TWO DAYS FOR WELLS

And Still on the Stand When the Schley Court of Inquiry Adjourned.

TESTIMONY IS NOT SENSATIONAL

Tells of the Date of Receipt of Certain Dispatches—What Schley Admits.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Lieutenant B. W. Wells, Jr., who was the flag lieutenant of Admiral Schley while the latter was in command of the flying squadron, occupied practically the entire time of the Schley court of inquiry yesterday. On his direct examination he continued his narrative of the Cuban campaign, and was under cross-examination for about two and a half hours, largely at the hands of Hanna, whose questions were directed mainly to the dispatches received and sent by Admiral (then Commodore) Schley. While this line of investigation was being exploited Rayner, speaking for Admiral Schley, said that the admiral was willing to admit that he had received the "Dear Schley" letter on the Dupont, which arrived at Cienfuegos on May 22, but he added that no duplicate of this dispatch had ever been received by Admiral Schley.

Two Copies of Message No. 8. He said also that the admiral admitted the receipt of two copies of No. 8 (Admiral Sampson's dispatch), saying that the Spanish fleet was probably at Santiago, and telling Commodore Schley "if satisfied that it [the Spanish fleet] is not at Cienfuegos" to proceed with all dispatch to Santiago, one of these being received by the Hawk May 23 and the other by the Marblehead May 24. During the direct examination Rayner asked the witness relative to the bearing of Commodore Schley, in action and elsewhere, and the witness replied that it was always cool and brave. He also said that when the attack was made on the Colon she was supposed to be lying near the entrance to the harbor, when in reality she was about a mile inside.

Made a Mistake in Indorsing. Hanna interrogated the witness regarding the receipt of the "Dear Schley" letter, and witness admitted that he had indorsed it first as having been received May 24, when it should have been May 22, and had been so indorsed later with a pencil over the indorsement that was incorrect. To a remark by Hanna, implying that the witness' indorsements were not to be depended upon, he said that generally they could be, but that he was not infallible.

That McCalla Memorandum. Hanna put in as testimony dispatches Nos. 5 and 6, both from Admiral Schley, directing a strict blockade at Cienfuegos, and the latter enclosing the McCalla memorandum. The witness was questioned concerning the receipt of more than one copy of the McCalla memoranda, but he maintained that he remembered only one copy, at the same time admitting the possibility of the receipt of another copy.

THE DEPARTURE FROM CIENFUEGOS
Schley Left Twelve Hours Before He Had Intended To.

At Hanna's instance Wells repeated his testimony concerning the departure of the flying squadron from Cienfuegos to Santiago. He said the commodore had made no special communication to him that he meant to take his immediate departure for Santiago, but that he had gotten the impression from letters and dispatches written then by Commodore Schley that it was his purpose to leave the night they did. Hanna then called attention to two letters from the commodore saying that he would not leave Cienfuegos until the next day. The witness said he did not recall writing these letters, but thought he had probably done so. He also thought that there probably were other dispatches leading to his inference that the squadron was to leave that night. "There must have been something else," he said, "because we did leave that night instead of the next day."

Hanna also questioned Lieutenant Wells about the war bulletin received from the Adula while the flying squadron lay off Cienfuegos, saying that white Cerro Gordo was not at Cienfuegos. He said that the document was in the shape of a small hand-bill, and that evidently it had been issued by some newspaper in that vicinity.

Hanna questioned the witness about the bombardment of the Colon on May 31. He asked: "What was the purpose of Commodore Schley in regard to the Colon on May 31?"

The witness replied: "His idea was to go in and fire on her with the larger guns, hoping to get a shot into her at that range to disable her, perhaps. The range was 7,000 or 7,500 yards. That was the distance from the Morro. The Colon appeared to be close to the entrance. Her log, however, showed her to be a mile or 2,000 yards inside the entrance."

Morro. We thought she was near the entrance." Hanna asked a number of questions concerning the Ardois signals used in leaving Cienfuegos, and he stated in reply to an interruption from Rayner that his purpose was to show that notwithstanding the instructions to get away quietly there had been an exhibition of these signals.

In reply to a question by Captain Lemly relative to the beginning of the Santiago engagement Wells said that with the Brooklyn headed as she was, and with the harbor trending as it does, it was natural that the Spanish vessels coming out of the harbor should face the Brooklyn.

Wells was on the stand when the court adjourned for the day.

CHICAGO POSTOFFICE ROBBED.

Burglars Bore Holes Through the Floor and Stole $76,068 in Stamps.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—A sensational robbery which netted the perpetrators $76,068 in stamps, was discovered here when the wholesale stamp department of the temporary postoffice was opened for business. A rapid investigation developed the fact that the burglars had crawled under the flooring for about 300 feet, bored holes in the bottom of the vault, secured the stamps and escaped, carrying their booty in a wagon.

The work of forcing an entrance to the vault had evidently been going on with the greatest patience for many days. It is believed, however, that the intention of the thieves had been to enter the cashier's vault, in which there was $85,000 in money and stamps valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars. The bottom of the vault is of steel, half an inch thick. In this ninety-seven holes were bored until a space eighteen inches square—just enough to allow the entrance of a man's body—had been so weakened that it was possible to take out the whole plate with little difficulty. A dry goods box stood over the hole thus made and concealed the work of the robbers while it was in progress.

GREAT FIRE IN CAPE BRETON

Town of Sydney Almost Swept Out of Existence with a Loss of $500,000.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 21.—The prosperous town of Sydney, Cape Breton, was almost swept out of existence Saturday by a fierce conflagration which started about 2 p. m. The flames, which were fanned by a forty-five-mile gale, swept through the principal business portions of the town, causing ruin and devastation.

The only thing that saved the city from total destruction was a heavy rain which set in after dark, and as the wind decreased in fury the firemen and hundreds of miners succeeded in getting the fire under control. Over sixty buildings are in ashes, and many more are badly scorched. The buildings were nearly all large wooden structures.

The fire is supposed to have been started by the bursting of an oil stove. The loss is roughly placed at between $400,000 and $500,000, of which not more than half is covered by insurance.

BURNETT-NICHOL TRAGEDY

Betrayed Husband Takes Her Who Betrayed Him to Her Grave.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—William L. Nichol last night took the body of his wife to Nashville for burial. With him were his three motherless children, only one old enough to know that the mother was dead.

Dr. Orville S. Burnett, who was with Mrs. Nichol when she committed suicide, was held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury yesterday. It was charged that he could have kept her from her act had he tried. A physician at the inquest testified that the morphine Burnett had taken was not sufficient to hurt him, and that the wound in the neck was not visible to the naked eye.

KILLED BY BOLOMEN

Forty-Six Men of the Ninth Infantry Savagely Attacked by Insurgents.

TEN SLAIN AND SIX WOUNDED

Another Disaster to Americans in the Island of Samar—Reinforcements Slaughter Bolomen.

Manila, Oct. 19.—Five hundred bolomen attacked a detachment of forty-six men of the Ninth Infantry at Bangajon, on the Gandara river, Island of Samar, killing ten and wounding six. The remainder of the company arrived on the scene in time to prevent further slaughter and routed the enemy, killing over 100 of them.

It is believed that the enemy only retired for reinforcements. As soon as the news was received at Catbalogan two gunboats were dispatched. General Smith going in person to the scene.

The Previous Disaster in Samar.

It was less than a month ago that forty-two enlisted men and three officers of C company, Ninth Infantry, were killed by bolomen in a battle at Falangga. The company, seventy-two strong, was at breakfast, and, trusting in a professed friendship of the officials and inhabitants of the place, had relaxed the ordinary vigilance. The camp was surrounded by the bolomen, who seized the soldiers' guns and closed in on all sides. Many of the men were cut to pieces in their quarters before they had time to grasp their rifles. All the command's supplies were seized by the bolomen. The officers killed were Captain Thomas W. Connell, First Lieutenant E. A. Bumpus and Surgeon Major R. S. Griswold.

First to Take the Oath.

Fiske Warren, the first man to take the oath of allegiance required under the recent act of the Philippine commission of all suspects attempting to land, has been closely identified with Sixto Lopez. Most reasonable and inflammatory proclamations were found in his baggage. Regarding these, he said he held only one copy of each, having retained these as souvenirs. It is known also that he was intimate with the members of the junta in Hong Kong. He at first objected to taking the oath, saying that he was a loyal citizen; but he signed it when notified that on no other condition would he be allowed to land.

Retired for Consultation.

Some of his fellow-passengers told Civil Governor Taft that Warren and Lopez shook hands and retired for consultation upon hearing of President McKinley's assassination. Governor Taft considers the action of the commission in requiring all suspects to swear allegiance perfectly justified.

STEAMER SINKS IN LAKE

State of Michigan Has Machinery Accident and Will Be a Total Loss.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 19.—Early in the day in a nasty, choppy sea the State of Michigan, a passenger steamer of the Barry Bros. line, was abandoned by her crew two miles off White river and she sank a few minutes after. The wreck was caused by the breaking of the connecting rod of the engine, which smashed off a cylinder and plunging down crashed through the bottom of the boat, making a huge hole. The water poured into the engine room so quickly that the crew were forced to abandon the place and though an effort was made to take the boat on shore she sank in sixty feet of water, two miles from land. She will be a total loss, as the fall storms will undoubtedly break her up in a short time.

GOV. PILLSBURY IS DEAD

Well-Known Flour Manufacturer Passes Away at Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 19.—Ex-Governor Pillsbury died at 2:18 yesterday morning. He was unconscious all day Thursday. All members of his family were present, together with Senator Fred B. Snyder and a few other immediate friends. Death was caused by Bright's disease.

He was born in Sutton, N. H., in July, 1828. He worked on a farm and in country stores as a boy. In 1856 he married Mahala Fisk, of Warner, N. H. In 1872 he became a member of the milling firm of Charles A. Pillsbury & Co., which laid the foundation for his fortune.

Detective Fatally Shot.

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.—Detective Calvin D. Crim was fatally shot by John Foley, a recently released convict, who was wanted for picking pockets at funerals. Crim placed Foley under arrest and started to the station house. Suddenly Foley drew a revolver and fired, sending a bullet through Crim's body. Two other policemen caught Foley. He is also known as Dan Driscoll and as "The Goat." Crim was the leading detective in the famous Pearl Bryan murder case. Last March he served as personal guard for President McKinley at the inauguration.

Alix the Great Is Dead.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 21.—Alix, the famous trotting mare, whose record of 2:03¾ made at Galesburg, Ill., in 1894, was not equaled until last year, was chloroformed Saturday at the farm of her owner, former Mayor Sayles, of this city. The mare was stricken with paralysis about a month ago, and to save her from a lingering death she was humanely killed.

Death of Rear Admiral Bunce.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 21.—Rear Admiral Francis M. Bunce, U. S. N. (retired), is dead at his home here. Admiral Bunce's death, while sudden, was not entirely unexpected, as his family had been warned to expect the worst. Last May cancer of the tongue developed and an operation in Boston resulted in the removal of the admiral's tongue.

Paymaster Shot and Robbed.

Middlesboro, Ky., Oct. 18.—Pete T. Colgan, paymaster of the Virginia Iron furnaces was waylaid, shot and robbed of $2,000 about midway between this town and the furnaces at 9 o'clock a. m. The robbers escaped.

Wife Beater Horsewhipped.

Leadville, Col., Oct. 22.—The people of the town of Ibox, six miles from here, caught Richard Gorman, an old-timer of the camp, who beat his wife regularly twice a month, and took him to a trestle, where he was tied and given fifty lashes with a cowhide. He was then told that a repetition of his offense would cost him 100 lashes.

Powers' Denial General and Specific.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 21.—Saturday Caleb Powers, on trial for complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel, was put on the stand as the first witness for the defense. His testimony was a complete and emphatic denial of every statement credited to him by W. H. Colton and F. Wharton Golden.

Domestic Emergencies

I think it is Barbara in Mrs. Whitty's "We Girls" who declares she always likes emergencies because she "always emerges." Happy the housekeeper who can say the same! It is the quick-witted woman, with a resource of remedy always at hand, who comes triumphantly through the difficulties that leave her neighbor a victim of nervous prostration.

I was recently told, on the authority of a physician, that cuts and wounds should be washed in water as hot as can be borne, instead of cold water; and I find that this staunches the blood more quickly. Never bind or plaster up a cut without first washing it, to remove any foreign matter. Ice, or cold water, applied to the base of the brain and the back of the neck is a recently discovered and excellent means of relief for nausea and sick headache.

It is Horace, I believe who classes a leaky roof and a scolding woman as two intolerable evils. In case the former has left a badly discolored ceiling, try painting over the stains with white lead, for they will soon strike through the whitewash or paper. A small tube of white paint can be bought for a few cents at an art store.

Most of us know what it is to have trunks or furniture leave a series of jagged tears and scrapes in the wall paper, as they descend the stairs or turn a corner in some narrow passage way. Such ravages are difficult to conceal, but the task is much simplified if the needful patches are irregularly torn, in such a manner as to leave the edges as thin as possible. Of course the pattern must be carefully matched, and even heavy paper can be repaired in this way so as to make the joining practically invisible.

It is well to remember, in wet weather that a white or colored skirt which becomes muddy or bedraggled should be rinsed out immediately; if the mud is allowed to dry in the work is much harder and the results apt to be unsatisfactory.

We should all like a complete daily change of underwear in hot weather, but since a few of us can take advantage of the fact that a thorough sunning on the grass on a hot, bright day will do wonders in the way of freshening and purifying vests, undershirts, corsets and other garments. Two full suits worn alternately, and subjected to this treatment, will last the week out in comfort to the wearer.

Perhaps burdocks in the yard hardly come under the head of "emergencies" but fruitful sources of vexation they certainly are. After decapitating them every few weeks for three summers, and finding that they flourished under the knife, I found that a dose of kerosene on the freshly cut stalk will really destroy the intruders. Speaking of kerosene, a neighbor tells me that lye (either bought in cans or made from wood ashes) is far more effective than kerosene in poultry houses and hen coops. She applies it hot with an old broom and the cost is little or nothing. DORRIS

What can be Done with Prunes.

During a year spent on a California prune ranch I learned something of the possibilities of this sometimes despised fruit. Most of us are familiar only with the "stewed prunes" which as children we learned to hate because it was "good for us." The boarding house and hotel stewed prunes are notoriously unfit to eat—at least so far as pleasing the palate goes; so that altogether the poor fruit has had a bad name, and this being one of the hardest things to live down one wonders at the courage of the California fruit growers. Here are some of the things which my friend the rancher's wife made from this really delicious fruit:

In the first place she never "stewed"—that is boiled the prunes. Either they were placed in a steamer and cooked several hours, using no sugar and no water, the result being a rich flavor wholly unattainable by any other process, or they were soaked all night in cold water, then placed on the range over the slowest of fires, and allowed to heat very gradually till just below the boiling point; let them stand without allowing them to boil for half an hour; lift out the prunes; add sugar to taste (a very little is required) and some parboiled lemon peel and boil rapidly for fifteen minutes, then pour over the prunes.

PRUNE PUFF.—Place two cupsful of prunes cooked as above in a baking dish and pour over them a batter made from three cupsful of flour; three level teaspoonsful of baking powder; half a teaspoonful of salt; a tablespoonful of butter rubbed through the flour; one cupful of milk and one beaten egg. Bake in a hot oven in a deep, square dish and eat with any preferred pudding sauce.

PRUNE SOUFFLE.—Cook a pound of prunes as above; let them cool and take out the stones; add half a cupful of sugar and the whites of three eggs beaten to a stiff froth, whipping them lightly. Butter a dish and bake about 20 minutes. Eat with sweetened or whipped cream.

PRUNE SAGO.—Instead of the eggs a cupful of sago that has been soaked for an hour, may be stirred into the prunes, which must be brought to a boil after taking out the stones; stir till the sago is dissolved, turn into a mould and eat with cream, sweetened and flavored.

PERSIAN PASTE.—To a pint of steamed and stoned prunes, add half a cupful of walnut meats and as much shredded citron and lemon peel. Put the whole through a meat-chopper, or mince with a chopping knife; beat to a paste, and serve in small cups with whipped cream.

A sweet pickle made from the large dried, silver prunes is delicious. Use the ordinary receipt of a pint of good vinegar to three pounds of sugar, a stick of cinnamon, two blades of mace, a teaspoonful of cloves and half a teaspoonful of allspice. Pour this liquid while boiling hot over seven pounds of prunes. After 24 hours pour off the liquid, bring to a boil and pour again over the fruit. After two days pour off again, boil and skim, add the prunes and cook till clear. ALICE CHITTENDEN.

Ways of Cooking Mushrooms.

MUSHROOM BOUCHEES.—Melt one ounce of butter in a saucepan; add half a tablespoonful of flour, stir and cook three minutes; add half a cupful of mushroom liquor, half a cupful of white broth, half a teaspoonful of beef extract, one even teaspoonful of salt, a quarter teaspoonful of pepper, cook two minutes; then add twelve canned mushrooms; cook slowly fifteen minutes. Mix the yolk of one egg with half a gill of cream; add it to the mushrooms; draw the saucepan to the side of the stove, not allowing it to boil with the yolk; add lastly half a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Have ready six patty cases (bouchees), heat them in the oven, fill them with the mushrooms and serve at once.

MUSHROOMS PRESERVED IN WATER.—The fresh small button mushrooms are rubbed off with a piece of flannel and salt, washed in cold water, the ends of the stalks cut off, and the mushrooms dropped into cold water, to which some lemon juice has been added; when all are cleaned take them out, place them over the fire in a preserve kettle with enough water to cover, boil five minutes. Fill in small glass jars, screw tightly, set the jar in a vessel of cold water over the fire, and boil three-quarters of an hour; then remove and keep them in a cool place.

MUSHROOMS PICKLED.—Choose for pickling only the small button mushrooms; rub off the skin with a piece of cloth and salt, cut the stalks off, put them in a saucepan over the fire. Add to each quart of mushrooms one quarter teaspoonful of ground mace, half a teaspoonful (even) of ground white pepper, one even teaspoonful of salt; toss them well over a clear fire until the liquor flows, and keep them there until they are dried up again. Then add enough vinegar to cover them, one onion and one teaspoonful of sugar; boil a few minutes. Put the mushrooms in small jars. When cold, screw them up tightly or paste paper over them; keep in dry places for further use. These are nice for sauces or ragouts.

MUSHROOMS SAUTE.—Cut off the ends of the stalks of one and a half pints of fresh mushrooms, put them into a dish of water with a little lemon juice. Then take them out of the water and place them with four ounces of butter in a saucepan over the fire; add one even tablespoonful of salt, one even teaspoonful of pepper and the juice of one lemon; cover and stew slowly twenty minutes; add one tablespoonful of flour, a little nutmeg, and gradually sufficient cream or milk to make the sauce of a proper consistence, and serve.

Reminiscences

EDITOR RECORD:—The recent Reunion of the 25th Michigan reminds me of the noble and gallant part the grand old state of Michigan took in the long and weary struggle between the North and the South. The writer was an eyewitness to the daring deeds and splendid fighting qualities of the Michigan Boys at Gettysburg, Penn., as he participated in that memorable action and during the three days of terrific fighting had a good opportunity to observe the movements of the different commands upon the field and none bore a better or nobler part than the brave Michigan Boys.

A fine granite monument marks the scene of their valor upon that bloody field. The writer visited the grounds during September and walked through the beautiful cemetery: the resting place of those brave boys who fell in that awful struggle. There is a erected at the clump of trees where the charging columns came hand to hand on the third and last day of the battle that marked the highest point of the tidal wave of the Rebellion which ever after receded never again to invade the Northern soil. This monument was erected to commemorate the repulse by the Union troops of the assaulting column commanded by Gen. G. E. Pickett who commanded a division of Longstreet's corps of Robert Lee's army. The monument consists of an open book supported by two pyramids of bronze cannon balls resting on a granite base, the book bears the inscription "High Water Mark of the Rebellion," then follows the names of the officers of the assaulting column on the left page with the names of the Union officers, who repulsed that assault, on the opposite page. Beneath the book on the front face of the base a bronze tablet fastened to the granite block bears the following inscription, "Commands honored in recognition of the patriotism and gallantry displayed by their respective troops who met and assisted to repulse Longstreet's assault." The northern face bears a second tablet giving the names of the Union commands of Hancock's and Newton's corps which met Longstreet's assault at the clump of trees, and the southern face bears a third tablet giving the names of the Confederate commands of Longstreet's corps which constituted the charging column.

Such is a brief description of this beautiful monument for the erection of which the following states contributed:—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, and Minnesota. There are many other monuments on this historic field where all is peace and quiet now, amid the beautiful cemetery of our noble dead who freely gave their lives that our Union should not perish. Long will their memory be cherished in the hearts of a grateful people.

WINTER-EGG-PRODUCTION

Breed, Feed and Care-Fertility.

The first frost of the season deprives the hen of a portion of her diet which is most essential to a successful production of eggs. With the first appearance of frost, worms, bugs and slugs become scarce; as the weather grows cool, then cold, the animal food of nature is gone from the reach of the fowls, and these living substances, so essential for the production of eggs, are lacking for the time being. Consequently the egg yield grows less, and nothing we can do will prevent it.

The first step forward is in the direction of better stock. Hens that have come from hens which are only capable of laying five dozen eggs per year cannot be expected to lay ten dozen; a cow that gives blue milk will hardly produce a 14-lb. heifer. The natural inclination must be present, also an amount of care and attention will bring the winter egg yield up to a profitable basis. First of all, there must be the quality in the hens to realize even a reasonable number of eggs, or sufficient to make a return for the food and labor given.

Well-bred hens are not all prolific layers; all well bred hens will do better than common hens. At the same time, there is as much difference in hens as in cows. Some are very good; others are not good at all. It is time wasted to labor with non-productive hens. For this reason, every one should know the hens that lay, the most eggs in a year, and only the eggs of such hens should be used for hatching. In this way the percentage of eggs obtained will be better and better each year; and the inferior egg-producers will thus be deprived of a chance to increase their kind.

Well fed hens may not always be properly fed; the hen that has all the corn she will eat probably will not give good returns in eggs. To lay well, hens must have grain, meat and vegetable diet, and plenty of green food. If this is adhered to all through the winter, the egg supply will be larger. Wheat, corn, oats, rye and buckwheat, about equal parts make a good mixture of grain food, with cut clover, cabbage, turnips and cooked potatoes for green food. Ground green bone, or good beef scraps, for an animal food, will constitute a good winter ration. In addition to this, plenty of grit and shell, and all the clean, fresh water they want, should be constantly at hand. The hens should always be compelled to dig in straw and litter of some kind for their grain. When these rules are followed, plenty of eggs all winter will be had.

Feeding green bone is all right, if constantly done, but it is quite possible to injure the fowls if too much is given. The green cut bone is to take the place of bugs and worms, the natural insect food for fowls and birds. If it is possible to scatter small particles of green cut bone all about, so that the fowls may find a little here and a little there, only slight attention need be given to the actual quantity fed. But when cut and fed in any quantity, the fowls will eat all they can get and run and hunt for more. The result is looseness of the bowels, often scouring to the extent of sickness. For this reason it is desirable to feed, by actual weight, one pound of green cut bone to thirty hens, thus being thoroughly mixed through their mash food, so that each fowl will be sure to get its proper allowance and the greedy ones not get it all.

Regularity in feeding is of equal importance with the kind of food given. When hungry, the fowls are dissatisfied, as we are ourselves when meals are served after the regular hours; dissatisfied when only half rations are served, and disgusted when that which we dislike is put before us. These conditions have the same effect with fowls that will gladly dig and hunt for broken corn and millet seed at noon among the litter if thrown to them. But they retire unfed if these are thrown there by a careless hand or by one who has forgotten to feed them until after dark. If regular habits are hoped for with the hens, all their needs must be properly attended to with strict regularity.

Considerable diminution in egg yield, as well as many deaths in the flock, result from poor management. If made ill by too much green bone, or if allowed to go without food and water for a whole day, the fowls will eat so much and drink so much water er as to gorge themselves or become crop bound. If fed too much corn and nothing else, they will not lay well in winter. They must have the component parts for egg construction in the food they eat, else they cannot produce the eggs. This is why it is absolutely necessary to feed a mixed diet with vegetables, green food and meat of some kind. If the facts were duly considered, there would be no need of complaining about having no eggs during the winter months; for, just as surely as good laying hens are properly fed they will lay from three to four eggs per week; when they fail in this, it is not their fault, but the result of poor care and attention.

Dead fowls or animals of any kind should not be left lying about. Decomposed meat of any kind is very injurious to fowls if they eat it; it often kills whole flocks, and has been known to kill dogs. To burn or bury deep in the ground every fowl or animal that is found dead and decomposed condition, is the duty that every man owes to himself, his family and his neighbor. Many supposed cases of cholera or mysterious deaths in a flock and among dogs, might be traced to the eating of the flesh of the fowls or animals so long dead as to become poisonous. Much trouble could be averted by giving attention in this direction.

We clip the following from an exchange:

"It is about the time of year now for Farmer Slack to begin to enumerate his 'hard luck.' He was unlucky with his sitting hens on account of lice; unlucky with the chicks because rats killed so many in his ramshackle, unshutable coops; unlucky because mites took possession of the henhouse and drove the hens to the fence and trees to roost; unlucky because a lot of hens got the roup from roosting out in the rain—in fact, his string of luck (his usual harvest of neglect by the way) is as long as usual, and he is too 'unlucky' to be taught the lesson they proclaim."

While this is a pretty hard knock at all who belong to the 'Slack' family, farmers or townsmen, it is a true picture of the hen's struggle for existence in entirely too many places.

As winter comes on, the question of beef scrap, meat meal and other meat foods should receive attention. Experiments with this kind of food were made last winter; among them a series conducted at the West Virginia Experiment station gives evidence on the value of green bone compared with meat meals. Thirty four hens were divided into two similar lots, each kept under the same conditions, and each receiving the same grain ration. One lot, however, was fed fresh green bone and the other meat meal. During the experiment the experiment the fowls receiving the fresh bone laid 3824 eggs, weighing 494.2 lb. of an average weight of 12.75 lb. per hundred eggs, while the meat meal lot laid only 3250 eggs, weighing 391.2 lb. and weighing 11.94 lb. per hundred. Consequently the fowls fed fresh bone not only gained more in weight, but they also laid more and larger eggs. This statement goes to show that the green bone was pure and as represented, while the meat meal may have been part sand or earth or other adulteration. Meat meal, on this account, may be considered undesirable for use; but pure beef scraps that will bear inspection have found almost the equal of cut bone, with considerable less trouble in handling, and usually a little more expensive. When the green or fresh bone can be bought at a small price per pound, that is, less than the beef scraps cost, than it will pay to cut and use it; but when one is as expensive as the other, each decide for himself which to use. If beef scraps are used, they must be thoroughly clean and sweet. Those that smell bad should not be used, as they will taint the eggs as well as the flesh of the fowls that eat them.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

There is scarcely any condition of ill health that is not benefited by the occasional use of a few Ripans Tabules, and the price, ten for five cents, does not bear them from any home or justify any one in enduring ills that are easily cured. A family bottle containing 100 tabules is sold for 50 cents. For children the chocolate coated sort, 12 for 25 cents, are recommended. For sale by druggists.

A PRAYER.

The following poem, by Clinton Dangerfield, is reproduced by permission, from advance sheets of the November Century.

Not for the silent chief whom Death Gently and sedulously keeps
Within a splendid calm; naught mars His well-won laurels where he sleeps.
Rather for him who newly stands Half startled on a slippery height,
Like a strange falcon which some hand Unhooded rudely, whom the light
Floods unforseen, but who shall prove A wide-winged strength! For him we pray;
Give him such wisdom swift and keen He shall restore us Yesterday!

Harbor Springs, Mich., Oct. 21.—Keeper Garrett Bourissau, of Skillingalee Island light, and his assistant, Walter Grubbins, perished on Lake Michigan near Cross Village, Saturday morning. The men had come to the village to procure supplies, and left in a sail boat for the island at 4 p. m. A heavy sea was running at the time, and it is thought the men were unable to handle the boat.

No Trace of Bourissau's Body.
Saturday morning the boat came ashore at Cross Village, with the body of Grubbins lashed to the rigging, but no trace of Keeper Bourissau has been found. Isadore Lacroix, the third member of the crew, was left at the lighthouse, and it was impossible to notify him of the fate of his fellows, as the waves were running too high for a boat to venture out.

Body Found of an Unknown Man.
Coloma, Mich., Oct. 21.—F. H. Standing, of North Coloma, found the dead body of a man on the beach of Lake Michigan a short distance north of Thunder mountain. The remains were clad in plaid coat, dark pants and tan shoes, and were much swollen.

Girls Take Part in a Moloo Between Freshmen and Sophomores.

Hillsdale, Mich., Oct. 21.—The freshmen and sophomores of Hillsdale college had a fight last week. The freshmen held a meeting and elected those officers: Wesley Cortright, president; Allan Rice, vice president; B. A. Warren, treasurer; Bertha Baker, secretary. The sophomores learned of the meeting and attacked the freshmen during their meeting. The fight was fierce. Hair was pulled and chairs and everything movable were used as weapons.

One freshman's wrist was broken by a blow from a chalk box. Clarence Green and Frank Baker, freshmen, were captured and spirited away. Frank Fenn, sophomore, was seized by the freshmen and after being blacked up and decorated, had his picture taken. The freshmen girls also took part in the fight. They seized one sophomore and gave him such a shaking up that he will probably steer clear of the fair sex for some time to come.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 18.—Frank Snyder and George Vixen, colored, attempted to break jail for the third time since their confinement. They were frustrated in their attempt by Sheriff Malines.

LAKE STEAMER SINKS

City of Cleveland Strikes a Hidden Object—No Casualties.

Detroit, Oct. 22.—The big steel passenger steamer City of Cleveland, carrying 176 passengers from Cleveland to this city, sunk in shallow water in the Detroit river at 6 o'clock in the morning. There were exciting scenes, bordering upon panic, among the passengers, but all were taken off in safety. A majority of them were at breakfast when the boat struck some obstacle in the stream, presumably a rock or a sunken anchor.

There was a wild rush for the stairs, and some of the half-clad passengers, late in leaving their cabins, were forced to wade through a foot of water. Those fortunate enough to first reach places of safety lent willing hands, and their companions were lifted and dragged out of the dining room and continued dressing in the open air.

The captain and crew restored order by assurances that the boat was in shallow water and that there was no danger. The passengers flocked to the upper decks, and after the steamer slowly settled down to the bottom waited patiently until they were taken ashore by the steamer Newsboy, which responded to distress signals.

NOT SO ATHLETIC, BUT WISER.

Man Who Refused to Surrender to the Sheriff Gets Shot.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 18.—Joe Howard, of Vernon, was shot in the shoulder while attempting to escape arrest. Some months ago Howard attacked an Ann Arbor railroad conductor, seriously injuring him. Howard has since been a fugitive from justice. Sheriff Gerow learned that Howard was working on a farm near Easton and he went after him.

Gerow was almost within reach of his man when Howard started to run. He refused to halt when ordered, and Gerow fired, the ball lodging in his shoulder. He fell and was captured. The wound is not serious. Howard says he will respect an officer's commands hereafter. He is only 30 years old, but has already served several terms. He is known as a bad man.

Three of Four Thugs Escape.

Bad Axe, Mich., Oct. 18.—Three of the four Kinde bank robbers lodged in jail here broke out at night and escaped. They pried up the sheet iron floor of the corridor and then cut through the wood floor with a sharp knife. Three of the men worked through the hole all right, but it was too small to give the fourth man his liberty. The three men who escaped stole a horse and buggy and drove to Harbor Beach, where it is believed they escaped on a boat.

Will Go Back to the Pen.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 18.—Charles White, an ex-convict, who was one of the principal witnesses in the Pingree investigation of the prison last fall, has been arrested charged with burglarizing the residence of William Bagham, at Leoni. A watch and gun taken from the house were found at a second-hand store, where White had sold them.

DUKE AT ST. JOHNS.

New Brunswick Show Their Loyalty to the British Empire.

St. Johns, N. B., Oct. 18.—The old loyalist city of St. Johns was in gala attire yesterday on the occasion of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. The train bearing their royal highnesses arrived shortly after 3 p. m. and the duke and duchess were loudly cheered as they passed through the city on the way to the exhibition building, where the address of welcome was read by Mayor Daniel, representing the corporation. The interior of the exhibition building was beautifully decorated.

The duke read his reply to the address in a fine, clear voice, which was heard in all parts of the great building. The consecration of the new colors, presented by the duke to the Sixty-second Fusiliers, by the bishop of Fredericton was a most impressive ceremony. The duke in his reply to the civic address referred to the founders of the city and the proof they had already given by heavy privations and hardships of their loyalty to the king and attachment to British institutions.

BOERS FOOL THE BRITISH

They Broke Camp at Night to Prevent Surprise—British Fight Reported.

Cape Town, Oct. 19.—In a brisk fight at Twenty-Four Streams, near Piquetberg Wednesday, Captain Bellow and four other British were killed and several others were wounded.

The British having surprised several camps, the Boers are now in the habit of shifting camp by night. Lately the British columns after long night marches have arrived at their objectives only to find the Boers gone. British columns penetrating Orange River colony miles from the railways find fields of maize or freshly plowed lands, the Boers making off at their approach and returning when the columns pass on. The herds on the high veldt still seem to be numerous. The Boers are living on cattle and mealies stored in out of the way places.

DURBIN'S MIND MADE UP

About the Taylor Extradition Matter, So It Is Understood.

Indianapolis, Oct. 22.—It is not likely that Governor Durbin will announce his decision in the matter of the last requisition of Governor Beckham, of Kentucky, for the extradition of Messrs. Taylor and Finley, until after the trial of Caleb Powers, which is now in progress at Georgetown, Ky.

It is generally understood about the state house that the governor only consented out of courtesy to the Kentuckians who presented the requisition to carefully investigate the records, and that he has already read enough to convince him that he should not honor the requisition.

Fatal Explosion of Gas.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 21.—Two persons were killed and one fatally injured by the explosion of illuminating gas in a dwelling house in the eastern end of this city. The dead are Rudolph E. Hipp and his daughter, Loretto. Mrs. Florence Hipp, wife of the dead man had an arm broken, both limbs crushed, face badly burned and injured internally. She will probably die. George F. Hipp was cut and bruised about the legs and body. The house was so full of gas during the night that the family did not occupy it. When they returned in the morning Hipp lighted a match near the cellar window and the explosion followed.

Episcopalians Adjourn.

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—The triennial convention of the Episcopal church adjourned sine die yesterday. The next convention is to be held in Boston in 1904. The day was a busy one in both houses, most of the time, however, being taken up in the discussion of matters which were not definitely decided. It was agreed to make Honolulu and Cuba missionary districts, and to create the missionary district of Salina out of the diocese of Kansas. The houses failed to concur, however, in the proposed setting apart of a portion of the diocese of Springfield, Ill., as a missionary district.

Flames on a Ferryboat.

New York, Oct. 22.—Fire was discovered in the boiler room of the ferryboat Elizabeth of the Central Railroad of New Jersey early in the day, while she was making a trip between New York and Jersey City. There were few passengers on board at the time and they were all put ashore in safety. As the fire spread rapidly the boat was taken out into midstream and water pumped into her hold. The fire was under control after an hour's work by the firemen and the boat was beached on the Jersey flats. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

Five Men Killed in a Tunnel.

New York, Oct. 19.—Five men were killed and two injured yesterday when an enormous mass of rock caved from the side and roof of the rapid transit tunnel, in course of construction on Broadway, about the line of 164th street, in this city. The dead are Peter O'Hara, Timothy Kelleher, John Goronsky, Patrick Madden (foreman) and Luigi Danife. The injured are Dominico de Petro and an Italian laborer, name unknown.

work demonstrates that the art of play writing has taken a distinct step in advance in the last ten years and that the near future promises a golden era in the dramatic literature of America. Not only is this young writer a brilliant author of successful comedies which nightly please thousands of hearers in the great cities of America but he is a pleasing and effective reader of his own plays. He is noted as a public speaker and obtained a national reputation as a wit when scarcely out of his teens by the publication of a book of original wise and witty sayings entitled "Aphorisms of The Three Threes." He is also noted as a writer of delightful verse and his volume of poems entitled "The Completion of the Spire and Other Poems" is deservedly popular. The publishing firm of Low, Marston & Low of London, England has just announced a new book by Mr. Towne entitled "Literary Dust." That Mr. Towne will receive a royal welcome on this his first visit to our city is assured.
