OLD SETTLERS
PICNIC

The Thirty-first Annual Reunion of Old Settlers Will be Held June 13

BIG DAY FOR PIONEERS

List of Sports Will be Prepared and Many Prominent Speakers Will be Present

The thirty-first annual old settlers picnic and reunion will be held at Berrien Springs, Wednesday, June 13. This announcement has been made by Henry Kephart, secretary and R. W. Reese, president of the association.

Once again the old settlers of the county will meet together to rehearse the scenes of days long gone by and tell again the old tales of the past. For the many years this occasion has been growing popular among the pioneers of this country and now it is looked upon by many old pillars of the country as one of the great days of the year.

Many orators of wide reputation will be presented and will address the gathering, the Hon. Nimrod F. Jenkins, of Ingham county, a grandson of Baldwin Jenkins, who settled in Michigan in 1828 will be the principal speaker of the day, and it is expected that his address will be one of great interest to the pioneers.

The Niles city band will furnish music for the occasion and amusements of all kinds will be furnished. There will be several free attractions but as the program has not been fully completed the sports and the names of the speakers will not be made public until later.

Interurban cars between St. Joseph and South Bend pass the picnic grounds every half hour and half fares will be made on the Pere Marquette railroad.

The Clansman at McVicker's

"The Clansman" by Thomas Dixon, Jr. comes to McVicker's Theatre Chicago, June 18 for an all summer run, direct from its record breaking success at the Liberty Theatre, New York. Thousands of requests were received that "The Clansman" should play out the season at the Liberty, but those interested were unable to change the bookings. In the interval before the resumption of the New York run the company played to phenomenal business for long runs in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Pittsburgh and Washington.

A characteristic of Mr. Dixon's celebrated drama is that it thrives on criticism, favorable or adverse. It has been witnessed with frantic enthusiasm alike in the north and the south. Whether the spectator agrees or disagrees with the author's views on the negro question has no influence on the enjoyment of the play as a play. Every auditor is held firmly in the grip of the thrilling situations founded on the facts of history, the era being that of Reconstruction, when the members of the Ku Klux Klan wrested the government of the Southern states from the illiterate negroes and rapacious carpet baggers. The mysterious Klan is shown upon the stage, its habit and ceremonial revealed. Through the drama runs the thread of a delightful love story between a gallant Southern cavalier and a beautiful daughter of the North. For those who like old fashioned darkey fun, there are many lively comedy scenes.

The many advance orders received for seats indicate the McVicker's will be the scene of an unequalled record breaking run. All orders for seats for "The Clansman" should be accompanied by remittances made payable to the order of Litt and Ding wall, McVicker's theatre, Chicago, Illinois. Matinees will be played on Wednesdays and Saturdays and all holidays.

THE SAN FRANCISCO SHOW

The Big Feature of The Carnival This Week

The San Francisco earthquake show the big feature of the carnival this week, exhibiting Miles Bros. pictures, the only moving picture photographers on the Pacific coast. At the time of the horrible earthquake and fire, they were making the pictures while other photographers were speeding toward the stricken city. Miles Bros. certainly did themselves proud, when they presented to the public pictures of the San Francisco disaster.

It seems beyond all understanding that the unerring record of such a awful night, should be preserved other wise than in the shuddering memories of those who saw and suffered, but the camera defied the reeling earth and spouting flames. The matchless panorama shows San Francisco bathed in the April dawn resting proudly on the Bay, mistress of the Golden Gate, Queen of the blue Pacific, a city of towering buildings and splendid avenues and dense thronged marts of industry, a moment later and with the quickness of a flash the films tell the story of the sudden shock, the earth's convulsion and the wrecking of the city.

It is worth going miles to see, so don't miss it.

State Items

With his head down, walking on the railroad track, A. G. Mann, of Sandusky, who was deaf, did not see a locomotive which he was meeting until it was twelve feet from him. He jumped, but the corner of the tender struck him in the temple, killing him instantly. Mann was station agent and postmaster at Berkshire, near Sandusky. He conducted a large general store there and had an extensive acquaintance. He was 40 years old. He had been transacting some business and was returning home at 10:15 Thursday morning when killed. The locomotive was backing up.

Clifford Snell of Dozagic celebrated his 14th birthday Thursday Friday night he was instantly killed by a train within 20 rods of his own home. His father, Henry Snell, is a cigarmaker, and his mother is visiting in Madison, Wis. Clifford was standing on one track waiting for a freight train to pass the cabinet factory crossing when the passenger train No. 4 struck him.

After narrowly escaping death by falling under the wheels of an engine in the yards of the Northwestern road at Escanaba, Thursday morning, Alexander Peter, brakeman, 26, was again close to death when the elevator at the Delta county hospital dropped one and a half stories while he was being received at that institution. Peter's right leg was crushed by the wheels of the engine, but aside from bruises about the body he escaped injury by the dropping of the elevator.

While Miss Nellie Richardson of Albion was alone in her home in the west part of the city, Friday, William Kemp, a negro, entered the house and criminally attacked her. Miss Richardson was so alarmed that she did not tell her parents until later. When she told them they notified Deputy Sheriff Graham, but Kemp, meanwhile, had disappeared and no trace of him has been found.

Remarking that one should walk because there were thirteen on the car, Joseph Atkins, of Gay, steward of the steamer Robert Wallace, was almost instantly killed Friday. The men were on their way to see a baseball game and were riding on a hand-car. Atkins had just made the jesting remark when the handle struck him on the head, fracturing his skull. He died in five minutes.

John McDonnell, of Bay City, was arrested a few days ago on complaint of his son for threatening to wipe out his family, Friday night took a dose of carbolic acid and died after a couple of hours of suffering. McDonnell was subject to fierce outbursts of temper and acted almost like an insane man at times. Recently he went about his house with a knife, threatening to kill his wife and children. He also told them he had a revolver and would use it as well upon them and himself. Friday he was moody and sullen and expressed deep grief over the action of his son in causing his arrest. He had been released on bail pending his trial.

SURPRISED THEIR FRIENDS

Miss Zulu Redden and Mr. J. C. Rough Unite in Wedlock

Great was the surprise Saturday morning, when the news rapidly circulated through our midst, announcing the marriage of Miss Zulu Redden and Mr. J. C. Rough, both well known and estimable young people of our city.

The affair was a very quiet one, and no one was aware, that at the early hour of 8:30 in the morning, that two young people were being made so happy. The wedding was performed at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Redden on Niles hill. The simple but beautiful ring service was read by Rev. H. N. Wagner, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The bride was becomingly attired in a beautiful white dress, while the groom wore the customary black. After the wedding ceremony, which was witnessed by only the bride's parent's they made their way to the dining room, where an elaborate wedding breakfast awaited them. The bride then robed herself in a very pretty grey silk traveling dress, and the happy couple drove to Niles where they took the 11 o'clock train for New York City, to spend their honeymoon.

The Record with the numerous friends of Mr. and Mrs. Rough, extend to them their hearty congratulations and wish them every success and prosperity in their future life.

STATEHOOD IN A BAD WAY

Failure of House and Senate to Agree May Defeat it

Washington, June 2.—The latest move in the controversy between the senate and house on the statehood question has just been revealed in connection with the plan to bring in a report from the conference committee today. This report is to provide for the immediate admission of Oklahoma and the Indian territory as one state, with the further provision in the exact language of the original Foraker amendment, that Arizona and New Mexico shall vote separately on the question of their admission as one state.

This report is to be submitted to the senate for its action. Should it be rejected as has been predicted, by those who have made a close canvass of that body, the responsibility for the failure to admit Oklahoma and Indian territory, and also the failure to allow the other two territories to themselves decide the question of their admission will be placed with the senate.

Should this report fail of ratification in the senate it is believed that the house will rest the case without further action, after emphasizing the fact that the senate and not the house is responsible for the failure of action.

The Foraker amendment is the exact provision on which the "statehood insurgents" made their losing fight in the house, when the bill was under consideration in that body.

The Big Show Coming

The announcement that Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows will exhibit in South Bend, Wednesday, June 9, will be received with more than usual interest by the people in this neighborhood. The Ringling Brothers have a name that stands for all that is new, novel and entertaining in the circus line, and the management announces that this season the show has been enlarged to such an extent that a whole extra train is used in addition to the four trains of last season. The show is now transported from place to place in eighty-five seventy-foot cars, constructed especially for the Ringling Brothers. In connection with the circus proper, in which the arena performance is unexcelled, the Ringling Brothers are this season presenting the beautiful and sublime spectacular production of The Field of the Cloth of Gold. The pantomimic play necessitates the use of 1,200 actors and actresses and of almost five hundred horses. It is presented on the largest stage ever used for exhibitional purposes.

Special excursion rates have been arranged for on all lines of travel by Ringling Brothers and those who desire to go to South Bend where this great circus exhibits Wednesday, June 9 can do so at a comparatively small cost. This will be the only point in this vicinity where the circus will exhibit this season and no one should miss this opportunity to see it. Watch this paper for additional announcements.

An Event in Sunday Journalism

The people of the middle West are rapidly discovering that the Sunday Magazine of The Chicago Record-Herald is not only a real magazine, but also one of the greatest in this age of magazines. Its recent display of enterprise in paying $25,000 for the exclusive serial rights of Conan Doyle's new romance, "Sir Nigel," compelled even the editors of the famous monthlies to acknowledge the presence of a new and powerful rival.

When this was followed by Anthony Hope's new Zenda romance, "Sophy of Kravonia," the reading world needed no further proof that the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald was able to capture the finest and most costly new fiction offered in England and America. Its illustrations and cover designs in color have from the beginning been of unsurpassed beauty and artistic grace. Its short stories, descriptive articles, humor poetry and sketches of all kinds are the choicest that the literary market affords, many of them being written by the most popular authors and magazine contributors in the United States. In short, it is an entertaining, high-class magazine that will bear comparison with the best independent weeklies or monthlies, whatever the price.

There is nothing else like it in American journalism.

Stylish Hats

There is no article of apparel which counts so much in a man's appearance as his hat, and it is remarkable to notice the number of men wearing stylish well fitting clothes and unbecoming hats. This is usually not the fault of the man, as he tries to get a hat that will look well on him, but rather because he can't find the shape or style he wants. Adlers hat section offers every popular shape in all proportions, in both stiff and soft hats. You might think it would hardly pay you to go from Buchanan to South Bend for a hat but when you know you can get just the shape and style you want in a hat which we absolutely guarantee as to wear, then it will certainly pay you.

In Japan the average pay of cotton mill operatives is 14 cents a day, a fact worth the attention of the party that proposes to make free trade its paramount issue.

Princess Ena's wedding gown was made in Spain, her hats in England and her shoes in Germany. Why this discrimination against Buchanan?

New England papers are trying to devise some plan to fight the ice trust, but can think of nothing so effective as to cut down consumption. The country expects a better Yankee wrinkle than that.

The Spanish royal marriage is unpopular in England, though the bride is a granddaughter of Victoria. Historically, the mixture of the two races in monarchical matrimony has always made trouble.

The real moving pictures of San Francisco, both before and immediately after the earthquake at Rough's Opera House, Wednesday, June 6th. Benefit Hose Company.

Men have been engaged the past week cleaning out the gutters, and the improvement is great. We are all proud of our pretty little village, and admire the clean appearance.

Patronize your local printer, when you want a first class job, free from errors. Why send it out of town, pay more and submit to possible errors, which could not happen if done by your home office.

The Rich Mfg Co., are busily engaged installing new machinery in their factory, which arrived yesterday. Messrs. M. L. Hanlin and Oscar Fredrickson were in the city last week, and purchased the same.

The Children's Day exercises at the Christian church, Sunday evening, proved to be an enjoyable entertainment. The music was unusually good, and all the children acquitted themselves well. Great credit is due to those who had charge of the program.

Mr. J. A. Child's, editor of the Evanston Index, of Evanston, Ill., and who has been postmaster in that city for the past 21 years, has been re-appointed for another four years. We extend congratulations to Mr. Childs, who has made many staunch friends, since taking up his summer residence in Buchanan.

H. H. Hull, of Joliet, is busy installing the new 150 horse power Bates Corliss engine in the Cabinet Co's new factory building, and Mr. Kietrick, of Detroit, is placing the new elevator in position. We have been informed the factory will be in running order in about two weeks.

Little Mac Atzel Chamberlin is celebrating his first birthday, today, by having a number of invited friends at his home in honor of the event. The birthday cake is decorated with one small candle. We are sure Little Mac will enjoy this first birthday, and trust he will celebrate many more of these happy occasions.

Pictures of San Francisco Disaster

On Wednesday, June 6 at Rough's Opera House, the public will be afforded the first opportunity to see genuine moving pictures of San Francisco after the earthquake and fire. They will also show all the principal streets, buildings and points of interest in and about the city before its destruction, and a number of colored pictures of principal buildings when they were burning and people were still fleeing from them. This will be the most complete and realistic picture entertainment ever afforded. General admission 25 cents. Reserved seat now on sale at Skeet's 35c.

All mails used in laying H. M. R. granite surfaced roofing are made with concave heads and will hold a lifetime. Call on Wm. Roantree for samples and prices.

The BUCHANAN RECORD speaks in high terms of the Memorial Day address of Rev. R. H. Bready, Dr. Brady, also speaks well of the cordial reception accorded him by the citizens and veterans of that village and the occasion seems to have resulted in mutual admiration.—Niles Sun

Coming Attraction

Freed & Perrine's show attracted a large crowd at both performances last Saturday and especially in the evening, standing room was at a premium. The entertainment gave entire satisfaction to the large audience and every performer proved himself a star. Mr. Freed is without a peer as a juggler, his act alone being worth the price of admission and everybody here knows that Dave Perrine's trained dogs and ponies are well worth going miles to see. The show is sure to score a success this season in anything but drenching rains.

The above is taken from the Sturgis Review, and shows the high standard of the company. They will be in Buchanan on Tuesday, June 12. This year they have all new attractions. Maudie the acting mule, the smallest performing ponies in the country, a good line of aerial work, wire performing, juggling and a fine band.

Explaining It.

Towne—His great contention is that all men are born equal.

Browne—That's all right.

Towne—But he seems to think he's better than most men.

Browne—Well, he means all men are born equal, but that some are equal to a hundred others.—Philadelphia Press.

His Estimate.

Bobbie—I don't see why they have Thanksgiving, anyway.

Mamie—Oh! Bobbie, what makes you say that?

Bobbie—Cos it seems silly to make such a fuss over just turkey and mince pie.—Brooklyn Life.

Strange Case.

"It's strange, sir," said the lawyer who was doing a cross-examination stunt, "that you have no memory."

"Oh, I don't know," rejoined the witness. "Look in the jury box—there are 12 men who have no opinions."—Chicago Daily News.

The Only Way.

Jess—Why on earth did Gladys marry Charley Dumley?

Tess—Oh, she took the greatest fancy to Charley's Boston bull, and he wouldn't give her the dog.—Puck.

The Man on the Box

"I have brought discord into the land, it would seem."

But his trials were not over. The worst ordeal was yet to come. At five, orders were given to harness the coach-horses to the coupe and have them at the steps promptly at eight-thirty. Miss Annesley had signified her intention of making a call in the city. Warburton had not the slightest suspicion of the destination. He didn't care where it was. It would be dark and he would pass unrecognized. He gave the order no more thought. Promptly at eight-thirty he drove up to the steps. A moment later she issued forth, accompanied by a gentleman in evening dress. It was too dark for Warburton to distinguish his features.

"I am very sorry, Count, to leave you; but you understand perfectly. It is an old school friend of mine whom I haven't seen in a long time; one of the best girl friends I have ever known. I promised to dine with her to-night, but I broke that promise and agreed to spend the evening."

"Do not disturb yourself on my account," replied the man in broken English, which was rather pleasant to the ear. "Your excellent father and I can pass the evening very well."

Karloff! Warburton's chin sank into his collar and his hands trembled. This man Karloff had very penetrating eyes, even in the dark.

"But I shall miss the music which I promised myself. Ah, if you only knew how adorable you are when you play the violin! I become lost, I forget the world and its sordidness. I forget everything but that mysterious voice which you alone know how to arouse from that little box of wood. You are a great artist, and if you were before the public, the world would go mad over you—as I have."

So she played the violin, thought the unhappy man on the box of the coupe.

"Count, you know that is taboo; you must not talk to me like that," with a nervous glance at the groom.

"The groom embarrasses you?" The count laughed. "Well, it is only a groom, an animal which does not understand these things."

"Besides, I do not play nearly so well as you would have me believe," steering him to safer channels.

"Whatever you undertake, Mademoiselle, becomes at once an art," gallantly. "Good-night!"—and the count saluted her hand as he helped her into the coupe.

How M'sieu Zhanes would have liked to jump down and pommel Monsieur le Comte! Several wicked thoughts surged through our jehu's brain, but to execute any one of them in her presence was impossible.

"Good-night, Count. I shall see you at dinner on Monday."

She would, eh? And her new butler would be on duty that same evening? Without a doubt. M'sieu Zhanes vowed under his breath that if he got a good chance he would make the count look ridiculous. Not even a king can retain his dignity while a stream of hot soup is trickling down his spinal column. Warburton smiled. He was mentally acting like a school-boy disappointed in love. His own keen sense of the humorous came to his rescue.

"James, to the city, No. — Scott Circle, and hurry." The door closed.

Scott Circle? Warburton's spine wrinkled. Heaven help him, he was driving Miss Annesley to his own brother's house! What the devil was getting into fate anyhow? He swore softly all the way to the Connecticut avenue extension. He made three mistakes before he struck Sixteenth street. Reaching Scott Circle finally, he had no difficulty in recognizing the house. He drew up at the stepping-stone, alighted and opened the door.

"I shall be gone perhaps an hour and a half, James. You may drive around, but return sharply at ten-thirty." Betty ran up the steps and rang the bell.

Our jehu did not wait to see the door open, but drove away, lickety-clip. I do not know what a mile lickety-clip is generally made in, but I am rather certain that the civil law demands $25.00 for the same. The gods were with him this time and no one called him to halt. When he had gone far away from Scott Circle as he dared go, his eye was attracted by a genial cigar sign. He hailed a boy to hold the horses and went inside. He bought a dozen cigars and lit one. He didn't even take the trouble to see if he could get the cigars for nothing, there being a penny-in-the-slot machine in one corner of the shop. I am sure that if he had noticed it, it would have enticed him, for the spirit of chance was well-grounded in him, as it is in all army men. But he hurried away. For an hour and 20 minutes he drove and smoked and pondered. So she played the violin! played it wonderfully as the count had declared. He was passionately fond of music. In London, in Paris, in Berlin, in Vienna, he had been an untiring, unflinching patron of the opera. Some night he resolved to listen at the window, providing the window was open. Yes, a hundred times Chuck was right. Any other girl, and this jest might have passed capably; but he wanted the respect of this particular woman. and he had carelessly closed the doors to her regard. She might tolerate him, that would be all. She would look upon him as a hobbledehoy.

He approached the curb again in front of the house, and gazed wistfully at the lighted windows. Here was another great opportunity gone. How he longed to dash into the house, confess, and have done with it!

"I wish Chuck was in there. I wish he would come out and kick me good and hearty."

(Chuck would have been delighted to perform the trifling service; and he would not have gone about it with any timidity, either.)

"Hang the horses! I'm going to take a peek in at the side window,"—and he slid cautiously from the box. He stole around the side and stopped at one of the windows. The curtain was not wholly lowered, and he could see into the drawing-room. They were there, all of them; and Miss Annesley was holding the baby, which Mrs. Jack had awakened and brought down stairs. He could see by the diffident manner in which Jack was curling the ends of his mustache that they were comparing the baby with him. "The concealed ass!" muttered the self-appointed out-cast; "it doesn't look any more like him than it does like me." Here Miss Annesley kissed the baby, and Warburton hoped that they hadn't washed its face since he performed the same act.

Mrs. Jack disappeared with the hope of the family, and Nancy got out a bundle of photographs. M'sieu Zhanes would have given almost anything he possessed to know what these photographs represented. Crane his neck as he would, he could see nothing. All he could do was to watch. Sometimes they laughed, sometimes they became grave; sometimes they explained, and their guest grew very attentive. Once she even leaned forward eagerly. It was about this time that our jehu chanced to look at the clock on the mantel, and immediately concluded to vacate the premises. It was half after ten. He returned to his box forthwith. (I was going to use the word "alar-ity," but I find that it means "cheerful readiness." After what seemed to him an interminable wait, the front door opened and a flood of light blinded him. He heard Nancy's voice.

"I am sorry, Betty, that I can't dine with you on Monday. We are going to Arlington. So sorry."

"I'm not!" murmured the wretch on the box. "I'm devilish glad! Imagine passing soup to one's sister! By George, it was a narrow one! It would have been all over then."

"Well, there will plenty of times this winter," said Betty. "I shall see you all at the Country club Sunday afternoon. Good night, every one. No, no; there's no need of any of you coming to the carriage."

But brother Jack did walk to the door with her; however, he gave not the slightest attention to the groom, for which he was grateful.

"You must all come and spend the evening with me soon," said Betty, entering the carriage.

"That we shall," said brother Jack, closing the door for her. "Good night." "Home, James," said the voice within the carriage.

I do not know whether or not he slept soundly that night on his stable cot. He never would confess. But it is my private opinion that he didn't sleep at all, but spent a good part of the night out of doors, smoking very black, strong cigars.

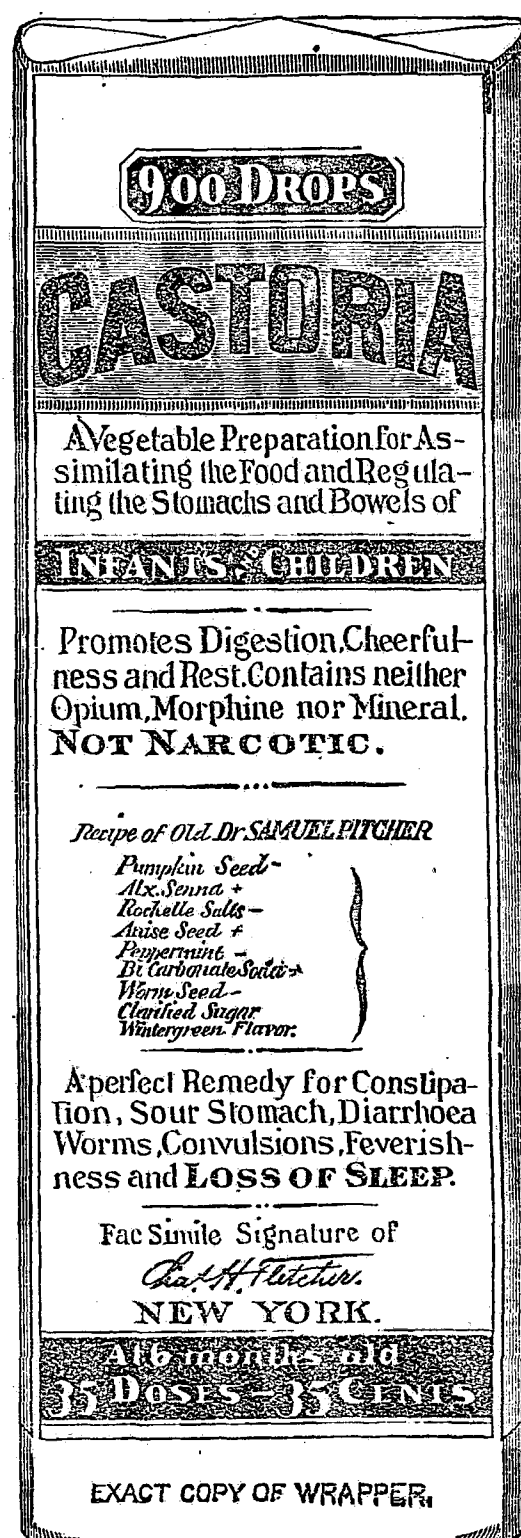

Celeste, however, could have told you that her mistress, as she retired, was in a most amicable frame of mind. Once she laughed.

CHAPTER XIII. A RUNAWAY.

Four days passed. I might have used the word "sped," only that verb could not be truthfully applied. Never before in the history of time (so our jehu thought) did four days cast their shadows more slowly across the dial of the hours. From noon till night there was a maddening nothing to do but polish bits and buckles and stirrups and ornamental silver. He would have been totally miserable but for the morning rides. These were worth while; for he was riding Pirate, and there was always that expectation of the unexpected. But Pirate behaved himself puzzlingly well. Fortunately for the jehu, these rides were always into the north country. He was continually possessed with fear lest she would make him drive through the shopping district. If he met Nancy, it would be, in the parlance of the day, all off. Nancy would have recognized him in a beard like a Cossack's; and here he was with the boy's face—the face she never would forget.
