THREE TRUSTEES CHOSEN

C. B. Treat, E. S. Roe and O. P. Woodworth Elected as Member of the Board.

The annual school meeting was held in the high school building, Monday evening, A. A. Worthington presiding. The year's reports of the school board were read by Director Keller to an interested audience.

The cost of maintaining the schools for the year ending Sept. 1, 1903, was $7,894.32, and the books showed fewer accounts overdrawn and other financial matter in better condition than for many years.

The following sums were voted to be raised:

Water supply	$100
Library	50
Director's salary	100
Repairs	300
Treasurer's salary	50

There were three trustees elected, to succeed Messrs. Treat, Wenger and Henderson. C. B. Treat, who has served so acceptably on the board for six years, was reelected by acclamation. E. S. Roe was then elected in the same way, and the third member elected by ballot.

C. B. Treat and Dana Phelps were appointed tellers; four ballots were cast before there was any decision, the choice resulting in the election of O. P. Woodworth.

There were a number of those present desired C. F. Pears to serve, and voted for him on every ballot, Mr. Pears however felt sure he did not care to serve as he had his hands full attending the meetings of the village board.

KITCHEN SHOWER

Given Friday Evening For Miss Hattie Bronson, Who is Soon to be Married.

Last Friday evening the friends of Miss Hattie Bronson formed a jolly party and drove to her home in the country. The entire crowd had entered the house unannounced before they were discovered—much to the young lady's surprise, although she later in the evening declared she knew they were coming.

Investigation of the mysteriously shaped packages piled around the room, proved the affair to be a kitchen shower, and much merriment was caused by the undoing of the parcels, which revealed everything belonging to a well appointed kitchen, from a broom to a fly trap.

Mr. Bronson's people were not surprised out of their usual hospitality, and served the unexpected guests with some exceptionally nice pop corn.

Music and games occupied the company until a late hour, when they departed, having spent a most delightful evening but regretting that it was the last time they would have the opportunity of surprising their hostess as Miss Bronson.

Tragedy Averted.

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved" writes Mrs. W. Watkins, of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Every body ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by W. N. Brodrick druggist. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle 25c.

Miss Florence is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mead, and a very popular young lady in Buchanan social circles.

Mr. Watson is a prominent business man of Three Oaks, and the happy couple will be at home to their many friends after October 1st., at Three Oaks.

Niles Hill

Persons who are going up the Niles hill say that is almost unfit to drive over, especially since the traction engine was taken over it on Friday. Every member of the West Virginia state board of agriculture, together with its secretary and superintendent of institutes, is a member of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry, says the National Stockman.

It is plainly evident that the permanency of the order rests in the subordinate granges, and the permanency of these rests in a great measure upon the degree of interest attached to them, says S. E. Strode.

Pennsylvania has eight grange mutual insurance companies, carrying risks aggregating $15,000,000. Some of these have been in operation twenty-five years. The cost has been but little over a half that of stock companies.

National Master Aaron Jones has arranged to address meetings in Massachusetts on Aug. 4, 5, 6 and 7; in New Hampshire on Aug. 13, 14 and 15; in Indiana on Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20; in Indiana on Aug. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29 and 31, and in Ohio on Sept. 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Escape Not Easy Nowadays.

The time has passed when people could deliberately violate the laws of society, and then be sure of escaping in some far-away region. Facilities for flight are greater than ever, but facilities for pursuit have multiplied at a much greater rate.

A man named James C. Beasley was connected with the United States postoffice department, at Cape Nome, Alaska. That office handles more money than any other within American dominion, except New York.

Beasley is alleged to have taken advantage of his position, to abstract quite a large sum of money and fled.

Detectives at once started for San Francisco upon learning that the man had sailed from there to Japan. They followed him to Japan, from there to the Philippines, thence to China, and on to Calcutta. At Calcutta they were only a day behind Beasley.

But they were misinformed that he had gone into interior India, and permitted him to get a week ahead of them by his sailing for Cape Town. Tracing him to Cape Town they found that the fugitive had plunged into darkest Africa. By clever work they traced him to Mafeking and through the Transvaal to Kimberley, where he was disguised as a worker in the diamond-mines. There he was arrested and taken to Washington, after a journey by the detectives, of 85,121 miles. —Everywhere.

Postmaster Williams of Niles

Died Friday Night at 11 O'clock After a Lingering Illness.

Postmaster Edward S. Williams of Niles died Friday night after a long and painful illness.

Several months ago [Mr. Williams'] health began to fail him, and despite the efforts of his physicians, he gradually failed and was compelled to take to his bed. During the past few weeks he had realized that the end was not far off and had expressed himself as being entirely resigned to the inevitable. With his death passes away one of the best known citizens of Niles.

The surviving relatives are: Mrs. Jerome Pease, a daughter, and four sons, Charles A. of Kalamazoo, Palmer B., Arza G., and Edwin D., all of Niles. Two sisters of the deceased are living, Mrs. Emma Doane of Niles and Mrs. Henry Cameron, north of that place. A brother, Wm. H. resides at Bunker Hill, Ind.

Mr. Williams was a member of St. Joseph Valley Lodge, No. 4, F. & A. M. St. Joseph Valley Chapter R. A. M. and the Niles Commandry, Knights Templar, also of the A. O. U. W. and of the Patricians.

He was born in Cass Co., on a farm in 1844. He moved to Berrien Co., with his parents in 1848 and returned to Cass Co., in '52, where he lived until '90 when he moved to Niles, in which place he resided till death. His education was limited to a few terms in the country school, and at the outbreak of the war he joined the 57 Illinois volunteers and was with Grant through the Donnellson and Shiloh campaigns, and was one of the 60,000 boys in blue who made the famous march to the sea.

Mr. Williams was a life-long republican and few politicians were better known, throughout southwestern Michigan.

The funeral on Sunday, was attended by the Masonic order from all the cities and towns in the neighborhood, a number of the Buchanan Masons being present. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Ferguson, the M. E. church pastor, who stated that Mr. Williams had freely and fairly accepted Jesus Christ as his Savior.

WAS HE DRUGGED?

Conflicting Reports in Regard to Thos. B. Lally, of Edwardsburg, who Failed to Appear on the Day set for Wedding.

The Niles Star says: There is an estimable young lady in Mishawaka who has made a fortunate escape from matrimony.

Her name is Miss Edith Catherine Ganser.

The young man who wooed and won her is Thomas B. Lally. Lally is a boozier and the drink habit has enslaved him so that he forsook the woman who confided in him on the day appointed for the wedding.

But congratulations for the young lady are in order because of her lucky escape from a matrimonial alliance with a slave to the whiskey habit, which would have bound up her whole life in untold misery.

The South Bend Tribune's Mishawaka correspondent gives the following account of the affair which is the sensation of the hour in Mishawaka.

A marriage to have been solemnized at St. Joseph's church this morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. L. A. Moench, in which Miss Edith Catherine Ganser and Thomas B. Lally were to have been the contracting parties, did not take place, the groom having deserted his bride-elect, leaving the city yesterday afternoon.

Everything was in readiness for the nuptial event and arrangements had been made for a reception this morning at the home of the bride, 109 West Sixth street. Last evening about 5:30 the bride-elect received a letter by special delivery from Lally in which he stated that he was withdrawing money, that he had been drinking heavily and that he thought it more honorable to leave the city than to drag her into the mire with him. It is intimated that he threatened to do away with himself.

The Niles Sun says: Mishawaka, Ind., September 5.—Thomas B. Lally, who deserted his affianced wife, Miss Catherine Edith Ganser, almost at the altar, returned to this city very sick. A physician pronounced the illness dangerous. No reporter could obtain an interview.

Lally, it would appear, is either mentally affected or he was drugged. He says he has no knowledge of writing the letter to his sweetheart in which it was said he could not marry her. He also says he cannot explain how he went to Niles.

That he had really intended to marry Miss Ganser is shown by the fact that the morning before the intended ceremony he called at his tailor's and manifested great anxiety about his suit and other wearing apparel, asking that there be no failure to get everything to his apartments a few hours before the event was to take place.

He may have been drugged and the letter may have been written by some person who wished to prevent the marriage, or by a practical joker.

Miss Ganser is not inclined to believe that Lally deserted her intentionally, but under the circumstances, and owing to influence exerted by relatives, she refuses to consent to a reconciliation and marriage now. There are several mysterious features about the case which may be solved after Lally recovers sufficiently to explain.

ASPIRES TO THRONE.

PRINCE MIRKO, WHO MAY SUCCEED KING PETER OF SERVIA.

Ambitions of the Second Son of Nicolas of Montenegro—Connected With the Royal Houses of Europe: A Musical Prince.

The dissatisfaction in Serbia with the reigning king, Peter Karageorgevitch, who succeeded to the throne recently made vacant by the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga, again brings into prominence the name of Prince Mirko of Montenegro, who last year was discussed as the possible successor to Alexander.

Since King Peter has done nothing to win the confidence of the people and is, in fact, generally regarded by his subjects as merely a tool in the hands of designing politicians. Recently there have been rumors that he had tired of his kingly position and seriously contemplated abdication.

Prince Mirko, who in the event of the abdication of Peter would probably be called to the throne of Serbia, is the second son of Nicolas I., the reigning prince of Montenegro. He is a captain of Montenegrin infantry and a lieutenant in the Russian army. He devotes much of his time to music and to scientific research. His popularity among the Servians comes in a large degree from his wife, to whom he was married last year and who has the blood of the Obrenovitchs in her veins. She is Natalie, daughter of Colonel Constantinovitch, a cousin of the late King Milan of Serbia. Her mother is a daughter of a Trieste merchant who made a large fortune in the shipping trade.

Like his cousin, the late King Milan, Colonel Constantinovitch is a grandson of Milosh, first prince of Serbia. His daughter Natalie, who was born in Trieste in 1882, is a goddaughter of the dowager Queen Natalie of Serbia. Colonel Constantinovitch quarreled with his relative, the late King Alexander, at the time of the latter's marriage with Draga and was banished from his native land. The marriage of Prince Mirko and Natalie connected the Obrenovitch family with the leading reigning houses of Europe. The present queen of Italy is a sister of Prince Mirko, two other sisters are Russian grand duchesses, and a fourth is the wife of Prince Joseph of Battenberg.

King Peter of Serbia is also a brother-in-law of Mirko, his wife, now dead, having been Princess Zorka, eldest daughter of Prince Nicolas of Montenegro. Thus Prince Mirko is connected by marriage with both the Obrenovitch and Karageorgevitch dynasties of Serbia.

Princess Natalie is said to be one of the most beautiful of Servian women. It was the wish of King Milan and of her father that she become the consort of the late King Alexander, but the latter's fatal infatuation for Draga made that impossible. Colonel Constantinovitch, disappointed and mortified at the failure of his daughter to become queen of Serbia, resolved that his girl should one day grace a throne, and it is said that the present agitation for the abdication of King Peter and the elevation of Prince Mirko to the throne is aided and abetted by Constantinovitch, who is very wealthy and can afford to indulge his ambition.

Last year, just before Prince Mirko's marriage, it is said that the agents of the prince addressed themselves to Saranoff, leader of the Macedonian revolutionary movement. What the result of these negotiations was is not known, but it is generally believed that the Macedonian leader gave Mirko's agents to understand that it was purely a matter of dollars and cents and that he was perfectly ready to put Mirko on the Macedonian throne provided money was furnished to carry on the revolutionary propaganda and to bring about emancipation from Turkish rule.

Prince Mirko is extremely genial and unaffected and is the favorite brother of Queen Helen of Italy. He was born in 1879 and educated with his brothers and sisters at home by a Swiss tutor. Mirko has but two passions besides his ambition to wear a crown—music and bacteriology. He is often to be found in the hospital at Cetinje at work with the microscope.

The rest of his spare time is devoted to music, and he composes a great deal. When his niece, daughter of the king of Italy, was baptized in Rome he composed a march and dedicated it to the city. It was performed at a concert, and Mascagni, who was conducting, led Prince Mirko to the platform to acknowledge the applause with which it was received.

TO PLAY LOVEY MARY.

Pretty Mabel Talliaferro, Who Will Appear in "Mrs. Wiggs."

Miss Mabel Talliaferro, who will play the part of Lovey Mary in the forthcoming production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is one of the best known of the younger actresses on the American stage. When but three years old she made her debut in "Blue Jeans" and since that time has developed from the sweetest of child actresses into a young woman whose knowledge and mastery of her art presage for her a future of brilliant success.

Miss Talliaferro has appeared in many plays. She made a decided hit in Zangwill's "The Children of the Ghetto," and in London a critic epitomized her as "a Duse in temperament and a Maude Adams in appearance." In this dismal play, in which she was the one bright spot, Miss Talliaferro enacted the role of the little mother-sister with a grace and sympathy that endeared her to the hearts of her audiences.

When but thirteen years old she received a salary of $75 a week. Among the plays in which she has appeared are "The Prince of Peace," "Patent Applied For," "Killarney," "Mavourneen," "Fair Virginia," "The Ensign," "Human Hearts," "The Minstrel Claire," "Sweet Inniscarra," "The Silver King," "The Banker's Daughter," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Lost River" and "A Ride For Life." She has played Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and as a member of the old Lyceum theater stock company in New York played all the children's parts in its repertory.

Of Miss Talliaferro the late James A. Herne once said, "She is the greatest child actress in the world," and other high estimates of her ability in the past as well as the present are numerous.

Three years ago Miss Talliaferro left the stage temporarily through the advice of her manager, George Tyler, to go to school in Massachusetts. Mr. Tyler believed that "infant prodigies grow up to be mediocre if their talents are continually forced," and it is the belief of those who have watched Miss Talliaferro's development that her short cessation from stage work has been of decided benefit to her in many ways, and they confidently expect to see her make the "hit of her life" as Lovey Mary.

Miss Talliaferro, who is now sixteen years old, is the daughter of Mrs. Anne Talliaferro of New York city. She is of Italian ancestry.

FIGHTER AND AUTHOR.

Pierre Loti, Who is to Command a Cruiser at Constantinople.

In the stirring times that many experienced observers see ahead of us at Constantinople probably one of the most conspicuous figures will be Pierre Loti, the well known French author, whose works in translations have enjoyed wide popularity in this country. In ordinary life Pierre Loti is Louis Marie Julien Viaud, captain in the French navy. By recent promotion he is to have command of the cruiser Van-tour, stationed at the Golden Horn. If his duties allow him the time he will probably write a novel dealing with Constantinople.

Although the navy of France has had among its officers a number of writers, none of them has ever attained such eminence as Pierre Loti. He is one of the most popular authors of his country and time, and his works have been crowned by his election to the French academy, making him one of the forty "immortals." Captain Viaud is a native of Rochefort and is fifty-three years of age.

PIERRE LOTI.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS.

They Are Blended In the Career of Congressman Littauer.

Congressman Lucius N. Littauer, who is conspicuous just now because of the charge that he has been interested in certain government contracts contrary to law, is forty-four years of age, rotund and genial, strenuous and keen witted and popular in his congressional district, the Twenty-fifth of New York, which embraces the counties of Fulton, Hamilton, Montgomery, Saratoga and Warren. He was born at Gloversville, N. Y., which takes its name from the leading industry of the place. It is here that is made the principal part of the gloves and gauntlets used by the United States army. Mr. Littauer's father was a well to do and successful manufacturer of gloves, and the son was trained in that business.

After receiving such educational training as the public schools afforded young Littauer entered Harvard university, where he met and formed a friendship with Theodore Roosevelt which has since continued. Mr. Littauer graduated in 1878, and in 1882, with his brother, took charge of the business established by his father, which has been greatly enlarged under his shrewd and successful management. Mr. Littauer has other extensive business connections and is reputed to be worth $2,000,000. Despite his wealth he is thoroughly democratic in his tastes and habits and withal free handed and generous. He is one of the kind of men who know how to spend money so that he and his friends alike may enjoy the expenditure. He loves to fish and to hunt and is one of the most companionable of men, always cheerful and always ready to tell or listen to a good story.

Though active in the politics of his district and state, Mr. Littauer has never held any office other than the one he now occupies. He was first elected to the Fifty-fifth congress and has been elected to every congress since, including the Fifty-eighth.

Congressman Littauer first began to attract national attention about three years ago, at which time Theodore Roosevelt, then governor of New York, referred to him at a Harvard banquet as "my most intimate personal friend and my closest political adviser."

A COMING PREMIER.

Winston Churchill is One of England's Brightest Young Men.

"A young man with a career before him" would be an apt characterization of Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill, M. P., the youthful Englishman who has just crossed swords with the veteran Joe Chamberlain on the free trade-protection question, were it not for the fact that young Churchill has already considerable of a career behind him.

Winston Churchill, who must not be confused with the popular American author of the same name, should be of peculiar interest to Yankees, since his mother, now Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, is an American. His father was the late Lord Randolph Churchill, uncle of the present Duke of Marlborough.

WINSTON CHURCHILL.

ough. Winston Churchill is not yet twenty-nine years of age. He was educated at Harrow and the Sandhurst Military academy and entered the British army in 1895. He served in the Spanish army in Cuba in 1895 and with the British forces in India, Egypt and South Africa, attracting much attention in the last named contest by his bravery and daring. Mr. Churchill has written five books, won several medals for bravery and been a member of parliament since 1900.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Mrs. Haas. of Benton Harbor, Looses a Chatauline Bag.

Saturday morning Mrs. Ada Haas of Benton Harbor, took the Buchanan branch of the Pere Marquette to go to the home of her father, Henry Bradley. She left the train at Lighthouse where she was met by her father, after proceeding on the journey homeward a short distance it was discovered that a chatauline bag she had been carrying, in which was her pocket book with a considerable amount of money, was missing.

A return trip was made over the route traversed until the station was reached, but it was not found. Of course the person with ordinary means does not have money to scatter promiscuously, and Mrs. Haas felt very badly. On inquiry it was found that a little girl at the station had picked up a bag answering the description of the one lost, and had given it to a man boarding the train.

When the train returned north bound, inquiries were made but nothing was learned of the bag and its contents. Mr. Bradley learning that the gentleman was Dick Dugan, of Niles, and thoroughly reliable, drove first to Buchanan and enquired at the newspaper offices, if the the bag had been reported, and finding it had not, proceeded to Niles to find Mr. Dugan if possible. When he got there the first thing to do, was to inquire for his man, and fortunately found a person who was acquainted with him and pointed him out on a street car just starting to South Bend. He spoke to him and found he had the bag and contents safe at his mother's, and on his return from the Bend he would again return to Mr. Crane's, where he had been stopping for some time, and bring the bag with him.

Altogether, two things are very noticeable: prompt action on the part of Mr. Bradley and integrity on the part of Mr. Dugan.

There is more Cataract in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven cataract to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure, manufactured by E. J. DOUBLE WEDDING

Miss Edith Long and Mr. Emerson Refner, Mrs. Carrie Keeler and Mr. Kirk Howard, Unite Their Fortunes.

This afternoon, at 3:30 at the rural home of Mr. William Long, in Bertrand township, there occurred a pretty double wedding, performed by Elder Charles Shook. The brides sustain the relation of aunt and niece to each other, and are both well and favorably known.

Mrs. Carrie Keeler became Mrs. Kirk R. Howard, the groom being a Chicago merchant of some prominence. They will take quite an extended tour through the east.

Miss Edith Belle Long became the bride of Emerson P. Refner, a travelling man of Kalamazoo. The happy pair will spend their honeymoon in southern Michigan and northern Indiana, and, after some weeks, will make their home in Kalamazoo.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Long the ceremonies will be witnessed by only a few near relatives.

They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

AUTOMOBILE RACES

Reduced Rates to West Michigan Fair.

Automobile races will be one of the many interesting features of the coming West Michigan State Fair, which is to be held in Grand Rapids Sept. 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th. These races will not be amateur races with little runabout machines, but will be run by perfectly built racing machines, run by experts. An attempt will be made to lower the time record at the Fair.

The space for vehicles and agricultural exhibits has been all taken and additional space has had to be arranged for the later comers.

The pleasant announcement is made that the street railway company has double tracked their lines to the grounds, so that there will be no delays in going to or coming from the Fair.

The woman's needlework department is to be added to and the entries are very numerous. The finest embroideries and choicest designs are entered for this fall.

The Fruit exhibit promises many interesting features—a larger number of entries are being made, especially in grapes and peaches and Michigan's apples bid fair to get many prizes.

The poultry show is planned to include a daily hatch of chicks. There will also be shown a full list of all the varieties entered in the American Standard.

Mr. Sharpe Butterfield will do the scoring, which is a guarantee of the worth of the prizes.

The musical features of the Fair will be fine—all the local and many bands will be present.

The West Michigan State Fair announced that no gambling, games nor devices will be permitted on the grounds, and the lines will be severely drawn against all fakes and frauds. The horse racing classes are all fast one, and a general good time is assured, there being both running and trotting racing.

The railroads have made a single fare rate to the Fair from all over the state, so that every one will have a chance to see "Michigan's Best Fair."

FARMER WAS A HERO

W. N. Hawley Saved the Life of Mrs. John Sutherland and Nearly Lost His Own.

Mr. W. N. Hawley, who is employed on the John Sutherland farm in Bainbridge, came near being trampled to death Thursday afternoon in attempting to stop a runaway team.

Mr. John Couse, a farmer, was driving home about five o'clock when his team became frightened at a passing engine on the track near Territorial Street and started at a furious pace across the tracks heading straight for the curbing near Barnard's drug store.

Mrs. Sutherland was seated in a buggy directly in the path of the runaway team, when Mr. Hawley saw her danger and rushed into the street grabbing the Couse horses just before they would have crushed into the Sutherland rig. He was knocked down and terribly trampled before he could be rescued.

He was crushed in the chest, two ribs and the collar bone were broken and one of the horses' shoes cut a deep gash in his head.

Several people went to his assistance and he was picked up unconscious and carried into a nearby store and later taken to Dr. Watson's office and given medical and surgical attention.

Hawley's heroic deed, nearly at the cost of his own life, saved Mrs. Sutherland from injury and prevented a bad smash-up.—Friday's Palladium.

Valuable Dog

Deputy Guy's Bloodhound Ferrets out Hiding Place of Valuables.

Deputy Guy's bloodhound, the terror of criminals, again gets the laurels for a clean piece of detective work. This morning the officer arrested two negroes at Coloma for robbery of the farm house of John Corners. None of the stolen property was found on their person. The dog was detailed on the case, took up the scent and without hesitation scented their tracks back along the railroad track and located the spot where the valuables had been buried. The canine also did the work of uncovering the articles.

The Corners' house, near Sherwood's corners, was robbed last evening while the family were away from home. A valuable watch, silverware and some money were taken. The two negroes were suspected as they had been seen in the vicinity. Sheriff Collins detailed officers and the colored fellows were captured on a freight train. They were brought to the county jail.

One of the prisoners gives his name as John Harris, the other as George Washington. Harris has been in St. Joseph all summer. Sheriff Collins thinks that in the capture he has two men who have been doing all the house-breaking in the north end of the county for the past month.—Evening News.

LATEST FASHION NOTES.

GOWN OF NEW THIN CHIFFON VELVET.

A handsome gown is developed of new thin chiffon velvet. This is elaborately trimmed with crepe de Chine hand embroidered with Corticelli fil silk. Embroidery on costumes is daily growing in popularity.

The crepe de Chine extends out over the shoulder, giving the broad, sloping effect. Bands of the crepe de Chine are inset on the bodice, sleeves, and skirt, reaching on the latter down to the flounce, which also is embroidered to correspond with the waist. The sleeves are very full just below the elbow, with deep cuffs, also hand embroidered.

In selecting gowns for street wear it is well to have two tailor-made suits. One of these should be very plain, with sometimes two skirts, one short and one long. On a more elaborate suit may be passementeries, cordings, stitchings, and facings of white or color, also gold or silver buttons. All of these various forms of trimmings seem to be growing in popularity.

"Big Joe" Grimes, who was here with the Robinson Carnival Co., died at Cincinnati, Sept. 5. Joe was riding in a cab at Mishawaka, when the bottom gave way, letting the big man fall, cutting his leg badly. The wound could not be healed and Joe was taken home to Cincinnati. "Big Joe" was the largest man on earth, his weight being 754 pounds.—Niles Sun

PETTIGREW, COLONIZER.

What Former United States Senator Plans to Do in Mexico.

Former United States Senator Richard F. Pettigrew of South Dakota, who recently secured a tract of 1,000,000 acres of land from the Mexican government, has entered into an agreement with the South African Boers whereby they are to assume control of 100,000 acres of the land. The Boers are under contract to have 400 families established on their new possessions by September of next year.

The tract of land secured by Senator Pettigrew from Mexico contains several thousand acres of timber, most of

EX-SENATOR R. F. PETTIGREW.

It very valuable, and the soil is said to be capable, when irrigated, of yielding two good crops a year. Two large rivers form the northern and southern boundaries, while the eastern border runs to the gulf of Mexico. Senator Pettigrew intends to tap one of the streams at various points and divert a portion of its waters across the plains for the purpose of irrigating the fertile land.

On that portion of the tract transferred to the Boers are about 10,000 acres of logwood, which they will cut and market as soon as possible. There are thousands of wild cattle on the tract, but it is expected that the Boers will be able to exterminate them and put domesticated animals on the ranges.

Senator R. F. Pettigrew, who plans to establish a colony on his vast tract of land in addition to that of the Boers, is a native of Vermont. In 1854, when he was six years old, his parents removed to Wisconsin, and at an early age he had to work on a farm. He entered Beloit college to work his way through, but his father died, and he was obliged to return home to support the family. He studied in the intervals of work, taught school and finally entered the law class at the University of Wisconsin, from which he graduated in 1869 and was admitted to the bar the following year.

He then went to Dakota in the employ of a United States deputy surveyor or as a laborer and settled in Sioux Falls, where he began the practice of law in 1872. Entering politics, he was elected to the Dakota legislature in 1877 and re-elected in 1879. He also represented the territory as a delegate to the Forty-seventh congress. When South Dakota was admitted to the Union as a state in 1889 Mr. Pettigrew was chosen one of its first two senators, being re-elected in 1895.

Mr. Johnson has been twice elected to congress and is now serving his second term as mayor of Cleveland, having been first elected to that office in the spring of 1901.

Representatives of commission houses from all over the country, who are buying in Berrien county have started the fruit growers by making an offer of $50 per ton for grapes. Contracts are made for any quantity and in some cases whole vineyards have been purchased at that price. No variety is singled out as an especial favorite and the market holds on all kinds. This is a most remarkable price for this fruit, for the market returns brought from $25 to $35 in former years. What is even more remarkable, Berrien county's crop this season is tremendous. It is far in excess of that of recent years. The rush of commission men to contract for the vineyards is occasioned by the scanty yield in order great grape districts.

This morning, about 10:30 the roof of the laundry building was discovered to be on fire, but before it could gain any headway the fire was extinguished; the hose cart was taken out but its services were not needed. A Jolly Picnic
Last Friday, about thirty ladies went to Barron Lake for a picnic in honor of Mrs. H. E. Lough of Tampa Florida, and Mrs. George Blowers and daughter of Albion, Mich., proving in what high esteem these ladies are held in Buchanan.—their former home.

The day was perfect, and the ride was delightful. Arriving upon the grounds, the ladies found every convenience for a real picnic, and after unloading baskets containing fruits, salads, sandwiches, chicken, cakes, strawberries, etc., etc., and placing them on the table, it fairly groaned under the weight of luxuries and delicacies. But that was not the best part of it, but when all were first seated at the table, for once, silence reigned supreme, and silence was golden. Reminiscences of the past were enjoyed by all. Only a limited number went boat riding.

Fortunes were told by the witches and every one that engaged in that fascinating game, came home satisfied that a long, prosperous life awaited them.

It was pronounced a day long to be remembered and wishes were expressed that the pleasant gathering might be duplicated in the near future.

is stated that upon the return from Eu-

she had been summoned by relatives, a

The Salisbury Scions

THE recent death of Robert Cecil, third marquis of Salisbury, chief of four cabinets of the British empire and twelve years premier of England, attracts attention to his eldest son and heir, formerly Viscount Cranborne, and induces speculation as to whether he inherits his father's commanding ability as well as his title and estates.

History has recorded until it has almost become an axiom that the sons of great men seldom become great, and it seems to be the general opinion in England that this axiom will not be reversed in the case of the late marquis' heir, for, while the new holder of the

THE NEW MARQUIS OF SALISBURY.
[Formerly Viscount Cranborne.]

title is not without ability, he has as yet failed to show the qualities that made his father great.

James Edward Hubert Gascoyne Cecil, fourth marquis of Salisbury, is the eldest of a family of seven—five sons and two daughters. As the son and heir of the house of Cecil he bore the title Viscount Cranborne, which now goes to his son Robert. He began his career in politics in 1885, when twenty-four years of age, as member of parliament for Lancaster, but was retired in 1892. In 1893 he was elected from Rochester, which constituency he still represents.

During his career in parliament he has done nothing to distinguish himself either for brilliancy or ability as a statesman. Since 1900 he has been under secretary of state for foreign affairs. In January, 1902, Lord Cranborne attracted much attention in this country and abroad by a statement in the house of commons concerning the attitude of England toward the United States prior to the breaking out of the Spanish war. He said that immediately before war was declared several communications were received by the British government from other powers suggesting the presentation of a joint note to President McKinley. England agreed, expressing the hope that further negotiations might lead to a peaceful settlement, but first took steps to ascertain if such a note would be acceptable to the president.

Lord Cranborne added that the British government declined to associate itself with other subsequent proposals which seemed open to the objection of putting pressure on the American government. He declined to say by what powers the later proposals were made or to publish any papers on the subject.

The new Marquis of Salisbury was educated at Eton and Oxford and was married to Cicely, daughter of the fifth earl of Arran, about twelve years ago.

LORD EDWARD HERBERT CECIL.

Their eldest son, born in 1893, if he survives his father, will one day be the fifth marquis of Salisbury.

But two other sons of the late marquis have come prominently before the public. They are Lord Edward Herbert Cecil and Lord Hugh Cecil. Lord Edward is the fourth son and has won considerable fame as a soldier. He is a major in the Grenadier guards and before the opening of hostilities was sent to South Africa on special service.

How the Sons of England's Great
Premier Compare
With Their Sire

He was shut up in Mafeking with Colonel Baden-Powell and was wounded in one of the sorties. He went with the expedition to Dongola in 1896 and was present at the taking of Omdur-man and Khartum in 1898. Lord Edward is a veritable son of Anak, and his height, which is considerably over six feet, makes him a noticeable figure in any assembly. He married in 1894 a daughter of Admiral Maxse of the British navy.

According to a story that emanated from Lord Kitchener, Lord Edward deserves as much credit as does Baden-Powell for the defense of Mafeking.
Lord Kitchener relates that soon after reaching South Africa he came across a well known Dutchman who was filling large contracts for provisioning the British army, from whom he learned this incident: Just before the breaking out of hostilities the contractor received instructions to send a certain quantity of stores to Mafeking. While shipment was going forward Lord Edward Cecil called on the contractor and asked for particulars of the stores.
These being supplied, he said:

"Could you send four times as much?"

"Yes, if I had authority," said the contractor.

"Very well," said Lord Edward; "you send four times as much as you have orders for, and I will give my note for the cost of the surplus quantity. If the government doesn't pay you, I will."

Considering the fact that Lord Edward's financial resources were chiefly represented by his pay as major, an undertaking to pay $150,000 to $200,000
out of his private purse was characteristically daring. The contractor thought he was safe in dealing with the premier's son and sent the stores. Mafeking was stocked with provisions and general stores four times as great in quantity as the authorities thought was sufficient. According to Lord Kitchener's testimony, that is how Mafeking managed to hold out.

Lord Hugh Richard Heathcote Cecil,
fifth and youngest son of the late premier, like his elder brother, is a member of parliament, having represented

LORD HUGH CECIL.

Greenwich since 1895. He is a typical Cecil in appearance and temperament.
Those who are old enough to remember his father as a young man say that Lord Hugh is the very duplicate of his famous progenitor. He is regarded as the infant terrible of his party, but was idolized by the old marquis, who looked upon the young man as the successor to the family honors in the political arena. The dead statesman, it is said, long ago gave up the hope once centered in his eldest son and heir. It is to Lord Hugh that the Cecils look for their continued glorification.

Tall, thin as a reed, very pallid, very nervous—his long, thin hands shake for half an hour before he is going to make a speech—he looks more like a hungry curate than the free lance politician of thirty-four. He has great powers of eloquence, is unusually quick, belligerent in manner, unresponsive to the most urgent appeal for moderation or reason other than that which agrees with his own set views and has an unhappy manner of making enemies of his intimate friends.

But he is a Cecil all over, even to the family stoop and the shabbiness of his clothes. He was of course born in politics. After leaving school he was made private secretary to his father, who was then foreign minister, and, being a good Tory, as well as his father's son, was in due time elected member from Greenwich. He represented his electors so creditably and respectfully,
for he always managed to get his name
into the papers, thus giving Greenwich a boost in its own estimation, that he was elected again, and he bids fair to represent Greenwich for the rest of his political life, which promises to be long, strenuous and interesting.

The halo of the Cecil name protects him from abuse, and the prestige of it gives him a power that another young man of equal ability could not command. In England he is regarded as the ablest of the sons of the late leader and a possible prime minister in the distant future. But he has a long and rugged road ahead of him and many difficulties to overcome before he reaches that eminence, if he ever does.
