DEATH IN THE BELT

Clifford Underwood Was Crushed While Sleeping

VIOLATED STRICT RULE

Street Car Dynamo Was Started at 5:45 This Morning—Engineer Did Not Know Man Was on Belt—Dead Man's Wife Died Recently.

While asleep on the 28 inch street car dynamo belt at the Benton Harbor & St Joseph street car power station at 5:45 Thursday morning W. C. Underwood, aged 30 years, was crushed to death.

"Clifford" Underwood was engaged at the power house as night light dynamo tender and at the time of the accident his dynamo was running and he was supposed to be on watch instead of sleeping since one of the strictest rules about the power house is that no man shall sleep while on duty.

The big dynamo to which the belt runs is in motion from 5:45 in the morning till the street cars stop near midnight but last night on account of some disorder to this machine the engine had been started several times during the night and had been out of motion only about three quarters of an hour when the accident occurred. It is the supposition of the chief engineer and other men acquainted with the conditions about the plant that becoming tired from his night's work, Underwood laid down for a few minutes' rest not having the least intention of sleeping but that sleep stole on him and that he never awoke to realize what was happening until death claimed him.

The big dynamo stands to the north side of the engine room and night engineer William Mann, who was in charge of the plant at the time, stood to the extreme south side of the room and could not have seen the sleeping man on the belt and was not conscious of his being in danger and knowing the strictly enforced rules prevailing about the place did not suppose that the man was violating the orders of the company and only realized what happened when the heavy form of the unfortunate man was carried over the big wheel and slammed on the concrete floor near the place where he had laid down to rest.

When the wheel started the man laid about four feet from where a running board, composed of two planks two by eight inches, crossed the belt. When the man's head came in contact with these planks they were ripped loose from their fastenings and thrown to one side as if they were shingles. After passing through his ordeal the body was carried into the main wheel which is about ten feet in diameter and thrown back onto the concrete floor, lifeless. His neck was broken but the flesh was not torn.

Chief engineer Spaulding was given possession of the body which was turned over to Undertaker Baittinger of St. Joseph to prepare for burial.

Underwood had been engaged in various kinds of work by the street car and light company in the lighting department for the last three years and is said to have been a good, hardworking, honest and sober employe. He worked as light trimmer until last May when he was given the inside position which he filled satisfactorily until his death.

New Code Of Signals

Red for Safety, White for Danger on the Central

Beginning the first of the year there will be a change in the code of the signal lights for the Michigan Central trainmen. The change will be a radical one and will bring about a system of lights that is unknown to other railroads.

The red signal, which since the beginning of railroading has been one of a warning of danger becomes one of a clear right of way and assurance of safety. For many months the officials of the railroads have been figuring on making these changes and the orders for the change were given out this week.

Under the present system of warning lights the red is a signal at all times and under all circumstances of danger and the white of clear right of way while the green signal is but a caution to the trainmen to be on the lookout. The white green and red signals change and the green will become more prominent than ever before. More attention will be paid to the green signals. They will be up as a warning of the approach of a place of possible danger. Trainmen will be required in the future to pay more attention to the green signals.

The change in the signal lights on the Michigan Central means that the system will be changed on every line of the Vanderbilt system in the east. The system includes the Lake Shore, Big Four and the New York Central and a large number of the smaller lines.

Pleasant Surprise

A very pleasant surprise was held at the home of J. B. Stryker on last Thursday, it being his 71st birthday. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stopp, Mrs. Adami Kern, W. F. Runner and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Stryker.

A bounteous repast was served to which all did ample justice. The afternoon was spent in social enjoyment and when they departed all voted they had had a delightful time and wishing many more of the pleasant occasions.

CHRISTMAS EXERCISES

Of the Various Churches and the Programs That Were Rendered

WERE LARGELY ATTENDED

By a Large Congregation at Each and Every Church the Various Evenings

The Christmas exercises at all the churches were well attended, and reported to be exceptionally good. The exercises of the Presbyterian church were held last Friday night and was well attended. The exercises consisted mostly of music and recitations. The decorations were a Christmas tree besides the other decorations.

The program at the Methodist church was carried out Sunday evening, consisting of music and recitations. The predominating decorations being being white and green. At Sunday School the presents were distributed among the teachers and pupils.

The Christmas festivities at the Evangelical church were exceptionally fine and carried out most successfully. The first part of the evening was taken up by the younger members of the school. A cantata, "Joseph and His Brethren" was greatly enjoyed by all. The participants in the cantata were dressed in costumes appropriate for the occasion. It required about 40 or 50 members, both young and old. The occasion was a most novel and entertaining one. The tree was heavily loaded with numerous and beautiful gifts.

The exercises at the Advent Christian church were largely attended last Saturday night and all report an elegant program. The greater portion of the evening was spent with the younger members. At the close of the program, which consisted of music and recitations, a tableau was enjoyed, it being a scene representing the "The Ten Virgins and the Bridegroom," all of whom were dressed in white. The scene showed the five wise virgins with their lamps burning bright, while outside the gate stood the five foolish virgins. A Christmas tree, heavily laden with presents was a source of great enjoyment to all.

The Christmas program at the Christian church, Monday night was well attended and the recitations and music was greatly enjoyed. A star drill by the little ones was one of the most interesting features on the program. The Christmas tree was in great evidence, as well as a source of great enjoyment to all, especially to the younger members. The members presented Mr. A. C. Roe, a handsome oak chair, and a book in appreciation of his preaching for the church for several months past, owing to the absence of a regular minister.

The Christmas exercises at the United Brethren church were held last Saturday night, and were well attended. The evening was passed in music and speaking. The decorations were in accordance with the subject "The Bethlehem King." Many presents were distributed among the members of the Sunday school.

There is a well known attorney in Berrien county who has held several offices of public trust and occasionally delivers lectures in neighboring towns. He is famed as the very worst penman in that section of Michigan. Recently he wrote a lecture committee, setting a date on which he would be able to deliver a speech. The committee studied over the epistle several hours and then took it to a druggist who has the reputation of being able to read almost anything. He took the letter into the back room and returned with a bottle of dope, telling the committee the letter was a prescription for one of the best known brands of cough medicine charging them $1 for the same.

It is, of course, a platitude to say that the frankness of the young is, on certain occasions, most appalling; but the truth of the statement is illustrated in a new way by the following story of a little boy who was taken out to dine.

Ralph had to the comfort of his mother conducted himself in a most exemplary manner throughout the repast. At dessert the lad gazed longingly at some fruit at the farther end of the table; but much to his disappointment he was not asked to have any of it. It chanced that the hostess observing the set expression on the boy's face and being of course entirely ignorant of the cause thereof, said:

"And of what are you thinking so earnestly, little man?"

"Mother told me," came in swift response, "not to take two apples, and I was thinking that I'd be very lucky to get one."

ONE BOY A YEAR THERE.

Situation Given as Cause for Fact That Most Children Born Are Girls.

The startling fact has just been brought out that of all the births that have occurred at Carson City, the capital of Nevada, during the past year, only one boy has been born. The total number of births according to statistics, was 57; 56 of these young Nevadans are girls. Physicians state that it is not unusual for the ratio to be uneven, and in favor of the girls, but they cannot recall where the percentage has been so great. They offer no explanation for the strange condition.

"It just happened that way, I guess," said one of the Carson doctors. "We noticed the shortage in the number of births so far as boys were concerned, but, really, until a few days ago, gave the matter but little thought. It was brought to my attention by Controller Sam Davis. I have since tried to solve the mystery, but without result."

Environment is given as a solution by one resident of Carson. The city, naturally isolated, is beautifully situated in a valley; trees and shrubbery and pretty homes abound. Except during the session of the legislature, there is seldom anything out of the ordinary going on. These quiet conditions, it is argued, naturally result in a feminine temperament, the preponderance of girls in the birth records resulting.

MONKEY AND THE LADY.

Feminine Fashionable Has a New Whim Which Makes Her Conspicuous.

The monkey is being adopted as a pet by some women in these days. This fashion is exhibited to the world because it is the thing to do to take the monkey out driving with you, if you own one, says the New York Sun. "I take my monkey out driving, just as I would a pet dog," explained a pioneer in this field.

Her friends did not believe her until the other day, when one of them came forward to corroborate her.

"I saw her," said this witness. "I was on a side street, standing at the curb about to cross the street, when I found my eyes fixed upon the almost human eyes of a monkey walking on the top of the closed doors of a passing hansom."

"Back of the monkey she sat looking as pretty as a picture and evidently much pleased with the attention that her pet was drawing to himself, not to mention herself."

"He was not one bit the barrel-organ type of monkey, but a dainty monkey wearing no other coat than his own natural fur, the color of a fawn with a sheen of satin."

"A silver collar set with turquoise circled the little creature's neck. A silver chain attached the collar to the mistress' hand. She, by the way, carried out the silver and pale blue color scheme charmingly in her own attire."

MEANING OF SURNAMES.

Nearly all surnames originally had a meaning. They were descriptive of their owners. In a word, they were nicknames, like "Skinny," or "Shorty," or "Pud," says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Peel is a surname that shows the original Peel to have been bald. Grace means fat—from the French "gras." Grant, from "grand," means big.

An Oliphant should be a clumsy and unwieldy person. This surname was "elephant" originally.

The Parkers were keepers of noble-men's parks. The Warners were warners or rabbit tenders. The Barkers prepared bark for tanning. The Laboucheres were butchers.

Bell meant handsome. Cameron meant crooked-nosed. Curtis meant polite. And Forster meant forester; Napier, a servant in charge of the table linen; Palmer, a pilgrim; Wainwright, a wagon builder; Webster, a weaver; Wright, a carpenter.

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh

Scott's Emulsion should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

ROAD AND FARM IMPROVEMENT

THE JOINT WORM.

Report of the Government Experts on This Pest of the Wheat Field.

Since the first known serious outbreak of this insect, which occurred in the fields about Charlottesville and Gordonsville, Va., during the years 1848 to 1854 it has been reported at irregular intervals and in widely separated localities. While it is known to occur sparingly over most of the wheat growing sections of both the United States and Canada, and probably does more damage than has generally been placed to its credit, its reappearance in the Grange, Riley, wheat fields of Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland and Kansas in 1904, and in still greater numbers in 1905, serves to bring it again to notice. In 1904 some fields of wheat in eastern Ohio were so badly damaged that they were not harvested, and the present year a serious outbreak in northeastern Indiana has so discouraged some farmers that they are questioning the advisability of putting in a crop of wheat at all. In southwest Virginia the pest has been even more injurious in 1905 than it was the previous year. The fully developed insect somewhat resembles a small winged black ant. The color is black, with joints of legs and feet yellow. The young or grub is whitish, with brown jaws, the length being about the same as that of the adult, and the form much like that shown in figure 1, which represents the larva of a nearly related species. The insect may be found throughout the year in its various stages of development in wheat stems. It lives over winter as a larva or grub in cells formed in the stems prior to the ripening of the grain, the adult emerging therefrom in April or May, according to latitude, or some time after the young grain has thrown up stems and several joints have become exposed. The female, using her slender, pointed ovipositor, places her eggs in the straws. The exact position assumed is shown in figure 2, photographed from life by Mr. G. I. Reeves. The eggs hatch and the young grubs, forming cells, feed in the walls of the stem, reaching their maximum growth by the time the straw becomes fully hardened and ripe. Wintering in the larval state, they pass a short pupal stage and emerge as adults in the spring.

There are no known remedies, but there are several preventive measures that are reasonably efficient. In the midst of the outbreak in Virginia, previously mentioned, a "Joint Worm Convention" was held at Warrenton, in that state, to devise means for controlling this pest. This body recommended a better system of farming, the use of guano and other fertilizers to promote a rapid growth and an early ripening of the grain, and the burning of the stubble, all of which are as advisable to-day as they were at that time. The most serious ravages are observed on thin or impoverished soils, especially along the margins of the fields infested. Anything, then, that tends to add vigor to the young growing grain will constitute a preventive measure. Burning the stubble, where this is practicable, is, of course, most efficacious, but over the larger portion of the territory ravaged by this pest it is customary to seed with grass after wheat, and under this condition burning over the stubble field is impossible. Such fields should be raked over with an ordinary hay rake, and the loosened stubble removed and buried before the adults have emerged in the spring.

Rotation of crops is advantageous, because it necessitates the migration of adults from one field to another, and if this is done in stormy weather or during high winds, many of the migrants will be killed or blown astray. The sowing of early ripening varieties is also beneficial.

Sis—Why did you throw up your situation, Ernest?

Brother—Because I am going to get married.

Sis—But what will you live on—love?

Brother—Oh, no; we are going to live on my love's father.

That Was Why.

Beggs—My wife says that if I were to die she would remain a widow.

Meggs—Evidently she thinks there is not another man in the world like you.

"On the contrary; she's afraid there may be, and that she'd get him,—Cassell's.

He Was Her First Curio.

"Ah!" remarked Mr. De Robinson, "my wife is a great collector of curiosities."

"Indeed!" replied his friend. "Has she been at that long?"

"Oh, bless you, yes; for years."

"Before she married you?"

"Oh, yes."

HER ARTISTIC TEMPERAMENT.

Friend—How is it you send all your poems to the Howler?

Lady Poet—Well, you see, all their waste paper baskets are decorated with pretty blue ribbons.

An Explosive Episode.

A poet into his back yard went, And there he composed "The Bombardment."

A sour editor read, And explosively said, "Can't think what the deuce the bum bard meant."

Why the Blush Crept.

"Why do you say, 'A blush crept over the face of the fair plaintiff?'" asks the city editor.

"Because," explains the reporter, "there was so much powder on her face the blush had to creep or else it would raise too much dust."—Judge.
