Thos. B. Reed.

It seems only a very short time as we look back over the years, that a host of great men in all the walks of life were living and influencing the affairs of the world, and among them none greater than Thos. B. Reed exspeaker of the house of representatives.

Almost forty years he was a prominent factor in state and national affairs. On Dec. 1st he was in the National Capitol in apparently good health but the same day appeared a trouble that developed into an acute attack of Bright's desease which caused his death Saturday Dec. 6th. Thus another of earth's great men is gone.

Perhaps ninety men out of every hundred would admit their fear of wounds and death in battle if they Pearl Shetterly of the 7th grade told the truth, but they boast to the contrary and seek a reputation for bravery. In Humpy's case he was virtually outlawed for his candor and could find nobody who would make a comrade of him. The only thing to his credit was the fact that he wouldn't

By and by our corps received orders to march away to outflank Jackson, as he had outflanked Pope at Manassas. It was sharp fighting along the front from the start, and after a hard march of two days our corps went into battle line one morning, and we knew that there was a host of the enemy in our front. Then Humpy was discovered We trust that our friends will not to be missing. He had taken French leave for the rear, and when it came to be known throughout the company, men jeered and catcalled, and the captain sternly said: "If I live through this, he shall be shot or drummed out of the service!" A brigade was detached to reconnoi-Mr. Clevenger has just completed ter the woods to our left, and later on as skirmishers and draw out the concealed strength of the enemy. Away we went, with a yell, glad to be in it at ready to play basket ball this winter, last, and it wasn't five minutes before men began to fall. We pushed up to the woods, drove the gray skirmishers back and then massed on the center to hold a gap between the hills. Troops were moving up to support us and hold the ground we had gained, when the enemy came swarming out. Then for ten minutes the old Seventeenth made its war record. We held a full brigade. Bernice Bird is not able to be in We did even better than that—we repulsed three determined assaults by four times our number, and we killed and wounded almost as many as we

But there was a blunder somewhere. Our supports fell back, the enemy was re-enforced, and we were left there to be sacrificed. There was no panic, no retreat. It was simply that the lone regiment, realizing that it had been abandoned, broke up into detachments and fought almost without leaders and each man for himself. Again a whole brigade moved up against us, and though we were only 700 now we poured in such a cool and deadly fire is truly a marvel in point of literary that the advance wavered, halted, broke back, and we might have retreated then, but no one gave the word. In five minutes it was too late. A regiment to an army is as a fly to a horse.

Our resistance simply annoyed. We saw a force gathering in the edge of the woods beyond, and every man felt that it was his end. Those battle lines would walk right over us next time. We looked back to the Federal lines, but no re-enforcements were on their way. If we rose up to retreat, we should be swept by the grape and canister of the guns in battery and

"It's our last fight," called man to man as he hugged closer to the earth and drew a long breath.

In front of us lay a regimental flag, with half a dozen men beside it, and colonel, major and half the company captains were down, dead or wounded. The gray lines had just begun to move when a shout of "Humpy, Humpy!" ran along our lines. It was the private soldier sure enough. Of all the thousands of Federal soldiers in our rear he alone had made his way across the field to die with us. He had lost his cap on the way, but men knew him by his eyeglasses and long hair and hatchet face. He came on the run, and without pause he sprang over the forms lying down, over the gun barrels pointed to the front, and, lifting up the flag, he waved it and shouted: "Men of the Seventeenth, follow me!"

I have seen a dozen generals leading brigades or divisions into action, but I never saw one who grew tall and heroic as Humpy. One minute he was a hatless, bow backed private soldier. The next he was a hero seeming to be six feet tall and as straight as an arrow. We just got one look at him, and then the 700 men sprang up with yells and cheers and followed his lead. He turned to the left, led us straight at three guns posted there, and in the dash of forty rods we were among them and had wiped out the artillerists. Then it was down the hill on the other side, the men dragging the captured guns along, through the skirmish lines creeping up, around the corner of a grove, and then the Federal ranks opened with cheers to let us through. There was Humpy still at the head, still acting as colonel, flagbearer and savior, and what do you think he did and said as General Devine rode up and took the flag from his grasp and called him the hero of the Army of the Potomac? He sat down for a minute to catch his breath and wipe his glasses and then rose up to reply:

"Why, general, I saw the boys needed some one, and so I went down!" They would have made Humpy raptain for what he did that day, but he would have none of it. He remained a private to the end of the war, but he was Humpy no more to the Seventeenth. His name was Drew, and we called him Colonel Drew after that day, and the man who didn't get a chance to shake hands with him at least once every twenty-four hours felt that things were somehow out of kilter. In that perflous moment in the gap there was a chance for every hero, but it was Humpy who rose up - Humpy, 3

How Can I Keep Up with the Times?

T is prefty hard to keep well informed on the political news, the scientific news, the literary news, the educational movements, the great business developments, the hundreds of interesting and valuable articles in the hundreds of excellent magazines. About the only way it can be done by the average busy man and woman is to read a magazine like "The Review of Reviews," and, as it is the only magazine of the sort, it is a good thing to send $2.50 for a year's subscription.

"I know that through its columns views have been presented to me that I could not otherwise have had access to; because all earnest and thoughtful men, no matter how widely their ideas diverge, are given free utterance in its columns."

A California Letter.

WESTMINISTER, CAL Dec. 1, 1902. MR. D. F. BOWER-DEAR FRIEND; While you are offering prizes for the largest pumpkins, I do not see that you offer any prize for the biggest pumpkin story. I send herewith a sample pumpkin story the truth of Which I can youch for. "The peatlands" referred to are only two miles from where I am now staying. Probably they are the richest lands in the world You might set your readers to guessing how many pumpkin pies could be made from the yield of this one vine. Your paper is very welcome.

Respectfully,

W. W. WELLS. The following is the story: W. E. Gearhart of the peatlands has sent a resample pumpkin, weighing 175 Ibs from his ranch to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce for exhibit. The same vine produced, besides the monster sent to Los Angeles, three pumpkins weighing a trifle more than 100 pounds apiece, and a smaller one of seventy-five pounds' weight, making the total production of a single vine more than a quarter of a ton.

POLES BEING SET FOR TRANSMIS-SION OF POWER/

Original Agreement of Holmes & English Does Not Hold.

Niles, Mich Dec. 1 -Agent of Charles A. Chapin are buying private right of way between here and Bu chanan for the poles which will support the wire over which power will be transmitted from Mr. Chapin's dam in the St. Joseph river at Buchanan. Mr. Chapin is also buying right of way for his poles between here and South Bend, it being his intention to unload the 12,000 horse power, which his dam furnishes, at the Indiana city.

When Mr. Chapin commenced work on his big electrical power house at Buchanan a year age, the villagers began to apprehend that the power from the dam was to be transmited beyond the corapte limits of the vilage, notwithstanding the fact that with Holmes & English, the original the power to be derived from the dam was ever to be transmited beyond the corporate limits of the village. Holmes & English sold the dam to the Beckwith estate of Dowagiac, and they in turn sold out to Mr. Chapin Mr. Chapin has offered to furnish the village with electrical power cheaper time. In about two weeks' time a than it can be obtained any where along the St. Joseph river, and inasmuchas the village has no use for it the argument is set forth that the law will not compel the owner of the a single tank. Two ounces of germ dam to allow the immense power to go to waste. In any event preparations are going steadly on to transmit the power to South Bend.

It is claimed that the power will be for sale all along the line, in which event much of it will, -doubtless, be used here, there being no day current here at the present time.

That the village will put up a fight seems certain inasmuch as the town put $50,000 into the dam when Come early and get a good it was built, and has been paying interested on the bonds ever since However, the power was never utilized at Buchanan.-Benton Harbor Palladium.

Ann Arbor Professor Who Carries on an Extensive and Deadly Germ Farm.

ONE WHIFF OF THE GERMS IS FATAL

Wants to Find a Typhoid Fever Preventive-Sick and Moneyless at Chicago-News Notes.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 5.-A cure for typhoid fever, or a vaccine which will prevent the disease, is being sought for in a remarkable experiment at the university. The largest amount of typhoid germs ever collected, dead, dried, bottled up like salt, is being collected for the purpose. Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, who, with Professor Novy discovered Benzozone last winter, has been at work on the typhoid cure since last summer. Dr. Vaughan is dean of the village entered into a contract the medical department. He has invented and built six big metallic tanks ouilders of the dam, whereby none of in which 144 square feet of fever germs are being grown.

How He Runs His Germ Farm. The germ tanks are enclosed within outside tanks, and further guarded against communication with the outer world by inner tanks. In each one, on the surface of a gelatine made from a Japanese seaweed, twenty-four square feet of germs are grown at a square inch of the disease germs overspreads the entire surface in the tank. These living germs are scraped off, killed and bottled up. Two ounces is the very largest amount taken from bodies, would kill 70,000 guinea pigs. Wants What They Live For.

Dr. Vaughan's purpose is to extract the poison from these germ bodies, a thing which has never before been done. It is the poison which the bacteria carry that causes the fever. Without the poison they would be as harmless as snakes with their venom sacks removed. When the fever poisons are isolated their effect will be tried on the lower animals, by the regular method of discovering an antidote for poison. Whatever will cure this poison will cure typhoid fever.

Bad as Nitro-Glycerine to Handle. The dead germs look like a heap of flour. A teacup full of them is now in possession of Dr. Vaughan. One thousandth of a gram of this white looking stuff would kill a guinea pig. Handing these germs is exceedingly hazardous work, especially at one stage. When they have been scraped off the tank with platinum, washed with alcohol or ether, and dried in a vacuum, they are a dry dust which flies into the air at a touch. One breath of this dust would be fatal.

HER DAUGHTER IS MISSING

Woman Goes to Chicago to Hunt a Girl Who Is Said To Be Ill and Moneyless.

Ionia, Mich., Dec. 5. - Mrs. H. S. Welch, of this city, has gone to Chicago to search for her daughter Celia, who is missing under mysterious circumstances. Celia is 19 years old. She left several months ago for the Illinois city to learn bookkeeping. She wrote frequently of her work and that she had finally secured a situation. The last letter from the girl came three weeks ago.

Then came a letter signed "Rev. Dort Brown," saying that Celia was ill and needed money. "Rev. Brown" inclosed a deposit check for Mrs. Welch to sign. The letter declared that it wouldn't be necessary for Mrs. Welch to go to Chicago. Mrs. Welch worried, and after dreaming that her daughter was dead, started for Chicago. The Chicago police are trying to help her find Celia, but so far without success. Neither can they find "Rev. Dort Brown."

Babe and Its Sister Burn to Death. Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 5.-Two children of Mrs. Ainsley Bowers, 914 Starls street, were burned to death yesterday afternoon when their mother left them alone in the house for a few minutes. One child was a girl, 6 years old, and the other an infant of girl set fire to some papers with which she was playing. Wants to Wear the Ermine.

McAlvay, who has been frequently spoken of as a probable candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket given the bar of western Michigan permission to present his name. Members of the local bar held a meeting and then waited upon the judge to obtain his consent.

They Pray Before Engaging. Menominee, Mich., Dec. 5.—Rev. August F. Bruske, president of the Presbyterian college at Alma, Mich., declared in a lecture that the Alma foot ball team always offered up a prayer before entering a contest on the gridiron. Dr. Fruske characterized foot ball as one of the manliest of sports.

THEDFORD'S THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

> A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Thedford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys re-inforced by Thedford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Thedford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

THE BREED TO KEEP.

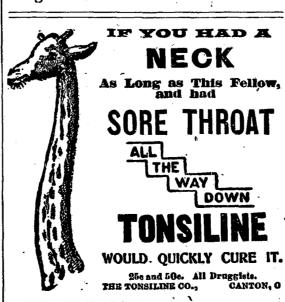

A Question That an Experienced Man Finds It Hard to Answer.

J. A. T. wants to start dairying on his farm and asks what breed of cows he had better adopt, what breed I have and if they are satisfactory. A dozen years ago I could have answered this question rather positively and definitely, as I could a good many other direct questions, but it is wonderful what an effect half a score of years of severe practical experience on the farm and careful observation have in making a man conservative, says L. W. Lighty in National Stockman and Farmer. He will not venture to tell a man just what he is to do and how he is to do it. Some of his finest (?) plans would not work out in his own hands. How could he expect them to do so secondhand?

In selecting a breed of cows for dairying a person should consider himself and his environments. The breed that a person admires most is likely to prove the best in his hands if carefully studied and properly handled. For dairy purposes it is of course advisable to select a typical dairy breed, though I have known men to make at least a partial success with a beef breed, though not typical beef cows. It might possibly be helpful to the questioner and others in selecting a breed of cattle to mention a few of the chief characteristics of a few of the commonest dairy breeds. The Channel island cattle (Jerseys and Guernseys) were originated and bred on the islands of this name, where the climate is not nearly as severe as in our northern states. If we turn the island cow with our native and then use our old methods of little or no shelter in winter and compel the cows to hustle over the hills for their feed in summer, the native is likely to come out ahead. The same is true of Holsteins. In their native home, the Netherlands, they often share part of the house with the family. Feed is abundant and of the right kind. Their bodies are very heavy, and their bones are not constructed to travel miles over hills and valleys to find a day's living. I know men who have lots of rough land that furnishes some pasture and who are opposed to "babying" cows, as they put it, who keep Ayrshires with very good results. Their native home is a cold and rough country and produces good, rugged stock. The Swiss are credited with the same qualities. But do not for a moment think that any breed can be had that will bear neglect, only that some are better hustlers than others.

The following report was submitted and on motion of Mr. Murphy was accepted and adopted and the recommendation of the Committee concurred in.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., OCT. 14th, 1902. To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Supervisors of Berrien County. GENTLEMEN:

Your Committee on County Poor would respectfully make their report: That we visited the County Farm on October 7th, 1902, and find that there is needed some additional store room for fodder and especially straw, as there is no shelter for that purpose, and dry straw is needed at all times of the year,

Your Committee would, therefore, recommend that a suitable building be built for that purpose, and as there is some material on the farm, would recommend that $500 00 be appropriated for that purpose. Your Committee conclude that a building 40x50 feet be built with concrete pillars of sufficient height to bring it on a level with the present barn floor.

Progressing Backward.

The October Bulletin of the State Dairy and Food Department—received Nov. 18-serves notice on manufacturers of extract of lemon that on and after January 1, 1963 all lemon extracts must contain 5 per cent of lemon oil to conform to the United States Pharmacopoeia. Whether this will be accepted by those manufacturers who have abandoned the antiquated methods of the past and are now making lemon extract on the more modern methods which have come into use during the past twenty years, remains to be seen. It is also a question whether a food product should be defined by the Pharmacopoeia, which is the standard authority for pharamacists, but is not intended to define the standard of goods produced by food manufacturers. the Dairy and Food Department succeeds in getting extract of lemon made in accordance with the Pharmacopoeia, it ought also to establish a similiar standard for mince meat and sauer kraut. It is a well-known fact that the standards of the Pharmacopoeia are charged frequently.

For instance, the Pharmacopoeia of 1880 held that the extract of lemon. should contain 6 per cent of oil. The Pharamacopoeia of 1890 reduced the standard to 5 per cent. The Pharamacopoeia of 1900, which is not yet issued-being about as far behind as the publication of the State Dairy and Food Departmentmay reduce the standard to 4 per cent. This variation shows how unstable such an authority is and how disadvantageous it would be to manufactrers to establish standards for their products which might conform to the Pharamacopoeia one year, but be at variance therewith a year or two afterward. Fortunately, the attitude of the Food Department on this question which appears to be about as rediculous as anything the Department has ever undertaken (and it has espouscd no end of fool ideal and met 1gnominious defeat a number of times in consequence thereof)—will shortly be judicially reviewed in the court proceedings instituted by the department against a manufacturer of lemon extract, so that the retail trade will soon know whether it is safe to handle goods which have been regarded as standard for the past dozen years or whether it must throw them out and put in goods which are so fully charged with oil that they will turn to turpentine after being exposed to the light for a week.

The effort of the Department to establish arbitrary standards of strength, in the absence of legislative action, is a usurpation of authority which ought not to be tolerated for a single moment, because, if the Food Department can establish and maintain standards of this character, it would amount to the abolition of the Legislature and the courts. It is commonly supposed that food laws should originate and receive the sanction of the Legislature, and this attempt on the part of the Food Department to arrogate to itself the duties of the Legislature ought to re ceive the severe condemnation of the people, and undoubtedly will result in either the abolition of all food laws now on the statute books or in taking the Commissioner and his deputies out of the mire of party politics, so that the enforcement of the laws may be placed in the hands of men of character, experience and year.

ability. instead of being delegated to political accidents who misuse thei positions to usurp the duties of courts and legislatures and heap unnecessary hardships on those who cater to the needs and necessities of the masses.

OBSEQUIES OF PASTOR

Remains of Rev. S. L. Hamilton Rest in Rosedale, Cal.

MINISTERIAL BRETHEN PRESENT

Life Largely Devoted to the Interest of the Aged and Infirm.

The funeral of Rev. Samuel Luman Hamilton, who died at his home in Los Angeles, was held at the Westlake Methodist Church.

An appropriate and delicate reference to a life well spent, was more than usually noticeable in the decora tion of the church for the mournful occasion. The choir loft, the front of the platform and the pulpit were beautifully twined with ivy, interwoven with autumn leaves from the sugar maple, only a few specimens of which grow about Los Angeles. About the casket were many beautiful floral pieces, the offerings of de voted friends of the deceased. There was a cross and anchor, wreaths, star a sheaf of ripened grain, and other filling designs. On the platform sat Rev. Dr. J. L Pitner, pastor of Westlake church; Presiding Elder Boyard Dr. Robert McIutyre, Dr. E. A. Healev. Rev. W. A. Knighten, Rev. B. S. Haywood of Riverside, Rev. A. Inwood, Rev. G. A. Hough, Rev. J. A. Wallace.

There was a large turn-out of ministers from all over the city, as the casket was carried from the church after the service, it was preceded by twentysix of his brethern of the cloth.

The opening invocation was made by Dr. Robert McIntyre of the first Methodist Church, in which he described the deceased as "a shuttle of benevolence, weaving the affairs of our conferences into a beautiful fabric in the interest of the aged and infirm."

A PASTOR'S TRIBUTE. Rev Dr John Pitner, pastor of the Westlake Church, of which the deceased was a member, spoke in part

"I am quite sure he was not surprised when death came. He was advised tp relax his efforts that his life might be prolonged, but he looked with dread upon a life of idleness; he was one of those whom duty drives onward through weary years, but his was a bright and happy spirit.

There are a few days on the calender when a Christian's death gains something from prevailing customs and joy provoking environment-Christmas, Easter and Thanksgiving Day. To die on Thanksgiving, when anthems of praise fill the world, when loyal hearts are lifted in gratitude, when families, are reunited, when memory is most active and displays her wealth of gifts, to die at such a time were blessed, to leave the feasting of earth for the heavenly banquet, is a joy that overwhelms with glory all the pains and ills of earthly life. It was then our brother died; just as the day was ending, he reached the headland, where heaven's earthward boundary touches the pilgrim's path, and his soul met and mingled the anthems of earth, and music of heaven."

Doctor Bovard spoke briefly of the spiritual side of the life of the deceased, Rev. B. S. Heywood spoke of him as a friend and guest in the pastor's household.

Interment was at Rosedale Cemetery, whither the body was followed by a long line of carriages. The widow survives him as do his children. Samuel Luman Hamilton was born on a farm near Homer, Mich. July 12, 1841 being the youngest of eight children. He was small and puny and had a hard struggle to survive. He never gained a strong constitution. Besides a common school education he had the advantage of Homor Academy and enjoyed a short attendance of Albion College. He then taught school in Illinois. He experienced religion at Homer in 1857. Hearing the call to preach he began preparation, receiving license to exhort while teaching in Illinois in 1890 and joined the Central Illinois conference in the fall of that year being 19 years old. He served Whitefield, Wyoming, Wethersfield, Chillicothe, Oneida and was transferred by Bishop Kingsley to Calihis first charge Cedar Springs, then Cheboygan, Union City, Concord, St. Louis and St. Johns, here again his health failed and he superannuated During this interval of retirement he

Grand Rapids, after some years he again became effective, serving as pastor at Buchanan, Dowagiac, Haven church Jackson, Ames church Grand Rapids, when failing health compelled him to cease the regular pastorate. He removed to Los Angeles, California Sept. 29, 1863. He was married to Miss Emma Breaky a niece of the late Rev. Thos. Lyon. His children are Edwin A and Pearl, who were in Los Angeles.

As Michigan Christian Advocate farther says, "Brother Hamilton was a warm-hearted, friendly man, glorying in companionship, active in serving his friends, at home in social services, free in conversation, a ready writer, interested in all church matters, efficient in conference ses sions and preachers meetings, and withal an attractive preacher. In California he closely endeared himself to many a visitor from Michigan and from the church at large. There was no service too arduous for him gladly to undertake to make others happy and prosperous. He will be sincerely mourned by many who in recent years received attention from him and by former parishioners and friends in Michigan.
