NAVIN ON THE BOARD

Will Have a Chance to Try New Ideas on the Jackson Penitentiary.

NO SOAROTTY OF LAW MATERIAL

Bills Are Thick in the Legislature—Decision in a Telephone Suit—Michigan State News.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19.—Thomas J. Navin, of Detroit, who served a term in the state prison at Jackson from March, 1885, to December, 1890, for forgery, was yesterday appointed by Governor Bliss a member of the Jackson prison board, and the appointment was confirmed in the state senate by a vote of 16 to 12. When he was pardoned by Governor Luce, at the expiration of the term of ten years for which he was sentenced, Navin came to Detroit and entered the practice of law.

Came Out with Some Ideas.

He was mayor of Adrian, Mich., when he got into trouble, and on coming to Detroit he again went into politics, serving recently for a time as chairman of the Republican city committee. The first suggestion of his appointment to the prison board aroused considerable opposition, in which the ministers of the state took an active part. Navin has stated that his life in prison has left him with ideas of reform which he is anxious to work out as a member of the board.

Solons Have Plenty of Bills.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19.—With eight more session days before the expiration of the fifty-day limit of time for the introduction of new bills in the legislature there is a total of 475 bills now before the house and senate. The grist of thirty bills introduced in the house in the short assembling session Monday night brought the house total to 325 and the fourteen introduced in the senate boosted the total in the upper house to 150.

Prospect of a Joint Debate.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19.—It only remains for Judge Q. A. Smith and Rollo K. Bryan, the well-known chalk-talkers, to arrange for the time and a place for a debate on the prohibition question, the issues having been drawn by the controversy over the refusal of the Church of Our Father to open its doors to a speaker of the Anti-Saloon League. The lawyer announces that he will take the affirmative of the proposition "that prohibitory laws have failed to effectually stop the sale of intoxicating liquors in states where they have been enacted."

TELEPHONE COMPANY THE LOSER

Must Supply Telephones to Customers at the Same Rates as Was Formerly Done.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 19.—The state supreme court has handed down a decision upholding Judge Brooke, of the Wayne circuit court, in granting a mandamus to compel the Michigan Bell Telephone company to give to John Mahan, a subscriber of the Detroit Telephone company, which the former company absorbed, telephone service at the old Detroit company's rate and connection with the Michigan switchboard. This, it is held by attorneys, in effect fixes telephone rates in Detroit at $40 per year for business telephones and $25 per year for residences, the old Detroit rate.

When the Detroit Telephone company was absorbed by the Michigan company the latter for some time maintained the Detroit switchboard and gave Detroit subscribers connection with the Michigan board. After all but a few of the Detroit subscribers had been induced to put in Michigan telephones instead of the Detroit telephones, this connection was cut off. The rate was then raised to $54 per year for business telephones and $36 for residence.

Wounded Fireman Is Dead.

Port Huron, Mich., Feb. 19.—Fireman Milton Campbell, who was crushed under a falling wall at the fire which early yesterday destroyed the St. Clair hotel and a number of business houses, is dead. Yardman Albert Worthing, of the hotel, has not yet been found and it is believed that he was burned to death in the hotel. The following business houses were destroyed: Mudford's Cigar manufactory, Economist Dry Goods store, McPhee's barber shop, Asman Floral company, C. Lamlein's bakery.

Monument to a Woman Nurse.

Owosso, Mich., Feb. 19.—The monument in Byron cemetery to Ellen May Towar, the army nurse who died in Porto Rico, will show a woman of life size, seated, bowed in grief, with head resting in the left hand, and hanging at her side a laurel wreath. The contract has been let for the stone.

MIKESELL'S DEFENSE

Dying Father Absolved his son From all Blame.

Next Monday morning the Mike-sell murder case will begin in the circuit court at St. Joseph. It will be one of the most interesting trials in the history of southwestern Michigan because of the mystery surrounding the killing. The details of the fatal row in Berrien Springs, which ended in the death of William Mike-sell at the hands of his son, will be well remembered.

The feature of the defense of Mike-sell will be a deathbed pardon given by the father in behalf of the son who slayed him. When William Mike-sell lay on the bed with blood flowing from four ugly bullet wounds, he was yet conscious and it was suggested to him that a minister be called to commune with him. Mike-sell had a bad reputation and was not a church going man. The fear of the hereafter was upon him however and he weakly consented, as others have done in hours when there seems to be nothing to lay hold of but the Christian religion. A minister was called and he talked earnestly with the dying man. As his life slowly ebbed away, aged William Mike-sell asked what he could do to atone for the sins of his life.

"Before you can be forgiven the sins you have committed," said the minister, "you must forgive all of those who have sinned against you. You must forgive the son who has killed you."

"I forgive him," said the old man in a weak voice. "I fully forgive him, John was not to blame. It was not his fault." With these words upon his lips, the old man passed away.—Evening News.

PROVE ALL THINGS

This Old, Old Command is Easy to Follow in Buchanan.

To win a wager, an English Marquis stood on London Bridge and offered for an hour British sovereigns (5) for five shillings ($1.25) he could not find a customer. There are several good reasons why the ordinary mortal could not be induced to buy, but no reason can be given why Buchanan people will not accept the following convincing proof about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this.

Mrs. C. J. Hempstead, wife of C. J. Hempstead, grocer, living at 215 Cortland street, Dowagiac says. "My back troubled me for a long time and the aching was so severe at times I could hardly attend to my household duties for the pain went clear up through my shoulders. I doctored and tried different remedies but none seemed to do me any good. This was my condition previous to going to Sherwood and Burlingame's drug store for Doan's Kidney Pills. I could notice the good effect of the treatment at once and it was only a short time till my back was as strong as it ever was and as free from pain. To say I endorse the preparation mildly expresses what I think of it."

Just such emphatic endorsement is plentiful in Buchanan. Call at W. N. Brodrick's drug store and ask him what his customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

There are many no doubt, who will remember Ella Teach as a school girl and then as a teacher in the village.

Miss Teach was a teacher in the school at Butte, Montana, at a salary of $100 per month. Her death seems to have been sudden, a telegram to her sister, Mrs. Louis Kelsey, north of Niles, announced the fact of her death and that her remains would be sent here. She died Friday of last week and was buried on Tuesday. She was a member of the Presbyterian church when living in Buchanan and owing to the absence of Rev. Marvin the funeral services were conducted, at Niles, by Rev. Lowrie.

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE!

W. W. Waterman and Family Burned out Wednesday Night.

BITTER COLD WEATHER.

Furniture Nearly all Consumed and House Badly Burned

What is a more ominous sound in the still of a zero night, than the shrill tones of the fire whistle? Wednesday night at about one o'clock the sleeping villagers were aroused by these shrill tones, and those in the vicinity saw the flames leaping from the roof of W. W. Waterman's house.

The fire started from a chimney and ignited the roof from which point it spread rapidly. Though the fire added, with their usual promptness, were soon on the scene; the fire burned fiercely for a time, most of the roof burning and falling in, as also the ceiling in the sitting room.

The furniture in many of the rooms was mostly destroyed and some clothing burned. The fire was quenched before long but much damage was necessarily done by the water, and a coating of ice now covers everything left.

The fire seems not to have been the result of anyone's carelessness; the fire in the stove was not burning very briskly when the family retired, as due caution was taken to prevent the over-heating of the chimney.

Kind neighbors extended a temporary home to the Waterman family who were thankful to avail themselves of shelter in that fearfully cold night. None of the family discovered the fire until it had made quite a headway and in their haste to escape most of them went in their night clothes, their bare feet on the snow causing anything but an agreeable sensation. Some of the clothing was rescued and taken to the homes of neighbors, where the family now are staying.

"One bottle of Cooney's Tonic Ext. of Sarsaparilla cured my daughter of a bad case of catarrh and eruption on her face, leaving her complexion smooth and fresh." Charles Bruce, contractor, South Bend. Large bottles 50c at Dr. E. S. Dodd & Son's.

MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Berrien County Doctors Reorganize.

The Berrien County Medical Society met in the parlors of Hotel Benton, of Benton Harbor, on Thursday the 12 inst. A large and enthusiastic meeting was held.

Dr. Witt, of St. Joseph, was elected president to succeed Dr. Henderson; Dr. Sowers vice president, succeeding Dr. Witt; Dr. Greenamyer, of Niles, was elected secretary in place of Dr. Sowers; Dr. Karey treasurer succeeding himself; Dr. Wilson was elected delegate to the state society which meets in Grand Rapids, in June; Dr. Fred Belknap, of Benton Harbor, was made alternate; Drs. Henderson, Hill and Walker were elected as a board of censors on admission, etc.

Many subjects were discussed and all who desire to act in accord with the American Medical Association, and the Michigan State Medical Society under their new constitution will be invited to join, if legal practitioners. The reorganization is for the purpose of creating more liberality in dealing with men who seek fellowship in the society. More than three-fourths of the old members signified their desire to join and some men before indifferent, now see the true aim of the society, viz.

- 1 To do more for humanity.
- 2 To do more for themselves.
- 3 To increase medical research.
- 4 To prevent disease rather than cure.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON VIII, FIRST QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, FEB. 22.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. xiii—Memory Verses, 1-3—Golden Text, I Cor. xiii, 13—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1922, by American Press Association.]
1-3. Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels and have not love I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal.

In the next two verses he says that no manner of testimony or service amounts to anything apart from love. As "love" and not "charity" is the proper word, and it is so translated in the R. V., we will use it through this lesson. These first three verses might be summarized as—Love versus prophecies, tongues, knowledge, faith, goods, etc., and the whole chapter might be called, Love contrasted, analyzed, defended. It is said to be the only chapter in all Paul's epistles that does not mention Jesus in one or other of His titles, but it is a portrait so wonderful that one cannot fail to recognize the likeness even without the name. The Lord Jesus combined all in Himself, the picture is His, and without Him we are nothing and can do nothing (Rom. vii, 18; John xv, 5). Until we are born again and thus become children of God nothing counts that we do, for "they that are in the flesh cannot please God" (Rom. viii, 8). Then after we are born again only that which God works in us will count, as we saw in last week's lesson, and "God is Love" (I John iv, 8, 16). Note the oft repeated I, I, I of these verses and contrast Gal. ii, 20; I Cor. xv, 10, "Not I, but Christ who liveth in me;" "Not I, but the grace of God which was with me."

4-7. Love suffereth long and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil.

What a perfectly beautiful section we have in these four verses, two of which we have quoted. Such love was never fully seen on earth except in Christ Jesus, and only as He fills and lives in us can it be reproduced. Try to imagine a person who is always patient, never in word or look or act unkind, never in any way jealous or self seeking, never under any circumstances provoked (R. V.), never thinking or saying evil of any one, rejoicing only in things true and lovely and always meekly bearing, patiently enduring and ever hoping for the best, with a firm faith in God. It is too altogether lovely to come from earth, and it is not of earth; it is wholly heavenly. It is a description of Him who came down from heaven, who while He lived on earth for over thirty years was at the same time in heaven (John iii, 13), of whom it is written, "Yea, He is altogether lovely" (S. of Sol. v, 16).

8. Love never faileth, but whether there be prophecies they shall fail; whether there be tongues they shall cease; whether there be knowledge it shall vanish away.

He says: "I am the Lord. I change not" (Mal. iii, 6). He who says "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee" is the One who said, "I have loved thee with an everlasting love." And He is the same yesterday, today and forever (Heb. xiii, 8; Jer. xxxi, 3). There will be no more need of prophecy, for every prophecy shall have been fulfilled. There shall be but one language, and all we now know by the word of God shall be actually realized in the kingdom.

9, 10. For we know in part and we prophesy in part, but when that which is perfect shall be come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

All that we know is found in the word of God, and there is to every statement and truth in such breadth and length and depth and height that we shall never while here grasp fully all that there is in any utterance of the Spirit. We may well say concerning all we have as yet learned, "Lo, these are but the outskirts of His ways, and how small a whisper do we hear of Him" (Job xxvi, 14, R. V.). "The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day" (Prov. iv, 18).

11, 12. For now we see through a glass darkly, but then face to face; now I know in part, but then shall I know even as also I am known.

When once the light and glory of heaven shine in our souls, the things which once occupied and interested us seem as the toys of childhood, and we wonder how we could ever have wasted our time on them. Yet all our knowledge is but partial. It doth not yet appear what we shall be, and not till He shall appear shall we be like Him (I John iii, 2). The question is often asked, Shall we know each other in heaven? Is not the answer found here? We do not know any one fully here, but we shall know them fully there, and those whom we know here we shall surely know better there. It refers to people as well as to truths. As Peter knew Moses and Elijah without an introduction, so I believe it shall be.

13. And now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, but the greatest of these is love.

Faith looks to the great sacrifice for pardon, love to a risen Christ gives us fellowship with Him in suffering and service, while hope looks to His coming again. In I Thess. i, 3, 9, 10, we see how they turned to God from idols, to serve the living and true God and to wait for His Son from heaven, and so we read of their work of faith, labor of love and patience of hope. The love of God is the greatest thing we ever heard of, the greatest thing ever seen on earth (John iii, 16; I John iii, 16; Rom. v, 8), and yet of all things the least understood or appreciated. On our part the greatest thing is faith, for "without faith it is impossible to please God" (Heb. xi, 6), but love is the foundation of our faith, as it is written, "We have known and believed the love which God hath to us" (I John iv, 10).

YOUNGER TO RUN A SHOW

Minnesota's Attorney General Says This Is a Violation of Cole's Promise to Minnesota.

Lee's Summit, Mo., Feb. 19.—Cole Younger, the pardoned bandit, confirms a report that he intends to run a "Wild West" show, saying he has already signed a contract with a Chicago man, owner of a show now wintering in that city. He would, he said, be the real owner of the show, and stated that the purchase money had been advanced to him. Younger said he would be manager and treasurer, but stated emphatically that he would not show himself in the arena.

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—Attorney General W. G. Douglas, who is a member of the state pardon board, when shown the dispatch from Lee's Summit stated that he regarded it as a violation of the promise that Cole Younger made to the board upon its granting him a full pardon. The promise, however, cannot be enforced, as there is no legal way of enforcing it.

When the United States flag was raised over the Bayan forts Captain Pershing's batteries saluted it by firing shrapnell shells, having no saluting cartridges. The execution done by the shrapnell impressed the Moros wonderfully.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Thousands of Chicago tenants will face suffering from cold and other inconveniences if the landlords do not sign the agreement and wage scale of the Flat Janitors' union by Saturday noon.

There are 1,800 janitors in the union, but only those in buildings controlled by men who refuse to sign the union agreement will strike. If the strike is declared the coal supply, grocery deliveries and about all the other comforts of home will be cut off, the unions controlling them all practically.

Defendant Gains a Point.

David City, Neb., Feb. 19.—The defense in the trial of Mrs. Harvey Lillie, charged with killing her husband, gained a strong point when Judge Good ruled out the testimony of the defendant given before the coroner's jury. ## "No Saloon" Sign a Good "Boomer".

Western towns put it at the top of their list of attractions to homeseekers—What one newspaper says:

There are a good many ways of looking at the saloon question, but the point of view of those who are booming Western towns is one that business men especially will do well to study. Under the caption, "Strange Isn't it?" the Santa Ana (Cal.) Herald published the following comment:

Riverside issues a handsome pamphlet, through its Chamber of Commerce, and as a grand climax of attractions to homeseekers the argument states that the place has "no saloon," and it is made prominent—very prominent; in fact, more prominent than any other statement in the book.

Long Beach has just prepared copy for an advertisement in a prominent eastern book, and the most prominent thing in that same statement, "Long Beach has no saloons," Long Beach puts it in capitals.

Passadena, Pomon, Redlands and our beautiful sister city, Orange, all do the same thing. In their literature to homeseekers they bear down heavily on the "no saloon" feature. They seem to think it is a pretty important thing, and as they have tried it for a good many years they ought to know.

Now what would our people think about it if Santa Ana's Chamber of Commerce, in enumerating the many advantages offered to homeseekers here, would say, "and Santa Ana has seven saloons," and put that up as the most prominent thing in the article? Look kind of funny, wouldn't it? Rather doubtful about its making any remarkable impression on homeseekers, isn't it? There is something queer about that. We have never known a city or town on earth to advertise to the world that it had even one saloon. Even boom towns that haven't much of anything else will mention the town pump and the grocery store and the little pioneer schoolhouse, but they don't say anything about the saloon. But these towns that have no saloons seem to want everybody to know it for some reason.

Now this lecture is not intended for a temperance lecture or any orthodox treatise on prohibition, but if there is a little horse sense hidden away in it there is no extra charge for it.—The Acorn.

OUR NATIVE TREES

... By ...
THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D.,
Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

VIII.—Forestry and Reforestation.

THE value of the forest in itself and in its relation to the welfare of humanity in general has doubtless long attracted the attention of thoughtful men. Records of the fact are not wanting even in the ancient classics. It is even claimed for the old time Jews that they had forest regulations. In western Europe, however, for a long time men and trees seem to have stood in the position of natural rivals. In times of peace as the population waxed the forest retreated. When by decimation and continuous war the people perished, the forests resumed their earlier sway and covered the abandoned fields and homes of men. Indeed, as affording opportunity for the chase forests were by the rulers of the earth sometimes more highly esteemed than peoples and towns. All earlier government regulations preserved or established forests simply as a covert for the wild beasts. For whatever of native forests exists in England and western Europe generally we are doubtless indebted to the hunting instinct strongly developed in the hearts of the old time kings and princes. The Norman kings of England, as every schoolboy knows, were notorious for activity in this sport. Sherwood forest is probably part of the prehistoric woods of Britain preserved for purposes of the chase through all the centuries. New forest was new by order of William the Norman. A cultivated country became a royal hunting ground and, in fact, remained so down to the year 1857. The very royalty of the woods, however, operated at length to their disadvantage. They shared the fortunes of monarchy and flourished or decayed with the strength or feebleness of succeeding kings. A powerful monarch protected his property; a weaker sovereign lost it. Thus the celebrated ordinance of 1689, elaborated by Colbert and Louis XIV., was expected to correct abuses that during the supremacy of weaker sovereigns had almost ruined the royal domain. Of course, the overthrow of monarchy under these conditions jeopardized the very existence of the forest. Accordingly we are not surprised that the Puritan revolution in England left a greatly reduced wooded area in that country, and across the channel the notorious French revolution vented its rage especially on the royal forests, on groves, on parks of castles, chateaux, wherever a privileged class had up to that time been the conservators of large estates and widespread wooded regions.

However, all this is happily now long past. All men are wiser. Not only are forests now preserved and cared for in nearly all the principal countries of Europe, but their value is rightly esteemed by everybody. Whether the property of king or people, no one nowadays would think of their destruction or obliteration.

Forests in Europe, as of yore, are largely the property of the government, republic, kingdom or empire, but they are no longer regarded as instruments of oppression. France has now one of the most complete systems of forest management in the world and has in later years accomplished wonders in restoring her provinces to the fortunate condition of earlier times. Since the establishment at Naples of a school of forestry in 1827 the application of genuine scientific treatment in the whole forest problem has been in France more varied and extensive than anything else in the world. Germany, as we shall see, has a much larger organization, but the problem in the fatherland was much less complex. In general we may say that in France the whole forest question is in review. For instance, France has undertaken the reforestation of her mountains. The movement began in 1862 by the passage of laws making large appropriations for this purpose. In the accomplishment of the work something like $10,000,000 has since been expended, and the task is only about half completed. Eight million acres of tillable land were threatened with destruction, and to avert the impending calamity it was necessary to plant with trees more than 800,000 acres of mountain side. In Gascony a hundred years ago the whole region between the Gironde and the Adore was swept by the west wind coming in from the Atlantic. Vast sand dunes extended for miles and miles along the western coast of France and were slowly burying the tillable and habitable land, moving inward at about the rate of sixteen feet per year. Those dunes have been covered with a forest of pines and are today the seat of an industry, a forest industry, giving employment to thousands of people. One cannot but admire the energy with which such adverse conditions are overcome. The Frenchman is staggered by no difficulty. Nothing is impracticable with him. If by the blunders of the past the mountains are coming down upon him, he forthwith sets out to rehabilitate the mountains and bind the sources of the river; if the sands tossed up by the waves threaten him with entombment, he plants the dunes with appropriate vegetation and makes of them not a windbreak only of interior fields, but a breakwater to the encroachments of the ocean. Does the mistral plague his southern provinces, vex his orchards and blight his olive yards, he plants forests across the path of the north wind and so restores the old time conditions of moisture and climate. If in all these matters men of the next century are wiser and more fortunate than we, it will in a large measure be owing to the far-reaching experiments now in progress on the mountains and in the river valleys of France.

In Germany systematic investigation of some of these problems began a little earlier than in France, and to Germany, as it seems, belongs the credit of establishing the first schools of arboriculture in the world. Several such schools were set up in the Harz mountains in 1772. Today a chair of forestry is found in almost every university in the German empire, and more than 4,500 men are engaged in the administration of the German forests. There were a few years since twenty German periodicals devoted to forestry interests only. In addition to all this, there are separate schools for forestry where nothing else is attempted but the preparation of candidates for administrative work among the woods and trees. About ten years of such preparatory service are required, five in study, five in practice work.

German foresters of course have their own problems. Some are of great moment, but the author knows of none at present as far-reaching as are some of those cited in France. The Germans had more to start with. Today it is the chief duty of the German forest administration to maintain the forests as they now stand. Nevertheless it is the ultimate policy of the German government to bring under other forms of culture all lands susceptible of such treatment, not reducing the wooded area indeed, but gradually shifting it so that eventually only such lands will be occupied with trees as are practically valuable for no other crop. And yet the extent of the forest is not to be diminished. Of course in such management there will always be respect to climatic and erosional possibilities. Every forest in Germany is accurately mapped. In the working plans of those in charge of any wood every tree is noted and recorded. Think of 7,000,000 acres of woodland cared for with exactitude such as that! Small wonder that the forests of Germany are a source of constant and considerable revenue to the imperial government. In 1895 the cost of administration in the German forest is stated at $1.32 per acre, the income at $2.63. On 7,000,000 acres this will be quite a considerable item in the kaiser's budget.

No American who has not witnessed it can form any conception of what it is to see a forest in order. To walk in the shadow of great trees by self appointed paths, to see beeches and oaks and firs and pines luxuriating at their best and yet all perfect, each supporting but none destroying the other, none fallen, none distorted or dying and, best of all, none consumed with fire, is an experience like to that of an artist in a splendid painted hall. The writer once saw an oak two or three feet in diameter felled in the forest by the Rhine. The tree was taken down piece-meal. Not a sapling was injured in its fall. There was no stump. The sawyers cut a little below the surface of the ground. From the scene of action a temporary iron tramway was laid to the regular avenue of exit, and so the logs were safely and quickly moved out of sight. When all was done, there was left on the ground not a chip, not so much as a twig. The stump itself, so thick it may be called, was buried in the soil and so left to decay.

The German method of treatment is different from that practiced in some other countries—England, for instance. In England the natural forest is all cut at once, the grounds then reset or replanted with seed. In Germany the object seems to be to keep the forest as such always in practically the same condition. The removal and constant renewal of native trees are scarcely at all noticeable.

The woods are mixed in character, and replanting goes on all the time, chiefly from nurseries. In Austria the forestry methods are largely those of Germany; in Switzerland they are those of France. Forest denudation has already in many places almost ruined the Swiss mountains and has covered the fertile valleys with glacial debris. The French method of experiment is exactly in line with the Swiss necessity. Italy is attempting something of the same sort. Her mountains and streams everywhere show the results of thousands of years of mismanagement. Her forestry school is at Milton's Vallombrosa, a locality in beauty fortunately still worthy of the poet's praise. But the progress of economic reform in Italy is still discouragingly slow.

The illustrations we have cited have brought to us some conception of modern forestry, may even enable us to perceive to frame a definition of the word. Forestry is really a branch of agriculture, field culture in the broader acceptance of the term. Yet forestry is something more than a single crop of aboreal plants. Forestry, as we understand it, is a science which concerns itself with world culture, an art which teaches the proper use of the earth as an abode for civilized and enlightened men. The forester is something more than woodman, and forestry is something more than the care of the woods. Forestry is applied knowledge. It is the practical application of all that we know of botany, geology, meteorology. Besides this, it is a branch of economics and concerns what we call social science. It includes all these things. No greater problem today exists in either philanthropy or science. [Copyright, 1902, by Lewis D. Sampson.]

SKY PILOT TO BE TRIED

Chaplain in Funston's Force to Go Before a Court Martial—Refusal to Pay a Debt.

Denver, Feb. 19.—General Frederick Funston, commander of the department of the Colorado, has ordered a court martial to try Chaplain H. C. Gavitt, of the First cavalry, for conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman. The charge is the outcome of the chaplain's alleged refusal to pay a debt claimed to be due a Chicago business house and contracted while the chaplain was stationed at Fort Sheridan.

The court martial is ordered to convene at Fort Logan, March 2. Colonel J. W. Bubb, of the Twelfth infantry, stationed at Fort Douglas, will be president of the court. Chaplain Gavitt is a member of the Rock River Methodist conference in Illinois and formerly lived at Highwood, Ills.

These People Who Face Twenty Below and a 42-Mile Wind—Ruse of "Miss" Somarby.

Duluth, Wis., Feb. 19.—By masquerading as a woman, Charles W. Somarby, of St. Paul, secured sixth place among those filing claims in town 57-S, which was opened for settlement yesterday morning at the local land office.

At 4 a. m. with the thermometer 20 degrees below and the wind sweeping down from the northwest at the rate of forty-two miles an hour four women and ten men sat swathed in blankets, shivering on the steps of the government building, waiting for the office to open at 6 a. m. Somarby was the fourth "woman."

Long Way from St. Louis.

St. Louis, Feb. 19.—Dr. Armand Ravold, former city bacteriologist, testified before the Chicago drainage canal commission yesterday that an analysis of water from below the mouth of the canal at Lockport, Ill., showed one cubic centimeter of fluid—a quantity equaling from sixteen to twenty drops—to contain no less than 36,000,000 bacteria. Much of the bacteria was healthy and necessary to life, but he holds that there were plenty of malignant germs there, too.

Therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we favor an amendment to Sec. 4424, Compiled Laws of 1897, so that instead of such expenses being chargeable to the County they be paid by the respective Township or City, the same as our poor expenses are now paid. And be it further

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

A HANDSOME BALL GOWN.

Ciepe de China, softly draping Louise and Liberty silks are the preferred fabrics for this season's ball gown, and the dainty robe shown below is therefore of pastel blue crepe de Chine, entirely tucked and trimmed in an attractive manner with handsome silver lace, chiffon rosettes and two flounces around the bottom of the skirt. Corticelli sewing silk being employed in making up the entire gown, which is lined with pale blue taffeta.

White, in all textiles, has never before been so popular as now. For visiting wear, the gown of white broadcloth is par excellence, and in any of the soft, pliable fabrics it is attractive for more ceremonious functions, as are also the satin-faced cloths and crepe de chine and viole in silk. Self-colored or contra ting laces may be introduced with good effect as the main decoration, with touches of delicate colored panne and fancy-passementerie ornaments. It is prophesied that fringes, tassels and ball pendants are to be used to an alarming extent. One gown of leaf-green broadcloth that bore a foreign stamp was adorned with unique pearl and lace ornaments of grapes on the corsage, and entredoux of white and black lace formed the charming decoration of both the waist and skirt.

Rapid Growth of Society for Mutes.

The deaf Mutes' Register of Rome, New York has as their regular Chicago correspondent, Jesse Waterman and in his letter this week, he says the following:

All Chicago is wondering what mysterious hands are guiding the rapid climbing successes which the Chicago Division of the Fraternal Society of the Deaf is making at a surprising rate. Only a year ago it was organized and chartered under the regulations of the parental order. Since that date, the social functions given from time to time have easily placed that branch among the foremost organizations of the city.

Saturday night its grand prize masquerade ball is one convincing evidence. Over three hundreds guests flocked to see how they were running things at Pulaski Hall, corner Oakland ave., and 18th street.

It is the purpose of the club officials to have one floor exclusively devoted to large meetings, entertainments, etc. and the other for games of all kinds, including billiards, bowling, boxing ring, swimming pool, etc. While the price, if mentioned, will stagger any other club in existence, still the club officials are not afraid to lease the two floors when popular sentiment demands it. The club certainly can, and without any hesitation, claims the largest membership of any other similar club of the deaf in the world. Already over one hundred and fifty members are preserving the good name and dignity of this famous organization.

Saved Her Child's Life.

"In three weeks our chubby little boy was changed by pneumonia almost to a skeleton," writes Mrs. W. Watkins, of Pleasant City O. "A terrible cough set in, that, in spite of a good doctor's treatment for several weeks, grew worse every day. We then used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was soon sound and well. We are quite sure this grand medicine saved his life." Millions know it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. W. N. Brodick guarantees satisfaction, 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free.
