Profit in Silkworm.

Secretary Wilson has secured an appropriation of $10,000 from Congress for the purpose of making experiments in the raising of silkworms and the production of raw silk. We are now importing about $45,000,000 worth of raw silk annually, and Mr. Wilson thinks that it is possible for us to raise a good deal of the supply in our own country, if the wives and daughters of the family and people who live in the villages will take up the industry. It is particularly suitable for women and children, and the wives and daughters on the farms and in the villages, by spending a little time each day, might earn a liberal supply of pin money without interfering with their household duties or their education or their pleasure. In France not less than 150,000 families are engaged in the cultivation of silk without interference with their other duties. In Italy nearly as many of the peasants are engaged in the same industry. In that way the girls earn and save money for their marriage dowries. Silk raising is simple enough for anyone of ordinary intelligence to carry on. It is no more difficult than keeping chickens or bees, and the profits are very much larger.

There have been many attempts, however, to introduce silk culture into the United States, but they have always failed because other crops have paid better and it has never been necessary for the women and children of our farm population to earn their own living. They have always been supported by their fathers and brothers.

About 1860 members of the Oneida community near Utica, N. Y., planted a lot of mulberry trees and imported a quantity of silkworms, and the work is still carried on by the women and children, who sell from $25,000 to $80,000 worth of raw silk every year. About the same time the industry was introduced into California. Bounties were offered by the legislature in order to encourage it, and thefad reached its height in 1869 when $115,000 was paid in bounties. But as soon as the bounty was withdrawn the industry languished, because the silk cost more than it came to. Several farmers who went into it upon a large scale lost considerable money.

In 1860 the Kansas people got the fever, having been inoculated by a French philanthropist named Boissiere, who purchased a large tract of land in Franklin county, and brought over from France a number of families, whom he placed in a colony which he called Silkvill. More than 10,000 mulberry trees were planted, and silk worms were furnished free to the colonists who were to carry on the industry on the co-operative plan, but it was a failure. The Menonities of Kansas inherited the industry, and the women and girls still raise a good deal of silk.

There is no question as to the ability to raise silk wherever the mulberry tree will grow, and it will thrive anywhere between the Atlantic and the gulf and the great lakes, and the Atlantic ocean and the arid plains. But the worms require a great deal of attention and detailed work which the American people are not accustomed to perform. In Japan, China, France, Italy, Switzerland, Turkey and other countries children are expected to look after the silkworms, under the direction of their mothers. In these countries even the littlest ones are always expected to pay their share of the household expenses and carry their share of the load. The children of America have not yet been reduced to that necessity, although no doubt it would be a good thing for them.

Secretary Wilson thinks that silk raising ought to be introduced into the South, because the climate is especially adapted for it and the colored women and children could earn a good deal of money that way.—W. E. Curtis in Chicago Record Herald.

HOOK AND LADDER CO.

Annual Picnic at Hudson Lake, Ind. Wednesday.

The Hook and Ladder laddies show the stuff they are made of when they decide to do anything, for a few difficulties do not deter them.

Wednesday morning the western sky was overcast and it looked as if it would rain, but rain could not frighten the boys, for water as well fire, is one of the things they are familiar with, so away they drove with two wagons loaded with a jolly party and good things for the inner man. When about three miles from home it began to rain, and it was no sprinkle either; but with the side curtains down they managed to keep out the rain except now and then a little would trickle down the curtains on the seats but that was only adding a little variety to the sport of the day. Finally the lake was reached, the rain keeping them company all the way, and did not leave them when they there but stayed with them during the day. The lake generally at this time of year is a great resort for camping parties, but when our jolly crowd drove around its shores they found it deserted. They could not tell whether the great clouds of mosquitoes had driven or carried the people away; they thought there were enough mosquitoes to carry a horse; whatever the reason was they had the lake to themselves for the day and neither rain or mosquitoes quenched their determination to have a good time, so they secured a good canvas canopy and protected themselves from the rain and proceeded to eat drink and be merry.

They had supplied themselves with all needed to make the day a memorable one, even to ice cream and tobacco. At about four p. m. they gathered up the fragments, how many baskets full not reported, and as they started for the drive home the clouds broke away and old Sol did his best to add cheer the balance of the day. They drove home in good time and in excellent spirits over their annual picnic at Hudson lake.

TIDES AFFECT OIL WELLS

Curious Claim Made by Inspector in Beaumont, Texas Field.

Beaumont, Texas, July 21—George A. Hill, inspector, who has had charge of the oil field since its beginning, is of the opinion that the pressure in the Spindle Top field is effected by the tides of the ocean. He says he has been studying the matter for six months and is now thoroughly convinced that when there is a high tide in the gulf, pressure in the wells is very greatly increased. He cites the fact that several wells on Spindle Top, which have not flowed for a month, spouted today with almost equal power to the old-time exhibition. Many scientists will be prepared to believe this theory and it is attracting a deal of attention, because if it is clearly demonstrated it will solve a question which has defied the best geologists.—Chicago Record Herald.

Boys too Small to Have Matches.

Wednesday morning two small boys, surnamed Crippen and Murphy caused some annoyance by setting fire to some straw which they had carried into the barn at the Axle works. The blaze was discovered in time to prevent any damage and the boys were chased out. Soon a burning shock of wheat in an adjoining field revealed their presence again, and this time all matches were taken away from them.

LEARN SOMETHING.

That Will be of Value to You, if not
Today Some time in the Future.

The fire department have had cards printed, and posted in conspicuous places designating the different fire wards of the village and how to properly call the department in case of fire. It will be well for each person to read them and have it clear so in case they may need it they will know what to do. You may never need and we most sincerely hope you will not, but you may. We saw two boys perusing the card in the post office the other day and as they were going away one said, "well we have learned something." That's it, learn something it will always be of value to you.

Street Fair Aftermath.

In the case of the People vs. John Hurdick, John Clark, George McKimmon and James Wilson, the four "short change" men, the defendants pleaded guilty, and were sent to the county jail for 30 days and to pay $17.63 cost each, in default of which they must serve 90 days.

The above from the Benton Harbor Palladium shows some of the results of the Street Fair. It has been our privilege to see several of these modern forms of amusement and we have never seen any benefit to the town or people. Yes, we believe in pleasure and good, healthful amusements but we have never seen it in Street Fairs.

Give us the old time agricultural fairs where men will be stimulated to raise the best grain and vegetables and the women of the family can display their handiwork in canned fruits or fancy work and good results may follow.

To the Irishman in his native country there seems to be no substitute for the potato, and the severe blight on this vegetable this year threatens the island with a recurrence of the famine of 1846 when the entire potato crop of Ireland was completely destroyed.

Count Matsukata, formerly Japanese Minister of Finance, after spending about thirty days in this country is now commenting in Vienna regarding America's too rapid progress, and expressed his opinion that our country is experiencing a mushroom growth. Fortunately, the intelligent American believes that his fear is groundless.

Democratic County Convention

The democrats of Berrien county met in convention at Berrien Springs Wednesday for the purpose of selecting state, congressional and senatorial delegates.

The attendance was large, every township with one or two exceptions, being represented. The convention was very enthusiastic and great harmony prevailed.

Jas M. Babcock, chairman of the county committee, called the convention to order and John V. Starr, ex-mayor of St. Joe was made temporary chairman, while ex-county clerk Thos Camady, of Watervliet was named as temporary secretary.

The various credentials, resolutions and permanent organization committees were then named. The committee on permanent organization lost but little time in recommending that the temporary organization be made permanent. The resolutions committee confined themselves to state issues.

Chairman Starr addressed the convention at considerable length, and dwelt with emphasis upon the rosy-colored outlook for Democracy in the coming campaign. His remarks were frequently punctuated with vociferous applause.

An election of state delegates resulted, 24 delegates to the state, 12 to the congressional, and 12 to the senatorial convention were chosen.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cared by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock, if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

C. H. Defrees is Rushing Work of Grading Railway Line.

St. Joseph Herald: The work of grading the South Bend and Southern Michigan Electric Railways Co.'s line between South Bend and Niles is progressing rapidly under the supervision of the contractor, C. H. Defrees.

Work was begun two weeks ago. Under the stipulations of the contract the grading between South Bend and Niles was to be completed by September 1. At the outset great difficulty was found in securing teams for the work but the contractor has since purchased several mule teams and with a gang of 150 workmen it can be safely said that the contract will be finished two weeks before the required time.

On Saturday the force was working at a place called Mosquito Den, about 4 miles out of South Bend, and the men are unanimous in their opinion that the point is appropriately named.

Mr. Defrees has secured two large circus tents which will be used "by the men for sleeping and eating quarters, as they are operating at a too great distance from the city to travel back and forth each day.

Mr. Defrees gives the fare and lodging to his men at exactly the same price that they cost him and all are satisfied.

During hot days both men and teams are allowed to rest one hour with pay going on, and in this way better results are obtained.

The greatest draw back to the work is the construction of culverts which must be excavated to a great depth and then cemented and built upon the sides with stone.

Many people expressed a doubt that the railway would ever be built to this city and that Niles and South Bend only would be connected by it. St. Joseph is the objective point of the company and the road can be booked as a certainty for our city. It is the desire of the company to have cars running over the road by Jan. 1 and if the work is rushed, as it is now, there is every reason to believe that this will be accomplished.

Thoughts on preparing and Teaching the Sunday School Lesson.

It is not my aim, in this article, to lay down any iron-clad rule on "How best to teach and prepare the Sunday School lesson," but just to give a few thoughts along this line. First, as to how to prepare the lesson, and second, how to teach the lesson.

I—The teacher should study the lesson carefully, thoughtfully and prayerfully, during the week. Indeed he should get full of the subject matter to be taught; and then he will be able to impart knowledge to other.

It is impossible for a person to reflect any more light, or impart any more knowledge than he is in possession of. If I wish to interest and instruct a class, I must know well the lesson. By knowing well the lesson, I do not mean to have my speech well committed to memory, so that I can rattle it off as a school boy could the multiplication table, but I must have the lesson get me. This committing merely, might do if I were only to appear before the class on dress parade. It is God's truth that I am to know and teach. I must have the truth of God abiding in me. It is one thing to be able to commit and report a lesson, and another thing to know and practice a lesson.

There are to many like the little boy who remarked to his cousin Mary: "I have my lesson by heart." "You surprise me," said Mary. Fred, "Anybody ought to learn so short a lesson as that, only ten verses." Mary, "It was not the length of the lesson, but the breadth of it, that I was thinking of. It is a great thing to learn a lesson by heart." "What do you mean?" says Fred. Mary, "I was thinking of that little verse, 'If ye do not forgive, neither will your Father who is in heaven forgive your trespasses,' that is a part of the lesson which you say you know by heart, but I heard you declare a few moments ago, that you would never forgive Ralph Hastings as long as you lived." This was a new revelation to Fred. He had never thought of learning a lesson that way. To learn a lesson thereafter had a new meaning to him.

To say that we know a lesson means vastly more than some of us practice. Yes, what are words unless we practice their meaning. I pray that we may learn the spirit as well as the letter of the lesson, and then we will be able to teach God's word better.

II—The teacher should study the parallel passages, search for the central truth; dig down, the most precious truths are covered up; hence the necessity of earnest searching after the truth. Use God's great search light, the Holy Spirit. The diligent searcher after choice truth, will be abundantly rewarded in the rich supply of grace flowing in his soul. It is real living, vital truth, that we want, we must have it, Jesus says "I am the way, the Truth, and the Life." It is more of the abundant life, that we need. Not a skeleton, a mere form, but the living Altar Fire. In preparing the lesson we should study the geography of the country; the manners and customs of the people. If the lesson is on a certain book of the Bible; study the author; when he wrote; why he wrote and the object of writing.

We come now to the question "How Teach the Lesson."

1—The teacher should have the attention of the class; the class owes an attentive ear to the teacher. The teacher should make the class feel that he has something to say and then say it.

(a) Teach by asking questions. Draw out the thoughts of the scholars.

(b) Use illustrations. But do not carry the illustration too far; so that the scholar will lose sight of the truth that you wish to teach and be carried away with the illustration. Jesus, the great teacher taught by parable and never failed to interest and instruct his hearers. To be sure some of His hearers became offended at His sayings and walked no more with Him. In all Sunday School teaching Jesus is our model. Follow Him.

PLOWING WITH ELEPHANTS

Barnum's Witty Reply to the Farmer who Asked Whether it Would Pay.

From "P. T. Barnum, Showman and Humorist," by Joel Benton, in the August Century.

It may be said of P. T. Barnum that he was the Majordomo or Lord of Laughter and Fun, the protean dispenser of amusement. How well he became known through this function one curious incident certifies. Some years before he died, an obscure person in some remote part of Asia wrote a letter, which he dropped in the post-office near him directed to "Mr. Barnum, America." The letter reached its destination without an hour's delay. The great showman unaffectedly enjoyed being known from the very beginning of his celebrity; and when he found his celebrity was a tremendous factor in his success, he did everything that he could think of to extend the exploitation of his name. This was not to nourish vain imaginings or because he felt exalted; it was to promote business.

Around his successive homes at Bridgeport, Connecticut, he was fond of putting something that suggested a show. Queerly marked cattle, the sacred cow, or an elephant, were frequently among the stock to be noticed in his fields. On one occasion he had an elephant engaged in plowing on the sloping hill where he could plainly be seen by the passengers on the New Haven and Hartford railroad, an agricultural innovation that he knew would get notice of some sort in every newspaper in the country. It was even said that he received letters from farmers far and wide asking how much hay one elephant ate, and if it was more profitable to plow with an elephant than with horses or oxen. His replies were invariably frank, and were of this purport: If you have a large museum in New York, and a great railway sends trains full of passengers within eyeshot of the performance, it will pay, and pay well, but if you have no such institution, then horses or oxen will prove more economical.

Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin

The U. S. Department of Agriculture for Mich., reports the following for the week ending July 21:

Rain fell 1.45 inches or .98 of an inch above normal. The rain has greatly hindered the securing of the hay crop. Usually the bulk of the Michigan hay is cut by the 4th or 5th of July; some of it is still uncut. Wheat and rye are also much later than usual. Oats are ripening rapidly; the stand is heavy and the heads well filled, corn is improving. Early potatoes doing well. Considerable scab in apples, plums have been falling badly; as a whole apples, pears, and peaches continue promising, especially peaches.
