HOBOS ARE AT IT AGAIN

Baroda Store Ransacked at Dead of Night

SHERIFF GIVES WARNING

To Country Merchants to Lock Everything up Tight

St. Joseph, June 7.—A summer campaign of terror has been opened by the hobo army in the villages in the central part of the county. Sheriff Tennant is organizing his force of deputies for an unrelenting war upon the vicious element, and threatens to deport some of the lawless of the camping horde.

The first raid of the summer was made Monday night at Baroda, when the general store of W. E. Hogue was robbed of $50 worth of goods in revolvers, cutlery and hardware.

The front door of the building was broken open and the stock thoroughly ransacked. No effort was made to crack the safe.

Sheriff Tennant detailed Deputy Dwan on the case, but there is absolutely no clue to work upon.

The sheriff issues a special warning to merchants in the country towns in securing their money and valuables during the summer months.

There is some talk of organizing the villages south of St. Joseph to cope with the hobo army by placing night watches on duty during the fruit season.

NEXT WEEK THE LAST

School Closes Friday, But the Commencement Exercises Are To Be

HELD TUESDAY EVENING

Various School Exercises of the Week Noted Below

Next week will mark the closing of the Buchanan schools for the year, and nearly the whole week will be devoted to the closing ceremonies.

Sunday evening, the Baccalaureate address will be delivered to the graduating class, by Rev. J. A. Halmhuber at the Evangelical church. For this evening the following program has been provided.

March, Dr. J. A. Garland.
Invocation, Rev. W. J. Tarrant.
Song by chorus.
Scripture reading, Rev. C. A. Shook
Prayer, Rev. J. Darling.
Solo, Mrs. J. A. Garland.
Address, Rev. J. A. Halmhuber.
Song by chorus.
Benediction, Rev. W. J. Douglass.
Music in charge of Mr. W. F. Koehler.
Organist, Dr. J. A. Garland.

On Tuesday evening, June 13, will take place the 28th annual commencement of the Buchanan schools, at Rough's Opera House. The exercises will be in charge of the class, which is composed of three young ladies and eight young men.

Following the graduating exercises the Alumni Association banquet will be held in the Maccabee hall.

Next Friday morning in the High School room, the Eighth Grade commencement exercises will take place. An elaborate program has been prepared for the occasion.

Friday afternoon the promotion exercises of the lower grades will be held in the High School room. This will close the school for the summer vacation, the happiest time in the lives of the boys and girls.

Council Meeting

Tuesday evening was the regular meeting of the council and was attended by all the members. A petition was presented by the Home Telephone company, of South Bend, asking for a franchise to enter the village. Petition was referred to a committee.

C. A. Chapin petitioned the council to extend the water mains to the electric power house. This petition was referred to the water works committee.

A. J. Carothers, John McFallon and Wm. Burk presented a petition requesting that the council extend the time of closing their saloons from 9 o'clock until 10 o'clock during the months of June, July, August and September. No action was taken on the petition.

The regular monthly bills were allowed.

The Assessor, C. B. Treat, was present and presented his report of the assessed valuation, which was as follows: Real estate $666,430 personal $96,462 or a total of $762,872.

After receiving the report the council made the following tax levy for the general fund 7 mills, highway 1 mill, debt paying 3 mills.

The general fund showed an overdraft of $1,554.88, while the other funds each show a balance. The highway has a balance of $291.48, the cemetery $494.02, the debt paying $552.52. There are no outstanding debts against the village except the bonded indebtedness.

FOR SALE—Large house on half acre lot, good barn, lots of fruit. Good location. Inquire at RECORD office.

IS AFTER SALOONISTS

Who are Said to Have Sold Liquor to Indian, Who

OBSTRUCTED THE TRACK

With the Intention of Wrecking a Michigan Central Passenger Train

Joseph Sawalk, a young Indian from Dowagiac, is in the city today endeavoring to ascertain where his brother, Frank Sawalk, who is charged with having attempted to wreck a Michigan Central train last Friday, while in an intoxicated condition, got his liquor.

J. S. Tuttle says that Sawalk marketed some ginseng at his place of business last Friday, and it is presumed that after leaving town he got off the train at Pokagon by mistake, and started to walk to Dowagiac. He is charged with having placed an obstruction on the track at a point about three miles this side of Dowagiac. Joseph Sawalk says he has learned at the local Michigan Central depot that his brother was seen there in a drunken condition.

The penalty of selling liquor to a red man is very severe, and Mr. Tuttle has written the Cass county authorities, asking them to bring the prisoner to Niles that he may point out the place or places where he got his drinks. The Michigan Central Railway company may also take a hand in the matter, as scores of lives were imperiled by the drunken Indian's alleged act. Concerning the matter, a Dowagiac dispatch said:

"An attempt was made Friday night to wreck the fast passenger train on the Michigan Central, which is due in this city at 6:55 on its way to Detroit. But for a freight train which went ahead of the passenger, the attempt would have been successful. It was made about three miles west of Dowagiac, and a drunken Indian was responsible. The red man is under arrest and declares that it was his intention to wreck the train.

The writer talked with the editor of the Dowagiac News, on the phone this morning, and he stated that Sawalk, who is now in the county jail at Cassopolis, and who will have his hearing at Dowagiac tomorrow morning, claims he had two companions, who were traveling about mending umbrellas, and that he believes they drugged him. Sawalk advances the plea that he was never drunk before, and some of his friends at Bangor, where he was employed in the tailoring business, bear him out in this. Sawalk is also quoted as saying that his two companions and himself got off the train at Pokagon, but that he has no recollection of what happened afterward.

The ties were distributed over a distance of about a mile, and were discovered in less than half an hour after the trio disembarked at Pokagon hence it is the belief of the authorities that Sawalk had assistance in the nefarious work with which he is charged.

It is said that when Sawalk was arrested, he was sitting on the fence, near where the last of the ties had been distributed, and that he said he he had never seen a train wrecked.

In view of the foregoing, it is not only not improbable, but to the contrary, is very likely that the umbrella menders, aforesaid bought the Indian his liquor. In any event, the matter will doubtlessly be cleared up soon.

Huge Task

It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache, and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver, stomach, guaranteed by all druggists; price 50c.

GRAND OPENING OF WORTHINGTON'S BARN

Last night the formal grand opening of A. A. Worthington's new barn took place.

The Bethany class of the M. E. Sunday school to the number of thirty-five were present and enjoyed the occasion.

An edict had gone forth that all should wear old clothes, especially such as would be becoming to the rustics of a "Down East" rural community. When the guests presented themselves at the portal it was found that they had all followed the decree with but three exceptions, and these who had set at defiance this law, were reprimanded and ordered cast into the corn crib.

Old fashioned games were played and each guest was given a bunch of clover and a wisp of hay, which might be understood to mean, that they were expected to eat like a horse.

Popcorn and red lemonade was served, and just as the hungry gathering began to think that was all they had coming, wafers, ice cream and cake were served.

An excellent time was reported by all, and 'tis said that Bert's horse may have nervous prostration when it hears the echos of last night's festivities.

UNCLE NATE WRITTEN UP

Appears as the Subject of a Sketch by Lansing Specialist

A Lansing correspondent views Representative Lovell of this district in the following light:

Let no unwary one think because 61 winters have silvered "Uncle Nate" Lovell's hair, there is no fight left in him. Such a one is likely to wake with a jolt, for there are many good "scraps" left in "Uncle Nate." "Yarb" Higgins of Cass found it out early in the session, when he tried to wallop Lovell in the middle aisle of the house. The engagement was short, sharp and decisive. It ended with the statesman from Berrien astride the statesman from Cass. "Uncle William" McKay of Tuscola learned it when he tried to pass his private bank bill "agin" the protest of the gentlemen from Berrien. There was a verbal battle that delighted the soul—and the bill is still on the table.

Lovell went out with "the boys" in 1861 and spent four years in the army. He was taken prisoner at Murfreesboro, but was exchanged and went into the Seventh Michigan Cavalry, Custer's old regiment. He saw a lot of active service in Virginia.

"I voted for Abe Lincoln in the field before I was 21 years of age," he proudly tells.

He slept on the ground and in Virginia mud so long that it grew to be second nature with him.

"For six months after I got home I had to sleep on the floor," says he. "The day after I got home my mother found me lying on the floor in the hall and thought I was sick."

He lives at Eau Claire, Berrien county, and represents the second district. He is a farmer and makes berry baskets to transport the Berrien fruit. His name appears on the bill cutting the tax commission down to three men after September 1, 1906, and he fought hard for it. He has been a supervisor and his principal kick on the commission is the "pernicious activity" its field men have shown in the counties whose valuation they have "boosted." Berrien was one of them and Uncle Nate vowed when they raised Berrien he would see such power was taken from them. His vow seems in a fair way to be fulfilled.

Rev. W. P. French, formerly of St. Joseph, now of Lansing, is of the opinion that Berrien county has reason to feel proud of both Representatives Sam H. Kelley and Nathan V. Lovell. Mr. French is quoted as saying:

"I have made it a point to visit the capitol several times a week and I am always glad to see the prominent place which the two members from my old county hold. They are among the leaders of the house and they have a high place among the other members of the legislature."

South Bend Hopes For River Auto Drive

Some time ago it was suggested by prominent South Bend people spending their summers at Higman Park, that an effort to raise money for the construction of a macadam automobile drive from the Indiana city along the course of the St. Joseph river to the lake would bring large contributions from the wealthy people of this section. The idea has been taken up with enthusiasm by scores of automobile owners in northern Indiana and southern Michigan, and there is hope that within the next few years the vast scheme will be realized. Of the plan the South Bend Tribune says:

"This is an enterprise wholly feasible and one which some day not far in the future will be a grand realization. In fact, it may be said to be now well under way, as at each end of the line preparations have been begun. This is to be seen in the partly finished boulevard beginning at Mishawaka, passing through River Park and connecting the park system of South Bend. The right of way is practically secured along the river below the city to Riverview cemetery and from there on to Niles will be easy work. At the St. Joseph and Benton Harbor end there are also several miles of public highway up the river that have been put in boulevard shape and will form a part of the extended system."

"All along the lovely river there are property owners, many of them of the resort class, who are owners of automobiles and are directly interested in this vast enterprise. The manufactures of automobiles as well as the owners of machines in this city are especially interested in furthering the boulevard project and its success is assured. It would develop into one of the most delightful auto routes in the country, covering a distance of between 60 to 70 miles, if following the windings of the stream; and at every turn passing through some of the most charming scenery that America affords.

"It is understood that private interests alone are involved in the construction of the boulevard and in the main it will pass through private grounds, the public highways being little used except in the cities and towns through which it passes."

Weekly Climate and Crop Bulletin

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6, '05

The mean daily temperature for the week ended June 5 was 58.0 degrees, or 2.3 degrees below the normal; the average precipitation was 0.45 of an inch, or 0.35 of an inch below the normal, the sunshine averaged 67 per cent of the possible amount.

Most of the week has been cool and in the central and southern counties too wet for the best growth of corn, oats and barley. In the northern counties and upper peninsula the weather has been drier and field work in those sections is progressing quite favorably. The soil in the southern sections continues quite wet and has somewhat retarded field work. Wheat rye, meadows and pastures continue to make fine growth and are in generally promising condition. Wheat is heading and the hay prospect is good, especially from new meadows. Oats, peas and barley are in fair condition, but making rather slow growth. Corn and early potatoes are germinating quite nicely and in the southern counties receiving their cultivation, but their growth is slow. Late potato planting is well advanced and bean planting has quite generally begun in the southern and central counties. Planting for buckwheat is in progress. Sugar beet seeding is nearing completion; the early seeding has germinated nicely and thinning and blocking are in progress in the early seeded fields.

In the southern and central counties cherries have set poorly and indicate light yields, but in the northern counties better yields are indicated. On account of the cold wet weather early strawberries are somewhat blighted, but generally the strawberry yield is quite promising. Other fruit prospects continue promising.

The Perfection of Musical Comedy

The initial week of Lew Fields in "It Happened in Nordland" at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, was the most notable in point of attendance in the history of that theatre, including memorable engagements of Richard Mansfield, "Wizard of Oz," and "Babes in Toyland." There is no doubt that "Nordland's" hit is unequivocal and distinct for everyone who has seen it pronounces it near the perfection of musical comedy.

From a beauty point of view, "It Happened in Nordland" is about the finest production ever conceived and executed by the hand of man. Scene after scene of artistic gorgeousness and rare harmony of color delights the eye. There are scores of costumes for the multitude of chorus girls, costumes of priceless fabrics and abundant richness of color in riotous variety without a clash. Personally the wearers of these are the most beautiful of face and figure to be found in the profession, a gay galaxy indeed, and individually possessed of much talent, besides, as well as an unusual animation and desire to please that are gratifying to witness. The extreme beauty and merit of this chorus warrants mention of them. Lew Fields in his role of a Dutch lad is as funny as could be wished, and he also invests the part with more sense and less buffoonery than old-time admirers of the comedy team, Weber and Fields, were wont to find in the work of either.

Wednesday and Saturday matinees are given during the engagement.

The Chicago Market Letter

Weekly review of grain trade and exceptional market conditions furnished exclusively to the Record by the house of Fyee, Manson & Company, Board of Trade, Chicago

If you can read a Chinese puzzle at sight, then you may be able to see what is likely to happen in wheat in the next sixty days. There is not any one thing which can shape the market. There are a dozen things which may upset all calculations. The weather, the stocks, the early or late harvests, the wet or dry harvests, the eagerness of millers for the new wheat, the condition of the spring states about the Kansas harvest time the depletion of flour stocks and old wheat stocks, the presence or absence of export demand for our wheat the presence or absence of big speculative holdings in this market all these and as many more trade influences will keep the trade on the jump until the outcome of the 1905 crop is definitely known until prices are adjusted to the new conditions. For the week, July prices were up 2 1/2 to 3 1/2c in Northwest markets where the May contracts closed with a great squeeze at $1.27 1/2. Prices are lower in Southwest markets where the near approach of harvest is the influence. In Chicago the big speculative fight must be turned in favor of bulls or bears as conditions develop.

A supporting feature is the great discount of the futures under the cash article. In this market the July price is 10 cents under the cash and the September 6 cents under the July. There is little prospect of the cash article going begging. Every miller in the country ought to be anxious to contract for wheat at much better than the present July prices. In the Southwest wheat reserves are very low and it is doubtful if the first offerings get by the millers at all. There is some doubt about the size of the new crop. Best authorities claim reduction in condition of the big Southwest states of from 8 to 18 points during the month of May. It is late in the season for fine weather to make good much of this decline in condition. Spring wheat conditions are about as fine as can be at present time, but the experts say that if there is any bad effect from the use of light weight seed wheat it will appear later. There is this to be said about the wealths from now until the winter harvests are secured the very finest cannot make good to any extent the loss in condition and adverse conditions, such as wet weather for early harvests, may become a powerful feature on the buying side.

One important thing has been demonstrated to the corn trade, viz: That a 50 cent price is not a fictitious one. The May price went out at 60c on a squeeze of shorts. The people who took over 5,000,000 bus. cash corn on May contracts have but 2,000,000 bus. to market and cash prices are in the 50s Shipping and export demands too 3,000,000 bus. of the corn before the May contracts expire. June is the month for the big after planting movement. But the experts say the country is not offering corn, not likely to because farmers have sold all they care to until they see the ears forming on the new crop. Replanting has been extensive and a large area is getting a late start. The July corn has been bought for weeks by strong people. Shipping demands have run stocks low. If the country offers corn to replace supplies here corn futures may rest in the 40s. If the corn is not forthcoming very soon, then all months may go into the 50s and stay there.

Peel the oranges, and trim off all the white skin. If the oranges contain no tough fiber they may be sliced lengthwise, otherwise cut out each section of pulp from the membrane inclosing it. For one pint pulp mix one fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and three or four tablespoonfuls of oil, then gradually beat in one tablespoonful of lemon juice, pour this over the oranges. Have ready a pound of dates dressed with the same quantity of oil and acid. Mix the dressing thoroughly through the fruit, and dispose it on a bed of heart leaves of lettuce washed and dried thoroughly, surround the dates with the dressed oranges. Before dressing the dates, prepare them after this fashion: After separating with a fork, pour boiling water over them, skim from the water, and let dry in a hot oven. When cool, cut each date in four pieces, removing the seed.

Let bread and butter sandwiches accompany this dish. Perhaps the most appropriate bread would be that made of entire-wheat flour and containing a goodly number of hazelnuts.—Woman's Home Companion for June.

Children's day will be observed in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning June 11. Appropriate exercises by the Sunday school with special music and an address by the pastor.

There was a lot of excitement last evening at the Michigan Central dining hall and as the result of a rough house arrests may follow. A traveling man was one of the parties to the affair, while the heavy work was done by a local liveryman. According to reports, the traveling man went to the livery stable early in the day and wanted to hire a rig to drive to Buchanan. The proprietor of the barn hinted, it is said, that he would be more sure of getting the rig back if he went along and this incensed the drummer, who declined to take the outfit then. He hired a rig at another place and made the trip. He was going to leave for the east via the M. C., and was enjoying a supper at the dining hall when the liveryman burst in, and after a few words a fight started. The drummer weighed about 125 pounds and was no match for the other, though he managed to break a tumbler on the back of the Niles man's head. The railroad company may cause the liveryman's arrest for creating a disturbance in the dining hall.—Niles Sun.

Everybody's liable to itching piles. Rich and poor, old and young—terrible the torture they suffer. Only one sure cure, Doan's Ointment. Absolutely safe, can't fail.

Church Notes
EVANGELICAL.
Regular Sunday morning preaching at 10:30. Sunday school at 11:45. There will be no Young People's Alliance meeting. At 7:30 p. m. baccalaureate services.

METHODIST.
The services at the M. E. Church, Sunday morning, will be conducted by the Epworth League. Mr. Mercer will have charge. An address will be given by A. A. Worthington. A cordial invitation is given to all to be present.

BERRIEN SPIKINGS
School closed Friday, June 2. Supt. of Public Instructions, Kelley delivered the address Thursday evening at the commencement exercises. All present at their exercises report a fine lecture. The next evening the sixth grade occupied the same stage as the graduates. The entertainment given by this class consisted of music, drills, recitations, history, prophecy etc., and was well rendered.

The work on the Hendleman building is progressing rapidly and in the near future Reynolds and Kephart will put up two brick buildings.

The river boat, Willow, made her first trip of the season to this place, Sunday.

Dying of Famine
is, in its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in its first stage," writes Wm. Myers of Cearfoss, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor, in vain I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which quickly and perfectly cured me." Prompt relief and sure cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, etc. Positively prevents pneumonia. Guaranteed at any drug store, price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

MAN WHO ONCE MADE DIAMONDS

By Cutcliffe Hyne

Copyright, 1905, by Cutcliffe Hyne

"No, I won't. Thanks. Luck on the hotel, for one thing. And, besides, I'm going to see it out here. I'm not going to let those scoundrels think they've scared me. Of course they deny all knowledge of these outrages, and it would be impossible to father them on Hatton Garden. Indeed, Levenstein has at this moment a libel suit pending against me for an open letter I wrote to him on the subject. But there's not the smallest doubt that that's what they're after."

"But, my good fool, they've oceans of money, and if they go on long enough they're bound to bag you at last."

"My dear McHinnie, they won't go on. They'll get my ultimatum tomorrow morning. That points out that the working details of my invention are written upon paper and bestowed in safe keeping elsewhere. In the event of my death that pithy MS. will be forwarded to Printing House square and form a column of very interesting reading in the Times newspaper next morning. To every one above the grade of costermonger that disclosure would be the sensation of the century."

"Quite so. What figure do you charge for leaving things as they were?"

"A pension of £200,000 a year so long as I keep the recipe to myself. Tomorrow morning they'll know of this and the conditions, and they'll be bound to accept. Tonight they don't know, and so assassination still strikes them as sound business. But, as I say, tomorrow there'll be a meeting of the available chiefs of the ring, and they'll snap up my terms. I'm dirt cheap at the price. They'll have to screw that £200,000 per annum out of the diamond buying public for a good many years to come yet. You see, they wouldn't cut short the pension by slaying me, because, ipso facto, they would smash their own trade by doing it. As a very necessary life insurance I naturally stick to the publication clause in the newspaper on the day of my death. So I fancy, McHinnie, I've got that diamond ring as nicely on toast as ever yet blackmailer."

A crash and a blinding explosion cut short Macdonald's sentence. The farther wall of the place swept bodily toward us in a whirlwind of smoke and flames, and as the blast smote me on the head life appeared to tear itself away with a jolt and a jerk.

It was by a very marvel of marvels that in that moment we were not transmuted to the clay whereof our corporeal bodies were formed. Nothing but the tank had saved us. But the advancing breath of the explosion had driven us over the brink, and the water had acted as a cushion against the shock. So violent had been the power of the bomb thrown against it that of the building nothing remained but a scattered mound of dusty rubble.

By their agents the diamond ring had lifted their hands against Macdonald with lust to slay, and by their agents, the same coterie drew his unconscious form and mine also out of the chilly haven of that water tank. By a curious irony Mr. Levenstein was the first person to bring us assistance. He had just arrived in Burton by special train to say that the demand for the £200,000 annuity was agreed to. I have never seen any one so effusively genial and civil as Mr. Levenstein made himself while he attended to our physical needs after that explosion.

The process of blossoming out into a man of means was one I did not see, as the French were going up to Timbuktu just then, and I wanted to go with them to see whether the place really existed or whether it was only a magnified joke. As it turned out, the neighborhood proved intensely interesting, so I stayed there a longish time, and when I got back to England again Macdonald had quite settled down to the new order of things.

That tank, the only creature comfort of his working days, was a forerunner of what is the man's abiding place now that he has come into enormous wealth. On the flank of his more stable residence he has built him a huge house of glass and filled it with palms and bananas and palmettos and other tropical foliage plants and ferns. There is no method or order in their placing, nor are there concrete walks about the place. Some of the floor is soft short grass, the rest water winding in deep, narrow channels in and out of the islets of foliage. The temperature stays in the eighties.

Here Conrad Macdonald, in the garb that nature gave him, basks and swims and dives for six hours of the day and meditates over an airship built on natural principles. He studies the flights of birds and butterflies and insects which skim and flutter in the warm air around him, but till now he has made no practical effort to put his observations into shape. Yet I think he will make that airship.

If you don't know Macdonald, do not believe this tale, go round to Hatton Garden and ask any diamond merchant there how much he pays toward Conrad Macdonald's pension. He may wax eloquent, but the odds are he refrains from giving a civil reply.

The Wife, the Church, the Five Dollars
Irving Parke allowed himself to be persuaded to accompany his wife to church, and, of course, after he got there he found that part of the service was devoted to raising a small fund for church repairs. His first feelings of resentment wore away under the pleadings of the preacher, and when his wife handed $5 to the usher he thought of the economy she must have practiced to have saved that much out of her allowance.

But the fund still lacked a small sum of being complete, and as other men spoke a good word for the cause, at the same time giving from their cash surplus, Mr. Parke felt the spirit possessing him.

"We all want to see our church kept in good repair," he said, "and I will supplement my wife's gift with $5 more."

As he said this he felt in his fob pocket for a five dollar bill which he had placed there the night before. It was gone. He felt in other pockets, his embarrassment growing each moment, and then, as if an inspiration had come upon him, he turned an accusing look on his wife.

Mrs. Parke flushed; the congregation, which had been enjoying the scene, burst into laughter, contributions were called off for the day, and the preacher pronounced the benediction.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Reminded Him of Old Times.

An old man whose millions were all the time rolling up other millions for him not long since happened to notice the tin lunch pail of the new office boy whose home was across the ferry from the big city. It chanced that the lad was the newest and youngest of the numerous boys employed by the firm of which the old man was the head and had not had time to become acquainted with the personnel of the office. He was out at the moment, and a certain reminiscent, half tender curiosity tempted the millionaire to lift the lid of the little round pail. There were two sandwiches of homemade bread, a doughnut and a piece of apple pie. The old man smiled. For a minute he was a boy again, and the little tin pail before him was the one he himself had carried fifty years ago. The new office boy's face was a study when he discovered this tableau behind the big screen.

"That's my dinner you're eating!" he exclaimed indignantly at sight of the strange face.

"I know it, my boy," returned the other, still smiling, "but you must let me finish it now," taking another bite of the pie. "Here's enough to get you another dinner"—and he handed the astonished youngster a five dollar bill—"only it won't be as good a one as this," he added, with a twinkle in his eye.

Paid Him Back.

Schoolmaster (to his wife)—My dear, I wish you would speak more carefully; you say that Henry Jones came to this town from Sunderland.

Wife—Yes.
Schoolmaster—Well, now, wouldn't it be better to say that he came from Sunderland to this town?

Wife—I don't see any difference in the two expressions.

Schoolmaster—But there is a difference—a rhetorical difference. You don't hear me make use of such awkward expressions. By the way, I have a letter from your father in my pocket."

Wife—But my father is not in your pocket. You mean you have in your pocket a letter from my father.

Schoolmaster—There you go with your little gibbles. You take a delight in harassing me. You are always taking up a thread and representing it as a rope.

Wife—Representing it to be rope, you mean.

Schoolmaster—For goodness' sake be quiet. I never saw such a quarrelsome woman in my life.—London Mail.

Would Add to His Labors.

The Rev. John Sabin, who for forty-one years was pastor of the First Congregational church of Fitzwilliam, N. H., was noted for his quick wit. One time when a motion to raise his salary was under discussion at the annual town meeting he suddenly appeared on the scene and asked his friends not to advocate an increase, as it was too much work to collect what they had already voted to give him.—Boston Herald.

Terrible Tragedy.
Acry of horror burst forth from the vast assemblage. Thousands of willing hands would have averted the catastrophe, if possible, but everybody realized that nothing could be done.
Strong men groaned in anguish and fair women looked on with pale cheeks and glistening eyes.
What had happened?
Was it a horrible accident?
Worse than that!
O, far worse!
The man at the bat had struck out, leaving three men on bases and the home team had lost the game!—Chicago Tribune.

Against the Grain.
She was remarkably pretty and graceful, but had about as much voice as a hen. Among the audience was a fellow who was awfully gone on her, and turning to his neighbor, he said: "What a voice she has!"
"M'yes," was the reply.
"What timbre?" continued the admirer.

"Ah! that's just the word I was hunting for. Timber, a bit rough, full of cracks, and by Jove! there goes the saw to work."—Ally Sloper.

Mild Sarcasm.
"I wish I knew some way to make a little money," remarked a lazy fellow.

"Why don't you try working for a change?" suggested an industrious neighbor.

"Sure enough!" exclaimed the other.
"But, do you know, I never would have thought of doing that in a thousand years."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Unavoidable.
"Do you like Wagner's music?" asked the caller.

"No," said the young woman at the piano. "I hate it."
"Why do you play it, then?"
"Because this instrument is dreadfully out of tune, and if I played any other kind of music you'd notice it."—Chicago Tribune.

Strictly Up to Date.
"I suppose your new house is strictly up to date?" remarked the hostess to an afternoon caller.
"Yes, indeed," replied Mr. Malaprop, "it has got all the modern conciliations, even to eccentric lights, rheumatic tubes and a porcupine bathtub."—Cincinnati Enquirer.
