Government of Colombia Forces Said to Have Driven the Liberals Back.

NO BOMBARDMENT TO BE ALLOWED

United States Marines Guarding the Isthmian Railway-Latest News from the Scene of Central American Troubles.

Colon, Nov. 26.—The breastworks on the railroad bridge that leads into Panama, as well as those erected inside the city, have been demolished by the government. The latest report is that the Liberals have been driven back from Culebra station in a fight lasting from 4:40 to 9 p. m., in which there were over 150 killed and wounded on both sides, and that fighting was going on at San Pablo.

Colon, Nov. 26.—An armed guard of marines from the United States bat- monious operations. Later advices, tleship Iowa has re-established the while showing the situation on the transit across the isthmus, and details from the Iowa's marines are now protecting each passenger train. There has been fierce fighting at Empire station, on the railroad line between Panama and Colon, between the insurgents and the troops of the Colombian government with very heavy losses on both sides.

:Colombian Government Forces Winning. Washington, Nov. 26.—Herran, the charge of the Colombian legation, is very well satisfied with the tenor of lguard on each passenger train for the the advices which came to hand yesterday from Acting Governor Arjona, of Fanama, who reported that the rebel army having been defated at Culebra and Emperador, General Alban had now marched on Colon. His theory is that General Alban completely dislodged the rebel force which had rendezvouzed at Chorrera, from which place Herran believes they retreated to Culebra and Emperador, where they again took a stand. Their defeat at these places, Herran says, leaves General Alban free to march to Colon. Herran thinks that General Alban now has at least 1,000 well equipped and thoroughly armed men, besides which 600 men are on board the Colombian boat Pinzon, now at Colon. Herran aserts that the rebels have not at the outside more than 500 men.

News of a Fight Progressing. Dispatches from the isthmus yesterday were decidedly thrilling. One dated Colon, 9 a. m., said the government troops were attacking the Liberals at Culebra, but that the result was not known. This dispatch continued: "The government gunboat General Pinzon left her anchorage, close to the other warships last night, and is now reported to be landing troops on the north end of Colon. There | fear to lose everything by not acceptis much commotion in the streets. I People are seeking refuge on board the United States gunboats Marietta and Machias, along the railroad and on the piers. The Colombian gunboat General Pinzon arrived here from Cartagena with troops. Captain McCrea, of the United States gunboat Machias, has notified the commander of the Cothem to land in the town."

side. While Commander McCrea was given wide discretionary power and nothing was said to him about stopping the bombardment directly, nevertheless the state department established a precedent in these matters last vear when it instructed Gudger to warn some insurgents at Panama that they would not be allowed to bombard that port.

If the government troops on the Pinzon should persist in their purpose it is said that the commanders of the various warships at Colon would require that ample time be allowed for the withdrawal from the town of all foreigners, and that the attacking force, to escape restraint, would be obliged to direct their bombardment with such rare precision as to destroy the insurgent defenses without harming the railroad property, and even without endangering the passage of trains, conditions probably not to be

These advices came in a dispatch received by Secretary Long from Captain Perry, of the Iowa, who had made a trip across the isthmus from Panama to Colon, from which place he sent a telegram, an extract of which the secretary made public, as follows:

"Captain Perry reports that free transit across the isthmus is restored. and that he returns to Panama this afternoon. The captain will leave a Black Damp Overwhelms Them from the Baby Mine, Which Now Blazes Furiously.

Bluefield, W. Va., Nov. 25.—The dead bodies of the lost party of eight well-known mining men who entered west mine of the Pocahontas Collieries company on Friday morning last were recovered at 12:45 p. m. yesterday.

Bluefields, W. Va., Nov. 23.-At 11 a. m. yesterday Superintendent Walter O'Malley, of the Pocahontas Colileries company; State Mine Inspector William Priest; A. S. Hurst, chief coal inspector for the Castnor, Curran & Bullitt company, of Philadelphia; Robert St. Clair, chief coal inspector; Morris St. Clair and William Oldham, substitute coal inspectors; Frazier G. Bell, mining engineer, and Joseph Vardwell, manager of the Shamokin Coal and Coke company, of Maybury, W. Va., composing a party of eight, entered the west main of the Southwest Virginia Improvement company's collieries for the purpose of examining the true situation in regard to the recent explosion and fire in the Baby mine, and up to this writing have not been heard from.

Went Into the Jaws of Death. It was supposed that the Baby mine proper had been cut off from the west mine for the purpose of operating that mine. The large fan in the west mine had been started at an early hour in the morning, and at 11 a. m. yesterday it was thought that all gases originating from the fire in the Baby mine had been forced from the main portion, and facts not developed at the inquest. it was considered safe to enter. At 6 Washington, Nov. 26.—It is pretty p. m. a party consisting of experienced well understood here that there is to miners, led by Assistant Superintendbe no bombardment of Colon by either | ent King, entered the mine to rescue the lost party of eight, but at 6:45 they returned, having encountered such quantities of black damp as to make it impossible to enter any distance into the mine. Assistant Superintendent King was completely overcome by the gas encountered and is now in a critical condition.

No Hope for Their Recovery Alive. The different mining experts from the Flat Top field were rushed to Pocahontas by a special train and all efforts are being used to recover the bodies of the inspecting party, but no hopes are entertained that any of them will be recovered alive. The secretary and treasurer of the Southwest Virginia Improvement company, C. S. Thorne, of Philadelphia, is directly in charge of all movements at the mines. The fire that originally started in the Baby mine a week ago last Thursday, and which was supposed to have been under control, is now burning furiously. All the members of the lost party are prominent in the coal field, and the excitement prevailing is intense, business having practically suspended. All the members of the party are married, some having large families.

Ships and Buildings Torn to Pieces in the East-Some of the Damage Done.

New York, Nov. 26.—Ruin on ocean and land marks the path of the fiftymile gale and rainstorm that has been sweeping over New York harbor for the last twenty-four hours. Ships have been wrecked, a hotel destroyed, piers torn to pieces, fences demolished, trees blown down and telegraphic comunication interfered with owing to the breaking of innumerable wires. Two ocean liners were unable to make port for twelve hours and all the ferryboats had terrific battles with the waves all day. Harlem river presented the highest tide ever known. Only one life is known to have been lost, but thirty-one men faced death for hours in the wild storm and were rescued from wrecked vessels only through the stanchest heroism and amidst the greatest peril of life guards-

Following are a few of the notable instances of damage done by the storm: Ship Flottbek, driven ashore and in danger of going to pieces; tug Robert Haddon, driven against iron pier and pounded to pieces; Yacht Columbia, America's cup winner, stove in at City Island; fifteen fishermen's sloops wrecked at Seabright, N. The Corn of Egypt

"Samuel Wisson, a farmer of Sandwich West, Essex county, Ontario, is exhibiting ears of corn grown from seed found in the covering of an Egyptian mummy, supposed to be at least 2,000 years old. The corn was brought from Egypt last year by Rev. Mr. Higgins, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr Wisson husked four bushels from sixty hills. The corn is a bright red tint, plump and weighs well, but is came from. The date of these speciquite different from samples grown in Canada or the United States."

Finding the above item affoat in the daily press, a representative of the Advocate went over to Sandwich last week and hunted up the gentleman referred to. He found Mr. Samuel Wisson (not Wilson, as the papers erroneously printed it) living on a farm some two miles back of Sandwich, the county seat of Essex county. Mr. Wisson says the item is in the main correct. The seed corn which he obtained from Mr. Higgins was black in color-possibly from age. It was planted on a light sandy soil, a little later than his other corn was plynted. It matured quite as early as the other corn. It showed a very rank growth, the stalks reaching fifteen feet in height, and being so coarse as to be quite worthless for fodder. The stalks quite generally produced two good ears each, with often two smaller ones. Mr. Higgins reported getting as hight as six good ears from one stalk. In Pharaoh's dream "seven ears of corn came up on one stalk, rank and good" (Gen 41:5)—not at all improbable judging from the experience above stated. Mr. Wisson says he obtained a bushel of ears from sixteen hills, while his other corn required thirty-two hills to yield a bushel. He obtained four and a half bushels from the handful of seed given him by Mr. Higgins. and is confident that on a strong heavy soil the yield would be greater. He intends planting it quite extensively next year.

The corn is of a dent variety, showing from twelve to sixteen rows to the ear. The ears are plump and well filled, really "rank and good." Mr. Wisson noted one remarkable fact: While the corn generally was of a bright red color, some hills yielded a WANTED- TRUSTWORTHY MEN AND | yellow corn, quite similar to the other except in color. The seed, so far as he could see, was all alike, and no other coin was planted near. The corn was of unusual weight-Mr. Wisson thinks a bushel would weigh as much as a bushel and a half of ordinary corn. Mr. Wisson kindly gave the Advocate man specimens of the corn, which may be seen at this half). Laws were made to control office. While differing somewhat from our ordinary corn, it is substan tially the same as the "dent" or grain at a time, or make a profit of azine, satisfactory inside and out. "gourd" varieties grown in this re- more than three cents on a basket.

> It will doubtless puzzle many Bible students to learn that the "corn" grown in Egypt two and three thousand years ago was our own maize or Indian corn, which we have been taught is strictly indigenous to Amer-derstood to be generic, and to mean wheat, barley, millet or some similar small grain. Yet McClintock and Strong's encyclopedia, in the article on "corn," admits that maize was found in China before Columbus' day, and refers to instances where grains of Indian corn, and even the husks, have been found in mummy cases in Egypt-exactly where the specimens obtained by Mr. Wisson mens would carry us back to near the days of the Ptolemies; and if "corn' of our maize variety were grown in Egypt then, it might easily be the same sort which was stored up by Joseph in the days of the great famine thirty six centuries ago .- Michigan Christian Advocate, Nov. 16 1901.

Ancient Monopolies.

Monopolies have always existed, to a greater or less extent—carrying with them the same objectionable and desirable qualities that attend these at the present day.

What we call the "corner," in commerce, was well known in Biblical times. When Esau sold his birthright, it was because the more thrifty and commercially minded Jacob had corralled the provisions of the locality, and would not let them go except at his own price.

Jacob's illustrious son, Joseph; inspired by a dream to buy up all the wheat in sight, did so; and this time, it was a righteous "corner"—inspired by the great Jehovah whom he worshipped and adored.

He was well paid for his obedience to the suggestions of the divine dream -even financially. As soon as the contemplated famine was on, money began to arrive from the different people round about, and was snugly packed away in the gigantic banks of those days, called treasuries.

When the money was all gone, and the second year of "depression" arrived, flocks and herds were used as a medium of exchange, in order that the people might procure sustenance for themselves and their loved ones.

The ancient Athenians had a great deal of trouble with their corn-factors, who bought the nourishing grain from ships at the Piraeus (the port of Athens), and sold it in the city at greatly advanced prices.

It was claimed, in language tha sounds strikingly modern, that these wheat merchants combined with one another to secure higher prices; it was asserted that they sold grain on the same day it was purchased, at an advance of a drachma (nineteen cents) on a medimnus (one bushel and a prices; and dealers were not allowed to buy more than fifty baskets of

The word to places where grain was scarce and "corn" in the Scriptures has been un- prices high. It is charged that this old-time manipulator of the market bought his wheat for the equivalent of $1.90 a measure, and sold it for $6.08—a very safe margin; even up to the high standard of present-day

Then there were the royal monopolies of brick and syenite and papyrus in Egypt. The Phoenician government found it desirable to keep in its own hands a monopoly of the trade in wheat and purple; the Greek state had entire control of the mines and banking operations of the county; and in Rome there were various state monopolies-the most notable of which was the trade in salt.

The spirit of monopoly pervaded foreign commerce. For a thousand years the merchants of Tyre and Sidon maintained exclusive privileges of trade throughout the greater part of the Mediterranean and Black Sea. Then that thrifty little city-state of Carthage, on the northern shore of Africa, rose to supremacy, and did all the buying and selling in the Mediterranean world, until the Ronan Cato perceived that Carthage 'must be destroyed." Carthage was destroyed, and Rome took its place as the monopolist of the time.-November Every Where.

The Captain of the Gray Horse Troop The Tetong Indian Reservation is the scene of Mr. Hamlin Garland's

new novel of Western life, which he calls The Captain of the Gray Horse Troop. Mr. Garland's hero is a young army officer who has been detached from his regiment and sent to relieve a dishonest Indian agent. The resourceful captain's guardianship of an Indian tribe beset by starvation and driven to desperation by cattlemen and politicians is full of dash and adventure. The daughter of a United States Senator, a land grabber of the worst sort and the captain's sworn enemy, is Mr. Garland's heroine. The story is a powerful and vivid picture of reservation life, glowing with color and fairly alive with action.

The Captain of the Gray Horse Troop will appear serially in the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, the opening installment being installment being scheduled for the issue of December 14. The story has been illustrated with spirited pictures Messrs Frederic Remington and Jay Hambidge.

I underwent a treatment for I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever. I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. #### The Rules of Christian Giving The six principles of giving.

I Give as unto God; Ex. 35:5 "Take ye from among you an offering unto the Lord."

II Give willingly and cheerfully; IIICor. 9:7,"Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver."

III Give liberally; II Cot. 9:6, 'He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully," IV Give with simplicity; Rom. 12:8, "He that giveth let him do it with simplicity.' ('Without favor, or ostentation.") V Give at some cost or sacrifice; II Sam. 24.24, "Neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the Lord my God of that which doth cost me nothing." VI Give with consecration and godliness; I Chron. 29:5, "And who then is willing to consecrate his service this dsy unto the Lord." The four motives of giving.

I Give with a sense of obligation Chron. 29:14, "All things come of thee and of thine own have we given

II Give with a greatful heart, Paul appeals to this high motive. Il Cor. 8:9, "For we know that the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for our sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich."

III Give as an acknowledgement of God's demands. Prov. 3:9, "Honor the Lord with thy substance, with the first-fruits of all thine increase. So shall thy barns be filled with IV Give in proportion to your prosperity. Deut. 16:10, "Thou shalt give unto the Lord thy God, according as the Lord thy God hath blessed Christian giving is one of the most important features in a religious life. It is an expression whereby the fulness of a devoted soul may present a phase of the Christ life in objects of faith and rules of practice The Rev H. VanDyke says, "True charity educates self by helping others; the so called Christian who never gives is a false Christian. The Christian who gives thoughtfully, seriously, fraternally, bending his best powers to the accomplishment of a real benefaction of his fellowmen, is in the true and only way of following Jesus." "Give as the Lord hath prospered you, but not the converse, Lord I will give if you will prosper me. The Lord does not work on a commission. There is nothing in giving that is pleasing to Him but the mo tive that is in it, the spirit which prompted it. That motive must be love, and that spirit self-sacrifice. It cannot be otherwise. It is simply the requisite of a good heart, without

"If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time noon, be assiged for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law of said deceased and all will efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we holden at the Probate office in the city of St. Jo work upon immortal minds, if we seph, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted. imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God and love of our fellowmen, we engrave on these tablets something which will brighten to all something which will brighten to all county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing. eternity."-Daniel Webster.

"Rest for the soul implies deliverance from every fear, the supply of every want, and the fulfillment of every desire. Entire surrender to Jesus is the secret of perfect rest. Giving up one's whole life to Him, for Him alone to rule and order it, taking His yoke and submitting to be led and taught, to learn of Him; soul."-A. Murray.

"Lost in New York," will be seen at Rough's Opera House on Dec. 13th. It is one of the most original, unique and popular comedy dramaa that has gone out during the last decade. The dialogue is crisp, bright, and describes a story of high and low life in a great city that is not only true to life, but at the same time meets all of the requirements of the play-goer for an attraction, where surprises fol low each other so swiftly as to at times take the audience off their feet. The compay is headed by Nettie De Coursey who, in the role of "Jennie," is the merry, rolicking and frivolous fun-maker of the production, and yet who has underlying all, a vein of pure womanly character that appeals to every one irrespective of station in life. Miss De Coursey is well known from her association with the Hoyt farces, and for her brilliant work with Matthews and Bulger The scenery is both striking in appearance and a fitting frame for the beautiful stage picture presented. * * *

Writer and Nature' Student Lives on 5-Acre Grape Farm. The name of John Burroughs, the charming writer and nature student, is doubtless familiar to most of our readers. Mr. Burroughs, on his little 5-acre grape farm near Schenectady, N. Y., surrounded by his woods, fields, birds and flowers, manages to gain more comfort and satisfaction out of life than the average millionaire. He has gone a long way toward mastering the delicate art of appreciating and cultivating the friendship of nature. It will be news to some who have enjoyed Mr. Burroughs' books to hear that he has a son, Julian Burroughs, who has found his father's mode of life so ideal and attractive that he has decided to Mrs. F. A. Stryker was called to adopt it for himself. Last month Ju-Lawrence, Mich by the illness of her lian was graduated from Harvard University. He is probably the only one Elder Wm M. Passing by the glitter and attraction of a commercial or profes- for the first time Friday and it is sional career, into which most of his chums have entered, he will retire to his father's farm and spend his life there in study and labor near to nature's heart. At college he made a specialty of the English branches to Hamlin were in South Bend Thursfit himself as a writer and a student of literature. He will take his culture and educations back to the farm, where Deputy Game Warden W.A. Palmer he will lead the life of a simple rustic, writing books and articles for magaciting trip on Lake Michigan after zines, with nature as his material. Young Burroughs is fond of hunting and fishing. He is of a strong, athletic build. At Harvard he won some distinction as an oarsman. While his weight is only 130 pounds, he was considered one of the best single oarsmen Mrs. A. M. Glover returned Tuesin the university. At the metropolitan regatta last year he captured first place in the junior race. He also had a good record as a runner. Some college men

Faithful Practice Will Do Much to Acquire It.

A strong, sweet, beautiful voice is greatly to be desired by every one, says Health. In some climates, like Italy, for instance, the voices are almust all fine. In other places where it is cold and moist the voices are too often bad. In the country, where the young grow up in an out-of-door life, where they can "holler" and even 'yell," the voices are much better and stronger than in the city, where a young person must suppress himself and always speak in gentle tones. Thin, throaty tones, or those with a nasal intonation are bad enough to the sensitive ear when used in the key or ordinary conversation. When it is needed to expand such voices to the -declamatory point, then lack of volume and mellowness is evident. Faithful practice may do much to correct Exults of emphasis and inflection, but; the most sanguine coach will not undertake to make over a poor voice in & course of three or even six weeks' rehearsals. The possibilities of the speaking voice are beginning to be understood. Parents are discovering that It is a wise plan to cultivate in their children an agreeable voice. Instructers in the art of developing the exquisite mechanism and wonderful carability of the human speaking voice ere springing up on every side. It cannot be long before it will be a positive reproach for a woman of education, at least, to speak in shrill, nasal or unplaced tones. The voice is a mirror of the mind. A coarse, harsh, disagreeable voice can best be cured by imgroving the mind and heart.

RICHARDS & EMERSON

Model Furniture and Underkaing Establishmeut

Richards & Emerson are moving into their new quarters as rapidly as possible, and when they are settled, they will have one of the finest equipped places of business in southwestern Michigan. Workmen have been for several weeks busily engaged in remodelling the interior of the building, putting in new front, painting, papering and cleaning.'

The building has received a coat of olive green and presents a handsome appearance. The large show window has a commodious platform which permits of displaying their beautiful furniture in an advantageous manner, while the gallery and half floor permits the bestowal of stock both convenient and accessible. A stairway leads to the second floor, which is divided into a fine front room for the display of furniture, just in the rear of which is a casket room, which is finely equipped for the proper display of caskets, each casket being placed in a dust proof cabinet the front of which lets down to exhibit the casket. Back of the casket room is a room for furniture. The basement floor is cemented and this will be the work shop. #### * * * Buchanan Merchants Should Try It.

A South Bend department store has had men in town the past week distributing a twelve page bargain sheet from house to house. South Bend merchants also contract for liberal space in the local papers, and our home merchants should take the lesson to heart. The RECORD believes firmly in patronizing home merchants and we know of at least one instance where an crticle widely advertised in South Bend, as a bargain was pur less money than at South Bend.

Many of Buchanan merchants have the stores of South Bend, but fail to songs.—Youth's Companion. realize that a little money spent to tell the residents of their neighborhood about what they have, would bring them more results and better returns than they have any idea. Money spent in advertising is an investment and not an expense. The RECORD columns are read by more people than any other paper in the south half of Berrien county. Its advertising space is for sale, and the any one who is in a reputable business, no matter where located, just exactly as any town merchant will sell their stock to any customer regardless of where they reside.

HELD UP THE KING.

And His Reward Was a Silver Watch from Victor Emmanuel.

The test of the fidelity of a sentinel by the "powers that be" has resulted happily in the case of an Italian soldier who "held up" the king. King Victor Emmanuel is fond of 'making himself personally acquainted with the thoughts and feelings of his soldiers and for testing their courage and fidelity. The other day he was walking alone, dressed in black, in the Quirnal gardens and approached a sentry on guard, who at once presented arms. "You know, then, who I am?" the king asked. "His majesty," was the unhesitating reply. The king smiled and continued his walk, making as though he would pass the guard house. "Yc." majesty cannot pass this way," said the rear on outside elevator will be the sentry resolutely. The king pretended not to hear and walked on. Mr. Wescott, the author of "David Harum," possessed a barytone voice which, had he chosen to cultivate it, might have brought him greater reputation than he obtained through his writings. In the Literary Era Miss Helen Candee tells an amusing story with the RECORD for only $1.40 for of one of Mr. Westcott's musical experiences. He was invited to sing at a concert in one of the smaller towns of western New York. On this perfunctory jaunt he was saved from such a hotel as that which insulted John Lennox, by the hospitality of the man who organized the concert, a person of much local importance. The affair passed off satisfactorily, with the help of the visitor's rare voice. As Mr. Westcott was about to retire, his host came timidly to his room, bearing two long paper boxes. "I leave the house so early in the morning to go to my factory," he explained, "that I am afraid I may not see you, but I want to give you something for your singing tonight. Now, here's two pair of the very best whalebone corsets that our factory turns out, and I want you to take them home with you." When chased of a Buchanan merchant for Mr. Westcott found that he could not even protest effectually, his sense of humor came to his relief, and he stalked home the next day with two in their stock, goods fully equal to pairs of corsets in exchange for his

I will help you with the letter. And tell him as well that you must have time to draw up settlements. If he is honest, he will consent to this investigation into his private character. If he wants Molly and not her money bag, he will at once agree to the settlement of her fortune upon herself."

"I am an old fool, I suppose," said the captain. "I have believed everything and everybody. Yet I cannot no, my friends. I cannot think that this man, so proud, so brave, who risked his life for Molly, is what this letter says." "Other letters say the same thing. Now, captain, let us write."

The letter which was dictated by the vicar was duly written, signed and sealed. Then it was sent up stairs to his lordship's private room.

CHAPTER XIII.

A RESPITE. WAS as one who carries a respite for a man already in the cart and on his way to Tyburn, or I was as one who himself receives a respite on the way to Tyburn, for if the charges in those letters were true there could be no doubt as to the result of an inquiry. Nor could there be any doubt that Lord Fylingdale in such a case would refuse an inquiry. I ran, therefore, as if everything depended on my speed, and I arrived breathless. Molly was alone, walking about the garden restlessly. The sun was now set, but the glow of the sky lingered, and her face was flushed in the western light. "Jack," she cried, "I thought we had parted this afternoon! What has happened? You have been running. What is it?"

"A good deal has happened, Molly. For one thing, you will not be married tomorrow morning."

"Why not? Is my lord ill?" "Not that I know of, but you will not be married tomorrow morning." "You talk in riddles, Jack."

"Would you like to put off the wedding, Molly?"

"Alas, if I could put it off altogether! I am downhearted over it, Jack. It weighs me down like lead. But there is no escape."

"I think I have in my pocket a means of escape—a respite at least—unless there are worse liars in the world than those we have at Lynn."

"Liars at Lynn, Jack? Who are they? Oh. Jack, what has happened?" I sat down on a garden bench. "Molly," I said, "you hold the private character of Lord Fylingdale in the highest esteem, do you not?" "There is no better man living. This makes me ashamed of being so loath to marry him."

"Well, but, Molly, consider. Who has bestowed this fine character upon his lordship?" "Everybody who knows him-Sam Semple for one. He is never weary of singing the praises of his patron." "He is a grateful soul and, on his own account, a pillar of religion. I will show you presently what an ornament he is to religion. Who else?" "The Rev. Benjamin Purden, once his tutor. Surely he ought to know." "Surely. Nobody ought to know better. I will show you presently how admirable a witness to character this reverend divine must be esteemed."

"There is Sir Harry Malyns, who assured us that his lordship is thought to be too virtuous for the world of fash-

"He is himself, like the parson, a fine judge of character. Is that all?" "No. The Lady Anastasia herself spoke to me of his nobility." "She has also spoken to me-of other things. See here, Molly." I lugged out the two letters. "What I have here contain the characters of all these excellent persons - the latest scandals about them, their reputations and their practices."

"But, Jack, what scandals? What reputations?"

"You shall see, Molly. Oh, the allegations may be false, one and all. For what I know Sam may have the wings of an archangel, and Mr. Purden may be already overripe for the new Jerusalem. But you shall read."

I offered her the letters. "No," she said. "Read them yourself."

"The first, then, is from my father's first cousin, Zackary Pentecrosse, a bookseller in Little Britain, which is a part of London. He is, I believe, a respectable, God fearing man. You will observe that he does not vouch for the truth of his information."

I then read at length the letter which you have already heard. 'What do you think, Molly?"

"I don't know what to think. Is the world so wicked?" "Here is another letter, concerning the Rev. Benjamin Purden. Observe that this is another and an independent witness." So I read the second letter, which you have also heard.

"What do you think of this worthy gentleman, Molly?" "Oh. Jack. I am overwhelmed! Tell me more, what it means"—

"It means, my dear, that a ruined gamester thought to find an heiress drink practice other vices?" "Well, Molly, you have seen the vicar taste a glass of wine. He will roll it in the glass; he will hold it to the light, admiring the color; he will inhale the fragrance; he will drink it slowly, little by little, sipping the contents, and he will not take more than a single glass or two at the most. In the same time Tom Rising would have gulped down a whole bottle. One man wants to gratify many senses; the other seeks only to get drunk as quickly as he can. So, I take it, with the forbidden pleasures of the world. One man may cultivate his taste; the other may be satisfied with the coarse and plentiful debauchery. This is not, however, talk for

"Go on with your story, Jack. Never mind the different ways of wicked-honest folk like you and me."

"Well, he heard of an heiress. She belonged to a town remote from fashion-a town of simple merchants and sailors. She was very rich; much richer than he at first believed"-

"Who told him about this heiress?" "A creature called Sam Semple, whom the captain once cudgeled. Why, Molly, it was revenge. In return for the cudgeling he would place you and your fortune in the hands of a man who would bring misery upon you and ruin on your fortune. Heavens, how the thing works out! And it happened just in the nick of time that a spring was found in the town-a spring whose medicinal properties- Ha!" I jumped to my feet. "Molly, who found that spring? Sam Semple. Who wrote to the doctor about it? Sam Semple. Who spread abroad a report that the physicians of London were sending their patients to Lynn? Sam Semple. How many patients have come to us from London! None, save and except only the party of those who came secretly in his lordship's train to sing his praises and to work his wicked will. Why, Molly"— I burst into a laugh, for now I understood, as one sometimes does understand, suddenly and without proof other than the rapid conclusion, the full meaning of the whole. "Molly, I say, there has never been any medicinal spring here at all. The doctor's well is but common spring water. There are no cures. The whole business is a plan, a bite, an invention of Sam Semple!"

"Jack, have a care. How can that be when the doctor has a long list of

"I know it, but I do know that Sam Semple invented the spa in order to bring this invasion of sharpers and gamblers and heiress hunters. Oh, what a liar he is! What revenge!

What cunning! What signal service has this servant of the devil rendered to his master!"

Truly I was carried out of myself by this discovery, which explained every-

"So," I went on, "they came here all the way from London, their lying excuse that they were ordered here by their physicians, and we, poor, simple folk, fell into the snare. All the countryside fell into the snare, and we have been fooled into drinking common water and calling it what you please, and we have built gardens and engaged musicians and created a spa, and, ob, beavens, what a liar be is! What a liar! This comes, I suppose, of being a poet."

. Then Molly laid her head upon my arm. "Jack," she said very seriously, consider what it means to me." Molly Harbor $1. was more concerned about Lord Fylingdale than about Sam Semple.

Happenings Throughout the State Received by Telegraph and Put in Type.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—A badly nautilated body lies carefully guarded in a vault at Mount Eliot cemeterv. is the vital point of contention in a large litigation now pending. The fight is between Mrs. Catherine Mueller, a German woman of this city, and Rev. F. R. Kosmeri, a Polish priest of Duluth, and the subject of the litigation is the estate of Johann Mueller, who died in Superior, Wis., in December,

Mrs. Mueller claims to be the widow and with her six children heir to an estate valued at $1,000,000 Mueller owned 160 acres of what was considered to be worthless land in St. Louis county, Minn., which now turns out to be the richest iron ore land in the state. Mueller became involved in money difficulties and the land was mortgaged, finally falling into the hands of Father Kosmeri.

Mrs. Muel'er has set about establishing her claim. She was given possession of the body, but when the remains were exhumed they were found mutilated. An arm was cut off and missing, and a leg was gone. The face was also cut to pieces. The mutilation evidently had for its object the prevention of identification.

The state would aid them by sinking an artesian well, giving them rye seed, otherwise helping them by releasing them from taxes for five years. After a three years' residence the state would deed the farms to theoccupants. The return to the state for the expense of establishing the settlements would be the continued income from taxes.

on the night he was hurt and had been foully dealt with. The basis of this suspicion is that Litchard had $60 on his person when he came to Ann Arbor, and that nothing was found in his clothes, even to identify him after he was struck by the car.

Another point brought up was that his team of horses was found hitched to a post at his farm early the next morning and that somebody must have driven it there. Still another point is that the motorman saw somebody running away just before the car struck Litchard. Was Litchard given knockout drops in some Ann Arbor resort, placed in his buggy, driven to the motor line crossing and left on the track for the car to finish the work?
