THE S. S. CONVENTION

For Buchanan and Bertrand Townships was Held Sunday

AFTERNOON AND EVENING

All the Sessions Were Very Interesting And Were Well Attended

The twelfth Annual Convention of the Buchanan and Bertrand townships Sunday School Union met at the Evangelical church Sunday afternoon and evening, Jan. 22.

After singing, Rev. Chas Shook read Psalms 99 and followed with Fred Washburn of Benton Harbor, County Secretary, visiting this convention gave words of greeting and cheer. We as a county had just cause of pride. First, to have E. K. Warren as our county president, and second, that we hold the first place in the state in Sunday school work. Berrien County is the banner county. Mr. C. G. Whitney favored the convention with a pleasing solo after which Rev. Douglass gave an instructive address upon the Fourth Gospel John. In the near future we may give this able address in full.

After singing the president gave the usual annual address, Subject, "The Needs of the Sunday Schools in these two Townships. One special need the speaker emphasized was a president, that can visit the schools. No minister with his special work can give this time and the work prayer. The convention was then favored with an anthem by the choir, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. P. Friday, Miss Carter and D. L. Boardman, Dr. Garland presiding at the organ.

EVANGELICAL CHURCH WHERE CONVENTION WAS HELD.

The President, Rev. W. J. Tarrant, appointed the following committees: Nominating committee; A. A. Worthington, W. G. Hathaway, Mrs. Lucy Brocous, A. C. Roe, Miss Hubbell, Mrs. C. W. Smith and Emory Rough. On Resolutions, Rev. W. J. Douglass, Earl Pennell, Loren Sweet, Mrs. J. B. Stryker and Mrs. G. Denno.

Mrs. J. B. Stryker our delegate to the County Convention gave a fine report of the meeting held in Three Oaks which was followed by a carefully written report by Mrs. Will Proud read by Mrs. Lucy Brocous.

L. B. Rough of Bertrand who attended the State convention held at Pontiac in November, gave a very enthusiastic report of that great meeting. These reports were an inspiration to the township Sunday school workers.

Rev. Chas Shook gave an instructive address upon the subject "Best Method to Awaken Interest in Preparation of the Lesson at Home," which was followed by A. A. Worthington having for his subject, "Best Method of Presenting Lessons in the Sunday school." General discussion followed, Rev. W. J. Douglass, Rev. D. O. Ruth, Rev. J. A. Halmhuber and Supt. Mercer took part. Mrs. P. Friday added much to the interest of this session as leader in song. Rev. D. O. Ruth pronounced the benediction.

Promptly at 6 o'clock the Union Young People's service met to consider the subject, "Soul Winning, or How to Win Souls for Christ." The Misses Currier and Rutledge proved very efficient leaders. The large church was well filled with representatives from each society in this union service who took part in the important subject considered. Special music was given by Rev. J. A. Halmhuber and wife and also a solo by Mrs. Garland which was much appreciated.

At 7 o'clock, All Hail the Power of Jesus Name, was sung, after which Rev. Darling led in prayer followed by Rev. J. A. Halmhuber reading John 21.

was suffering. He hoped the nominating committee would be guided in choosing a layman for this office.

The secretary and treasurer read their reports which were approved.

The nominating committee reported for president, L. B. Rough, first vice-president, A. A. Worthington; second vice president, A. C. Roe; secretary Edith Beardsley; Treasurer, Chas. B. Treat; superintendent of primary department, Mrs. Darling; secretary, Miss Hubbell.

Mr. Rough being called to the chair said he was "stage struck," he was so surprised at the honor thrust upon him, but he would do all he could to serve the Sunday School workers in the two townships. Rev. Douglas reported the resolutions which were adopted.

After singing, Rev. C. B. Black pronounced the benediction.

During the year Rev. W. D. Cole and Rev. A. Ostorth have been called to other fields for work. We regret to lose them but we welcome Rev. D. O. Ruth, Rev. Darling and Rev. C. B. Black to the work among us.

E. J. B., Sec'y.

Jarvis Estate Litigation.

Zadock Jarvis has filed a bill in chancery in Cass county making Frank W. Lyle, Nelson F. Choate, Ira B. Gage, Frank and Wm. Jarvis, defendants. The complainant, Zadock Jarvis, in his bill says he is a brother of the late Burton Jarvis, of Buchanan who died in February, 1902; that Frank Jarvis and Mitchell Alexander were named as executors in the last will of the said Burton Jarvis, that as such executor the said Frank Jarvis executed a bond in the penal sum of $40,000, which bond was signed by the complainant and the defendants, and the late Norman Jarvis estate. That in the settlement of the Burton Jarvis estate all effects were turned over excepting $2,185.46, and that that sum should be divided share and share alike between the legatees named in said will. The complainant avers that he is liable by way of contribution for one sixth of the defalcation, and he asks that the other signers to the bond may be decreed to each pay one sixth part of said sum of $2,185 with the interest.

ACCIDENT SAYS JURY

Young Nelson Killed By Accidental Discharge Of His Shot Gun

The jury which held the inquest over the death of Burt Nelson brought in a verdict of death by the accidental discharge of the shot gun. The decision was made Thursday night after the testimony of the boy's sister, Alpha, Hughson McKee and old man Nelson had been taken, and several minor witnesses heard.

McKee told the same story to the jury that he told to the girl the day of the affair, and the girl's story tallied with his. McKee's account of the affair convinced the jury and all who were intimate with the case that he was entirely innocent of any crime in the matter, and his story is generally believed.

His account is as follows:

"The boy came home from town late in the afternoon. He had been drinking. I had stopped at the house for a few moments. He became abusive. He used such harsh language toward his sister that I advised her to leave the house, assuring her that I would pacify the boy. He grew more violent. He wanted me to leave the house, but I feared he would do something rash. He threatened to shoot me. I pushed him aside and in the tussle the panels of the door were broken out. I cannot tell how it happened but suddenly I heard a report and a ghastly sight was before my vision. There lay the boy on the floor with the entire top of his head blown off. It was too much for me. I was overcome with fear and in my terror I rushed from the house and ran away, stopping only a second to notify the neighbors of the awful affair. I am innocent and God knows it."

Alpha recovered from her hysterical condition sufficiently to tell her part of the story, which was in accord with that of McKee. She said, however, that her brother was very drunk when he came home that afternoon, and had grabbed her and threatened to "smash her head." For fear that he would do something desperate the girl ran out of the house.

Old man Nelson, the boy's father, testified that he and his son had gone to town, but that while in his company the boy had taken only one or two drinks.

The jury were not long in arriving at their verdict of accident, and the decision meets with the approval of the officers.

EAVEDROPPING ON TELEPHONE

To Be Cut Off by New Patent Device Lately Invented

A. W. Hammer of Newcastle, Ind., has received word from the patent office at Washington that his application for a patent, submitted some time ago, has been favorably passed upon. The patent is a device which promises almost to revolutionize the telephone service, especially that of the rural districts, where more than one, and as high as 15 subscribers use one line, known as a "party line." While these telephones have proved a good thing for the people generally, there has been one great drawback, namely, the habit of people "eavedropping" while others are talking. This has become so general in this section that business men refuse to talk business over the line for fear someone is listening. Mr. Hammer's device will change all this. It is so arranged that when one party on a telephone line calls another all other subscribers are automatically cut off and cannot hear what is being said. When the parties are through talking the device again opens the line. It is understood that $50,000 has been offered for the exclusive right to the patent.

Why sell your old rags to the rag man for 1/2 cent per pound. The RECORD office will pay 2 1/2 cents for good sized clean cotton rags. They must be large enough to use for washing presses.

Officers Must Pay Own Expense To Inauguration

Lansing, Jan. 23.—If the officers of Governor Warner's staff and other military men go to Washington to attend the inauguration of President Roosevelt in March, they will have to do it at their own expense, as the governor will not allow the bills to be presented to the state. This edict went out in the form of a verbal order from the governor, and printed orders will be issued from the military department to that effect. The staff officers and others will be invited to go but will be told plainly that the trip must be made at their own expense and that it will not be necessary unless they desire it.

"I intend to go to see the inauguration," said the governor, "but it will be at my own expense and not charged to the state."

There is some question as to how many of the officers will care to make the trip under these conditions. The expense of the trip alone will be about $150, and there are other incidentals which will count up still more. The military board has just adopted the new full dress uniform for the staff officers, to be secured at once. This coat is a Prince Albert shape, with two rows of gold buttons down the front and with gold braid upon the sleeves and collar. The new regulation brown overcoat is also adopted and must be provided by every officer. "It is getting so that it costs like sixty to be an officer," said Quartermaster General Kidd. "A man must have so many different outfits that it costs him about $800 to start out with before he makes a move."

Changes In Courthouse Have Been Commenced

Changes in the office arrangement at the courthouse have commenced under the supervision of Supervisor George L. Stevens of Three Oaks, chairman of the building committee. A room for Dix & Wilkinson in the northwest corner of the first floor is being fitted out from the old storehouse of the probate court. The new office will have an entrance on the corridor.

It has now been definitely decided that the treasurer's office will be given the present office of the probate register on the second floor; the register of deeds will be removed to the present quarters of Dix & Wilkinson on the first floor, and the probate court will be given the entire office of the register of deeds on the second floor.

It will take about a month to make the necessary changes.—News-Palladium.

The absence of a contest for the head of the ticket at the coming spring election will somewhat lessen interest in the republican state convention, which is called to meet at Grand Rapids, Tuesday, February 14. The lack of contest, however, will be more than compensated for through the great program which is being prepared for the Lincoln Club banquet to be held in the evening of state convention day. To renominate Judge Moore, to select suitable candidates for regents of the University of Michigan and to transact such other business as may come before the convention, during the afternoon, and then to spend the evening listening to oratorical stars in the presentation of present problems and timely themes, will make up the incidents of a well-spent day.

Jan. 21, 1905.

The Rev. W. W. Wells,
Buchanan, Mich.

Dear Mr. Wells,
We have received the following cablegram from Dehra signed by Miss Donaldson: "We grieve to report that Mrs. Stebbins died after a long illness."

We have no further word than this and were entirely unprepared for such sad tidings. The work has sustained a great loss in the death of such a loving and faithful worker.

Mrs. Stebbins had left with us your name as that of her nearest relative. If there are any others to whom word should be sent. Will you kindly let us know, or communicate with them, if you will be so kind yourself? I beg leave in behalf of the Board to extend our deepest sympathy to the friends and those in India who are bereaved by this great loss.

Very Sincerely Yours,
(Signed) Robert E. Speer.

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

If the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

It was an inspiration to Buchanan township Sunday school workers to have so many come from Bertrand to attend the convention—ideal sleighing, ideal weather, and can we say an ideal convention. May each school receive a great blessing.

Early Saturday morning Mrs. Martha Brauch, an aged widow of Coloma, was nearly burned to death. While building a fire her, nightdress saturated with turpentine used on her person to break up her cold, became ignited and instantly she was enveloped with fire from head to foot, but with great presence of mind she secured a woolen shawl and fought the flames until they were subdued.

The basket ball game Friday night was attended by a fair sized crowd but was rather a tame affair so far as the game was concerned. The score stood 50 to 1 in favor of Buchanan, and could have been much higher had the local team desired to run it up. The Dowagiac team seemed to be at a loss to know what to do with the ball when they did get it.

Annual meeting of stockholders of the Geo. R. Rich Manufacturing Co. held in the Rockery Chicago, Jan. 16 the following board of directors was elected: C. H. McCullough Jr., W. A. Field, E. B. Clark, J. P. Walker, T. P. Gaylord, Geo. R. Rich and W. B. Johnston. This board of directors met in Chicago, Saturday, Jan. 21, and elected the officers as follows: W. A. Field, Pres.; W. B. Johnston, Vice Pres. and Mgr.; J. P. Walker, Secretary; H. P. Field, Treasurer.

Mr. T. Mack Walker pianist and teacher has located in Buchanan, and is forming a class. Mr. Walker, although a young man, has had considerable experience and is a pupil of Louis Elbel of South Bend and Karl Nast, of Leipzig, Germany. He played for three years with Reeves' Orchestra in South Bend. Mr. Walker is a cousin of Mrs. Fred Poyser and it is through her that he has decided to locate in Buchanan. The Record welcomes him to the village.

There seems to be a great deal of anxiety on the part of some candidates regarding the appointment of postmaster at this place. Some with strong imagination suspected they were being worsted and barked up the wrong tree with a fusillade of letters to our congressman. Some have even employed their clerks and purchased a safe. Some have rented a building and subscribed large sums towards improvements in the event of success. The people in general seem to be perfectly satisfied with the service of the present incumbent, and on account of persistent strife, Mr. Hamilton may decide to let well enough alone.—Berrien Springs Era

We find in nearly every village plenty of business men who are willing to invest in all sorts of outside speculations. They will take a throw at faraway mining ventures and stock speculations. Promoters find it easy to interest them in most any kind of a speculation that figures out a profit on paper. Yet these same business men will refuse to invest more than $50, $100 or possibly $200 yearly in printers ink. Many of them never spend a dollar in advertising, yet they should realize that there is no way in which to invest money to yield a greater profit and no way more certain to make money than to invest it in newspaper space and other plans of legitimate publicity wherein printers ink is employed.

Washington Letter

The first statue of a woman in the Capitol of the United States will be received next Friday when the state of Illinois will present one of Frances E. Willard, the distinguished reformer. Appropriate exercises will be held in Statuary Hall of the Capitol and speeches by some distinguished men will be made. There will be a large representation of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of which Miss Willard was an enthusiastic supporter and other clubs working in the interest of women's right to enfranchisement.

Consular officers abroad were considerably startled Friday by the telegraphic reports of the President's message to the Senate recommending favorable action on Assistant Secretary Loomis suggestion for the appointment of six special agents, to be called commercial attaches to visit the different countries to which we send consuls, for the purpose of studying commercial and industrial conditions with a view to making necessary and salutary changes in our foreign commerce. This is the substance of the message but those on the inside know that the six commercial agents are recommended to be sent abroad not so much for study conditions of trade, which is really the work for which consuls are appointed but, as a matter of fact, to inspect our consular offices and to report on the work of our consular agents. That there was to be a general stirring up of consular affairs if Roosevelt should be re-elected no one has doubted and even the most enthusiastic Republicans in consular chairs have been ducking whenever reforms are mentioned. President Roosevelt who speaks French and German fluently and who has spent so much time abroad realizes better than any of our Presidents have the necessity for more intelligent and better equipped consuls than we have been in the habit of sending out. The state department which has kept in fairly close touch with the service by means of the reports has long recognized the necessity for some sweeping reforms but not until the present time has it been free to make recommendations touching them. By the suggestion of Assistant Secretary Loomis the agents of commercial attaches will be selected from among the consuls known as consular and commercial experts, who, it is presumed will be better able to report on trade conditions as well as the work of the consulates. It is estimated that the expense of the test will be about $50,000 per annum, and any one who has had business with an inefficient agent in a foreign city, a consul for example who did not speak the language of the country to which he has sent or his own tongue without murderous attacks upon its grammar will not think the sum too much. Your correspondent while in Paris last winter had occasion to visit the Consulate and while waiting his return became interested in the applications that came before the then acting consul. This gentleman spoke French and with so much delight that a French woman married to an American and desiring information as to how she could obtain her children from him could by no apparent means find a chance to relate her story. One or two words from her were sufficient to throw the French speaking consul into a lengthy and wholly inappropos discussion of French and American law to which the woman round eyed and bewildered listened uncomprehendingly. Finally when he had fully delivered himself, the woman was dismissed and told wearily to write the case in full and submit it to him. She protested that she could not write and he gave her the address of a notary who, for the sum of twenty francs (five dollars) would do it for her. The woman who wore a shawl over her head and to whom doubtless, twenty francs meant a month's support retired with many protestations of gratitude but wholly legible despair written in her face. Five others were called to the haughty presence of the acting consul and in each case similar assistance was offered, with an equal exploitation of the acting consul's French. It will be seen that cases of this sort of inefficiency and indifference were difficult of discovery by the State Department but may come to the attention of the Commercial attaches or detectives as the consuls will call them.

Nearly every great railroad company in the country has a representative in Washington now and the amount of winning and dining that these attorneys are doing among the Interstate Commerce committee men who have charge of the preparation of the railroad freight rate bill, is the joy of all the hotels. The idea that good wines and dinners have lost their influence on our legislators is a prevalent one but they are still employed and only their disengenders can testify as to the result. Every day these attorneys for the roads are before the committee giving testimony against government rate making and it is said the bill will be ready for Congress by Monday at the latest. The struggle for railway rate legislation will then commence in earnest. It is contended by the representatives of the railroads that the members of the two houses are with only a few exceptions uninformed upon the subject of railroads abuses and the legal reforms therefor. They argue that Congress is merely endeavoring to answer the clamorous demands of shippers while there is really no widespread public demand for legislation. However this may be there are several weeks of hard work before Congress and the general impression is that legislation cannot be effected in the present session.

Lodge Installation.

Friday evening the Modern Woodmen installed their officers for the coming year. I. L. H. Dodd was installing officer. After the ceremony was over a short program was given followed by refreshments and cigars. A very pleasant evening was passed.

Saturday evening occurred the installation of officers of Primrose Camp Royal Neighbors. Mrs. Geo. B. Richards as installing officer assisted by Mrs. Chas. Digging as grand marshal, installed the new officers, who, by-the-way, were the old ones. A fine musical and literary program was rendered. A drill by the ladies degree team and a guessing contest, in which Miss Edna Miles won the prize, were a part of the entertainment. Refreshments were also served. The past year has been a very successful one for the Royal Neighbors and they are making great plans for the coming year.

A Visit To a Near-by Kingdom

CHAPTER IV.

Plants take from the soil, water and in that water certain mineral matters which they need in their growth. They can take mineral matters in solution only. The water gets the plant food, this mineral matter, from the particles of soil with which it is in contact. It dissolves the mineral matter from the soil kernels which the films of water surround. The more finely divided these soil kernels are, the more readily the water can dissolve the mineral matter.

Some years ago a French scientist, Pelouze, boiled water in a bottle for five days, changing the water daily, trying to get the water to dissolve some of the glass but the bottle lost but two grains in weight. He then broke off the neck of the bottle and ground it into the finest powder. He next boiled the powdered glass in water in the body of the flask and found that, although glass is not soluble in water, except to the very smallest extent, he was able to dissolve, during five more days, fully one-third of the weight of the flask. The soil is composed, as we have seen, of powdered rock. If we should take this rock in large pieces, like our field stones and soak them in water for weeks, we should dissolve little or nothing from them but it has been shown that when ground into a fine powder and simply soaked in water for a week there would be dissolved as much as one pound out of each hundred weight. The upper foot of soil on an acre weighs not far from 4,000,000 pounds and you can readily see that at this rate there would be dissolved in a week in an acre fully 10,000 pounds from the soil grains. This is vastly more than any crop could possibly use.

If two samples of soil have exactly the same chemical composition, it is quite possible that plants would find food enough in the soil water, where the grains were fine and would starve for want of needed mineral matter if the kernels were coarse. It must not be understood that water does not penetrate the soil kernels themselves because, with even the smallest particles built up into kernels, there are still openings through which water can enter them and dissolve mineral matters.

Professor F. H. King, of Madison, Wis., whose book on the "Physics of Agriculture" should be in the hands of every farmer, tells us in that volume that scientists have even gone so far as to estimate closely the thickness of the water films in some fertile soils out of which all surplus water has been drained and have found it to be about half the thickness of the walls of a soap bubble just before it bursts or approximately so thin that 43,560 times its thickness would equal one inch, yet this thin film when spread over all the surfaces in the cubic foot of soil would furnish water enough to equal four inches deep of water on the upper surface of the cubic foot of soil. Here are some figures that we ought to remember:

There are 43,560 square feet in an acre.

A cubic foot of water weighs 62.42 pounds.

A cubic foot of soil weighs, if of fertile clay loam, 79 pounds, if dry sand 110 pounds, if half clay and half sand, 98 pounds.

The surface soil is lighter in weight than the subsoil deeper in the earth. Rich garden soil is lighter than clay and soil from swamps, full of peat or muck is still lighter. It is safe to call the weight of the upper foot of soil on an acre of average loam as about 4,000,000 pounds.

We have seen that the water in the soil clings to the surface of the soil kernels and particles. It should be said that in many soils there remains after every rain more water than can be thus retained and such water may stay in the soil to fill up the pore spaces between the kernels, thus excluding air and injuring the soil in other ways, destroying, possibly, the granular structure and even washing out much of that plant food already dissolved by the water films. The wise farmer removes this surplus water by draining. It is interesting to note the quantity of water retained by fertile soils when, in the best condition for yielding heaviest crops. Sixteen pounds per cubic foot would be a good amount for a sandy loam, eighteen pounds for a cubic foot of clay loam and as high as twenty-five or even more pounds for a very mucky soil, or something more than three inches deep over the surface on the loams and five inches for the muck.

The sandy loam would, under these conditions, hold seventeen pounds of water per hundred weight, the clay loam over twenty-two pounds and the muck almost forty-five pounds per hundred weight of wet soil.

It was found long ago that all soils would not give up their water to growing crops with equal ease and thoroughness. It was found that while a clay, with fine particles, it would have a much larger gross amount of water per cubic foot than would a sand, with coarse particles, it would not yield up as great a proportion of its water content to a crop growing on it. A corn crop will wither on a clay soil when the per cent of water drops to a certain figure, while a sand will keep the crop well supplied, although its per cent of water is no higher. This is largely because the surface over which the water is spread is so much greater in the clay. With the water film of a given thickness the clay would contain vastly more water than the sand. On the other hand, when the water is so far exhausted from the soil that the film over the soil particles is too thin to be utilized by the plant rootlets, because it is spread over so much more surface in the clay, the weight of water in the clay must be much more than in the sand when the water exhaustion has reached the same point. In other words, although the sands may contain fewer pounds of water per cubic foot than do clays, they will give up to plant roots a much larger proportion of what they do possess.

SCHOOL NOTES

HIGH SCHOOL

Semester examinations in all subjects will be given the last three days of this week.

New classes will be formed in Botany, Physiology and Grammar next week.

EIGHT GRADE

Reviews are occupying the attention of eighth graders at present.

B. class was the House of Representatives last Wednesday and passed a bill prohibiting the manufacture of cigarettes. Mildred Roe introduced it.

"Snow Bound" is being read now and highly appreciated at this time of year. Parts are being memorized. Ruby Eldredge can recite the names of the presidents in twenty-three seconds.

SIXTH GRADE

We are very glad to welcome back Pauline Butler and Richard Smith who have been out a week on account of sickness.

The grade enjoyed a combination drawing lesson of charcoal and water colors last week. The production, scene in winter time; some good results were obtained.

FIFTH GRADE

"The Hoosier School Boy" has delighted the pupils for the past two weeks.

Booklets containing drawings of the heart and descriptions of the circulation were made by the school.

The B. Language Class has been studying the lives of Wolfgang, Mozart and Rosa Bonheur.

FOURTH GRADE

Although some pupils have been absent during the past two weeks, on account of sickness the attendance has been very good.

There has been several cases of tardiness but we hope that during the two weeks to come, we shall do better than in the two weeks just passed.

THIRD GRADE

The following pupils received the highest number of credits in spelling last month: Fern Beardsley, Elmo Phillips, Iva Smith, Jennie Lentz, Adelaide Couse, Sarah Eisele and Gladys Gage.

In a spelling contest Friday, Willie Arnold spelled the school down. Frost is the subject of the morning talks this week.

WARD SCHOOL

Mrs. Russell of first grade was not able to be in her room Monday on account of grip.

Bernice Guyberson of B. Div. second grade and Sam Rouse of A. Div. were the flag winners in the spelling contest Friday.

Heaton Moore second grade pupil is the only pupil at present away on account of illness.
