Wells at Water Works Were
Pumped Dry Saturday Afternoon.

MUST HAVE MORE WATER

The Great Law of Supply and Demand
Solves the Problem

For the past two years there has been more or less talk about the wells at the water works drying up, but those who have been most interested and most in touch with the facts in the case, say that it is simple enough to explain.

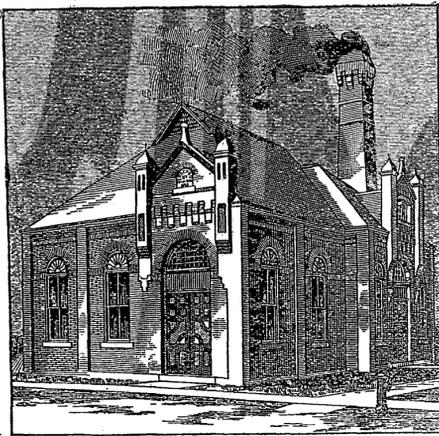

There are now over 300 taps in the water mains supplying water for every conceivable purpose, and there several boxes will be sunken in the creek for the use of the steamer should a blaze break out.

We are face to face with a shortage of water and the only way to remedy this condition is to at once take steps to increase the supply.

There is another way that will reduce the strain upon the wells, and that is to enforce the ordinance governing the hours of sprinkling and thus stop the wasting of a great amount of water. Many of our citizens are very careless in regard to the water. There are a number of instances that we might mention where the water has been allowed to run all day and in some places where gardens have been watered far into the night by sprayers, these and other abuses of the water should be stopped. By doing this, much water would be saved and the labor of the present wells greatly relieved.

Bring your printing to the Record is not water enough coming from the wells to supply the demand upon them. It is not a question of the present wells drying up, but a fact that the wells have not the capacity that is demanded of them.

So much has been said upon the subject that it was decided to make a test of the wells and see if they would prove adequate in case a large fire should break out. Accordingly at 5:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon, four streams, the same size as used at a fire, were turned on and in just 10 1/2 minutes the pumps began to take air, proving very conclusively that the supply was not sufficient for fire protection under all conditions. The remedy lies in more and deeper wells.

Another problem and one of equal importance that confronts the Water Works Committee, is the boilers at the water works. In the first place they are not the right kind for the place. All who are familiar with steam power plants say that for the amount of pressure that it is necessary to carry at the water works, the boilers should have domes. This would give increased space for the steam and also insure dry steam for the cylinders. At the present time (and it happened so Saturday) if for any reason the pumps are pushed above the ordinary speed, the water from the boilers is siphoned into the steam cylinders of the pumps, and but for the pumping of oil into the cylinders to drive the water back, it would be impossible to run the pumps at all under high pressure.

If good dry steam had been all that found its way into the cylinders of the pumps during the test Saturday, we are informed that the wells would have been emptied within eight minutes.

The members of the council seem to be agreed that something must be done to increase the supply of water and the putting down of a two inch test well is quite favorably talked of. This would give an idea as to what he water supply would be in case larger wells were put down. In the mean time to guard against fire loss

Memorial.

Inasmuch as it has pleased the Lord over life and death to remove from our Sunday School our highly esteemed scholar, Miss Nina Mae Diehl from labor and self-denial and toil to her eternal rest; therefore,

RESOLVED, that we as a Sunday School deeply mourn the departure of this faithful scholar. We deeply feel our loss and in honor and love keep her in remembrance.

Because this bereavement has come to our friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Diehl and family, we hereby extend to them our heartfelt sympathy in their loss and pray that our heavenly Father, who knoweth all and doeth all things well, may heal the wounds by his unfailing grace and finally grant a glorious re-union.

No parting words shall e'er be spoken
In yonder home so fair,
But songs of joy, and peace and gladness
Will sing forever there.

IT WAS A HOBO SPECIAL

Box Car Containing Twenty-eight Tramps.

Thursday night Chief Suaerbier and his officers made a general round up of the hobo camps, visiting the docks and railway yards from which they gathered in 32 as tough unwashed a lot of men as has recently done themselves the honor to be captured and put out of general circulation. The whole lot were run into the city jail and penned into the four cells, making even standing room worth a premium.

Friday morning they were lined up and from the lot four were kept out for work on the dock as they were needed and the rest were given their choice of 60 days in jail or take a free ride to South Bend. The latter course was chosen and 28 of the men were put into a box car on the Three I road and sent to South Bend with a warning never to return or the jail penalty would immediately be inflicted.

St. Joseph should have some means of providing against the collection of these idle men. Some sort of hard labor which could be always convenient might be a great success. A stone pile, a sand pit or something that could be made a means of public profit might meet the demands and save our city much expense.

In looking over the lot of idle men Will Hone told a story of former times when St. Joseph was effectually cleared of a lot of just such pests for the entire season.

It was when Harry Laplahn was marshal. There was a large camp of hobos gathered just under the hill near where Louis Schulz now lives. They were annoying the whole neighborhood and had become a terror.

One night about 10 o'clock Harry quietly slid down the hill, landing in the midst of the camp with a revolver in each hand. He made the fellows line up, about 40 in number and marched them to the lockup. It was a hot night in August, and when the doors and windows were all closed and fastened, Harry built a roaring fire in the old stove and made it so roasting hot that the men cried for release. They begged and swore and promised to go and never to return. The fire was kept going and the sweat bath process kept bringing out more resolutions and promises which meant better things for St. Joseph.

About 4 o'clock in the morning Harry opened the doors and the men took a run for the country, which has never been equalled since. It was a success. Perhaps something of the kind now would be a good thing.—St. Joseph Press.

PERE MARQUETTE A REAL RAILROAD.

Newly Added, Cafe Cars Give Road a Boost in Public Regard.

One of the recent improvements in the service on the Pere Marquette road is the substitution of the "buffet" service for "cafe" service. There may not be a vast difference in the meaning of the two words but as applied by the Pere Marquette there is not the slightest resemblance between them. The old "buffet" service was a system of feeding passengers on the trains with most any kind of canned stuff warmed over, while on the "cafe" cars now running passengers can get every table luxury from spring chicken at 75 cents a chicken down to the choicest cuts of meat that will be selling for $1.50 for a single portion, if the strike holds on.

Travelers appreciate the change for the better in accommodations and comforts and the passenger business of the line is improving.

The shortest line between Chicago and Detroit is the Wabash, which makes it in 272 miles. The Michigan Central's line is 284 miles, the Pere Marquette line, via of Benton Harbor and Grand Rapids is 308 miles or only 19 miles longer than the Michigan Central. The Wabash usually requires 8 hours and 15 minutes to make the run, but it has a flyer that covers the distance in 7 hours and 10 minutes. The fastest time of the Michigan Central is 7 hours and a half, while the Pere Marquette has a train running from Chicago to Grand Rapids in 4 hours and 50 minutes and one from Grand Rapids to Detroit in 3 and 50 minutes, making the running time from Chicago to Detroit in 8 hours and 40 minutes, or an hour and 10 minutes slower than the Michigan Central. With a through train making fewer stops, the Pere Marquette could easily come within half an hour of the Central's time, and nearly every one would be willing to ride half an hour longer for the sake of passing through St. Joe and Benton Harbor and catching a glimpse of the peach belt. As it is now there are scores of passengers who travel between Chicago and Detroit over the Pere Marquette. The conductors pull "short" mileage for through passengers.

Pere Marquette passenger conductors are very much pleased with their runs into Chicago. When the line only ran as far as New Buffalo the conductors were switched from one train to another and never knew what the morrow had in store for them. It is different now. Each conductor has a certain train and makes three round trips a week. The Pere Marquette line is six miles shorter than the Michigan Central between New Buffalo and Chicago.—News-Palladium.

September Designer

No feminine taste has been disregarded in the Designer for September. For the lover of out-of-doors there is a delightful account of Two Girl Camera Gunners at Cape Cod; for the woman who has a romantic streak in her nature is given a charming love story. The Governor's Coup D'Etat; for one fond of pictures are two pages of most interesting reproductions from life of The Equipages of the World, not to speak of the many artistic illustrations accompanying nearly every article presented this month. School Children of Many Lands, by Laura B. Starr, presents boys and girls from all manner of out-of-the-way places, each bent on securing an education, and a gem for amateur talent is the shadow pantomime Arlette and Orabelle, by Bertha E. Bush. Mottoes for Interior Decoration, by Mary Kilsyth, is full of suggestions to the home-maker, and mothers will be glad of the hints for their little folks' arraying given in When the School Bell Rings, and for the amusement and instruction of the very tiny tots in The Home Kindergarten.

There is a second lesson on that most popular decoration Hardanger Embroidery, two pages full of Pretty Things for the Lace Maker, most explicit directions for making Bermuda Fagoting, and suggestions for Modern Uses for Old-Time Stitches. Points on Dressmaking tells how to make the new jacket with waistcoat, and the Millinery Lesson deals with a stylish bonnet for an elderly woman. Every woman, young or old, who has to do with housekeeping, will be interested in the opening article of The Evolution of Green Help into Competent Servants, by Eleanor Marchant, and will also be glad to find ample installments of her favorite departments, Helps Along the Way, and The Kitchen Kingdom.

The three articles which deal solely with fashions: Fads and Fancies, Fashions and Fabrics and Fashion Notes for Men, are brimful of advance information for the autumn season, and should be read by every one who strives to keep up with the constantly changing modes.

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Haggins, of Melbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by W. N. Brodrick, Druggist. Price 50c & $1.00. Trial bottles free.

"No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Usually when a person gets something given to them they are quick to take it, but our village council are not that kind. Mr. Chapin agreed to give all the electric lights wanted to light up an advertising sign at the depot. But we haven't got the sign or the lights, as yet.

As the days roll by it is becoming more apparent that the democratic national convention made a mistake by placing Mr. Davis on the ticket as vice presidential candidate. Mr. Davis' age is against him. The duties of a vice president are not easy by any means. Should a man of his age succeed to the presidential chair the chances are that he would break down under the great strain. By all fairness to himself and his party he should decline the nomination and a younger man should be put on the ticket.—Benton Harbor Review

As the days roll by it will become more apparent that the democrats made a mistake by placing a ticket in the field at all. The Benton Harbor Review however is only borrowing trouble when it bemoans the fate of Mr. Davis. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Davis will never be called upon to fulfill the "duties of a vice president." His age is not the only thing against him. Although the Review wishes him to decline the nomination, we presume that they would gladly accept his dollars for the campaign fund.

Did you ever stop to think of just how much you expect of the editor? Frequently the "ideal" editor is compared with the man who happens to preside over your own local publication, but dear friends your "ideal" editor is like the flower that never withers, the bird that never alights the land where sunlight never fades—It only exists in the imagination of the sucker whom we are told the elements consume. You know he is expected to publish a paper chuck full of news whether anything happens or not. His judicial mind must be far superior to the district judge and give him pointers in the instructing jury. He must discourse with equal fluency upon the gold and trust questions, Father Jones' Jersey calf, China painting, and Poland-China pigs, preserved peaches and the perseverance of saints, foreign wars and local conditions, justifications by faith, and justifications by type, the doctrine of election, the election returns, the doing of the religious and the details of the prize fights. The receipts of church socials and the squabble in the town council must be equally familiar to his versatile mind.

With all this he must wait on delinquent subscribers, discount the bill of the patent medicine fake, stand off his wash bill, always get well dressed, pay his help every Saturday night, whether a cent has come in or not; write free puffs, teach the town administration how to run the burg; never ask for honors, but help others get them, boom the local candidate who owes him three years' subscription—in short be all things to all men, make no mistakes in dates, take the cussing of the community and never cuss back. This is an ideal editor, and his paper is a daisy—Eau Claire Enterprise.

Farmers, Attention.

We wish to call attention to the wonderful combination offer as advertised in this issue. There are no more popular papers in their line than those we offer, and the price is so low as to appear almost incredulous. The Michigan Farmer, of Detroit, is, as most of our readers know, all that a high grade farm paper can be; it is in every way up to date and popular with its readers. The poultry paper and the family magazine are both first-class. Call or send us your order at once.

Revolution in Rural Life.

A remarkable revolution is taking place in rural life, says the Chicago Tribune. Within the last few years and especially within the last two years, the telephone has become almost as much an agricultural implement as the riding plow. Its ring is almost as integral a part of the music of the up to date farm as chanticleer's crow or the hum of the reaper.

Another great force that is helping along the revolution in rural life is rural free delivery of mail. On July 1, 1899, there were but 200 rural free delivery routes in the United States. There are now 25,000 routes over which letters, metropolitan newspapers, samples of dress goods and government seeds are carried daily to the gates of rural homes for twelve million people. In many sections the interurban electric line is drawing the farmer and the city closer together.

Not long ago the summer boarder on the farm who wanted a bath was commended to the nearest pond, creek or horse trough. Now thousands of farm houses contain bathrooms, equipped with porcelain tubs, hot and cold water.

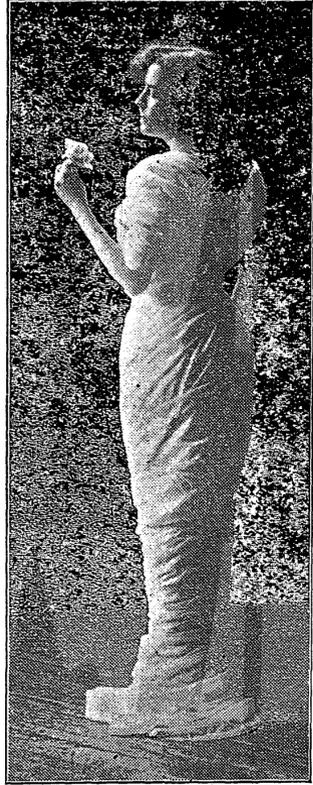

No longer is dinner served on a red tablecloth in the kitchen, but in the dining room on a cloth of immaculate whiteness. The old fashioned farm dinner is also disappearing. There have been formed in many rural communities "beef clubs" whose members kill and divide a steer between them at stated intervals. The farmer, instead of regaling himself on salt pork, now sits down to juicy roasts and noble sirloins, interspersed of course with neck and liver.

One of the most serious problems of American social life is the tendency of the farmers' boys to leave the farm and make for the city. They do this in most cases in obedience to their gregarious instincts, thinking to find in the crowds of the city excitement, pleasure and exhilaration. It is only by making farm life more attractive that the boys can be kept on the farm. The increasing comfort of farm life, if it tends to keep the boy on the farm, will be of inestimable benefit not only to the farmer himself, but to the country as a whole.

Coonley's Cough Balsam, made of wild cherry, horehound, spikenard and honey, is a perfect remedy for coughs and colds, particularly recommended for children. Pleasant to take and helps at once. 25c and 50c at Dr. E. S. Dodd & Son's.

Coming Soon.

Julia Gray, whom Lincoln J. Carter will present at Rough's Opera House on Tuesday, Aug. 16, has possibly excited more critical comment than any of the younger stars before the theater going public. Beauty of face and grace and symmetry of figure always attract a certain amount of attention, at least among the more unthinking easily pleased. And it is to these gifts of nature alone that many of our self-styled stars owe their sole reason for success. These attributes of physical pulchritude possessed in a high degree by Miss Gray, constitute but a minor claim to her eminence in her chosen profession, and are a fitting setting to her talent. A prominent San Francisco critic has penned, in a terse line or two, a characteristic summing of her art, as follows: "Gifted with a certain elusive quality of manner, and a striking personality, which for want of a better term, we call magnetism, Miss Gray at once attracts the attention of the spectator. When added to this is a feminine grace in every movement and gesture, a facial elocution of wide variety, and also a voice of extreme flexibility, attuned to the expression of every emotion, and controlled by an intelligence of a high order, we are face to face with a young woman who must be reckoned with in the future history of our theater."

Julia Gray in, "Her Only Sin"

Our Resorts.

Buchanan resorts are doing their share of the summer resort business this year and are filled to almost their utmost capacity. At Coney Beach the large number of guests are willing away the hours in boating, fishing and bathing. Thursday night they will enjoy a dancing party.

The arrivals at Coney Beach this week are: F. C. Hancock and wife, I. B. Bird and wife, Dr. O. W. Ballard and wife, David Decamp and wife, L. W. Ballard, Everett C. Williams, Mrs. O. V. Sargent, Mr. Payne and wife, E. Bartmen and family, Mr. Farleigh and wife, Dr. Handford and wife, J. W. Watson and family, H. Mealin and wife, Dr. Stoud and wife, The Misses D. Barry, Mrs. Kindall, and Mrs. Ruml and family, of Chicago; and U. R. Irving and family of Galesburg, Ill.

At Clear Lake Farm things have been extremely busy this week. The house is filled with guests, who are enjoying themselves to the very limit. Each day some new feature is planned. Last night they held a dancing and card party, giving over $10 in prizes, which were won as follows: 1st prize, Mrs. Bush, Chicago; 2nd Miss Mabel Edwards, Chicago; Gentlemen, 1st E. Lauburn, Chicago; 2nd S. C. Cook; consolation, Mrs. E. J. Sperring, Chicago; 2nd booby Mrs. M. Samuel, Chicago.

IN MEMORIAM

ISAAC LONG

Was born in Perry Co., Pennsylvania in 1822. In the year 1849 he emigrated to Michigan, where he was married July 26 to Susanna Rough, sister of Katie Vite of Buchanan and George W. Rough, ex-county treasurer, of Portage Prairie. They lived together 53 years when death separated them. The deceased who died Saturday August 6, was 82 years, 6 months, 6 days old.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Long were the parents of eleven children of which seven survive them. Mrs. Joseph Korn, near South Bend; Mrs. Albert Bachman, and Edward Long, near Buchanan; Mrs. O. C. Howe, Lansing; George and Ira of California; Kate yet at home.

He was a liberal supporter of the Evangelical church on Portage Prairie and a Christian of the Evangelical faith, in which faith he died.

He was a prosperous farmer and accumulated a large fortune by his integrity and good business ability, and was esteemed by all. The deceased was a devoted husband, and a kind and loving father.

The cause of his death was heart trouble. He was laid to rest in the family burying ground at Portage Prairie Evangelical church, yesterday morning.

May God comfort the mourning relatives and grant to all a happy reunion in heaven.

People in the vicinity of Homer are worried by the appearance of a bear. Children out berrying have been chased by the animal and now fear to go into the woods. Several have seen it but the bear is generally more frightened than the persons who see it and escapes as soon as possible.

Once upon a time a Munising man was away up north on a hunting trip. He encountered a mountain goat. The goat was too swift for him, and although he took several shots, the goat was always just a little too far around the mountain to be hit. Five times they encircled the mountain, when finally the hunter took his rifle, banged it up against a sapling and bent the barrel in such shape that he could shoot around a corner with ease. Still the frightened goat sped around the mountain like the wind. The hunter took careful aim and fired. He had to dodge the bullet six times as it sped around the mountain in pursuit of the goat. The sixth time around the bullet struck the goat and killed it. This is considered one of the most remarkable feats in Michigan hunting lore, and the beauty of it is that it is absolutely true. A Congressman's Investigation.

Congressman Hamilton of the Fourth District of Michigan, in his speech before the House during the debate on the salary question, made the following tabulation of his investigation of the subject.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Amount. Includes: Number of routes (124), Average length of routes (24.8 miles), Average number houses served (110), Average number horses kept (2), Average original costs outfit ($337.00), Estimated life of outfit (years) (3), Average cost of grain (per bushel $42, Annual total $115.24), Average cost of hay (per ton 9.37, Annual total 77.58), Average cost of repair outfit (16.28), Average cost of horseshoeing (28.44), Average cost of veterinary ser. (7.25), Annual deterioration outfit (33 1/3%) ($112.23), Annual cost of grain (115.24), Annual cost of hay (77.58), Annual cost of repairs to outfit (16.23), Annual cost of horseshoeing (28.44), Annual cost veterinary ser. (7.25), Total cost ($352.07).

"These tables show that rural carriers in the fourth district of Michigan receive less than $250 per year over and above expenses which the government requires them to incur, and the fourth district of Michigan is probably a fair illustration. "Eighty cents per day is not fair pay for the service required. The government requires men who apply for this service to pass examinations to test their competency and requires them to have a certain equipment."

Your Heating Problem.

The season of the year will soon be here when the problem of how to keep one's house at a warm, even temperature at all times, and do it economically, will be uppermost in the minds of thousands. And there's no reason why this cannot be done, both thoroughly and within the means of all.

The Round Oak line of stoves and furnaces will solve all heating problems. These are the most celebrated stoves and furnaces in the world. They burn any kind of fuel—hard or soft coal, wood or coke—and give forth a steady, even heat. They are manufactured by the Estate of P. D. Beckwith, Dowagiac, Michigan.

If you want a good furnace—a furnace that will last a lifetime—find out about the Round Oak and the method of installing it. It will pay you to call on E. S. Roe and see the furnace and get a copy of the furnace book, "Warmth and Comfort," which explains all about the advanced ideas in warm-air furnaces and the good up to date methods necessary to make a furnace work.

The Human Family at St. Louis, Strange People's That Have Been Gathered Within the World's Fair.

Of mechanical devices, all more or less familiar to persons even ordinarily well informed the supply for the amusement of the masses is almost limitless at the World's Fair now at the height of its beauty and impressiveness in St. Louis. But nothing pleases the intelligent visitor more than the strange and wonderful peoples from distant countries or remote parts of our own fair land, whom the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, as it is called, has gathered within the corporate confines of the metropolis of the Mississippi Valley. The most interesting because the better known are the tribes of North American Indians, concerning whom even the school books of today have little to say, yet a study of whom will add considerable to anyone's stock of general information.

The best of these purely human exhibits is to be found at the Cliff Dwellers exhibit. Not only are the people within that great enclosure of rare and curious origin, not only are their manners and customs without a parallel in so-called Indian lore, but they have without much contact with the white man learned the arts of peace to so fine an extent that they are not only good jewelers and silversmiths, excellent weavers, of rare blankets for which they design the strangest of patterns, but they are fine actors, better dancers and the best purveyors of the mysteries of slight-of-hand now to be seen at the world's fair. At the Cliff Dwellers exhibit there are more than three hundred of these remarkable inhabitants of the Painted Desert of the Colorado river in Arizona and New Mexico. They call their home the Painted Desert because the earth of which the rocky soil and the hills about them are composed have, under the action of the wind and the rain, during the thousands of years put on all the hues of the rainbow.

Despite the beauty of this color-scheme, the home of the Moki, the Zuni and the Pueblo Indians, the descendants of the ancient Cliff Dwellers, is a desert

Her Only Sin, Rough's Opera House, Aug. 16

Nearly all our popular actors have some peculiarly salient characteristics, or pronounced mannerisms, that become closely associated with their name in the of the theater going public. Mansfield for his burlesquian carriage and walk, Irving for his weird "hems" and "ahs," Skinner for his picturesque posings and impassioned love-making, Maxine Elliott for her beauty, Mrs Leslie Carter for her emotion and climatic power, and so on down the list. Julia Gray, the new star Mr. Carter has launched forth, seems likely to become famous in a single season, if for no more than her infectious laugh. We all know what a queer thing the average stage laugh is. It

These Indians live in the cliffs of the rocks, hundreds of feet above the surrounding country, and today occupy caverns that thousands of years ago were the habitation of the cave bear, the mountain lion, the puma and the wolf. But the Cliff Dwellers and their descendants were always a peaceful people and it is perhaps for this reason that they still survive and with their ancient, wonderful arts, still flourish.

The most remarkable feature of their diversional exhibit is their snake dance, in which ten to twelve young men of tremendous strength and endurance take part. This dance is an invocation to Gitche Manitou, their deity for rain. During this wild terpsichorean orgy, the dancers charming rattlesnakes, cobras, gila monsters and the terror of mankind, the cobra di capella, or hooded snake of the desert, whose bite is death to any white man in thirty seconds.

Counterpanes Displace Blankets

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway company owns and operates the sleeping cars in service on its various lines, and has just inaugurated an innovation which will appeal to all sleeping car travelers. On its "Southwest Limited" trains between Chicago and Kansas City white counterpanes or bed-spreads have replaced the heavy woolen blankets which have heretofore been in evidence twelve months in each year, much to the discomfort in hot weather of sleeping car patrons. Blankets will be held in reserve and within reach for cool nights. This innovation is calculated to not only add to the comfort of passengers, but it will appeal to all who like a bed that is inviting in appearance.

is either a hard, dry affair, that makes both the actor and audience look apologetic, or else it is a coarse, forced, vulgar bellow, delivered in a truculent fashion, and received with submission, by a long enduring public, for want of something better, Miss Gray's laugh comes like a breath of spring. It starts with a gentle ripple, so natural and unaffectedly, that one swears it must be the very embodiment of the spirit of mirth that cannot be contained, it swells to such an infectious crescendo that one must needs join in with its ringing notes, so full are they with good fellowship and wit, and when its last echo has died away, one turns to ones neighbor with a nod of sympathy as if to say, "Ah! that was a laugh indeed. How much good it does one."

Ancient Reading.

The following we take from the LaPorte County Whig of the date of June 17, 1841, sixty-three years ago: SOMETHING RICH:—We find the following queer advertisement in a Mississippi paper:

TAKE NOTICE.

"With Mr. Ginn the crowd came it—'Some took brandy—some took gin' (Fourth of July at the Springs.) Uriah Ginn takes this occasion to inform his creditors, friends, the Public at large, and the community in particular, that it is his intention to change his place of residence by leaving Rankin county in the course of one, two or three weeks, as may best suit his convenience. He is induced to be thus particular, being (like ten thousand of his neighbors) not exactly prepared to 'shell out the corn,' and wipe out old scores, at the same time he will use every effort to settle all of his debts wherein he has got value received; but he wishes it to be emphatically understood by them who hold the paper with the name saddled on it as an endorser, that he bluffs the whole arrangement. Those who hold claims against him upon that footing can turn the screws and 'grind on,' and if they get the money before Ginn does they can sing it out.
