The cotton planters, disgusted with the immensity of their crop last year, are getting ready to plant more cotton than ever.

Mr. Carnegie advises men not to work for wages any longer than they have to. If there were no wage-earners what would become of the future Carnegies?

It is easy to believe that many Russian soldiers are voluntarily falling into the hands of the Japanese. A perpetual hike, with harsh treatment and scant rations, is not an alluring programme.

A Chicago professor sums up creation in this fashion: "Life originally happened. Life is made up of certain organic compounds. The compounds came together in some manner and the result was life." But where did the compounds come from, and how did they happen to happen in a progressive way instead of happening not to happen?

A Communication

Buchanan, Mich., 27, 1905.

Mr. Editor:—

In the last issue of the Argus, the editor of that paper makes the following statement, which applies to me: "Do you call it loyalty, when the 'editor' of the Record approached a democratic gentlemen of this community and says, 'If you are going to run on the Citizens' ticket for village clerk, I will give you my support and do what I can towards your election.' These words came from the candidate himself and we would not for a moment discredit his honesty."

In justice to myself and the editor of the Record I wish to say, that the above statement is false and misleading, as the editor of the Record never made the statement to me, as published in the Argus, and furthermore I never told the publisher of the Argus that such a statement had been made to me.

Piano Recital

The Yonkers, (N. Y.,) Statesman, gives the following article on a piano recital given by Mrs. Edward Bartmess at that place recently:

A fine audience greeted Mrs. Edward A. Bartmess last evening, in the hall of the Woman's Institute.

Mrs. Bartmess' selections exhibited her ability in various branches of the piano player's art. Her work was admirable, and elicited hearty applause. The highly entertaining Schumann Carneval, which expresses the emotions of the soul through the medium of tone, and in which various characters are personified, was particularly well rendered. Mrs. Bartmess' wonderful memory was a matter for comment. After the delightful Chopin selection, she gave an encore piece, Mrs. Bartmess is quite well known in Buchanan.

The polls of said election will be opened at eight o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as may be, and will be continued open until five o'clock in the afternoon, unless the board shall in their discretion, adjourn the polls at 12 o'clock, noon for one hour.

HELPED LIVES TO MAIL.

Free and Easy Post Office Management in Old Leadville—Colts Ruled Town.

"Speaking of bad towns," said one of the Kansas City (Kan.) officials who had crossed the plains in the early days of the west, to a New York Sun man, "reminds me of old Leadville, Col., when everybody had the gold fever bad and law and justice hinged on the mighty Colt."

"The town was full of holdup men and it was hardly safe for one to go on the streets after dark, but, as many crooks, murderers and 'bad men' as there were in the town, there was hardly ever a case of petty thievery. Every store was wide open and unguarded, and the merchandise was perfectly safe, too."

"A large post office business was done in Leadville at that time. The postmaster was an old German. The great number of incoming gold seekers increased the amount of mail until the postmaster became unable to handle it. He then dumped the mail in the middle of the floor and everybody came in and went through it, taking their own letters and papers. The stack of mail was sometimes four or five feet high and 15 and 20 men were always gathered around it. Perfect order prevailed and no one took any other mail except his own."

"A government detective happened around one day and told the postmaster that he would have to discontinue this free-for-all method of handling the mail. The old man got mad and summoning the patrons of the office tarred and feathered the detective and rode him out of town on a rail. It was a long time before the office was run according to the rules of the department, but there was never a complaint against the old German postmaster."

ENGLAND'S NAVAL POWER.

Great Enough to Oppose with Large Success Any Three Nations on Earth.

The cable has already brought us some hints of the views recently expressed by M. de Lasesan, French ex-minister of marine, concerning the recent organization of the British naval forces, brought about by Sir John Fisher, says the New York Post. M. de Lasesan observed that hitherto the British admiralty has been guided by the principle that the British fleet should be superior to those of the two strongest naval powers combined. That end has long since been attained, and in his opinion England now contemplates the possibility of a conflict with three powers—namely, France, the United States and Germany. She can oppose to Germany the channel fleet and the Atlantic fleet. Even supposing Germany were to be supported by the Italian and Austrian navies, their junction would be rendered impossible by the British Mediterranean fleet and the Gibraltar forces. Against the United States England could employ her Gibraltar fleet, the western section of her cruisers and two squadrons of armored cruisers without weakening her forces in home waters. In case of combined action by Germany and the United States England could still oppose superior forces to each navy. It is only through a triple alliance between the American and French republics and the German empire, he thinks, that the situation of England could become critical, not on account of the strength of the combined squadrons, but owing to the military forces of France and Germany.

HER LESSON FROM SERMON

Lady Attends Church and Finds Out What Troubled Her Fuchsias.

A clergyman in the London Interior gives some pertinent instances of the unexpected to be met with in preaching. "At my time of life I ought not to be stunned by anything, but one day, after service, a good woman of my flock did manage to take my breath away. I was preaching about God's wisdom in caring for us all, and I said that the Father knows best which of us grows better in the sunlight and which must have the shade. You know you plant roses in the sun and heliotropes and geraniums, too; but if you put fuchsias to grow you must put them in a shady nook.

"I hoped the sermon would be a comforting one, and after it was over a woman came to me, her face glowing with pleasure which was evidently deep and true. 'Oh, doctor, I am so glad of that sermon,' said she, clasping my hand and shaking it warmly. My heart warmed as I wondered what tender place I had touched in her soul; but my joy lasted for a moment only. 'Yes,' she went on, fervently, 'I never knew before what could be the matter with my fuchsias.'"

An Impatient Girl. Mr. Richmann—You have a handsome young man named De Ribbon in your employ, I understand. He is engaged to my daughter, and I'd like you to do me a favor. Merchant—Certainly, my old friend. Want him advanced, eh? "No. I want him kept just where he is until my daughter gets tired waiting for him to be able to marry." "Um—how long will that be?" "About six weeks."—N. Y. Weekly.

WOMAN'S GOOD SCHEME.

Dressed Her Dog as a Baby and Perfectly Fooled Street Car Conductors.

This is a real good dog story as related in the Portland Oregonian:

He is a pug, and a great pet of his mistress, who is very fond of his fine pedigree. One day she discovered that Teddy could not see as well as usual. She felt as sad as if he were a brother or sister, and a famous oculist was consulted, who told her to bring her pet dog to him.

They started, but a great obstacle presented itself. Conductor after conductor insisted that the dog could not ride on his car; so that it was only after getting on and off about a dozen times that the doctor's office was reached.

Teddy was quiet as he could be while having his eyes examined, and his mistress was told she must bring him every day for a month, and all would be done for him that was possible. So Teddy's mistress went to a neighbor who had a small baby, and borrowed an outfit that was not too dainty. Teddy kept very quiet while being dressed in the long, white dress, then a cloak and muslin cap, and over the face a long veil.

Thus they started. Immediately upon entering a car, if it was filled, up would jump a man to give the woman carrying a little baby a good seat. Teddy never wagged his little curled-up tail once, neither did he bark.

Each day the trip was taken with the same result—a good seat and a very quiet baby.

One day the doctor's office was filled with people awaiting their turn, when a woman turned politely to Teddy's mistress and said: "My turn comes next, and I will wait for you on account of your baby. It is so tiresome to wait with a baby."

The doctor opened his door at that moment and called them both in his private office. He said: "I will show you the very best patient I have," and took Teddy carefully in his arms. He threw back the white veil and disclosed the dog's little pug nose and pert little face looking out cutely from under the frills of the cap.

Teddy can see pretty well out of one eye now. His mistress expected a huge bill for the expert's service, but instead she received a receipted bill from the good doctor, with a note saying that, as Teddy was the first patient he had ever treated of royal dog blood, he esteemed it a great honor to have been the means of helping him.

The Benton Harbor Banner-Register, says: The man who threw the first shovel of dirt for the once St. Joe Valley Road, now the Benton Harbor division of the Pere Marquette, died in Chicago last week. This man was Leander Fox, and he settled in Buchanan in 1850 and it was during a public meeting held on Niles hill near that village for this proposed road that Mr. Fox picked up the shovel and turned over the first soil for this road. Mr. Fox was for years the spirit and life of Buchanan and that village credits much of her success to this man.

Mrs. Beatrice Hubbell Plummer and her pupils gave a song recital at the High School in Goshen last week, which has received much praise. Mrs. H. D. Rough formerly of Buchanan, occupied a prominent part on the evening's program, singing in the Ladies' Lyric Quartette, in a trio, and she also sang a solo. In the write-up give the recital the Goshen News-Times says: "Mrs. Cora D. Rough, who has an unusually pure contralto voice sang, 'The Lilly and the Rose.' The members of the 30 Club of this place will remember Mrs. Plummer, having enjoyed her singing last year, when they went to Elkhart to meet with Mrs. Rough."

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Send for free sample. Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of emulsion you buy.

Mrs. Wm. Russo, of Mussey township, visited the officers at Port Huron, Friday, with a peculiar plaint. She says that last week her husband induced her to sign a $500 mortgage for the purpose of raising money to build a new barn. Last week Russo went to Port Huron and didn't return home. It is believed he took the train eastward from there with the intention of leaving for Germany. Russo has been married but a short time.

The storm Thursday night raised Grand river over a foot, filled the streets of Ionia with debris from the hills, washed out surface sewers and culverts, tore up the block pavement on East Main street, and in other ways damaged public and private property to the amount of several hundred dollars. The main streets of the town were literal rivers, the water flowing over the sidewalks and into the cellars.

Judge Mayne, of Traverse City, in denying a mandamus of the First National bank to compel the payment of an order of $500 drawn by the supervisors of the county on the county treasurer, which the bank purchased, has handed down an important decision. The order was drawn in payment of a snow roller, purchased of an agent, and the judge holds the supervisors had no right to associate with manufacturers' agents, and in doing so make an opening for fraud. The bank will take the matter to the supreme court.

Dennis Smith, the jail breaker and wife beater now sojourning at the county bastille, at Marshall, awaiting trial for these offenses, has become enamored with the beauty of Miss Alice, the daughter of the president, and has written a letter to Mr. Roosevelt asking permission to press his suit. A small cluster of green carnations are shown in the window of a Kalamazoo store. Astounding articles have appeared recently regarding the achievements of Luther Burbank, of California, who has become the foremost man in the world in the production of new and interesting forms of plant and the first suggestion of an explanation of the green carnation had reference to his discoveries. But investigation proved that the flower was not the result of any experiment of Mr. Burbank and in fact that it is not a real new form of the carnation. It is said to have been colored green by Diamond Dye being poured upon the earth in which the plants grew, and that the color was absorbed by the plants through the roots.

In the circuit court at Hastings, Friday, Cyrus F. Belson, a farmer of Rutland township, was given a verdict of $968.05 against the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., of Barry and Eaton counties. Belson sued for $1,036 for the burning of his barn in August last, and the company resisted payment on the ground of fraud, alleging that there had been a conspiracy to burn the barn. The trial was the most exciting in Barry county for many years. It lasted eight days, and every session was attended by crowds. It was brought out by the evidence that the barn was set on fire in a peculiar manner. Mrs. Belson was hunting eggs in the haymow in the daytime with a lighted lantern, and being frightened by stepping on a snake or rat, dropped the lantern with a scream and fled. The lantern set fire to the hay and the building was destroyed.

The practice of throwing samples of all sorts on doorsteps had an unfortunate though not disastrous result in Ypsilanti, recently. During the past week samples of dyes were thrown around the city and one which was thrown into the house of Mr. and Mrs. Beach was found by an 18 months old baby, who promptly got busy, and although not a son of the Emerald Isle, was very soon dyed a glorious green. The powder, fortunately, took effect mostly on the countenance. Strenuous measures were at once taken and it seems that no serious effect will follow.
