Thirty Carloads of Strawberries.

Shipped from Benton Harbor to Local Parts.

It is not likely that Berrien county will ever again sell strawberries at less than the cost of production, as was the case here several years ago.

The fame of the local strawberry is spreading and the limits of the market have been removed by the introduction of the perfect refrigerator car and the growing demand for the best of all the berry varieties. In previous years it has been counted a big thing when a car or two of strawberries have been ship. ped as far as Buffalo, but this year thirty cars have been shipped from Benton Harbor. Twenty of these have been shipped to Buffalo, one or two to Milwaukee, and the balance to northern Michigan. The Buffelo buyers were so well pleased that they made a statement that they would come again next year, Begrien county farmers need not fear it they will overdo the strawberry

CHILDRENS DAY EXERCISES

Given by Christian and Evangelical Sunday Schools.

Childrens Day was observed Sunday morning by the Evangelical Sunday School and in the evening by the Christappropriate exercises.

The Evangelical church was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns and the design of a large horseshoe afforded a background which a ided much to the appearance of the decorations.

The exercises were excellent and the children took great pride in making them presentable to the many listeners Rev. Niergarth gove a very interest-

Dear Friends:-We have now finished what we have to say, and come to breaker at Ann Arbor." thank you for your kind attention during the morning.

We have not said anything great, know, but we have tried to say all the good things we could. We can yet small and our powers of mind as well as of body are yet feeble. We can not talk as you can; we cannot think so fast, or reason so well; but as we grow older we hope to grow in wisdom and in strength. This is one of the ways by which we gain strength and the Sunday School in struction is good to make us wise.

For some time banks have been receiving gold by weight, and the work of the teller has become arduous. Every grain that has been worn from a gold piece in circulation means a loss of four per cent. in value, and this amount has to be deducted.

Mr. Sites conceived the idea that the work of weighing the coin might be done by machinery. With the assistarms of his brother-in-law, C. M. Reeves, he worked out the delicate mechanism. The coins are fed to the machine much as wheat to a mill. The standard weight coins are returned to one compartment and the underweight coins to another. The machine makes no mistakes.

THREE WIDOWS OF KANSAS.

Only One Confesses She Wants Model Husband, the Others Equivocate.

A short time ago Mrs. Lydia Peach, of Alton, Kan., published the followre gritting their teeth, and swearing ing notice in the Empire, the local newspaperi

"Mr. Editor-Please print this letter to quiet the storm raised by some hey missed a fortune. They owned half-idiot who has been telling that I was going to be married, and by several smart Alecks who have made it their business to ask my boys about it. I will say that the talk is all bosh. I want it understood that when I want a husband I won't ask the community to select one for me. I consider myself fully capable of de ciding that question to suit myself."

Mrs. A. Connelly, an Effingham widow, annoyed by the village talk, that she was bent on a second mar riage venture, caused this notice to be published in the New Leaf. her county paper: "When I get ready to be married I will tell the noseys all about it, but in the meantime they had better keep out of it, as it is none of their business."

Mrs. Emily Frier, a widow living at Russell, Kan., wanted a husband, and, according to her advertisement, this kind of a husband: "The man I want cannot drink intoxicating liquor, nor chew tobacco. I don't want a humpedover old man ready to tumble into the grave. I am quite a small widow, and I want quite a small man. want him to love me, and call me honey, and I want him to make a living. I don't want to have to take in washing."

The average tourist stays in Naples, including Pompeii, Vesuvius, Sorrento, Amalfi ten days; Rome two weeks. Florence five or seven days, Venice four, Genoa one and Milan one or three. Tourists generally do not see Turin, and Milan and Turin gave me a distinct pleasure. The big opera house of Milan, known as La Scala, has been very little used of late years. It belongs to the past. Reputations were made there formerly, but not now.
RELICS OF ANCIENT MINERS.

Interesting Discovery in a Long Abandoned Scottish Mine Near Edinburgh.

Archaeologists are much interested in a discovery just made in the Fife coal pit near Edinburgh. During operations by the Wemyss Coal company at an old disused pit at the Blair burn, in order to prevent flooding, the overmen discovered a large number of miners' tools such as were used some 300 years ago. The shovels are all made of wood, some of them being as good as the day they were made; the picks and mells are iron the pinches are wood with iron points. One of the operators stated that there are huge blocks of coal lying about all cut out with the pick, so large as to puzzle the present day coller how the old winers accom-plished the task of cutting them out; the pick handles are of great thick ness, approaching almost to the thickness of props used for support ing the roof at the present There is a tradition that the old mine was flooded, causing the death of many of the miners, and the conditions of the mine and the fact of so many tools lying about the seams point to the truth of the story.

A FUNNY LANGUAGE.

Some Samoan Savings That Portras Some Characteristics of am Interesting People.

Lovers of the writings of Robert Louis Stevenson will be interested to see an article on the Samoa of his day by his stepdaughter, Mrs. Strong, in the Century, from which we take this odd bit:

the native dictionary is interesting leen introduced in several Chica- in the light it casts upon the Samoan character. I find 'an impossibility such as an old man getting a young wife.' Another word means 'to beg deliriously for fishhooks.' 'Unwel come' is given, 'such as a visiting party that is accompanied by neither a handsome man nor a pretty maid.' The definition of 'widow' or 'widower' is synonymous with detached shellfish.

"There are also definitions that show considerable thought and irony. Meanness,' for instance, can go no further than 'to climb out on your own breadfruit tree to steal your neighbor's breadfruit.' Faapuatama, like a trumpet blown by wild lads—blown anyhow and at all times; so conduct without consideration. Popoga, to look owl-eyed, as a person staring when food or property is being divided. 'Good brown earth' describes an honest, unpretending man. To show how difficult the language is for the stran-ger, I may say that the little word ta means I, we two, to beat with a stick, to play on a musical instrument, to re prove. to tattoo, to open a vein, to bail a cannon, to wash clothing by beating and to turn a somersault."

Monster Granite Pillars,

monster pillar of granite-the largest solid piece of stone ever quarried for building purposes—has just been swung into its place 60 feet above the ground on the half-completed Hall of Records, at Chambers and Center streets, New York city. It is more than 36 feet long, four feet wide and two feet thick, and required nearly three months to quarry. Thirty-one other stone pillars to be put in the building will be even larger. Each of the stones will cost $5,000.

Hearing Suicide by Phone, cheerful telephone story is reported from Vienna. A young woman of Magyar-Czernya, in Hungary, was called up on the long-distance telephone by her sweetheart in the town of Taba. He said: "Would you like to hear how I shot myself?" Then she heard the sound of a shot. It was found afterward that the man had really killed himself.

Compromise Hall The Countrywoman's Club

By Hervey White.

UCINDA EVANS was hitching her white horse, Mack, to the post in front of Blake's grocery when the quarrel reached its climax. Dave Babbitt was in his wagon, and Townsend, the harnessmaker, was on the side walk.

"The lot is mine and I intend to keep it if it costs me the farm to do it! Dave was saying, with determination. "You'll find I can spend as much money on lawyers as you can!" Townsend sneered. "I bought the land and paid for it." "And I had a mortgage on the house."

"That mortgage is vold," "You will have to prove that to court." "Get up!" said Dave, savagely, to his horses, and Townsend was left standing triumphant.

"What an ugly expression on Dave's face," meditated Lucinda. "I've al-ways thought Dave handsome, but today he looks capable of murder."

She entered the dingy little store and waited till her turn came to be served. The ill-ventilated place was foul from the sickening smell of tobacco smoke and tobacco juice. Then the staring publicity was hateful. Lusinda particularly commiserated a Bohemian woman who was nursing o baby in that bad air; another woman was shrinking in the semidarkness of a corner, with a look of restless weari ness in her eyes.
Lucinda kept thinking of these wom en all the slow, dreary way home. A sudden inspiration came to her

She stopped the horse. "If there were only some one to do it! Why can't I? After all, it's a woman's work, and goodness knows I'm lonely and need interest!"

Her black eyes shone and her cheeks flushed at the idea. "Emma Hendricks can help me," she said. "I'll drive back to Plainview now." So Mack was turned three miles out of the way, and finally left to look over a fence at Dave Babbitt's two plow horses, who were rubbing noses together. Meanwhile Lucinda talked, and Dave frequently shook his head. "So you think you can do it," she said, after awhile.

"No, Miss Evans. I'd like to do it. but I've no authority. The house must stand vacant till the question is settled in court. It may be a year, or two years.

"But I want the use of that house." "Well, I'm sorry, Miss Evans, but—"
"What if I take possession?" said Lucinda. "Will you have a right to put me out?"
"No; but--"

put me out Mownsend have a right to "I should guess not!" said Dave Babbitt, decidedly.

"Well, then I'll take possession," said Miss Lucinds, with spirit. "And I'll keep the house in repair till the question is settled. Get up, Mack!" and away she drove.
"A spirited woman," said Dave Babbitt, looking after her. From this day Mack began a life of new activity. Every morning he was put into the shafts. There was not a house in the township that Miss Lucinda did not visit, and at every place she insisted on getting something for the new clubhouse. "I want every woman to give something, then she will feel she has a right there; and I want you to come whenever you can, and help Mies Hendricks with the carpet rags. Miss Hendricks is always there, and though she can't work much with that crippled hand she will always show the rest what to do, and make you wel come and give you a good cup of tea."

And the donations Miss Lucinda reeived! And the trouble she was put to to make use of them!-for each woman would expect to see her contribution every time she came to the clubhouse. Carpet rags and pieces for bed quilts, and picture frames without any pictures, and pictures without any frames! One woman gave an old bureau, and another a chair without any bottom, but Dave Babbitt promised to mend it. Another gave a lamp, and another a washstand; dishes, cups and saucers were accepted; another chair, a small table, a baby's crib, a peram-bulator, a liuge old-fashioned bedstead. One Bohemian woman brought forth from a chest six yards of beautiful golden-brown silk and insisted on making it into a curtain for the front window. There were a clock and two rugs and some pillows. Everything a house could demand was gradually gathered together and arranged in the ottage on the corner.

How did Miss Lucinda first get in? She went with several of the women, and they put a small boy through the window, and then they handed him a sorew driver. He did the rest. Then they had new locks put on the doors and put the keys in their pockets.

Every day Emma Hendricks wa there from nine in the morning till four in the afternoon. The women brought her farm supplies for salary vegetables, pieces of ham, chickens, pies, apples, sausages—all she could eat, and more, too. So she sold the surplus, by Lucinda's advice, and this was the beginning of the system which provided her with a small salary as custodian.

Soon there was an awakening in the country; the women were becoming acquainted. On Saturday afternoons they came with their husbands; the little house was overflowing, and babies and children romped in the yard. If there had been six rooms instead of four the clubhouse would not have been too big for the donations.

TEACH THE USES OF GAS.

New York Women Who Instruct Their Sisters How to Utilize It in Their Kitchens.

One of the most beneficent of recent movements in behalf of good housekeeping in New York city is one orig-inated and fostered by the principal gas company there. This concern has six women, known as inspectors and teachers, who come in contact with from 750 to 1,000 kitchens weekly, running the gamut from Fifth avenue's aristocratic establishments to the subcellar of some "kosher" east side restaurantortop floor tenement in Little Italy. Owing to a widely extended system of rental in vogue gas ranges in New York are in use in most unexpected kitchens. The teachers not only understand every plan by which all the many ranges in use may be made to do the work demanded, whether the supply of gas is big or little, but are expected to know why a range doesn't work if it is out of order, and in many cases to themselves adjust and regulate it so that it is in condition to work before leaving. Owing to the large foreign born population to whom the gas ranges are dense mysteries and to other peculiarities of the New York kitchen workers the inspector teachers are securing effects that could be reached in no other way. The work in New York has been so successful that before long a trained peripatetic gas range cooking teacher and inspector will be a necessity to every live gas company and a new line of work will be open to domestic science teachers.

TABLETS FOR HUMBLE HEROES

Memorials of Heroic Deeds of Mer and Women Placed in a London Church.

A cloiser has recently been built in Aldergates street in London, on the walls of which are to be placed memorials of the deeds of heroism of English men and women in humble life, says the Magazine Men of To-morrow.

Four such tablets have already been erected, the inscription on two of them reading as follows: ter Peart, driver, and Harry Bean, fireman, of the Windsor express, on July 18, 1898, whilst being scalded and burnt; sacrificed their lives in saving the train." "Mary Rogers, Stewardess of the Stella, March 30, 1899, self-sacrificed by giving up her life belt and voluntarily going down in the sinking ship."

Nothing can be more inspiring than this public recognition of the bravery and self-sacrifice of obscure heroes and heroines. Westminster Abbey is crowded with the tombs of England's mighty dead—her great warriors on land and sea, her posts. her statesmen, her author's. Each puts forth a silent claim to have helped mankind, and pleads to be remembered, his country; but until church in Aldergate?

MASCULINE CANDY FIENDS.

One of Them Devours 400 Pounds of Chocolates in One Summer, and Nothing Extraordinary.

That candy has become the basis of bad habit-like tea, tobacco, alcohol or ice water-has long been admitted by medical men; that its worst victims search 105 francs 50 centimes were are not women, however, is not so well recovered. The patient was 63 years known, except to the owners of candy shops, says the New York Post. The fact that one man bought and devoured 400 pounds of the richest chocolates in one summer, and that this gastronomic feat was not looked upon as anything unusual by the candy clerks, will give some idea of the slavery to which the habitual candy-eaters are committed. The man who con-sumed "confectionery" by the hundredweight is young and sound in mind and body. He generally yields to temptation immediately after lunchcon-although the craving sometimes becomes unendurable at an earlier hour. He estimates that the candy he has bought for personal consumption cost him $250 last summer. He has been an unwilling victim for years, and has frequently "sworn off"—or at-tempted to. The last time was for three months, and when the self-imposed embargo was raised he bought two pounds of mixed chocolates and ate them between lunch and dinner.

Electric Strightation of Flants.
Several methods or applying electricity to hasten the growth and development of vegetation have been tested in Germany. One plan is simply to electrify the air about the growing plants by passing a current through a system of barbed wires from the points of which the electricity is discharged. Another way is to submit the seeds to an electric current before they are planted or sowed. Both of these methods are said to have given favorable results. but the best plan yet tried is that of passing a feeble current of electricity through the soil. A market gardener near Paterson, N. J., is said to have trebled the productiveness of his beds of carrots, beets and other vege tables by sending through them current derived from the power cable of a trolley line.

Woman Rings the Chimes. Few persons who listen to the chimes of Grace church know that the ringer in the belfry is a woman, but that is a fact, states the New York Sun. The old system of chimesringing which required a corps of bell ringers with brawn and muscle went out long ago. Electricity killed it. Now, Miss Bertha Thomas, the ringer of the chimes at Grace church, sits at a little keyboard of nine notes and plays on it the hymn tune repeated by the bells above. Between the keyboard and the bells is an electrical attachment, and as the operator touches a key the corresponding great bell, a hundred feet or so above, rings out the same note in a tune heard above the roar of Broadway down below.

Many Youthful Sovereigns. Many other Spanish sovereigns began to reign in early youth, among them Alphonso VIII. at 11, Alphonso II. of Aragon at 13; Ferdinand II. of Castile at 16, Ferdinand IV. at 14, Philip IV. at 16, Charles II. at 14, Philip V. at 18, Louis I. at 16 and Isabella II. at 14. Alphonso XIII. is extremely intelligent and of a goodnatured, frank, truthful character. ADOPT SPOONER AMENDMENT

Sonate Passes Bill Giving Preference to Panama Route-Synopsis of Its Provisions.

Washington, June 20 .- An isthmian canal, while not yet absolutely assured, is nearer to construction than it ever has been. The senate on Thursday by a majority of eight votes adopted the Spooner substitute for the Hepburn Nicaragua canal bis, the vote on the substitute being 42 to 34. After two amendments to the measure had been adopted, one providing for a commission to supervise the construction of the canal and the other providing for the issuance of $130,000,000 of two per cent. gold bonds to raise money with which to construct the waterway, it was passed by a vote of 67 to 6. It has been evident for several days that the Spooner substitute, which in brief provides that the president shall select the Panama route if he can obtain a clear title to the Panama Canal company's property, but otherwise he shall adopt the Nicaragua route, would command the votes of a majority of the senate. The Panama route was considered more desirable by the senate than the Nicaragua route. The only question left open is the title to the property, and that the president will determine, if the house should adopt the senate's amendment to its bill.

Senator Morgan (Ala.) closed the debate with an earnest appeal for the adoption of the Nicaragua route. He had been preceded by Senator Clark (Mont.) in support of the Nicaragua route, and Allison (Ia.) in support of the Spooner proposition. Only minor amendments, except those indicated, were adopted, all others being voted down.

COST OF THE WAR.

Secretary Root Sends Information Regarding Philippine Rebellion to Senate.

Washington, June 20. - Secretary Root on Thursday made answer to the senate resolution of April 17 calling for information as to the cost of the war in the Philippines. The secretary shows the total cost of the war to date, including outstanding obligations, to be $170,326,386. He calls attention to the fact that large quantities of valuable property, such as ships, lighters, etc., horses and mules, wagons and harness, clothing equipage and ordnance, medical, sig-nal and engineering supplies, the cost which is included in the statement, still remain on hand in the Philip-pine islands for use. Parts of these supplies are already being reshipped to this country. He says also that a large part of the expense during the past year should not properly be treated as occasioned by military operations in the Philippine islands, for the reason that it consists of pay, and maintenance of troops whom we would have to pay and maintain, whether they were in the Philippines or not, in order to keep up the miniyumber of regular troops re-by law as a safeguard against entingencies.

A CELERY CAMELIA.

While spraking of the serio-comic side of stage life recently, relates the New York Times, Miss Clara Morris told the following story as an experience of her own:

"Somewhere in the wide world," she said,

"Somewhere in the wide world," she said, "there is an actor—and a good one—who never eats celery without thinking of me. It was years ago when I was playing Camille. In the first scene, you will remember, the unfortunate Armond takes a rose from Camille as a taken of love.
"We had almost reached that point when, as I glanced down, I saw that the flower was missing from its accustomed place on my breast.

However, I continued my lines in an abstracted fashion, and began a still hunt for that rose or a substitute. My gaze wandered around the stage. On the dinner table was some celery. Moving slowly toward it, I grasped the celery and twisted the tops into a rose form. Then I began the fateful lines:

"Take this flower; the life of a camelia is short—if held and caressed it will fade in a morning or an evening."

"Hardly able to control kimself, he spoke his lines, which ran: 'It is a cold, scentless flower. It is a strange flower.'

"I agreed with him."

MORNING.

Across the sky, at break of day, A veil of mist was rolled away; The little stars grew almost white, Then gently faded out of sight. And, like the breathing of a child, A murmur fluttered, soft and mild, Upon the air; and, as it stirred, The call of chanticleer was heard.

Then came a cooling, twitt'ring sound:
The little birds their voices found,
And litted them in tones of praise
To see the daylight's golden rays.
The darkness of the night waspass'd,
And in the rosy East at last,
Slowly, from out his radiant bed,
The sun was seen to lift his head.

All Nature joyfully awoke,
And into wildest rapture broke:
The flow'rs unfolded to the light
Their petals shining clear and bright
With drops of dew which, all in haste,
The birds and bees flew down to taste;
And butterflies spread dainty wings
To hover round such lovely things.

"Awake!" the dancing sunbeams cried,
And, peeping through the casements, tried
To flash their rays upon each place
Where lay a little sleeping face;
And called again, as shining eyes
At last were opened in surprise:
"Come, waken, little playmates dear,
Arise, for, see-the Morning's here!"

A Successful Chase Reminiscence of an Indian Military Police Officer & &

By "JUNGUL WALLAH."

FTER the capture of Lucknow A FIER the capture of Lucknow military police battalions were raised to perform a large part of the duties intrusted to the native army before the mutiny. I had been serving with the brigades of Havelock and Outram, as a volunteer in Havelock's cavalry, better known as Barrow's Horse; and for my services had been rewarded with an adjutancy of the military police, an appoint ment which in those days was considered one of the plums of the service. On joining the headquarters of Chuckmuckpur, I found that the corps consisted of over 1,000 infantry and 500 cavalry, with a fair number of native officers; besides the commandant, a full colonel, and a second in command ranking as major. As adjutant, I held the rank of captain.

Our duties were to guard the treasury, jail, and all the government offices, and to hunt down the numerous mutinous native soldiers and gangs of noted dacoits or highway robbers who wers creating great haves all over the district, which was a very extensive one. It took us a good part of the year 1858 as well as the whole of 1859 and 1860 to clear the country of these scoundrels.

In September, 1858, a month after joined, information brought in to us by a native spy that a noted leader of rebel cavalry, named Feroze Shah, had crossed the Ganges the previous night, and was making for Gwalior to join the native general, Tantia Topee.

Feroze Shah had got across at a ford some four miles above Futtygurh, having the previous day met Sir Colin Campbell's forces at Shahia hanpur, in Robilkhand, and received a good drubbing for his pains. So he had made up his mind to make a dash for it, and reenforce Tantia Topee. To effect this he had to cross two large rivers, the Ganges and the Jumna, which were about a hundred miles apart: but the country was in his favor. He had some 500 men with him, all of them mounted, and was putting on the pace as much as his horses and men could stand, doing 30 or 40 miles a day; so it stood to reason that if we were to come up to him we must be pretty sharp. We therefore decided not to take any infantry with us, and within half au hour from the time that we received

Our commanding officer judged that our only chance of closing with the enemy was to cut him off from the ford he was making for. This ford on the Jumna was some 30 miles from Chuckmuckpur. After getting over the first 16 miles at a steady trot, we arrived at a village where we had a strong military outpost, and halted for the first time: but within an hour we were on our way again, having given our men a light refreshment of parched peas and sugar-balls, and the horses a good feed of grain.

Before starting we made the native officer in charge of the outpost fully understand that Feroze Shah was in the neighborhood, and that it would he as well for him to be on the alert. After we had got about eight miles from the outpost we came across the main road that runs from Cawnpore to Agra, when we observed that some 300 or 400 natives had collected about 600 yards down the road towards Cawnpore. A halt was sounded, and a couple of scouts sent to find out whether any of the men seemed to be armed. In a very short time the scouts returned and reported that the men were unarmed: that, in faci they had collected round two stage coaches without horses, and that somebody had been killed. After re ceiving this information we proceed ed; but I accompanied the command ing officer at a trot ahead of the regi ment, and quickly got amongst the crowd, which we found were collected around two dak gharries (stage coaches). To our horror, we saw the bodies of two British officers and several men of the native rebel cavalry lying near the coaches.

The headman of the village came up at once, and said: "This is the work of Feroze Shah and his party who came down the road about half an hour ago from the Futtygurh direction, and overtook these officers, shooting both of them and a driver. The party went straight towards the Jumna." He added that the deceased officers had made a desperate resistance, having shot no less than eight of Feroze Shah's followers and three horses. These were all lying dead on the road. We found out later that the officers were traveling from Cawnpore to Delhi to join their regiment, and that they had been warned by the civil authorities at Campore that the road was not safe, as the rebel cavalry were prowling about; but the keeness of the poor fellows to get to their regiment, which was on active service, was so great that they made up their minds to take their chance. Alas, such is fate!

We were not long in starting after Feroze Shah, and the pace had to be made pretty fast if we were to overtake and cut off the rebels before they reached the Jumna; in fact, we rode as if for our lives. Instead of going by the usual direct route we took one across country, hoping thereby to get first to the ford. This we did not actually succeed in doing; but we overtook the enemy crossing the ford. Then such a melee took place as I had never seen before, though I had been through a good deal of severe fighting with Havelock's force at the relief of Lucknow and at the final capture of that city under Outram.

The river was only four feet deep at the ford; but here and there deeper pools had been formed by the current, and in these many men and horses on both sides were drowned. The enemy dashed into the river at a gallop, and we followed close at the same pace. In a few minutes there was a mass of glittering swords, men slashing at each other, horses neighing, troopers shouting, surrounded by wounded, dead and riderless horses; in short, it was a scene quite beyond my powers of description. The rebels were principally on the defense, we on the attack: and right well did our men do their duty, though in the rebel ranks were many of their blood-relations Feroze Shah was cut down by one of our native troopers named Azeem Khan, who did not get off scot-free, as he had his sword-arm disabled by a bullet; but that had no effect on the brave fellow, as he still rode on cheering his comrades to follow him. to say that he was award ed the order of merit (first class)the Indian Victoria Cross.

The enemy suffered severely, and so did we. Amongst our losses was our beloved second in command, who was cut down by Feroze Shah just before Azeem Khan got up to him However, I will not enter into a detailed account of the casualties, for the list would be heavy; but this brilliant affair put a stop to any of those who escaped ever assembling again against the British government.

Having ridden over 32 miles in three hours, and fought a hard bat tle against great odds, our command ing officer decided that we should bivouac for the night on the banks of the river, and accept of the kind hospitality offered by the inhabi-tants of the surrounding villagesgrain for our horses, and flour, rice milk and fowls for ourselves. certainly enjoyed what we could get, and after refreshing the inner man we lit our pipes, and talked over the camp-fires of the events of the day. as soldiers always do, until midnight, when we wrapped our 'martial cloaks around us' and slept the sleep of the just.

The next day we started back to headquarters; but we took three days to get there, as our men and horses had had enough of rapid marching. On arrival at Chuckmuckpur we found some more work before us-namely, the capture of a noted dacoit, a Dick Turpin sort of chap, and the breaking up of his gang; but I reserve my account of that affair for a future occusion.-Chamber's Journal.

In the village of Sitka a frame store building was wrecked, instantly killing James Leads, a village blacksmith. The loss of property in the storm-stricken section of the state will reach $200,000.

Reign of Crime.

A reign of crime prevails throughout Berrien county, due to an invasion of tramps. Two negro "hoboes" tried to hold up four white men who were beating their way with them on a fruit train. Two of the white men were thrown from the car and another was shot and killed. The fourth gave up his money and was not harmed. Every deputy sheriff in the county has been ordered on duty to arrest tramps on sight and spare no effort to capture the murderers.

Bealth in Michigan,

Reports to the state board of health from 90 observers in various portions of the state indicate that during the past week typhoid fever and diplitheria increased and smallpox, scarlet fever. and pneumonia decreased in area of. prevalence. Consumption was reporte ed at 222 places, measles at 64, typhoid fever at 40, whooping cough at 20, scarlet fever at 61, and smallpox at 72.

Regent Resigns.

Gov. Bliss received word in Saglnaw from Lansing that the resignation of Col. Eli R. Sutton, of Detroit, as regent of the University of Michigan was in the executive office at Lansing. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Col. Sutton on the charge of perjury in connection with his trial on the charge of complicity in the state military clothing frauds.

Crep Outlook.

The weekly crop report of the Washington weather bureau says for Michigan:

Wet, cool weather has again delayed field work and retarded growth of corn; winter wheat, rye_oats, barley, meadow and pastures improved and are very promising; corn weedy and making slow growth; all cultivation backward; buckwheat seeding begun; warm, dry weather much needed to ripen hay. to ripen hay.

Convicted.

Attorney Thomas F. McGarry, of Grand Rapids, was convicted by a jury in the Allegan circuit court at Allegan of the charge of bribery in connection with the Lake Michigan water supply case. A stay of execution of 45 days was granted the respondent, who furnished a new bond in the sum of $7,- Paroled.

Gov. Bliss has paroled James Carey, sent from Lapeer county March 16, 1899, to five years' imprisonment in Jackson prison for larceny. The pardon board which investigated the case found Carey was suffering with tuberculosis, and he will probably not long

A VALUED ENTERTAINMENT

Given at the M. E. Church Monday and Tuesday Evening.

Miss Mary Gilbert, reader and violinist, and Miss Ada Kay, soprano, have iven two of the best entertainments for all lovers of music and elocution that was ever given in Buchanan, Miss Gilbert is an excellent reader, making all great skill and eloquence in her delivery.

which she has the bost of control. The program for Monday and Tuesday was indeed excellent exceeding anything of its kind ever given in this place. The number of selection given by Miss Gilbert were met with great applause by the appreciative audience. She also rendered a number of motion selections "Home, Sweet Home," "Lullaby," "The Old Oaken Bucket" and "I'll Be Ready in Just a Minute" and "Jennie Brown's Sisters Wedding," which brought forth many a smile

Miss Kay sang a Japanese Love Song by request which was excellent, and all of the selections rendered were such that showed much training.

The above ladies cannot be complimented too highly for their entertainments and all who have heard their speak much in their behalf

A Happy Birthday Surprise

A happy birthday surprise was given Mr. Glenn Smith last evening at his home on Chicago street. About twentyfive young people with bundles well filled were present. The guests were seated to the table when one by one each individual undone their bundles in turn, the others patiently awaiting to see the contents. Some were bounteously filled with luxuries while others contain nothing, but "sells," A jolly time is reported and Glenn hopes they will come again if they will bring their luncheon,

The Swellest That Ever Happened

Four hundred invitations are out for the Grand Opening at Coney Beach, Clear Lake, to be given tomorrow even-

This will certainly be a grand affair, as C. H. Fuller, proprietor, has spared no efforts in making the opening a win-Music will be furnished by Prof. Null's orchestra of Benton Harbor.

The Peach and Apple.

A fruit grower of Benton Harbor says: "It is surprising to find how many peach orchards have to be thinned. In some cases three-fourths of the peaches must be taken off. in some varieties but little thinning is necessary, and in some orchards no peaches are found."

He also says that on a limb eight inches long which had been thinned. he found three peaches which weighed more than eight peaches on an eight inch limb. The apple crop outlook is not the brightest, however it is impossible to get a fair estimate at this time. The apples show the effects of the continued cold, also some indicatons of scab, and the trees were properly sprayed.

Immense Wash Goods Triumph!

Quantities, Qualities, Prices Never Equalled Senational Selling Saturday

"hurry-up" dispatch took our buyer to Chicago early Monday morning and with his return Tuesday came news that will fill our Dress Goods Department to overflowing all day tomorrow. A well known jobber found himself in hot water with an overstock of the most exqu isite summer wash goods imaginable, the very backward season causing his dilemma. He would refuse no hall-way reasonable offer in case quantities; price was no object if the goods were only removed from his warehouses; we simply purchased at our own figures.

Such an opportunity was never offered you before—being among the early buyers (a favor through oldtime friendship) we took most deliberate pains to select only the most desirable patterns, all of which you will pronounce most exquisite, dainty and refreshing to the very last yard. The result of two days' hard work:

5,000 YARDS SUMMER WASH FABRICS—Dotted Swiss Mulls, Lenore Batistes, Sylphide Cords. Lucere Dots, Pink and Blue Lenore Lace Stripes, Mile Ray Dimities Ferona Dimities, worth 15c, 17%c, 20c, goods never intended for bargain counters, a glorious opportunit. Saturday

Imported Swiss Goods.

The delicously cool and dainty goods stand highest in feminine adoration just now. They are often scarce and more generally quite expensive, but our good fortune the over stocked importer will be shared with you, (as we are glad to do) in Saturday sales. Note such values and prices, then come and convince yourself:

Greet the Ruler,

A big throng took the opportunity of greeting the king and queen on sheir entry into the capital and semistate progress to Buckingham palace.

The thoroughfares were thickly lined with people and the enthusiasm of the spectators evidenced their delight at the ocular proof of the recovery of the king from his recent indisposition.

Envoys Arrive.

None of the special envoys who have though they include arrived here, princes of the greatest European dynasties, aroused as much interest as did Ras Makonnen, the Abyssinian general and special representative of King Menelik. In picturesqueness and barbarian splendor the Ethiopian commander and his suite paled even the brilliancy of the oriental princes whom London has become accustomed to during the past week. Makonnen, who has black curly hair and a beard wore a cloak of white silk, pantaloons, a shoulder cape of heavy white satin bordered with gold, and a broadbrimmed green felt hat. Three native chiefs who accompanied him were scarcely less gorgeous in their apparel, while an African priest, carry-guns and spears. Among the other arrivals were Prince Henry of Prussia, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir presumptive to the throne of Austria, the prince of the Asturias, Crown Prince Gustaf of Sweden and Norway, Admiral Gervais, head of the French mission, and Mgr. Merry del Val, the papal envoy.

Give a Dinner Party. King Edward and Queen Alexandra gave a grand dinner party Monday night at Buckingham palace to 70 roy-al personages who practically represented the sovereigns of all the mon archies of the world. The list of their majesties' guests was headed by the ezarowitch of Russia, who arrived in Lordon Monday evening, and included an imposing array of princes and princesses and all the members of the British royal family. Bucking-ham palace was beautifully decorated, and the bands of the Grenadier and Cold Stream guards discoursed throughout the evening. The dinner was followed by a brilliant reception, which was attended by the members of the suites of all the foreign potentates now in London.

Crowds Are Immense.

The crowds were so great Monday in Trafalgar square and in the va rious thoroughfares leading from this point that the omnibuses found it almost impossible to proceed. The congested condition of traffic above ground was practically repeated in haurorohau sanirav e routes, and the travel resources of the two-penny tube and the steam underground lines were heavily taxed. Passengers on these lines had to wait long before they were able to board the overcrowded trains.

A Novel Suggestion.

Among the national observances on coronation day which have received the approval of the king, is the suggestion, evidently traceable to the simultaneous stoppage of all trains, etc., in the United States for five minutes at two p. m. on the day of the late President McKinley's funeral, that at eight o'clock on Thursday evening every British subject in the United Kingdom and the colonies, whether in the street, at home, in a theater, in church or elsewhere, shall uncover and join in singing "God Save the King." The promoters hope that wherever Britons are assembled in America they will join in singing the national anthem

Thanksgiving Service.

A coronation thanksgiving service will be held next Sunday at St. Paul's cathedral. The dean of St. Paul's. Robert Gregory, D. D., and the chapter of the cathedral will especially invite the colonial visitors and Amer icans who are now in London to be present at this service. A large space under the dome will be reserved for these visitors, and tickets of admission to the cathedral have been placed at the disposal of the colonial office and the United States embassy.

Madame Albani and Sara Bernhardt are among the numerous artists and musicians to whom their majesties have sent special invitations to attend the coronation ceremony. Madame Bernhardt was especially honored in receiving from King Edward tickets for two seats in the abbey.

Boy Hangs Himself.

POPE WILL ACCEPT.

Lec Practically Agrees to Proposals of Gov. Taft Regarding Frings' Lands.

Rome, June 20:-The pope has not definitely accepted the propositions of Gov. Taft for the settlement of the questions regarding the friars lands in the Philippine islands, but it is confidently believed that the pontiff will do so in writing this morning.

The American propositions are as follows:

First-To purchase the lands belonging o the friars, the price to be fixed by arbitration.
Second—The appointment of arbiters to Second—The appointment of arbiters to decide the indemnity the Americans are to pay for the occupation of ecclesiastical buildings.

Third—The above propositions are absolutely conditional on the withdrawal of the friars.

Fourth—If the other propositions are accepted the Americans propose to give a deed or by law grant a patent to ecclesiastical buildings on public land.

Fifth—To settle by compromise or arbitration the several trusts for schools, hospitals, etc., claimed on the one hand by the civil and on the other by the church authorities.

The announcement of the success

The announcement of the success of the Taft mission has produced considerable surprise, not because a serious doubt had been entertained of the ultimate issue, but because the dispatch used in the settlement of the question is so contrary to the habit of vatican diplomacy. The unusual procedure is due to the personal and direct intervention of the palace to-day before luncheon time. pope, who, one of the most influential cardinals said, showed himself more American than the Americans. Leo refused to listen to objections. He said he wanted to finish immediately to satisfy Gov. Taft, as he was most impressed with American honesty and the moderation shown throughout the entire negotiations.

MAYOR INDICTED.

Albert A. Ames, of Minneapolis, Charged with Offering a Bribe

Minneapolis, Minn., June 18.-Sensations came thick and fast in the po-lice bribery cases Tuesday morning. When it came time to open the trial of Christopher Norbeck, detective, for bribery, W. W. Erwin, his attorney, arose and confessed that he did not know the whereabout of his client. Another sensation developed when it became known that Albert A. Ames, mayor of Minneapolis, had been indicted by the grand jury for offering a bribe. The charge is that the mayor endeavored to have his secretary, Thomas R. Brown, appointed sheriff by the county commissioners, when it became evident that Philip Megaarden would be removed from the office by the governor for misfeasance. In attempting to carry out this plan, he is alleged to have of-fered to so arrange matter; that the $20,000 annual income of the sheriff's office should be divided equally between Brown and the three county commissioners who were to vote for him, forming a majority of the board. The evidence to this effect was given before the grand jury by County Commissioners M. W. Nash and Ed Sweet.

Dr. Ames has been four times mayor of Minneapolis, having been elected thrice as a democrat and again in November, 1902, after having been out of office for some years, as a republican. He is a veteran of the civil war, in which he served as surgeon, and is a G. A. R. man.,

SEEKS BIG LOAN.

President Palma and Cabinet Will Ask Congress to Assist Sugar Planters.

Havana, June 21.—President Palma and his cabinet at a special meeting Friday decided to distribute $3,000,000 among the sugar planters and $500,000 to cattle raisers. This action is deemed necessary to save the sugai planters from absolute ruin, as the result of the failure of the United States senate to pass the reciprocity measure so urgently recommended by President Roosevelt. The money will be raised by a loan, payable in two years. The money will be advanced to sugar planters at the rate of 50 cents per 25 pounds. It will be repaid to the government in two installments in February and March. Cattle raisers will be paid a premium of five dollars for each animal imported for breeding purposes. Further than this, all such catwill be admitted free of duty. The cabinet also decided to increase the tariff on many articles upon which the import duty is now extremely low President Palma will send a special message to congress early next week, urgently recommending that he be granted authority to borrow $3,500,-000 for the purposes stated. It is believed that the loan will be taken up readily by Havana bankers and that the money required will be raised with little delay.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

Wisconsin Supreme Court Makes Ruling of Vital Consequence to Labor and Capital

Madison, Wis., June 20. - The supreme court declares that the state law which prohibits any employer from discharging an employe because he belongs to a labor organization is contrary to the employer's constitutional rights, and therefore void The court recognizes the right of men to combine in labor organizations. If an employer's liberty were curtailed by legislation, however, that of an employe could be likewise curtailed. Thus an employe might be punished for quitting work because his employer had formed a blacklist organization for any other objectionable combination. The decision of the supreme court is a most important one. It is vital to labor and capital alike, and will undoubtedly attract widespread attention. Take No Action.

MURDER IS AVENGED.

The Town Marshal of Jefferson, in, : Is Slain-His Murderer Killed by a Mob,

Sioux City, Ia., June 23.-Horace Shipman, who is supposed to have been half-witted, shot and killed the city marshal of Jefferson Saturday morning, as the latter was attempting to arrest him. In a few minutes an infuriated mob surrounded the house and Shipman was shot to death. During the trouble and until the mob citizens are now cooling down. Two boys on their way to the circus saw Shipman sitting in front of became quite angry and pursued the lads, throwing stones at them. They swore out warrants for his arrest, and these were placed in the bands vice.

He proceeded to Shipman's hous but the latter had barricaded himself, and when Swearingen knocked at the door Shipman fired and Swearingen fell dead. Dr. G. H. Grimmell, Shipman's family physician, went ahead Filipinos, and that the federal party of the marshal to attempt to have was honored in being allowed to tell Shipman surrender peaceably. Shipman agreed to this, but when Swear-ingen and Deputy Sheriff Fred Ken-was assured of the love of 6,000,000 ingen and Deputy Sheriff Fred Ken-dall appeared at the door he warned them not to come in under penalty of death. Swearingen, undaunted, started to pull his revolver for the purpose of entering, and Shipman fired a load of shot, striking the marshal in the lower part of the face, and killing him instantly. Dr. Grimmell and the deputy beat a retreat, leaving the body of the marshal upon the porch.

Sheriff Anderson immediately went to the scene of the shooting, deputizing a dozen citizens to assist him. Hundreds of people gathered near Shipman's home, and for three hours watched the battle. Five hundred shots were poured into the large twostory house. Shipman replying from the windows, cellarway and door. The fire company was called out and James May volunteered to stick a hose in the cellar and drown him out. May accomplished his work, but Shipman fired upon him from the cellar, causing him to retreat. o'clock Shipman appeared at the window and fifty shots were fired at him. It then became quiet inside and Shipman's body was found on the floor full of bullets.

No arrests have been made, and it is expected that none will be made. During the entire conflict the body of City Marshal Swearingen lay on Shipman's doorstep, where it had fallen, bleeding from a ghastly wound in the throat.

There is no doubt that Shipman was insane. For a long time he had been considered mentally unsound. Some time ago he was before the insanity commissioners. He was at that time adjudged insane, but he was never taken to the asylum. Shipman was married, but had no children.

They were received by Mrs. McKinley, and later entertained by former Secretary of State Judge Day, with whom they visited West Lawn cemetery, and afterward dined at his home. The Filipino was affected by his meeting with Mrs. McKinley, whom he afterward described as a fine model for "Doloresa," and tears streamed down his cheeks as he addressed her.

The address contained reference to the distress which the federal party of the Philippines felt at the assas-sination of President McKinley. It stated that he was the protector of the the widow of the deceased president of Filipino Christians.

At the cemetery the visitors were admitted to the vault in which rest the remains of the late president, and Gen. Buencamino, as he silently looked upon the casket again wept. also visited the site on which it is proposed to erect the McKinley monument, and the family burial lot for the McKinleys.

M. Buencamino, before he left for Washington, said he would remain at the capital until after the vote on the Philippine bill, when he would go to New York to work on behalf of a plan to colonize the Philippines with people from some of the crowded districts of the United States. He said he hoped to interest Mayor Low in a plan to send 1,000 of the people out of the 11,000 on every square mile in New York to occupy and develop the 20,-000,000 acres of land owned by the government in the archipelago.

STILL ON GUARD'

Militia Watching the Mills at Puterson, N. J., with Orders to Shoot if Mob Appears, Paterson, N. J., June 24.—There is no disorder here, though the streets are filled with curious people from other places, who come to see the militia at their posts.

The militia is still on guard at the mills and some men of the details are stationed at the upper windows of each place, armed with rifles. The general orders are to shoot to kill if a mob appears. The weavers are divided into two sections, one portion favoring going to work regardless of existing conditions. Just about half; however, are talking in a different vein. They object to working under the protection of soldiers. It is hard to tell to which counsel the great body of the workers will isten. It is pretty certain that should the decision be for a general stoppage of work until the troops depart the slut-

"Madam," said an old diplomat at his own table, "I have some bonbons here from Paris. They have medallions of the potentates of the world, and I have had your ruler's face stamped on one of them. Is it not a good likeness?" And he handed a chocolate to the woman on his right, who, for reasons of her husband's, did not like the new president.

We have no rulers in this country," said the gracious guest, throwing the chocolate under the table.

The host's attention had been attracted elsewhere, and he did not see the insult, but he was made aware of something by the silence which followed. However, before he could know what had happened, a young woman's voice said to the butler: "Won't you find that bonbon which - dropped? I want to look

SIMPLE TINT GAUGE

Very Useful for Matching Trimmings and Dress Goods and for Harmonizing Colors,

How many girls there are, and for that matter men and boys as well, who, without going actually color-blind, yet seem to lack the power of judging whether certain colors blend, whether two colors; or combinations of colors, will harmonize when placed in juxtaposition. For instance, to an inexperienced and not specially trained eye it is no easy matter to uy whether a trimming will match terial in which, perhaps, seven d colors are employed) in various pro-tions, or what is the dominant storin another material that consists of a medley of colors. The following lit-tle device, which is only a homely adaptation of a toy to be purchased at most places, took my attention at once, as I recognized in it an aid to supply a had long been conscious

Take an ordinary piece of cedar pencil, from 31/2 to four inches in length, cut to a point; secondly, a circle of cardboard, with a diameter of about four inches, and, having made a hole in the center of this, thrust the pencil through it until the point is about an inch below the cardboard; with a little gum or a drop or two of sealing wax you can secure the disk to the pencil. You have now a kind of top or teetotum, which you will find spins easily, and your apparatus is complete.

Suppose we want to find out if a trimming really matches some dress material; all you have to do is to cut a circular piece of the material four inches in diameter, make a hole in the middle of it, and put the longer portion of the pencil through this, when it will be flat on your cardboard disk. to which you can secure it by small pins. Cut a small piece of the trimming, about three-quarters of an inch square, and fix it on the edge of your disk (see Fig.). You have now only to set your teetotum spinning and watch the result. If the material you are using had a pattern, that pattern disappears, and in place you get the general shade of the stuff, and the same with the trimming, so that if the two exactly match, the two shades will be the same: but if they do not, you will perceive a or a darker ring at the edge of your disk. If again you wish to learn if two materials, each composed of a variety of colors, will harmonize, proceed in exactly the same way, and the predominant color in each will give the shade, and you will at once be able to ascerner you will be able to see if one single color will "go" with a mass of others in a way pleasing to the eye.—Girls'

WOMAN WINS DEGREE.

Miss Florence A. Fensham, First Woman Bachelor of Divinity in Congregational Church.

When Christianity and the Christian church were given to the world the promise was: "Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." This ideal of Christian womanhood has been a long time in evolving. Modern conditions, however, make it increasingly possible for women to "follow the gleam" where it may lead. The number who have been led into the ministry of the church is yet small, but more and more are the Scriptures being verified in this respect.

Miss Florence A. Fensham, of Constantinople, Turkey, has achieved the signal distinction of being the first woman in the history of the Congregational church to receive the degree of bachelor of divinity. This honor has just been conferred upon her at the annual convocation of the Chicago

FLORENCE A FENSHAM.

Theological seminary in the First Congregational church, and when President Dr. J. H. George, who conferred the degree, came to Miss Fenshaw he remarked, with much feeling: "This shows what a woman can do.'

Florence A. Fensham is a native of East Douglas, Mass. When she was very young her family moved to Albany, N. Y., where she was brought up. At an early age she showed unusual mental ability. This spirit was fostered by her parents, who gave her every possible advantage. In this country she has been a student at Cornell and at Harvard, afterward going abroad to study in the University of Edinburgh and afterward studying theology at Mansfield college, Oxford, under Dr. Fairbairn.

After completing her course of study at Oxford, Miss Fensham went to Constantinople, where she occupied the chair of biblical literature and comparative religion in the American college for girls in this oriental city. Old also hold, the important position of dean of the college.

This college for girls is the outgrowth of a high school founded in Constantinople in 1871 by the woman's board of missions for "the thorough education and Christian culture of girls in the orient." The growth of the school was so rapid and its work so important that the institution was incorporated as a college by the legis-lature of Massachusetts in 1890. In 1894 an imperial irade was granted the college by Abdul Hamid II., assuring its permanency by the official recognition of it as an educational institution in the Turkish empire.

Miss Fensham has thrown herself, heart and soul, into her work, in which she is a great enthusiast.
"The object of our work," she explained, "is to give the higher Christian education to the oriental women. Our students number from 150 to 200. in which 15 nationalities are represented, Bulgarian, Armenian, Greek, Hebrew, American, English, Turkish, Albanian, French, German, Italian, Russian, Hungarian, Roumanian and Australian. The language of the college is English, and the facility with which these eastern girls acquire it is really remarkable."

During the whole period of her study at the Chicago theological seminary, Miss Fensham held the "high honor scholarship," which is awarded to the attainer of 95 per cent. in every branch of study. It is a remarkable and noteworthy fact, however, that this scholarship has never before been bestowed, Miss Fensham being the first to hold it. She will leave Chicago in a few days for three months' rest in the east before returning to her arduous labors in the orient.

Made in Heaven

Little Ethel, a Columbus five-yearold, recently hear her mamma say that there wasn't a match in the house That night when the mother heard Ethel's prayers the little girl concluded by saying: "And please, Dod, send us a box uv matches. Amen."

"Why do you ask God for matches, Ethel?" asked the parent, in surprise.
"Coz," replied Ethel, "didn't Aunt Ruth say that matches wuz made in Heaven?"-Ohio State Journal.

"I have often wondered what I would do if I should find a burglar in the house," said Mr. Meekton's wife. "I don't think I'd faint."

SCRAPER FOR STABLES.

For Cleaning Up Floors and Other Work of the Kind This Device Is Very Convenient.

A convenient device for use about the stable for cleaning up the floors, etc., is shown in the illustration. Procure a thin, stiff piece of iron about 14 inches long and 5 or 6 inches wide, and cut it with a cold chisel into the shape shown, or leave it rectangular. Rivet the handle socket of an old garden hoe to the blade, and put in a handle of the desired length. A scraper of this kind is much better than one made of wood, and it will be found useful outside the stable for such work as cleaning the barn floor, the poultry house, or for use in the grain bins. If a handle clip from a hoe is not at hand, the device shown by "B" may be available of to attach the handle to scraper. This is made by taking a piece of strap ison, bending double. welding part way up and spreading apart the unwelded wings, which are bent so as to fit on the squared end of the handle. Small holes are drilled in the clip of the rivets or bolts with which it is secured to the scraper blade and handle.-J. G. Allshouse, in Ohio Farmer.

EXERCISE FOR HORSES.

An Important Element in the Development of the Highest Powers of an Animal.

In writing about the care of horses an eminent English army officer has the following to say: "Regularity of exercise is an important element if the development of the highest powers of the horse. The horse in regular work will suffer less in his legs than another, for he becomes gradually and thoroughly accustomed to what it required of him. The whole living machine accommodates itself to the regula; demands on it, the body becomes active and well conditioned without superfluous fat, and the muscles and tendous gradually develop. Horses in right are work are also nearly exempt from the many accidents which arise father than the regular exercise, we need only left to. the stage coach horse of former days Many of these animals, though by no means of the best physical frame would trot with a heavy load behind them for eight hours at the rate of ten miles an hour without turning a hair, and this work they would continue to do for years without even being sick or sorry. Few gentlemen can say as much for their carriage horses. No horses, in fact, were in hardier condition. On the other hand, if exercise be neglected, even for a few days, in a horse in high condition, he will put on fat. He has been taking daily the large amount of material needed to sustain the consumption caused by his work. If that work cease suddenly, after the seeds ripen by eating them. nature will, notwithstanding, continue to supply the new material; and fat, followed by plethora, and frequently by disease, will be the speedy consequence."

BUYING HOGS CHEAP.

Many Otherwise Sensible Farmers Allow Low Prices to Dictate Important Purchases,

No swine breeder can afford to buy animals just because they are cheap. It not infrequently happens that the cheapest animals prove to be the most expensive in the end, whether that end be in the way of breeding or of butchering. If an animal is cheap it is because it is not worth much, except in rare cases when a good animal has to be disposed of under the conditions of a forced sale. The man that buys a cheap boar finds that he has to sell the progeny of that boar at a correspondingly low price. The man that buys a cheap sow frequently finds that she is cheap because she bears few pigs and they of poor quality. By the time he has disposed of the pigs and figured up his accounts he finds that the cheap sow was really a very expensive sow. for into her went not only the purchase money but a great deal of labor and feed. No progressive man will allow the price to dictate his purchases. Quality is what he must have, and it is what he is after. The man that really buys cheap is the man that pays a good price for a good animal and gets a good profit out of it. It is very seldom that a good profit comes out of a poor price and a poor animal .-- Farmers' Review.

To Secure Broody Hens.

We often hear people complain of the scarcity of setting hens. When we are short of setters, we place four five extra eggs in several nests, and in a few days usually find them covered with broody hens. If one is few eggs' that are under size or off in shape, and worthless, for hatching purposes, making them, so the fresh laid eggs may be readily distinguished from them and gathered as usual. We find this a very simple and effective method to induce the hens to become broody early in the season.-Milton A. Brown, in Poultry

VIRTUES OF BARLEY.

Land That Will Grow Good Corn One Year Will Yield a Fair Barley Crop the Next,

One advantage which barley may be credited with over the other cereals is that it is much less liable be injured by the rust fungus. Nearly all the varieties that are now on the market mature some time during the first ten days in July, so that the crop escapes to some extent the severely hot weather. Ripening as it does at this early date is of considerable advantage to. the grower during the harvesting period. Where winter wheat is grown barley is generally ready to harvest soon after this crop, while spring wheat and oats come in a little later. But the fact that it matures at a convenient time would not alone recommend it for general culture. It must give a good yield of grain, otherwise farmers in general will have little use for it. In this respect we think that barley fully fills the requirements. Where or dinary care is taken in preparing the seed bed and the soil is at all in good heart there is little difficulty in getting a yield of 40 bushels per acre. In fact we have seen a 50 and 55 bushel yield time and again. As the grain usually weighs from 45 to 50 pounds per bushel it will be seen that the yield in pounds per acre is very large. It certainly would require a heavy crop of oats to produce the same amount of food. It is true that the grain is scarcely so palatable as oats and that it is not relished so much by farm animals; at the same time if properly combined with other foods it will give good results,-Live Stock Indicator.

BIG PROFIT IN WATER.

Fruit Growers and Dairymen Can Sell It at a High Price and Yet Please the Buyer.

To sell water at a high price and yet please the buyer is one of the farmer's privileges. The gardener whose strawberries are juciest, whose melons give the greatest refreshment during the hot August days and whose peaches are the most melting owes much of the superior quality of his fruit to the abundance of water they contain. To secure this added juiciness, unless nature be liberal with rains during the growing season, he must spend money, time and labor in irrigating his plantations or in making special efforts to conserve the moist-nre in the soil. The cheese-maker also sells considerable water in his product, but he might usually sell more with satisfaction both to himself and to the consumer. He would have an advantage over the gardener in so doing, for he need not go to great expense to provide the moisture. It is always found in plenty in the green cheese; and he need only use care in retaining it to add both quantity and quality to his marketable cheese.—Troy (N. Y.)

Cleaning Creamery Churn.

J. Bunting, of Michigan, in his Creamery Journal, tells how he cleans his churn as follows: "I use a handful of sal soda and one of salt, together with two tablespoonfuls of potash or lye, with four ordinary pails of hot water. I pour this in the churn and start it going, but I am always sure to leave the venting plug out. I run the churn for about two minutes, draw the water off into a washtub and use it to wash my short of nest eggs, he can use a strainer, butter ladle, paddle, bricker, etc. After I have washed my churn outside and inside with this solution, I pour cold water into it and rinse it by running for about two mnutes. After drawing off the water I sprinkle with

Millions of Fish,

Great attention is being paid this year by the Wisconsin Fish Commission to the stocking of the streams and lakes of that state.
