GOES TO MOTHER

Mrs. Rosing Giving Custody of Willie Vetter, But Corell is Guardian

BUCHANAN WITNESSES

Court Also Retains Jurisdiction in Case, Boy to Make Frequent Visits in Niles

Willie, or George Vetter, will remain in the custody of his mother, Mrs. Rosing, according to the decision of Judge Coolidge made Thursday at St. Joseph, but George A. Corell of Niles, is still the boy's guardian, and must make reports to the court concerning the boy's condition every so often.

The court also retains absolute jurisdiction in the case, and the decision cannot be called permanent.

Atty Riford, who represented the boy's mother, Mrs. Rosing objected to the clause retaining Mr. Corell as guardian, but the court was obdurate and insisted on the point. It is possible that Atty. Riford will appeal the case on account of this part of the decision.

The boy himself does not seem dissatisfied with the result which makes his mother his care-taker. He was put on the stand and testified that he loved his mother and was very happy in his present surroundings, but he also loved his aunt, Mrs. Rhodes.

The judge also entered a clause directing that the boy be brought to Niles often for a visit with his aunt, and that he remain on these visits several weeks at a time. Mr. Corell is also directed to visit the boy in Chicago, and to make frequent reports to the court.

Atty. White, who represented the guardian, was unable to find any evidence among the Chicago acquaintances of Mrs. Rosing who would testify against her character, but introduced several from Buchanan to whose testimony Atty. Riford objected on the ground that it was too old. The court allowed it however.

Atty. White introduced a letter from Mrs. Rosing to Mr. Vetter written in 1901, in which she said she was married to Mr. Rosing at that time, while her marriage certificate, shown in court, showed that she was married in August, 1904.

Mrs. Rosing first denied having written the letter, according to reports, but afterwards admitted it, saying that she had done it to tease Mr. Vetter.

The courts decision may be considered in the nature of a compromise and the permanent decision will rest on the future circumstances which arise.

Elect Officers

Friday night the Modern Woodman held their annual election of officers, the following being those elected:

- V. C., Steve Arney
- W. A., John W. Broceus
- B., A. Emerson
- Clerk, W. F. Runner
- Escort, G. W. Rose
- Watchman, T. Bunker Sentry, Walter Taylor
- Board of Managers, H. Roe and J. P. Beistle.

Physicians, H. M. Brodrick, L. E. Peck, J. A. Garland and O. Curtis. After the election was over refreshments were served and a general good time enjoyed by all.

Game Warden Chapman estimates in his monthly report to the secretary of state that 4,000 deer were shot in Michigan during November. This number is not more than one-third the number slain last year, according to the best obtainable information. The warden says that November was one of the busiest months in the history of the department, 123 cases having been investigated and 53 prosecutions commenced. The department collected $483 in fines and costs.

Wm. Hodgson, Niles and Reuben Young, Galien, Start Big Suits

ARE INTERESTING SUITS

Plaintiffs Allege That They Were Badly Hurt While Working for The Co.

Reuben Young, of Galien and Wm. H. Hodgson who resides near Niles have begun separate suits for damages against the Michigan Central railroad company for injuries received while in the employ of the company.

The amount sued for in each case is $10,000, and Attys. Burns & Sweet represent the plaintiffs.

The suit was commenced today by declaration by the service of papers on the company through its Niles agent this afternoon by Wilbur N. Burns in person.

In their allegations the men claim that while laying tile for the company east of Vandalia, Mich., the ditch in which they were working caved in upon them, resulting in serious and permanent injury to both plaintiffs.

Hodgson claims that he is paralyzed in the lower part of his body so that he is incapacitated for work, by his inability to move his lower limbs.

Young was hurt about the shoulders and is now unable to move his arms so that he can work to earn his living, and his injuries appear to be less serious than Hodgson's.

In their declarations the men assert that the ditch was 7 feet deep and very narrow at the bottom. It was wholly unprotected from such an accident as happened, and the plaintiffs, as they had not constructed the trench themselves, did not know that it was dangerous and depended on the railroad company to guard against such a contingency. The accident happened on February 6, 1904.

At the time of the accident both Hodgson and Young were employed by the Michigan Central railway company as common laborers.

The company was engaged in building a track tank in the center of the Air Line track about 100 feet in length at a point a mile and a half east of Vandalia.

To supply this track tank with water a trench had been dug for a six inch pipe line, which was to be run from the water tower at Vandalia to the track tank. This trench was 7 feet in depth, 18 inches wide at the bottom and 30 inches wide at the top.

The soil in that vicinity is of a loose sand and gravel formation, but on the day of the accident the top of the ground was frozen hard and the trench had the appearance of solidity.

But a cave in resulted which caught the two plaintiffs at the bottom of the trench and both claim to have been badly injured, and they charge their injuries to the negligence of the company in not providing proper safeguards by plankling and bracing the sides of the trench.

The accident will be well remembered by readers of the Sun. The two men were taken to their respective homes and have been under a doctor's care ever since.—Niles Sun.

Watch Out if You Get Letters Belonging to Others

Postmasters have been notified by the postal authorities at Washington, who recognize the liability of postmasters to get letters in the wrong boxes; that the have fixed a penalty of $25 on persons taking mail out of offices other than their own and not returning it. The idea is to have people look at their mail before leaving the office, and if they have anything bearing the address of others, should return it at once.

CARES FOR THE ORPHANS.

Australian Has Proved Herself a Good Stepmother to Her Unfortunate Bairns.

Australia is a continent without an orphanage, a country without an orphan. Each waif is taken to a receiving house, where it is cared for until a country home is found. The local volunteer societies canvass their neighborhoods and send to the children's committee of the destitute board the names of any families they have found where children may be placed. The children's committee selects the home which it judges is best adapted to the development of the child in question.

No child is placed in a family so poor that the child might suffer. The foster parent receives a sum averaging $1.25 per week for the care of the child and for proper clothing. When of school age the child must be sent to school. The local volunteer committee looks after its care and culture and zealous neighbors often assist in watching the growth and education of these happy children.

When the child is 14 years old he begins to work. His earnings are placed in the postal savings bank and at the age of 17 or 18 he goes out into the world an independent man. The state, at an expense of less than $70 a year, has raised a man or woman to contribute to its wealth, and prevented the manufacture of a criminal, and the expense of courts, prisons and reformatories.

Treed By "Dead" Wolf

A dispatch from Elm, Mich. furnishes one of the best tales of the hunting season in which Fred Hamilton, the jeweler, is the principal along with a timber wolf. The Elm story is as follows:

Hunters who have recently returned from the upper peninsula tell of an unpleasant half hour which Fred Hamilton, a well known sportsman of St. Joseph, had with a timber wolf.

While alone in the woods, Mr. Hamilton encountered a pack of the animals and shot one of them. When the hunter, supposing the wolf was dead, attempted to examine it, the animal regained its feet so suddenly that the sportsman, who had laid his gun aside, was obliged to climb a tree. The death of the wolf later from loss of blood released Mr. Hamilton from his unpleasant predicament.—News Palladium.

Must Move Goods

The Thompson Furniture company of Niles is in receipt of a large consignment of caskets and funeral supplies from the Batesville Casket Co., who have established a distributing station here. This station will be in charge of the Thompson Furniture Co., who must close out the balance of the big stock of furniture at once, to make room for the accommodation of the caskets, etc. During the next few days all kinds of furniture will be sacrificed, as it is imperative that these goods be moved without delay. that which has no very close connection with smallpox, but so nearly analogous that it gives a most apt illustration. This red pimple is fiery, and sets up an intolerable itching round about itself. If it is squeezed so as to empty it of any matter it contains, it yields only a very little watery humor, and is rendered decidedly worse for the squeezing. The redness which surrounded it soon after it first appeared increases, and in a few hours it develops into a carbuncle, and becomes a very serious matter indeed. It soon eats into the very bone, and leaves a mark which will last for life.

Now, in such a case, a corrosive substance has been developed in this pimple, and the tissues around it have been rendered liable to rapid destruction under the inflammatory action which has been set up round the place where it has been developed.

If soon after this pimple appears it is persistently soaked with vinegar, or acetic acid, so diluted that it causes only a gentle smarting, it will cease its itching and burning in about two minutes. It will in four minutes or less disappear, with the exception that a small red spot will remain at the part for perhaps a day or two. The acid has entirely neutralized the corrosive substance that was developed, and has also given perfect health to the parts which would otherwise have been wasted away in a very ugly sore.

A pimple of smallpox is of the very same nature as this, if the disease is serious, and the fever does injury to the tissues on which the virus, as it is called, so greatly plays. The acid, which performs the double service in the case of our incipient carbuncle, does the same service in the case of any number. It will not do to despise the use of such a simple remedy.

The acid must be soaked into the actual pimples till it is felt reaching the sensitive nerves that lie under them, or little or no good is to be expected. If a cloth dipped in vinegar is loosely laid on the skin, when that has got coated with dry humor, so that no acid gets further than this dry coating, it is unreasonable to look for any decided effect. Or if ointment is smeared over the face and other parts in such a way that the oily substance of that ointment will keep any acid it may contain from reaching the inner skin, which must be reached if good is to be done, the remedy must fail. All such things would be futile in the case of the carbuncle, just because the chemical and vital process to be desired could not possibly take place. But it is perfectly within the reach of any ordinary hand so to soak the pimples from their first appearance as to get the acid fairly into them. It will go, in fact, through them and reach the tissues beyond if it is well and sufficiently done.

There is a very foolish idea that the more eruptions that appear on the surface in such a disease, the better. The notion is that all that appears in the pox has been diseased matter in the blood. It is not taken into consideration that the diseased matter is formed in by far its greatest measure in the pores and out of their substance, and that of the myriad nerves supplying the skin. If this destructive process can be arrested or lessened, there is all the more likelihood of life, and that with little injury to anything. If it is not arrested there must be much less likelihood of life, and so much more injury, even if life is spared.

So far, what is wanted is obvious—that is, the thorough soaking of the pustules of smallpox with a neutralizing acid, such as we find vinegar to be. But it will be well to guard at this point against doing this in any way inconsistent with other conditions of life and returning health. For example, this treatment of pustules must not be so done that the acid will do what the corrosive substance of the smallpox itself would have done.

Treatment of smallpox pimples that will cause the least real pain is not advised, but only so much as will be felt. Then it is not necessary to sponge at one time the pustules over the entire body. You will do better if you take one or two pimples and treat effectually a small portion of the affected skin, and then pass from part to part. In this way you can use a little fine oil after this soaking with vinegar, and so keep off all danger of chill such as might occur if too much of the surface were treated at once with the evaporating acid.

This Home Health club treatment for smallpox has been tried by a great number of its members, and has been found very highly effectual in a large majority, if not all, cases.

M. C., of Racine, must write again and comply with the rules given at the bottom of the column if an answer is desired.

Geneseo, Ill. Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind. Dear Doctor—Please allow a word from experience. In regard to the coffee cure for sick headache that some one lately sent for club notes, I agree with you that one treatment of that kind would put many stomachs as well as systems out of business for some time. Too drastic and harmful. In too many cases sick headaches are caused by coffee alone. Why is it that cold is not taken into account more as a cause of sick heads and stomachs? When sick headache is imminent, I dress warmly feet and lower limbs especially, and have the stomach well protected. I then walk in the open air or find some work to do out of doors, also drink a few sips of hot water every half hour until relieved. While water is necessary to our being there is nothing like cold water to take the tone from a weak stomach. I speak from experience in my own family, at least. A doctor of 50 years' experience once told me that cold water should never be drunk when the stomach is affected that the head were present. Doctor, persist in your stand against tea and coffee, especially the latter, because you are right.—Mrs. L. I receive so many letters which tell of the improved condition after drinking tea and coffee and my own experience and observation so firmly confirm all of them that I cannot do otherwise than decide against their use, especially by people who do not lead active lives. A man who works hard out of doors all day may drink coffee with impunity and in many cases benefit for many years, but when idle it is best let alone.

All communications for the Home Health Club should be addressed to Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind., and contain name and address in full and at least four cents in postage.

NON-RESIDENT LICENSES FEW

Hunters Flock to Other States for Game

Grand Rapids, Dec. 1.—Although Michigan is one of the greatest game states in the union, and last year granted 19,061 deer licenses for which she received $14,295.75, the number of non-resident hunters who annually come to the state are fewer than in almost any other of the game states. In 1902 53 non-resident licenses were granted in Michigan, while last year there were 45, showing a falling off rather than an increase in the number of sportsmen who seek the hunting grounds of the state. The total sum received for non-resident licenses last year was $1,125.

In comparison with this Minnesota granted 333 non-resident licenses last year and received for them $5,295 and Wisconsin granted 659 licenses and received fees amounting to $12,005. But of all the game states in the union, Maine leads in the number of non-resident licenses issued. Last year 1,697 non-resident licenses were issued and the fees amounted to $25,455.

A comparison of the resident licenses also shows Michigan to be behind her sister states. Last year Wisconsin granted 78,164 and received that number of dollars for them, the license fee being $1 and all of it going to the state treasury for the benefit of the game department. Michigan granted 19,061 licenses and received $14,295.75. Last year Illinois enacted its first license. The fee was $1 and 95,000 licenses were sold.

From these figures it will be seen that under the present law Michigan is not receiving anything like a fair proportion of the money which other states receive for permission to hunt their game. In most of the states the licenses are issued by the state game and fish warden department on blanks furnished by the secretary of state to whom also a report is made at the end of the season without additional expense to the state. In Michigan licenses are granted by the clerks of the various counties and they are allowed by law to retain one-third of the fee so collected for their services in issuing the licenses. The balance of the money is turned over to the account of the game and fish department for the protection of the game laws. Thus it will be seen that Michigan has nowhere near the same resources at the disposal of the game department as have most of the other states.

One reason why so few non-resident licenses are taken out in Michigan is that the law does not permit the transportation of game out of the state under any conditions. A non-resident may come into the state, pay $5 for the privilege of shooting a deer or two, and then cannot take his venison or even the head or hide back to his home with him. This is done, of course, in order that Michigan game may be for Michigan hunters, and is considered the best means of protecting the game. In other states however, hunters are allowed to take their game home with them under certain conditions, and by prohibiting the sale of game in the markets results are obtained which are believed to be as good as those under the Michigan law. In Maine, for instance, a hunter may take his deer and one moose home with him, but he must accompany the game and identify it at any station where a game warden may see fit to call on him. The venison must be tagged, showing when, where and by whom the deer was shot and a careful record is kept which makes it impossible for hunters to take out more than the allotted number of deer or moose. Charles E. Brewster, for 18 years connected with the game department of Michigan, thinks the non-resident law of Michigan an outrage.

"A Michigan man is allowed to shoot deer by the payment of 75c," he said, "but a non-resident must pay $25 and then is not allowed to take home with him any part of the trophy. It is an outrage and the law should be changed so as to deal fairly with those who would hunt game in Michigan's forests."

Speaking of law discriminating against non-resident hunters it is interesting to learn that hunting licenses were issued in Virginia more than two hundred years ago and that New Jersey enacted a non-resident law as far back as 1719. This was the first law discriminating against non-residents. A similar law was enacted in North Carolina in 1745, and its provisions are interesting. Section 4 of this act reads as follows:

"That every person who shall hunt and kill deer in the king's waste not possessed of a settled habitation in the same, shall be obliged to produce a certificate when required of his having planted and tended 5,000 corn hills, at five feet distance each hill, the preceding year or season, in the county where he shall hunt, under the hands of at least two justices of the peace of the said county, and the hand of at least one of the church warden of the parish where such person planted and tended such corn as aforesaid."

Feeding the Birds in Winter

In the December Woman's Home Companion Ernest Harold Baynes, the naturalist, tells how a number of boys in a New England town provided winter food for the birds. The article is full of suggestions for others. He says:

"On arriving at a large field or other wide open space which was likely to be seen by birds which might be flying about in the vicinity, a squad would stop to establish a feeding-station. Setting down their bags of grain, they attacked the snow with their shovels, and getting right down to the ground, they cleared a space perhaps twenty feet square. On this bare ground they scattered grain and bread, and then went along until they came to another open space. In the meantime the boy with the suet would look about for some tree which he considered likely to be visited by insectivorous birds, and having found one, he would establish a feeding-station of another kind. In some cases he would place a lump of suet against the trunk, and tack a piece of wire netting tight down over it. The idea was to prevent crows, squirrels or cats from carrying off the whole lump at once, and at the same time to give the smaller birds a chance to take all they wanted through the meshes of the netting. In other cases he would tie the suet or fat meat to a well-exposed horizontal branch, wrapping it around with string, that no amount of it could be carried off at once by those for whom it was not especially intended. In this way the boys established about fifty feeding-stations during the afternoon. That night there was a heavy snow-storm, which buried the feeding-stations, so that most of the work was undone; but the boys were not the kind to be discouraged at trifles, and the next afternoon they were out again with their shovels and their bags of grain, and they not only uncovered all the feeding-stations which they had made in the first place, but established about twenty-five new ones, and there was now a chain of these stations which extended all around the town. And after each succeeding storm these manly fellows made a point of clearing the snow away and scattering fresh food, and their splendid work bore good fruit. Many times during the winter I visited those feeding-stations, and I never once failed to find scores, if not hundreds, of birds taking advantage of the hospitality extended to them by their school-boy friends."

WEEDS

Consumption is a human weed flourishing best in weak lungs. Like other weeds it's easily destroyed while young; when old, sometimes impossible.

Strengthen the lungs as you would weak land and the weeds will disappear.

The best lung fertilizer is Scott's Emulsion. Salt pork is good too, but it is very hard to digest.

The time to treat consumption is when you begin trying to hide it from yourself. Others see it, you won't.

Don't wait until you can't deceive yourself any longer. Begin with the first thought to take Scott's Emulsion. If it isn't really consumption so much the better; you will soon forget it and be better for the treatment. If it is consumption you can't expect to be cured at once, but if you will begin in time and will be rigidly regular in your treatment you will win.

Scott's Emulsion, fresh air, rest all you can, eat all you can, that's the treatment and that's the best treatment.

We will send you a little of the Emulsion free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

HAS ANCIENT CREEK MEDAL

Muskogee, I. T., Citizen Is Owner of Bit of Metal Which Sealed Famous Treaty.

A silver medal struck in commemoration of a treaty between the Creek people and Great Britain during the reign of George III. is in possession of a Muskogee (I. T.) citizen. The medal weighs three and a half ounces and measures three inches in diameter and is in an excellent state of preservation, having been exhibited in a buckskin pouch and exhibited only on occasions when national festivities were observed.

Upon the face of the medal appears in bold relief a picture of King George and an inscription as follows: "Georgius III., O. G. M. bria fra rex F. D." Upon the reverse side appears the picture of an Indian and a white man sitting under a tree smoking the pipe of peace, with three ships resting at anchor in the distance and a rude settler's home nestled among the trees by the seashore. Above this picture is the legend: "Happy while united." Surrounding the medal is an eagle's wing and a pipe of peace.

This treaty medal is regarded as being the oldest in existence and probably commemorates the first compact established between the Indian and the Saxon. It was handed down from chief to chief until about half a century ago, when it was intrusted to the head men of the Tokepache town, the most powerful of all the Creek towns. The medal then disappeared and was forgotten by all except by the Snake faction, who have for the last five years endeavored to recover it, but without success. With the medal once in their possession the Snakes believed that they could secure the intercession of Great Britain in their struggle to restore their once happy estate in America. Though unsuccessful in their efforts to win possession of the long-lost, rare and sacred treasure, they did not give up the search, but continued to seek.

THE HOUSE BOY BRIGADE.

Many London Orphans Are Trained in Housework—Organized by Lady Wolverton.

The House Boy Brigade is an organization in London which owes its existence to the late Gianna, Lady Wolverton, who founded it in 1870 for orphan lads. At the headquarters of the organization the boys are trained for domestic service and other occupations. After the boys have received the primary instructions, they are sent out daily to the houses of gentlemen's families to assist with household duties, run errands or whatever may be required of them. They appear in uniforms and are most useful when a gap has to be filled at short notice. Most of the boys do well. The largest number eventually enter the British army and navy. They receive a simple but sound practical education. Last year all the lads spent a delightful fortnight camping at Dorsetshire.

Once a year an "old boys' supper" is held, when invitations are issued to all former inmates in whatever part of the world they may be. On these occasions prizes are distributed to those who have been especially faithful in their various positions.

He Didn't Want Much.
"I've seen a good many different sorts of tramps," recently remarked a woman who lives in the suburbs, "but the prize article stopped at my house the other day. I happened to be in the kitchen when he knocked at the door.

"Lady," he said to the cook, "would you be so kind as to give a poor man a drink of water?"

"The cook picked up a glass and held it out, pointing to the pump.

"Thank you very much, lady," said the tramp, without moving a muscle, "and now if you'll please hold that glass and the other lady kindly work the pump handle we shan't be long."—Philadelphia Press.

LETTER FROM MANILA

Written to Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Darling

IS VERY INTERESTING

Much Information That is of Interest Given

Mr. Alfred Darling, who is employed in the Record office has just received a letter from a friend in Manila, which he has consented to allow us to print. The letter is very interesting and gives one a good idea of some of the customs in that far away part of Uncle Sam's domain.

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 12, 1914.
Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Darling,
Buchanan, Mich.,

My Dear Friends:—

Your letter of August 15th was very gladly received by me on October 5. In accordance with your request I shall endeavor to tell you enough about Manila and its surroundings to give you at least a small idea of our new home in this country. We have been here just seven months today, and nearly every day has unfolded something new and strange to our observation.

There are flowering trees and vines in profusion here, but not nearly so many beautiful house plants and garden flowers as at home. Roses are very scarce, but I once saw a few old-fashioned hollyhocks growing in a yard. The favorite house plants are the palm and foliage plant, the latter being of many varieties and colors more beautiful than those grown in the states.

Numerous rice fields are scattered about the city, but it is out in the provinces where the extensive rice growing is carried on. Among the principal islands of the Philippines are, Luzon, (on which Manila is situated) Mindinao, Mindoro, Samar, Panay, Masbate and many other and smaller ones. Each island is divided into provinces and each province has a chief or head called the "presidente".

Great quantities of lumber are brought from these islands into Manila where it is used for furniture making, house building, etc. Many beautiful and expensive woods grow in the dense forests of these islands, some of them being camphor wood, red narra and acle. The red narra closely resembles our mahogany of the states, and the acle is like oak. The camphor wood is used to a great extent for making trunks as it is the only kind of wood which will prevent the roaches and moths from destroying clothing and other valuable articles which we wish to preserve.

The population of Manila, the capital and chief city of the islands, is about 400,000 and it is very widely scattered about. So much so that it is very inconvenient in getting about either on business or pleasure, especially during the rainy season, which is nearly over now. It has lasted this year about five months, a little longer than usual. We are looking forward very expectantly to the complete installation of the new electric railway service. The cars are expected from the States about the first of the year, when it will be in working order. Those who have lived in this city can thoroughly appreciate the great benefit this new improvement will be to the citizens here. It will also do away, to a great extent with horse killing, which at present is going on at a rapid pace. Our Filipino brothers seem to understand very little concerning the care and handling of horses. It is very seldom I go on the street without seeing from one to half a dozen balky ponies with their irate drivers lashing and jerking at the reins, with usually several lookers on engaged in the enjoyable process of pushing the carromata wheels around to compel the pony to go. But the Oriental ponies are gritty little fellows and hold their own for quite a time sometimes against their tormentors. It is to a great extent the driver's fault, as he sits the livelong day pounding those ponies along over bad roads and good, up hill and down until they are so completely tired out they have to be led home to their stalls. The driver earns 20 cents gold for the first hour, and 15 cents for every hour after. This seems like very small pay, but the Filipinos live mostly on fish and rice, which he can buy very cheaply at the market. The average cost of the laboring man's living is seven pesos a month. A peso is a Philippine dollar and equal to just half as much as U. S. currency.

Just at present there is the most intense business depression existing that has ever been known in these islands. It is thought that this sudden stand-still of all business matters is caused to a great extent by the removing the Mexican silver and establishing the currency on the Philippine or gold basis. When this great change has gotten well under way a great increase of business prosperity is anticipated. Generally speaking, nearly everybody is waiting very anxiously to learn the results of the presidential election. Very little is heard over here concerning it and its probabilities. By the time you receive this letter we will probably know.

Discussion of Winter Fashions

NOTABLE among fashionable colors this season is the real orange shade—very effective when used sparingly, such as to face in lapels or border a vest edge—or a petticoat of orange silk looks well with a brown or black gown.

Orange shades will take the place of emerald green for day wear, while for evening use pink will lead, and next to this, black—for black evening gowns are considered very smart even if worn entirely black, or relieved with a dash of color, such as blue, pink, white, or orange.

Walking dresses are made with a short skirt, and bolero basque coat in saque style, or the new fitted back coat; and la mode is so lenient, that the time is now here when one can really wear what becomes one.

A WALKING GOWN.
(Made of Cloth and Trimmed with Bands of Silk of the Same Color.)

If you desire to dress in a plain and unobtrusive style you can do so—or if you wish to dress in the latest fashion, there are the lovely Directoire and Louis creations; while as to the "happy medium" styles, never has fashion been so generous. A word, however: do not wear the Directoire styles unless you are moderately tall and slim—as slowness is essential for this style of dress.

There is absolutely no season of the year, nor time of the day, when blouses are not admissible—indeed, blouses are worn as much as ever—and a very welcome addition they are to one's wardrobe.

For morning use there are no end of pretty blouses in flannel, with and without yokes—box-pleated, tucked, inserted, and made more or less fussy as fancy may dictate, and embroidered and embellished as time and taste may allow. Some of the new flannels and such-like fabrics, including Viyella, are manufactured in such delightful colorings and designs as to find favor for afternoon wear—and with a broad yoke of Yak, or other coarse lace, they are quite stylish-looking. For more dressy wear, nothing seems too elaborate as to trimming, nor dainty as to fabric for the blouse, and any amount of needlework enters into the making—such as bands of insertion, tucks, appliques of lace, fancy stitchery, etc. Flannel blouses are ornamented with the old-fashioned English embroidery, worked with silk or "Peri-Lusta" thread; while the lovely Norwegian and Danish embroidery known as "Hardanger" work is most decorative for any dress fabric that permits of thread-drawing, or the "Sawtooth" stitch used in this work makes such a pretty finish to cuffs, collars, etc. Sleeves are gaining in size, and many of the newest models stand well out from the shoulders, and so lend the appearance of breadth. At the same time, however, the broad yoke effect, sloping on to the shoulders, is yet favored; while deep cuff finishes are mostly shown for the bishop or leg of mutton style of sleeve, or for the full French shape there is a long cuff, handsomely embroidered and finished with a ruffle of real lace, which nearly covers the hand.

Mentioning blouses, reminds me of the pretty collar and cuff sets now arranged, as well as the smart "twice round the neck" ties of glace silk ribbon, decorated with colored embroidery in silk. The ends are V-shape, and often hem-stitched or fagotted; then raised dots, crescents, stars, or even cut work devices are worked in colored silk, or that useful thread, "Peri-Lusta," which has all the appearance of silk, and washes perfectly. The collar and cuff sets are of glace silk, edged with narrow crochet or tatted edging worked in silk; or fine linen or canvas sets ornamented with Hardanger embroidery are the very latest, this lovely work also ornamenting blouses in the shape of straps for box-pleats, yokes, etc.

For evening blouses there are roses, asters, etc., made of chiffon, with ribbon or velvet ends, finished with the flower bud. These floral additions replace the velvet bow and rosette so long worn, and are extremely chic. Floral garnitures are much used for evening gowns—the small banksia roses being the favorite blossom. The coarse Yak or woollen lace, used so much for dress trimmings, is often decorated with cross-stitch worked in red and blue, pink and pale green, two shades of orange, etc. It makes an effective trimming for flannel blouses; the stitching being added to the lace, and much enhances its decorative possibilities.

For day wear the tailor-made gown with short skirt and smartly cut coat, fitting at the back, regulation coat sleeve, and a small basque, is in good taste; then for more dressy wear comes the full skirt, even on the ground all round, the coat, somewhat of the bolero order, with large sleeves standing out from the shoulders, where they are pleated, gathered, or gored, while the cuff terminates with a full frill of lace.

OBSERVATORY ON VOLCANO

Observation of Weather Conditions in Peru Is Made from Top of High Mountain.

There is one American meteorological station of which people seldom hear which beats all others for height, says the Washington Post. Although it is an American institution, it is not in the United States, and although it is in constant operation night and day there is no observer there, the place being so high up that no living being can stay there.

It is a mile higher up than the famous observatory of Pike's Peak and three Mount Washingtons, piled one on top of the other, would lack nearly 1,000 feet of reaching the base of the building.

This weather observatory is operated by Harvard university and is built near the top of the volcano El Misti, which rises 20,320 feet above the sea back of the town of Arequipa, in Peru. It is perched on the edge of a huge crater, from which at intervals great clouds of sulphurous vapor roll about the station or shoot for about 1,000 feet into the air.

All sorts of delicate scientific instruments for recording the temperature, the force and direction of the wind, the condition of the atmosphere and other things which meteorologists desire to know are collected in this dreary, desolate place, and here they work without a human being coming near them except once in three months, when an observer takes a perilous trip up from the observatory situated lower down to take the records and wind up the clock which keeps the instruments going.

Some of the scientists in the Arequipa observatory, which is also run by Harvard and is itself 7,550 feet above the level of the sea, cannot make the trip at all, and some of those who make it have to give up the job after awhile because the "soroche" or mountain sickness overcomes them. But month after month and year after year the click, click of the instrument goes on in the deserted observatory, while the sulphurous clouds roll about it, the volcano growls and threatens destruction, and far below the earth, where men live, spreads out like a map, with the "wrinkled sea" crawling to the coast.

Oldest Sexton on Earth.

Charles E. Pope, of Sandwich, Mass., is the oldest sexton in the country, if not in the world. He has rung the bell of the First Polish church of that town for nearly three-quarters of a century. Mr. Pope was born July 11, 1820, and was made sexton at a very early age. Mr. Pope is a most remarkable old gentleman, and, unlike the average sexton, he is an educated man.

Leo Schramm, employed by the Geo. R. Rich Mfg. Co., was walking across the room at the factory, yesterday afternoon, when he tripped on a piece of shafting that was lying on the floor throwing him between two machines with such force as to shake him up badly. The pain was so intense that he nearly fainted. He was taken to Hotel Lee and Dr. Emmons called, and at once restored him. Mr. Schramm was able to go to work this morning.

Z. H. Taylor, is the plaintiff in the malpractice suit now being tried at Cassopolis against Dr. G. R. Herkimer, of Dowagiac. Taylor had a leg broken in a runaway in 1902. Dr. Herkimer attended and the charge is that through improper care the leg is now shorter by several inches. The doctor is having no end of trouble, Mrs. Annie Miller having secured a verdict of $500, which was paid. Still a third suit is on the calendar for December, the plaintiff in this case being Hiram Flanders.

The office force of the Geo. R. Rich Mfg. Co. arrived from Chicago yesterday. They are Mr. W. B. Johnston, Mgr., H. P. Fields, Treasurer, W. J. Swift, Time-keeper and shipping clerk, and Miss S. M. Preston, stenographer. Mr. Geo. R. Rich, the superintendent has been here for some time. Besides the office force about twelve or fifteen of the workmen also came yesterday. The machinery is all here and the Record is informed that within ten days the plant will be in full operation.

Last week a near by municipality entertained a tramp in the lockup and the next morning, according to custom, took him across the road to a bakery to break his fast. Besides doing that, when the baker's back was turned he broke open the cash till, broke the law at the same time and wound up by breaking for freedom, all while the innocent baker had left the front of the store. He went out the door to gaze at the distant prairie and liked the view so well he decided to lie himself there. He hasn't been found yet.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Haslett entertained about fifty relatives and friends at their home south of town, Saturday evening, the event being the 25th anniversary of their marriage. After partaking of the good things amply provided and an enjoyable evening having been spent, all departed at a late hour for their homes, expressing themselves as having had a rousing good time and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Haslett many more years of wedded happiness. To show their appreciation, a number of useful and valuable presents were left with the host and hostess as future reminders of the happy event.

At the present time twenty-eight people who are employed by the Geo. R. Rich Mfg. Co., have arrived in town and there are still others to come. Those who are here are: Geo. R. Rich, W. B. Johnston, H. P. Field, W. J. Swift, Miss S. M. Preston, H. F. Moore, John Henderson, Morris Backner, Oscar Anderson, Wm. Hansen, Chas. Storbeck, A. Ostregren, Frank Smith, Arthur Holmberg, Fred Lambert, Joseph Havencroft, Edward Hill, Joseph Hillom, P. E. Moore, Axel Jensen, Bert Conant, J. Bergquist, Oscar Fredrickson, S. Wegland, W. H. Burnham, Leo Schramm, B. L. Bailey, Ira Rich.

N. S. Potter, treasurer of the Jackson-Battle Creek electric road, and associated with the Spitzers of Toledo and others in the ownership of the property, said Saturday afternoon that the story from Marshall that a meeting of the officers of his road and of the Michigan Central had occurred at Kalamazoo, at which it had been arranged for the steam road to buy the electric, was entirely without foundation. "It is not even gossip," he said. "Such a move has not even

A short time ago a whip was stolen from a buggy belonging to John Adams at Romeo. Instead of reporting the matter to the officers at once, he bided his time till the following Saturday night, and then inspected the whips in all the rigs tied up on the streets for the evening. When he came to his own whip he waited there until the owner of the rig came out, put the case up to the latter in a convincing way, and compelled him to make good for the trouble he had caused.

Former Resident is Interred Here

Mrs. Alanson C. Harger was born in Lima, Ohio, Jan. 27, 1832, and died at West Bay City, Mich., Nov. 21, 1904, after having been stricken with apoplexy. The deceased enjoyed good health until Monday afternoon when she was taken without warning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harger came to Michigan from Kendallville, Ind., about twenty-five years ago, first settling at Avery where a son, George D. Harger was born. Later they moved to Three Oaks. They owned the farm which is now in possession of Mr. W. K. Whitehead and for a time Mr. Harger conducted the blacksmith shop at the rear of the Burkhart & Hess meat market. From here the family moved to Buchanan where the father died, 15 years ago. From that date the mother had resided at the home of her sister, Mrs. Julia A. Depler, at Rossville, Ill., she being the only surviving member of a family of fourteen children, and at the home of her son, who is pastor of the First Baptist church in West Bay City.

The funeral was held this forenoon at 10 o'clock at the M. E. church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. C. E. Deal officiated and interment was made at Riverside cemetery where the mother of the deceased was laid to rest many years ago. Sarah Ross Folwell was the maiden name of the deceased. James B. Straw and wife of Carey Ohio, a son of Mrs. Harger by a previous marriage, and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Harger were the relatives who attended the obsequies.—Three Oaks Acorn Nov. 25.

A Letter From Kansas.
Edmond, Kas., Nov. 28. —
Editor Record:
As I had not written a communication to the RECORD for some time, I thought I would let you know how Northwest Kansas was progressing. We are having a very fine fall indeed and corn is being gathered speedily in this part of the West. It is a good crop and is being mostly fed up by stock men and feeders. There will be perhaps fifty thousand bushels marketed in this town, where if none was fed there would be two hundred thousand bushels cribbed up and shipped. Corn is worth now 31 cents a bushel and is making all the way from 20 to 50 bushels to the acre and some fields of extra large varieties go as high as 65 bushels to the acre.
My brother from your place was out to see me and made a two weeks' stay and we had a splendid visit together. We hunted chickens, quails, ducks and rabbits. My brother saw two wolves, but did not get close enough to take their scalps. We drove out one evening to a cattle ranch about five miles distant and I will try and describe it as we saw it.
The ranch has 11,000 acres in it. There is 1,000 acres in alfalfa and it will produce 6 tons to acre during the season, or 6,000 tons of feed. About the first thing we noticed was a dipping schute where they dip cattle and hogs. It is nearly filled with water and then National Cattle Dip and sulphur is used on top of the water. Most of the fat stock had been shipped. We saw 125 three year old steers that would weigh from 1,200 to 1,600 lbs. They usually feed 800 to 1,000 steers. They have about 1,800 stock cattle on hand and 200 horses and mules. They will probably feed 75,000 bushels of corn during the year, and for a rough feed, in addition to the alfalfa, they probably put up 2,000 tons of cane hay. This hay is produced by sowing 1 1/2 bushels of cane seed to the acre, that makes it thick and fine and is a splendid feed for young stock.
Now to change the subject, will say that I was much pleased to read in the RECORD that my old friend, I. L. H. Dodd, was elected register of deeds. I think the selection a good one, having been intimately acquainted with him from boyhood, both being born the same year. He is honest, industrious full of integrity and deserves the position to which he has been elected and when he has served his term of office the people of old Berrien county will say, "there was a good and competent official."
I have been here about twenty years and a RECORD reader almost all that time and it does me good to note the promotion of my old friends in Berrien county. As to our own state, must say that Kansas did herself proud by giving Roosevelt 124,582 plurality. Kansas is solidly republican and is reveling in prosperity.
If this communication escapes the waste basket I may write again. My regards and best wishes to all my Buchanan acquaintances and friends.
Very respectfully,
J. F. WRAY.

Enforced Truancy Law.

Commissioner of Schools C. D. Jennings is sending to every school district in the county instructions to the directors to enforce the truancy law.
Many of the lower school officers seem to think that the law compelling children of certain ages to attend the schools is wholly unnecessary and refuses to enforce them, but Mr. Jennings' attention has been called to the condition of affairs, and he is determined that every letter of the law shall be obeyed regardless of district or location of the school. There seems to be a feeling that certain school laws were made for one locality and other laws for another, but this feeling must be overcome by sound reasoning and this method is being pursued by Mr. Jennings.
—Benton Harbor Review.

Worst of All Experiences

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by all druggists.
