From the Confessions of a Book Agent

in Leslie's Monthly for October.

At the fourth house I was met by a bristling cur that seemed to know me, not as master, but as foe. He reached earnestly for my trousers a crack in the fence. I fancied I saw rags in his teeth when he first snarled at me. He stubbornly disputed my entrance, and yielded only when the harsh voice of his mistress called him off.

At the door I was met by the mistress of the house, a brawny, doublefisted dame with a face like a pot of kraut, who, planting herself squarely in the doorway, sternly demanded my errand. This tactic was a stunner. My instructions had been to enter the parlor and gallantly take my seat beside the lady and show up my book with grace and dignity.

I did nothing. I stood there in confusion, like a scared lunatic, until the woman herself recalled me to my senses by demanding:

> * * * The Origin of Child-Study.

By Ossean H. Lang in the October December Forum.

A phenomenon which in spite of it constant recurrence never ceases to carry amazement is the transmutation which originally sound educational ideas or plans undergo when introduced in ordinary school practice Unless thoroughly familiar with the idosyncrasies of the scholastic mind one is forever confronted unforeseer results. Nowhere is the reign of rou tine more obstinate than in schooldom Nor is this altogether evil It insures at least, a training in order, preciseness, punctually and systemvirtues that most of us cannot have too much pressed upon us. The exasperating features of it are that reforms are slow in winning an entrance; and when they are finally accepted they are so thoroughly meta- cob $1.25 per 100 lbs. ተውተተራተው ተተሞተ practical application that often their very parents have difficulty in recognizing them. And, strangely enough, the more reasonable a proposition appears to the laic mind, the less likely it is to retain its essentials when put through the school mill. In fact, nothing seems more difficult to keep alive in school than common sense.

> This is not at all due to pedagogy; for sound pedagogy is nothing more or less than systematized common sense as applied to educational prob lems. Logic is the real power behind the cast-iron routine. Diagramming and schematization of every form have a strange fascination for people who have been in the scholastic harness for a number of years. Far-seeing reformers have sought to establish newer pedagogical ideal which would annihilate this tendency. Thus it was hoped that psychology would place teaching upon a rational basis. The logic of the new science found almost immediate support, but the psychical part of it failed to receive the practical recognition. The in adequacy of the looked-for results gave birth to child-study. The plan of campaign became to make teachers realize that their business was to teach children, and not the mere logic of the school curriculum. Child-study even became the fashion; but in its transmutation it lest much of its original purpose and began to occupy itself chiefly with diagramming and Nevertheless, the progress from psychology to child-study has been productive of much good. As a result, the living child is receiving increased attention. Gradually the children will be individually benefited by the developing new attitude of teachers. But at best child-study can establish only humane and effective ways of teaching the young Meanwhile, the problem of what to teach is of no less importance. ENTERTAINMENT COURSE.

Plans Being Made for First-Class Series of Lectures and Concerts.

On Friday evening next at eight o'clock a public meeting will be held in the council rooms in the interest of a course of high class entertainments during the coming season. The members of the council, school board, teachers, pastors and all citizens interested in such an effort are urged to attend. It is proposed to establish a citizens' Bureau for providing a first-class course of entertainments for our community. This is a most praise-worthy enterprise and should have the encouragement of every citizen. Come out Friday night and help set the ball rolling.

* * * Berrien County's Share Estimated at $54,000.

The apportionment of the State Tax for this year has just been made at Lansing. The total amount to be raised is $2,867,206, and Berrien county's share is $54,506. This is considerably less than the tax of last year, when the expense of a sessson of the legislature was paid, and is lower than that of 1900 by about $42,000. Berrien county must pay $7,000 more than she did in 1898, while the total amount of state tax is less.—St. Joseph Herald.

Ladies' very fine cashmere hose, imported to sell for 75c and $1 per pair, at this sale only 39c.

The New Corsets

The absolute correctness of corsets is of vital importance. We have added three new lines to our corset stock. A fitter, who has made a close and careful study of the figure, is in charge. The large variety of different styles enables her to fit any figure perfectly.

To have a ready made corset fit you perfectly is, as a rule, far more satisfactory and much less expensive than to have a corset made to order.

We sell you the following high grade corsets from $1.25 to $3.00 less than the same numbers are sold for in the city stores. For instance, you will find our $3.50 number selling for $5.00 in the Chicago stores.

"C B Alta Sprite" is a new corset patterned after the latest French models. It rounds out slender figures. The C B is made of coutille and is attractively trimmed with lace. Prices are $1, $1.50, $2,50 and $3.50.

"La Vida" corsets are of fancy batiste or fine coutille, whale bone filled, lace or ribbon trimmed, are charming models for medium and slight figures, prices from $3.50 to $10 each.

"La Fleur" is the latest corset for full figures; it fits closely under the arms, brings the bust well forward and by reducing hips gives to the waist the much sought after perpendicular lines, prices are $5, $7 and $8 50.

Little Dogs in the Same Room Live Through the Ordeal.

The servants of the Zola household; not hearing any movement in their master's apartment yesterday morning, entered the bedroom at 9:30 o'clock and found M. Zola lying with his head and shoulders on the floor and his legs on the bed. Doctors were summoned, but they failed to resuscitate him.

MADAME ZOLA.

Mme. Zola was unconscious, but after prolonged efforts on the part of the physicians she showed signs of life, but it was some time before she became conscious. A slight odor of carbonic gas was noticed when the servants broke into the bedroom. From the position of Mr. Zola's body it was evident that he had tried to rise, but had been overcome by the fumes from the defective stove.

It was reported here during the day that there were evidence of suicide in the death of M. Zola. Nothing has so far developed to substantiate this theory, and the statement made by Mme. Zola to the magistrate seems to disprove it. M. Zola dined with a good appetite Sunday evening, and the servants of the household ate of the same dishes. No unusual sound was heard from the bedroom during the night. Two little dogs belonging to the Zolas passed the night in their master's bedroom. They were alive yesterday morning, but it is believed that they owe their lives to the fact that one slept on the bed and the other on a chair, thus escaping the heavy carbonic gas which settled near the al and due to asphyxiation.

Zola was born in Paris within a stone's throw of the Halles, at 10 Rue St. Joseph, April 2, 1840. His father was an Italian, a member of a Venecian family. His mother was a native of Dourdan in Scine-et-Oise, France. Zola's parents lived at Aix and the novelist was born one year after their in the construction of a canal near Aix, it still being known as the Zola canal. It was business connected with the channel which took the novelist's parents to Paris just prior to his birth.

The elder Zola died when his son was 6 years old and the family was left destitute. Had it not been for the fact that the boy's maternal grandparents went to Aix to live with their widowed daughter and to contribute to her support, the chances are that Emile Zola never would have been given the education which enabled himafterward to write "realistic" stories which raised a furore in Paris and set the members of the French Academy by the ears. Zola had been resting from literary work since he finished his book called "The Truth," whilch is being published in serial form in The Aurore. The obituary notices pay tribute to M. RATHER PRETTY STATE OF THINGS

Anyhow, Before the Murder-Wine Press To Be Started in Michigan-State News Items.

East Tawas, Mich., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Ernest Scholtz' throat was cut some time Sunday morning, and her husband is in jail on suspicion. Mrs. Scholtz was at one time confined in the Traverse City insane asylum. Her name at that time was Allard. When she was released from the asylum she obtained a divorce from Allard and later married Scholtz. Allard and his son appeared at the Scholtz home Friday, and the woman's former husband, it is alleged, drove Scholtz from the house. Allard and his son, returning from church Sunday, found the woman lying on the floor very badly wounded. The arrest of Scholtz followed.

Dying Wife Accused Him. Scholtz has lived here thirty years, always borne an excellent reputation, and is temperate. Sheriff Johnson took Scholtz before his wife and she indicated that he was the one who committed the act. Scholtz denied this before her, and has maintained his innocence. He says he can show that at the time the act was supposed to have been committed he was at East Tawas consulting as to steps he could take to compel Allard to keep away from his wife.

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 30.—Joseph Mason, aged 13, and Mary, his sister. aged 10, children of Joseph Mason, a farmer, came to town Sunday to meet their parents, who had been to Toledo. While they were waiting for the car, it is alleged, Frank Labene, aged 55, a farm hand, made their acquaintance. Labene, it is further alleged, led the girl away while the boy was seeking out his parents, conducted her up the railroad track, and attempted an assault. The girl says she raised an outcry and the man desisted. In the jail Labene declared he had put his arm around the girl, but that there had been no attempt at assault and

MICHIGAN TO MAKE WINE

Great Crops of Grapes Lead the State to a New Industry-Wine Presses Starting.

Lake Cora, Mich., Sept. 30. - Six hundred tons of Concord grapes will be converted into grape juice at one mill that has just been started at Lawton, Van Buren county. The product will be 90,000 gallons, from grapes now being picked. The new concern at Lawton has a capital of $400,000, and another press will be established there. The plant is being managed by Frank E. Morrill, one of the practical grape growers of this section.

Another press, with a capital of $50, 000, on the association plan, will be established this year at Lake Cora, which has become the center of some of the finest grape country in Michigan. Identified with this enterprise will be John Ihling, one of the pioneer grape growers of the fruit belt. These new ventures have become necessary because of the increase in grape acreage and the enormity of the crop.

Girl Is Very Unfortunate.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 30. — Fr. Kozlowski, of Stanislaus church, proposes to take a hand in the case of Josephine Nowak, the unfortunate deat and dumb whose destiny now rests with the probate court. The girl is the mother of two children, and the object of the priest's efforts is to find the man who is responsible and prosecute him.
