VIOLATING THE LAW

Some Embalmers in Two Cities Will Be Haled Into Court.

Lansing, April 16.—At the regular meeting of the state board of health held at the office of the secretary, Lansing, the report of the committee appointed by the board at the regular meeting in January on the investigation of alleged violations of the embalmers law reported it had found evidence in two of the largest cities in the state. The secretary was instructed to submit such evidence in the courts of those localities and proceed against the offenders.

The state conference of health officers was authorized to be held at Grand Rapids, May 31 and June 1. Governor Warner will be present at the meeting and address the conference on "Public Health Work of the State."

KILLED IN EARTHQUAKE

The City of San Francisco is in Ruins as the Result of the Terrible Earthquake.

OVER 5,000 LIVES LOST

Fire Breaks Out In The Tenement Blocks And No Water Is Available.

San Francisco, April 18.—San Francisco was practically wrecked today by one of the greatest disasters of modern history. Without warning of any description the city was seized by the hand of a giant earthquake at 5:10 this morning, thousand buildings were dashed to the earth in ruins and hundreds of lives were lost throughout the city.

The shock was one of the worst ever recorded, it lasted all of three minutes and during that time the

EVERYBODY ATTEND

The Last Number on the Lecture Course Given by the Band Boys.

The fifth and last number on the Lecture Course, given by the Band Boys, is now being prepared. The program will be of local talent, consisting of musical selections, readings etc. The specialties will be a brass quartet, and the mandolin club, besides a few others. We sincerely hope this last number will be largely attended, as the boys are in need of your timely assistance. It is coming the time, when the boys will soon commence their band concerts, and they not only need new music but they are about $40 in arrearage on the Lecture Course as some who had promised to buy season tickets, failed to do so, and thus left the boys in the hole.

The previous numbers have not been as well attended as the boys desired, and we can truthfully say, that those who failed to attend the different numbers on this course, have missed a rare treat, as this is the best series that has ever been presented in Buchanan.

Your patronage for the last number on the Lecture Course will be greatly appreciated by them. Don't forget the date, May 2.

Help The Schools To Win A Prize.

Those of our citizens who are readers of the Chicago American have, no doubt, read about the school voting contest, in which schools all over the country are competing for statutory prizes. The pupils of the 4th grade of the Buchanan schools are out hustling and now have several hundred votes to their credit.

The citizens of Buchanan who take the American can, by just a little effort, assist the children greatly, and by so doing they may win one of the prizes.

In each issue of the American on the second page is printed a coupon which counts for one vote, and some days the coupon will count for ten votes. If our readers who take the American will cut out these coupons and bring or send them to the Record office we will turn them over to the school.

The coupon that will be printed in tonight's American will count ten votes. Be sure and save it. A little work on the part of each one will help to win a prize for the school. It is worth the try.

Warning to the Public.

All rubbish such as ashes, grass or leaves must not be dumped in the public streets or gutters of this village as it is against ordinance 24 of the ordinances of the village of Buchanan passed August 31, 1883.

F. W. ELDREDGE,
Street Commissioner.

Miss Laura Salisbury, with the Salisbury Family.

A paper "What is the Message of Easter," was read by Mrs. Whitman. Mrs. East then gave the M. L. C. Creed.

Mrs. Graham favored the club with a very pretty instrumental solo. "Easter Observances in the Olden Times," was read by Mrs. Redden.

A word guessing contest, Mrs. Redden having the largest number correct, was given the prize. Next in order was an egg hunt and matching colors for partners, to the refreshment tables where a delicious two course lunch was served.

Mrs. Sara Smith had arranged conundrums, the answers being the names of the different members of the club.

The club will meet next week with Mrs. Dodd for "Musical Day."

MRS. COVENEY IS NO MORE

She Died Wednesday Morning After a Lingerin Illness

Mrs. Joseph Coveney residing north west of Buchanan, died Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock at her late home after a lingering illness of nearly five months with tuberculosis and a complication of diseases.

Mrs. Coveney is well and favorably known throughout the southern part of the county, and her death came as a sad blow to her many friends. She was a member of the Royal Neighbor and Maccabee lodges. The funeral services will be held from her late residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Oak Ridge cemetery. Rev. J. A. Halhuber will officiate.

crash of falling buildings could be heard on the early morning air. A cloud of dust arose and hung over the city and this was soon followed by a pall of smoke which went upwards from the burning tenements and other buildings.

Before hundreds of citizens could determine the cause of the disturbance, they were ground to death in the ruins of the big blocks which fell and many were unable to even leave their own residences. The modern structures sustained the shock much better than did the older buildings constructed of wood.

Fire broke out in the tenement buildings on South Market street and soon there was a raging blaze in every block of the district. The water mains were disconnected and the disorganized fire departments were unable to do anything to save the lives of those who were imprisoned beneath the ruins and who screamed for help.

The city hall, a magnificent structure costing $7,000,000 was completely wrecked and lies raised to the ground, a mass of gray granite. Other buildings in that vicinity, some of them of great height and including several skyscrapers, swayed forward and then crashed down into the streets burying their occupants and many of others who had rushed out into the street for protection.

All of the wires leading out of the city are gone except one, this one has been rushed since the time of the disaster and it is impossible at the present time to get accurate information from the city. So tremendous is the disaster that the survivors are dumb with the horror of it and the city today is stricken with a fear which holds it speechless. The disaster occurred when the city was asleep and in the terror and excitement which followed the first shock, thousands of persons rushed into the streets in their night clothes. Government advices place the number killed at 5,000 but it is believed that this is below the actual number. What reports have been gathered in by city officials and news paper representatives here place the number at figures in advance of this.

LATER.
San Francisco—As reports continue to come in the magnitude of disaster continues to grow. Fires are raging in all directions and is reaching the down town section of the city.

There is practically no way of estimating the number who were killed. It may be hundreds and it may be thousands, until the present fires cease there will be no opportunity for relief work and no efforts will be made in that direction.

Thousands of people are packing up what goods they can carry, abandoning their homes and fleeing for their lives into the country districts. Twenty-one bodies have been taken to the morgue. The Jessie street side place hotel is burning. Burning district this hour runs from South street on West to Water front on east south of Market street. North of Market street from San Some to water front and from Market to Washington streets. Also a block burning on Mission street between twenty-first and twenty second streets. By order of the chief of police all saloons are closed. The damage already inflicted is estimated at forty million dollars. Fires spreading and unless winds come up from west and blows flames toward the bay nothing can stop the destruction of the city. Earthquake was not seriously felt at other points along the coast so far as can be ascertained.

THE NEW VISIBLE

At Last a Perfect Visible Typewriter

The One Typewriter That Correctly Solves the Objections That Have Always Heretofore Been Made Against "Front Strike" Machines.

Visible writing has always been considered as desirable by practically all typewriter manufacturers, but the difficulties to be overcome in construction in order to secure durability have discouraged the very large adoption of these machines. The invention of the method of assembling the type bars as it is done in the Fox Visible has, however, made possible the use of a wide pivot bearing in the type hanger, thus insuring the most perfect alignment at all times and a durability that is equal to that claimed for any "basket type" machine. In building this new model, we have all the advantage of the knowledge that we have gained in building and placing the regular Fox models on the market and we are able to avoid all those experiments found in new machines which are so expensive to the purchaser.

Here is a Short Description.

THE TYPE HANGER—The hanger has a pivot bearing 7-16 of an inch wide. This allows the use of a heavy type bar, providing an adjustable pivot bearing which takes up wear as it occurs, thereby giving a permanent alignment that is impossible to secure with a narrow bearing without adjustment, and avoiding the trouble caused where "forced alignment" is necessary. This is the feature that has heretofore been considered as being impossible to secure in a visible writing typewriter. It is found only in the Fox and places the Fox Visible in a class by itself.

TWO COLOR RIBBON—The ribbon movement on this machine is simply perfection. It reverses and oscillates automatically, requiring no attention from the operator from the time it is put on until worn out. When a two color ribbon is used, by simply touching a button on the keyboard the second color is secured instantly without raising the hand or even looking.

THE INTERCHANGEABLE CARRIAGE—The carriage is so constructed that it can be quickly removed and a carriage of different length substituted. One machine can be purchased with different sizes of carriages, thereby effecting a great saving over the ordinary method of buying a long carriage machine complete. The carriage is ball bearing and runs with a tension of only 1 lb.

PERFECT VISIBLE WRITING—The entire line is visible all the time.

THE KEY TENSION—The force required on the part of the operator to print a letter is only 2 1/2 ounces. This is from 25 to 50 per cent. less than any other. It is a vital thing both from the operator's standpoint of less fatigue and the owner's of greater durability.

THE LINE LOCK—When the carriage reaches the end of a line, the keys lock and nothing more can be written until the release button is used or the carriage returned to begin a new line.

ALUMINUM KEY LEVERS—Key levers are made of aluminum. It is more expensive than steel or wood, but it is very much more desirable.

TABULATOR—The Fox ten stop decimal tabulator is attached when ordered, at slight additional expense. It is the only decimal tabulator in use on a visible typewriter.

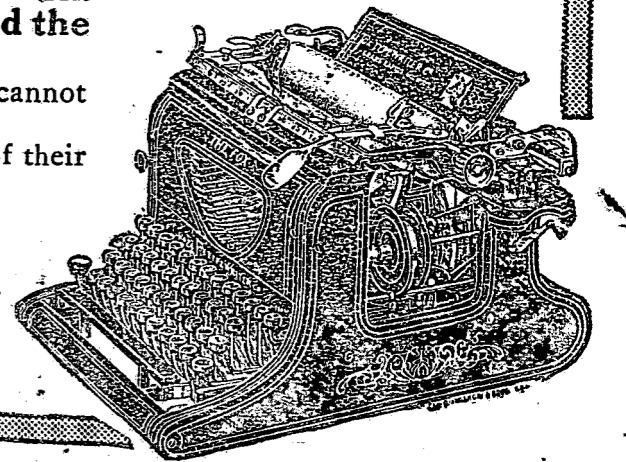

Every feature on this machine has been tried out and demonstrated as successful on the Regular Models of the Fox. Unprejudiced experts have without hesitation pronounced the machine a marvel.

Ask your nearest typewriter dealer to show you this machine. If he cannot we will make it easy for you.

The regular models of the Fox are still the most perfect machines of their kind and their manufacture will be continued as before.

ADVERTISE IN THE RECORD

The Man on the Box

Mr. Robert immediately betook himself to the stables, where he soon became intimately acquainted with the English groom. He fussed about the harness-room, deplored the lack of a McClelland saddle, admired the English curbs, and complimented the men on the cleanliness of the stables. The men exchanged sly smiles at first, but these smiles soon turned into grins of admiration. Here was a man who knew a horse from his oiled hoofs to his carried forelock.

"This fellow ought to jump well," he said, patting the sleek neck of the hunter.

"He does that, sir," replied the groom. "He has never taken less than a red ribbon. Only one horse beat him at the bars last winter in New York. It was Mr. Warburton's fault that he did not take first prize. He rode him in the park the day before the contest and the animal caught cold, sir."

And then it was that this hero of mine conceived his great (not to say young and salad) idea. It appealed to him as being so rich an idea that the stables rang with his laughter.

"Sir?" politely inquired the groom. "I'm not laughing at your statement, my good fellow; rather at an idea which just occurred to me. In fact, I believe that I shall need your assistance."

"In what way, sir?"

"Come with me."

The groom followed Warburton into the yard. A conversation began in low tones.

"It's as much as my place is worth, sir. I couldn't do it, sir," declared the groom, shaking his head negatively.

"I'll guarantee that you will not suffer in the least. My brother will not discharge you. He likes a joke as well as I do. You are not handed $20 every day for a simple thing like this."

"Very well, sir. I dare say that no harm will come of it. But I am an inch or two shorter than you."

"We'll tide that over."

"I am at your orders, sir." But the groom returned to the stables, shaking his head dubiously. He was not thoroughly convinced.

During the morning ride down-town the two women were vastly puzzled over their brother's frequent and inexplicable peals of laughter.

"For mercy's sake, what do you see that is so funny?" asked Nancy.

"I'm thinking, my dears; only thinking."

"Tell us, that we may laugh too. I'll wager that you are up to some mischief, Master Robert. Please tell," Nancy urged.

"Later, later; at present you would fall to appreciate the joke. In fact, you might make it miscarry; and that wouldn't do at all. Have a little patience. It's a good joke, and you'll be in it when the time comes."

And nothing more could they worm out of him.

CHAPTER V.

THE PLOT THICKENS.

At dinner that night I met my hero face to face for the first time in eight years and for all his calling me a duffer (I learned of this only recently), he was mighty glad to see me, slapped me on the back and threw his arm across my shoulder. And why shouldn't he have been glad? We had been boys together, played hooky many a school-time afternoon, gone over the same fishing grounds, plunged into the same swimming-holes, and smoked our first cigar in the rear of my father's barn; and it is the recollection of such things that cements all the more strongly friendship in man and man. We recalled a thousand episodes and escapades, the lickings we got, and the lickings the others got in our stead, the pretty school-teacher whom we swore to wed when we grew up. Nobody else had a chance to get a word in edgewise. But Nancy laughed aloud at times. She had been a witness to many of these long-ago pranks.

"What! you are not going to the ball?" I asked, observing that he wore only a dinner-coat and a pair of morocco slippers.

"No ball for me. Just as soon as you people lie forth, off comes this b'iled shirt, and I shall probably meander around the house in my new silk pajamas. I shall read a little from

"NO BALL FOR ME."

Komer—Jack, let me have the key to that locked case; I've an idea that there must be some robust old, merry old tales hidden there—and smoke a few pipes."

"But you are not going to leave Mrs. Warburton and your sister to come home without escort?" I expostulated.

"Where the deuce are you two men going?" Robert asked, surprised. Somehow, I seemed to catch a joyful rather than a sorrowful note in his tones.

"An important conference at midnight, and heaven only knows how long it may last," said Jack. "I wish you would go along, Bob."

"He can't go now, anyhow," said the pretty little wife. "He has got to stay how, whether he will or no. William will see to it that we women get home all right,"—and she busied herself with the salad dishes.

"Go to the ball, you beauties, dance and revel to your heart's content; your brother Robert will manage to pass away the evening. Don't forget the key to that private case, Jack,"—as the women left the table to put the finishing touches to their toilets.

"Here you are," said Jack. "But mind, you must put those books back just as you found them, and lock the case. They are rare editions."

"With the accent on the rare, no doubt."

"I am a student, pure and simple," said Jack, lowering his eyes.

"I wouldn't swear to those adjectives," returned the scallawag. "If I remember, you had the reputation of being a high-jinks man in your class at Princeton."

"Sh! Don't you dare to drag forth any of those fool corpses of college, or out you go, bag and baggage." Jack glanced nervously around the room and toward the hall.

"My dear fellow, your wife wouldn't believe me, no matter what I said against your character. Isn't that right, Chuck? Jack, you are a lucky dog, if there ever was one. A handsome wife who loves you, a kid, a fine home and plenty of horses. I wonder if you married her for her money?"

Jack's eyes narrowed. He seemed to muse. "Yes, I believe I can do it as easily as I did 15 years ago."
