MYSTERY SOLVED

Man Who Helped Ward of the State Escape

IS NOW UNDER ARREST

Chauncey Jackson Says He Meant No Harm—Girl Is Still at Large

Friday night the police arrested Chauncey Jackson, a farmer, aged 60 years, who is charged with aiding and abetting the escape of Gertrude Otta, a former inmate of the Industrial School for Girls at Adrian, from the home of Joseph Griffith. It is claimed the girl pilfered articles occasionally and Mr. Griffith expressed his intention of returning her to Adrian, whereupon she disappeared, after threatening to commit suicide, Jackson admits his guilt.

The girl left the Griffith home on May 4, and it later developed that she worked upon the sympathies of Jackson, who was employed by Mr. Griffith, to the extent that he helped her to escape. Jackson stated to the police that he did not know he was breaking the law in aiding and abetting in the girl's escape.

Jackson was arraigned before Justice Beaver this morning, waived examination and was bound over to the circuit court for trial at the September term. In default of $500 bonds, he was remanded to the county jail to await trial.

Jackson admits he took the girl, who is about 15 years old, to South Bend, but he knows nothing of her present whereabouts. He has been working for Mr. Griffith for several months.

Jackson admitted to Justice Beaver that he took the girl to Buchanan with a horse and buggy; that from Buchanan they went to South Bend and secured quarters in a boarding house, where they roomed together. Before the girl disappeared from the Griffith home, she wrote a note saying that she intended to drown herself, hence the search was instituted after she left, and Jackson participated in the hunt and led the searching party to the river bank, where he pretended to be greatly excited upon coming across a copy of an Alpena newspaper, Alpena having been the missing girl's native town. It is now known that the paper was placed on the river bank by Jackson himself, his intention being to lead the people to believe that the girl had actually drowned herself.—Niles Star.

J. MCM. SMITH HAS FAST RIDE

To Catch Train Which Might Have Ended Seriously.

It is reported that on Wednesday Mr. J. McM. Smith, of South Bend, who has been in St. Joseph on business connected with the South Bend and Michigan Southern Railway Co., had a narrow escape from death while trying to board a train.

Mr. Smith had been holding a conference with Col. Worth Bean and the meeting lasted beyond train time. Realizing that he had missed his train, the south bound Michigan Central, he thought he could drive across the country and catch it at the junction. A man with an automobile volunteered to make the trip and Mr. Smith had the ride of his life.

After a terrific drive in the machine he ran several yards, cooned two or three barbed wire fences and jumped over a deep ditch. As he landed on the other side he fell across the track with the train he was after only about 100 feet distant rushing toward him. The engineer quickly closed the throttle, applied the air, thus stopping the train and saving Mr. Smith possibly fatal injury.

Mr. Smith was taken aboard the train and carried to his destination but little worse for the mishap.—Press.

Ralph Squires, aged 18, died yesterday at the home of his uncle in Chesterfield from lockjaw. On May 16 he was kicked by a horse and both bones in his left leg were broken above the ankle, with the above result. He died in great agony.

Ground has been broken for the new $50,000 Grand Trunk Western depot, at Battle Creek and at the rate in which the work is being rushed, the foundation walls will be laid this week. The contractors, M. M. Lewis & Sons, of this city, are determined to make a record in constructing the building in quick time.

Several nights ago some unknown wretch entered the stable of N. G. Vanderlind at Muskegon and cut out the tongue of a beautiful white horse. The horse is a descendant of the stallion which the sultan of Turkey presented to President Grant on the latter's tour around the world some thirty years ago.

A dapper old gentleman drifted into Gagetown the other day on visit to relatives. He said his nan was Samuel Cole, and he is 91 years old, four feet nine inches in high and weighs eighty-seven pounds. I came from York State. He has never been shaved in his life and has never been inside a barber shop, but acknowledged having had his hair cut by his wife and mother.

Pontiac will this year build seven new cement bridges and there will replace all the old wooden bridges over Clinton river. This action was not decided on any too soon. Thursday evening a traction engine wrecked the bridge over the Clinton river on Lawrence street, just west of the railroad bridge. The bridge bent and sagged, until it resembled letter V. Prompt use of planks rescued the engine before it dropped into the river.

Davis Wees, a Canadian fisherman, had an exciting experience in Lak Huron Thursday. He had just discharged a cargo of fish on the American side at Port Huron and was returning to Point Edward, when his boat was capsized by a gale of wind and he clung for two hours to a barrel that was tossed boisterously about on the waves. He was sighted by Abner Rawlings, a marine reporter and when rescued was nearly dead from exposure and the exertion of holding on to the barrel.

A step has been taken by the creditors of the Record Printing & Box Co., at Battle Creek that if successful will ruin several of the stockholders. Suit has been brought by the creditors, one of whom is S. A. Commans, of Detroit, representing the Kenny Paper Co., against the stockholders for the watered portion of their stock. It will decide the question whether or not subscribers to promoters' stock can be held for the sum not paid, but subscribed on the books. If the question is sustained those who bought stock at 50 cents on the dollar will now have to put up the other 50 cents to make good the liabilities.

While going to lock up the prisoners Thursday night the under sheriff, at Charlotte, discovered about 9 o'clock that two had sawed their way to liberty and had about an hour's start. They are Hiram Lepper, alias Geo. Smith, waiting to plead guilty to larceny, a man with a bad prison record in several states, and John Garrison, charged with carrying concealed weapons. Three other prisoners in the jail evidently made no attempt to escape, as they claim to know nothing of the affair. Four bars were sawed in two by the prisoners. There is no clue as to the direction taken by the fugitives.

A peculiar mishap occurred Thursday evening at Flint. When a Pere Marquette freight train undertook to pass under the overhead bridge on Courtstreet. Several of the cars were

FIGHT FIRES FROM TRAINS

Forests in Northern Michigan are Blazing.

Petoskey, May 26.—Forest fires which have raged for two days in the woods between here and Mackinaw City are still burning, and yesterday many villages along the line of the G. R. & I. north were threatened.

A timely rain in the afternoon checked the fires, and with the aid of the Mackinaw City and Petoskey fire companies, which are patrolling the line on special trains, has averted more serious damage.

The village of Carp Lake, 30 miles north of here, is nearly destroyed. Yesterday morning the fires had reached the outskirts of Alanson and damaged logs and lumber belonging to F. D. Merchant, but the saw mill and stores were saved. The loss of various lumber camps and detached dwellings may amount to $5,000.

There are no fires within 10 miles of Petoskey.
The Sheatley mill at Clarion burned yesterday morning, but the fire originated in the mill and not in the woods. Loss, $8,000.

To-day would be a good time to buy one of those $15.00 Grey Worsted Suits at Spiro's.

They have caught the fancy of the best dressed men in town.

We have sold these suits to men, this season, who had never before attempted to get suited in ready-to-wear clothes. But there is a reason, of course. Our hand tailored suits are so different from others. They own every kind of good tailoring that is also good style--they retain their shape, and are very much superior to some of "the cheap tailor" products turned out around town.

A daily letter from Mr. Curtis appears in The Chicago Record-Herald.

The Rural Telephone.

Neighbors, not so far from here Put in telephones last year Farmers built a rural line— Instruments all "talked up fine," All you had to do was ring— Every bell went ting-a-ling; One for Central, two for Boggs, Short and long call for old Scroggs.

Every neighbor had his call, Twist the crank and that was all, Mighty nice when work was thro', To gossip for an hour or two With your neighbors one by one, Mighty nice—but lots of fun When you heard some other two Telling what was not for you.

Every time the signal rang, To the phone each farmer sprang, Slyly grinned, and softly took Each receiver from its hook, Other people's secrets, dear, Poured into his large red ear; How he slapped his legs—"I swan, Telephoning is lots of fun."

Somehow in a year or two Troubles dark began to brew; Farmer Jones got fighting hot, Heard Scroggs calling him a sot. Farmer Scroggs seemed angry too, Heard Smith telling what he knew, Smith heard Abel telling lies, Paid him off with two black eyes. Abel heard young Isaac Boggs Underbid him on his hogs; Boggs o'er heard a sneaking churl Making love to his best girl. Women, too, were in the muss, Raised a most tremendous fuss, Every one from Scroggs to Jones In glass houses throwing stones.

Now the line has silent grown, Wires rusted, poles o'er thrown, Twenty friends are deadly foes, Each one full of grief and woes. Each too mad to speak a word, 'Cause of things he'd overheard.

IN MEMORIAM

Sarah Ann, daughter of Nathaniel and Hannah Hamilton, was born in Ohio, Nov. 12, 1839, and died at her late home in Hudson, Laporte county, Ind., May 26, 1905, at the age of 75 years, 6 months, and 14 days. When she was nine years old she came with her parents to Pokagon, Berrien Co., Michigan. Several years later she came with her parents to Buchanan township near the village of Buchanan, where Sept. 24, 1848, she was married to Herman B. Knight, who died June 16, 1888.

To this union were born eight children, two sons and six daughters Emma Ocker, of Laporte, Ind.; Maria Holman of Maple Grove, Ind.; Joseph of Buchanan, Mich.; Nathaniel of Maple Grove, Ind.; Flora Mangan of Chicago, Lu Hicks of South Bend, Ind.; and Minnie of Maple Grove, Ind. Frank Hicks died in 1889. Lovina Slaters a stepdaughter lives in Oklahoma.

In 1864 Mr. Herman Knight moved with his family from the village of Buchanan to Hudson, Ind., where he and his wife lived until their death. Mrs. Knight was converted to Christ and baptized by Elder Wm. M. Roe about 47 years ago. She was a kind neighbor, an affectionate wife, a loving mother and an earnest and devoted Christian. She was conscientious till the last, and with her hands clasped in earnest prayer for the loved ones she was leaving, she gently passed away. She died in full hope of a blissful immortality beyond the grave.

Funeral services conducted by Elder Wm. M. Roe assisted by two resident Methodist ministers, were held at the late home of the deceased at 2 p. m., May 29. A very large concourse of people were in attendance. The body was gently placed in the grave in Maple Grove cemetery by Mr. Gordon, the funeral director, to await the resurrection morn. Appropriate music was rendered by a quartet choir.

Junior Reception.

The Junior class of the High School gave a reception to the senior class at the home of Mrs. Devin, last Friday evening. An exceptionally fine musical and literary program was given.

The home was handsomely decorated with the class colors and ferns. Following the program a three course luncheon was served. Then came a general good time in which all participated.

When the hour to depart arrived, all declared they had spent a delightful evening, and pronounced the Juniors capital entertainers.

Our printing will please you.

FASHIONS FOR CHILDREN.

Blue Cottons Liked for Children's Clothes and for Their Coats Pongees and Shepherd Plaids.

In color, a shade of blue somewhat deeper than the porcelain of last season seems to be the prime favorite. It comes in all sorts of wash fabrics, from a serviceable chambray at ten cents a yard, through the various priced mercerized effects, to the best quality of linen. As to choice, experienced mothers say that either extreme is better than the medium-priced goods, and very pretty effects are evolved from the cheaper chambray stitched with white and trimmed with a bit of hand embroidery. The most desirable of these little frocks are made with separate collar, guimpes or berthas, and the handwork in white scalloping bows, knots, fleur-de-lis or small geometrical powderlings appear on these separate pieces.

For all-white coats of a dressy character either pongee or a highly-finished silk is employed. Very little plain tafetas or corded silk is seen in coats. The new sleeves are roomy in the arm-hole and stand out smartly, even as those worn by older women. In colored coats nothing is more desirable than the small checks or shepherd's plaid in black and white. The smartest checked coats are the simplest, but they show black stitching with straps and buttons of black velvet. A little gayer are the same checks, piped and faced with red, and trimmed with gold buttons. Red and white, always an effective combination for dark children, is used this summer, and gay little coats of cardinal red silk are made with collars showing English eyelet work, a very simple stitch to acquire, done in heavy white silk. Another gay coat was of bright red cloth, lined with red and white checked silk, and finished with a collar of white lace. But the observing mother will soon realize that the simpler styles are the smarter this season, and she will not be appalled at the prospect of excessive trimming.

Fancy straws, in quaint poke shapes and trimmed simply with flowers, are in vogue, and soft effects are secured by facing these hats with wee shirrings or triple founce, the sheerest of habutai silk being used for this purpose.

GOOD CUCUMBER CREAM.

A Cosmetic Made of This Common Vegetable Whitens Without Injuring the Skin.

Here is a formula for cucumber cream that cannot be excelled. It can be made at home, if you are careful to have all utensils exquisitely clean and ingredients properly measured and weighed. The "cucumber season" will soon be here, and it will be well for you to cut this out for use when it is time. Cut up enough cucumbers (when ripe enough for the table) to weigh two pounds; mash them in a hardwood bowl and let them stand all day; melt threeandone-half ounces of oil of sweet almonds, twoandone-half drams of white wax, and nine drams of spermaceti over hot water; strain the liquor from the cucumbers and heat it a little; then stir in the melted oils, gradually; set in the ice-chest to harden; then beat with a wooden spatula to separate the watery from the solid part; pour off the former and beat in a half ounce of glycerine without heating, working with the hands. It will become thoroughly incorporated into a cream. Put in small jars, pour a little rosewater over the top, cover and keep in a cool place. It is a delightfully cool, as well as a fine bleaching cream.—Selected.

This Graceful Pattern Is Not a Difficult One to Follow and May Be Worked Plain or in Colors.

or fine cloth would be very effective. It could be worked with silk or flax thread of one color, or in colors of the flowers and foliage. The buds are worked in satin and knot-stitches, the leaves and small flowers all in satin-stitch, the stalks in cording-stitch.

Erect Shoulders.

One way to correct round shoulders in a schoolboy or girl is to teach them to sleep on a very stiffly stuffed hair mattress, with a pillow that lifts the head but an inch above the level of the rest of the body. A soft bed and plenty of easy pillows is one of the prime causes of crooked shoulders among our American children. To sleep with the head very high is a mistake, and a soft bed is not by any means the most beneficial one.

Muslin Gowns.

Soft muslin gowns in delicate colors are being made with white lace or batiste embroidery yokes and guimpes. Similarly, gowns of eyelet embroidery have guimpes of plain material, usually very diaphanous in texture.

Brilliant Record of a Newspaper Man

The success which has attended William E. Curtis, the famous correspondent of The Chicago Record-Herald, is rarely attained by newspaper writers. Beginning his career in Chicago in 1872 as reporter, he rapidly rose to the position of managing editor. He resigned that position on receiving a government appointment as secretary of the South American commission. Mr. Curtis traveled extensively in Central and South America, while in this position producing several popular volumes as the result of his literary labors. Afterward cooperating with Secretary of State James G. Blaine, Mr. Curtis organized the work of the bureau of American republics, with the result that he was placed in charge of that organization and at the World's Columbian Exposition he distinguished himself by his labors as the executive head of the Latin-American department. As correspondent of The Chicago Record-Herald Mr. Curtis' travels have carried him into every section of the United States as well as into all quarters of the globe. His China and Japan letters were published in book form, likewise his letters from England, Germany and France, as well as those written during his travels in Mexico and South America. No newspaper correspondent possesses the facility shown by Mr. Curtis in writing on any of the diversified subjects embraced in his correspondence and making it luminous. Nor is any correspondent followed so closely year after year by the thousands of readers of The Chicago Record-Herald. On his recent trip to the Holy Land Mr. Curtis' letters have been read more closely

In the majority of cases, declares Squire Thrifty, it is well to beware of the man who tells you that you are working too hard and that you need a rest from your labors. Nine times out of ten the advice is untimely, uncalled for and without foundation of fact to rest upon. The number of men who died from overwork are in the infinitesimal minority. Work never hurts a man who enjoys his calling. What makes work wear on your vitality is the friction of desire to indulge in the pastime or existence that fits your temperament. If you are really interested in your work you can devote a life time to it, not miss a day, and live as long as if you took a vacation every month—Sedgwick Pantagraph.

Residents of the low lands between north Second and Front streets are suffering from flooded cellars and houses, and several have sustained some loss as a result. The floods were caused by the heavy rain of yesterday afternoon and last night, and the fact that the drains put in to carry off the water from the hill above the flats have not the capacity to take care of all the water during and following a heavy rain. The creek which runs along the south side of High street is also required to carry off the extra water from the Michigan Central's new ditch in the east part of the yards, and as was predicted it is incapable of taking it all. A number of chickens belonging to Harvey Blimke were drowned last night, Louis Shreck was unable to get his horses into the barn, and Mr. Turner, who lives on Howard street, has about a foot of water on his floor. Suits against the city are being talked of by some of the residents in that quarter of the city.—Niles Sun.

Buchanan Did It

For some weeks there has been much talk of base ball. Base ball as we used to have it in the old days, and base ball as we expect to have it this summer.

The season had its formal opening in a game between the Buchanan team and the Berrien Springs team at the latter town.

The game started off well for Berrien Springs and up to the sixth inning stood 6 to 0 in their favor. In the sixth Buchanan managed to push Fuller around the diamond and Berrien Springs also scored one in the sixth making it 7 to 1.

With the opening of the seventh the fun began and Buchanan scored six making the game stand a tie. Both teams then got down to business and for four innings they played ball. In the eleventh inning Buchanan made another run and won the game.

It was a good beginning for the season and the boys are justly elated over their success.

Richardson pitched a good game and showed up well for the first game. In fact all the members of the team did well for the first game.

They returned to Buchanan about nine o'clock with a song and yell that fit the occasion. It was so good that we will reproduce it.

YELL

Chew tobacco, chew tobacco, spit, spit, spit.
Who did it, who did it, Rit, Rit, Rit.

SONG

It took us eleven innings
But we did it, we did it,
The score was seven to eight,
And we did it, we did it,
Berrien Springs thought that they could play ball,
But out of them we took a fall,
And we all feel gay as we come riding home.

YELL

Who did it, Buchanan.
The song was sung to the tune of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

A Creeping Death

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at all drug stores.

Under the Rose

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM.
Author of "The Strollers"

Copyright, 1903, by the Bowen-Merrill Company

After all, she was but an audacious slip of a girl, a dark browed, bold gypsy, by nature intended for the motley—yes, the Duchesse d'Etampes was right. Then he liked not her parentage. She was a constant reminder of one who had been like to make vacant the throne of France and to destroy, root and branch, the proud house of Orleans. Moreover, whispered avarice, he would save the castle for himself, a stately and right royal possession. He had, indeed, been overgenerous in proffering it. Love, said reason, was unstable, flitting; woman, a will o' the wisp; but a castle—its noble solidity would endure. At the same time, policy admonished the king that the duke was a subject of his good brother, the emperor, and a rich, powerful noble withal. So with such grace as he could command Francis greeted one whom he preferred to regard as an ally rather than an enemy.

"Truly, my lord," he said, not discourteously, masking in a courtly manner his personal dislike for him whose sharp criticism he once had felt in Fools' hall, "a nimble witted jester was lost when you resumed the dignity of your position. But," he added cautiously as a sudden thought moved him, "this lady has appeared somewhat unexpectedly. The house of Friedwald is not an inconsequential one."

"What mean you, sire?" asked the young man as the king paused.
Francis studied him shrewdly.
"Why," he replied at length hesitat-

"Jacqueline! Sweet jestress!"

ingly, "there is that controversy of the constable of Dubrois—certain lands and a castle, long since rightly confiscated."

"Your majesty, there is another castle and lands to spare in a distant country," returned the duke quickly. "These will suffice."

"As you will," said the king in a livelier tone. "For the future, command our good offices, since you have made us sponsor of your fortunes."

With which well covered confession of his own defeat Francis strode away. As he turned, however, he caught the smile of the Duchesse d'Etampes and crossed to her graciously.

"Your dress becomes you, well, Anne," he said.

She glanced down at herself demurely; her lashes veiled a sudden gleam of triumph. "How kind of you, sire, to notice my poor gown."

"I was right," murmured Triboulet joyfully as he saw the king and favorite walking together. "No one will ever replace the duchess."

Silent, hand in hand, the duke and the jocularist stood upon the balcony. Below them lay the earth wrapped in lazy light; behind them, the court, with its glamour.

"Have I done well, Jacqueline, to answer the king as I have done?" he said finally. "Are you content to resign all—forever—here in France? To go with me?"

"Into a new world," she interrupted. "Once I asked you to take me, but you hesitated and were like to leave me behind you."

"But now 'tis I who ask," he answered.

"And I—who hesitate?" looking out over the valley, where the shadow of a cloud crossed the land.

"Do you hesitate, Jacqueline?" She turned. About her lips trembled the old fleeting smile.

"What woman knows her mind, Sir Fool? Yet if it were not so?"

"If it were not so?" he said eagerly. Her eyes became grave on a sudden. "I might believe I had been of one mind—long."

"Jacqueline! Sweet jestress!" He caught her suddenly in his arms, his fine young features aglow. This, then, was the goal of his desires, a goal of delight far, far beyond all youthful dreams or early imaginings. With drooping eyelids she stood in his embrace; she, once so proud, so self-willed. He drew her closer, kissed her hair, the rose!

She raised her head, and, sweeter still, he kissed her lips.

Across the valley the shadow receded, vanished. In the full glory of nighty splendor lay the earth, and as the mystic radiance lighted up a world of beauty it seemed at last they beheld their world, the light more beautiful for the shade and the purple mists.

TUCKER AND HALF-SLEEVES

Essential Parts of Modish Dress May Be Made of Costly Lace or of Sheer Lawn.

The season's craze for draped bodices and three-quarter or elbow-sleeves has brought the girl who would be up-to-date lace to face with a serious problem. It might be known by the hyphenated title of "Chemisettes - Tuckers - Half-Sleeves."

Very aptly, the tucker may be described as an exquisitely wrought filling for the Dutch neck, or the blouse cut with a moderately high square yoke. It is tiny, but elegant and effective. The chemisette is much larger and is used to create a waistcoat effect in the blouse of silk or supple cloth. Half-sleeves may be worn alone or with an outer, flowing cuff of the bodice cloth.

The most striking feature of this year's tucker is the finish of ruching around the collar. The chemisette must be done very flatly in the finest of hand work or suggest a jabot in fluffy lace or embroidery. The smartest half-sleeve is that which fits the arm most perfectly, though flowing effects are shown for stout women who cannot don the mousquetaire sleeve.

Real lace tuckers with low collars, and rounding yokes having deep cavalier cuffs to match are the choice of the very rich for wear with simply made gowns of richest fabrics. But they are imitated in the very cleverly conceived factory laces of the hour, and are extremely effective if care is taken in selecting the pattern.

Far better for the economical girl are the lingerie sets evolved from finest of linen lawn or batiste, with dainty patterns of Valenciennes for trimming. A most effective little chemisette may be evolved from triple hand-run tucks, set in strips "V"-shaped, between narrow rows of val insertion. The collar is finished in a narrow edging of the Valenciennes. The cuffs are also pointed, in rows of tucking, and insertion, with lace edging running all the way around.

Genuine linen wrought in broderie Anglaise makes a most effective chemisette and the sleeve ruffle to match may have scalloped edges with eyelet work above.

Both mulle and mousseline enter into the manufacture of chemisettes and half-sleeves to be worn with silk gowns.

A BEAUTIFUL NECK.

Can Be Obtained by Persisting in Certain Exercises and Bathing with Use of Olive Oil Soap.

A beautiful neck is not a difficult thing to obtain if one is willing to work for it, says the American Queen, and as a beautiful neck makes its possessor look fairer and younger than any other beautifying feature, it is something worth working for. Develop the muscles of the neck by the following gymnastic exercises, and developers and skin foods of various kinds can all be dispensed with: (1) Slowly but firmly bend the neck forward until the chin nearly touches the neck; then gradually raise the head. (2) Slowly but firmly bend the head backward as far as you comfortably can. Repeat this movement 20 times. (3) Bend the head sideways to right 20 times, and to the left the same number of times. (4) Roll the head slowly to the right, then to the left, 20 times, and afterward bathe the neck in warm water and olive oil soap and rub it firmly but gently with a soft towel. If the neck is very thin a little cream rubbed in at this time will hasten matters, and if the treatment be persisted in for six or eight weeks the improvement in the appearance of the neck will be so apparent that the treatment will not be discarded until a beautiful white neck is the reward.

Concerning Colors.

Colors, like flowers, have a meaning of their own. White signifies purity, faith, joy and life; red, the ruby, typifies fire, love and royalty; blue, the sapphire, expresses Heaven, truth, constancy and fidelity; yellow represents the sun, marriage and faithfulness; green is the color of hope and victory; violet is the hue of passion and suffering; purple and scarlet are for holy things and black is the attendant of despair, earthliness, mourning and death.

Linen Hats.

Linen sailor hats will be popular to wear with linen gowns and when the gowns are embroidered it is the thing to have a matching embroidery on the hat.

Be Placid.

The first piece of advice a beauty doctor will give you is to be placid at any cost. Anxiety acts upon the nerves and they respond in unpleasant lines.
