Master Mechanic Yendes has Rebuilt an Engine. Under the energetic new management of Edward Maher, vice president and general manager of the M. B. H. & C. rulway, that line is now looking up and bids fair to expand into an important system. Before going ahead with extensive plans which with other improvements are under consideration, Mr. Maher and his willing cooperators are now busily engaged in putting the 27 miles of road running from this city to Butraveling and shipping public.

The whole track is being practically rebuilt. Eight thousand new ties have already been laid this year and ten thousand more are enroute the railroad projectors always say.

A new freight depot 20x40 feet in size has been built at Buchanan, and the passenger depot there has been overhauled, repaired and repainted. The bridges along the line have been repaired and strenghtened.

Held up the Wrong Man

German, strong and fearless, familiarly called Mike. Last Sunday evening on his way home from Dayton to Buchanan as he came to the high bridge he dismounted the wheel he was riding and pushed it up the hill, when he got on the bridge he was met by an individual who asked him for a chew, a privilege one chewer grants another, and as Mike said he had no objection in granting, but when the individual next demanded Mike's purse and contents he objected and very plainly told his inquisitor that he should go and do as he did "earn his own money." He had scarcely said the words when he saw a blow aimed at him; quickly moving aside he received the blow on the shoulder which according to Mike's words "made him mad" and he landed the fellow a blow that floored him, Mike then gave him a good beating and left him senseless on the bridge, chanan in better shape to ensure jumped on his wheel and soon arspeed, safety and convenience of the rived at home pale and excited. The people saw his excitement and his disordered clothing and asked him if he had an accident when he related to them his story. The highwayman got no more than he deserved and it to be put in "before snow flies," as is to be hoped more of them might have punishment meeted to them at once. Shade Trees

These warm days how grateful we are for the beautiful shade trees along our streets, but in many places the limbs are allowed to grow too low; it would be better in both wet and dry weather to have them trimmed up higher, there would be a freer circulation of the air, drying the ground more quickly in wet places and adding to the shade in the dry time. Let us trim up the trees some. Try it and see how much pleasanter it will be.

Our Streets

Perhaps no village of our size can boast of cleaner streets. They show the care of our street committee and we are proud of them and not ashamed of taking our visitors around the town, but we do not want to rest by having them in moderate good order, we want to do bet ter. There are several places that could be improved now by the removal of refuse along the street.

One of the latest and best reasons for a park is the bench put up by the fellows in front of Morris' store. When there is nothing to do one must sit down, and how much pleasanter for all instead of sitting in windows hiding the merchants display, go to the park these warm, pleasant even ings, and sit on good, easy seats.

It is quite a satisfaction to the property holders of the village to see how Buchanan is proving such an attractive summer resort. The beach on either side of Clear lake has drawn large crowds from Chicago and other cities and they have invariably been pleased with the place and visitors have been free in their expression of the beauty of the village and its surrounding country.

Another striking illustration of the inadequacy of money, to bring either happiness or health, was brought to notice by the suicidal death of A. M. Rothschild, the Chicago [millionaire a few days ago. Uninterrupted work, a deal of worry, and no relaxation are the causes assigned for the suicide. The proper proportion of work and recreation, minus the worry would bring different results.

BENTON HARBOR

Hobson day brought with it good weather for the crowds who wanted to see the hero of Santiago. He arrived in our city on the 2:45 p. m. train and was escorted to the assembly grounds where the big tent was filled with people.

To relieve the tedious waiting Prof. Kinsey of Monticell, Ind. led the audience in singing patriotic sengs and the strains of "Marching through Georgia" greeted the naval hero as he entered. Rev. E. A. Hoffman introduced Mr. Barrat O' Hara one of the boys of Company I, who met Hobson as he left the prison at Santiago and whom he introduced to the audience. They in turn greeted their favorite with the graceful Chautaqua salute, bringing a look of surprise and pleasure to his handsome face. He is like his pictures and very boyish looking, still one notes the lack of hirsute covering on the crown of his shapely head. His manner is perfect and his voice deep and full,

The subject upon which he spoke for over two hours was "The American Navy." He first paid a tribute to the boys of Company I some of whom were present as members of the naval reserve. He was full of his subject and gave it great breadth as well as length.

We will quote some of his remarks, which were interrupted by frequent applause: All the navies of the world have at some time hauled down their colors, but "tis our navy alone that has never tasted defeat.' "While the army boasts of the past, the future belongs to the navy. After a residence of several years in Europe he is certain that "we are the only completely liberal people on earth." There are no American peasants. "Every American boy has a chance to attain to any condition or | Fit station." He defended the Monroe doctrine vigorously and said "we should extend it till it covers the empire of China. "We should open it up as we did Japan and not as Europe did Africa and India, by the subjugation of the people." It would be selfish and cowardly for America to stand aside and see the destiny and happiness of the helpless natives settled by the harsh methods of European nations. "Those two great victories ot Manila Bay and Santiago will never be duplicated in the world's history." In closing he apologized for the length of the address and said it was the audiences' fault. Their evident appreciation kept him talking longer than he intended. They then joined in singing America after which most of those present pressed to the front to shake hands with their hero, who looked as if he did not altogether enjoy it. While in the city he expressed himself as liking Benton Harbor and feeling "mightily at home here."

In the evening Frank T. Bullin the orator from Europe gave an illustrated lecture on "whales and whalefishing" which though not a popular subject was made very interesting as he spoke from his actual experiences and with the greatest command and choice of language.

The great attraction Friday was Reno B. Welbourn will lecture on night. Wireless Telegraphy. Saturday afternoon and evening the famous McGibney family will appear in sembly. musical numbers.

American Warships.

There seems to be no good reason why every one should not know something about the ships that are used by our government to carry on war or protect our shores. War vessels are of various kinds, each built for a specific purpose. We have monitors, which are heavy boats that set low in the water. They are heavily armored, and are provided with powerful guns. They are very speedy, are of light draught, and their primary purpose is to protect the coast.

Then there are our swift-flying cruisers, whose business is to keep us posted as to the doings of the rest of the world and to come to the rescue of the battleships when needed. American Hustle.

The dictionary defines the word "hustle" as colloquial United States for "to hurry," "to make great haste;" and some ancient wiseacre. who lived near the beginning of things, observed that "haste makes waste." Does it follow, then, that hustling is wasteful? Wa teful of what? Not money, surely, but perhaps of something else that may be even better than money.

THE BABY AND THE BRIGADE

for August.

Two or three hours later the chief himself appeared. He was tall, heavily built and dark. His eyes were fierce at other times, but now they were downcast. He said nothing: he stood in front of the fire and seemed deep in thought. Every time the baby cried or grunted he was startled; he was not used to that sort of thing. Everybody in the room was silent except the baby. To break the oppressive silence, Miss Stone picked up the infant and handed it to the chief. At first he appeared confused and embarrassed, but as he watched the helpless little morsel in his strong arms a smile passed over his face. was anxious; I watched his expression, I read his thoughts, I waited for results. And, sure enough, his smiles lasted longer; he bent his head closer to the baby's face. He was no more a brigand to me, but a brother, a father, a protector to my baby. He give you the RECORD office. Paris Green—How to Test its Purity

Two methods are within easy reach -1. e. the ammonia test and the glass test. With the former, a small amount of the powder is placed in a glass, into which is poured a quantity of ammonia. Since paris green is soluble in this substance, and its impurities, save white arsenic, are not, a valuable test can be made. Where no adulteration has been used, the liquid will present a clear blue color.

The glass test is even more simple and accurate. The course pursued is to place a small quantity of the substance to be examined on a piece of glass; hold in a slanting position and jar the lower side, causing the powdery mass to gently move down the incline. If the sample be pure, a bright green track will be left behind, but if impure, a pale green streak will be seen. This method will require a little practice before skill can be attained, but it furnishes a useful means of determining the purity of a substance that is so much used as paris green.-American Gardening.
