CHICAGO EDITORS UNDER BOND

Four of the American's Staff Held for Contempt of Court.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—Judge Haney held representatives of the Chicago American in bonds to appear before the court Monday next to show cause why they should not be punished for alleged contempt of court. Bail was fixed as follows: S. S. Carvalho, general manager, and Andrew M. Lawrence, managing editor, $10,000; H. S. Canfield, reporter, $5,000; John C. Hammond, assistant city editor, $1,000; Ex-Governor Altgeld, counsel for the newspaper, explained to the court that W. R. Hearst, Homer Davenport and Clare Briggs, also accused of contempt through articles, editorials and cartoons printed in connection with the People's Gas, Light and Coke company case, were out of the state.

THIRTY PERSONS ARE INJURED.

Train Breaks in Two and the Two Sections Come Together Disastrously.

Bedford, Ind., Nov. 5.—A wreck occurred last night on the Monon track at the passenger station in this city in which thirty persons were injured. A combination passenger and stone train, running between Bedford and the Perry, Matthews & Buskirk Stone company's quarries, broke in two at the intersection of the Monon and Southern Indiana roads, coming together a few minutes later with a crash. In the two passenger coaches were 100 quarrymen and officials. Of this number no less than thirty were bruised and injured by the collision, some of them seriously, if not fatally. Among the seriously hurt are Andrew Lentz, quarryman; Michael Agnew, brakeman, and Edward Dennison, quarryman. All three of these men were injured internally. John Torphy, superintendent of the mills, was badly cut.

Masacre Plot Exposed.

Manila, Nov. 5.—A plot to massacre the American garrison at Moncada, province of Tarlac, Luzon, has been revealed by the wife of one of the conspirators. Several of the town officials are implicated in the murderous scheme. The woman who revealed the plot hid a detective beneath a house in which the leaders of the conspiracy were meeting. Arrests followed and many incriminating papers were seized. The plan was to set fire to a house close to the barracks after dark, and when the soldiers came out to assist in extinguishing the flames 150 conspirators, armed with bolos, were to rush on the guard, capture their arms and proceed to massacre the garrison.

Beckham Will Answer Durbin. Bardstown, Ky., Nov. 5.—Governor Beckham, who came home to vote, was shown Governor Durbin's published letter refusing to honor Governor Beckham's requisitions. The governor was not surprised in the least to learn that the requisitions had been dishonored, but was surprised at the contents of the letter. Governor Beckham will return to Frankfort on Wednesday morning, when he expects to find Governor Durbin's letter awaiting him. He said he would answer it immediately, but did not intimate what he would say in the reply to the charges made by the governor of Indiana.

Burke's Place Is Filled

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Robert E. Burke's connection with the oil inspector's office was severed completely by the city council's confirmation of the appointment of Melville G. Holding to succeed him. Comptroller McGann has been acting as oil inspector since the resignation of Mr. Burke, but it had been rumored that Bob Burke might take up his old job. Mayor Harrison waited until late in the afternoon to get an acceptance from Melville G. Holding and then he submitted his name to the council as successor to Robert E. Burke.

Sergeant Was Cool and Brave.

Manila, Nov. 2.—Twenty men of company G, Ninth Infantry, under command of Sergeant Willford, put to flight 140 insurgents at San Antonio, island of Samar, killing fourteen of the rebels, who had attacked the detachment. Two of the United States soldiers were killed and two others wounded. Willford's coolness and bravery during the attack were marked and he is recommended for a medal of honor.

Drastic Measures in Philippines.

Manila, Nov. 5.—Manila is in a condition bordering on panic because of the drastic measures proposed by the Philippine commission to enforce American authority in the archipelago. The commission has decided that all who may be found guilty of treason shall be shot, and definition of the word treason is to be made so elastic that natives and other foreign residents of the island are making most vigorous protests.

Father Crowley Brings Suit.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley has entered suit in the superior court for $50,000 against the Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago. The suit is the outgrowth of Father Crowley's recent excommunication and expulsion from the church following charges which he made against Father Muldoon, then about to be consecrated as a bishop.

First Case of Freezing to Death.

Liberty, Mo., Nov. 5.—William Thomas, a blacksmith of Smithville, was found frozen to death off the country road some distance from here yesterday. Thomas had been drinking.

Pricked a Pimple with a Pin.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Edgar Percival Seeger of Chicago, a member of the Cornell class of '98, is dead under unusual circumstances. Last Thursday a small pimple appeared on his left cheek. He carelessly picked it with a pin and blood poisoning set in at once. No medical aid could prevent its spread and he died in terrible agony at the city hospital.

Great Feat on Motor Bicycle.

New York, Nov. 5.—Albert Champion broke all former records, except for the first mile, in a ten-mile motor bicycle exhibition at Vailsburg. He captured the distance in 12:47 1-5, an average gait of 1.16 4-5 for each mile. His fastest mile was the first, which he rode in 1:15 flat, two and three-fifths seconds slower than his ride of last Sunday.

UP TO THE ORATORS

Schley Case Reaches the Point Where Eloquence Gets in Its Work.

HANNA STARTS THE OHIN MUSIO

Schley the Last Witness on the Stand—Further Contradicts Sigsbee—Documentary Evidence.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The Schley court of inquiry reached the argument stage at the beginning of the afternoon session yesterday. The morning sitting was devoted to listening to Admiral Schley and Captain Sigsbee in making corrections of their testimony which had been given previously, and the introduction by Judge Advocate Lemly of numerous documents bearing upon different phases of the inquiry. Admiral Schley devoted himself largely to the clearing up of ambiguous points in his evidence. An effort was made to introduce two new witnesses, who were expected to give testimony in Admiral Schley's behalf concerning the controversy as to what information Captain Sigsbee communicated to Admiral Schley when he arrived off Santiago in May, 1898.

Newspaper Men Ruled Out.

One of these witnesses was Frank B. Richards and the other George Lynch, both of New York, and both newspaper correspondents who were on duty in Cuba and in Cuban waters during the war with Spain. Lynch was on the press boat Somers N. Smith, and Richards on the Premier. They were to have testified concerning the meeting of those vessels with the St. Paul, of which Captain Sigsbee was in command. The court, however, decided not to hear them, deciding that their testimony did not concern any point in the precept. Captain Sigsbee had testified again denying that he had told correspondents on the press boat Premier that the Spanish fleet was not at Santiago.

Lemly States His Objection.

When Richards took the stand to contradict Sigsbee Lemly objected on the ground that Commodore Schley was not present during the conversation and that it was not material to the issue. Rayner said he did not desire to impeach the credibility of Captain Sigsbee, but would endeavor to impeach strongly his recollection. After a short argument by Hanna in support of Captain Lemly's objection the court retired to consider the point raised. When it returned Admiral Devey announced that "As the testimony of this witness is not considered by the court material to the case, the objection is sustained in accordance with the court's previous ruling."

SCHLEY IS THE LAST WITNESS.

He Makes Corrections in the Report of What He Testified.

This matter out of the way, Schley took the stand to make corrections in his three days' testimony. He began at the beginning and marked typographical errors, changed words to make sentences read smoothly and added or eliminated statements. Regarding the order to stand by to ram he emphasized his former testimony by stating that "there was a distinct attempt to ram on the part of the Maria Teresa, Admiral Cervera's flagship, and the Vizcaya." As to the passing of the flying squadron by the Eagle the morning of May 19, and the latter conveying the information that there was "no news," Admiral Schley corrected his testimony wherein he said that he was not mistaken as to this, by stating that he might have been mistaken.

He came in course to the disputed conversation with Sigsbee, and to Sigsbee's statement that when he went on board the Brooklyn the whole question, so far as he could remember, was coal, and nothing but coal, and that Commodore Schley already had made up his mind to go to Key West. "I did not say to Captain Sigsbee that we were going to Key West, as the signal will show," said Schley. "Sigsbee was talking on the subject of coal, and since he mentions it I recall the fact that his statement was that he was commanding a vessel that was one-tenth of a mile long and that she could not turn her engines over under 150 tons of coal a day; also that he could not remain there very long, and would have to go to Key West."

"Had you, as a matter of fact made up your mind at that time to go to Key West?"

"I had not."

HIS INTERVIEW WITH SAMPSON.

That Upon Which the Admiral and Chadwick Are at Issue.

Admiral Schley then referred to his conversation with Admiral Sampson regarding his instructions about not bombarding fortifications, as follows: "I ought to mention, in connection with the talk I had with the admiral in relation to his instructions about not bombarding fortifications, that I recall the fact that he and I were talking about the guns that were probably there, and I asked him whether he knew if they were Hontoria or Krupp guns. He said: 'Probably both.' That recalls the circumstances to me. And again, in relation to the testimony of Lieutenant Roys—"

Judge Advocate—I do not think the purpose of calling the witness to revise his testimony is to enable him to contradict witnesses who have been on the stand.

Rayner—He can contradict any witness if we want him to do it. That is a remarkable statement. Your witnesses have a right to rebut ours and we have a right to answer them. Mr. Roys was an entirely new witness, and he testified to something new. I asked the question if we would have the right to call up witnesses to contradict new witnesses, and the court said of course we would; otherwise we would be barred out entirely.

Judge Advocate—I think as Lieutenant Roys is the only witness who remained uncontradicted I have no objection to make.

Rayner—I think that is a great mistake. I think there are fifty witnesses uncontradicted according to my recollection. That is a highly improper remark for the judge advocate to make.

After a quarrel between counsel the court ruled that it had no objection to the admiral's reference to Lieutenant Roys. Admiral Schley said: "I merely wanted to say in connection with Lieutenant Roys' testimony that I heard nothing of the desire of Lieutenant Southerland to coal. I am sure he is mistaken about that, because it would have been impossible that day for that ship to coal."

This closed the testimony, and Lemly then put in an amount of documentary evidence, some of which was ruled out. Then Rayner got into the record a commission issued during the senate recess to Schley as admiral which was not confirmed by the senate.

The opening speech of the argument in the case was made in behalf of the government by E. P. Hanna, assistant to the judge advocate. He began his presentation of the case a few minutes after the court convened at 2 p. m., and when the court adjourned two hours later he had not covered more than half of the ground involved in the controversy.

FLEET DID NOT COME BACK.

French Warships Sailed Direct for the Waters of the Turk.

Paris, Nov. 2.—Dispatches sent out from Toulon Thursday night announcing the return to that port of Admiral Caillard's division of the French Mediterranean squadron prove to be incorrect. The officials of the foreign office inform the Associated Press that the admiral has not returned, but is on his way to Turkish waters.

The ships that went into Toulon harbor composed Admiral Maigret's division of the Mediterranean fleet. Caillard's squadron is a special one and is composed of the battleships Gaulois and Charlemagne, the cruisers Admiral Pothuan, Chanzy and Gallie, and two torpedo boat destroyers of the Hallard type.

"The Sultan has ordered the completion with all speed of the defenses at Salonika, Smyrna and the entrance to the Dardanelles," says a Constantinople special. "Submarine mines will be placed and troops mobilized at points where disembarkations are likely."

London, Nov. 4.—A dispatch from Rome says that the second division of the Italian Mediterranean squadron has started for Turkey, with the object it is said, of counterbalancing the French naval demonstration.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The dispatch of Admiral Caillard's squadron from Toulon to Turkish waters has already had its effect. The French foreign office has received a telegram from M. Bapst, councillor of the French legation at Constantinople, announcing that the sultan has sent him a message accepting all the French claims, including the Loroando claim.

The ports also telegraphed to the French minister of foreign affairs, M. Delcasse, informing him that the Loroando claim had been settled and that the sultan had signed an irade accepting the figure fixed by France for the payment of the claim.

Paris, Nov. 5.—An official dispatch announces the arrival of Admiral Caillard's squadron at the Island of Mitylene, and the seizure of the three principal ports of the island.

Chicago Horse Show Open.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—The equine aristocracy of the west went on exhibition here when the second annual horse show of the Chicago Horse Show association opened at the Coliseum. Although the formal opening did not take place until night, when society was present in force, a good sized crowd was present during the forenoon. The feature of the afternoon's programme was an exhibition by C. K. G. Billings' record-breaking pacer, Little Boy, with a record of 2:01½ to wagon. Judging began at 2 p. m. Officials of the show repeated their predictions that the exhibition would prove to be the most successful, as well as the largest, ever given in the west.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Seasonable Souffles.

POTATO SOUFFLE.—Clean and bake six large potatoes, cut a slice from one end of each, carefully remove the inside and wash fine. Heat to boiling ten tablespoonfuls of milk, to which has been added two scant tablespoonfuls of butter, a scant teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of white pepper. Put the potato into a double boiler and stir in well the above mixture. When the potato is heated hot, take it from the fire, stir in beaten eggs, one at a time until four have been used. Fill the potato skins two-thirds full with this mixture, stand them together upright on a tin and bake eight or ten minutes in a hot oven.

OAT MEAL SOUFFLE.—Mix a quart of oat meal with two scant tablespoonfuls of butter, two-thirds of a teacupful of sugar, two and a half teacupfuls of milk; put in the yellow rind of a fresh lemon and cook all in a double boiler 12 minutes. Draw the boiler the corner of the stove, and stir in four eggs and a tablespoonful of baking powder. Beat well, remove the lemon, pour into a buttered basin, and bake in a slow oven until it swells and has a golden color. Serve with granulated sugar sprinkled over the top.

GUSTARD SOUFFLE.—Put two teacupfuls of milk in a double boiler. Beat the yolks of four eggs with half a teacupful of sugar, into which has been stirred two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch; when it begins to thicken, stir in two tablespoonfuls of butter, take from the fire, add the frothed whites of the eggs, cutting them into the custard lightly. Bake in a slow oven half an hour, and serve as soon as removed.

SOUFFLE A LA AMERICAINE.—Beat four eggs, add four tablespoonfuls of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of flour sifted with half a tablespoonful of baking powder, and beat again, adding while heating a pint of milk, a little at a time. Leave an hour; then put in a buttered cake-tin and bake until it swells. Serve from the dish in which it was baked (which should be placed on the table), with an accompaniment of granulated sugar.

JELLY SOUFFLE.—Boil a quart of milk in a double boiler, add three tablespoonfuls of cornstarch wet with a little cold milk, stir one minute, and pour over the beaten yolks of six eggs, the frothed whites of two, and half a teacupful of powdered sugar. Beat a few minutes, put into a buttered dish, set the dish in hot water and bake half an hour. When firm, spread the top with sweet jelly, and cover with a meringue of the whites of the four eggs and half a teacupful of powdered sugar. Brown lightly and serve with cream, when cold.

CHEESE SOUFFLE.—Into half a tablespoonful of melted butter stir until smooth two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch; add half a teacupful of milk, stirring until it boils; take from the fire, add half a teaspoonful each of salt and white pepper; stir in, one by one, the yolks of four eggs and three ounces of grated cheese; beat well, and add the frothed whites of the eggs. Stir carefully, and bake ten or fifteen minutes in a hot oven. Serve immediately.

SARAH E. WILCOX.

Housekeeping Experiments.

A recent Massachusetts labor bulletin gives the results of experiments made by the committee on domestic service of the Boston branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. They were intended to include several branches of work, such as the laundry, cleaning and all sorts of household arts, to solve the question of domestic service through a thorough understanding of it. But as they on, it was found that the question of food alone, its cost, value and expense of preparing it, was in itself so weighty that all others were abandoned for the time.

The cost of bread alone is of the greatest importance. Thousands of poor families live on it almost entirely, and it is undoubtedly the most nutritious cheap food possible to obtain, always supposing the bread is good. In Boston alone there are over 400 bakeries and other places where bread is made and sold, and bakeries invade even the little villages, where every housewife is supposed to make her own bread. The experiments in bread-making had two objects to find the exact cost of home-made materials, fuel and labor being considered; to compare the cost with baker's bread, and to compare the two in value and quality. In each experiment, two loaves of white wheat-flour bread were made, the materials being measured and weighed before making, and the cost by weight computed. The result proved that the cost in materials, fuel and labor for a home-made pound loaf was a little less than six cents. The cost of the baker's loaf would be very nearly the same thing, if it weighed a pound, but the committee found that it rarely weighed over 14 ounces. Of course, the question arose, "Was the baker's bread as good?" and in answering it, in the negative, the blame was laid on the average consumer, who did not require better bread than was furnished, and the baker naturally did not give a finer article than business demanded. Another point that argued for the home-made loaf was the fact that it was really cheaper, as well as better.

Another experiment was with meat. In the question of expense in necessary food, meat stands highest. Nearly all vegetable foods furnish more vital energy than meat for a much less outlay of money; rice, flour, corn meal, are very much cheaper, and just as valuable. But, on the other hand, there are many people who do not thrive on such food and demand meat. Then, beside the first cost of meat being so great, the amount of time spent in cooking many dishes involves much expense in fuel—roasting and boiling require hours. Another point is that in bone and fat in beef, mutton, etc., and head, feet and entrails in fowls, the consumer pays for much that is not eaten; also that the shrinkage, particularly in stewing and boiling, is considerable.

The committee in every case considered the economic advisability of buying cook food, and, not to go into detail too closely, found that taking everything into consideration, "the cost for a person per meal was 55. 10 per cent more when the food was purchased ready cooked than when the cooking was all done at home," which certainly tells against buying it.

As to fuel, it is proved that coal is the cheapest, gas the dearest. Of course, when economy is thrown aside the use of the gas stove adds greatly to the comfort of the home during hot weather, but the committee were considering economy, not ease. The oil stove met with no favor, for while it is much cheaper than gas, the odor from the burning oil, the proneness to smoke and the dreadful soot that blackens everything, from dishes to hands, used in cooking with oil stoves, render it deservedly objectionable.

Balancing one thing with another, the cost of wages paid a maid, the other inevitable expense of board and lodging, the wear and tear, it is considered that having all the cooking done outside of the house is cheaper, or at least as cheap, and the trouble of a maid could thus be done away with, at least in the case of a small family; "when the cost of food is greater in proportion than in large families." The large family then, must get on as they do at present, and so must those families who never keep a maid at all; but continue to cook those dishes "that mother used to make." Such families are comforted by the assurance that housework and housekeeping are going through a process of evolution, and in the meantime housewives must keep their patience, wait a little longer and study how to economize.—Springfield Republican.

The Cosmopolitan has endeavored to make itself known by timely contributions to all important controversies. Frank Mose, so well known in the Lexow and Mazet investigation, contributes "Municipal Misgovernment and Corruption: A Warning to Patriots" to the November issue. This considers a serious difficulty in a way that will be found interesting not only to New Yorkers, but to residents of every part of the United States.

Red Spark Explodes Dynamite.
"You've got to have a red spark," said a workman, "to set off dynamite. I've handled it long enough to know. Here's an experiment that's been tried: They took an old flat car and loaded it with rocks; then they fastened a box of dynamite to the bumper and let the car run down a steep grade, bang! into another car anchored at the bottom. And they found that the dynamite never exploded unless the bumpers were faced with iron. It didn't matter how much concussion they got with wooden bumpers, the dynamite was like that much putty, but as soon as a red spark jumped into it out of the iron, hy, off she'd go."

POSER FOR THE JUDGE.

Pat, having been unduly familiar with a corkless bottle, found himself enjoying a night's lodging at the expense of the city.

"How long have you been in this country?" asked the judge the next morning.

"Faith, an' it's noigh on to seven months, yer honor," replied Pat.

"Have you a trade?" asked the judge.

"Sure an' it's a sailor Oi am," answered the man.

"Be careful what you say," cautioned the judge. "I doubt very much if you have ever been to sea in your life."

"Begorry!" exclaimed the son of Erin, "an' is it in a wagin yer honor's after thinkin' Oi came over from the ould country?"

POLICEMEN PAY FARE.

A man from up the state, who boarded a south-bound car at the Grand Central station took his seat behind a fireman and a policeman. As the car rattled on, two other policemen swung on. The conductor promptly stepped forward and asked them for their fares and, when they refused, he pulled the bell cord and ordered them off. The policeman got up reluctantly and lounged heavily off the car.

"Say, conductor," asked the upstate man, "how is this? Up our way we allow every policeman to ride free of charge on the cars."

"We don't down here," was the terse reply, according to the New York Post. "We allow only two firemen, or policemen, on a car at once, or one of each. Every extra one has to pay or get off."

OUR RELIGIOUS CORNER CONDUCTED BY THE PASTORS' ASSOCIATION

Pastors Neirgarth, Marvin and Black met at the parsonage of the Christian Church, Monday at 2 p. m. Sunday sermons:—Evangelical, J. R. Neirgarth, "Preparation for the Coming of Christ," Is. 40: 8 5; Presbyterian, C. E. Marvin, "Christ's Prayer of Forgiveness," Luke 23: 34; Christian, E. R. Black, "The Privileges and Responsibilities of the Christian," II Tim. 2.

Pastor Douglass was not able to be present owing to the visit of Mr. Hamilton the solicitor for the Twentieth Century Fund.

J. R. Neirgarth made a trip through the North last week addressing the churches in the interests of the Young Peoples' Alliance.

The Evangelical Church expect to begin a series of meetings next week. The Pastors' Association welcome Pastor Turner of the U. B. Church into the community.

G. Campbell Morgan and W. H. Pope began a series of three weeks' meetings in Chicago last Sunday for the edification of christian people.

On December 10th there will begin a series of prophetic conferences in Boston at which some of the great bible students of the two continents will be present.

Dr. Hatch of Oxford said, "Before Christendom can convert the world it must be converted to Christianity."

A call is made for the Evangelistic Reformation of the entire church of Christ of evangelistic preaching and of earnest prayer on the part of all christian people for the week beginning November 10th.

"A thorough Christian is God Almighty's gentlemen, gentle in deportment, temper, construction, aims and desires; not hasty in judgement, not overbearing, not proud, not capacious, not oppressive." Aim to be gentlemen of the Lord.

It is a sad comment that the so called great nations of the world, Britain and America, are foremost in fastening upon weak people the terrible chains of the opium and drink curses.

Christianity is not a religion but a relation. When Christianity has degenerated into a religion, religious men have murdered and persecuted those obedient to the revelation. Christianity demands faith in and obedience to Christ. The Bible, that revelation of God, is therefore alone the church, above conscience and above reason.

SPEED OF OCEAN VESSELS.

It has been increasing steadily during recent years. The best Atlantic running of a German mail steamer is now precisely one and one-half knots an hour swifter than the best run of any British mail steamer.

We were pleased to receive call from Mrs. Pears, Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Andrews last week.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR. Love is cheap, but being a lover is expensive.

About the time a boy begins to think about his sweetheart his mother begins to forget hers.

You must never kiss and tell, but if you see anybody else doing it you must tell it to everybody.

After a woman comes home from church she has the same sort of guaranteed credit feeling that a man has just after he makes a fat bank deposit.

Where Greek is Not Spoken. A very curious occurrence is reported from a village only twelve miles away from Athens, writes a correspondent.

A schoolmistress who was recently appointed to the village of Salest, on assuming her duties, discovered that her pupils could not understand a single word of Greek, which was also a foreign language to their parents.

The one language they spoke was Albanian. She immediately telegraphed how matters stood to the ministry, who sent an interpreter to her rescue.

It is a common thing for the villagers of the Greek mainland to employ Albanian as their chief language, but this is the first and only instance where the Greek language is not spoken or understood at all in a place so near the capital.

Lucile Brackett received the highest mark in the arithmetic test.

Burnice Haslett visited the grade last Thursday. Fred Row was organist last week.

The division A are reviewing the story of Evangeline. Effie Vite was absent Monday on account of sickness.

Berrien County S. S. Convention, An Enthusiastic Gathering.

The twenty-third annual convention of the Berrien County Sunday School Association was held at Berrien Springs last Thursday and Friday and was one of the largest in point of numbers, ever held, and was very gratifying to Sunday school workers of the county in that it showed increased attendance and interest in almost every department of the work. The first session was held at the M. E. church, all others at the hall. On Thursday evening President Warren was greeted by an overflowing house to hear his lecture on Palestine accompanied by stereoscopic views taken by members of his family. All day Friday the hall was well filled with enthusiastic delegates from the different schools and townships. The delegates gave a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies of Berrien Springs for the hospitable way in which they were entertained. Not a complaint was heard from any one.

Treasurers report showed a balance of $50 after all obligations were paid. Pledges from the various schools amounted to over $200, individual pledges nearly $500. The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: E. K. Warren, Pres Three Oaks; Rev. H. A. Decker, Vice Pres St. Joseph; I. L. H. Dodd, Vice Pres Buchanan; D. W. Kean, Sec'y, Buchanan; Joel H. Gillette, Treas., Niles; Miss May Busbee, Supt. Primary Work, Benton Harbor; Fred Washburn, Supt. Home Department, Benton Harbor; Executive Com. Geo. Parsons, J. D. Greenmyer, Rev. E. D. Rundell, Geo. B. Ferguson, I. L. H. Dodd.

Miss Nellie Hall and Miss Mae Ingleright, planned a very successful surprise upon Mrs. Dick Ford last Friday night. All report a very pleasant time.

Freight Business Booming.

Freight over the M. B. H. & C. is booming and our citizens hear the whistle and bell of the engines almost any hour in the day. The road has in addition to their regular business secured the contract for hauling the sugar beets from Shelby, Ills., to the Wolverine factory at Benton Harbor. This contract will mean the moving of between 800 and 400 cars of sugar beets and are hauled at the rate of from twelve to fifteen cars a day. The cars come to Chicago Heights over the C. & E. I. Ry., and thence via Hammond to Buchanan over the Michigan Central. Commercial Agent E. D. Morrow of the M. B. H. & C. is a good bit like Davy Crockett. When he gets after anything in the line of business for his road, the business has got to come down the line.

Miss Georgia Emery Gives an Interesting Account of Some of the Things Seen During her Trip Abroad.

The following interesting article appeared in the Muskegon Chronicle recently, and we take great pleasure in reprinting it for the benefit of Miss Emery's many friends and our readers generally.

Muskegon had a small colony of visitors in Europe this summer, some for pleasure, some for study, and others for both. Of the last was the party consisting of Misses Georgia Emery, Addie Littlefield and Margaret B. Hume, of this city, and Misses Ruth Wasner and Ida Boyd of Brooklyn, N. Y. who visited all of the principal galleries of the continent gathering personal impressions of historic art. "We spent the most of the time in the Louvre and the Italian galleries," said Miss Georgia Emery in an interesting account of their journeyings. "We were happily disappointed in the Louvre because we had been told and we had read that the most of the work there consists of copies of other works; but we didn't find it so; and it is such an immense gallery. We spent the greater part of four days there. We saw the Mona Lisa of course; it's the first thing on entering and the first thing spoken of in the Louvre. It is such a mysterious picture. Everybody is impressed with the mystery of it because you can't decide what the expression indicates, I think the picture grows upon one; we went back to it so many times and other people spoke of the same thing. Then the expression changed as we saw it often; it is a more pleasing expression than the reproductions give it.

"Reubens has a great display at the Louvre. There is a series of his there illustrating the life of Marie di Medici, although we did not like it as well as the Reubens' which we saw at Antwerp. We should have come away with a very wrong impression of Reubens had we not visited the Antwerp gallery.

"We saw every one of the twelve masterpieces. Murillo's Immaculate Conception is at Louvre. We liked it better than we ever had the copies and I felt the same with the Sistine Madonna. We enjoyed Correggio's Holy Night, in the Dresden gallery as much as we did the Sistine Madonna. In the former, the angels in the upper part of the picture are in greater harmony with the rest of the composition than they are shown in the photographic reproductions.

"The sculpture that we saw appealed to us as much as the picture did. We enjoyed Thorwaldson and Canova and we noticed how much they are alike in drapery, chiseling and conception.

"In Italy we saw the originals of the old masters right in their native surroundings and they are much more impressive than when transported to the Louvre. For instance in Italy you see the Fra Angelico's with their peculiar drapery and eyes and it impresses you as all right, but you put the same things in the Louvre side by side with modern pictures and it impresses you as a caricature. I think we all felt that we enjoyed a great many of the other painters as much as we did Raphael. One finds as much spirituality, as much fine drawing, and as much beautiful coloring, in Del Sarto, Bartolomeo, and many other old masters. Fra Bartolomeo's work is beautiful. There's spirituality in it.

"Five Americans were highly favored. We went to Hoffman's studio all by ourselves. It is only open to the public one hour on Sundays and we missed that hour, so we went there at another time and were admitted. Hoffman, who was away at his summer home, is very kindly disposed towards Americans, because he feels that they appreciate him; and so when the maid found out that we were from America she said that we might come at eight in the morning. Hoffman is much beloved by the people of Dresden and he is very charitable. When we offered the maid a fee she declined it and called our attention to a box in the studio labeled "Remember the Poor." That is all that is ever asked of visitors. On an easel in the studio we saw Hoffman's "Christ and the Rich Young Man," one of the masterpieces. We really felt that this was one of the brightest spots on our trip.

Among Miss Emery's souvenirs she brought back a large and very beautiful collection of photographic copies of the old masters. "Photographs are very much cheaper there than they are here," she said "and to get copies of the original paintings, one must buy in the town where the galleries containing the paintings are located, otherwise you get copies of copies. You cannot buy a direct copy of anything in the Dresden gallery in Paris, for instance. We bought our pictures on the spot and then were sure to get first copies.

"Casts we did not find so much better than we have here and we were afraid to buy them because we felt that we couldn't transport them without breaking. One of our number purchased a Diana which we thought was very carefully packed and when it reached the boat, the head was broken off."

For scenery, of all the places the party visited, Miss Emery was most enchanted with Holland and Switzerland. "Oh, they were perfectly charming. We were almost as much delighted with Switzerland. The flat country, with the windmills and canals, is all that the artists have pictured it."

"In Holland, on the Isle of Marken, they dress altogether in their native costume; the men in loose baggy trousers ending at the knees, and the women in the peculiar headdresses, short skirts and wooden shoes. Some of the headdresses have the huge brass ear pieces and others silver ones, so familiar in Dutch paintings, and presenting a very quaint and picturesque appearance."

In addition to Miss Emery's photographic collection which she purchased she also took about sixteen dozen snapshot pictures with her camera which include more than one reminder of the very pleasant experiences of their summer abroad.

About thirty of the members of the Ladies Circle, G. A. R. went to Gallien Friday and mustered in Wm. McKinley Circle No. 22 of that place, with 38 charter members, which is the banner circle of the state thus far. After the exercises a delightful repast was served all enjoying heartily the hospitality of the Gallien circle. The officers are as follows: President, Mrs. Carrie Chilson; Sr. Vice, Mrs. M. J. onstrating not only to you, but to the public at large our ability to meet all demands made upon us.

While a large amount of money was withdrawn by our deposit-

During this time there has not been a day that we have not loaned places.

date the same with their lines.

Last week while engaged in putting a stone foundation under the home of Mr. Chas. P. Ingalls, Mr.
Ashley Carlisle broke a stone in two,
and was greatly surprised to find in the center of the stone a small pocket filled with a good quality of crude oil. The stone came from the bed of the St. Joseph river and taken with the indications found on the bank sometime ago by Mr. Murphy would seem to indicate the possibility that oil may be found in paying quantities some future day.

For many years past the engineers of the Michigan Central railroad have been endeavoring to find a line that will do away with the heavy grades between Buchanan and Niles, and avoid the hills. Line after line has been surveyed without accomplishing the sought for object. A line recently surveyed is believed to fill the bill in every particular, and rumors are rife that the new line will be built next year. It will run south east from the first curve east of the Buchanan depot, and through where Gitchel's Lake used to be, around the hills and into the main line just west of West Niles.

An Exciting Celebration.

Hallow'een was observed in our town with many lively times some pleasurable and some not so pleasing.

Fred Provan will have occasion to remember the night for some days to come as he is confined to his home with a broken leg as the result of becoming caught between a bridge and a wagon he and some chums were undertaking to roll into the creek.
Dr. Henderson set the broken leg and Fred will be all right in a few weeks.

The Bethany class of the M. E. Sunday school celebrated Hallow'een at the home of Clarence Runner. The plans were in charge of their teacher, Mr. A. A. Worthington, and a most unique entertainment was enjoyed by a company of over forty. Each member of the class was allowed to invite one guest. The invitations contained the following: "The gob-lins'll git you ef you don't watch out."

We are afraid that there are a number who thought they did not "watch
out."

The house was very tastily decorated with chrysanthemums, autumn fruits and leaves and Jack o' lanterns. The rooms were made appropriately gloomy by having colored papers over the chandeliers. When a guest knocked at the door, everything seemed dark and quiet within, slowly the door was opened by a hand unseen and as the guest stepped in he found himself alone excepting as the gloom revealed a semicircle of ghostly forms; low groans and moans ing were heard but not a word was spoken. One ghost arose and offered an icy hand, and the guest was motioned to the chamber, where he was received by another ghost who directed him to the place where he was to lay aside his wraps. The ghost said to the guest, "I died twenty years ago, and returned to earth this night to hold a carnival."

The chief source of interest for the evening was the haunted chamber.
Each guest was conducted through a mysterious dark passage to the garret where the only light came through the opening in a skull. It would be impossible to describe all the experience and feeling of the guest as he passed into the chamber of death and there had his future revealed.

Games and tricks appropriate to the occasion were enjoyed by all. After refreshments came the ghost stories, and it was past midnight when the guests departed.

The Happy Go Lucky Club observed the evening at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. Chas. F. Boyle and as usual made a success of the observance.
Book were represented by the different members of the club and a general good time enjoyed by all.

Removes to Milwaukee

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cunningham and family who have resided in Buchanan for many years past will remove this week to Milwaukee, Wis., where he has interests which will take much of his time. Their many friends will wish them much success and abundant prosperity in their new location.

New Time Card.

The Michigan Central put a new time card into effect Sunday and we both profit and lose in the operation.
A new train going west due at 5:39 o'clock a. m. stops on signal, the accommodation leaves at 5:58 a. m. instead of 8:18 as formerly. The east bound trains are nearly the same except that No. 14 due at 5:19 does not stop, and a new train No. 4 due here at 7:39 stops, giving our town five trains each way daily. The time card is published in another column.

A swell society affair took place in Chicago last Wednesday evening. It was the Chapin-Robertson wedding.

Mrs. M. E. Sickafosse has been granted a pension of $8 per month.

Mrs. A. M. Glover visited her sister Mrs. Clark, at Michigan City over Sunday.

Mrs. A. A. Amsden and granddaughter, Volta Boyer, visited Mrs.
May Godfrey and family Thursday.

Mrs. G. W. Noble and daughter, Miss Winifred returned on Tuesday from a visit to the Pan-American and relatives in New York state.

About half past three o'clock Wednesday afternoon a fire was discovered in the cellar of H. R. Adams hardware store, and the thick black smoke rolling out of the building looked like a bad fire. As usual the fire department were "Johnny on the Spot" and in less time than it takes to write the fire was out. Cause of fire was unknown but probably spontaneous combustion.

THE LADY OF LYNN

By SIR WALTER BESANT

Copyright, 1900, by Sir Walter Besant

"Sir, you overrate my position. Still, however, we must keep the matter secret for a day or two yet. I engage you, captain, to profound secrecy."

"As long as you please, my lord. The sooner I may speak of it the better I shall like it, for I am bursting with joy and satisfaction."

"Patience, captain, for a day or two." The captain became serious, even melancholy. "You will take her away, I suppose?"

"I fear I must. A married man generally takes away his wife, does he not?"

"You will take her to your country house and to London. Well, I am old. I am 75 already. I cannot expect ever to see her again. Her mother, however, is not so old by 30 years. Perhaps your lordship will at some time or other—we would not remind you of your lady's humble folk—allow her, if she is within an easy journey, to come here to see her mother."

"Surely, surely, captain. Could I be so hard hearted as to refuse? Her mother, certainly, or yourself, but not any of her old friends, not the friends of her childhood, such as that young sailor man, nor the girls of the place."

"I care not for them so that I may comfort her poor mother with that promise. As for myself, who am I that I should intrude upon her? Let me die happy in the knowledge that she is happy."

"She will be as happy as the day is long, captain."

"I doubt it not. As for Jack Pentecoste, an old playfellow, he is like me. He loves her as if she was his sister, but he desires nothing but the knowledge of the girl's happiness."

"I accept your assurance, captain, that he will not endeavor to seek her or to visit her."

"He will not. My lord—the captain became very serious—"I can promise you a well conditioned, virtuous, modest, obedient and dutiful wife. She will ask for nothing but a continuance of your lordship's affection and consideration, in return for which she will be your willing servant as well as your wife."

"Again, captain, I doubt it not, else I should not be here."

"And when the day comes—when you pass the word, my lord—the bells shall ring, and the music shall play, and all the town shall make holiday, and we will have such a feast and merrymaking that all the country round shall ring with it. My lord, I am so happy!"

"But, captain, I have not yet received the consent of the lady."

"Be assured that you will have it. But the girl is shy and hesitates, being, to say the truth, dazzled by the rank to which she is to be raised. A young maid's modesty will perhaps hinder such a freedom of speech as you would naturally desire."

"I hope, sir, that I am able to appreciate and value the virtue of modesty. All I ask of the young lady is her consent."

"Of that you may be assured beforehand."

"Then, captain, as this is an occasion of some awkwardness and one which it is well to get through as quickly as possible—did one ever hear of such a lover?—well, to get through as quickly as possible—his first interview with his mistress—"you will perhaps bring Miss Molly to me or take me to her."

Molly meanwhile was in her bedroom in a strange agitation, her color coming and going—now pale, now blushing—for the first time in her life trembling and inclined to swoon. Even for a girl who loves a man it is an event of the greatest importance and one never to be forgotten when she consents to make him happy. But when she is in grievous doubt, torn by the consciousness that she does not love the man, that she is afraid of him, that she does not desire the change of rank which he offers and that she would far rather remain among her own people—in such a case, I say, her trouble is great indeed. However, to do honor to the occasion, she, like the captain, had assumed her Sunday attire. Her frock, to be sure, was not so fine as that in which she graced the assembly, but it was passable. To my mind she looked more beautiful than in that splendid dress.

At her guardian's summons she slowly descended the stairs. The kitchen door was open. She looked in as she passed. Her mother, instead of being busy over her housewifery, was sitting in her chair, her hands clasped, her eyes closed, her lips moving. She was praying for her daughter. Molly stepped in and kissed her. "Mother," she said, "pray that it may turn out well. I must accept him. Yet I doubt. Oh, pray for me!"

"Because," her mother murmured in reply, "the captain cannot help, and Jack cannot help, and there is none other that helpeth us but only thou, O God!"

Then Molly turned the handle of the parlor door and entered.

"Miss Molly!" Her gallant lover, splendid with his star and his fine clothes, took her hand, bowed low and kissed her fingers.

"You would speak with me, my lord."

"Yesterday I sent a message to your guardian. I told him by my messenger that I was entirely overcome by the beauty and the charms and the virtues of his fair ward, and I offered, unworthy as I am, my hand and all that goes with it—my rank and title, my possessions and myself."

"The captain told me of the message."

"I have today received an answer from him. But, although he is your guardian, I would not presume to consider that answer as final. I must have your answer as well."

"My lord, I am but a humble and a homely person."

"Nay, but lovely as Venus herself."

"I know not, since all the company have come to Lynn, how homely and humble I am in the eyes of gentlefolk."

"You will no longer be either homely or humble when you are a countess."

"I fear that your friends among the great will make your lordship ashamed of your choice."

"My friends know me better than to suppose that I can be shamed by their opinion. But, indeed, they have only to see you for that opinion to be changed. Once seen by the world, and all will envy and congratulate the happy possessor of so much beauty."

"Then—are you satisfied that you are truly in love with me?"

"Satisfied?" He took her hand and kissed it. "How shall I satisfy you on this point? By what assurance? By what lover's vows?"

She glanced upward, having spoken so far with hanging head. Her eyes met his. Alas, they were cold and hard! There was no softening influence of love visible in those eyes—only resolution and purpose. His eyes were as cold as his forehead and as hard as his lips. Poor Molly! Poor countess!

"Is it not, my lord," she asked, "a mere passing fancy? You will be tired of me in a month. You will regret that you did not choose, rather, among the fine ladies who speak your language and follow your manners."

"Molly, I am a man who does not encourage idle fancies and passing loves. You will find no change in me. As I am now so I shall be always."

She shivered. The prospect made her feel cold.

"Then, my lord," she said, "I have nothing more to say. I shall not do justice to your rank, nor shall I bring to your house the dignity which you deserve. Such as I am, take me, if you will; or let me go, if you will."

"Can you doubt, Molly? I will take you." He hesitated; he took her hand again; he stooped and kissed her forehead. There was no passion in his kiss, no tenderness in his touch, no emotion in his voice. Such as he was then such he would always be, and, though the door was closed, Molly seemed to hear again the voice of her mother murmuring, "But only thou, O God!"

Her lover drew the captain's armchair and placed it at the open window, which looked out into the garden, then filled with flowers, fragrant and beautiful and melodious with the humming of many bees.

"Sit down, Molly, and let us talk." He did not sit down; he stood before her; he walked about the room; he played with the gold tassels of his sword.

"Molly, since we are to be married, we must be married at once."

"I am your lordship's servant."

"As soon as possible. Are you ready?"

"Ready? I suppose I could be ready in a month or six weeks."

"Why, what is there to do?"

"I have to get things—dresses, house linen, all kinds of things."

"My dear, you are not going to marry a cit. Everything that you want you can buy. There are plenty of shops. You want nothing but what you have—your wardrobe, your fine things and your common things and your jewels. You must not forget your jewels."

"I thought that brides were always provided with things for the house, but if your lordship has already the linen and the napery—"

"Good gracious! How should I know what I have? The thing is that you will need nothing."

"Where will you take me?"

"I think, first of all, to my house in Gloucestershire. It is not fully furnished. The late possessor, my cousin, whom I succeeded, was, unfortunately, a gambler. He had to cut down his woods and to sell them. He even had to sell his furniture and pictures. But I can soon put the house in order fit for your reception." It was he himself and not his predecessor who had sold these things. "If it is not so fine at first as you would wish, we can soon make it worthy of you."

I have often wondered what he intended to do with his bride if things had gone differently. I am now of opinion that he intended to take her to this great country house, which, as I have understood, stands in a secluded part of the country, with no near neighbors and no town within reach, and that he intended to leave her there while he himself went up to London to resume the old gaming and raking which he desired so much, although they had been his ruin. Fate, however, prevented this design.

"If you desire my happiness, my lord—"

"What else is there in the world that I should desire?"

It pleases us all as a clean family magazine, and by 'all,' I mean my friends who appreciate and speak of works they commend. I have yet to find an adverse criticism from man or woman whose interest lie in the lines of pure thought and who desire their loved ones to read that which tends to elevate life. How to Dress and Ship Poultry.

The following practical article should contain suggestions of value to breeders who desire to put their stock into the best possible marketable condition:

In the first place, poultry should be well fed and well watered, and then kept from 18 to 24 hours without food before killing. Stock dresses out brighter when well watered, and this adds to their appearance. Full crops injure the appearance and are apt to sour, and when this does occur, correspondingly lower prices must be accepted than are obtainable for choice stock. Never kill poultry by wringing the neck.

To DRESS CHICKENS.—Kill by bleeding in the mouth or opening the veins of the neck; hang by the feet until properly bled. Leave head and feet on, and do not remove intestines or crop. Scalded chickens sell best to home trade, and dry-picked best to shippers, so that either manner of dressing will do if properly executed. For scalding chickens, the water should be as near the boiling point as possible without boiling; pick the legs dry before scalding; hold by the head and legs and immerse, and lift up and down three times; if the head is immersed, it turns the color of the comb and gives the eyes a shrunken appearance, which leads buyers to think the fowl has been sick; the feathers and pin-feathers should then be removed immediately very cleanly, and without breaking the skin; then "plump" by dipping for ten seconds in water nearly or quite boiling hot, and then immediately in cold water; hang in a cool place until the animal heat is entirely out of the body. To dry-pick chickens properly, the work should be done while the chickens are bleeding; do not wait and let the bodies get cold. Dry-picking is much more easily done while the bodies are warm. Be careful and do not break and tear the skin.

To DRESS TURKEYS.—Observe the same instructions as given for preparing chickens, but always dry pick. Dressed turkeys, when dry picked, always sell best and command better prices than scalded lots, as the appearance is brighter and more attractive. Endeavor to market all old and heavy gobblers before Jan. 1, as after the holidays the demand is for small, fat hen turkeys; only, old toms being sold at a discount to canners.

DUCKS AND GESE.—Should be scalded in the same temperature of water as for other kinds of poultry, but it requires more time for the water to penetrate and loosen the feathers. Some parties advise, after scalding, to wrap them in a blanket, for the purpose of steaming, but they must not be left in this condition long enough to cook the flesh. Do not undertake to dry pick geese and ducks just before killing for the purpose of saving the feathers, as it causes the skin to become very much inflamed, and is a great injury to the sale. Do not pick the feathers off the head; leave the feathers on for one or two inches on the neck. Do not singe the bodies for the purpose of removing any down or hair, as the heat from the flame will give them an oily and unsightly appearance. After they have been picked clean they should be held in scalding water about ten seconds, for the purpose of plumping, and then rinsed off in clean, cold water. Fat, heavy stock is always preferred.

Before packing and shipping, poultry should be thoroughly dry and cold but not frozen; the animal heat should be entirely out of the body; pack in boxes and barrels; boxes holding 100 to 200 pounds are preferable, and pack snugly; straighten out the body and legs, so that they will not arrive very much bent and twisted out of shape; fill the package as full as possible, to prevent moving about on the way; barrels answer better for chickens and ducks than for turkeys or geese; when convenient, avoid putting more than one kind in a package, mark kind and weight of each description on the description on the package, and mark shipping directions plainly on the cover.

To DRESS CAPONS.—First be sure and not kill them until crops are empty, and see that they are fat. A thin capon is not as good as an ordinary chicken, because if not large or a proper capon they are not wanted as capons, or chickens either. Leave feathers on neck from head down two-thirds way to the shoulders.

Leave feathers on two first joints of wings; leave feathers on tail and half way up the back; leave feathers on legs from knee joint two-thirds up the hips. All the rest of the feathers come off. Feathers that are removed should be saved, and will sell if kept dry and clean. Be careful and keep the capon clean, wrap paper around head. Appearances add to the sale, and of course in the price.—Country Gentleman.

Michigan Central Improvements.

General Passenger Agent Ruggles of the Michigan Central made an announcement yesterday of an improvement in the passenger service of the company. Beginning on Nov. 3 two new trains will be placed in service between Chicago and New York and the time of a third train between the same cities will be cut two hours and 45 minutes. The most important feature will be the retention of the train known as the Pan American special and the extension of this service to New York and Boston. The new train will be called the New York State Special and is expected to prove a very popular through train as well as a popular local train in the state of New York. The time of leaving Chicago will be 5:30 p. m. daily and the time of arrival in New York 8:42 p. m. making a 26 hours and 15 minutes train. The time of arrival at Boston will be 11:30 p. m. From Chicago to Buffalo the train will be full vestibuled and specially equipped. At Buffalo the New York and Boston sleepers will connect with a train on the New York Central, making a through train all the way. The New York Central will split at Albany, the sleepers being attached to New York and Boston trains. The second new train will be a west bound special to run in connection with the New York Central's fast mail train No. 3, which leaves New York at 8:45 a. m. and arrives in Chicago at 7:50 a. m. This train will carry a through sleeper from New York, which will connect at Buffalo with the train "opposite" to the New York State Special, and bring it into Chicago at either 7:50, the time of the Lake Shore's fast mail, or at 8 o'clock a. m. This will make a west bound service between the two cities of 24 hours and five or fifteen minutes. The Chicago-New York service will be further bettered by cutting two hours and 45 minutes off the time of the sleeping car service on the train leaving here at 8 o'clock p. m. This sleeper has been arriving in New York at 8:45 p. m., but will hereafter arrive there at 6 p. m. making a 26 hours' service. In this connection notice has been received that the Michigan Central's engine on exhibition has been awarded the gold medal as the finest example of the locomotive builders' art on exhibit there.—Chicago Record-Herald.

HOLDING YOUR OWN

In addition to a most generous and attractive display in black and white and colors of fashions and millinery, the December Designer pays full homage to the Christmas season in its literature and illustrations. It contains two clever short stories, "Where the Christmas Tree Grows Wild," by Harriet A. Nash, and "A Traveling Christmas Tree," by S. E. Benet; a Christmas comedy, "Hands Up!" by William Lincoln Balch; "Charities for Children," by Waldren Fawcett, and "Christmas Carols and their Composers," by Phebe W. Humphreys. M. G. Richardson tells those with slender purses how to make "Sixty Presents for Five Dollars," and "Inexpensive Gifts for the children to make" and described and illustrated by L. O. Lennart. "Homemade Trimmings for the Christmas Tree" and "A Christmas Party" containing suggestions which will be eagerly seized upon, and the elocutionist in search of suitable recitations for Christmas entertainments will find just what is desirable in this number. "Book Notes," "Points on Dressmaking," "Health and Beauty" hints, "Tattooing and Crocheting" are given their customary space and attention, and "Etiquette," "Household Advice," "Nursery Lore" and "Cookery" are by no means neglected. Finally the Designer offers a Christmas contest open to everyone, with cash prizes for the successful ones. Full particulars concerning this scheme are given in the December number.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

There is scarcely any condition of ill health that is not benefited by the occasional use of a R. I. P. A. S. Never Before a Chance Like This.

Never before in the history of the newspaper world was such a generous opportunity afforded the public to secure one or more gifts of actually big value, absolutely free of cost. Do not pass this chance by. Think of what it means, and think also of those true words from the pen of John James Ingalls, under the caption of—

OPPORTUNITY.

"Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, Love, and Fortune on my doorsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by Hovel and mart and palace—soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before"

I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore.
I answer not, and I return no more!"

—John James Ingalls.

How true these words! How well you know they are true! Then act. "It is the hour of fate," and fortunate indeed is he who hears and heeds the knock of "Opportunity."

Father's Pursuit from California to St. Joseph Is Unsuccessful.

St. Joseph, Mich., Nov. 5.—After a race across the country in pursuit of an eloping couple, Henry Johnson of Oakland, Cal., an orange planter, has arrived here. He is in search of his daughter, Clara Belle Johnson, a belle of Oakland, who left her home several days ago in company with Walter A. Sampson, with the avowed intention of being married here. The marriage was very objectionable to Johnson on account of the fact that the prospective bridegroom was poor. The couple were traced by the father to Denver and thence to Chicago. At the latter place they took a Michigan Central train. The father was only a few hours behind. He reached here at 3 o'clock in the morning and went to the home of County Clerk Church, where he demanded admittance. Mr. Church dressed and went to the courthouse with Johnson. The marriage records were scanned, but the two names sought were not found. The couple had not arrived in the city. The father is watching every train for the elopers. It is thought that they went to Kalamazoo and will come here.

BRITISH LOSE HEAVILY

Attacked by the Boers Under the Cover of a Thick Mist.

LIST OF CASUALTIES TOTALS 237

Including Col. Benson Among the Dead—Fighting at Close Quarters—Boer Loss Is Not Known.

London, Nov. 2.—Lord Kitchener has reported to the war office a disaster to the British near Bethel, eastern Transvaal, in which two guns were lost, several officers killed or wounded, and fifty-four men were killed and 160 wounded. The following is the text of Lord Kitchener's dispatch, dated Pretoria, Nov. 1:

"I have just heard of a severe attack made on the rear guard of Colonel Benson's column when about twenty miles northwest of Bethel, near Brokenlaagte, during a thick mist. The strength of the enemy is reported to have been 1,000. They rushed two guns with the rear guard, but it is uncertain whether they were able to remove them. I fear our casualties were heavy. Colonel Benson was wounded, but not severely. A relieving column will reach him this morning."

Benson Dies of His Wound.
Later Lord Kitchener telegraphed as follows: "Colonel Barter, who marched from the constabulary line yesterday, reached Benson's column early this morning unopposed. He reports that Colonel Benson died of his wounds. The other casualties are the following: Killed—Colonel E. Guinness, Major F. D. Murray, Captains M. W. Lindsay and F. T. Thorould, Lieutenants E. V. I. Brooks and R. E. Shepherd, and Second Lieutenant A. J. Corlett; died of wounds, Captain Eyre Loud."

Lord Kitchener then gives the names of thirteen other officers who were wounded, most of them severely, and announces that fifty-four non-commissioned officers and men were killed and 160 wounded, adding that four of the latter have since died of their wounds.

Believes the Guns Were Retaken.
The dispatch then says: "I assume that the two guns have been recovered and the enemy has withdrawn, but I have no further details. I deeply regret the loss of Colonel Benson and the other officers and men who fell with him. In Benson the service loses a most gallant and capable officer, who invariably led his column with marked success and judgment. The fighting was at very close quarters and maintained with determination by both sides. The enemy suffered heavily, but I have not yet received a reliable estimate. The Boers retired east."

Seventy-Eight Boers Captured.
London, Nov. 2.—A dispatch from Lord Kitchener dated Pretoria, received here yesterday says that Col. Kekewich during a night surprise of Van Albert's laager, northeast of Rustenburg (about sixty miles west of Pretoria), captured seventy-eight Boers.

VICTORY WAS WITH THE BRITISH.

Boers Repeatedly Repulsed by Benson's Force, With Heavy Losses.
Pretoria, Nov. 4.—Further details have been received regarding the attack by the Boers under Commandant General Louis Botha last week upon Colonel Benson's column near Brakenlaagte, eastern Transvaal. It appears that General Botha, who had been joined by another big commando aggregating 1,000 men, attacked Colonel Benson's rear guard Oct. 30 on the march, and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Colonel Benson fell mortally wounded early in the fight. Major Wools-Sampson took command, collected the convoy and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from entrenchments prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that either side could touch them. The Boers made desperate efforts to overwhelm the whole British force, charging repeatedly right up to the British lines, being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stubbornly and successfully maintained through the whole of the following day, and the succeeding night, until Colonel Barter, who had marched all night from Bushman's kop, brought relief on the morning of Nov. 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated at between 300 and 400. Not only did General Botha direct the attack, but he personally shared in the fighting.

It appears that the first attack was made in a blinding rain storm. The heaviest casualties occurred while Major Wools-Sampson, who is a Johannesburg reformer and an officer in one of the colonial levies, was gathering the convoy under the brow of a hill, a most difficult task.

"NED" STOKES IS DEAD

Man Who Shot Down "Jim" Fisk Goes to Join His Victim.

New York, Nov. 4.—Edward S. Stokes, the slayer of Colonel "Jim" Fisk, and one of the most picturesque characters in New York's history, died Saturday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Howard McNutt, 731 St. Nicholas avenue, after suffering the third relapse since he was taken ill a month ago. Stokes suffered from kidney trouble for years, and it was not until a short time ago that it was positively determined that he had Bright's disease.

Edward Stokes was born in Philadelphia in 1841. Young Stokes went to New York when he was about 20 years old, and began business as a produce dealer. In the height of the Tweed ring days in New York city he became acquainted with James Fisk, Jr., whom he afterward killed.

Happenings Throughout the State Received by Telegraph and Put in Type.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 4.—Charles H. Pratt, who has been on trial in this city since Tuesday on the charge of bribery, was convicted Saturday night after twelve hours' deliberation by the jury. Pratt was indicted by a grand jury for the alleged bribery of Speaker Adams of the legislature of 1896, in an attempt to secure the passage of an act for the purchase by the state of court reports for each county. The case will be taken to the supreme court.

Adams Denies Every Statement.
When ex-Speaker Adams was put on the stand before the case went to the jury he denied every statement made by Pratt in his alleged confession. He admitted having met a representative of the West Publishing House in Chicago during the session, but denied that any contract was made whereby he was to aid in securing the passage of the law-book bill. He also pronounced false the story that Pratt had given him drafts for $6,000.

Tells of Salsbury's Financial Affairs.
Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 4.—Judge R. J. Newnam testified in the Salsbury trial Saturday that in May, 1900, Salsbury came to him with a story that he was in great distress for money, and unless he succeeded in making a loan he would commit suicide. Salsbury, he said, told him that MacLeod, teller of the Old National bank, had cashed his checks for $20,000, and that the deficiency must be made good. Salsbury accompanied Newnam to Chicago to solicit a loan from Higginbotham, his uncle, but had no success. The latter part of June, the witness said, Salsbury had plenty of money, and said it came from an estate which he had inherited.

Details in With Garman's Story.
E. E. Walker testified that on July 25 F. B. Gates leased a deposit vault and made S. V. MacLeod his deputy. The condition on the contract was that the box should not be opened except in the presence of both. Later this condition was removed, and the box was accessible to either, and both visited it alone at subsequent dates. The date of taking the box was the same as given by Cameron and Garman of the arrival of Gates with $75,000 in $1,000 bills.

MacLeod Managed Things Well.
Harvey J. Hollister, of the Old National bank, testified that he did not know MacLeod had gone wrong until last February, and said the bank books even then did not show a shortage. He described how checks could have been passed through the clearing house, of which MacLeod was manager, without detection.
