Measure in the Senate That Offers Her $200,000 for Her Equity Therein.

PAYS THAT MUCH RENT A YEAR

House Democrats Prepare to Make Trouble Over an Election Case DeArmond's Expansion Idea.

Washington, Feb. 26.-It took an hour and a half yesterday to read a bill in the senate which appropriates to the ex-Queen Liliuokalani the sum of $200,000 in lieu of ail claims she may have on the crown lands of the Hawaiian islands. After the reading Spooner inquired if the appropriation of $200,000 to the ex-queen was an honorary one. Allison said that it was founded on a claim, pretended or real, of Liliuokalani to what are known asthecrown lands in Hawaii, of which she had been deprived. Morgan thought that the matter should go over. Hoar said that at first he had a strong feeling against he ex-queen on account of newspaper articles, but he since had learned that the lands referred to fairly might have been claimed to be her private property and not mere crown lands. Bay State Man Wants to Atone.

Their proceeds always had been used for her private support. He said the ex-queen had tried to reconcile her people to the rule of the United States, and that she was a woman of great personal worth. He hoped the appropriation would be made because it was his desire to atone for a public utterance of disrespect toward her. Replying to Hoar, Spooner said that if there is any claim on the part of Liliuokalani as an individual, contradistinguished from the sovereign, it should be dealt with in a broad way. Allison explained that the claim rested on an equity.

Explained by Blackburn.

Blackburn, who reported the bill, said the committee on Pacific islands was unanimous in the recommendation. It is not contended, he said, that there is a legal claim involved against the United States. "She has no day in court," he said. "The fee to the crown lands was not in her, but the sovereign, but she was absolute in the receipt of the rents. Since her overthrow, he said, the government has collected $450,000 in rents from those lands.

Matter for Their Consciences, He would not discuss the responsibility of the United States in the matter, but no dethronement would have occurred, and the United States would not have appropriated to itself the rentals, had it not been for the landing of United States marines from the Boston. It would be a good investment, he said, to pay the amount because of the feeling of gratitude with which it would be accepted and the appreciation those people would show. It was a question, he said, that addressed itself to the consciences of senators. By consent the matter went over.

ORGANIZED FOR A FILIBUSTER

Democrats Will Obstruct in the House Over an Election Case.

Washington, Feb. 26.-The Democrats of the house called a caucus for this morning to act on the filibustering programme the Democratic leaders' have decided on for the remainder of the session. Tuesday, when the majority of elections committee No. 2 presented its report in favor of unseating Butler of Missouri, whose seat is being contested by Wagoner, the Democratic leaders, at the request of the Democrats of the Missouri delegation, served notice on the Republican leaders that if an attempt was made to call up the case for action they would do everything in their power to block the wheels of legislation until March 4.

No reply was given, but a truce was the understanding that a response would be given yesterday afternoon. Shortly before adjournment yesterday Speaker Henderson · notified Richardson, the minority leader, that the case would be called up today. Thereupor the call for the Democratic caucus was issued. The Democrats are organizing for a fight to a finish. While their action probably will not jeopardize any of the appropriation bills they can greatly embarrass the majority and defeat many minor measures which otherwise would pass.

BASKET BALL

Benton Harbor Boys Give Buchanan High School Boys Close Victory.

A very closely contested game of basket ball occurred at the opera house Wednesday evening, when the Navel Reserves of Benton Harbor, accompanied by about fifty or sixty friends, came to match their skill against the Buchanan high school

At the close of the first half the score stood 9 to 10 in favor of Buchanan, and when the game was re sumed Benton Harbor made six points before Buchanan had made any, and the excitement ran high. However, our boys recovered themselves and closed the game with the score 22 to 20, in favor of Buchanan.

Our boys were Fred Knight, Ray Weaver, Jesse Spinnetta, Oscar Morris and Cleve Brand, all of whom did excellent work.

The Benton Harbor team included two of the high school boys of that place, as the Reserves aimed to get together the strongest possible team. They played a much rougher game than the Buchanan boys were accustomed to and the audience thought not as pleasant a game to Preceding the boys' game, the high school girls played a practice game, the opposing teams being composed of three seniors and thee freshmen against two seniors, two juniors and two freshmen. The score was 12 to 0 in favor of the first named side.

Fifth Avenue is the Mecca of Rug Hunters

Here are silken rugs, so brillian that the sheen seems actually to emi light, the prices of which are reckon ed in thousands of dollars. Yes somehow they fail to hold the eye and satisfy it as do the woolen falries with their duller colors. In many American cities the rugs are shown only in darkened rooms, crumpled artfully beneath the deceptive rays of a shaded light. In a way this is a fairer test of the fabrics, for they were woven to hang in the half-lights of Mohammedan tents, and they show more varied shades and a great er depth of color when they are gath ered in folds. But here, as in a Oriental bazaar, rugs from Tabreeze ind Senna, Khiva and Bokhara, are hung up before the shops, and spread out in the areas to the very sidewalk. If what one is after is a brilliance of rich color, it is nowhere to be had in such raveshing fulness, On the shady side of the Avenue the Bokharas and Khivas lie smouldering at your feet, woodland pools that catch the after glow of sunset, On the sunny side hey burst upon the senses in floods of noontide glory.

The Armenian dealer in rugs is p obably the craftiest of all the shopceepers, and his emissaries have so thoroughly ransacked the Orien that the traveller is frequently advised in Persia and Afghanistan to ook for the rarest and the best spec mens in London, and especially in New York. Yet even here the ex perienced purchaser can find notable bargains. A gentleman who has, in Chicago, a very notable collection of sokharas, and who has travelled throughout the Orient in search of he rarest and the most perfect fabrics ately found three new specimens uanging before a Fifth Avenue shop, and bought them for prices which, allowing of course for the duty, would have been cheap in the tent of a Persian -From "The Twentieth Century City," by John Corbin, in the March Scribner's.

women toward life a danger to the hings that keep society together We all, young and old, believe that the home is the basis of society. Every girl looks forward to having a nome of her own, and so, perhaps ess definitely, does every young man. Normal young people fall in love, marry and set up their homes' as naturally as the birds do, and their pleased pride, when they have established themselves, is just as natural as that of the birds. Nearly every one has seen a pair of newly-mated birds bustling around to prepare heir nests and begin their homekeeping. There is nothing more human in the whole drama of nature than their actions at such a time. Elder people sometimes complain that newly married young folk usually conduct themselves as though they had actually achived something in the setting up of a home. They have a right so to conduct themselves; for they have realy done something toward the furthering the best interests of the whole world. The home idea is the foundation idea of human society. Now one persons cannot make a true home. Two persons cannot do it unless each assumes certain obligations toward it. It seems almost to patent a fact to need attention call ed to it, that there must be here, as in every other department of life, a nnity of interest, with division of

To the average man home stands for that for which he struggles, and ought to go forth from it rested and strengthened for the day's task. But his worst faults seem to have been good qualities carried to excess. In opposing too much luxury, he cut himself off from the comforts of life; in his eagerness to make life simple, he lost sight of its gentilities; he was saving at the expense of neatness, truthful at the cost of courtesy, and plain spoken even to rudeness. One would say that he was choarse-grained by nature; but he showed signs of tenderness, and even refinment, which proved that the grain was not entirely coarse, and which make us wonder at an age that could produce two men so wise and yet so different as Diogenes, the rude, "walking philosopher" of his time, and Plato, the polished and aristocratic gentleman. Rebukes the Consul General to China for His Methods in a Damages

Madison, Wis., Feb. 26.—The Wisconsin supreme couht, in an opinion handed down Tuesday, took occasion to rebuke General Edward S. Bragg. the recently appointed consul general to Hong Kong, for his methods in conducting a personal injury suit before a lower court. The case was that of Henry Ruehling, who was given damages of $12,000 from the Chicago and Northwestern railroad.

The criticism of the supreme court judges was aimed at allusions made by General Bragg to the jury regarding the officers of the road, its great wealth, to the number of others injured, and to the engineer of the road. The court said such expressions by counsel tend to unfit an ordinary jury for doing justice.

DESTINY OF THE NEGRO

By Senator MORGAN of Alabama

HAVE some opinions as to the capacity of the negro race for mental, moral and physical growth which do them no discredit. They are the result of observations of a long life that has been spent in their midst. Such opportunities have convinced me that THE NEGRO RACE HAS NOT A FAIR CHANCE FOR FULL DEVELOPMENT IN ANY COUNTRY WHERE THE WHITE RACE IS IN THE MA-JORITY.

Not that the white man has any fear or jealousy of the power of the black man or any wish to keep him in a state of restraint or repression, but it is true, through all past history, that the negro race has never governed in a country where the white race is in the majority or even where it is found in considerable numbers.

In all ages of which we have historical records the negro race has occupied central and southern Africa, and they have made no real effort to exercise authority over races or nations that have occupied northern Africa or western Asia or southern Europe. They have been at all times free to migrate to southern Europe and have been protected by the laws while residing in those countries.

YET IN ALL THAT VAST AND ATTRACTIVE REGION THERE ARE PROBABLY FEWER NEGROES THAN CAN BE FOUND IN A SINGLE COUNTY IN ALABAMA, WHILE ALL SOUTHERN AFRICA IS NOW PRACTICALLY RULED BY WHITE MEN.

We may have different theories on which we account for these facts, but the facts remain, and they show the practical impossibility of the real advancement of the negro in a country where they are in competition with the white race.

The rule of obedience to law is the only rule that can secure to both races the blessings of domestic peace, and it is not a favorable condition for the peace and prosperity of either race that there is no stronger bond of union between them than the letter of the

As no different or stronger bond is possible between the white and black races in the United States I look to the ultimate separation, in peace and with good will, as the only solution of this difficult problem.

THE QUIET BUT IRRESISTIBLE FORCE OF PUBLIC NECESSITY, AND ! HOPE MOST SINCERELY THAT IT WILL NOT BRING WITH IT ANY ILL FEELING ON THE PART OF EITHER RACE TOWARD THE OTHER.

The Indians who were once the occupants of all our present domain have been separated from the white race and located west of the Mississippi river,

It has required compulsion to accomplish this result, and the lesson has been a hard one to all concerned. I do not wish to see it repeated, and I don't believe that it will or can be repeated, but the separation will come at some future time.

THOMAS H. MACBRIDE, Ph. D., & Professor of Botany, Iowa State University.

IX.—Forestry In the United States.

HE more obvious purposes of forestry being, as we have seen, the conservation and peris easy to see that in such a country as our own such science would hitherto find little hearing. To the average American one word was needed to describe the resources of his country, forest resources and all-inexhaustible. Besides, were the forests not largely in the way of better things? The walnuts, hickories, sycamores, however splendid, of the Wabash valley must of right give way to agriculture, to support an aggressive and rapidly growing population of farmers. From the days of the landing of the pilgrims until the close of the civil war there was almost everywhere a superabundance of trees. The marvelous increase in population, the wonderful development of the country since that time, have, however, long ago put an entirely different face on the forest question. The scarcity of timber in many parts of the country and the rapid disappearance of many of the more valuable varieties are now appreciated by everybody. Hickory for wagon stock is almost unobtainable; walnut furniture has gone out because walnut lumber is no longer to be found; we are going to Honduras for Republican governments are very slow mahogany. Intelligent men can tell to act, but that they may become effiyou almost to a year how long the supply of white pine will hold out at the present rate of consumption-only a few years. The mills along the Mississippi from Minneapolis to St. Louis are doomed. The vast bodies of Georgia pine are melting away as fast as scores of mills can convert them into lumber. Even our mountain forests are going the same way. The vast accumulations of the Sierras are vanishing with a rapidity that alarms even the most sanguine optimist of the land of gold. In Oregon and Washington men are like the dwellers by the Wabash—they think the trees a nuisance; they prefer hopyards and wheatfields. Add to all this the destruction wrought by fire, a Gehenna that never goes out, millions of dollars lost in a single year—add all this, and it becomes evident to the least observing that even in America the time for the forester has come. All this has reference to our timber supply only, but let us not forget that every other factor in the forest problem is equally upon us. Our rivers are everywhere choked with the products of erosion, our valleys torn by freshets and floods, while in localities far too many the steady flow of mountain streams on which irrigation depends has been exchanged for alternating failure and flood. This is not the voice of the pessimist; this is a simple statement of what any one may see who chooses to give the matter the slightest attention. Now, the Americans are a proud people. They are not anxious to appear before the world incompetent in affairs of simple business, the wise use of the natural resources which are so much their boast; they are a courageous people and do not hesitate to act once the time for action seems fully to have arrived. We have therefore the highest expectation that in the matters of forestry, as in other fields of effort, American enterprise will yet prove itself adequate. Indeed, a beginning has been made. All unnoticed, for more than twenty-five years patriotic men have been striving to educate our people for just such a time as the present. We have, in fact, for years maintained a commission of forestry in connection with the department of agriculture, but its duties have been advisory only. Its publications, however, aided by the voluntary efforts of various forestry associations in all the older states, have kept the question alive and ever before the public. Up to 1891 nothing whatever was done by the government of the United States in the way of caring for its public forest lands. In the words of Mr. Fernow, "The government seemed to be anxious to be rid of the land, and the people seemed anxious to get rid of the timber." The forests of the country were simply indiscrim inately plundered, sometimes in accordance with the forms of law, more frequently without. In March, 1891. President Harrison by proclamation set apart the first forest reserve, about

1,200,000 acres, since called the Yellowstone park reservation. President

Harrison continued the same policy

during his entire administration, setting apart thus altogether some 14. 000.000 acres. President Cleveland, advised by his ever to be remembered secretary of agriculture, Secretary Morton, continued along the same line, adding during his second administration 27,000,000 acres more. In the same way President McKinley reserved about 6,500,000 acres more, bringing the total timber reserve of the United States now up to nearly 50,-000,000 acres. It must be remembered that reserva-

nary process of purchase or settlement the territory so withdrawn, making no provision whatever for the administration of such territory. As a consequence, abuses continue almost as bad as before. Many of the reservations have been terribly damaged by petuation of forest wealth, it fire. The Priest river reserve, for instance, has been almost totally destroyed. A recent government report, part of the nineteenth annual report of the United States geological survey, contains a detailed account of the present status of all the government reservations. Read in the light of what we know of the condition of similar government property in other civilized countries, this report makes rather melancholy reading. Nevertheless every citizen of the United States should read it, especially every lumberman, every builder. Let us remember that of the millions of acres of public land in this country these few reserves, about forty-five in ail, are all that are kept back for the benefit of all the people. It is hoped that Mr. Roosevelt may yet see fit to make the reservations larger or at least to add greatly to their number, especially to protect the sources of the all too scanty water courses of the west. Better still, it is last demand in congress and by congressional legislation some efficient system of forest centrol by which the remnants we have may yet be cared for and brought to a degree of efficiencient in matters such as these is evidenced by what has been accomplished in France and Switzerland. Meantime where the general government is so slow individual states are beginning to take action. The condition is agitated over the entire country. New York has long been engaged in an effort to control the Adirondack region and the sources of the Hudson. Of some 3,000,000 acres of forest land in that part of the Empire State more than one-third now belongs to the people and is subject to control more or less efficient. Pennsylvania and other states are moving in the same direc-

> Meantime the efforts of a few individuals have been productive of a vast amount of good. Biltmore wood, near Asheville, N. C., is an object lesson in Blue Ridge mountains. Managed by private capital there are several similar illustrations of wise forest economy in various parts of New York outside of the Adirondacks already mentioned. In fact, the situation offers to men of wealth an opportunity for philanthropic investment second to none. The man who founds a forest will be honored in days to come beyond the fame of him who founds a college. Colleges and universities we have in plenty and shall have as the popular need demands, but endowments for forest maintenance are few. In the northwest forests have made multimillionaires of many lumbermen. How can such fortunes do for humanity a greater service than by restoring, at least in some degree, for future generations those conditions which > have proved so beneficent in this? We need schools of forestry. There should be at least one for each of these reserves, to study it, to plan for it, to control its use. All experience proves, and no one doubts, that once set in order the forest will pay for its own care. The trouble today is the absolute lack of responsibility and intelligent control. The people themselves are indeed beginning to be informed as to the needs of the situation, but the feasible method of dealing with the problem doubtless transcends the experience of many of our legislators.

Two schools of forestry we already have, established within the last three years. One, in connection with Cornell university at Ithaca, N. Y., has the honor of being the first school of the sort in this country. The other, endowed by the munificence of our present commissioner of forestry, Mr. Pinchot, and members of his family, is at Yale. These are beginnings. They should be duplicated by every university in the land. It should be said that the agricultural colleges of the country are already active in the matter. Some | the most infallible remedy that I have of them have been for years giving lecture courses on the general subject of Grip. It's invaluable to people with forestry, forest rearing and forest economics. Most of these institutions, however, are concerned chiefly with those phases of the problem presented by the immediate locality where the college happens to be established. This is all right, of course, but it will one day be reckoned a curious fact that we attention to the planting of trees in inhospitable soils, where by nature they do not and cannot grow, than to the care of those which occupy localities by nature assigned to the production of arboreous vegetation and to little or nothing else.

But this very fact suggests that the problem shows still another solution. It is an encouraging sign of the times that already great manufacturing concerns and establishments using quantities of lumber of certain special sorts are beginning to show alarm as they discover that the supply of the particular kind of wood demanded is not inexhaustible, but quite the reverse. For instance, men may buy a county or two of standing oak in Arkansas or in southeastern Missouri. By clearing this of course it will furnish a supply of oak lumber for a limited number of years and then nothing. By the rational methods of forestry a much smaller area of woodland would meet the demand and be perennial. The intelligent forester will elaborate a working plan by which the supply will be furnished year after year and yet remain a better source of supply than at the outset because furnishing a better quality of timber. Once the cause of forestry in this country receives the help, the interested help, of the great lumber and wood corporations of the country reformation in the care of our forest resources will not tarry long. LESSON IX, FIRST QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, MARCH 1.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xviii, 24, to xix, 6-Memory Verses, 4-6-Golden Text, Luke xi, 13-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1902, by American Press Association.] 24. And a certain Jew named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures, came to Ephe-

After Paul's eighteen months at Corinth he started for Syria, taking Priscilla and Aquila with him as far as Ephesus, where he left them and went on to Jerusalem via Cæsarea, and thence to Antioch. After some time he started on his third missionary tour, going through Galatia and Phrygia, strengthening the disciples, and in due time, as we shall see, came again to Ephesus. The one great thing said of Apollos, whose acquaintance we make in this verse, is that he was "mighty" in the Scriptures," and if it could have been added "filled with the Spirit" there could be nothing greater said.

25. This man was instructed in the way of the Lord, and, being fervent in the Spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John.

He was filled with what he knew and did the best he could with what he had, urging people to repent and turn to God and bring forth fruits worthy of repentance (Luke i.i, 3, 8). It was all good and real as far as it went, and such an earnest, faithful worker is sure of more light, for his heart was whole toward God, and on behalf of such God will surely show Himself strong (II Chron. xvi, 9).

26. Whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard they took him unto them and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly. They had doubtless been greatly helped by Paul at Corinth, and now they are able to help Apollos from Alexandria. So Alexandria in Egypt and Corinth, or, rather, Italy, come together at Ephesus on the Lord's business, and thus He works, sending His messengers lither and thither and causing lives to meet and touch for mutual benefit in His service. It is a great and comforting truth that His good pleasure which He hath purposed in Himself is ever being wrought out after the counsel of His own will (Eph. 1, 9, 11), and there is perfect peace to all who abide in that will. May we be as ready to help others as were Priscilla and Aquila and as teachable as Apollos.

27, 28. Who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace, for he mightily convinced the Jews. and that publicly, shewing by the Scriptures that Jesus is the Christ.

With letters from the brethren at Ephesus Apollos passed on to Corinth and was greatly used of God there. Being mighty in the Scriptures when he came to Ephesus, he was more mighty when he came to Corinth because of the increased light received through Priscilla and Aquila. He became a prominent teacher and afterward a great friend of Paul. See I | Supervisor..... J. L. Richards Cor. i, 12; iii, 4, 5, 6, 22; iv, 6; xvi, 12; Tit. iii, 13. But both he and Paul would have us understand that whoever the teacher might be God alone could do the work to be done. "I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase" (I Cor. iii, 6-9).

xix, 1, 2. Have ye received the Holy Chost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard Thether there be any Holy Ghost.

We do not read of any result from raul's testimony at Ephesus of his way east except that they wished him to tarry longer (chapter xviii, 19, 20); but now through the preaching of Apollos and doubtless by the help of Priscilla and Aquila he finds on his return to Ephesus that some have believed, but they have not been taught about the Holy Spirit, and they would therefore be lacking power in their lives. There are many believers now who manifest the same great lack, for while every believer has become a temple of the Holy Ghost (I Cor. vi, 19, 20), it is a different thing to be filled with the Spirit, as the tree from root to topmost twig is filled with sap or as the whole body is filled with blood even to the tips of fingers and toes.

3, 4. And he said unto them, Unto what were ye then baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.

The Holy Spirit testifies of Christ and glorifies Christ (John xv, 26; xvi, 14); but probably these disciples were like many church members in our own day with whom the Holy Spirit seems to accomplish little or nothing, because the word of God does not dwell in them richly (Col. iii, 16), and they seem never to have heard much, if anything, about the Holy Spirit. All will acknowledge that it is a sin to be drunken with wine, but not many count it a sin not to be filled with the Spirit, yet see Eph. v. 18.

5-7. When Faul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Chost came on them, and they spake with tongues and prophesied. Compare ii, 4; iv, 31; x, 44, 46, and note all through this book the Spirit's place in the church; how all is accomplished by Him in the name of the Lord Jesus and nothing without Him. There can be no hindrance on God's part to any believer being filled with the Spirit, for He is more willing to give the Spirit to those who ask Him than parents are to give good things to their children (Luke xi, 13). The hindrance must be in us, that we in some way ask amiss or do not ask in faith (Jas. iv, 3; i, 6) or do not seek with th whole heart (Jer. xxix, 13) or are no willing to be filled because not willir to have His will wrought in us. Let us pray honestly Ps. exxxix, 23, 24, and He will not fail to show us the d'fficulty. He also will make us His will. ing people in the day of His power

(Ps. ex, 3).

ONE OTHER IS FATALLY HURT

Losses All on the Side of the Mob. Which Resisted a Legal Process.

Sequel of the Granting of an Injunction Against Strikers in West Virginia-Seventy-Three Rioters Arrested.

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 26. - At Stanniford City, in Raleigh county, at dawn yesterday, a terrible battle took place between the joint posses of Deputy United States Marshal Cunningham and Sheriff Cook, on one side. and rioting miners on the other, as a result of which three miners were killed, two others are mortally wounded, and several others on both sides were more or less seriously hurt. The killed are: Dick Taylor, --- Dobson and an unknown miner. Mortally wounded-Joe Heiser and Irwin Lawson. The trouble grew out of the attempt to arrest thirty-four miners for violation of blanket injunction issued by Federal Judge Kellor last August. Heiser has since died.

Miners Defy the Law. On Last Saturday Deputy Marshal D. W. Cunningham went to Atkinsville, a mining town in Raleigh county, to arrest men charged with violating the injunction. He was surrounded by a large party of miners armed with Winchester rifles, who ordered him to leave the place, on order which he quickly obeyed. Sheriff Cook at this time attempted to make some arrests under process issued by the state court, and was treated in a like manner. Cunningham returned to this city and reported to the marshal and district attorney that he could do nothing without a large force, and then only at imminent risk of pre-

Must Be Served at All Hazards. He was instructed to return with men sufficient to serve the process given him and to do it at all hazard. Before Cunningham returned to Atkinsville, however, Marshal Thompson and S. C. Burdette, attorney for the United Mine Workers, went to the scene, spending most of Sunday and Monday there. They found everything quiet, the rioters having withdrawn from the immediate neighborhood and crossed New river, going into camp 300 strong near the Big Q mine on the north side. Thompson and Burdette came home Tuesday morning, and Cunningham and a strong posse went from here to make the arrests.

RIOTERS PARADE THE COUNTRY

Put Mob Law on Top and Then Go Into Camp—Surprise and Bloodshed.

When Atkinsville was reached the federal forces were joined by Sheriff Cook and his posse, the coal companies near by furnished some guards, and the deputy and sheriff found themselves in command of about 100 well-armed and determined men. The rioters had recrossed the river on Tuesday, and were parading up and down before the various coal works -from 150 to 200 men, armed with Winchester rifles. They intimidated miners at work, drove away the guards of the mines, and even went so far as to disarm one guard and force him to march at the head of their procession. Emboldened by their success they attempted to burn down a bridge of the C. and O. railroad over Piney Bulch, and threatened the destruction of other property. Tuesday night they went into camp near Stanniford City.

Yesterday morning about daybreak the officers and their combined posse surprised the rioters in their camp, and called on them to surrender. The reply was a shot. This was answered by a shot, and immediately a furious battle was raging. When it ceased three of the rioters lay dead and many others were found to be wounded, two of them fatally. Seventy-three arrests were made, ten falling to the share of Deputy Cunningham and sixty-three to that of Sheriff Cook. All the prisoners were taken to Beckley, the county seat of Raleigh, where the ten United States prisoners were given a preliminary hearing by Commissioner Dunn and held for appearance at court here.

The injunction which the miners were charged with violating was issued by Judge B. F. Keller at the suit of the Chesapeake and Ohio Coal Agency company last August. The defendants in the case were all the coal companies operating in the New river field, 150 members of the United special from Madison, Wis., says: The hearing in the Hudnall grain inspection bill before'a joint meeting of the senate and assembly state affairs committees developed a fight between the advocates and opponents of the measure. The advocates are represented here by a delegation of 100 of the leading professional and business men of Superior, and the opponents by several railroad attorneys, elevator owners. and agents.

GRAIN INSPECTION BILLS

Attorney C. H. Crownheart, of Douglas county, who represents the elevator interests, calls the Hundred Thousand club, of Superior; the "Knocking" club, and said it was always "knocking, knocking, like the raven. knocking at our door, and like the raven croaking, croaking, overmore."

"Long John " Murphy, represents the Great Northern Railroad company. and said that east railroad and elevator interests in Superior were placed in jeopardy by the pending bill and declared that every elevator in Superior would be closed if the bill should pass.

SHE DIED OF A FAD

Seems To Be the Opinion of Some People as to the Case of "Kora.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—The funeral of Miss Cora Dean, better known as "Koradine," who had achieved renown locally as a writer of short stories, occurred here yesterday. Miss Dean died of scarlet fever after an illness of a week.

The fact that the young authoress had restricted her diet for some time to uncooked foods, and was accustomed to omit the morning meal in pursuance of a system exploited by a local physician, is believed by the friends of Miss Dean to have rendered her peculiarly susceptible to the disease which caused her death. Miss Dean was born in Jackson, Mich., and was educated in the Northwestern university and the Cook County Normal School.

Milwankee, Feb. 26. - A Sentinel Man Who Was Security for Andrews Files a Petition in Bankruptcy.

RECENT DECISION DID FOR HIM

Bridge Across Detroit River Projected-Heiress to $100,000-Fishing Tugs in Peril.

Detroit, Feb. 26.-Homer McGraw, one of the directors of the wrecked City Savings bank, of this city, has filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court. His liabilities total $806,000, and his assets, beside real estate, the value of which is not given in the petition, is $6,928. Mc-Graw's bankruptcy was contributed to largely by the recent decision of the circuit court holding the sureties of Cashier Andrews, of the bank, who was also treasurer of the school board, liable for $444,731 of school funds that were on deposit in the bank when it suspended. McGraw was one of the sureties. The principal creditors are: Detroit board of education, $444.731: State Treasurer Daniel McCov. $78. 836; county of Wayne, $177,885, and the Detroit library committee, $40,695 All of these liabilities were incurred directly through McGraw's connectio: with the City Savings' bank.

Organnizing a Big Bridge Compang. Detroit. Feb. 26.—The Pere Mar quette International Bridge company is being organized to build a bridge across the Detroit river somewhere in the neighborhood of Grosse Isle, which is about twenty miles below Detroit. F. W. Stevens, general counsel of the Pere Marquette railway, said vester day that the details of the plan had not yet been completed. He declared. however, that the proposed bridge will not affect the interest of the Pere Marquette railway in the bridge that is contemplated at Detroit, and that the Pere Marquette will continue to co-operate with the Michigan Central and Grand Trunk roads to secure the erection of the bridge here.
