EIGHTH GRADE SCHOLARS

Interesting Exercises By Pupils Prepared to Enter High School.

Last Friday morning, in the high school building the eighth grade pupils had very interesting graduating exercises. The room was prettily decorated with the class colors, purple and orange; a booth having been constructed for those taking part in the program.

One of the most enjoyable features was the class choruses, which were rendered in a most satisfactory manner. The class history, reproduced below was given by Fred Roe.

Fourteen pupils were presented with diplomas by Supt. Mercer, the honors being equally divided between boys and girls.

CLASS HISTORY

Going back over memory's pages to the fall of 1895, a flock of "little tots" as our mothers then called us, when the school bell rang on the morning of the 2nd of September, wended our way to a small two storied school house of brick, called the 2nd street school. Many of us were accompanied by those same mothers.

We were met at the door by Miss Beardsley, who gave us each a smile of welcome, and started us on the road to knowledge. Looking over the roll of pupils who began school that year, we find four whose names appear in the class roll of 1903 in the eighth grade.

At the close of the school year we received our promotion cards and bade farewell to Miss Beardsley.

How proud we were when we went up stairs, into Miss Williams' room. At the beginning of the third year we were promoted to the high school building and we felt that we were almost men and women. Miss Simmons was our first teacher there. From the third grade we went to the fourth where Miss Lindsley taught. Now our road to knowledge seemed long and steep because we had two flights of stairs to climb.

Miss Holiday was our teacher in the fifth grade. It was here many new members joined our class, some of these who are still with us are Archie Ravin, Harleigh Riley, Robert and Bessie Davis, Edna Troutfetter.

Miss Page had charge of the sixth grade and it was here we began the real battle with the knotty problems of arithmetic.

At the close of the 6th year Miss Page handed us over to Miss Pearson and a troublesome lot I am afraid she found us. We enjoyed our work here and one of the incidents that will not be forgotten, was a drawing from life of a guinea pig. There our journey continued until in the fall of "nauty two" we entered the much dreaded eighth grade with the addition of Lille Proud to our class.

We were joined in the eighth grade by Zella Stanton, Lizzie Lano, Dorothea Currier and Bertha Houswerth. The eighth grade work was like any other year's work because we had advanced gradually and with the guidance and help of Mrs. Friday who has been ever ready to give us wise council and cheerful assistance, have finished the work laid out for us. And as we look back over the year many pleasant experiences are recalled—the unpleasant ones we like to forget.

Band Concert Wednesday Evening.

The Buchanan Cornet Band will treat the people of the village and vicinity with sweet music on Wednesday evening. After a day's work one will find it quite refreshing to listen to the boys for an hour, as they play the restful and inspiring pieces all like so well.

People of the rural districts will make no mistake in coming to town Wednesday evening, for the boys will give every one a treat.

UNIQUE POSITION

George French Creates a Place For Himself in Busy Chicago.

One year ago in the class of 1902 graduating from the high school, was a young man who was endowed with considerable ability in drawing.

The Record has published a number of cartoons drawn by him.

Realizing the necessity of additional instructions in his line of work, he went to Chicago and secured work so that he could attend an art school that would better fit him for his chosen work.

He kept his eyes and ears open as he walked along the streets of the great city for some opportunity to further his work. The Washington Shirt Co. conduct three large stores and he saw that they used a large number of show cards in their windows. One day he stepped into one of the stores and asked them to buy a poster that he had made, they refused the poster but asked him if he would accept permanent employment. He said he was in school but would consider a good position. He was asked to make up some sample of window cards and bring them in.

In about a month when it was near the time for the school term to close he took to them two or three cards of his own design which were accepted. Among the presents given him at the time of his graduating was a book by Marsden, publisher of Success, entitled "Pushing to the Front," which made considerable impression upon him, and he determined that he could do what others had done and he resolved to "push to the front." He soon secured a position with the Washington Shirt Co.

Thus George French made an entirely new position, the firm furnishing a room for him and equipping him with the material needed for his work. We predict for him a great success as he is not one who waits for a position but makes one for himself.

Mr. French is very modest, makes no display and the Record is very happy to secure a very good photo of him, which we reproduce here, and what we say has come to us as we have watched him and we are only too glad to say a good word for him or any other Buchanan boy who is "pushing to the front."

B. O. B. Closing.

The closing meeting of the B. O. B.'s was held at the home of Miss Margaret Devin, Friday evening, June 12. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dora Hershenow; vice president, Edna Kean; secretary, Margaret Devin; treasurer, Ruth East.

During the evening a German supper was served, games were played and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The club departed at a late hour voting Miss Devin a charming hostess.

A News Service Without Parallel.

There is ample justification for the claim made by The Chicago Record-Herald that its readers enjoy every day in the week, Sundays included, a news service that is without parallel in range and completeness. In addition to the independent news facilities of The Record-Herald, that paper receives the complete news service of the New York Herald and the Associated Press, and when it is considered that its news columns are supplemented by all the special features so popular with its thousands of readers, it will be seen that The Record-Herald holds a unique place among the great newspapers of the United States.

JUNE WEDDING.

Sarah Miller Becomes the Bride of Walter Best.

The marriage of two of Buchanan's popular young people, Miss Sarah E. Miller and Mr. W. S. Best, occurred at the home of the bride, Sunday at 2 p. m.

The wedding was very sacred and quiet, only a few of the immediate relatives being present. Rev. W. J. Douglass, who delivered the nuptial address to the class of '02, of which both the bride and groom were members, performed the plain but impressive ceremony. The bride and groom stood beneath a festoon of ferns and flowers.

Miss Deering most beautifully played the wedding march and during congratulations aptly rendered suitable music.

The charming bride was becomingly dressed in her pretty white graduating gown and carried a bouquet of cream carnations. The groom was attired also in his graduating suit of conventional black. After congratulations the guests repaired for dinner to the table which was tastefully decorated with carnations and smilax. The guests departing left many useful and appropriate gifts to the bride.

The following were the guests present: Mrs. M. A. Nutt, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, Mrs. Ellen Haslett, Mrs. A. E. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bartlett of Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith and Mrs. Geo. D. Baker, of Chicago; Mrs. Addie Chamberlain, Mr. Frank L. Miller and Miss Rose Bennett, all of South Bend.

Mrs. Best during the past year has been a successful teacher of this county and recently has organized a music class of several pupils, which she will continue during the summer. Mr. Best has completed his freshman and part of his sophomore year at Albion college, he will solicit during the summer and also will do missionary campaign work among the Epworth Leagues of the county. Mr. and Mrs. Best will be at home in Albion after Sept. 15, where he will continue his literary course and she will assume work in the conservatory of music. They will both be missed in religious and social circles.

TERMS $1.25 PER YEAR

TUESDAY, JUNE 16, 1903.

A subscriber in the state of New York says: "Yours received to-day, I hasten to remit for the RECORD at once. We prize it very very much and could not keep house without it."

Does Advertising Pay?

In a communication from Mrs. Jay Godfrey today she says, "I meant to have told you about the splendid result of our advertisement. It appeared in your paper only three times and yet by means of it we sold everything we had to sell at private sale in the house."

Another example: A party from Benton Harbor inserted a small ad last week. We sent a paper containing the ad and had a reply from them in regard to two other ads in the same paper.

Where we can trace the effect we find nine out of ten of our ads bring results. Do you advertise? You may never know what you lose if you do not, but loose you do.

The Daily Post.

Monday, June 15, in Benton Harbor there was launched into the harbor of Journalism, a new bark under the command of E. B. Harkrider.

"The Daily Post" has the honor of being the only daily in the county flying the democratic flag, and we believe that the opposition will be presented in the right spirit and followed by fairness.

We extend you a cordial welcome brother Harkrider and believe that if the field is large enough to support another daily, you will make it a success.

Words of Appreciation

It does, to a degree at least, repay a person for hard and faithful work done, once in a while to have a word of appreciation spoken to them by the person or persons for whom the work has been done. Has your wife toiled faithfully at her home duties from the beginning of the work to its end, that you might have many comforts to enjoy, never to have one word of appreciation from you? and it may be fault found because everything is not to your liking. Has your son and daughter done that to which you directed them, and perhaps for them it seemed hard, only to have you see none of the well done but only to see and complain of that which was not done according to your standard? Has your husband labored hard to furnish you and your home with those things within his means only to find you dissatisfied and comparing your home with of our neighbors? Do you employ help? Have you ever taken the advantage of some faithful performance of duty to speak a word of appreciation? Oh how much we all enjoy a word of appreciation especially when we feel that we have made a greater effort than usual, but how slow we are to speak a word to others. Some of us make the excuse that we are not so constituted, then let us pray that our constitutions may be so wrought upon what they may be changed. Ever ready to speak kindly of and encouragingly to all, and harsh and evil of none.

FALSE IMPRESSIONS

What would be your opinion of an individual who would announce, or allow to be announced, quite frequently that he was going to do certain important thing, but as the time passed none of these were performed, but instead an announcement of a new thing that was going to be done? It would be needless for us to state what any one would think of such an individual.

What applies to the individual applies equally well to the community. Yes, it advertises but, is it favorable? In Tuesday's RECORD we reproduced one of the kind that can be read in almost any papers from Chicago to Detroit and from South Bend to St. Joseph. Do you wonder why Buchanan does not get any factories? The writers of the articles do not have any interest in having factories come to Buchanan, in fact we believe we would not be much out of the way in saying some do not want anything to come here, but they must write something about Buchanan.

If you are interested in Buchanan, and certainly we believe you are, do all you can to stop the sending out of articles that have not even a shadow of truth but which are tending to make our neighbor think we are either a lot of wind bags or miserable business failures.

DEATH OF MRS. MORTON.

A recent number of the Bellevue, Michigan, Gazette, contains the following:

Addie Belle Morton was born in Buchanan, Mich., August 6, 1868 and passed to the higher life May 14, 1903 at her home in Bellevue, aged 34 years, nine months and 7 days.

Her childhood was spent at Augusta and Mendon. At the age of 16 she was converted and became a member of the Methodist church at Mendon, and later was transferred to the Methodist church at Colton.

About 10 years ago she moved with her parents to Bellevue since which period this has been her home. She was a young woman of amiable and lovable disposition and it was always her especial delight to perform some act of kindness that lightened the burden and lifted the care from the shoulders of those unfortunate.

F. M. Ward

For four years Mr. Ward filled the position of Station agent on the M. B. H. & C. R. R. and by his faithful and courteous performance of his duties has endeared himself to all the people, who are sorry that the Pere Marquette could not see their way to retain him; if they had been willing to make the same concessions as they have been compelled to make since Mr. Ward's departure he would have remained. He is now in the employ of the Wheeling and Lake Erie at Clarksfield, O. his wife with her mother Mrs. M. L. Oswald have for the present returned to Hartford Mich. Mrs. Oswald's home.

LATEST FASHION NOTES

EVENING COSTUME OF LIBERTY SILK.

A charming evening costume is constructed of Liberty silk. The bodice is supplied with both finish and style by a dainty corsage device of satin ribbon roses; while the further decoration of a graceful bertha of Luxenl lace inset with pink lace medallions lends itself admirably to the graceful stuff of which this gown is made. The accordion plaited skirt is decorated with bands of the lace in a pointed effect, with a medallion appearing at each point. Gowns of this character are especially suited to take added beauty from hand embroidery or by using some of the many pretty lace stitches for the medallions. For this choose a hard-twisted silk like Corticelli crochet or E E twisted embroidery silk.

Among the larger hats for sunny weather is shown a shady garden hat of Tuscan straw, with a green velvet wreath on the back of its crown, and a large wreath of pink crush roses resting on the hair in front under the brim—a charming combination having both beauty and chic to commend it.

Children's Day.

It is always with pleasure that the Sunday school pupils approach Children's Day, and this year, the exercises held by the Methodists in their church last Sunday morning were of a nature to entertain the large audience gathered to hear them. Especially attractive was the music of the primary pupils. In the evening, the Evangelical Sunday school scholars gave their well-prepared program to an audience that was too large to be held by the building, but lawn and sidewalk attested the interest in the day. The decorations were especially attractive and elaborate.

Of Interest to Women.

It is doubtful if any other paper in the United States caters so successfully to the varied interests of the home as does The Chicago Record-Herald. There is a fashion article in every issue; a department devoted to interesting items of unending variety concerning matters in which women have special interest. Mme Qui Vive's "Woman Beautiful" column, in which questions concerning the toilet, etc., etc., are answered and useful hints are given. "Meals for a day," including menus and recipes for the three meals every day; an installment of a high-grade serial story, and in addition the "Stories of the Day" column on the editorial page, S. E. Kiser's humorous "Alternating Currents," the boys' and girls' page and Dr. Withrow's article on the Sunday school lesson in the Friday issues; also entertaining and valuable book reviews, and in the Sunday issues numerous special fashion, household and other articles, all very interesting to the sex, including the best full page of fashions appearing in any newspaper. "How to be Healthy and Beautiful," by Mrs. Henry Symes, "A page for the Home Dressmaker" and two full pages beautifully colored, reproducing the latest fashions.

Serious Accident.

John Shearer, living a short distance east of the village, had a narrow escape with his life last Saturday. He attempted to throw a good sized porker over a fence. Mr. Rooter decided not to be thrown and ran toward the team of very docile horses, Mr. Shearer left standing when he undertook the throwing business. He held on to the swine which ran between the hind legs of one of the horses, which was supposed not to kick under any circumstances, but this business was a little too much for the best natured horse and he struck out with both hind feet, newly shod; and struck Mr. Shearer fairly on the top of the head throwing him a couple of rods and cutting open his head quite badly, so that Dr. Henderson was compelled to take a number of stitches. Only his being so close to the horse saved his life, a foot or two more he would have had his skull crushed. As it is he was merely shod.

PIONEER PICNIC.

A Large Number From Buchanan Were Present.

The weather man for some reason thought more kindly of the Pioneers than usual and there was no rain but it was a trifle cooler than desirable for a picnic.

President, Hon. Thos. Mars, being feeble from recent sickness, delegated to N. Nims the duty of presiding. Mr. Mars opened the program by reciting many incidents of his boyhood days as a pioneer urchin, including trials and privations, that the present day boys and girls have no experience of. Short addresses were made by Rev. Newell, J. H. Perkins, N. Nims, and C. B. Groat. The management was sadly disappointed at the last hour in securing a speaker for a general address. Mr. Nims eulogized the cleverness of the girls and young ladies of the present day, but strenuously denied that they favorably compared with their grandmothers in beauty and attractiveness.

Since last year there were reported about 260 deaths of persons above 60. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, E. K. Warren, Three Oaks; vice presidents, R. D. Dix, Berrien Springs, N. Nims, Berrien Center, M. S. Bedinger, Hinchman; secretary and treasurer, L. B. Marquisee, Berrien Springs; executive committee, Ira R. Stamm, W. H. Miller, J. J. Murphy, Stephen Harner, Reuben Resse; Historian, E. Murphy, Berrien Center.

News from Georgia

Extract from Letter Written by Mrs. H. V. Schreiber to a Buchanan Friend.

Walkinson Cottage,
Summerville, Ga.
June 4, 1903.

Dear Friends,

Possibly you may have heard that we are now located in Georgia, Mr. Schreiber having general oversight of the Electric Street Railway also the charge of the City lights and wires and the work in the four power houses in the city of Augusta. It is of course a position of responsibility, but he is well satisfied.

We are residing in a suburb of Augusta, called Summerville. Augusta claims 60,000 inhabitants and is a popular winter resort for Northern people. It is a beautiful city, and has much wealth.

It seems very strange to see so many colored people, here, but I am glad to say they are becoming more independent, and if they cannot obtain the work and wages they ought to have here, a number of them go north, east and west, where they know they can earn money.

Of course, to be in style, we have a colored cook. She does very well, tho' I think I shall hire a general house girl, and attend to our own cooking after we get into a smaller house, with our own households. We are for the present renting a nicely furnished house, a regular written house. It is very comfortable, inside, and we have such grand views all around. From our porch, we have a fine view of part of S. Carolina. Being situated on a hill, we can see a good deal of the surrounding country.

We shall be so glad when figs are ripe. There are a number of fig trees near us, also peach and plum trees, and where we boarded for eight days, there were fig and pomegranate trees growing in the yard.

There are so many trees, bushes and wild flowers we never saw before. The "sensitive plant" grows wild, very near us, also a cactus, with beautiful yellow flowers, this cactus is called prickly pear, that also grows wild, very near us, and the magnolia trees are so grand, and the palms! It is all so charming. It is the prettiest place we have resided, so far.

I send with this a little souvenir bale of cotton, raised in Georgia. There are nine cotton mills in Augusta

With kindest regards
Mrs. H. V. Schreiber.

COUNTY NOTES.

It seems that men who are fendish enough to kick a woman should be locked up like any other wild animal, before he does, as the fiend Fred Marsh, one mile east of Hartford, did Tuesday evening of this week, kick his wife until her life in danger. he has been arrested.

James P. Hamilton a blind piano tuner, of Battle Creek, well known in Buchanan, has been appointed on the Board of Trustees of Michigan Employment Institution for the Blind.

Ball playing is right and ought to be encouraged but when any man or set of men loose entire sight of the comfort and opinions of others and the law of God, it is time for the home loving people to call a halt. The people of Benton Harbor deserve great credit in their actions in regard to Sunday ball playing and every law abiding citizen will uphold them.

Good results of the grand jury are being seen in St Joseph as well in other parts of the county.

Governor Bliss will no doubt, think twice before signing a bill allowing the Benton Harbor city council power to govern Sunday sports in that city.

Among the men who are likely to be appointed from the legislature to go on the junket through the south, attending the unveiling of the monument erected in honor of those who died in Andersonville prison, is Hon John Lane, of Benton Harbor.

The case of Hattie Nieb for divorce from Michael Nieb, Niles has been settled and the case dismissed from the courts.

Sunday school at 12 m. Every member and all interested in the church are invited to be present at all the services. Come and you will encourage the new minister and it will do you good.

$25 To Colorado And Back.

It has been estimated that between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 persons in the United States take a vacation every summer. They spend between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 yearly in pursuit of pleasure. This is a great deal of money to spend during a vacation, but this season the expenditure per capita may be somewhat less on account of the low railroad rates offered by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

From July 1 to 10 this line will sell tickets to Colorado and return from Chicago for $25. This will enable many to enjoy their summer's outing at slight expense. Colorado summer resorts are cooler than the seashore.

For scenic beauty the Rocky Mountain region is famous the world round. The most attractive spots among these peaks are beautifully pictured and faithfully described in a new book just published by the passenger department of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. It will be sent on receipt of six cents to pay postage.

NEW LAWS ENACTED

Important Measures Which Were Passed by the State Legislature.

INCREASE IN APPROPRIATIONS

List of the Important Bills So Far Approved by the Governor—Six Bills Vetoed.

Although the session of the Forty-second legislature will not come to a final end until the 15th inst., the work of making laws was brought to a close at high noon on Wednesday of last week. The eight days after the cessation of work on the part of the lawmakers has been devoted to the enrollment of bills for presentation to the governor for his approval or disapproval. This year's session was twelve days longer than its predecessor, final adjournment having been reached two years ago on June 6.

One of the most important measures, passed during the session just about to close is a joint resolution providing for the submission to the people of a proposition to call a convention to make a general revision of the constitution. The present constitution was adopted in 1850 and many of its provisions are not in keeping with the changed conditions of the present day.

Increase in Appropriations.
About seventy-five more laws were enacted this year than in 1903. The appropriations of the present legislature will approximate $7,000,000, which is about $450,000 more than was appropriated two years ago. Practically all of this increase is represented in the increased cost of conducting our asylums and prisons due, not to any increased cost per capita, but to the larger number of inmates.

Among the more important bills passed were those providing for the infliction of indeterminate sentences upon convicts and the placing of convicts on probation in certain cases before commitment to prison. The bill increasing the authorized limit of capital for Michigan corporations to $25,000,000 is considered of great importance, and there are others of much interest, as will be seen from an examination of the subjoined list.

Vetoed by the Governor.

Governor Bliss has vetoed six bills. These measures amended the Bay City charter by providing for an assistant street commissioner; provided for the payment by municipalities of premiums on surety bonds required of employees and officials; provided extra compensation for supervisors of Ionia county in certain cases; abolished the office of chief deputy game warden; required the giving to all creditors five days' notice of intention to sell stocks of goods in bulk, and took from the chief executive and placed in the hands of the state board of corrections and charities the power to appoint county agents of such board. Whether any more bills will meet with the disapproval of the governor is problematical. The bills of importance thus far approved by the governor and deposited with the secretary of state are as follows:

Affecting Labor.

Amending law relative to lien for labor and materials; extending provisions of law providing for inspection of workshops; fixing responsibility for making permanent improvements to manufacturing establishments when ordered by factory inspectors; prescribing duties and liabilities of employers and employes arising from offer and acceptance of labor or service for hire at some point away from the home locality; amending act of 1899 for the protection of health, etc., of coal miners; amending law providing for fans and blowers in workshops.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

George Dunder

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

The Century Building, Union Square, New York

A VISIT TO A BIG MAGAZINE'S HOME

NEW YORK'S most interesting sights are not always listed in the city's guide books, nor on the tongue of the New Yorker asked for a list of show places. The visitor to New York who loves pictures finds keener delight in haunting not alone the Metropolitan Museum's galleries, but the scores of picture stores. The friend of books knows no happier hours than those passed before out-of-the-way shelves of attractive volumes. And the "constant reader" of The Century and St. Nicholas, the man or woman who has every number from the first issue, often counts a visit to the home of these magazines one of the privileges of a trip to the great city. And not devoid of interest to those of a younger generation, who can count on their fingers their years of acquaintanceship with the two magazines, are the spacious, light, handsome offices overlooking Union Square, where The Century Co. is always at home to visitors.

Where magazines number their friends and acquaintances by hundreds of thousands, as do The Century and St. Nicholas, these visitors are many in the course of a twelve-month. Turn from busy, bustling, fascinating Broadway at Seventeenth Street, add a few steps take one to the doors of the Century building, which stands at the head of Union Square. From the vestibule a broad staircase of carved and paneled mahogany leads to the floors above, but most visitors choose the elevator, which carries them easily to the doors of the spacious office whose many broad windows look out on the square.

The first impression is of books and pictures and light, an impression that grows pleasantly as one passes through the broad picture-lined hall to the rear offices. Everywhere there are pictures. Everywhere possible there are windows. And there are books wherever practicable—under glass in the reception room some choice editions. The president of the company has his private office at the southeast corner. Two windows look out on Union Square's sunshine or fog by day and its fascinating gleam of electric jewels as the early winter evening comes on. Here hangs the portrait of Timothy Cole by Wyatt Eaton, and one door is beautified by a jeweled glass window, once a gift to Mr. Roswell Smith, the first president of the company. Near the president's office are the offices of the secretary and treasurer of the company, and the floor space of the big main office is well filled with other desks. The business detail of The Century Co.'s work demands many helpers to keep things running smoothly.

There is a handsome fireplace of cherry and oak in the rear of this room. The Indian woodwork, grayish Indian-red walls, and frieze and ceilings of grayish-buff make an artistic background for the dozens of original drawings in black and white or colors, which are the delight of every visitor and worker within the walls. For many of the original drawings, when they have served their purpose for The Century or St. Nicholas, are simply but effectively framed and hung, till all available wall space is filled with the work of such men as Abbey and Pyle and Gibson, Castaigne and Remington and Chase, Christy, Cox, Zogbaum, Hopkinson Smith, Mary Hallock Foote, and scores of other notable artists.

As one turns down the long hall, which leads from this main office through to Eighteenth Street, the first door at the right opens into the reception room, an attractive waiting place with comfortable chairs, more books and more pictures. Then come the St. Nicholas editorial rooms. Here the walls are light Indian-red, with a large engraving of the Sistine Madonna, and fine copies of Sir Joshua Reynolds's Strawberry Girl and Miss Penelope Boothby adorning the wall beside the original drawings.

The walls of the broad, long passageway are covered, almost from floor to ceiling, with more original drawings, including some rich pieces of color work for the Napoleon history in The Century, and Castaigne's striking charcoal sketches for the illustrations of "The Helmet of Navarre." Interesting as these are, the visitor always stops involuntarily at the open doorway which frames the view of The Century's working rooms. Deep red hangings in the broad door-ways give just the right note of color against the olive green woodwork, grayish green walls and grayish buff frieze and ceilings.

The third of the suite, the sanctum sanctorum, is rich in memories of The Century's life. The rooms were originally fitted up for the magazine's first editor, Dr. J. G. Holland, whose sudden death came in 1881, soon after the magazine's removal from less comfortable quarters at Nos. 743-745 Broadway. On chilly days a wood fire snaps cheerily in the colonial fireplace under the relief portrait of Dr. Holland, carved by Miss Allegra Eggleston, daughter of the author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" and "Roxey." A bunch of bitter-sweet, caught on a corner of the mantel, adds a delightful touch of color and sentiment to the room. The carved brackets and ornaments of the fireplace are also Miss Eggleston's work.

A step farther down the hall and another reception-room opens at the right, where every day come many artists, their work with them. Every afternoon is given up by the head of the art department to inspecting and judging these offerings. Beyond this reception-room are the working quarters of the art department, gray and Indian-red the color scheme, and again there are more pictures and more windows. At the very end of the hall heavy curtains shut off the offices where much of the editorial work on the great Century Dictionary was done, and where ceaseless, untiring revision goes on.

As one turns back to the main office, the first door on the right opens into the delightfully light and airy room where all the multitudinous and perplexing details of the subscriptions for both magazines are looked after. The rest of the floor's space, seventy-five feet frontage on Union Square, one hundred and twenty-five feet on Eighteenth Street, and two hundred feet deep, is given up to the packing room, storage of supplies, etc., for all of which three more large floors are needed in an annex of the De Vinne Press building on Lafayette Place.

Among the treasures of The Century Co.'s offices to-day is a worn, time-stained copy of the firm's first issue, bearing date November, 1870. It looks as antiquated and grotesque, laid beside the artistic up-to-dateness of the current number, as a frock or coat of that year beside a season's model of a modish modiste or tailor. One smiles and sighs over the thought that these one hundred and twelve pages, in (judged by to-day's standards) ugly green cover, with wood-cuts that seem so rude beside recent triumphs, were the acme of elegance and skill in 1870. Even to-day, though, one is impressed by the list of men and women who contributed to this first number of the new magazine. Here is a reproduction of that old table of contents:

The Century Magazine, known for the first eleven years of its life as Scribner's Monthly, first took definite form one night in 1868 on the bridge over the Rhone at Geneva. Dr. J. G. Holland and Mr. Roswell Smith were traveling together abroad that year; and on that evening walk the project of a magazine whose dominant sentiment black lead. Over this is laid a heavy sheet of wax, not white soft beeswax, but a black, tough, mineral wax. A heavy weight comes down to make the mold, and produces on the wax sheet a perfect impression of the form—every letter and every line of type and illustration.

A strip of metal is fastened to the wax sheet, and off it goes to be hung in a bath of a vat of copper solution through which runs a powerful electric current. The form is then held in a rack, for resource in case of accidents. The electric current, generated by a busy little dynamo, carries the infinitesimal particles of copper in the solution through the metal strip, which is connected with a positive pole, down on the wax sheet. Lift it after a few hours, and there is a coat of shining copper, reproducing beautifully every detail of type and cut. When the wax sheet has been melted off by hot water, there is left a shining shell of copper, thin as writing paper. This shell, of course, is not strong enough to stand the thousands of impressions wanted; but after it has been strengthened by a backing of molten lead poured over it by careful workmen, after it has been cut and trimmed and otherwise improved, it comes out a heavy, durable, beautiful plate, perhaps a fifth of an inch thick. The cost of making this electrolyte is less than a dollar; and it can be handled and packed and shipped at pleasure, and will give a hundred thousand impressions or more; the last as clear and good as the first, and then be ready for more work.

When the time comes for printing, downstairs to the press-rooms go these plates, at least two hundred and fifty of them for every issue of The Century. On some presses they are fastened flat; on others they are curved to fit big cylinders. Thirty-two, sixty-four sometimes, of these electrolytes are fixed in place; the ink is tested and adjusted to feed the rollers just right; the paper is placed in position, either on immense rolls for the unillustrated pages, or piles of great sheets of coated paper where there are fine half-tones to be printed. In at one end of the magic presses goes the paper. Out from the other end drop the magazine pages, and a boy gathers them up and carries them off to the bindery, up, up again. The most of the work done now? Yes and no. At this stage The Century Magazine is in the form of twenty-five or more different sections of folded paper, scattered in as many boxes. The next process is to get them together in regular order. The magnitude of this task will be better understood when it is known that the sum total of these twenty-five or more pieces of folded paper in an ordinary edition of the magazine is never less than five million, and in a large edition is often six million pieces. To put one piece out of its order is to spoil a copy—perhaps two copies. It is necessary that the work be done with exactness, but equally important that it be done with speed.

A rotating table carries the sections rapidly and easily to girls who gather and place them deftly together in the proper order. Stitching-machines fasten the pages securely together; and then a clever machine picks up each copy, covers its back with melted glue, presses on the cover, and there is the finished product.

More to see? Well, even this bird's-eye view has taken the better part of the visitor's day. Let him spend twenty years in The Century Co.'s offices, and in the great building where its printing and binding are done, trying to fit harmoniously, helpfully into the mechanism which makes possible the smooth running of all this complicated business; and the intelligently directed magic of it all, the skill of brain and hand necessary to accomplish it, will be more of a wonder than at the first glimpse.
