REMARKABLE CELEBRATION

Unusual Longevity of the Sparks Family.

FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES

On March 10th Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sparks Observe Their Golden Wedding

On October 23rd, 1828 there arrived in this county, in Niles township, a man and wife and eight children, who came from Wayne county, Indiana, with their small household effects, traveling in the primitive way, by wagon.

The family were Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Sparks and children, the parents of our townspeople, Joseph and Ira Sparks, and Mrs. Park; Mrs. Irwin, of Manistee County, and Wilson Sparks of Renton Harbor.

After the arrival here of the family a log house was built and a new home established, three more children being born to them after their arrival in Michigan. These eleven children lived to grow up and all but one were married before the death of their parents.

The subject of this sketch, Joseph Sparks, was about 15 years of age when he came with his parents to Michigan; in 1839 when nearly 25 years of age, he married Mary Jarvis with whom he lived until 1851 when she died. March 10th 1853, he married Caroline Flanagan, his present companion, and on next Tuesday they celebrate their golden wedding.

It is a remarkable record to celebrate the 50th anniversary of one's second marriage and what is even more strange is the fact that of this generation of children, Mr. Joseph Sparks is only one of five who have lived to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Ira Sparks and Elizabeth Ford were married Jan. 1, 1851, and have passed their 50th anniversary both yet living; Levi Sparks and Maria Martin were married Jan. 2, 1845, and lived to pass their 50th anniversaries; Levi dying Sept. 20th 1900, and his wife about a year later; Elizabeth Sparks and Burton Jarvis were married October 15, 1840, and both lived to observe their 50th anniversary, the latter dying Jan. 2, 1902, the former April 20th 1896; Susan Sparks and John Irwin celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary July 31, 1901, and both are living yet.

This is indeed a remarkable family history; their many friends wish them many more returns of the wedding days and birthdays, these milestones along life's pathway.

STRIKE IS WITHHELD

Wabash Men Await a Court Test of the Strength of the Injunction.

LAWYERS PREPARING THE CASE

President Ramsey Says He Is Not Afraid, and Replies to Leader Morrissey.

St. Louis, March 5.—Developments in the impending strike situation on the Wabash were very few yesterday. Everything now hinges on the injunction, which the labor leaders will attempt to have dissolved, and until this shall be done away with there can be no strike, for they have agreed to obey the court's order. E. T. Irwin, of Peoria, and E. V. Penny, of Cleveland, attorneys for the trainmen, spent the day in conference with Messrs. P. Y. Morrissey and S. W. Arnold and other union leaders, examining the petition on which the injunction was issued, and preparing an answer that will be presented in court to secure a dissolution of the restraining order.

Ramsey's View of the Situation.

President Ramsey said to the Associated Press: "Everything has been running smoothly and there are no indications that our men have gone out or will do so soon. I have not seen any members of the grievance committee today and know nothing of what is transpiring at their headquarters." Asked as to what effect a sympathetic strike on the part of the trackmen, about 2,000 of whom Grand Master Wilkins says are ready to support the trainmen and firemen if they go out, President Ramsey said: "It would have very little effect on the situation. In case of a strike we could get all the men we should need to take the places of strikers in all departments."

Wabash Issues a Statement.

A statement was issued yesterday from Wabash headquarters in reply to the statements of Morrissey, which were published yesterday. The Wabash statement is signed by President Ramsey and addressed to the employees of the Wabash railway "and others interested." It says the crisis on the Wabash is so grave that it might develop a situation alongside of which the anthracite trouble would be small. He therefore desires the "exact facts" kept before the public. For that reason he says he makes reply to Morrissey's statement of yesterday.

MAKES AN ISSUE OF VERACITY

Declares One Statement of the Strike Leader Devoid of Truth.

Ramsey says in part: "The first [of Morrissey's statements] is personal to the president of the Wabash. Mr. Morrissey says: 'For years he [Mr. Ramsey] has boasted of his contempt for labor organizations. He liked the distinction it brought him of being the one managing officer in this section who could get along without them. Every previous effort of the employees to meet and deal with him have proved futile.' This statement is absolutely without truth. I have never expressed 'contempt for labor organizations.' (I may have for some hot-headed leader who advocates the 'rule or ruin' policy.) On the contrary, I have frequently said to labor leaders, members, and others, that I had no objection to them when properly and conservatively conducted, and when they did not absolutely ignore individual rights or obligations."

"There are hundreds of organization men on the Wabash who know this; there are dozens who were re-employed by me after the strike of 1894 (two years before I became connected with the Wabash), who offered to leave their association to get back, to whom I said: 'That is not necessary. I don't care what organizations you belong to so you are reasonably loyal to the company and a good workman.' I have not discharged or declined to employ any one on account of membership in an organization. The Wabash employees are treated as men, with all their rights as individuals recognized, and as long as they recognize the rights of the other fellow employees and give fair service to the company they have the right to join any church or organization—political, labor or other kind they wish."

"During my thirty-three years with this and other railroads, I have never failed to meet any committee of employees or any individual employee who wished, to see me, and I have met every committee now here several times and three of these meetings were with Messrs. Hannahan, Lee and Wilkins present. * * * Mr. Morrissey says: 'Mr. Ramsey bluffed and cajoled the men.' The Wabash men are men of some experience and know enough not to be 'bluffed and cajoled' by me, except in one way and that was by fair treatment and fair pay."

Happy Go Lucky and Winona Clubs
Entertained by Mesdames Rough and Crotser

At the spacious home of Mrs. Harvey Rough, on Wednesday evening, there were gathered the ladies who compose the Happy Go Lucky and the Winona Clubs and a few guests to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Rough and Mrs. Crotser.

The evening was spent in playing Military euche, the forts being designated by small vases filled with shot supporting a flag.

The color scheme of green was carried out in every detail where it could add attractiveness. The score cards were dainty green silk shamrock leaves mounted on card board, the face being stamped in gold letters with the company and the fort, the other side having a few lines on friendship written on them.

The chandeliers were decorated with green and the young ladies who served the refreshments, Misses Bunker and Peck, wore tiny green aprons and caps.

The first prizes were pretty china sugar bowls and cream pitchers, decorated with shamrock and were won by Mrs. Herb. Roe, Mrs. Rose Howard and Miss Carrie Shafer.

A delicious lunch was served in four courses and all enjoyed a delightful time.

"The White Glory."

"The White Glory," by Keene Abbott, in the March McClure's is one of those little stories of Western farm life, full of unforced pathos and simple dignity which always seem naturally to find their way into McClure's. The old country doctor, whose last visit to his dying friend makes the simple story, is of the type which cannot be too often repeated in fiction any more than in real life; and, if the tale is sad, it is of that kind from which one takes only comfort away—in McClure's for March.

The story of Mr. George B. Cortelou's rapid rise from the position of stenographer in the government service to the secretaryship of the new Department of Commerce and Labor is told in the Reviews of Reviews for March by Mr. Henry B. F. Macfarland. Mr. Cortelou, at forty is one of the youngest men who ever took a cabinet seat. He has served as confidential secretary to three Presidents.

WHAT THIS MAN SAYS.

Only Re-echoes the Sentiments of Thousands in our Republic.

The Buchanan reader is asked to thoroughly investigate the following: This can readily be done as the gentleman whose statement is published below will only be too pleased to give minutest particulars to anyone enquiring, not out of idle curiosity, but if the enquirer really suffers from any of the consequences which always attend weakened or inactive kidneys. Read carefully what Mr. W. F. Summerville, proprietor of one of the largest butcher shops in Benton Harbor, residence at 112 Clay St., has to say: "I am very glad Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I will always do all I can for them because I know their value from personal experience. I was annoyed with a dull pain in the small of my back at times quite severe and it bothered me for several months. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended for such troubles and procured a box at once from Harry L. Bird's drug store. They relieved me right away and I soon felt as well as ever. I highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others troubled as I was."

Just such emphatic endorsements are plentiful in Buchanan. Call at N. N. Brodrick's drug store and ask him what his customers report.

BRYAN DENIES THE STORY

Never Said That He Would Bolt if the Gold Democrats Control the 1904 Convention.

Pittsburg, March 5.—William J. Bryan, in an interview, denied that he will lead a revolt from the Democratic party in case the gold Democrats capture the national convention, as was reported yesterday from New York. It was said he would bolt the convention and lead an independent movement.

Bryan said that he had not made any such statement, but that the contemplated action was improbable, and he did not discuss improbabilities. "Never will you find the gold Democrats capturing any Democratic convention of national importance; the very idea of it is absurd."

FRIENDS OF TANGLEFOOT

Develop in Unexpected Numbers in a State That Was Recently Prohibited.

White River Junction, Pt., March 5.—More Vermont cities and towns have voted at their annual elections in favor of selling liquor under the local option law than favored the change from prohibition to high license, while in the communities still opposed to the traffic the majorities have been reduced decidedly.

Of the 246 cities and towns in Vermont which voted on the license question, all but twelve reported, indicating that eighty-seven, including all the six cities, went for high license, and 147 clung to prohibition.

The Murphy Murder Case

[Original.]

"Well," said the superintendent, "did you catch him?"

"No. We went to his house, and he wasn't there. Then we followed him down the valley, for if he had gone up it would have led him back to the mines. Meanwhile we had posted men on the hilltops on either side and know that he didn't get out that way."

"H'm! Keep up your efforts to find him. Search every bit of territory where he may possibly be."

Tom Murphy had been murdered down in the mine in a pocket where he had been alone with Jim Dugan. Dugan had succeeded in getting out, passing men who had not yet heard of the murder. It was this knowledge of the time of his exit that enabled his pursuers to know of the possibility of his movements.

Dugan was not found, and after several days' search it was believed that he had got out of the valley. His wife declared that she knew no more of his whereabouts than those who were hunting him. The matter was left with the police and all effort abandoned.

A month after the Murphy murder, as a gang of men were quitting work, Hans Schmitt remained behind, and, going to a heap of coal near by, he began to turn over loose pieces with his pick. As soon as his companions had gone up in the cage he suddenly stopped, listened and, hearing the sound of a single pick, went toward the worker. Presently, putting out his light, Schmitt moved more stealthily, pausing now and again to listen, starting at some sound in a distant part of the mine and, when assured that there was no one near, moving on again. At last, coming near the place, a sort of pocket, where a man was working alone, Schmitt stole up behind him, raised his pick and was about to bring it down on the skull of the victim when suddenly a hand grasped the pick from behind. At the same moment a voice cried:

"Jacob!" The workman turned, the light in his hat revealing Hans Schmitt standing with his upraised pick. A moment later the man behind, moving from the shadow cast by the would be murderer, was also recognized.

"Carl Foegel!" exclaimed the workman. "What does this mean?"

"That had I not been on the watch and saved you you would have been murdered."

Schmitt, loosening his hold on his pick, made a move to get away, but Foegel caught him around the waist, and Jacob Schuster pinioned his arms. In this condition they dragged him to the foot of the cage and gave the signal for it to ascend. In ten minutes more they had their captive between them in the office of the superintendent.

"Had it not been for Foegel," said Schuster, "this man, Hans Schmitt, would have murdered me. I was doing some extra work alone. Schmitt crept up behind me and raised his pick to strike when Foegel held it."

"How did you happen to be there?" asked the superintendent of Foegel. "Before I tell my story," said Foegel, "I would like to have Schmitt's room searched."

The superintendent ordered the search made, and in a few minutes the searchers returned with some money and a watch that had belonged to the murdered Murphy.

"How is this?" said the superintendent, surprised. "This man was not suspected of killing Murphy. Jim Dugan did that job and proved that he had done it by running away."

"Shall I tell my story?" said Foegel. "Yes; proceed."

"On the evening of Murphy's murder I was working with my gang when I felt thirsty, and, going for some water, I saw a man ahead of me, skulking along as though bent on some villainy. I kept back, following him to where Murphy was working, and saw him raise his pick and strike Murphy. For a moment I was paralyzed and gave him time to rob the body. I then rushed forward, but not before the murderer had gone. I lifted Murphy up and saw that he was dead. It then occurred to me that if found there with the body I would be suspected of the murder, especially as I could not identify the real murderer, so I got out. As I was leaving I was seen by a man who was passing the place."

The superintendent looked dazed. "My good man," he said, "how long since you began to work here?"

"Since the day after the murder."

"Take him away," said the superintendent. "He's gone daft."

"One moment," continued Foegel. "I have been watching many men, including Hans Schmitt, and today when the men quit work and he did not go with them I believed he was bent on mischief. I strayed behind, followed him and this time prevented a murder."

"But the Murphy case?"

"After Murphy was murdered I went to my home, shaved off my red beard, changed my hair to black with some hair dye belonging to my wife and put on old clothes that I hadn't worn for a year. I then came to you and engaged to work under the assumed name of Carl Foegel."

"You are—"

"Jim Dugan."

"Well, upon my word!" exclaimed the astonished superintendent. "Why did you run away?"

"To prevent being hanged for a murder I did not commit. I returned to the mine to discover the murderer, and there he is."

There was rejoicing that night at the cabin of Jim Dugan when he returned to his wife and children vindicated by his own wit and daring.

SARAH EARL TWEED.

POINTS OF FEEDING.

Ralph E. Woods of Gibson, Neb., in a paper read at the Nebraska Dairymen's association upon "The Value of Alfalfa to the Dairyman," says:

"Quite naturally the dairymen want the best and cheapest feed for the cows, and the value of alfalfa to the dairymen cannot be too highly estimated. Alfalfa is and will be the greatest aid to the dairymen of any crop that can be grown. Alfalfa, whether green or dry, is one of the greatest known forage crops to produce a great flow of rich, high testing milk. H. D. Watson has 2,500 acres of alfalfa near his dairy barn in Buffalo county. There are 29,080 acres of alfalfa in Buffalo county today.

"As alfalfa roots go down to water or moisture the established crop is good for at least ten years without re-seeding. I wish to illustrate the alfalfa as a dairy crop. A good cow can be well pastured on a single acre of alfalfa during the summer months, and, reserving the product for another acre, we cut from three to five tons of the very finest hay, which will keep a cow through the winter in the very best condition.

"Sugar beets are also a great aid in the dairy business, and a field of sugar beets should be grown by every dairymen. Eighteen tons of beets and five tons of tops can be grown on a single acre in Buffalo county. Cows will leave almost all other feed to partake of sugar beet tops, which will increase the flow of milk very materially, and with alfalfa we have two of the greatest aids in the feed line to the dairymen. Sugar beet pulp is valuable when it can be obtained. A ton of beets is worth about $3 on the ground, and I believe that every cow should be allowed at least one ton of sugar beets during the winter months."

Study Food Compositions.

The aim of the dairymen should be to get the different farm crops converted into butter in the most economical manner possible, for a dairy cow is simply a machine for converting these substances into milk. In order, then, to know how to feed a dairy cow economically it is necessary to have a general idea of the composition of foods, says Dairy and Creamery, because cows require not only a sufficient quantity of food, but what is called a properly balanced ration as well—that is, one in which the albuminoids, or flesh formers, bear a proper proportion to the carbohydrates, or fat and heat producers. In the case of dairy cows these should be in the ratio of as one of the former is to about five of the latter. It has been demonstrated by repeated experiments that food containing these constituents in this proportion produces better results than any other.

Grain For a Dairy Cow.

A correspondent asks Breeder's Gazette to "give a ration for a dairy cow, bran costing $10, shorts $24, per ton and corn 50 cents per bushel. We have plenty of shredded corn stover and timothy and clover hay mixed."

Shorts are a good deal dearer than bran at the prices named. Probably our correspondent means middlings which are much superior to real shorts. In any event, use corn and bran, as they are the cheaper feeds. Feed five pounds each of bran and corn to each cow giving a full flow of milk and then give all of the corn stover and hay the animals will eat for roughage. The grain may be given in the dry form provided the animals are watered once or twice a day, having opportunity to get all they care to drink.

Care of the Calves.

When the season comes for turning the calves into the fields, see that they have plenty of food, water and shade, the last being scarcely less important than the other two, and try to have them making a little growth every day; but, if intended for dairy animals or for breeding purposes, do not let them get too fat.

After they begin to eat hay or grass they will not reject the milk if it is a little sour, nor is it as necessary to have it always warm, but it will be better to add a little wheat bran to it. Do not try to make sour milk take the place of water, as on a hot day they will relish fresh cold water as well as old cows do and will drink it freely.—American Cultivator.

Carrots and Turnips.

Carrots in reasonable amounts are excellent feed for milk cows and have no tendency whatever to dry them off. Frozen cabbage leaves are not fit food for cows or any other animals, but they will have no tendency to produce blindness. A great many people feed turnips and think them excellent for cows. They have a tendency to taint the milk, especially if fed just before or at milking time. If fed immediately after milking, this tendency is reduced to its minimum. The fresh tops of turnips and beets make a very good relish for cows, but afford very little nutriment. They should be fed sparingly and after cows have partially appeased their appetite and not just before milking.

Cut Your Cane Fodder.

It is wanton waste to throw fodder corn in the whole stalk before cows, especially if the canes are spread about the fields. The cattle will destroy with their hoofs at least half of the fodder so fed. It will always pay to cut the canes up and feed them from the manger.

Timothy Hay to Produce Milk.

Timothy hay is given a somewhat higher feeding value than corn fodder, but practical farmers claim to find little difference in the results which are obtained from them.

AN EDUCATIONAL MISTAKE OF THE TIME

By President ARTHUR T. HADLEY of Yale University

HERE IS IN THESE DAYS A TENDENCY TO EXALT PHILOSOPHICAL INVESTIGATION AT THE EXPENSE OF TEACHING. Far be it from me to say one word which might seem to depreciate the value of research.

It is a thing of great importance to the community and those who are engaged therein often show themselves better teachers on that account. But we make a mistake if we fix our eyes too exclusively on research at the expense of teaching and estimate the value of a university solely on the former basis.

IT MAY BE TRUE THAT ONE REAL JURIST IS WORTH A HUNDRED ORDINARY LAWYERS, THAT ONE MEDICAL DISCOVERER DOES MORE GOOD THAN A THOUSAND PHYSICIANS, THAT ONE PROPHET IS WORTH 10,000 PREACHERS OF THE CONVENTIONAL TYPE. NEVERTHELESS THE INSTITUTION WHICH TRIES ONLY TO MAKE JURISTS OR DISCOVERERS OR PROPHETS WILL FAIL OF GIVING THE COUNTRY THE LAWYERS AND DOCTORS AND MINISTERS WHICH IT WANTS.

NATURE ABHORS EQUALITY

By Professor ISAAC FRANKLIN RUSSELL of the New York University Law School.

EQUALITY CAN NEVER BE SECURED BY HUMAN LAW. NATURE ABHORS EQUALITY IN THE STARS OF THE HEAVENS, THE SANDS OF THE SEASHORE AND THE LEAVES OF THE FOREST.

Even in court the rich man with his learned counsel and his expert witnesses, with his debtors and pensioners in the jury box, on the witness stand or even on the judicial bench, is more than a match for his opponent who is a man of poverty in simple ignorance pleading his own cause.

The manhood wage involves the same erroneous assumption. This means, in substance, that a laboring man, a man of family, representing, as nearly as may be, the unit of toil, is entitled to a recompense which will provide a good living for himself and his dependents. Conditions of competition in production are to be ignored, and the needs of the toiler alone are to be considered.

EQUAL WAGES FOR UNEQUAL SERVICES IS A GROSS OFFENSE AGAINST THE DICTATES OF EQUALITY AND JUSTICE.

Right Trusses

There should be no guess-work about trusses. They have an important mission. They must do what they should or they are worse than none. Many are sacrificing comfort and safety by wearing ill fitting trusses. Others who might be cured by a rightly fitting truss are using none. Those we carry are, we believe, the right ones. Can be fitted perfectly and exert a steady, even pressure. Wear well and can't easily get out of order.

SEVEN MEN ARE LOST DISCORD TO THE LAST

Went Out to Their Doom on the Ice That Broke Away from the Shore.

WINTER BUG GIVES A BAD BITE

Boy Who Has Nerve and Gets It from the Bible, Apparently—Michigan Miscellaneous News.

Menominee, Mich., March 5. — All hope for the recovery of the seven fishermen who were lost on a detached field of ice last Sunday has now practically been abandoned. The ice field has broken up, and there has been plenty of time for all who reached the shore to communicate with their friends. The seven who are missing are: Ole Betson, Ruby Peterson, John Williams, John Wachter and son, Geo. Boyd and Julius Boghardt.

Students Dragged Him Out.
Ann Arbor, Mich., March 5. — Fire broke out in the house at the corner of Church street and South University avenue. W. B. Smith occupied the premises and his life was saved by students, who dragged him out semi-conscious. The damage to the house and contents was not large.

Effect of the Bite of a Bug.
Kalamazoo, Mich., March 5.—Oscar Newasaky, a prosperous farmer living east of Mendon, was bitten on the cheek by a bug two and a half inches long, with a head an inch in diameter and a proboscis like a mosquito's and ever since he has been semi-conscious and his neck and shoulders have been swelling, despite the ministrations of four physicians. It is feared that he cannot recover. The bug is found in marshy places, and is called the winter bug.

Thrown from a Horse and Killed.
Nashville, Mich., March 5.—A young son of John Hicker was thrown from a horse. His neck was broken and he died instantly.

Crushed by a Piston.
Jackson, Mich., March 5.—Frederick Jewell, 22 years old, was caught by a piston in the Bennett sewer pipe factory and crushed to death. He was married and had one child.

BOY WHO HAS GREAT NERVE
Seems to Get His Inspiration to Stand Firm from the Bible—His Terrible Wounds.

Mendon, Mich., March 5.—Walter Shook, 17 years old, injured by the breaking of a buzz saw, and who is suffering from a gash three-eighths of an inch wide, more than six inches long and extending from one to one and a half inches into his brain, insists on holding the stub of his right arm, which was cut off by pieces of the saw, and watching the dressing of the wound.

He rarely speaks, but after a dressing of his wound he called for his Bible, read a chapter, and then turned over and peacefully slept for two hours. On awaking he complained that his diet was too limited. There are good chances for his recovery.

Confesses That He Is a Murderer.
Detroit, March 5.—Edward Knapman, the Chicago boy, has made a statement to the police that he shot Agnes Mooney two weeks ago, while he was under the influence of liquor, and then tried to kill himself. Knapman shot himself through the breast, but the wound is healing rapidly, and a charge of murder will be lodged against him if he recovers. Knapman at first blamed the girl for the shooting.

A Question To Be Considered.
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 5.—One of the questions to be considered in connection with the next senatorial campaign is whether William Alden Smith will accept another congressional nomination. In case he should accept and then be elected senator, he would have to resign his seat as representative, and thus cause trouble and expense.

Burrows To Be at the Banquet.
Detroit, March 5.—The senior senator from Michigan has decided to attend the Michigan club banquet, and has wired his determination to Secretary John W. Perkins. Senator Burrows reached this conclusion Monday, and made his acceptance unconditionally.

Marks the Close of the House of the Fifty-Seventh Congress.

DEMOCRATS SORE AT HENDERSON

Refuse to Offer the Usual Resolution and Want a Record Vote.

Not Enough, However, to Demand It—Mason Emulates Carter in the Senate—All the Supply Bills Pass.

Washington, March 5.—The Fifty-seventh congress expired at noon yesterday by limitation, with all the supply bills passed. In many respects the closing scenes were similar to those at the end of every congress. But there has not been in many years such a demonstration in the house as occurred yesterday owing to the fact that Speaker Henderson was retiring not only as presiding officer, but from the house as a member. The bitter partisan feeling that has sprung up in the house during the past week reached a pitch which prevented the speaker from receiving the unanimous approval of the house in the usual resolution of thanks and courtesy. More than this, the resolution had to come from the Republican side, and while this has occurred before it is not the usual custom.

Could Not Get a Record Vote.
It fell to Payne, the Republican floor leader, to offer the resolution, and he said he did it with pride, noting at the same time that it was not by any means unprecedented, citing the cases of Clay, Polk, Banks, and Reed. When the previous question was demanded, Cochrane of Missouri demanded the ayes and nays, but the demand was not seconded by the necessary number, there not being more than a score of Democrats seconding and it requiring forty-two. When a record vote was demanded on the adoption of the resolution only seventeen Democrats joined Cochrane in the demand, and the resolution was adopted amid loud applause.

HON. DAVID B. HENDERSON.

Mason the Feature in the Senate.
The usual resolution of thanks to President Pro Tem. Frye was unanimously adopted in the senate. Two years ago when the Fifty-sixth congress expired it was remarkable for the fact that Senator Carter, of Montana, talked the river and harbor bill to death, which occupied the time of the senate up to within a few minutes of the end. Yesterday Senator Mason, whose term expired at noon, also talked an unimportant bill to death, but in his valedictory he lectured the senate for its unlimited debate which allows bills to be killed in that manner, and he also made a final plea for the freedom of the Philippines.

CHEERS FOR THE COMING SPEAKER

Henderson's Farewell Speech—President's Letter to the Iowa Statesmen.

When in the house everything was ready for adjournment Speaker Henderson left the chair and called on Cannon of Illinois to preside. When the grim old Prairie State representative was seen on the speaker's platform there was enthusiastic applause for the man who seems destined to handle the gavel in the Fifty-eighth congress. After the preliminaries had been attended to and the last words only were needed to bring to a close the Fifty-seventh congress Henderson resumed his seat and after the applause had subsided rose and made his final speech to congress. It was friendly and patriotic, and closed as follows:

"I am not going to give counsel to this body further than to say that there is nothing more precious than this government for us to fight for. Preserve that if you love your life. It is more valuable than anything that can be named. Go on with the rough and tumble battles of legislation, but keep your eye on that flag which God asks us to die for. Applause."
"When I took this chair I asked the support of this house to aid me in performing the duties of this high office which you conferred upon me. That gavel in my hand has never been defied by either side of this chamber. It is a pleasure to say that. It always has secured obedience, recognition, when order was demanded.

Knowing how excited we are at times that is a pleasant recollection to me.

"Now, gentlemen, if I know my feelings toward this body of men I know that I shall carry with me through life the image of this hour with its general approval and treatment of me this morning. I shall carry every one of your faces in my memory, and I shall never cease to feel an interest in this great body which stands so near to the happiness of my countrymen. And now I bid you good-bye." [Prolonged applause, every member rising in his place.]

After his speech, speaker no longer, Henderson descended from the rostrum and, standing at the door as the members filed by, each received from him some pleasant word and a cordial shake of the hand. A dozen Republican members gathered on the marble steps behind him and started the song, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and later, "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again." Before all the members had passed the visitors from the galleries began surging onto the floor, also eager to grasp his hand. For over half an hour the reception was continued, and finally broke up with the singing of the Doxology. Many ladies thrust their bouquets of flowers into his hands.

In the senate President Frye's response to the complimentary resolution was:

"Senators:—I appreciate highly this expression of your confidence. I can only hope that as your presiding officer I may have merited it. May God's benediction be with you all. Your presiding officer now declares the senate adjourned sine die."

President Roosevelt yesterday afternoon sent a letter to Henderson, which says:

"My Dear Mr. Speaker:—As I did not see you today at the Capitol I wish to write you a line to congratulate you on the work accomplished by the congress which has just closed. There were certain measures of importance the failure to act upon which I greatly regretted, but it is nevertheless true that taken as a whole no other congress of recent years has to its credit a record of more substantial achievement for the public good than this, over the lower branch of which you presided. I congratulate you and it; and I wish you well wherever your future may lead you."

WHAT THE CONGRESS HAS DONE
House Calendar Clearer Than Ever Before—Important Enactments.

Washington, March 5.—The number of bills introduced during the Fifty-seventh congress aggregated 17,500, of which 3,918 were reported and more than 2,000 passed. The house calendar was clearer at the close of the congress than it ever had been before, only seventy-eight bills remaining undisposed of.

Important enactments were quite numerous in the recent session, which established a department of commerce and labor with a "corporation publicity" bureau, authorized the construction of the Panama canal, passed the Elkins anti-rebate act, provided for expediting suits under the anti-trust law, sanctioned a general staff corps for the army, passed the militia reorganization bill, enacted a law to protect the president from assassination, suspended the tariff on coal, amended the bankruptcy act, established a currency system for the Philippines, provided for the redemption of Hawaiian silver money, repealed the war taxes, provided a civil government for our eastern possessions and established consular and diplomatic relations with Cuba.

These important measures failed of passing: The ship subsidy measure, the statehood bill, the Aldrich financial measure and the Philippines tariff bill.

Mason Gets a Present.
Washington, March 5.—Just after congress had adjourned yesterday the members of Senator Mason's committee—that on postoffices—met him in his committee room and presented him a handsome silver tea service. Mrs. Mason was present at the presentation.

Burdick Murder Mystery.
Buffalo, N. Y., March 5.—Assistant Superintendent of Police Cusack positively denies that, so far as he was concerned, evidence and circumstances strongly point to some one person beyond all others as the one who murdered E. T. Burdick. "If I were even morally certain who committed the crime there would have been an arrest before this," said Cusack.

Railways in a Quandary.
Chicago, March 5.—Western railway managements are in a quandary regarding what action to take with reference to annual passes which were issued and sent to shippers before the passage of the Elkins law, which prohibits such passes.
