FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Ball Game Last Friday Great Event From Monetary Point of View.

FAILURE AS A BALL GAME

Poor Playing and Score a Tie at End of 8th Inning

The band boys showed their wisdom in planning for the ball game, by selling tickets in advance for the event, and thus assuring themselves of a crowd. The business houses closed from 3 o'clock to 5 on that day, which was another stroke of finesse. The band gathered at 3 o'clock on Front St. and with thrilling music, escorted the throng to the school grounds where the great battle was fought.

The contest opened with the Niles men at the bat, and Buchanan in the field. As the players became enthusiastic and some good plays were made, the applause from the crowd was deafening, voices, hand clapping and horns rent the air, and the hero of the moment was covered with glory. There was much excitement as first one side and then another forged ahead. At the end of the 2nd inning Buchanan had 13 runs and Niles but 3, and our boys thought they were to have an easy victory, and did not make as much effort as at first; they did not score a run the 3rd inning, and but one the 4th inning. Niles was steadily gaining so that at the end of the 5th inning Niles had 14 and Buchanan 16.

Darkness settled down at the close of the 8th inning. The score stood 28 to 28, and the game was closed.

Following is the score:
Buchanan 4 9 0 1 2 2 4 6-28.
Niles 2 1 1 5 5 5 0 9-28.

The crowd composed of all classes of society from the elite of the two towns to the barefoot boy, dispersed well satisfied and the Buchanan boys well pleased with their opponents' fair and courteous treatment.

The band boys have $62.00 to their credit as proceeds from the game. The following clippings show our big sister city's opinion.

All of Buchanan (nearly) and a large share of the population of Niles witnessed a highly amusing but a poorly played base ball game at the former place yesterday between the business men's base ball teams. The game lasted eight innings and then was called at 8:30 on account of darkness, so it is said, but presumably because everyone had enough of it and wanted to go home and get supper. The game resulted in a tie, the score being 28 to 28 at the end of the eighth inning.

The game much resembled the two old-cat affairs of our boyhood days. It was hit and run and wild throws and muffs. The ball acted as if it was greased and the way it slipped out of the players' hands was a caution. Niles used up four pitchers in the contest and Buchanan failed to report her list of casualties. The one bright particular feature of the game was the umpiring of attorney Chas. E. Sweet who would brook no kicking and on more than one occasion pulled his watch on the kickers.

In spite of the ragged playing the immense crowd was kept in an uproar, for it was a nip and tuck game, first Niles ahead and then Buchanan, and the rooters for the respective towns made plenty of noise.

The game was played on the high school grounds and we are informed that it was about as poor ball grounds as could be imagined. The outfield was on a down grade and a ball once past the infield hardly ever stopped until it reached the bottom of the hill.

On account of the game every business house in Buchanan was closed yesterday afternoon. The proceeds of the game were donated to the Buchanan band which realized quite a handsome sum. The people of our neighboring village treated the Niles visitors in a royal manner and all returned home loud in their praise of the cordial treatment they received. A return game will probably be played next Friday afternoon at Chapin Park.—Niles Sun.

The game of baseball which was played yesterday between the Niles and Buchanan professional and business men, resulted in a tie, the score being 28 to 28. Both sides were anxious to continue the game, but darkness prevented them from so doing. The Niles men were well pleased with the courteous treatment accorded them, and speak highly of the Buchanans. The game was largely attended by an enthusiastic audience. It is not unlikely that another game will be played in the near future as each side is confident they can defeat the other.—Niles Sun.

Reception to S. S. Worker.

On Tuesday evening, the 20th, a reception was given to Mrs. May Bisbee Tompkins of Benton Harbor, at the Congregational church, by the Sunday school workers of that city.

For a number of years Mrs. Tompkins has been the primary superintendent of the Berrien County Sunday School Association, and for the past two years she has been the primary superintendent of the State Association. She has been faithful, and her work has been very helpful. A letter of appreciation from Mr. Alfred Day of Detroit, general secretary, on behalf of the State Association, was read. Remarks were made by Dr. J. D. Greenamyer of Niles, representing the County executive committee, and D. W. Kean of Buchanan as County secretary. Mr. E. K. Warren, on behalf of the Berrien County Sunday School Association, presented Mrs. Tompkins with a Bible, upon the fly leaf of which was inscribed: "A parting gift to Mrs. May Bisbee Tompkins, presented by the Berrien County Sunday School Association as a token of their gratitude for faithful services as a primary superintendent, Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 26, 1902."

The Origin of the Stomach.

The primordial organisms from which all higher animals, including man, developed, consisted only of a tube made up of a layer of cells. This tube was the stomach and the stomach was the organism. Food entered at one end of this tiny canal and after its nutriment had been absorbed, the refuse was forced out of the other end, precisely the same as food material is passed through the alimentary canal of the highest organisms today.

It will be interesting to learn, in this connection, how the manifold parts and organs of the higher animals were developed from the simple structure of these tiny protean organisms. Outside of the single layer of cells that formed the "tube" or "stomach" mentioned above, was another layer of cells, forming an outer tube, attached to the inner one only at the ends where the tubes were continuous with each other. The inner tube-like structure was, as has been said, the digestive sac, and out of it has been developed all the complicated organs that now form the alimentary system—the throat, oesophagus, stomach, liver, digestive glands and intestines—and the outer layer has given rise to the skeleton; muscles, blood-systems, epidermis, organs of sense, etc. The space between these two original layers is represented by the body-cavity that now exists between our own body-wall and the alimentary system.—Will Carleton's Magazine, Every Where, for September.

The two greatest powers on earth are electricity and printer's ink. Electricity, as harnessed and controlled by man, moves what it is qualified to propel, but printer's ink has no limitations. The one moves inanimate things; the other moves man, the most difficult of all things, animate or inanimate to be moved. And printer's ink goes wherever man is found.—Printer's Ink.

USEFUL LIFE ENDED

Sudden Death of Mrs. William Ingalls

This entire community mourns the sudden death of Mrs. Myra McCoy Ingalls, which occurred Saturday Aug. 30, at 5 p. m. Her cheerful, helpful, loving life was a benediction to all, and genuine grief, tempered however by happy memories make this community a family of mourners. Yet we friends of the outer circle who have been recipients of this good woman's kindness for many years, cannot measure the loss to husband, son, brother and sisters. One week ago she was as well as we are, today we leave our tears and flowers at her grave.

Wherever sorrow entered, wherever burdens oppressed wherever trouble discouraged, wherever the needy cried, irrespective of creed or character, Mrs Ingalls was ready to go. In the home life, in the social life, in the church relationship, memories of her are the same. "Faith, hope, and love, best boon to mortals given" were the stay of her life and its impelling force. There were no doubts in her faith, it rested upon the promises of God as a sure foundation. Her love did not spend itself in empty sentiment but was manifest in a ministry of helpfulness. From the memorable day of her baptism in company with her mother and four others of the family until the close, she was a loving student of the Word of God, and delighted to talk of the blessed hope revealed therein. Her religion was not a Sunday coat but for daily wear. It brought peace and joy to herself, sweetened her home and made itself felt to friend and neighbor;—it was a thing of deeds. She was no empty professor but a true possessor of the life of Christ. These are the memories that temper our grief.

Elmira V. McCoy was born August 29, 1846, and had just passed her 56th birthday when the sudden summons came, and with the name of her beloved husband on her lips, the silver cord was loosed and the golden bowl was broken. Deceased was one of 11 children of Russell and Esther McCoy who were among the earliest settlers in Buchanan. These parents, one brother and two sisters have preceded the subject of this sketch to the long home. The surviving members of this family are Mrs. W. H. Donley, Michigan City, Mrs. T. J. Corbin, Shelby Ind., Mrs. A. E. Ludwigson, Middletown, N. Y.; G. R. McCoy, Oswego, Neb.; Mrs. Henry Tioch Muncie, Ind.; Mrs. M. N. Nichols Scribner, Neb.; Mrs. W. E. Rolco, Fremont, Neb. The only son, William E resides in South Bend. The heaviest stroke of this affliction falls on the husband, with whom she had lived in loving companionship for nearly 22 years, having been married to him Nov. 11, 1880. We give the sympathy our bereaved hearts feel to the grief stricken ones but commend them to Him who knows their sorrow and loves them better than we can,—the God of all comfort the Prince of Peace in whom our lost friend trusted. "Thou canst not tell how rich a dowry sorrow gives the soul, how firm a faith, and eagle sight of God."

The funeral occurred Tuesday afternoon at the late home of the deceased, Elder Black officiating the service at the grave was conducted by the ladies of the G. A. R. The pall bearers were Messrs John Graham, Ed French, J. K. Woods, John Rouch, Roy Bronson, and J. C. Dick,

G. A. R. Hall.

The veterans and the Ladies of the G. A. R. are to be congratulated on the beautiful hall they have for a meeting place. It is over the Brodrick store and runs the same length as the store. The front room will be used for a meeting room, it is probably 30 ft. long. The ceiling and sidewalls are beautifully decorated with new paper, making the room cheerful and attractive. Through the center of the room is a long bright rug and around the sides are comfortable chairs and settees. The walls are adorned with tasty pictures and emblems pertaining to the order.

In the rear of the main room is an ante room which also has large windows and good ventilation which will be used for doing the cooking, etc., when banquets are on hand. We are glad to see them so comfortable situated, as we think nothing is too good for our veterans for it will not be many years when the last enemy will be met and the war fare of life will cease for them.

Wide Streets.

A narrow residential street may be a very attractive one if the houses stand well back from the street-line with pleasant grounds about them. In a growing town however, the danger from such conditions comes with the liability to touse the street for bus iness purposes, or to erect more compactly disposed dwellings. If bus iness comes in, the transition is commonly marked by jagged lines. Commercial structures, often of a cheap and undesirable aspect, are built out to the street, while the dwellings stand recessed back at irregular intervals. And when at last the street is fully occupied for business purposes, it is altogether too narrow; the roadway and the sidewalks are cramped and often a widening has to take place at public expense. If built out closely to the line with dwellings, the street is likely to lack air and sunshine, and the tendency is toward squalid condition.

An excellent remedy for these evils is offered in the Massachusetts law that empowers municipalities to establish building-lines at any desired distance back from the street-line. When such a line is established no buildings can be erected on the intervening space. The municipality acquires an easement in this strip of land, which can still be used by the owner for anything but building purposes, and, on the establishment of such a line, owners may claim damages, as in case of taking for a street widening. It is, however, commonly more of a benefit than a damage to have property thus restricted, for it assures a more permanently desirable character to the street; and in case a street-widening should ever be called for, no obstacles will stand in the way; by taking the restricted strips, there will be ample room for the wider roadway and sidewalks.

Ideals for attractive street-planing are to be found in many parts of the United States. There is nothing more charming as a rural street than that of a New England village at its best—lofty aisles of leafage, the trees with feet in a carpet of turf at the sidewalk border; the houses, quiet and unobtrusive, standing well back, and marked with the true home character, whether they are humble cottages or abodes of the rich. The noblest development of such rural streets is to be found in the old towns of the Connecticut valley and in western Massachusetts. There the main highways have an extraordinary generous width, often giving room for quadruple rows of old elms and broad spaces of turf, the roadway requiring only a narrow space in the total width of the thoroughfare.—(Sylvester Baxter in the September Century.)

Wheat Worms.

The wheat worm, so called, that has done much damage in many parts of the wheat region this summer, seems to be a mystery to many. The worms appeared about the time the wheat began to head, and have apparently remained until the wheat has gone to stack. The damage by these worms is done by their crawling up the stalks and eating out the kernels. As the ripens and the grain hardens, the worms may only eat off the chaff, thus allowing the grain to drop out.

These worms, or caterpillars, are not anything new; they have appeared before, and will doubtless be seen again. Entomologically classed, they are of the order Lepidoptera, of which there are over 6,000 species in America, north of Mexico. The caterpillars belong to the family Noctuidae, so called because the adults, commonly called "millers," are usually seen flying about in the evening. There are over 1,800 species of this family in our country. It includes a great many of our most troublesome caterpillars, such as the army worm, cut worm, cabbage worm, cotton worm, apple worm, etc.

There have been several species observed to attack the wheat, but the ones in question closely resemble the army worm. However, they all have the same habits. These worms have been bothering the wheat, when they have become full grown, burrow into the ground an inch or so, and prepare winter quarters. They excavate a small cell, excrete a cement and then make a cocoon, or papery sack in which they encase themselves. During the time they spend in this cocoon they change from the caterpillar to a "miller," which emerges in the spring to lay a fresh supply of eggs in the wheat, from which a new lot of worms or caterpillars is hatched. Some of these species do not get their full growth the first summer, so the worm lives over and begins work early the following spring. The cut worm is an example of one of these.

The life history and the observation of the work of these pests will doubtless suggest means of combating them. The wheat that was drilled in stubble was attacked much more than that planted on plow land. Plowing the ground throws the pupae out and breaks them up so that they are destroyed. Fall plowing of all the land infected is the most successful method of combating the pest. The adults usually deposit their eggs near where they have passed the winter, but some of them may be blown to other fields at some distance. Another means of lessening the damage done by them is to rotate the crops. It is very seldom that the same species of worms will do damage to two different crops. A prominent writer says that these pests of bugs, worms, and weeds are nature's warning that we must not deplete the soil by growing continually, year after year, the same crops on the same land. Rotate the crops, or we will be rotated off the land.—J. G. HENRY in The Michigan Farmer.

Lord Salisbury's Poor Memory.

Whatever may be the cause, there is no mistaking the fact that Mr. Balfour's succession to the premiership has occasioned less stir than many political incidents of much less importance. Mr. Glodstone lived ever in the public eye. Week days and Sundays he was always doing or saying something which afforded material for newspaper comment. The public took the keenest interest in his books, in his porcelain, in his cutting down trees at Hawarden, in his reading the services at the parish church. He was a performer always in the glare of the footlights, whether in office or out of it. Lord Salisbury lived in comparative seclusion. If he did not direct the affairs of a world-wide empire from a heritage, he governed it from Hatfield, and often for weeks together he would never leave his retreat, even for the purpose of meeting the diplomatic representatives of other powers at the Foreign Office. The Cecils are a world unto themselves, and if Lord Salisbury may not be exactly said to be one of those world-forgetting morals by the world forgot, he lived and lives apart. Of late years his memory failed him, not for facts so much as for faces, and all manner of odd stories are current as to the mistakes which he made owing to his inability to distinguish between individuals. On one occasion a worthy wine merchant, who was invited to spend a week-end in a family party at Hatfield, is said to have been mistaken by the late prime minister for Lord Roberts. The delusion was so complete that, after opening the conversation at the dinner table, he carried his astonished guest off into the library, and insisted upon learning from his uninstructed lips exactly what he thought of the campaign in Africa. "Tell me," so the story goes,—"tell me," he said to the flattered but bewildered wine merchant, "what you really think of the war in South Africa. Will Lord Kitchener make as great a mess of it as all our other generals?"

The good man rose to the situation, and was rewarded by being anxiously asked by the prime minister what he would do if he were in South Africa at that moment. It was not until the following day that the guest was aware of the reason for the strange solitude which the prime minister had shown for his opinion upon military tactics.

On another occasion he is said to have asked who that remarkably intelligent young man was with whom he had just been transacting business. "It is one of your private secretaries," was the reply. When a man forgets the face of a private secretary, and confounds wine merchants with commanders in chief, it is not surprising that he should find the time had come for his departure.—From "The Political Situation in England after Salisbury," by W. T. Stead, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for September.

FIRST SHOWING Dress Fabrics FOR FALL WEAR

No truer index to a store's worth than its dress goods; no better evidence of our leadership is necessary than our present marvelous growth—it's the keen study of your needs—the vast purchases for two thriving stores and the consequent price concessions therefrom, these two elements make "Economy" dress goods important. This showing excels any previous season's—embraces all the novelties in weaves and designs; particular folks will find much to admire, nothing to disappoint. That's our warrant—for asking you here. WHAT THIS MAN SAYS

Only Re echoes the Sentiments of Thousands in Our Republic.

The Buchanan reader is asked to thoroughly investigate the following: This can readily be done as the gentleman whose statement is published below will only be pleased to give minutest particulars to anyone enquiring, not out of idle curiosity, but if the enquirer really suffers from any of the consequences which always attend weakened or inactive kidneys. Read carefully what Mr. W. F. Summerrill, proprietor of one of the largest Butcher shops in Benton Harbor, residence 112 Clay St., has to say: "I am very glad Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I will always do all I can for them because I know their value from personal experience. I was annoyed with a dull pain in the small of my back at times quite severe and it had bothered me for several months. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended for such troubles and procured a box at once from Harry L. Bird's drug store. They relieved me right away and I soon felt as well as ever. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others troubled as I was."

Just such emphatic endorsement is plentiful in Buchanan. Call at W. N. Brodick's drug store and ask him what his customers report. For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

Marie Sutherland of Bainbridge has started suit for divorce from her husband John S. Sutherland, charging many things.

The divorce is more interesting than many from the fact that Sutherland is the owner of a large amount of property and his wife has secured an injunction forbidding him from disposing of any of it until after the divorce case has been settled.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Monday evening, at the high school building, occurred the annual school meeting.

There were present about 75 people, men and women. The most important business of the hour was the election of two trustees, to fill the places of J. C. Wenger who had been treasurer of the board, and whose term expired, and D. L. Boardman who had been put in the place of D. H. Bower resigned.

The balloting proceeded and Messrs Herbert Roe and A. A. Worthington were elected to fill the vacancies.

Three important matters were discussed and with a favorable issue in each case. First the moving of the furnace in the Dewey Ave. school, to the room below the one in which it is now so as to equalize the heat; second, the raising of the wage scale of the teachers so that the minimum salary for grades from 3rd to 8th inclusive should be $40 per month in stead of $30; and the third, the appropriation of $700 for much needed repairs on the school buildings. Dr. Henderson was moderator of the meeting, and W. H. Keller director.

The board now consists of Messrs Henderson, Keller, Treat, Roe and Worthington.
