SATURDAY EVENING

Village Councilmen Must Meet or be Compelled to Show Cause for Absence.

WHAT WILL THEY DO?

Deputy Sheriff Tenant Brings Papers and Serves Notices.

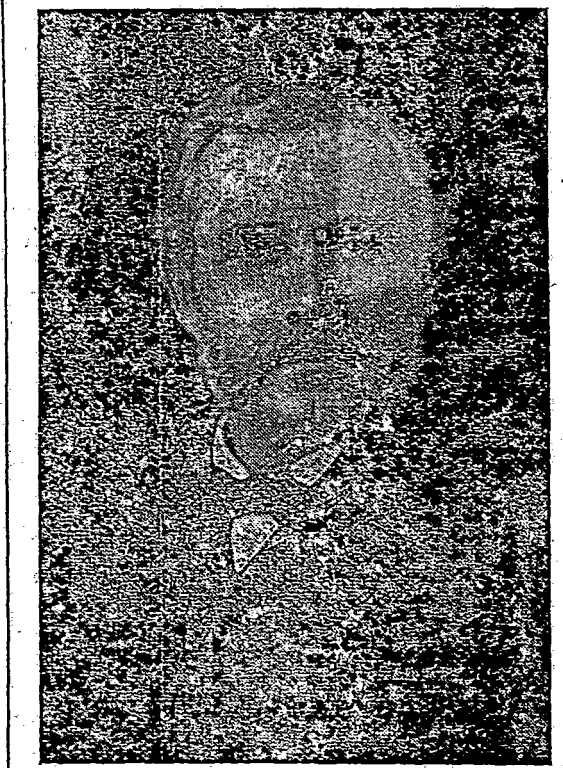

This morning Deputy Sheriff Tenant came from the county seat bearing an alternative mandamus for each of the council men, which was at once served on them and the village clerk. This comes from Attorney General Blair, and calls for a meeting of the members of the council men in the council chambers on Saturday night, or to be prepared on Monday morning to show cause at St. Joseph why they did not attend. This action was taken in response to an appeal made by President Black to compel the village fathers to attend the meetings.

SHORT BIOGRAPHY OF SOME OF OUR NOTED VETERANS

JOHN W. BEISTLE
Enlisted at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, on the 6th day of August 1862, in Co. F, 131 regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, and was discharged May 23, 1863, by reason of expiration of service. At the time of Lee's invasion of Pennsylvania he responded to the call of Governor Curtin, for home troops, at the time of the battle of Gettysburg.
He re-enlisted August 31, 1864, at Harrisburg, in Co. C, 208 regiment Pennsylvania volunteers, and was discharged June 1, 1865, by reason of the close of the war.
Mr. Beistle was in the second battle of Bull Run, also South Mountain, Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, two raids at Hatcher's Run, Fort Steadman and Petersburg. He was wounded at Fredericksburg Dec. 13, 1862 and was in the field hospital in front of Fredericksburg and in the general hospital at Mill Point.
Mr. Beistle came from Seisingrove, Pa., to Berrien Springs in July 1871 and removed to Buchanan in 1873

JOHN W. BEISTLE

He is a dentist by profession and practiced his profession in Berrien Springs and Buchanan till about twelve years ago.
Mr. Beistle is one of Buchanan's leading citizens and has three children, two sons who are both dentists, one Elmer, of South Bend Indiana, and Clay, at Schoolcraft, Michigan, the other a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Jennings, of Paw Paw. He is a business man, being vice president of the First National Bank, is also engaged in agriculture and does something too in money loaning and real estate business.

GEORGE DIEHL

Was born in Juniata Co., 1838 and when but a boy, as will be seen in the cut, he joined the 51st regiment, Pennsylvania volunteer as a private in Co. E. He served during the entire war as a member of the old 51st; was promoted Sargent May 2, 1864; and wounded at the explosion of the mine at Petersburg, July 30, 1864. After the war he was married to Amelia Martin; four children were born of this marriage. The wife and mother died in 1874.
In 1877 Mr. Diehl moved to Michigan, settling on Portage Prairie, then removed to Elkhart, Ind., and from there to the Terre Coupe Prairie, when 5 years ago he moved to Buchanan, his farm being about one half mile out.
He was married a second time to Lizzie Weller, who still remains to cheer his home and help in sharing his cares. There are no children to this union. Although sixty five years old, Mr. Diehl is still a well preserved man and one of Buchanan's first citizens.
Co. E. was organized at Mifflinburg, Union Co., Penn., Aug. 27, 1861, mustered into United States service at Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 23, 1861. The 51st regiment Pa. volunteers was organized at Harrisburg, Pa. by Col. J. F. Hartranft in Sept. 1861.

GEORGE DIEHL

It was ordered to Annapolis, Maryland in Nov. and was attached to the expedition, being organized by Major Gen. A. Burnside. The regiment continued with, and participated in all the marches and engagements of the 9th army corps, in the states of North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Mississippi and in east Tennessee during the war. The regiment became a Veteran Organization by virtue of re-enlistment, on the first day of Jan. 1864. The regiment returned to, and reached Harrisburg, Pa. on the 8th day of Feb. 1864.

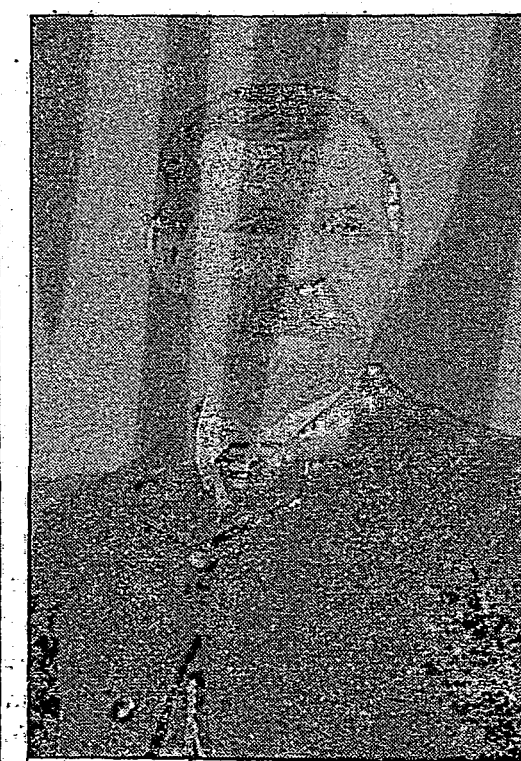

After a furlough of 30 days the regiment re-organized and left Harrisburg with 960 men, proceeding to Annapolis, Maryland to rejoin the 9th A. C. The corps was then attached to the army of the Potomac, and the regiment participated in Grant's Virginia campaign from the battle of the Wilderness, May 6th, until the capture of the rebel army of northern Virginia, under Gen. Lee.

The regiment was then transported to the defenses of Washington, via City Point, and was assigned to duty at Alexandria until July 21, then the regiment received orders to be mustered out of the service of the United States by virtue of O. S. 176 Dept. of Washington.

Co. E. had 261 men all told during the war, and when mustered out 67 remained, 19 of them were of the first 100 that started out at the beginning of the war.

JOHN HANOVER

Was born in Berrien county, Mich., July 26, 1848, and was a son of Wm. and Mary (Wine) Hanover, deceased. He was married April 1, 1867, in Berrien county, Mich., to Amelia Bailey,

REAL WORTH

Is Sure Some Time to Come to the Top.

Every man in time will be estimated according to his worth, and the Record is pleased to see that Geo. Howard's ability along mechanical line is being appreciated.

Some time ago Mr. Kent's safe could not be unlocked; he sent to Niles for Mr. Blish, who is an excellent mechanic. After working at the safe for some time the dinner hour arrived and while Mr. Blish was away, Mr. Howard tried his hand and opened the safe before his return. Mr. Blish is now recommending Mr. Howard for such work and he is now at work at John Reddick's safe, Lumber dealer at Niles.

Industrial Rumbings

Michigan is noted as having more varied manufacturing industries than any State in the Union. These industries are the pride of every enterprising citizen. Every city, village and hamlet has some manufacturing industry, giving employment to labor and placing its products on the market. If the laboring elements in any community, whether it be a city, village or a rural district, be prosperous, contentment and happiness follow. It is not the intention of this department to advertise any of these individual industries. Thousands of them are worthy of notice, but space will not allow special mention of each, and yet every day inquiries are made regarding manufacturing industries. The printed reports from the Bureau are circulated, not only in all parts of the United States, but also in most of foreign countries, where they are kept on file in the industrial departments of the several States and governments. It is for reason that some of the important manufacturing industries will be mentioned. They are not only a credit to their owners and operators, but they reflect an honor on the State, and in themselves go far toward recording Michigan as one of the most prosperous States in the Nation.

There are about 110,000,000 cotton spindles in the world, and three-fourths of all the material used by them comes from the cotton-fields of the South; but that section, with all its progress, still has only 8,000,000 spindles. The entire country has only about 22,000,000. We are still shipping to Europe over 60 per cent. of our raw cotton every year, almost as uneconomical as it would be to ship our iron ore instead of turning it into the finished product here.—American Inventor.

30 CLUB.

Ladies of the 30 club met Wednesday afternoon with Miss Artie Logan. Although the weather was inclement there were a number of the ladies present.

Mrs. Daisy Rough read an interesting paper, the subject of which was, "What Literature is;" Mrs. Maude Peck's paper was also enjoyed; Mrs. Fannie Wells' paper on "Old English Prose and Poetry" and Miss Logan's reading on "Venerable Bede and Caedmon" deserved no less credit. Miss Florence Redden played a very pleasing instrumental solo.

In response to roll call, English authors were given and many interesting facts were given concerning them. The ladies adjourned to meet next week with Mrs. Bertie Smith.

A Thoughtful Man.

M. M. Austin of Winchester, Ind. knew what to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. He thought of and tried Dr. King's New Life Pills and she got relief at once and was finally cured. Only 25c. at W. N. Brodrick's Drug Store.

PROGRAM COMPLETED

Berrien County Sunday School Association Will Hold 25th Annual Convention

OCTOBER 21 AND 22 1903.

Noted Speakers From Various Point in the State to be Present.

On Wednesday and Thursday Oct. 21-22, Buchanan is to have the honor of entertaining the Berrien County Sunday School Association at its 25th Annual Convention.

A number of the most prominent Sunday school workers of the state will be here at that time and an unusually helpful and inspiring program has been planned.

Mr. Alfred Day, of Detroit, general secretary of the Michigan State Sunday school association; E. K. Mohr of Grand Rapids, secretary and treasurer of Kent county association; Mrs. G. L. Fox, of Grand Rapids, state primary superintendent; Wm. Strong, of Kalamazoo, former state superintendent of the Home Department and D. B. Allen, of Covert, a very successful Sunday school superintendent, are those of the speakers who will assist the Berrien county workers.

Mr. E. K. Warren will give the address Thursday evening, his subject being "Latest News Concerning the Jerusalem Convention." Rev. E. A. Hoffman, Mrs. C. Knapp, Dr. Greeneyer, Mrs. F. E. Beers, Miss Myrta Pardee, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Washburn C. W. Whitehead are among the well known speakers who will address the convention at various times.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS

The Circuit Court opened Monday for trial of Criminal cases, and the jury men for the fall term, as well as many lawyers, are at the court house.

The trial of Joseph Goins for robbing Harry Higgins of $5.21 on Colfax avenue in Benton Harbor one night last May occupied the court part of Monday.

Christian Endeavor society meets at 6:30 p. m. Topic "Great men of the Bible, what Abraham teaches us."

Evening services 7:30, subject of discourse, "Making friends of the mammon of unrighteousness" All are cordially welcome.

New Quarters.

W. S. Jones, the Buchanan jeweler, moved yesterday from the Banner building to the Roe building formerly occupied by A. Jones & Co.

Mr. Jones came to Buchanan two years ago and by careful and conscientious work he has built up a very fine business. When he came he went into the room occupied by Mr. Runner, where he has been ever since, but owing to his increase in business he decided to move where he would have more room. For about a month his brother-in-law, of Paw Paw, has been assisting him.

IN GOOD CONDITION.

Rev. Tarrant Gives Report of U. B. Church.

The years come and go, they pass by one by one, reminding us of the fact that we too are passing along and moving toward the final reckoning.

A year has nearly passed since the writer and his family first came to the town of Buchanan. One year ago we took charge of the U. B. church of this circuit, matters were not the most promising, still we found a real good people, who gathered around their pastor and tried to make everything as pleasing as possible, so we began work very much encouraged.

The year has been as free from jars and strifes as any year we have had in a long time. It has never been our fortune to live among and serve any better people than we have served this year. The town of Buchanan is a good place to live, no better in the state; the business people are a class of people that any town may be proud of; the people generally are sociable, kind and courteous; the schools are beyond reproach and are a credit to a town or state, and with such a staff of teachers the education of the boys and girls is perfectly safe; the churches are up to date and trying to do good. All together Buchanan is a real good place to live in. One year will close with Sunday evening's service; we have enjoyed the year very much. Some prosperity has attended our labors.

We have delivered during the year 200 discourses, made 450 visits, traveled 8,500 miles, have taken into church fellowship 24 persons, have raised for all purposes during the year $1,434.86. The Buchanan church have been painted, a house and lot has been purchased for parsonage purposes, all the claims of the church have been fully met, and in some instances more than met. The churches may well be proud of their record for this year. Few churches have done any better than the U. B. church of Buchanan, all things considered. The people have stood by their pastor and the year closes with peace and harmony all along the line.

In closing we say to the members of the circuit, and to the people of Buchanan generally, friends I thank you for your kindness shown to me and mine during the short time we have lived among you. We shall ever have a warm place in our hearts for you all, and it will be with pleasure that we shall return to you another year.

Very affectionately,
W. J. TARRANT,
Pastor of the U. B. church.

Tennyson and Browning.

The impression left by Mr. Brooke's chapter, so far as concerns the ultimate ranking of the two poets, is decidedly in favor of Tennyson. "Tennyson is the closest to human nature in its noble, common, and loving forms, as Browning is the closest to what is complex, subtle, and uncommon in human nature." The appeal to a special class, strong though it be in Browning's case, marks, not the poet's "superiority of rank, but his inferiority." The greatest poets Dante for instance—are loved by high and low. Tennyson and Browning are far below the universal poets, but Tennyson is the nearer to them. "The highest work which poetry can do is to glorify what is most natural and simple in the whole of loving human nature, and to show the beauty, not so much of the stranger and wilder doings of the natural world, but of its every-day doings and their common changes." Such, in a measure, was the view Tennyson took of his mission. Browning did not altogether relish this view of the highest functions of poetry, as he indicates in "Sordello," being, Mr. Brooke thinks, conscious that for such work he was not well equipped.

Whether he was thus conscious of his limitations or not, and whether or not his perceptive admirers admit these limitations, we may be fairly sure that a majority of mankind will agree with Mr. Brooke as to the essential qualities of the highest poetry, and find more of these in Tennyson than in Browning, despite the many and obvious limitations of the former. The power, the vitality, the range of Browning's genius should not obscure for us the fact that it stands more remote from the lines of general literary development than Tennyson's, and the history of literature teaches us that the greatest masters have stood in the line of development. It was not for nothing that Shakespeare received lessons at the hands of Marlowe, and that Milton was proud to own himself a poetical son of Spenser. It was not for nothing that Tennyson, during the decade that preceded the publication of the two volumes of 1842, devoted himself to a study of the best poetic masters of the classics and of his own literature. During those same years Browning also studied deeply things a poet ought to know—the human soul and history and art—but for some reason or other, perhaps because he was too full and original a genius, he scarcely abode for an appreciable time in the pupillage stage. Many of his students and admirers impute this to him for a glory and not for a defect; and perhaps they are right if a fit audience, though few, is an adequate reward for the lifetime devotion of a splendid and unique genius to the art of its choice. But others, loving Browning's best poetry intensely and seeing in the man a truly noble character and range of powers, will regret that, while his fame is apparently secure, his work in the mass seems likely to inspire the few rather than the many; that it will continue to repel or to attract will undue violence; that even its most admirable portions will only with some difficulty win their way into the treasure chamber in which the English-speaking peoples preserve the most priceless of the possessions that time has left them.—December Forum.
