TO DEFEAT GOV. WARNER

Will Present an Opposition Candidate for the Nomina- tion at the Primary Elections

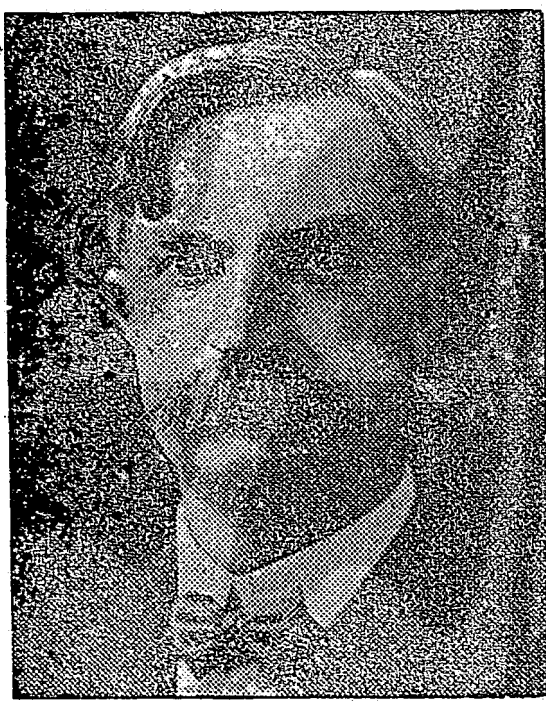

FIRST ATTACK ON WARNER

Railroad Representatives Tried to Pull Governor off His Plan to Force Just Taxation

The railroads are out to defeat Governor Warner for renomination and re-election because of his stand on railroad taxation.

A railroad candidate in opposition to Gov. Warner for the Republican nomination is confidently expected by the governor's friends.

Railroad representatives, it is openly said, threatened two weeks before the hearing of railroad taxation to make things interesting in the nomination campaign if he did not take his hands off the tax commission. The governor did not take his hands off, but on the contrary exerted his personal influence in a public address to the commission, in favor of a larger proportion of railroad taxes than would have been collected under their first assessment. It was the increased proportion suggested by Gov. Warner, and not the increase of railroad valuations recommended by the experts employed by Attorney General Bird, that the tax commission finally adopted. The railroads may therefore thank the governor for the $200,000 increase in taxes.

GOV. F. M. WARNER.

The railroads offered the dare, and the governor did not refuse it. He was told at one time directly and several times less directly, his friends declare, that if he withdrew his support from the effort to correct the assessment it would be better for him; and that if he persisted a candidate more friendly to railroads, and supported by the railroad crowd in the party, would be out to fight him.

This candidate would come out, it was understood, on strong anti-railroad declarations, but would nevertheless be ruled by the railroads. Any "railroad support" would not only be lost to Mr. Warner, but would be used against him.

Without bravado or noise the governor stood his ground. He made a strong speech for a higher proportion of railroad taxes. He has not been heard to express regret that he did so and when the taxes were raised he publicly expressed his pleasure. At the hearing railroad representatives were much excited over the governor's stand, and the adoption of his views by the commission is hardly calculated to cool them.

G. T. O. B. Club.

Misses Ethel and Blanche Wells pleasantly entertained the members of the G. T. O. B. club and their gentlemen friends at their home on Front street, Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing pedro. Miss Elsie Sellers carried home the prize, while the booby prize was captured by Mr. Charlie Brown. Dainty refreshments were served. At a late hour the company wended their homeward, all reporting a very pleasant evening.

WHITE HOUSE NUPTIAL

The Nuptial Knott Was Tied At High Noon, Saturday.

A HALF MILLION IN GIFTS

The Wedding Was the Most Brilliant In the Country's History,

Washington, Feb. 17.—The marriage of Miss Alice Lee Roosevelt and Congressman Nicholas Longworth was the most brilliant society event ever celebrated at the capital.

The doors of the white house swung open at 11:15 but it was half an hour later when the guests began arriving, coming with a rush that almost swamped the ushers.

Within the satin rope enclosure stood Mr. Longworth, his mother, and his sister, the Countess DeChambrau. Just as the clock struck 12, to the strains of the marine band playing Tanhauser, Miss Roosevelt radiantly beautiful in shimmering robes, stepped into the west end corridor, leaning on the arm of the president, and took up the march to the altar. They were followed by Mrs. George C. Lee, the venerable grandmother of the bride, and members of the president's family. Mrs. Roosevelt was escorted by her son Kermet.

When the wedding party reached the platform the president took his daughter's hand and gave her into the care of Mr. Longworth. The couple stepped to where Bishop Satterlee stood and the betrothal service immediately began and was followed by the marriage service of the Protestant church.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Bishop Satterlee withdrew and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth turned to the audience to greet the assembled guests and received their congratulations. President and Mrs. Roosevelt were the first to greet them, and Mrs. Lee, grandmother of the bride, followed and then came the Longworth family, the best man, ushers and the assembled guests, occupying more than an hour in passing the young couple, and then through the red room to the state dining room where a buffet luncheon was served.

Sixty special guests partook of breakfast in the private dining room where the bride cut the wedding cake with its various emblems of the future state of the young women present.

The bride entered the east room with the bridal procession from the corridor, where the groom met her with his best man in front of the middle window of the east wall. The Bishop of Washington, Dr. Henry Yearkes Satterlee performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Rowland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's church, and Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix of New York. During the ceremony, the Marine band orchestra under the direction of Lieutenant Santleman performed the wedding march. There was no choir to form a part of the marriage ceremony. Miss Ethel Roosevelt, half sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor. The groom's best man was Thomas Nelson Perkins. The bride was given away by her father.

The bridal party stood on a raised platform which like the rest of the room was handsomely decorated. The white house hothouses having contributed their choicest blossoms. The bride made a handsome picture in her magnificent wedding dress and answered the usual questions in a clear and distinct voice.

The wedding gown of the bride was of heavy white satin brocade, made Princess with a large court train. The rich designs of the Princess style and rich designs of the brocade were unmarred by trimmings. The yoke was of old point lace finished with a fall of point lace, with short puff elbow sleeves ending in two falls of point lace. The bride carried a wedding bouquet of white orchids. During the ceremony it was held by Miss Ethel.

The bride wore a magnificent bridal veil with the usual orange blossoms. The wedding ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast which proved to be a most elaborate function, after which the happy couple departed on their honeymoon tour.
The going away gown of the bride was of tan broadcloth made princess and trimmed in a combination of chiffon soutache braid and tan velvet. A tailor made jacket is worn with this costume.

The trousseau of the bride is said to have cost over $11,000. It was the most perfect, beautiful and expensive of its kind. The materials are the richest that the east and the west can produce. Dresses, parasols and shoes match in color. Every article of the trousseau are reminders of love, or kindness and admiration of the giver.

It is believed that the wedding journey will be very short. Just where the destination of the happy couple is, is a profound secret and is not known at this writing. The groom smiled this morning when asked what his destination was.

BETTER NO SALES THAN A DISAPPOINTED CUSTOMER.

It is a satisfaction to know that we have won the leadership in the clothing business in South Bend, but we realize the large responsibility that is put upon us.

At no other clothing store in this vicinity are you so sure of correct styles and right prices in wearing apparel. Take New York, Chicago or Indianapolis. There is always one store that leads in its line. Look about South Bend. Just this one big store is absolute authority on Men's and Boy's clothing.

We never sell a garment that is not up to the Spiro standard. That will not add to the good name of this store. We'd better throw out the back door, a hundred suits, if they were of a bad style or unreliable materials, than to sell them even at a profit.

People don't forget. Neither do they fail to appreciate right treatment and an honest endeavor to give satisfaction. You can always depend upon what you buy here. Our word is back of it.

Remember, please that we always reduce stock at this time of year. It is good business to do it—and get ready for the next season. Clearances big reductions—ends of good lines, are now to be found all through the store. The loss is ours—the saving yours—and they are well worth looking into.

Miraculously Escapes Death

Frank L. Dunbar, who is employed as fireman on the Indiana Harbor railroad at Calumet Park, had a very narrow escape from death, Monday morning.

Mr. Dunbar had a call to take out a special train, but informed the foreman of the Round House that he had a leave of absence from the Master Mechanic for thirty days, so the foreman then ordered another crew to take charge of the train.

While making the run they were struck by the Chicago & Joliet train and as the result a terrible wreck occurred resulting in the death of Engineer Wright of Niles, Head brakeman of Indian Harbor and the fireman (name unknown) on the Indiana Harbor division.

Mr. Dunbar was very fortunate to escape in such a miraculous manner.

A dehorned bull nearly killed a German employed on the J. Bauman farm, one mile north of Birmingham, Thursday afternoon. "Fritz," the only name the injured man is known by here, was working about the barnyard when the bull made a rush at him. The man was pinned to the fence and so seriously bruised that he was unconscious when rescued by another laborer. Dr. Shaw says the man has little chance of recovery.

Elbert Page, president of the defunct Exchange bank at Vicksburg, who has been in the insane asylum at Kalamazoo since the bank's doors were closed, is improving rapidly and it is the opinion of the doctors there that he will be able to leave the institution in a few weeks. The affairs of the bank are being rapidly closed. A dividend of 20 per cent was declared in December and another dividend of a like amount will be declared sometime this month.

A new method of drying sugar beets is being experimented with at the Menominee sugar factory. The beets are placed in an air-tight kiln containing steam pipes, but with a cold floor. This combination serves to evaporate the beets, causing them to shrink in size but at the same time to lose none of their sugar producing qualities. If the new method becomes practicable it will save a great deal in freight charges and also in fuel at the factory, besides preserving the beets through the freezing period.

The farmhouse of Joseph Rodes, three and one-half miles south of Summit City, burned Thursday night and with it two children, one of whom was one year old and one 4 years old. Another child in the house, 3 years old, was burned so badly that it will die. The mother was in a barn doing chores when the house caught fire. No insurance.

Roy Ransom, school boy, 14 years old, was drowned while skating on the Superior Paper millpond, at Kalamazoo, Friday. He was in company of Herbert Bell, aged 15. The two boys were skating on thin ice when it suddenly gave way, both floundering in the icy water, which is about thirty feet deep at that point. Ransom never came to the surface. Bell was saved by other skaters, who found a piece of iron piping and extended it to the struggling boy just in the nick of time. He was nearly exhausted when rescued, and became unconscious, not recovering for twenty minutes. Ransom's body was recovered.

Harry Fowler and Ernest Schofield both young men of Detroit, have been sentenced by Judge Lockwood to from five to fifteen years at Jackson on conviction of felonious assault eighteen months ago. They bound Henry Angell, aged 80, a cripple Civil war veteran, and his niece, Miss Anzonette Angel, in their home in Palmyra township, and burned the old man's whiskers and his niece's feet to make them tell where their money was hidden. They refused to tell, but the desperadoes stole $16, two watches and two revolvers.

Dismisses The Bill.

Fred French Tries Again To Secure a Divorce From His Wife.

Judge Coolidge decided a case of interest at his office last Thursday, it being the divorce case of Frederick E. French of Buchanan, against his wife, Adaline, who with her two children aged 10 and 12 years is making her home at Hinchman, Oronoko, township, she being a daughter of the late Mr. Feather, a well-to-do farmer.

They were married about 13 years ago, and separated about four years later. French claims that his wife deserted him, but she sets up the claim that he was unable to support her and their children and by mutual agreement she returned to her own home.

French instituted a divorce proceedings six years ago, and his application was denied by Judge Coolidge.

Last year he renewed his efforts to secure a legal separation, but Mrs. French contested, and the result is the same as before, the application is denied and the bill is dismissed, the court holding that French has failed to prove that his wife has deserted him.—Niles Sun.

Death of Prof. Henry G. Hipp

Henry G. Hipp, one of the most beloved citizens of Eau Claire, answered the call of the grim messenger of death, Wednesday morning about five o'clock, after a five days' illness of acute pneumonia.

Mr. Hipp was a Berrien county boy being born on the Love farm on the banks of the St. Joseph river west of Eau Claire, Aug. 8, 1849, and died at his home in this village, Tuesday, Feb. 14, 1905, being 55 years, 6 mo. and 6 days old at the time of his death.

As a noted educator he taught school in the early days in Berrien Springs, Lansing, Eau Claire, Three Oaks, Fairplain and Grand Haven.

For ten years he was a professor in the Central College at Nashville, Tenn., and during his connection with this renowned institute of learning he took a post graduate course in the Vanderbilt college in that city. He was ordained minister of the M. E. Church and has filled the pulpit in this and other places many times, and his congregations have been amazed at the depth of thought of his subjects.

Three years ago Mr. Hipp was called here to take charge of the public schools, and under his direction it is to his credit that they have never been of such a high standard as they are at the present.

He was united in marriage to Lois M. Taylor, about thirty years ago, and one child, Mrs. Maude Walters of Nashville, Tenn., was born to their union. One brother, O. B. Hipp of Benton Harbor and one sister, Mrs. Martin Stapleton of Delaware survive him.

The funeral services were conducted at the Christian church, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

This paper and The Weekly Inter Ocean—$1.05 for one years subscription to both.

Birthday Surprise.

A very pleasant family party gathered at the home of Nathan Norris last Friday to celebrate his 80th birthday. It was a complete surprise to Mr. Norris but he seemed to enjoy it immensely. Four generations were represented.

Many useful presents were received.

Mr. Norris enjoys the best of health and says he feels as young as he did twenty years ago.

Three course dinner was served and the day was declared one long to be remembered.

WINTER EGGS PROFITABLE.

It Pays the Poulterer to Encourage His Hens to Lay When Eggs Are High.

Winter eggs are far more profitable than eggs produced in the spring or summer. This is due to several reasons. One is that there are fewer eggs produced in the winter and they are higher on that account. Another factor is that eggs are more uniformly good in the winter, and there is a larger demand for them, especially in hotels, restaurants and railroad trains. People that travel more generally call for eggs in the winter than in the summer. The cost of producing the winter egg, says the Farmers' Review, is not much greater than the cost of producing the summer egg, because in the winter the hens have to be kept and fed whether they are laying or not, and this winter cost of keeping has to be charged against the production of the summer egg if the hen produces eggs only in the summer. Every farmer should therefore try to secure most of his eggs in the winter season.

BEE AND HEN LORE.

Look out for mice getting into the beehives during the winter.

As soon as there is fair prospect that hard winter weather is passed, move colonies to the summer stands.—Farm Journal.

Take the country over, the barred Plymouth Rock seems to be far in the lead in general popularity.—Midland Farmer.

The beginner should remember that starting with a flock of dunghills is like cutting a tree with a dull ax. In your efforts to improve the flock don't overlook the fact that a poorly bred thoroughbred is worse than a scrub.—Michigan Farmer.

Better have the whole side of the house open than a crack or a knothole in the wall, through which the wind can blow on the head of a fowl on a perch.

Examine on the first fair day, after they have had a good flight, to ascertain the amount of bees and stores, and to know if they have a queen. They should be supplied with combs of honey if lacking in stores; united with others, if queenless.—Farm Journal.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK

HEART TO HEART TALK

By Elbert Hubbard, Head of the Roycrofters of East Aurora, New York

These educated jobberns instituted and constituted the Dark Ages. The physical world was here just as it is now, but there were no men, for there was a religion of fear, and this religion was supreme.

A man succeeds thru battle with conditions. He gets his degree at the university of hard knocks - he succeeds, and then he endows a university where he expects young men to reach the same results that he has, by another and easier route.

In the jail at Newport, Kentucky, is Caleb Powers, indicted for complicity in the murder of Governor Gosbel. Powers was a school teacher, then he became Superintendent of Schools in the district where he lived.

No man in America has ever been found guilty, and given the maximum sentence on a fourth trial. Proof too flimsy to convict and carry the man to the scaffold on three trials, cannot be reinforced with prejudice on the fourth, Caleb Powers will go free.

But how about the six years he has lain in jail, and the fortune he has spent to free himself? Will the State give back to this man what it has robbed him of?

On your life, it will not, that is where we rob and wrong by the statute, and with the machinery of justice grind men, at times, to powder.

Gibbon says that in Justinian's time, say the year 500 A. D., the Roman Law had become so bulky and unwieldy that no fortune could buy the books in which it was contained, and moreover, no intellect could digest them.

We need a Justinian to revise our legal code. Caleb Powers is an "immortal," a book-lover and a man who improves his time, in jail or out. In these six years, under the very shadow of the gallows, he has kept up hope, preserved good cheer, and maintained his health.

who lives his life, even in jail, and leaves the protesting and flinging of bitter epithets to those outside, who, with fine unconscious irony, think they are free.

Those who have followed the Powers case carefully, are now of the opinion that Cabel is a political scapegoat, and a martyr to the complications and refinements of the law. Even his enemies now want to let him go, but, as one of them said to me, "We wish we could set him free, but we can't do it legally, see!"

Out in Miles City, Montana, from where they ship a thousand horses every other Thursday, lives one Sam Gordon, Pundit in Ordinary, Laud Commissioner, and editor of a daily paper. Sam, he shoves a great stylus, second in power only to that of John H. Raftery of Helena. Two stylists in a single state are almost two more than the average, as there are only seven in America.

John was born a Rafferty, but an Irishman with the hiccoughs once called him Rafferty and he adopted it. John writes just as Ambrose Bierce would were Ambrose lush and in love.

There is only one Sam Gordon, God made him and broke the mold, one was enough. Sam has a Socratic pliz and three notches cut in the butt of a Colt's forty-four.

On the occasion of my lecture in Miles City, Sam wrote me up and said, among other persiflage things, "He looks like a busted heavy, undismayed, smug, snug and safe in the fond assurance that if worst comes to worst he is still the proud possessor of a tie pass."

This would have been unforgivable had he not added that I was the greatest lecturer, excepting Bob Ingersoll, that America has produced since Beecher died. Then Sam declared that I was "sui generis." I do not know what that means; it may be something like chop suey, but if it is anything unfit for ladies' ears, I'll make Sam dance to the music of my six-shooter when I next clap eyes on his ugly mug.

Elbert Hubbard lectured at Butte a few days ago and the occasion moved the editor of the "Miner," assisted by a brace of orthodox preachers, to slightly advert to the lecturer. The "Miner's" grouch against Mr. Hubbard appears to rest on the fact that after a former visit to Butte some three years ago he wrote and published his impression of "that dear Butte, Montana," in the widely circulated "Philistine."

It is one of Mr. Hubbard's peculiarities to always speak his mind regardless of consequences, and in this instance his description of Butte was not such as a real estate promoter would have given. He described the camp as he saw it, and we doubt if he would have toned his description down, even had he known that it would later be used by a Butte editor to prejudice a Butte public against him.

The terrible arraignment of Fra Elbertus as an untruthful and ungrateful scribe is based upon this extract from the "Philistine" of July 1908: "In Butte, there is not a tree, nor flowerbed, nor spring, nor a grass plot even a yard square. No blades of grass grow in Butte. It is the ugliest city on earth. The town clings to the rocky hillside, and over it hovers the thick, black smoke touched with the green fumes from the smelters. It is a place of plans and plots. Night is turned into day; the music from dance halls competes with the fife and drum of the Salvation Army. The men you meet are anxious, hurried, and whiskey at twenty-five cents a gulp hastens the mad pace. Nobody stops for change. At my lecture seats were sold by speculators at five dollars each, and then when it was announced that there was no stereopticon, the price dropped to two. Everybody in Butte knows when the trains leave, many have their trunks ready packed." Is it truth or slander?

Truth, my lords, every word of it, in so far as the historian's personal knowledge goes. Mr. Hubbard does not drink and consequently could have no information born of experience as to the price of drinks in Butte. In this respect Butte has yielded to the conditions prevailing elsewhere in the state and "two for a quarter" goes everywhere, while signs announcing "five-cent beer" trail the ancient glory of the camp in the mud. But this is the only vital statement that Fra Elbertus went wrong on. Every other statement is not only true but is stated mildly, while there are smudges and blots on the municipal robes that if brought to view by an able vivisectionist, such as Dr.

Hubbard, would fade the colorless things he did say, clean out of sight. The "Miner" ought to be more than thankful that the keen observation of the eminent Roycrofters was engaged chiefly by conditions that Butte cannot help, such as its ugliness and its lack of green things. Had he been made acquainted with the enormities both social and political that Butte can help, but does not; faults that she can suppress, but will not; something might have been made public that would have sounded really disgraceful. But even so, the very worst that could be said of Butte could not keep one person away who intended to go there, and those who do go, and those who live there, go, and live there, because Butte is just what it is and nothing else. A big "clean up" and a quick one is what every one in Butte is working for. What high finance and genteel graft wins in the upper circle is taken by the strong arm and knock-out drops in the stumps.

That any newspaper published and read in Montana should feel incumbent to gainsay any of the items of Elbert Hubbard's impressions of Butte as quoted above, is a matter that should induce some kind of an inquiry. Butte is accepted by the whole state as "only one in a box," and some are even prone at times to brag of Butte's superlative wickedness but no one ever pretends to defend her, or claims for her one shred of decency. She is what she is, and those who live there know it.

A learned Denver doctor, not Tilden, for Tilden is wise, recently discussed at great length to a woman's club in that city the subject of Race Suicide. He charged up the San Juan Hill of Vital Statistics fearlessly. The Doctor seems to think that Nature has entrusted to the willy-nilly of humanity the fine adjustment of her powers, the life or death of our race.

I remember when we as children used to worry about a comet coming into collision with the earth and smashing up playhouse and everything. I also was miserable in contemplating that the heat of the sun was caused by combustion and that the fuel must sometime give out and we should all die from frozen feet.

The comets have behaved themselves for sometime, and we are not so sure as we were that the sun is burning itself out; the universe seems to be moving serenely on.

Before it was demonstrated that the earth rotated on its axis once every twenty-four hours, men were not afraid of falling off, but when it was first proven people feared to go to sleep as they had done all their lives before, and held on hard to the trees as the sun began to sink in the west.

I rather think that the human race is just as dear to Nature's heart as the fish in the sea or the jack-rabbits on the plains, and that man will not add one cubit to his stature by taking thought. There is a Divine Economy and Nature can put a folly in the council of the wisest of her children, if their superior intellects try to defeat the Great Plan.

Possibly Nature does not need quite so many of this human race for her purposes as the Denver doctor thinks she does, but if she does, she has a way of getting what she wants. People who are fit to reproduce, do.

Ladies inert and gents with punk proclivities, should take courage and not be mentally cast down, for while success may not be for them, they can still teach by antithesis, benefiting humanity as horrible examples, like the honest Weary Willy, who being too strong to work, yet volunteered to pay the farmer for his dinner by serving as a scarecrow.

There is something greater than happiness; it is to have the strength to put aside the temptation to seek for it. And the humor of this lies in the fact that the act renunciatory is only going after the same thing in another way. Oh, thou multi-masked rascal of an ego!

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

The best time to remedy wasting conditions in the human body is before the evil is too deep rooted. At the first evidence of loss of flesh Scott's Emulsion should be taken immediately. There is nothing that will repair wasted tissue more quickly or replace lost flesh more abundantly than Scott's Emulsion. It nourishes and builds up the body when ordinary foods absolutely fail.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy. SCOTT & BOWNE CHEMISTS 409 Pearl Street NEW YORK
