NUMBER 31.

From the State Capital

Information and Gossip Furnished Weekly by Our Special Correspondent at Lansing

Lansing.—After another lengthy installment of talking the house passed the new primary bill by a vote of 74 to 7, the latter being Representatives Beeman, F. T. Bennett, Dougherty, Double, Knight, J. S. Moore and Simpson. Representative L'Esperance gave notice of reconsideration. In its revamped shape the measure is a wonderful document. Chapter five provides that it is a felony for candidates to do a number of things, among them to hire workers or pay for space in any newspaper. This is made punishable by a fine from $100 to $500 and six months' imprisonment. Representative Farrell again made an attempt to include all state officers in the primary list and, but for the fact that it requires a two-thirds vote to amend on third reading, he would have won. The vote stood 46 to 38. Representative Waters brought up his 20 per cent. proposition again, but it was easily defeated, the will of the administration being that nominations for governor and lieutenant governor should be made by a plurality vote. Representative Turner tried to have the penalty clauses in the bill stricken out, but failed. Representative Colby made the last effort, his plan being that photo cards should be restricted to 2½x4 inches in size on the ground that when larger ones are put up in saloons candidates have to treat. He lost out. Under the terms of the bill no state employe can circulate petitions for candidates or do any other work which is not to their liking.

Ward-Presley Story Disproved.

The story about Representative Ward, whose name has been prominently mentioned in connection with the death of Miss Presley, waiting for Miss Presley at the Grand Trunk station at Detroit, on Gratiot avenue, is a fairy tale so far as Miss Presley is concerned, unless Ward expected her to take the late afternoon train. As a matter of fact, she left on the Pere Marquette evening train which leaves here at 7:10 p. m., her brother Frank put her aboard and State Highway Commissioner Earle conversed with her from Plymouth to Detroit. He occupied the day coach but she was in the parlor car. Knowing she was on the train he looked her up. On nearing the station he went back to get his grip, but on getting off at the depot, he could not find her. Miss Presley must have hurried out to avoid him and went directly to the Wayne hotel, where she registered under the name of Hall. Stories are now afloat to the effect that several persons knew of Miss Presley's condition for several weeks back. A Lansing business man told a member of the legislature that he was apprised of the matter a month ago, but now says that he cannot remember who told him.

Library Bond Issue.

At a night session of the house and senate Senator Bland introduced a bill to enable the city of Detroit to issue $750,000 library bonds with a referendum attached. The delegation has already decided against raising the bonded limit.

In the house the new military bill with the state armories provision was passed without discussion. When it goes to the senate some twenty amendments will be made to the bill and the question of making promotions by seniority will be settled. Unless these proposed amendments are satisfactory to the military officials the bill will not be reported out by the committee.

No Pension for Teachers.

Representative Miller had the house pass a bill changing the Detroit teachers' retirement act so that the pension can be increased from $250 to $400 and prescribing how the funds may be invested.

At the request of H. Corlett Smith, of Detroit, Representative Standart introduced a bill permitting the consolidation of electric, light, gas and power companies in Shiawassee county, but it is not known what specific purpose the bill is intended to subserve.

St. Johns now has nine saloons and Representative Norton wants to prevent any increase except on a ratio of one to each 500 additional population.

Michigan After Settlers.

Representative Byrns introduced a bill creating an immigration commission to be composed of the governor, auditor general and land commissioner, the duty of which will be to induce settlers to come to Michigan. Provision is made for a commissioner to be paid $2,000 a year and the bill carries an appropriation of $8,000 for salary and expenses, including the printing and circulation of literature.

Bill for Horse Doctors.

Representative Morrice's bill providing for a department of veterinary surgery at the M. A. C. passed the house. There was not a sufficient number of members present to give it immediate effect and the measure was laid on the table until next week. The bill provides that the state board of agriculture may provide a course in veterinary surgery and issue degrees of doctor of veterinary science upon the completion of the course. No provision is made for an appropriation for the maintenance of the department.

Temperance Legislation.

Temperance legislation was marked by two interesting incidents. In the house a senate bill intended to amend the bill prohibiting the sale or disposition of alcoholic liquors in Tekonsha, Calhoun county, for five years—so that the drastic prohibition would not apply to druggists selling liquors for medicine, was killed after a sharp attack by Rep. Dost. However, the Tekonsha bill is regarded as too drastic, and it will be recalled from the governor, so that druggists may still sell wine for sacramental purposes, and the use of liquors for medicinal and manufacturing purposes shall not be stopped. Senator Cropsy and Representatives Henry and Willits, with Calhoun county visitors, saw the governor on the matter. In the senate the Lindsey resolution requesting the committee to report the Lugers precinct option bill, or a substitute, was finally taken up again and the vote reconsidered. Then the resolution was voted down, 16 to 13. This is regarded as the end of the Lugers bill, which is substantially the Hudson bill of the last session. In the debate some of the members denounced the Anti-Saloon league "lobby," and some members declared the thousands of petitions sent in for the bill demanded some response.

Poor Helped by City.

During the year ending April 30, 898 indigent poor persons were aided from the city poor fund to the extent of $1,629.20, according to the annual report of City Director of the Poor Foster, filed with the city clerk. The amount expended is $283.20 less than that of the previous year. Strange as it may seem the expenditures were greatest in February, the shortest month of the year. The largest item of expense is $530.76 for fuel, and the next is $520.70 for food. The other items follow: Board, $66; clothing, $37.42; house rent, $208; nursing, $198; burials, $32.25; transportation, $24.16; car fare, stamps, school books, washings and office supplies, $11.91.

Keep Out of Game.

An echo of the last campaign, when things were being heard about Gov. Warner and the farm he got from the Widow Jersey in Ogemaw county, sounded in the senate chamber. Senator Huntley Russell introduced a bill "to permit the sale of any land held by the state in trust or otherwise to any state officer, member of the state board, employe or clerk in any state department or office, or any other person receiving compensation from the state, during their term of office or employment." This means that no officer or employe of the state shall be permitted to buy tax lands.

New Local Option Bill.

Representative Agens introduced a local option bill in the house providing for an election on the liquor question in towns, villages and cities of the fourth class without regard to precincts or wards upon the presentation of a petition signed by 40 per cent of the voters in the community. In case prohibition wins there shall be no saloons for a period of two years. At the end of that time another election may be had under the same conditions. Should prohibition prevail for six years it shall be made permanent and no more elections on the question can be held.

Defeat Allen's Pension.

The senate failed to pass the Mackay concurrent resolution for the relief of Thomas Allen, the one-legged Detroit popcorn vendor. As the resolution recites, Allen was arrested, tried and convicted in 1899 on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm in Mecosta county, and after serving one year and more of a sentence of five and one-half years, he was discovered to be innocent and was pardoned by Gov. Winans. The Mackay resolution called for a pension of $10 a month for ten years to Allen.

To Entertain Soldiers.

Capt. Durst, of Company E, is preparing to provide some sort of entertainment for the state troops who will come to Lansing May 31, on the occasion of the visit of President Roosevelt. Just what form the amusement will take has not been definitely decided upon.

For Popular Election of Senators.

The house passed the Waters resolution recommending the Michigan congressmen to urge and work for the adoption of an amendment to the national constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators directly by the people.

Only Lawyers Understood.

The lawyers of the house fought for considerable time on the Mackay bill, which permits the service of attachment and the sale of inequitable interest in lands on execution. That is, if A, being the nominal owner of real estate, owes money to B in such a way that B holds an inequitable interest in that land, C desiring to secure money owed by B can attack the property of A on the belief that B holds an inequitable interest therein. No, he can't for the house killed the bill.

Sells Shoes "Broken In."

One clerk who had earned the reputation of being the best saleswoman in the shoe department was asked the secret of her success. "I sell all the shoes that have been returned," she explained. "The other girls are afraid to show them, but I find them the best sellers. Our house is liberal in its treatment of dissatisfied customers, and we get back a good many pairs of shoes that have been worn around the house until they are partly broken in. These shoes are much more comfortable than a brand-new pair. The soles may be a trifle soiled, but the customer who puts ease above every other consideration doesn't mind that, consequently I sell shoes while the other girls only fit them on."—N. Y. Globe.

Girls Have Same Chance as Boys.

In Holland girls have exactly the same privileges as boys when it comes to a question of higher education. There are no special courses, universities or preparatory schools for girls in the land where Queen Wilhelmina rules.

All institutions for higher education are open to men and women equally, and on the same terms; students of either sex are treated in the same way and have to pass the same examinations.

After having left the primary school girls and boys who wish to enter the university go to a public grammar school, into which they are admitted at the age of 12 or 14, on passing an entrance examination.

Avoiding Vengeance.

After Miss Screamer had sung "by request" a gentleman was observed to leave the room with considerable celerity.

"I call that rudeness," declared one guest. "Don't you?"

"Can't say," answered the guest addressed. "It may be prudence. He looks to me like the man who did the requesting."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hasty Reassurance.

"I was so glad to meet your mother," said Mr. Newcomer. "By the way, I didn't think she was—er—so very stout."

"Oh," interrupted Miss Yerner. "I'm sure I'll never grow to be like her. I take after pa, you know."

PROFITABLE DIPLOMACY.

"Doctor," said the lady, addressing the struggling young oculist, "there is something the matter with my eye. I wish you would give me a thorough examination."

After she had undergone the various tests she turned anxiously to the specialist and asked him what he had discovered.

"I find that you are afflicted with a very common ailment," he replied. "In fact, nearly all people have it when the get along about your—"

Then he suddenly paused and pulled himself together, after which he continued:

"As I was about to say, nearly everybody has it in a greater or less degree, according to the circumstances. The trouble is in the optic nerves. I can easily remedy it with glasses. There was a time, you know, when the wearing of glasses was supposed to indicate age, but that foolish notion has been wholly cleared away. As a matter of fact, 50 per cent. of our school children really ought to be wearing glasses."

"Oh, doctor, do you believe it as bad as that? Please give me your prescription as soon as it is convenient, and I shall take pleasure in recommending you to all my friends. That idiotic doctor across the hall tried to make me believe that my trouble was due to my years. Really, I never—"

"Surely, madam, he must have been jesting. No oculist who knew the least thing about his business could make such an absurd mistake."

"Before I go let me hand you my check. I will sign it in blank, and you may fill it out as you think proper. Good-by. I'm so glad you were recommended to me."—Chicago Record-Herald.

In a Quandary.

"You are serving pure food now, aren't you?"

Thus spoke the regular customer.

Then he stopped precipitately.

With Edged Tools

By HENRY SETON MERRIMAN
Author of "The Sowers," "Roden's Corner," "From One Generation to Another," Etc.

Copyright, 1894, by HARPER & BROTHERS

In the course of his inspection of the lowering clouds which hung, black as ink, just above the trees his eyes lighted on Joseph, standing within the door of the cottage watching him with a singular half-suppressed smile.

"Yes," he said hurriedly, "I will start at once. I can eat some sort of breakfast when we are under way."

He looked beneath his lashes quickly from Jack to Guy and back again. Their silent acquiescence was not quite satisfactory. Then he called his own men and spoke to them in a tongue unknown to the Englishmen. He hurried forward their preparations with a feverish irritability which made Jack Meredith think of the first time he had ever seen Durnovo, a few miles farther down the river, all palpitating and trembling with climatic nervousness. His face was quite yellow and there was a line drawn diagonally from the nostrils down each cheek, to lose itself ultimately in the heavy black mustache.

Scarcely had the boat disappeared in the bend of the river before the rain broke. The thunder crashed out in sharp reports, and the men ceased rowing and crouched down in the canoe. But Durnovo knew that behind him he had left a greater danger; smallpox had laid its hand on the camp at Msala.

It is still said on the Ogowe river that no man travels like Victor Durnovo. Certain it is that in twenty-seven hours from the time he left Msala on the morning of the great storm he presented himself before Maurice Gordon in his office at the factory at Loango.

"Will you be at home tonight?" asked Durnovo, gently pushing aside the hospitable decanter. "I have got a lot of work to do today, but I should like to run in and see you this evening."

"Yes, come and dine."

Durnovo shook his head and looked down at his wrinkled and dragged clothing.

"Well, I'll lend you a black coat. Seven o'clock sharp!"

Durnovo hurried away with a gleam of excitement in his dark eyes.

Maurice Gordon did not resume his work at once. He sat for some time idly drumming with his fingers on the desk.

"If I can only get her to be civil to him," he reflected aloud, "I'll get into this business yet."

At 7 o'clock Durnovo appeared at the Gordons' house. He had managed to borrow a dress suit and wore an orchid in his buttonhole. It was probably the first time that Jocelyn had seen him in this garb of civilization, which is at the same time the most becoming and the most trying variety of costume left to sensible men in these days. A dress suit finds a man out sooner than anything except speech.

Jocelyn was civil in her reception; more so, indeed, than Maurice Gordon had hoped for. She seemed almost glad to see Durnovo, and evinced quite a kindly interest in his movements. Durnovo attributed this to the dress suit, while Maurice concluded that his obvious hints thrown out before dinner had fallen on fruitful ground.

At dinner Victor Durnovo was quite charmed with the interest that Jocelyn took in the expedition, of which he gave it to be understood, he was the chief. So also was Maurice, because Durnovo's evident admiration of Jocelyn somewhat overcame his natural secrecy of character.

"Well," said Maurice, when Jocelyn had left them, "I suppose you'll be a millionaire in about six months?"

He gently pushed the wine toward him at the same time. Durnovo had not slept for forty hours. The excitement of his escape from the plague-ridden camp had scarcely subsided. The glitter of the silver on the table, the shaded candles, the subtle sensuality of refinement and daintiness appealed to his hot blooded nature. He was a little off his feet perhaps. He took the decanter and put it to the worst use he could have selected.

"Not so soon as that," he said; "but in time—in time."

"Lucky beggar!" muttered Maurice Gordon, with a little sigh.

"I don't mind telling you," said Durnovo, with a sudden confidence begotten of madeira, "that it's simiacine—that's what it is. I can't tell you more."

"Simiacine," repeated Gordon, fingering the stem of his wineglass and looking at him keenly between the candle shades. "Yes. You've always been on its track, haven't you?"

"In six months your go-downs will be full of it—my simiacine, my simiacine."

"By Jove, I wish I had a hand in it!" Maurice Gordon pushed the decanter again—gently, almost surreptitiously.

"And so you may, some day. You help me and I'll help you—that is my ticket. Reciprocity—reciprocity, my dear Maurice."

"Yes, but how?"

"Can't tell you now, but I will in good time—in my own time. Come, let's join the lady—eh? Ha, ha!"

But at this moment the servant brought in coffee, saying in his master's ear that Miss Jocelyn had gone to bed with a slight headache.

During the three days that followed Durnovo's departure from Msala Jack Meredith and Oscar learned to know each other. These three days were as severe a test as could well be found, for courage, humanity, tenderness, loyalty, were by turns called forth by circumstance. Smallpox rages in Africa as it rages nowhere else in these days. The natives fight it or bow before it as before an ancient and deeply dreaded foe. It was nothing new to them, and it would have been easy enough for Jack and Oscar to prove to their own satisfaction that the presence of three white men at Msala was a danger to themselves and no advantage to the natives. It would have been very simple to abandon the river station, leaving there such men as were stricken down to care for each other. But such a thought never seemed to suggest itself.

The camp was moved across the river, where all who seemed strong and healthy were placed under canvas, awaiting further developments.

The infected were carried to a special camp set apart and guarded, and this work was executed almost entirely by the three Englishmen, aided by a few natives who had had the disease.

For three days these men went about with their lives literally in their hands, tending the sick, cheering the despondent, frightening the cowards into some semblance of self respect and dignity. And during these three days, wherein they never took an organized meal or three consecutive hours of rest, Joseph, Meredith and Oscar rose together to that height of manhood where master and servant, educated man and common soldier, stand equal before their Maker.

Owing to the promptness with which measures had been taken for isolating the affected the terrible sickness did not spread. In all eleven men were stricken, and of these ten died within three days. The eleventh recovered, but eventually remained at Msala.

It was only on the evening of the third day that Jack and Guy found time to talk of the future. They had never left Durnovo's house, and on this third day they found time to dine together.

"In six months your go-downs will be full of it."

BUCHANAN VICTORIOUS.

Boys at Field Day in Niles Get First in High Jump.

Reported by Record's Special Representative.

The field day held at Niles was a grand success. It is estimated that over a thousand were present from the neighboring towns including, Cassopolis, South Bend, Dowagiac, St. Joseph and Buchanan. The forenoon was devoted to a ball game between Dowagiac and Niles. The game was a close one and played well from start to finish. The resulting score being 3 to 2 in favor of Niles.

In the afternoon the crowd wended their way to the race park where the events took place.

Those listed from Buchanan were Cyrus Jenks, Virgil Schwartz, Ward Hamilton, Howard Smith, Fred Roe, Kenneth Legar.

The 220 yd. dash was the first event the points were carried off by St. Joseph, time 23 1/2 seconds.

Hammer throw, won by Hinkle of Niles, distance, 75 ft., 8 inches.

Half mile run, Tyfe of St. Joseph, time 2:20.

Pole vault resulted in a tie between Dowagiac, St. Joseph and Niles. Tie was carried by Fletcher of St. Joseph, height, 8 ft., 8 inches.

The total number of points won are as follows, St. Joseph 72, Dowagiac 21, Niles 14, Buchanan 10, Cassopolis 0.

Buchanan deserves no little credit as only three nights were spent in practice and yet she came within four points of Niles. Hamilton may be congratulated on his excellent jumping.

At the next meeting Buchanan should be better represented. It has already been shown that we possess some good athletes.

"THE ROUND UP"

Mayor Fred A. Busse, the hope and joy of Chicago just now, was guest of honor at the biggest theatre party ever organized in America, the Young Men's Busse Club of Chicago giving him the party in McVicker's Theatre Tuesday night. After the performance of "The Round Up" Mayor Busse said "It's the most enjoyable evening of my life. 'The Round Up' is a bully good show." The club took the entire house and filled it with the friends and admirers of the mayor. The occasion was some thing of a political feat and jollification over the recent great victory won by Busse in the mayoralty campaign. There was great enthusiasm and excitement during the play. The club selected "The Round Up" because of its bigness and because it is the reigning sensation and success just now in Chicago. No such business has been done here by a play in years.

The big scene—the battle in the canyon between a band of Apache Indians and the United States cavalryman is the greatest scene shown in many, many seasons. It rivals the great chariot race in "Ben-Hur", heretofore considered the acme of stage realism. Chicago people are buying seats again and again to see the play, so splendidly does it appeal to their hearts and imaginations.

Klaw & Erlanger, who are the producers of "The Round Up" think so highly of it they have booked it to open the season in their big New Amsterdam Theatre in New York, the handsomest theatre in the world, so they say. In New York "The Round Up" will be played at $2 prices, while Chicagoans and the people in the surrounding cities get the same play, company and production for $1. There will be a special holiday matinee in McVicker's Theatre Thursday, May 30, Decoration Day. "The Round Up" is so truly American, it is an ideal play for this national holiday.

Printing—C. A. Wilkinson.

Privileges—B. F. Mars and Jake Dilley.

Finance—Henry Kephart and R. W. Reese.

W. J. Banyon, of Benton Harbor, will be one of the speakers, and Hon. Patrick Kelly will no doubt be an other. Arrangements are being made to make this the best old settlers' picnic that was ever held in Berrien county. The date is Wednesday, June 12.

Child's Pathetic Answer.

This happened in Minneapolis. A young lady agent of a savings institution handed a little girl one of the forms to fill out before making a deposit. One of the questions asked was "What is the occupation of your father?"

The little girl wrote "Drunkard" in answer to this.

"But that is no an occupation," said the young lady agent.

"It's all I ever saw him do," innocently replied the nine-year old tot. That father ought to hire himself out to stand behind a full fledged mule for about ten minutes.

Saturday Night Diversion.

In a London street a girl of 12 and a boy of 10 were playing a family drama of "mother and father," and Bobby was being instructed in his role. "Now, Bob," said the girl, "you jest walk up ter ther corner an' wait there till we tells yer to come. We're a-goin' ter git dinner ready, an' when we calls yer, yer ter come 'ome and chuck the fings about." "Ho!" said Bobby. "Come 'ome, drunk do I? And why for?" "Why for, stoopid?" retorted the girl, with a glance of mingled scorn and pity. "Ain't it Saturday!"

Watters' pastorate in this village he has made many friends who join in wishing them a happy voyage through life.

The Michigan crop report for April just filed, says the condition of wheat is not as promising now as it was April 1. This may account for wheat prices soaring up. Many correspondents claim that a large percentage of the acreage would be plowed up, were it not for the seeding to clover and timothy.

Fruit correspondents through the state generally complain of trees being badly damaged by the freeze of last October, also that the mild temperature of March followed by the severe frost and cold wave of April injured buds extensively. This, coupled with the damage done by San Jose scale and other pests, makes the prospects for the fruit crop rather discouraging.

We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at W. N. Wm. Van Meter is in possession of a rare fifty cent coin, which has been smoothed on both sides. One side bears the inscription H. B. Boswell 1863; on the reverse side are the letters Buchanan Lodge No. 68, Buchanan, Mich., and a Masonic emblem in the center. The coin was found at Oak Harbor, Ottawa Co., Ohio, by John Burley and brought here by a man named Alsbaugh, a brother of Henry Alsbaugh, of Dayton. Since this coin was found, some of the older Buchanan residents recollect the name Boswell. They claim a man by that name, in the early 60's, owned a shoe store on the site where Rough's Opera house now stands. It has been learned that he has a son residing in Mishawaka to whom the coin probably belongs.

The Record has ascertained the actual facts in connection with the sad death of Fred H. Weisgerber, adopted son of Jno. Weisgerber. The details were obtained through H. G. Hathaway, who returned Sunday from Monmouth, Ill., where he assisted in identifying the remains of Mr. Weisgerber. While switching a box car in front of the engine, April 21st, on the tracks of the Iowa Central Railway Co., Monmouth, Ill., was killed, no signals warning of danger were displayed. The accident occurred on one of the principal street crossings about midnight. H. A. Hathaway, brother-in-law of the deceased, investigated the case in behalf of the children and has in his possession all the facts and data.

Coroner H. H. Pillinger of that city reported as follows: "Found body lying north of track with head about three inches from outside rail, pool of blood 18 inches west of head. Blood inside of track west of head, portion of skull bone lying south of north rail 12 inch from head. Clothing torn about shoulders, right side of head and face crushed and ear torn off. No evidence of struggle." The verdict of the jury was "accidentally struck by car on Iowa Central Railway track in Monmouth, Warren Co., Ill."

The deceased was 46 years old. His wife was formerly Miss Ruth Hathaway. Two children survive, John and Mary Weisgerber.

Cat Skins Worn as Fur. According to a Philadelphia paper the securing of cat skins is something of an industry in that city. The skins are sent to France, where they are dyed and returned to this country as popular fur. Good cat skin looks very much like squirrel and is used in a similar way, being especially popular for hats and hat trimmings.
