WARNER SCORED

Believe He Should Have Signed
Fuller Bill and Amended
it Later

ANTI-TRUSTITES ANGRY

Senator Wetmore Has a New 2-Cent
Railroad Fare Bill Which May Prove Acceptable

Lansing, Mich., March 14.—Gov. Warner this afternoon, without any comment, returned to the senate the Fuller bill, intended to prevent the Calumet & Hecla Copper Co., from absorbing the Osceola.

The vote by which it last week passed the senate was reconsidered and the bill then tabled. It may be referred to a committee later on, but the chances are that it will not again pass the senate.

The mining companies will not be caught napping any more, when some body springs a bill, embodying even a semblance of the principle that one mining company cannot own or vote stock of another mining company.

There is a disposition among some of the pronounced anti-monopolists to criticize Gov. Warner for not having signed the bill. They think that had he done so, crudely as it was drawn, the mining interests would come pleading to him and to the legislature to modify it.

It could be modified without sacrificing the principle in it, and at the same time the crudeness could have been ironed out of it. As it is now the interests will fight every inch of ground when any bill affecting their property unfavorable is introduced.

To Sell City Light

Lansing, Mich., March 14.—Senator Martindale today introduced a bill to amend Detroit's charter so that the city can engage in commercial lighting from the municipal lighting plant. The same bill had previously been introduced in the house by Rep. Stannard.

Horse Doctors Must Qualify

There is a bill before the house to strengthen the veterinary surgeons' law so that a man must pass an examination and get a state certificate before he can hang out a horse doctor's shingle. Rep. Baker, of Cheboygan, who is a farmer and knows a few things about horses, says of it: "It is a positive vicious bill. In the first place it does not propose to cut off any of the quacks now practicing. Under its provisions I could register and practice as long as I lived, but from this time on no one but a registered veterinary would be qualified to give a horse a bran mash without violating the law. I would lay myself liable to fine and imprisonment if one of my neighbors should come to me and I should give him a bottle of pain killer. I will oppose the passage of the bill for all I am worth."

No Passes, Says Glasgow

Lansing, Mich., March 14.—Special.—"No passes," is the rule in the railroad department since Commissioner Glasgow took hold. "If there is one department of the state government whose members should not use passes on the railroads it is this department," said the commissioner, exhibiting a half-dozen pasteboards which had been sent the department, but which were allowed to repose in his desk. The commissioner relies on the board of state auditors to pay the expenses of necessary trips.

Another two-cent rate bill was introduced by Senator Wetmore, which may be said to be more acceptable to the railroads than the Russell bill. The Wetmore bill requires a two-cent rate only for roads in the lower peninsula, that earn $1,000 per mile annually. To roads that earn less than $1,000 a mile, a two and one-half cent rate may be charged. In the upper peninsula the rate is to be three cents.

Compulsory Education

Important humanitarian legislation is planned in two bills before the legislature, one compelling the parents of blind or deaf children to send them to schools for the blind or deaf. Senators Tuttle of Ingham, and Allen of Genesee are behind the bills, and the Allen bill has passed the senate.

The bills show how great the confidence now is in the methods of educating the blind and deaf, for they compel the education of such children just as the general law compels the education of normal children.

"At present," Senator Whitney of Saginaw said, "There are perhaps 1,000 blind children of schoolage in Michigan. There are only a 120 at the school for the blind in Lansing. There is as great a difference between the total number of deaf mute children as those in attendance at schools."

For Advice Worth Taking. "Most advice," said Uncle Eben, "is less conversation. When you want to be kind you kin depend on you pays yoh money an' sets a lawyer."

GOVERNOR OK'D BILL

Signs Bill Allowing City to Vote Over Legal Amount

CAN BOND FOR BRIDGE

Street Bridge Issue Can Now be Put up to the People at the Spring Election
if Council so Chooses

St. Joseph, March 14.—Governor Warner signed the bill last night which gives St. Joseph the right to bond for $15,000.00 above the per cent of valuation allowed of cities of this class, for bridge purposes.

The bill passed the house and the senate without discussion and was signed by the governor last night. A telegram received here today from Representative Kelley brought the welcome news to those citizens who are interested in the State street bridge project and the information was immediately given out by City Treasurer Holland.

This removes the legal obstruction which has kept the council from deciding to place before the people the proposition of bonding for a State street bridge and there is now nothing to stop the movement.

The council can vote to include in the various bonding issues to be placed before the public at the spring election, one for the bonding of the city for $80,000.00 to be expended in the construction of a State street bridge and still be within their limits.

With the conservative men who will hold office during the coming year the citizens of the city will never doubt that the money will be well and carefully spent and there will be much more probability of the issue passing than there would have been had the regular tickets entered the field.

WON'T YIELD

Coloma Village President Wants the Franchise Himself

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 14.—The bonding proposition at Berrien Springs was lost by a large vote yesterday and electric lights and water works will not be established this spring. A. J. Baker was elected president of the village of Coloma, and stated this morning that he would grant no franchise to the Benton Harbor & St. Joe Railway & Light Co. to run an interurban line through that village because he proposes to construct a line from Coloma to Benton Harbor himself.

Large Owl Is Judge's Victim.

One of the largest owls ever seen in Benton county was shot by Judge McFadden, says the Philomath Review. The bird measures about four feet from tip to tip of wings. The honorable Judge, hearing a clatter among his fowls about one o'clock in the morning, sallied out with his shotgun and observed the cause of the disturbances perched in the top of a tree among the chickens.

CHAPTER XVI

"Firstly and lastly, it is a lie from start to finish; besides my name is not Mrs. Hill; nor did I stop a nigger boy carrying clothes and exchange bundles; neither did I steal a gray suit or horse from any one. I have no idea what you are talking about; I'm not a married lady and do not belong to Hill's headquarters and therefore am at a loss to know why I am kidnapped and brought within the Union lines; I am not under any authority by the Confederates to come or go and as you are laboring under a mistake, General Warren, and have been misled by some mistaken identity, I would ask that you be gentlemanly enough to see that I am safely escorted back to the half-way house."

"Indeed," says General Warren, "This surely assumes a different aspect and if you can satisfy me that your statement is true in every respect and that you are quittance I shall be most happy to send you back to the half-way house under escort; and see that no bodily harm befalls you. But let me inquire a little further into the particulars bearing on the charge of larceny: Firstly, are those your own clothes you have on?" "Do you wish to further insult me," she says. "Oh no, but I must get at the facts. Will you please be kind enough to tell me your name?" "No sir, I will not, I don't care to have my name flaunted in every northern newspaper sir, and therefore I refuse to give it." "Well then we will call you Mrs. Hill, until we are better informed." "No you won't; I will never answer a word to that name." "Will you please tell me that was your horse, saddle and bridle that you came here on," asks Warren. "It is none of your business sir; I have told you that I know nothing of what you are talking about." "Perhaps not, but you certainly know whether you own the horse or not." "I refrain from answering any more questions." "Then I shall be obliged to have you thoroughly searched. Mose call the sergeant and guard." "But I protest," says the lady; "It will do no good." At that moment the sergeant appeared. Warren said, "take this lady into custody and see that she is thoroughly searched, my wife and Miss Armstrong will assist you." The prisoner was marched into a private tent and had to undergo the same process that Susa had; only she was provided with a comfortable suit of lady's apparel and Susa again came into possession of her own clothing, watch and horse. Papers of a serious nature were found on Mrs. Hill's person. One was a message to be given to the old lady, who had been trapped the day before, but the message Old Mose had delivered to General Hill had deceived as was intended. She did not know that her brother was a prisoner, for she proved to be a sister of the spy that was now in custody at U. S. Grant's headquarters. Her true name was not learned, she had assumed the name of Miss Rose Hunt. However the lady was placed under guard and sent to City Point some fifteen miles to the south at U. S. Grant's quarters and the evidence that was produced at the trial rendered a verdict, that both sister and brother were condemned by the powers of war to be hanged by the neck until dead.

GOOD RECORD

Interesting Meeting of the National Protective Legion

An open meeting of the National Protective Legion was held Friday evening March 8th. It was well attended.

The evening exercises consisted of choice musical selections. Miss and Master Stopp gave a pretty selection from "Martha" on violin and piano. The male quartet Messrs. Boardman, Roe, Hurdle and East, sang "Warrior Bold" by Parks. Miss Deering played a brilliant piano solo most artistically. The quartet sang "What would I do?" Those present knew what to do and gave them well-deserved applause. We are proud of our quartet. Miss and Master Stopp again played very sweetly.

President Stopp introduced the speaker, National President Scott, a gentleman of clear and graceful address, who gave a broad outline history of the N. P. L. from its beginning in August 1891, 'when it secured its charter in New York to the present time. It now has 211,000 members; claims paid $7,000,000; assets $8,400,000. New members joined in December last 7,783, in January 7,153 and in February 9,317—three months of wonderful accomplishment. Each member in good standing for two months is entitled to a disability loan of $15.00, and in event of death there shall be paid to the beneficiary $5.00 per month on one full certificate for each complete month of membership. Many ask the question: "How can this be done and cost each member so little?" The amounts paid in are carefully invested and like every venture in life many are enthusiastic at the start, for a time do well—then fail—the ones who remain steadfast to the end of five years get the full benefit of the earnings. The order is jealously watched by the old line insurance officers hoping to be able to put it out of existence, as many are taking this insurance in preference to life—and it speaks volumes for the order that has passed safely through the experimental stage until now it is thoroughly established and safely guarded on every point, legally licensed and prospering in eleven states.

Pass President Born closed the meeting with a few well-chosen remarks as to the work being done in Michigan, in his district and particularly Berrien county. Among other incidents he spoke of a farmer whose farm had been mortgaged for years; they decided to take out two certificates for wife and two for husband a total expenditure of $8.00 monthly for five years, at the expiration of that time they received dividend checks for $1,000 and redeemed the farm, through systematic saving, good management in the home office and the lapse of time.

The addresses were received with intense interest.

SURELY WAS THE BEST MAN.

Not Much Doubt as to the Bridegroom's Superiority.

"Who was the best man?" inquired the able editor of the Polkville (Ark.) Weekly Clarion.

"Well, I reckon, all things considered, the groom was," replied Mr. Lab Juckett, from out at 'Possum Trot, who had percolated into the sanctum with the news of a wedding which had been solemnized in his bailiwick upon the previous evening.

"The groom?" replied the scribe, in some surprise.

"Er-yah!—or, 'tennyrate, that's the way he 'peared to me. He got the bride's father so drunk before the ceremony that the old gentleman had to stay hid in the hay-mow all night and was seeing green dogs and such like, when I came by this morning. The groom also throwed the bride's two brothers out of the window for objecting to their sister's flinging herself away on him, and talked her mother to a gasping standstill when she sorter started in to remonstrate with him—and she's never been what you'd call an unable lady, that-a-way, herself. Yeh!—looking the gent up on one side and down the other, I shorley reckon the groom was the best man present upon that interesting occasion."—Puck.

Ticket

GRIMES MAKES SACRIFICE

Democratic Candidate for Nomination as Alderman in the Fourth Ward is the Last Man to Withdraw Name—
Is Generous Act

St. Joseph, March 14.—Thanks to the men who have sacrificed their own ambitions, the Citizen's Non-Partisan ticket will have no opposition in the field on election day and its candidates will be placed in office without a struggle.

The city committee of the Non-partisan party held an important meeting yesterday afternoon, to which all of the candidates with petitions out, were invited. The results were extremely gratifying to the committee members, for the candidates, with one exception waived all of their own desires and stepped aside, that their place might be taken by men on the new ticket.

Only one petitioner held out, Fred Grimes, candidate for alderman in the fourth ward was not willing to withdraw and he refused to cancel his petition. Mr. Grimes stated to the committee that he himself would be glad to step down and out, but that many of his friends were urging him to stand fast and that he did not think it right to desert them and ignore their wishes.

The committee, however, did not despair and today their pleadings resulted in the consent of Mr. Grimes to the withdrawal of his name. He did not wish to force a primary election alone and felt that such an action would not be the wish of his constituents.

With the withdrawal of Mr. Grimes from the race, the committee, have therefore cleared the coast for their ticket and there is nothing now to offer, even a slight obstruction to a complete victory.

Those men who had taken the trouble to circulate petitions and who have now withdrawn them, that the ticket nominated by the Citizens' party might remain uncontested at the polls, are worthy of commendation for they have thrown aside all of their own desires to add strength to the movement which is expected to do so much for this city.

ODD FELLOWS HUSTLE

Members Are After New Candidates for Lodge

Members of the Buchanan branch of the I. O. O. F. are congratulating themselves over the remarkable growth of their organization during the past few months. All winter they have been making things hum here and there, getting new members, "goating" them into the lodge's mysteries and conferring degrees. Five new members are headed for membership at their next meeting, Tuesday, March 19th. At their meeting held last Tuesday they conferred the first, second and third degrees on nineteen candidates, the work being in charge of Mr. B. H. Layne, of Mitchell, Ind. Messrs. Andrews, of Benton Harbor, and John E. Perrott, of Coquille, Ore., were among the honored out-of-town visitors. After the meeting the members got busy making acquaintances with visiting brothers.

With Edged Tools

BY HENRY SETON MERRIMAN

AUTHOR OF
"THE SOWERS"

In the scene pictured here we have the beginning of a love affair which sent two men to Africa and turned out in the most surprising way. The men became good friends and the woman—well, we can't tell you all about it because that might detract from the pleasure of reading it.

But you know this: When you have two men loving the same woman you can expect things to come to pass.

The story is told with that remarkable realism peculiar to Henry Seton Merriman—the faculty of making the characters more real than those you meet in the flesh. Beginning in fashionable London, the scene is quickly shifted to the jungles of Africa where the most exciting adventures befall, holding the reader in suspense until the startling denouement is reached. ## Voice of the People

We want to introduce a new department under the heading: "Voice of the People." The editor likes to see some of the people of Buchanan express their candid opinions on matters that affect the town. We do not presume to know everything—that is everything the people like and dislike. The RECORD columns are open to its subscribers and they are welcome to enter the new department. If you think that the town needs polishing up somewhere, express your views; if you have some suggestion to make that will interest the readers, don't hesitate to come out and tell us. It matters not what your political or religious beliefs may be, you can give your utterances freely and frankly. But we will not be responsible for any opinions expounded. Your communications must be limited to a reasonable number of words and must be signed with the full name of the writer as an evidence of good faith in the opinions expressed, but not necessarily for publication. We cannot return communications unless accompanied by stamps, or called for in person.

Keep your enthusiasm and Buchanan will grow. A man may be old in years, but if he is enthusiastic for the town's future he will be optimistic and the optimistic man always seems young. He smiles and enjoys younger people and the younger folks smile and enjoy him. His political leanings don't matter if he keeps enthusiastic over this growing village.

We have been flattered and praised for bringing new and original things into the RECORD. But we haven't stopped there. We have more coming. If the readers like the RECORD we want the advertisers to get busy and assert themselves.

That great serial story, "With Edged Tools" is bound to absorb your interest. Give it a start. Politics makes us weary sometimes and good reading won't hurt the best of the RECORD's readers.

Mayor-elect Dr. Peck is overwhelmed with congratulations. We knew the people wanted him and were bound to have him.

SAVED HER SON'S LIFE

The happiest mother in the little town of Ava, Mo., is Mrs. S. Ruppee. She writes: "One year ago my son was down with such serious lung trouble that our physician was unable to help him; when, by our druggist's advice I began giving him Dr. King's New Discovery, and I soon noticed improvement. I kept this treatment up for a few weeks when he was perfectly well. He has worked steadily since at carpenter work. Dr. King's New Discovery saved his life." Guaranteed best cough and cold remedy by W. N. Brodick, druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

"Glorious Betsey"

Mary Mannering who has charmed her audiences in the past by the coquetry of her "Janice" and the sweetness of her Rose Trelawney, will appear at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, next Monday night in a new play called "Glorious Betsey" from the pen of Rida Johnson Young, under the direction of Sam S and Lee Shubert, Inc.

The play is the love story of Elizabeth Patterson, of Baltimore, and the incidents concerned revolve around her courtship and marriage with Jerome Bonaparte, the young brother of Napoleon, Emperor of the French.

The opening scene shows Betsey Patterson with her father at the old Virginia Sweet Springs, to which resort Jerome Bonaparte comes incognito. Impressed with her beauty and sparkling wit, he quickly falls in love with Glorious Betsey, and to be near her he engages himself as her French tutor. Meanwhile the envoys of Napoleon, who have accompanied Jerome to this country, have been diligently searching for him. They finally discover his whereabouts and have come to the Springs to induce him to leave and fulfill the many social attentions that have been arranged for him. Jerome refused.

The scene now changes to Betsey's house on the night on which the fete is to be given. During the intervening week, Betsey finds herself unconsciously in love with her tutor. She now learns his real identity. Meanwhile the envoys start to locate him, and return with the news that Napoleon has been proclaimed Emperor of France, with demands for the instant return of his brother, Jerome. During all this time the lovers have remained unconscious of the turmoil that is going on, until Patterson in his frantic search for Betsey, stumbles upon her in Jerome's arms.

The following scene shows Betsey and Jerome, awaiting the return of messengers to Napoleon, who are to bring his consent or refusal to Jerome's marriage. With their return comes emphatic orders from the emperor that Jerome shall come to him at once, and alone. He refuses to allow Betsey to land. Jerome is indignant, but is persuaded to go ashore and meet his brother. During his absence, Napoleon boards the ship. He tells Betsey that she must renounce. She cannot do this—cannot give up her love. Napoleon tells her that her sacrifice is for France. He reminds her that she, as an American girl, owes a debt—the debt of Lafayette—to France, whose women did not hesitate to give their own lovers, husbands and fathers in America's hour of need. He tells her it is necessary for the welfare of France that Jerome should marry the Princess of Wurtemberg. With a broken heart she agrees to the sacrifice.

A Tough Proposition?

Why do you seek a lawyer to lift you out of a legal mire—when you want some difficult legal pointers solved?

When you have a disease, you don't waste time, trying to diagnose the trouble yourself, do you?

Now, when your gray matter is upside down trying to think out what to say and what not to say in your advertisements, why not come over to me and talk it over. I have rubbed elbows, talked, discussed advertising with the biggest and brainiest men in Chicago. What I have learned and put in practice out there,

I want to give to the RECORD'S advertisers. There is no charge for service save the space you buy.

I will admit there are some pretty tough propositions to handle, but I am always ready and willing to tackle those matters with the advertiser and save him the troublesome work of devising plans for selling.

If you have something to sell that is suitable for this season, why not tell the people. Don't think for a moment, that every time you have new stock and fail to advertise, the people will flock to your store and ask for them. Tell them what you got, how much and why you think they ought to buy them. Don't try to be sensational and boastful in your advertising. The people have outgrown the habit of patronizing merchants who use such favorite songs as "greatest on earth, etc." Talk common sense and nine cases out of ten you will hold your trade against the mail order grabbers.

Now, the proposition is not so tough as you will find if you see me about it.

The RECORD is in favor of progressive advertising. Are you in it?

Looks like another spring—today?

Get up and boost Buchanan for all you are worth.

Greater Buchanan—when is it coming? Let's all work together—boost and boost with lots of boosting.

Itching, torturing skin eruption, disfigure, annoy, drive one wild. Doan's Ointment brings quick relief and lasting cures. Fifty cents at any drug store.

The housekeepers are not the only souls to bewail the coming house-cleaning "storm." Some of our stores are suffering from what we call "un-advertised, dusty, shelf-worn stock."

Rev. F. C. Watters will occupy his pulpit next Sunday as usual after a short visit to his parents. Subject in the morning, "What is your life?" In the evening the subject will be "The White Fields." Everyone welcome.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, passages of the bowels.

Letters remaining unclaimed in Postoffice at Buchanan, Mich. for week ended March 12, 1907: Letters: Mr. Henry Meyers, Mrs. Annie Baldwin, Miss Inez Crogen; Postal; Mr. G. A. Porter.

A. A. Worthington, P. M.

Everybody's friend—Dr. Thomas E. Electric Oil. Cures toothache, earache, sore throat. Heals cuts, bruises, scalds. Stops any pain.

While inspecting and surveying his yard preparatory to cleaning Mrs. Wm. R. Rough espied a strange object, and on closer inspection, discovered it to be the leg of a carrier pigeon which had a band attached marked E. Z. 37270. Presumably the pigeon was shot by unknown parties while performing its duty.

Fourteen busy teachers met with Miss Grace Mutchler at the residence of W. E. Mutchler, on Front street, Monday evening. The study of literature was the prime feature of the evening. In a literary game, Miss Ponner won first prize. Music added stress to the evening's pleasures, besides various kinds of games. To satisfy the pangs of sharp appetites a three-course luncheon was served, which reflected upon Miss Mutchler's reputation as a charming hostess.

The rooms formerly occupied by Dr. Henderson in the Rough block, are being vacated to make way for Attorney A. A. Worthington, whose business has grown to gigantic proportions as to warrant larger quarters and who will take possession about April 1st. At present the rooms are undergoing a thorough remodeling, and will be transformed into an up-to-date law office. Pending the alterations, Mr. Worthington will occupy W. A. Palmer's offices.

Mr. Chas. E. Draper, of Mishawaka, Ind., dropped in to pay his respects to the Record office force. Mr. Draper worked for the this paper in the early sixties, two years before the Record assumed its present name. As late as Feb., 1864, Mr. Draper associated himself with the authors and founders of the "Voice of the Prophets, or Second Advent Pioneer." The first publishers of the Record were Lloyd & Turner, both deceased.

Buchanan can claim the distinction of having the best equipped post-office over towns of its size in Berrien county. Through the untiring efforts of our enterprising postmaster, A. A. Worthington, the postoffice has been thoroughly remodeled on lines insuring quicker and better facilities for handling the fast increasing output of daily mail. A new method of opening mail boxes has been introduced, known as combination lockers which substitute the old way of opening by keys. Directions for opening them are furnished to each box renter. An immense steel screen has been placed on top of the entire side and front sections, reaching close to the ceiling. This insures safety and protection to the public. Postmaster Worthington deserves credit for daring to bring about these extensive improvements.

The 30 Club met with Mrs. R. J. Blake March 13. Roll call—Current events was well responded to. Mrs. Kingery had a five-minute talk on "Child Life of Japan"; Mrs. Cook on "Domestic Service"; Mrs. Fitch on "Methods of Travel." Mrs. Peck led the history lesson. Mrs. Curtis read an interesting paper on "Festivals and Amusements." Club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Desenberg, March 20.

A very quiet wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hubb at Warren Center, Ind., Wednesday March 13, when their oldest daughter, Katie, was married to Mr. Daniel Fisher, of the same place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Halmhuber, of Buchanan. Miss Chubb is widely known in and around Buchanan and her many friends join in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous voyage through life.

Woodmen's hall was the scene of a joyous celebration last Monday evening, the occasion being the ninth anniversary of the Royal Neighbors as a branch of the organization. Music of a high grade character penetrated the air throughout the hall. All kinds of games were indulged in, which brought some of the members back to their happy childhood days. Mrs. Wm. Koons won the prize for scoring the highest in a pedro game; Mrs. Steele captured the finch prize, and Mrs. Ed. Mittan slipped away with the domino prize. Dancing was another feature of the evening. When the guests, 75 in all, had begun to get sleepy, they were braced up with an elaborate luncheon. They say they will not forget the event for a long time to come.

Last Monday was one of the most interesting of Monday Club days. Met with Mrs. Howard. Mrs. Clyde Baker brought out many good points in the African history lesson. The life of that great and good man "Livingston" who did so much for Africa was read by Mrs. M. Johnson. Miss Samson told the beautiful and pathetic story of his death and burial, his heart buried in his beloved Africa, his ashes in Westminster Abbey. Mrs. S. Smith read the closing paper of this grand life, "His Influence." Roll call "Famous Actors." Paper "Shakespeare's Fame," by Mrs. J. Dodd. Mrs. J. East conducted the study of Shakespeare's "King Lear." Meeting with Mrs. Rose, March 18.

Rev. and Mrs. Halmhuber were very pleasantly surprised (?) last Wednesday evening at their home on Main street. Although it was a stormy evening, about 60 members and friends of the church, for which Rev. and Mrs. Halmhuber have worked so faithfully in the last four years, met down town and wended their way to the parsonage. Finding it locked, Mr. and Mrs. Halmhuber being away, they soon found a way out of their trouble and entered, taking possession until the pastor and his wife returned. They were not as much surprised as they might have been if some one had not previously informed them. A program consisting of violin and piano solos, vocal music and a recitation by Mrs. J. A. Halmhuber was rendered. After which, Mrs. L. A. Broceus, in behalf of the members and friends of the church, presented the host and hostess with a 119 piece set of beautiful dishes. In a few well chosen words, Rev. Halmhuber expressed their appreciation of the dishes and their regret to leave the people whom they have learned to love. Then the friends departed regretting that this was the last time they could meet with their pastor and wife.

STRAIN TOO GREAT

Hundreds of Buchanan Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden

The hustle and worry of business men, the hard work and stooping of workmen, the woman's household cares, are too great a strain on the kidneys. Backache, headache, sideache, kidney troubles, urinary troubles follows. A Buchanan citizen tells you how to cure them all.

B. S. Crawford, nurse, living on Clark street, Buchanan, Mich., says: "Sometime ago, I strained my back lifting while waiting on a patient, and as a result of the injury, I suffered from a miserable pain in my back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and recommended so highly, I thought I would test their merits, and accordingly procured a box at W. N. Broderick's Drug Store, and I am more than pleased with the results. They acted as quickly, promptly relieving the pain that had annoyed me so long, and I have no hesitation in recommending this valuable medicine to any who may be suffering from kidney trouble in any of its forms."

SCHOOL NOTES.

It has become customary in high schools throughout Michigan to consider the salutatory and valedictory of the class day program as the places of honor and to assign them to the two pupils having the highest average standings for the high school course. Mrs. Pennell, Miss Williams, Mr. Salisbury and Supt. Moore attended the Teacher's Institute at St. Joseph, Friday night and Saturday of last week.

Supt. Moore was elected treasurer of the Berrien County Teachers' association at the St. Joseph meeting last Saturday.

CHAPTER I
"My dear madam, what you call heart does not come into the question at all."
Sir John Meredith was sitting slightly behind Lady Cantourne, leaning towards her with a somewhat stiffened replica of his former grace. But he was not looking at her and she knew it.

They were both watching a group at the other side of the great ballroom. "Sir John Meredith on Heart," said the old lady, with a depth of significance in her voice.

"And why not?"
"Yes, indeed. Why not?"
Sir John smiled with that well bred cynicism which a new school has not yet succeeded in imitating. They both belonged to the old school, these two, and their worldliness, their cynicism, their conversational attitude belonged to a bygone period. It was a cleaner period in some ways—a period devoid of slums. Ours, on the contrary, is an age of slums, wherein we all dabble to the detriment of our hands—mental, literary and theological.

Sir John moved slightly in his chair, leaning one hand on one knee. His back was very flat, his clothes were perfect, his hair was not his own, nor yet his teeth, but his manners were entirely his own. His face was eighty years old, and yet he smiled his keen society smile with the best of them. There was not a young man in the room of whom he was afraid conversationally.

"No, Lady Cantourne," he replied. "Your charming niece is heartless. She will get on."

Lady Cantourne smiled and drew the glove farther up her stout and motherly right arm.

"She will get on," she admitted. "As to the other, it is early to give an opinion."

"She has had the best of trainings," he murmured. And Lady Cantourne turned on him with a twinkle amid the wrinkles.

"For which?" she asked.
"Chaissez!" he answered, with a bow.

The object of his attention was the belle of that ball, Miss Millicent Chyne, who was hemmed in a corner by a group of eager dancers anxious to insert their names in some corner of her card. She was the fashion at that time, and she probably did not know that at least half of the men crowded round because the other half were there. Nothing succeeds like the success that knows how to draw a crowd.

She received the ovation self possessively enough, but without that hauteur affected by belles of balls—in books. She seemed to have a fresh smile for each new applicant—a smile which conveyed to each in turn the fact that she had been attempting all along to get her programme safely into his hands. A halting masculine pen will not be expected to explain how she compassed this, beyond a gentle intimation that masculine vanity had a good deal to do with her success.

"She is having an excellent time," said Sir John, weighing on the modern phrase with a subtle sarcasm. He was addicted to the use of modern phraseology spiced with a cynicism of his own.

"Yes; I cannot help sympathizing with her—a little," answered the lady.

"Nor I. It will not last."

"After all," she said, "she is my sister's child. The sympathy may only be a matter of blood. Perhaps I was like that myself once. Was I? You can tell me."

He fumbled at his lips, having reasons of his own for disliking too close a scrutiny of his face.

"That is more than probable," he answered rather indistinctly.

"Then," she said, tapping the back of his gloved hand with her fan, "we ought to be merciful to the faults of a succeeding generation. Tell me, who is that young man with the long stride who is getting himself introduced now?"

"That," answered Sir John, who prided himself upon knowing every one—knowing who they were and who they were not—"is young Osgard."

"Son of the eccentric Osgard?"

"Son of the eccentric Osgard."

"And where did he get that brown face?"

"He got that in Africa, where he has been shooting. He forms part of some one else's bag at the present moment."

"What do you mean?"

"He has been appointed a dance. Your fair niece has bagged him."

The other young men rather fell back before Guy Osgard—scurled, perhaps, by his long stride, and afraid that he might crush their puny toes. This enabled Miss Chyne to give him the very next dance, of which the music was commencing.

"I feel rather out of all this," said Osgard as they moved away together. "You must excuse uncountessness."

"I see no signs of it," laughed Miss Chyne. "You are behaving very nicely. You cannot help being larger and

READY TO TAKE NOTES.
Cruel Husband Had Stenographer to Record Wife's Remarks.

Frederic Irland, at the last convention of the National Association of Stenographers at Atlantic City, said of a somewhat harsh rebuke that one stenographer had administered to another:

"That rebuke was a little too cruel, was it not? It reminds me of the cruelty of a Washington man—a piece of cruelty wherein stenography played an unwitting part."

"As this man came to bed one night his wife said to him:

"Has the stranger gone; I didn't hear him."

"Oh, no, dear. He hasn't gone," the husband replied. "I have instructed the maid to let him out in three or four hours."

"The wife looked amazed and stupefied."

"What—why—who on earth is he, anyway?" she stammered.

"My dear," said the husband, quietly, "he is a shorthand reporter. You see, I nearly always forget what you say to me during your discourse from 11 till two and sometimes I go to sleep while you're talking. So I thought I'd have your lecture written out to-night and study it at my leisure. The young man is all ready, the door is open so that he can hear you, and you may begin as soon as you like."

TURNED ON THE REFEREE.
Turtles Objected to His Interruption of Their Fight.

Milton J. Vreeland, a farmer living near Pine Brook, N. J., was nearly drowned in the Passaic river yesterday as the result of his acting as referee between two snapping turtles, says the New York World.

Vreeland, who was in a canoe, watched the bout or a minute or two and then decided that it was time for the combatants to break away.

He paddled up to them, reached over the side, caught them by the tails, one in each hand, and swung them into the canoe—one in the bow, the other in the stern of the frail craft. But the turtles did not accept this decision. They wanted to fight on, and being unable to get at each other they attacked the self-appointed referee.

The farmer had found it an easy matter to catch hold of the turtles' tails when they were in the water, but it was impossible now with the canoe to keep on an even keel. He caught up the paddle and with this managed to beat off his assailants for awhile, but at last the canoe capsized. As it did so one of the turtles dealt the farmer a blow in the back just below the belt. It clung to the place on the trousers where it had snapped and Vreeland found he could not swim.

He says himself he would have gone to the bottom but for Frank Jacobus, who turned a bend in the river in a canoe and towed man and turtles ashore.
