than half a pound of fresh coffee.

When you buy exposed coffee from a bin it has lost more or less of its virtue. You don't get it all! It is just as if you had bought pears and some one had bitten a piece from each pear.

Now, to show you how much you have been losing, take home to-day a one or two-pound airtight can of

BUCHANAN RECORD.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1901

LOCAL NOTES

The Monday Club meets with Mrs. Geo Howard next Monday afternoon.

Mr. Wm. Mrohs has moved to Laporte, Ind., at which place he will make his home.

Messrs. Aaron Miller & Son have put in a cement walk in front of J. C. Rehm's Racket store.

The street committee have put in several cement crosswalks in various parts of town the past week.

Mr. Chas. Myler has discontinued his photograph gallery at New Carlisle, moving his effects to Buchanan on Monday.

A cement walk has been put down in front of the residences of Messrs. Frank Steiner and A. D. Pierce, on Lake street.

The Michigan Central rate of $5.50 to Buffalo and return is a great concession and many of our people are taking advantage of this rate.

Elson & Co. sent a dray load of materials to Galien Saturday for use in their branch photograph gallery and millinery store at that place.

The concluding article of the "Northland" series is unavoidably crowded out this week by a press of other matter, and will appear in next week's issue.

Great Commander N. S. Boynton will address a meeting of the Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees at Bell Opera House, Benton Harbor, Thursday evening, October 10.

Mr. F. A. Stryker of the River street greenhouses attended the fair at Berrien Springs, making a very fine floral exhibit and received many compliments for his flowers.

At Grand Rapids Tuesday, Cashier Chas. A. Johnson of the wrecked First National Bank of Niles, was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor in the House of Corrections at Detroit.

Miss Flora Kays, the reader and impersonator, who gave a very successful entertainment in the M. E. church last year, will again appear in the same church Friday evening, Oct. 18.

The Bethany class of the Methodist church met Wednesday evening at the home of their teacher, Mr. A. A. Worthington, and enjoyed a progressive crokinole party, after which refreshments were served, all present having a royal good time.

The RECORD inaugurates a new department this week. It is called "Our Religious Corner," and is conducted by the Pastors' Association of Buchanan. The matter will be well and carefully edited and will prove very interesting reading.

The contractor who has charge of the creamery plant is hard at work on the building, the foundation being in and the frame work rapidly approaching completion. Work on the plant will be rushed and it will be put in operation at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. H. E. Bradley has purchased a photograph gallery at Fort Wayne, Ind., and is now located in that city. Mrs. Bradley will pack up their household goods and move to Fort Wayne in a few days. The RECORD trusts Mr. Bradley will be very successful in his new field.

Mr. Fred R. Jones of Brooklyn, Iowa is canvassing among the farmers who reside in this neighborhood in the interest of establishing private telephone lines leading into the town. The farmer buys his phone outright and after the same is installed has nothing further to pay except to keep the line in repair. The plan has been tried extensively in Iowa and has given excellent satisfaction seeming to solve the question of cheap phones for the farmers.

Mr. W. A. Conrad of Buchanan township is a candidate for the position of Country School Examiner. Mr. Conrad is a graduate of the Buchanan High School, and is at present principal of the Bridgeman Public Schools. He is an earnest student and is eminently fitted to fill the duties of the position to which he aspires. Should he receive the election THE RECORD unhesitatingly expresses the belief that Mr. Conrad will prove a very capable and conscientious examiner.

A crowd of ladies went to Niles last Friday to take dinner with Mrs. Barnore.

Mr. Dan Robe of Galien, has charge of the Michigan Central telegraph office during Mrs. Godfrey's absence.

The farm house of George Godfrey who lives about six miles north of town near the Grange hall, was burned to the ground Wednesday morning. Loss was almost total. The cause of the fire could not be ascertained.

The RECORD is about twelve hours late this week owing to a "burn out" on the wires of the Electric power plant which furnishes us with power. The wires crossing the river burned off and made an extremely difficult task to repair.

During the Baird party, while the guests were indoors, some miscreant cut the harnesses of several rigs which were hitched near by, and several parties had narrow escapes from serious accident. Such pranks have no element of fun in them, and the perpetrators should be severely dealt with if found out.

Messrs Richards & Emerson are busily engaged in remodeling the Trenbeth building which they recently purchased. A new front will be put in and the door moved to the west side giving a handsome large show window, a gallery will be put in on the store floor and a heater put in. When completed this hustling firm will be as nicely located as any firm in town.

Mr. O. H. Williams postmaster at Dayton, died suddenly last Wednesday night about midnight from a hemorrhage. He had retired feeling as well as usual but was taken with the hemorrhage about eleven o'clock. Dr. Peck was called and responded once but before he arrived Mr. Williams was dead. Richards & Emerson prepared the remains for interment which took place at his old home near Kalamazoo.

The marriage of Mr. Clayton M. Niles and Miss Margaret Storm was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents at Benton Harbor Monday evening, Rev. W. J. Cady performing the ceremony. Those present from Buchanan were Mr. and Mrs. I. L. H. Dodd, Robt L. Dodd, Misses Bessie Dee Rose and Cora Jean Earle. The young people went directly to their new home in Benton Harbor, which they had prepared all ready for housekeeping and are very pleasantly located. The RECORD and their host of Buchanan friends extend congratulations.

On Tuesday the G. A. R. and ladies gave a party at the home of their president, Mrs. E. A. Baird in honor of her fiftieth birthday. Their home was beautifully decorated in the national colors showing their patriotism as they always do in their remarks and songs before the people. A fine program was rendered by several of our leading musicians. A jolly good time was enjoyed by all present. About seventy-five partook of the bountiful repast served by the Circle Ladies. Several fine pieces of china and a beautiful set of dishes were presented to their president.

Short Talks on Advertising

By Charles Austin Bates.

Some way or other, it always happens that the judicious advertiser succeeds. Judicious means many things. Some men better never advertise. Some things better never be advertised. Men who are not honest—who do not keep their promises—whose advertisements mislead, and whose stores disappoint—they had better let advertising alone.

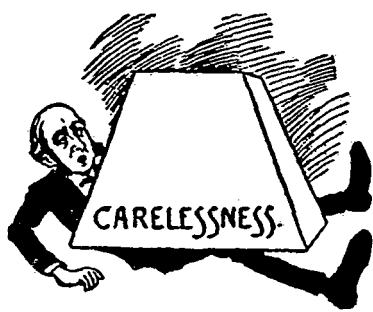

"He never expects to sell to the same man twice."

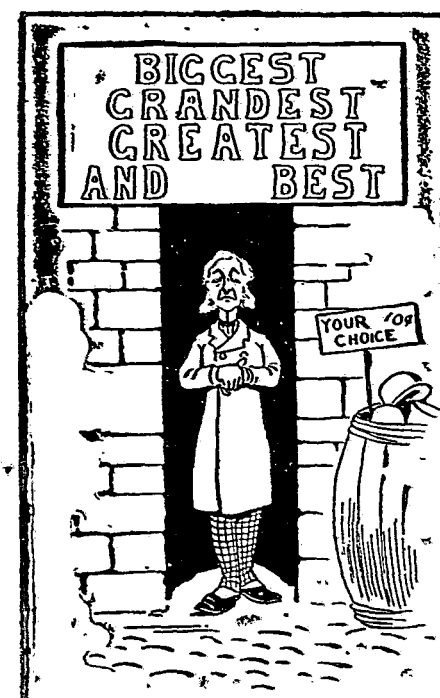

Now it wouldn't pay that man to advertise, and he knows it, and he doesn't advertise. But a fairly honest business, conducted by a man who keeps pretty close to the letter of truth, it will pay to advertise.

Most business men are careless in their statements. They have become so used to writing "biggest," "grandest," "greatest," "best," that they can only think in superlatives. They mean to be honest—probably are.

They are merely careless, and failure is the price of carelessness in advertising. Maybe not absolute failure, but something very short of success.

"Failure is the price of carelessness."

"They can only think in superlatives."

Every advertisement should have careful consideration. All the discrepancies should be eliminated. No careless statements should be allowed. If you can't take time to attend to your advertising carefully better cut it down. Cut off the parasites. Cut off novelties, programmes. Cut off the paper to whom you "give a hundred, just to get rid of it—to keep it quiet." Cut off the paper that is too cheap to be good.

A good advertisement in the best paper will do more good—more in proportion to price—than anything else you can do. There is always a best paper in town.

A good advertisement of goods in a good paper will always pay. Always.

POULTRY

NOTES FOR OCTOBER

Preparing for the Winter.

After all of our warnings, there is none of our readers who should have an unclean hen-house. If there are any who have, however, they should at once proceed and put it in as comfortable a condition as their own living quarters for the winter. A hen house that is thoroughly clean and free from insects is ready for the hens; but a filthy dirty house is never ready for them, nor they for it. Nothing but absolute necessity will induce a hen to live in the dirt; she will select the highest available perch for a roosting place; her instinct leads her to do so, and so avoid danger.

All those of poor quality and the surplus cockerels should be culled out and kept separate from the others. It is best to fatten and market them before cold weather, unless handling them for the winter market is thoroughly understood.

Hens deprived of green foods will not lay as well as when their needs in this direction are attended to. All the turnips, beets, carrots and roots of all kinds, large or small, should be saved and given to them. These vegetables and herbs are good for poultry, cows and hogs; they are a good substitute for green food for hens. Peelings of potatoes, turnips and vegetables of all kinds, including apple peelings, should be saved for the poultry. Cut up fine and boiled and mixed with mashed feed for the fowls, this furnishes them a splendid food. Such savings will be worth a dollar a bushel this winter, and will do the hens than they could the hogs if fed to them.

Let the corn be fed to the hogs, so as to fatten and grow them into market as quickly as possible. Let the wheat, oats, barley and buckwheat, with the peelings and waste, properly prepared, as directed above, be given to the hens. This will bring good results from both. While feed is so high in price, if properly handled, profit will come from both.

The hens that finish their moult first should prove early winter layers. As fast as they complete their covering of new feathers, they should be put into colonies of 25 or 30 each, and then fed for eggs. They should not be pushed too hard at first, to avoid their taking on too much fat, which would retard their laying. Good judgment is required in caring for them.

To begin right, it is necessary that the hens be made to hunt in the straw and sand or earth floor for all their grain. Plenty of exercise will make them lay, because it keeps them busy, thin and vigorous; the extra exertion keeps down the influence of fat-forming portions of the food, while the gained vigor is employed in composing the eggs from the egg-forming portions of the food consumed; thus are utilized all the properties of their food to the best advantage.

The colony plan of house for laying hens, is considerably written about at present. Such houses are placed in a good sized yard, having a division fence from the rear end of the house, either way to dividing line fence. In this way the fowls can run in the front lot by passing in and out through the door under the window, by closing this door and opening one of the same size in the rear, they can have the run of the other yard. In this way they are removed from one yard, which permits the grass to grow in it while they are in the other.

The size of the yards must be governed by the land that can be devoted to their use. If fifty fowls can have one-fourth of an acre devoted to their use in this way, they should give the best results, providing they are well cared for and properly provided with all that is needed for the work expected of them. It is probable that a lot of hens so cared for will give better returns than if allowed full freedom of the farm. It is simply a question of proper attention to their wants, under such conditions, to gain the fullest success in a profitable egg yield. If their surroundings are kept in good condition, and they are well and properly supplied with food, water, green food, under the above rules, they must do the very best.

Poultry cannot do their best if fed on grain exclusively. They demand a mixed ration of grain, animal and vegetable foods. They can do no better on corn alone than would we on cornbread only for food. If we were to use good, every day sense, and see to it that they have as near their natural diet as it is possible to have the whole year round; and as much a variety as can be given them, within the limit of reason, they will lay quite as well in winter as in summer when properly housed, very extreme weather excepted.

When possible, they should be given six square feet in room space, to each fowl, within the house. This will call for a house 10 by 30 for 50 hens; such a house to be divided into two apartments so that 25 may live in each apartment. More room would be better, and they can do with less; but it is not safe to keep more than 40 hens in a house 10 by 15 feet, and this number will not do well in such confined quarters if they are shut inside during the day when the weather is bad, and they will not do well if turned out to face the elements. They should have room enough within the house to provide plenty of floor space for them to hunt and dig all day long without crowding each other. If all these needs are complied with, less trouble will be encountered.

It is said that New-Yorkers eat 2,160,000

eggs every day. Notwithstanding that the United States produces 10,000,000,000 eggs yearly, we import 15,000,000 dozen annually from Canada, Spain, Italy and even China to help fill the demand. In addition to this it is asserted that the average egg production of all our hens is not to exceed three dozen per hen. If this is true, we need only improve in our care and surrounding for the hens we have, to increase our average to six dozen for each hen to have enough income to build another New York in a few years.

The one thing needed to gain the proper egg yield all along the line is better care of all poultry. Industry, thrift and economy will gain almost any result if persisted in. Talk is cheap, and success with poultry only comes as the result of absolute regard for their proper attention. They must be as carefully looked after as the factory engine or the locomotive; their mechanism is as delicate as the finest watch, and while they will undergo much that counts against their best results and do fairly well, when neglected or poorly provided for they fail to give full results.

Feeding Green Cut Bone

I would like to give, for the benefit of those interested, my experience in feeding bone. I kept a flock of 40 Plymouth Rock hens, and have given considerable time to chicken raising in a small way, with varying success.

Two years ago I purchased a "green bone cutter," then made arrangements with my butcher to furnish me with green bone, so I could grind twice a week. After making many careful experiments, I find that I have the best results from feeding the green bone dry twice a week, and about five ounces at a time. I give the bone in the morning, then follow in about two hours with a light feed of mixed wheat and buckwheat, scattered in chaff, to make the poultry scratch it out. In cold weather, I give warm feed at noon.

William McKinley.

By Henry Litchfield West in the October Forum.

President McKinley's heart was big with love and kindness. Out of the fulness of his soul he advocated appropriations from the National Treasury for the care of the graves of Confederate soldiers. I happened to be by his side when, in Atlanta, he delivered the speech making this suggestion; and, at its conclusion I listened with the deepest interest while he told me how he had been impressed, during a visit to Fredericksburg, Virginia, with the burden which the care of Confederate cemeteries entailed upon a devoted few, while the nation maintained the last resting-places of the Union soldiers. He believed that, this war was long enough past to make it possible to begin to wipe out the distinctions between the dead. By the side of this incident I place in my memory an interview which I had with the President in the White House shortly after the close of the war with Spain.

A friend of mine, an editor of a London newspaper, desired to pay his respects to Mr. McKinley, and an audience was quickly arranged. When we were in the President's presence, the conversation speedily turned to the war and its momentous results. To Mr. McKinley, however, the victories on land and sea and the acquisition of territory were as nothing compared with the fact under God, to quote his reverential words, the barriers of sectionalism had finally and completely disappeared during his administration. As he talked he became eloquent. His eulogy of our great and united nation, delivered to an audience of two persons, was wonderfully impressive and soul-stirring.

Again when I sat with him in his home a few weeks ago and we discussed the memorable trip to the Pacific coast, he reiterated the same thought, and expressed his pleasure at the warm and cordial welcome which the South had accorded him. His heart was literally big enough to take in the entire nation; and yet it was not too big to beat in sympathy with the individual. I remember, for instance, that on the day when we started upon our journey to California, the president personally visited every car in the train in order to assure himself of the comfort of his fellow-travellers. "We must all be patient and forbearing with each other," said he, "for we have a long tedious journey before us." It was simply the spontaneous expression of a thoughtful and kindly heart.

It was president McKinley's fortune to control the destinies of the country during four momentous years. How well he performed that tremendous task, how bravely and how calmly he met all the enormous responsibilities, and how greatly he endeared himself to the people are now matters of history. When the full narrative of his administration comes to be written, with all its secret workings revealed, the memory of the President will be even more radiant than now. His fame will not lose luster as the years pass.

Written for the Record.
One of the most gratifying features of the Autumnal Sunday School Convention, held at the Evangelical church on Portage Prairie last week, was the result of an expression taken Sunday evening of the audience as to the number that attended Sunday School. Brother Niergarth requested all that did not attend Sunday School to rise to their feet. Not one in that large assembly stood up. Brother Niergarth could hardly believe the expression to be a true one. Said he: "All you people attend Sunday School?" Those well acquainted with the people gathered there that night said they believed it to be a true expression of Sunday School attendance.

What a grand record of religious standing that is for any community. Portage Prairie not excepted. There are but few, if any, sections of country on earth where such an expression from an audience could be taken with the same result. Neither is there a portion of country in all the world populated by a class of people more hospitable, industrious, frugal and faithful to their religious convictions than those that have dotted that beautiful prairie with homes of beauty and plenty.

As I sat among them that beautiful Sunday evening, noting the many well-known faces around me, I said to myself and others, take this church as a starting point, we would have to go farther in any direction to find a disreputable person or family than from any other point I know of on earth.

Surely that church spire that rises in their midst, reflecting the first shimmerings of the morning sun, beautifying the land and gladdening the heart of that people whose hands raised it heavenward, was not raised in vain. May the threadings of song, joy, love, prosperity, religious unity and christian love of that happy people go on with a song that shall never cease until they reach the kingdom of God, there to go out no more forever.

An Old Timer Here.

One whose face was familiar to us in the days of Auld Lang Syne was a caller at the Star office Tuesday, in the person of B. D. Harper, a printer who came here in 1856 and acted as foreman in the Jeffersonian office, the first democratic paper in Lake county. In 1860 he went to work for Wheeler & Summers in the Register office, and later when Col. Wheeler had gone into the army bought a half interest with A. E. Beattie, and the firm was Harper & Beattie for some time. Mr. Harper left here in the sixties and located at Buchanan, Michigan, where he has since lived, and in the meantime, 34 years, has been back here three times. He is now 63 years old and the winter frosts have taken away his youthful appearance. His poor health compelled him to cease work four years ago.—Lake Co. Star.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at one druggist a cure for that disease which has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thoroughly destroying the foundations of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Items Which Are of Special Interest to Our Readers.

Happenings Throughout the State Received by Telegraph and Put in Type.

Sunfield, Mich., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Ansel Green, of Sebeva township, was attacked by hogs and so frightfully mangled she will die. Mrs. Green was hunting for eggs in the barnyard when three hogs suddenly turned upon her and knocked her down. The animals apparently became frenzied and began to tear at the woman's arms and body. Mrs. Green became unconscious, and then the hogs moved away. When she regained consciousness Mrs. Green managed to get to her feet and started to run for the gate. She had taken only a few steps when she was again attacked and knocked down.

Help Came Too Late.

Her screams finally brought help and the hogs were driven away by her son. The flesh was stripped from Mrs. Green's right arm and it had to be amputated. Her left arm and hand were also terribly torn. One side of her face was torn to shreds. The unfortunate woman's body was also shockingly mutilated. There is no hope of her recovery. Mrs. Benjamin Probasco, a sister of Mrs. Green, in going to the latter's bedside, was thrown from a buggy and seriously injured.

DISPUTE OVER WU TING FANG.

Chinese Diplomat Gets Anger at Students at Loggerheads.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 4.—The "Chinese question" in all its intricacies has penetrated even to inland Ann Arbor and is convulsing the student body just now with its latest developments. Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister at Washington, is the direct cause of a mix-up between the Students' Lecture association and Good Government club. The managers of each of these institutions claim that Minister Wu will appear under its auspices.

Bold placards issued by the warring factions confront the students at every available spot on the campus and in the university buildings, announcing Wu's appearance. Officers of the respective associations refuse to speak as they pass by, and war to the knife is on. In the meanwhile Mr. Wu is non-committal.

Menominee, Mich., Oct. 4.—A. V. Freeman, arrested at the instance of his former employers, Raber & Watson, of Chicago, on a charge of embezzling $20,000, was given a preliminary hearing Wednesday and waived examination. He was bound over to the November term of the circuit court under $5,000 bonds. Freeman secured bonds, but was rearrested on a second charge and required to give an additional bond of $3,500, which he did not obtain.

FATAL FALL OF A COUPLE

Breaking of a Railing Causes Them to Plunge Down Forty Feet.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Locked in a close embrace Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reising fell from a third-story porch of their residence Sunday, and both were probably fatally injured. Reising's objection to dressing up for Sunday was the indirect cause of the accident. His wife insisted that he dress himself in his best clothes, and his refusal provoked a struggle in which the couple brushed against a wooden railing which gives the porch.

The railing broke, precipitating them to the ground, forty feet below. Reising sustained a fracture of the skull, cuts about the head, and internal injuries. Mrs. Reising received internal injuries, severe cuts on the head, and shows symptoms of concussion of the brain.

Can Keep His Toddy in Jugs.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The commissioner of internal revenue rules that a retail liquor dealer who reduces with water a small quantity of whisky—less than five gallons—and mixes it with sugar or other materials, keeping it in a demijohn or other receptacle, merely for his own convenience in filling orders of his customers at the bar, and does not make it a practice to put up the compound in bottles in advance of orders therefor, for sale, is not liable for the special tax as a rectifier.

Looks Like a Double Crime.

New York, Oct. 4.—Otto Pulich and his wife, Emeline, were found dead in bed at their home here. The dead man held a revolver in his hand. There were bullet holes in Mrs. Pulich's head and she had been shot in the mouth. The police believe the man shot his wife and then killed himself. Pulich was 48 years old and his wife 47. He was a dealer in real estate and it is believed that business reverses caused the act.

HE GETS OFF PRETTY CHEAP.

Man Who First Robbed Another of His Wife and Then Killed Him.

Gaylord, Mich., Oct. 7.—On Sept. 8 William Potter was shot and killed at Morrison's camp by Oscar Morey. Last week the judge of the circuit court accepted a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree from the prisoner, and sentenced him to ten years at Jackson. The murder was a brutal affair. Morey had enticed Potter's wife away from him. He went to the camp with the woman and Nathan Brown to get some of Mrs. Potter's things. Morey claims Potter started for him with a club.

There were a few words exchanged between the men, when Morey drew a revolver and shot Potter, the latter dying in a few minutes. Morey and his companions soon ran down and captured Mrs. Potter and Nathan Brown are in jail charged with being accessories to the murder. Morey formerly lived at Lapeer.

EASY WAY TO SETTLE A ROW.

Quarrel With a Housekeeper Ends With a Wedding Ceremony.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 5.—Philip Edsall, 80 years old, and Mrs. Emily Packingham, his junior by 16 years, were married here. It was the third time that Edsall had led a bride to the altar and the fifth matrimonial alliance entered into by Mrs. Packingham. Edsall owns a farm in Monitor township, and for the past eighteen years Mrs. Packingham had kept house for him. The couple became involved in a dispute over wages and consulted a lawyer in this city.

He suggested marriage as a way out of their difficulty, and the couple jumped at the idea. Mrs. Packingham hustled out for a license and a justice quickly made them man and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Edsall smiled at each other when the ceremony was over, and seemed to think that they had just done the right caper.

Had a Frightfully Narrow Escape.

Cheboygan, Mich., Oct. 7.—James Bell, son of Dr. J. W. Bell, of Indian River, met with an accident which came within a hair's breadth of proving fatal at Park's mill, Rondo. The mill was shutting down and Bell, thinking the saw had ceased to revolve, stooped upon the table to adjust some part of the machinery. The saw was still revolving, however, and caught him on top of the head, ripping the scalp from the skull from the center of the forehead to the back of the neck and sawing through the bone. The tissues over the brain were torn nearly the whole length of the saw cut, but the brain was not injured. Bell will probably recover.

Edmore, Mich., Oct. 5.—Fire that started from a gasoline engine in Skarriff's & Sacks' meat market at 4 p. m. yesterday destroyed it and adjoining buildings occupied by the postoffice, Edmore Journal, Cole's bicycle shop and also the town hall, before the flames were checked. GREAT STRIKE THREATENED Move That Would Give Endless Trouble in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—J. H. Moloney, fourth vice president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, yesterday declared that there was a prospect of the linenmen of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois being called out in sympathy with the striking linenmen of Chicago and Cleveland, O.

Moloney said: "If the Chicago Telephone company proves obdurate the international organization will call out the men in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. 'The propriety of taking this action was admitted at a recent meeting of international officers. I cannot say when the general strike will be called, except that it will be soon unless the employers change front. We have concluded that it is about time to make a decided stand, and when we do the telephone service of the states mentioned will not amount to much.'
