YOUNG PEOP- LE'S PICNIC

Thirty-First Annual Picnic
Was Held at Berrien Springs

It is estimated that there were 20,000 people in attendance at the thirty-first annual Young People's Picnic which was held at Berrien Springs, Wednesday. The fact of their having the new interurban line from this city and Niles accounts for the large attendance.
The management deserve much

peditions to blue and blackberry in real country life. Since last report the following have registered:

have carried out their plans

The program in the morning was carried out as planned with the band concerts, Walker's Colored Cake
Walkers, "The Otarus," and Fredo & Dave, musical comedians at the platform erected on Ferry street.

This is the largest crowd that the village of Berrien Springs has probably ever had. Every available space on the street had been taken up by booths and the crowd is a very orderly one.

At the business meeting in the morning a committee was appointed which consisted of Willard Bahyon, Benj. Curry and J. C. Myers to nominate the officers for the ensuing year.

The exercises at the grove in the afternoon with few exceptions were carried out according to the program.
In the evening a grand display of fireworks were set off under the management of Mr. John Aldrich. This occasion marked the largest day that Berrien Springs will probably see until next year.

UNIQUE EN- TERTAINMENTS

Are the Pleasures That Afford
Such Pleasant Pastime
at Clear Lake Farm

A peanut party, a novelty party and a hay ride to Buchanan have furnished amusement for the guests at the farm lately. At the peanut party each one participated in the race and then unwrapped his fortune from a peanut shell. In the novelty party Miss Clara Johnson, of Springfield scored the highest number of points and won first prize, and Rollie Cook the booby prize. Two big loads of seekers, after rural pleasures, went into Buchanan on the hay rack
Wednesday evening, and the inhabitants of this peaceful town turned out en masse to watch the city folks come in. Madame Lora Holton entertains the crowd with her music, and when there is no other pastime, there are

LOOKS LIKE BUSINESS

Are Unloading Rails In West Niles, Getting Ready for the Laying of Trackage

The Niles and Buchanan Railway company had a gang of men at work Tuesday on West Main street, just across the river, unloading rails, setting grade stakes and preparing the way for laying trackage. As stated in these columns in the Tuesday's edition, the company's franchise would expire Wednesday if work had not been commenced, and while they are not ready to build the line,
they have commenced work to hold their franchise. However, it is their intention to push the work through next fall.

The company's franchise provides that they may build an independent bridge, in case Niles decides to remove the present Main street structure, but if Niles decides to build a new bridge, the provision in the franchise giving the company the right to construct an independent bridge, becomes null and void. It will then be up to Niles and the company to bear such portion of the cost thereof as may be agreed upon.

Searching Boats Have Discovered Hulk of a Steamer

Holland, July 31.—An obstruction was caught by the cable of the tugs searching for the steamer Michigan six miles northwest of Holland and north of the spot where the wreckage was located last week. The tugs could not move the object, though they pulled until the cable was perpendicular and threatened to break.
The sea prevents working today, but the spot is buoyed. Captain Brittain of the Crouse declares that they have located some boat; but whether it is the Michigan is unknown.

ure of the afternoon session was the speech of Gov. Fred M. Warner.

Mr. Warner, the first candidate for governor to be named in Michigan
by the voters, accepted in a speech delivered at the convention's first session the nomination given him in the June primaries.

It was pronounced by those familiar with his public career the strongest, most carefully prepared and most effective address the governor has ever delivered.

As a summary of two years of close observation, the governor expressed the conviction that there never was a time when the people watched as carefully and interestedly the conduct of public affairs and when officials generally were more responsive to public sentiment.

In an inventory of the accomplishments of his administration, he frankly admitted that some of the 1,020 acts of the legislature to which he had given, his assent had proven a disappointment. One of these was the law making changes of venue mandatory.

Another was the law limiting to dependent relatives the right of action against those responsible for death or injury caused by careles-ness or neglect.

Another was the Gaibrath law permitting manipulation under the guise of equalizing values in fixing the railroad rate of taxation. Its passage, however, had the advantage of resulting in a judicial determination of an important question.

Divers grounds for Republican optimism were outlined and satisfaction with the primary law and he expressed gratitude for the honor of being the first beneficiary under its operation. Correction of defects in that law were recommended.

General legislation for the more efficient regulation of corporations was also recommended. President Roosevelt was eulogized for his work in this direction and Michigan's cooperation in further efforts of that character was pledged.

The state ticket is as follows:
For Governor—
Fred M. Warner, of Farmington.
For Lieutenant Governor—
Patrick H. Kelley, of Lansing.

ON SUNDAY?

WHY NO

Error In Date of Call of the Grand Jury Discovered Just in Time

Shall a grand jury in the county
of Berrien meet on Sunday?
No, it shall not.

October 21 is Sunday. It was originally intended to call the grand jury on that date. The error was discovered just at the last minute and before the call of Judge Coolidge was sent to County Clerk Miners the change in date was made to October
22. Embarrassment is now spared.
If the first date had gone through unobserved and the jury had met on that day it would have been the duty of the body to indict itself.

The call was filed with County Clerk Miners this morning. It specifies that the jury shall be drawn from the new grand jury panel to be returned early in August by the jury commission.

South Bend's Progressive Clothing Store.

We'd like to say a word about the progress this store has made within the past year.

We have gone right ahead and have sold more clothing than in any previous year.

But we don't count that as anything wonderful. It will always be so, because we do not sell anything that is not calculated to bring the customer back.

The right kind of clothing and the justness of the price, are two of the best things about this store.

An enthusiastic salesman's guarantee may or may not stand for quality. If the value is not in the stuff itself, the guarantee doesn't put it there.

Sharp eyes and good business judgement in selecting the stock, is what puts the right kind of clothing on our customers, we see that the value is there before we ask you to put good money into it.

To be sure, even experts are sometimes deceived. In all such cases, however, this store would rather pay a premium to have the goods returned, than have the customer keep them.

Let the quality of the goods we sell and the good service we are able to give you, be the reason for your trading here.

WAS KILLED ON POLE

Ray Moats of Benton Harbor Meets Death Wednesday Morning

A sad accident happened Wednesday morning when Ray Moats a line-man in the employ of the B. H. & St. Joe Ry. & Lt. Co., was instantly killed while making an adjustment on a transformer at the top of a pole at the corner of Lake and Vineyard avenue in Benton Harbor.

Moats, in company with two fellow employes named Garlinger and Andy Deam, started out to make some repairs on the light circuit, it appears that the transformer located at Lake and Vineyard avenues was not working properly and Mr. Deam left Moats and Garlinger to make the connections. Mr. Deam was absent for some time and returned about five minutes previous to the accident.

Moats was on the top of the pole and Garlinger standing at the bottom when Mr. Deam approached. Moats was engaged in making a connection and held in one hand a pair of pliers and in the other a wire. Deam and Garlinger were watching him from below and it appears that Moats in his endeavor to stretch the wire in order to get it to its desired location, threw his body to one side, causing his leg to straighten out, as he did so his foot struck a primary wire and his body formed a short circuit on the wires. He lay stretched on the wires for a minute or so and his fellow workmen heard him utter a smothered cry. Garlinger immediately climbed the pole, he caught hold of Mr. Moats' leg and gave it a short jerk, the body relaxed and fell to the ground beneath. Two thousand volts had passed through the body and Moats must have been instantly killed, his shoes were burned through to the flesh and the hand that held the pliers was also badly burned, no other marks were apparent except a slight cut on the face caused by the fall from off the top of the pole.

State Items

Patrick Delaney and his wife, living two miles south of Capac, were in a serious condition Tuesday, the result of injuries inflicted upon them by their son, Austin Delaney. Young Delaney, who is 23 years old, came home intoxicated. He entered his father's room and asked the latter to have a drink. The father refused, whereupon the son struck him on the head with a bed slat. Mrs. Delaney, hearing the disturbance, went into the room and her son struck her with the same weapon. Young Delaney is now in the county jail at Port Huron awaiting the outcome of his parents' injuries.

A. F. Young, a Charlevoix, Mich., capitalist taking an automobile trip from South Bend to Laporte, struck diagonally the raised platform of a bridge near New Carlisle Tuesday and his car plunged down a 25-foot embankment, pinioning Young to the ground. His body is a mass of bruises. He will recover if not internally injured.

The family of John Keek, of Lodi, is pursued by hard luck. A few years ago a son was killed by lightning and another met death by falling from a windmill. Tuesday the two daughters, Ruth and Emma, were thrown from a buggy by a run away horse. Ruth escaped with slight injuries, but Emma was picked up unconscious, suffering from internal injuries.

Neglect to call a doctor resulted in the death of the 4-year-old son of Irving Jones, a farmer, five miles east of Marcellus. Last week the child's older brother cut off the little fellow's finger with a corn knife. The mother bound on the severed finger and did not take the boy to see a doctor until Saturday. Meanwhile tetanus set in, and the child suffered from Saturday until Monday when he died.

Andrew Dickinson, a Saginaw street clothier, was tapping a bottle on Tuesday, filled with nicotine when the bottom of the bottle broke letting the poison into his mouth. He was dangerously ill for several hours. Prompt medical attention saved his life.

Instructions to Managers of Picnics

Orderly picnics are always welcome to the grounds of Clear Lake Manor, subject to the following provisions: The grounds south of boat landing may be used for this purpose, and must be made headquarters, and used for congregating, games, lunches, etc.

While individual members of parties are not prohibited from visiting the verandas or office of the hotel, the management desires that you do not congregate or remain there in numbers, to the exclusion of guests.

Do not scatter papers, wrappers from packages, remnants of lunch, pop bottles, etc., about the grounds. In case of rain, the boat house will be found amply large to shelter upwards of 200 people, and in such instances the office is for the exclusive use of guests.

Do not enter main building, or go above first floor of either building, unless accompanied by a representative of the management.

Do not tie horses to trees. Before leaving the grounds, pick up all papers, wrappers, remnants of lunch, horse feed, etc., and place in baskets provided for that purpose, and return all empty pop bottles to stand where purchased.

It is the earnest endeavor of the management to conduct a summer resort of which Buchanan may feel proud and to which its citizens may feel kindly disposed, but we need your co-operation in maintaining a dignity fitting the name. Any infraction of the foregoing provisions or any boisterous conduct, or misuse of any of the hotel property, drunkenness, or the introduction of intoxicating liquors upon this or adjacent property, will operate toward the withdrawal of these privileges, and closing the grounds to the general public.

As a rule, we do not advocate Sunday outings, but there are many people who toil throughout the week and have no other time for recreation.

CLEAR LAKE MANOR.

Ringling Bros' Excursions

Special excursion rates on all lines of travel have been arranged for by the management of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows, and those who wish to go to Benton Harbor, where this great circus exhibits Saturday, Aug. 18, can do so at very little expense. This will be the only point in this vicinity where the show will exhibit this season, and no one should miss the opportunity to witness it. Ringling Brothers' circus has been the leading arena exhibition of America for years, but the show has never been permitted to rest upon its reputation. Although it long ago passed the point of competition, every season sees a greater and grander show. This year's performance is entirely new, and entails the combined efforts of 375 wonderful artists in the equestrian, gymnastic, acrobatic and aerial line, together with fifty famous clowns and hundreds of lesser lights. Six hundred and fifty horses are used and a marvelous trained animal department is presented. The circus this season is greatly enlarged by the spectacular production of The Field of the Cloth of Gold, a pantomime, presentation of the well known and beautiful historical meeting between the young Kings of England and France. The vast menagerie has among hundreds of features the only living pair of giraffes, the first baby elephant successfully bred and reared in America, and the only rhinoceros in captivity. There is a gorgeous revival of the Roman hippodrome races, and many other stupendous features in this great circus. Circus day opens with a brilliant street parade, three miles in length. Don't fail to see it. c56

Plainwell Man Gazes Starward and Fortells War and Epidemics

Plainwell, Mich., July 31.—According to Prof. H. H. Allen, the Plainwell astrologer, the stars foretell great events for August and the summer months. This country is to be visited by a strange fever epidemic causing an increased death rate. Great financial excitement and commercial trouble is due before the close of September.

The death of a Michigan man, prominent in the affairs at Washington is plainly indicated while some important government or cabinet change will result from a sudden death of a prominent Washington politician.

Russia is to have more trouble with continued uprisings which will grow steadily more serious. England will be severely affected by railroad or marine troubles during August. The fortunate birthdays are 10th and 29th the unlucky are 17th, 19th, 24th and 30th.

Chance to Write for The Paper

Who has not at times had ideas which he or she would like to see in some newspaper? Many a good thought has slumbered in the brain of the thinker because of the difficulties and rebuffs which are always supposed to lie in the path to the editorial sanctum. The Chicago Record Herald, however, welcomes such ideas and has a page in its Sunday issue called, "The Battle Ground of Modern Thought," which is devoted exclusively to letters from its readers. The best articles received each week are carefully edited and printed over the writers' names. The amount of really valuable matter that finds its way into this department is remarkable and is proof that the ability to write well and entertainingly is not confined to professional writers. The only restriction The Record-Herald puts upon writers for this interesting page is that articles must be of a controversial nature and devoted to the discussion of some current topic.

THE MAN ON THE BOX

The first thing that caught his attention was a movable drawing-board, on which lay an uncompleted drawing. At one side a glass into which were thrust numerous pens and brushes. Near this lay a small ball of crumpled cambric, such as women insist upon carrying in their street-car purses, a delicate, dainty, useless thing. So she drew pictures, too, he thought. Was there anything this beautiful creature could not do? Everything seemed to suggest her presence. An indefinable feminine perfume still lingered on the air, speaking eloquently of her. Curiosity compelled him to step forward and examine her work. He approached with all the stealth of a gentlemanly burglar. He expected to see some trees and hills and maybe a brook, or some cows standing in a stream or some children picking daisies. He had a sister and was ready to suggest her presence. An indefinable feminine perfume still lingered on the air, speaking eloquently of her. Curiosity compelled him to step forward and examine her work. He approached with all the stealth of a gentlemanly burglar. He expected to see some trees and hills and maybe a brook, or some cows standing in a stream or some children picking daisies. He had a sister and was ready to suggest her presence.

On Wednesday morning, clear and cold; not a cloud floated across the sky, nor did there rise above the horizon one of those clouds (portentous forerunners of evil!) to which novelists refer as being "no larger than a man's hand." Heaven knew right well that the blight of evil was approaching fast enough, but there was no visible indication on her face that glorious November morning. Doubtless you are familiar with history and have read all about what great personages did just before calamity swooped down on them. The Trojans laughed at the wooden horse; I don't know how many Roman banqueters never reached the desert because the enemy had not paid any singular regard to courtesies in making the attack; men and women danced on the eve of Waterloo—"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined;"

my heroine simply went shopping. It doesn't sound at all romantic; very prosaic, in fact. She declared her intention of making a tour of the shops and of dropping into Mrs. Chadwick's on the way home. She ordered James to bring around the pair and coupe. James was an example of docile obedience. As she came down the steps, she was a thing of beauty and a joy for ever. She wore one of those jackets to which several gray-squirrel families had contributed their hides, a hat whose existence was due to the negligence of a certain rare bird, and many silk-worms had spun the fabric of her gown. Had any one called her attention to all this, there isn't any doubt that she would have been shocked. Only here and there are women who see what a true Moloch fashion is; this tender-souled girl saw only a handsome habit which pleased the eye. Health bloomed in her cheeks, health shone from her eyes, her step had all the elasticity of youth.

"Good morning, James," she said pleasantly. James touched his hat. What was it, he wondered. Somehow her eyes looked unfamiliar to him. Had he been there I could have read the secret easily enough. Sometimes the pure pools of the forests are stirred and become impenetrable; but by and by the common motion subsides, and the water clears. So it is with the human soul. There had been doubt hitherto in this girl's eyes; now, the doubt was gone. To him, soberly watchful, her smile meant much; it was the patent of her innocence of any wrong thought. All night he had tossed on his cot, thinking, thinking! What should he do? Whatever should he do? That some wrong was on the way he hadn't the least doubt. Should he confront the colonel and demand an explanation, a demand he knew he had a perfect right to make? If this should be evil, and the shame of it fall on this lovely being? No, no! He must stand aside, he must turn a deaf ear to duty, the voice of love spoke too loud. His own assurance of her innocence made him desire to fall at her feet and worship. After all, it was none of his affair. Had he not played at this comedy, this thing would have gone on and he would have been in ignorance of its very existence. So, why should he meddle? Yet that monotonous query kept beating on his brain: What was this thing?

He saw that he must wait. Yesterday he had feared nothing save his own exposure. Comedy had frolicked in her grinning mask. And here was Tragedy stalking in upon the scene. The girl named a dozen shops which she desired to honor with her custom and presence, and stepped into the coupe. William closed the door, and James touched up the pair and drove off toward the city. He was perfectly indifferent to any possible exposure. In truth, he forgot everything, absolutely and positively everything, but the girl and the fortification plans she had been drawing.

Scarce a half a dozen bundles were the result of the tour among the shops. "Mrs. Chadwick's, James."

The call lasted half an hour. As the story-teller I am supposed to be everywhere, to follow the footsteps of each and all of my characters, and with a fidelity and perspicacity nothing short of the marvelous. So I take the liberty of imagining the pith of the conversation between the woman and the girl.

The Woman: How long, dear, have we known each other?

The Girl: Since I left school, I believe. Where did you get that stunning morning gown?

The Woman (smiling in spite of the serious purpose she has in view): Never mind the gown, my child; I have something of greater importance to talk about.

The Girl: Is there anything more important to talk about among women?

The Woman: Yes. There is age.

The Girl: But, mercy, we do not talk about that!

The Woman: I am going to establish a precedent, then. I am 40 or at least, I am on the verge of it.

The Girl (warningly): Take care! If we should ever become enemies! If I should ever become treacherous!

The Woman: The world very well knows that I am older than I look. That is why it takes such interest in my age.

The Girl: The question is, how do you preserve it?

The Woman: Well, then, I am 40, while you stand on the threshold of the adorable 20s. (Walks over to picture taken 18 years before and contemplates it.) Ah, to be 20 again; to start anew, possessing my present learning and wisdom, and knowledge of the world; to avoid the pits into which I so carelessly stumbled! But no!

The Girl: Mercy! what have you to wish for? Are not princes and ambassadors your friends; have you not health and wealth and beauty? You wish for something, you who are so handsome and brilliant!

The Woman: Blinds, my dear Betty, only blinds; for that is all beauty and wealth and wit are. Who sees behind sees scars of many wounds. You are without a mother, I am without a child. (Sits down beside the girl and takes her hand in hers.) Will you let me be a mother to you for just this morning? How can any man help loving you! (Impulsively.)

The Girl: How foolish you are, Grace!

The Woman: Ah, to blush like that! The Girl: You are very embarrassing this morning. I believe you are very sentimental. Well, my handsome mother for just this morning, what is it you have to say to me? (Jestingly.)

The Woman: I do not know just how to begin. Listen. If ever trouble should befall you, if ever misfortune should entangle you, you will promise to come to me?

The Girl: Misfortune? What is on your mind, Grace?

The Woman: Promise!

The Girl: I promise. (Laughs.)

The Woman: I am rich. Promise that if poverty should ever come to you, you will come to me.

The Girl (puzzled): I do not understand you at all!

The Woman: Promise!

The Girl: I promise; but—

The Woman: Thank you, Betty. The Girl (growing serious): What is all this about, Grace? You look so earnest.

be worthy of me? The Woman (lightly): Is any man? The Girl: You are parrying my question. If I am to be your daughter, there must be no fencing.

The Woman (rising and going over to the portrait again): There are some things that a mother may not tell even to her daughter.

The Girl (determinedly): Grace, you have said too much or too little. I do not love Karloff. I never could love him; but I like him, and liking him, I feel called upon to defend him.

The Woman (surprised into showing her dismay): You defend him? You!

The Girl: And why not? That is what I wish to know; why not?

The Woman: My dear, you do not love him. That is all I wished to know. Karloff is a brilliant, handsome man, a gentleman; his sense of honor, such as it is, would do credit to many another man; but behind all this there is a power which makes him helpless, makes him a puppet, and robs him of certain worthy impulses. I have read somewhere that corporations have no souls; neither have governments. Ask me nothing more, Betty, for I shall answer no more questions.

The Girl: I don't think you are treating me fairly.

The Woman: At this moment I would willingly share with you half of all I possess in the world.

The Girl: But all this mystery!

The Woman: As I have said, some day you will understand. Treat Karloff as you have always treated him, politely and pleasantly. And I beg of you never to repeat our conversation.

The Girl (to whom illumination suddenly comes; rises quickly and goes over to the woman; takes her by the shoulders, and the two stare into each other's eyes, the one searchingly, the other fearfully): Grace!

The Woman: I am a poor, foolish woman, Betty, for all my worldliness and wisdom; but I love you (softly), and that is why I appear weak before you. The blind envy those who see, the deaf those who hear; what one does not want another can not have. Karloff loves you, but you do not love him.

The Girl (kisses the woman gravely on the cheek, and without a word, makes her departure.)

The Woman (as she hears the carriage roll away): Poor girl! Poor, happy, unconscious, motherless child! If only I had the power to stay the blow! . . . Who can it be, then, that she loves?

The Girl (in her carriage): Poor thing! She adores Karloff, and I never suspected it! I shall begin to hate him.

How well women read each other! James had never parted with his rose and his handkerchief. They were always with him, no matter what livery he wore. After luncheon, William said that Miss Annesley desired to see him in the study. So James spruced up and duly presented himself at the study door.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Buchanan

Most Buchanan people work every day in some strained, unnatural position, bending constantly over a desk, riding on jolting wagons or cars, doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching, pulling or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Buchanan cures prove it.

William Sandors of 907 Court street, St. Joseph, Mich., employed at Truscott's Boat Mfg. Co., says: "My back bothered me for the last four years constantly. There was a dull aching pain in the small of my back, at times so severe I could hardly attend to my work. I have no doubt it was caused by standing so much at my bench, I used every remedy that came to my notice and also took medicine for my kidneys when home on a visit to England, but none of them did me any good. At last my attention was called to Doan's Kidney Pills and I commenced using them. They helped after a few doses and before I had finished the box the dull pain in my back that had annoyed me so long ceased."

Plenty more proofs like this from Buchanan people. Call at W. N. Brodbeck's drug store and ask what his customers report. For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other. 38
