A Wide-awake Newspaper Alive to Local Interests and a Valuable Advertising Medium

VOLUME XLI.

BUCHANAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1907.

NUMBER 34.

It's Easy to Compete with the Mail Order Houses.

The home merchant who advertises and gives prices in his advertisement, need never fear the mail order house.

It matters not what line of goods you sell. The mail order firms sell plus to a thrashing machine—they are always reaching out their hoggish hands for more trade from every nook and corner of the earth. And they do all this by advertising. They don't need salesmen on the road. Their advertisements tell the readers what they have and how much.

And still country merchants continue to cry and "cuss" the mail order grabbers for "butting" into their small territory.

In last issue of the Record we spoke of advertising your goods if they have merit. The people are beginning to take it for granted that when a merchant howls about other fellows coming to town and "extracting" our dollars, that it's a sign the merchant can't compete with the mail order houses because he is too timid or ashamed to advertise his goods.

It often happens that the local merchant has a better grade of goods than his foreign competitor.

And yet our friend, the merchant, refuses to believe that advertising, which costs a few dimes a week, can stem the tide of mail order competition.

Because advertising space costs a few cents an inch most merchants think it excessive, hence stay away—and in the meantime an energetic, hustling and far-seeing competitor comes along. He buys space right and left. He would buy space if it costs money but he is bound to reach the prospective customers.

And so this happens week in and week out—some of our oldest citizens regard the bulky mail order volume as indispensable. It has everything they are looking for—and they have prices, too. Even the little fellows with a few pennies handed them by their parents are learning how to trade out of town.

That's why we believe you ought to help keep your dollars home, Mr. Merchant.

A standing advertisement—changed often—with PRICES—will do the trick.

MRS. M'KINLEY AT VERGE OF DEATH

WIDOW OF MARTYRED PRESIDENT FATALLY STRICKEN.

DOCTORS HAVE NO HOPE

Attack Follows Case of Grip Suffered Some Months Ago—Wished to Live to Witness Unveiling of Husband's Monument.

Canton, O., May 24.—Mrs. McKinley has suffered a stroke of paralysis, and her attending physician, Dr. O. E. Portman said Thursday afternoon that she was unconscious and there is no hope for her recovery.

The feeling of mourning in Canton over Mrs. McKinley's condition is only second to that which was exhibited during the few days that preceded the death of her lamented husband. Every effort is being made to prevent the least possible discomfort to the sufferer.

Although she is in a comatose condition it was said at the house that noises from the street appear to irritate the sufferer. Both streets in the vicinity of the home have been vacated by traffic.

Telegrams from all parts of the country have been pouring into Canton anxiously inquiring as to Mrs. McKinley's condition and evincing widespread sorrow over the announcement of her critical illness.

Has Been Ill Some Time.

Mrs. McKinley has been ill nearly all winter, having suffered a severe attack of grip some months ago, followed later by bronchitis. The physicians say that in her weakened condition she was easy victim to the disease with which she was stricken.

Mrs. William McKinley.

She is nearing the sixtieth anniversary of her birth and as is well known has long been in feeble health. Mrs. McKinley gave up knitting recently and this was taken as an indication that her hold upon life was slight, as ever since the tragic death of her husband she has found solace in knitting slippers for friends and invalids. Of late Mrs. McKinley has been obliged to keep close within doors but before that she was in the habit of taking daily walks and of riding to the cemetery with flowers to place upon the casket which contains the body of her late husband.

In Semi-Conscious Condition.

Dr. Portman, after his visit to the McKinley home Thursday night, announced that he found a change for the better in Mrs. McKinley's condition. She was then in semi-conscious condition. When spoken to she opened her eyes slightly. Dr. Portman, however, said the change was not such as would lead him to expect any great improvement. He regarded her condition as satisfactory as could be expected under the circumstances, but at the same time could predict only a survival of a few days at most, judging from the present state of the patient.

Was Born in Canton.

Mrs. McKinley was Ida Saxton, daughter of a well known bank president of Canton, prior to her marriage to the third of America's martyred presidents. The only two children born to the McKinley household were Ida, who was born in 1871 and died 13 months later and another daughter, Katie, who lived to be only 3½ years old. Mrs. McKinley's health was shattered about that time and she never walked without assistance.

For several months following the death of President McKinley her life was despaired of. The little strength that enabled her to survive a train of crushing sorrows has been waning recently. So rapidly has been her decline that her friends have been much alarmed about her for several months.

It is stated by close friends of Mrs. McKinley that it had been her greatest wish that she might live to witness the unveiling of the monument to President McKinley in September.

CASE DRAGS ITS SLOW LENGTH ALONG

PROCEEDINGS OF TENTH DAY OF HAYWOOD TRIAL.

JUDGE IS MORE SEVERE

Will Accept Only Such Excuses to Escape Jury Service as Clearly Come Within the Statute—Tenth Talesmen Examined.

Boise, Idaho, May 24.—The net results of the tenth day of the Haywood trial were the partial weeding out of the talesmen of the second special venire entitled to statutory exemption and the partial qualification of one juror. The examination of the venire has not proceeded very far but it shows that the recreation of interest in the Steunberg murder and the rediscussion of the facts established and disputed is, by natural process, disqualifying many citizens for jury service in the case, and indicates that the publicity given to examination of talesmen has widely increased popular knowledge as to the means of artistically avoiding jury service in the case.

The 60 men of the second special venire presented themselves when the judge ascended the bench at two o'clock Thursday afternoon and when it was announced that the court would hear excuses 23 of the 60 marched forward. Judge Wood said that he would accept only those excuses which clearly came within the statute and when he made good his announcement the band of petitioners melted very quickly. Five petitions were flatly denied, nine were temporarily denied, six were granted. The other three petitioners did not bother to present their excuses.

Seek to Fill Ninth Seat.

Then began the attempt to fill seat No. 9, made vacant by the release of Juror Orric Cole on account of illness. The first five talesmen had opinions that would require evidence to change—one of them said his opinion would last regardless of the evidence—and they all went down on challenge from the state. Early in the examination Clarence Darrow, for the defense, asserted that James H. Hawley, for the state, was seeking to lead talesmen up to qualification by improper questioning. Judge Wood overruled his objection, but he continued to address the court. Mr. Hawley bristled and for a few moments there was a promise of a scuffle. But the court checked the incipient row and the examination went on.

What amounts to roughly one-third of the new venire was exhausted and some men who watch the trial believe that this venire will not fill the one certain and nine or ten prospective vacancies in the jury. After a talesman has been qualified for Mr. Cole's place the state will use its seventh peremptory challenge which will be the thirteenth challenge out of the 20 allotted.

REPORT ON FOREIGN MISSIONS.

General Synod Reformed Presbyterian Church in Session.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 24.—The second day of the general synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church was presided over by the new moderator, Rev. Dr. Thomas McFall, of Nova Scotia. Several students were licensed to preach and the convention then took up the reports on the work of foreign and home missions.

The report on foreign missions of the church showed that eight new missionaries had been appointed during the year and that there was a balance of $13,000 in the treasury for work at the Chinese and Syrian missions. The appropriation for next year for the foreign missions is placed at $17,500. Special notice was called to the fact that the Turkish government had placed the missions of the church on the same footing with the French missions, although many missions had been closed heretofore. Many missions in the mountains of Turkey are expected to open as a result of the edict issued recently by Turkey. In the report of home missions announcement was made that a congregation would be established in Alberta, Canada. A feature of Thursday's session was the presence of Robert Alaka, a full-blooded Comanche Indian, who told of the work among the Indians in Oklahoma.

Says He Didn't Resign.

Adrian.—William S. Eateman denies that he has resigned from the board of control of the Michigan Employment School for the Blind at Saginaw. "We would welcome an examination of our accounts and a thorough investigation of all our affairs," he says.

THEATER NEWS

McVicker's Theater, Chicago

"The Round Up" is still the sensation of Chicago although most of the "summer shows" have got into place and are doing business. The big western melodrama has all the qualities that please and delight audiences. Its comedy is clean, crisp and delicious; its pathos is of the sort which brings the lump into your throat and tears into your eyes without harrowing the emotions too strongly, and the thrill, and the play is full of them, are the sort that make you sit on the edge of your chair and hold your breath. They perhaps more than any other of its drawing features have made the melodrama the great success it is.

Special features are to be added to the performances on Decoration day, Thursday, May 30, matinee and night. The programme cards have been especially designed for the day and contain the words of the national anthem as well as certain information concerning the play. At the close of the famous third act—the battle in the canyon, the soldiers will line up in front of the stage and they with the audience will sing "America," the inspiring words and music of which classic and national song will ring true to the traditions of the day. The thorough American character of the play makes it an ideal one on national holidays.

The canyon battle scene is the most splendid representation of war that has ever been staged in America. It surpasses in realism the wonderful battle in Jacob Litt's "Shenandoah," the revival of which during the Spanish-American war began his tenancy of McVicker's theatre. That scene was the greatest to its day, but the battle in "The Round Up" is even more terrific and blood-curdling. Here the combatants are fierce, crafty, treacherous and blood-thirsty savages—a band of marauding Apache Indians—on the one hand, and a troop of U. S. cavalry on the other. The battle is fought from the rocky pass leading into the Valley of Desolation, and is thrilling in the extreme.

Chicago Grand Opera House.

Frank Daniel's engagement at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, in the very amusing comic opera "The Tattooed Man" continues prosperously. It is doubtful if the clever comedian has ever been better fitted than in this instance. The character given to him, that of a bibulous old Persian astrologer, is a most comic conception and fits Mr. Daniels' peculiarities most perfectly. The opera is exceptionally well constructed, well staged and well produced. Victor Herbert's music is up to the highest standard of Herbert compositions. Harry B. Smith and A. N. C. Fowler have provided a libretto that is unusually bright and have given to Mr. Daniels, lines and scenes that fairly bubble over with mischief and humor. The star is ably assisted by a talented cast. The most effective singing is contributed by William Pruette as an Arab Chief, and of the feminine roles the best falls to May Vokes who as Fatima contributes not a little to the success of the piece. There are several other good characters in the production and among those who have scored during the present engagement are Harry Clark, Edna Fasset and Isabelle D'Armond.

STRONG STAND BY ASSEMBLY

PRESBYTERIANS FIRM AS TO MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

Standards of the Church Are to Be Rigorously Upheld—Temperance Controversy May Be Renewed.

Columbus, O., May 24.—The Presbyterian general assembly Thursday received and adopted the report of the special committee on marriage and divorce and adopted resolutions rejoicing in favorable results already obtained and expressing the hope of more radical reform, reaffirming deliverances of former assemblies regarding marriage and divorce and enjoining Presbyteries "to enforce the standards of the church, to hold to a strict account all ministers under their care, and to urge all ministers to regard the comity that should refrain from giving the sanction of our church to members of another church whose marriage is in violation of the laws of the church whose communion they have chosen."

Rev. Dr. Charles A. Dickey, of Philadelphia, chairman of the committee who presented the report, referring to the recent marriage of President Corey of the United States Steel corporation, said: "What we said about Mr. Corey cleared the way. The condemnation of public opinion was nothing in itself to make us rejoice; and surely if the editorials of our newspapers, and if the approval of public opinion is rising to a high standard, it is time for us that we take the lead in this as in everything and give an example of the church cleansing itself from lax divorces and sinful marriages."

The report of the board of church erection was also received and adopted.

Although it was rumored that an attempt would be made to bring about a reconsideration of the action of the assembly on the temperance question, especially with reference to the resolution commending the American Anti-Saloon league as a "safe, sane and effective organization," no step was taken in this direction. It is not improbable, however, that the controversy may be renewed when the report of the permanent committee on temperance is presented.

Rev. Maitland Alexander of Pittsburg presented the report of the committee on theological seminaries. Dr. Alexander urged the necessity of maintaining a high standard on educating men for the ministry. Resolutions were adopted urging strict enforcement of the rule regarding the necessity of a college diploma as a condition of admission to the seminaries, that an entrance requirement in the English Bible shall be demanded of all students and urging Presbyteries to protect the church seminaries from unworthy candidates for the ministry.

SHERMAN DECLINES POSITION.

Illinois Lieutenant Governor Refuses Roosevelt's Offer of Place.

Washington, May 24.—Lieut. Gov. Lawrence Y. Sherman of Illinois Thursday declined to accept his appointment by President Roosevelt as a member of the Spanish treaty claim commission. The reason assigned by Senator Cullom, who took Mr. Sherman's declination to the White House, was that Mr. Sherman did not feel like leaving his present position when the legislature of Illinois had not yet formally adjourned its session of this year. According to reports in other sources politics has something to do with the decision of Mr. Sherman.

Days of the "Don't Publish" Reign are Over

There are hundreds of attorneys in Michigan, retained principally in divorce cases, who instruct the county clerks to write upon the court records opposite their cases the words "Don't publish."

The object of this is to keep from the public any knowledge of the divorce or other cases that are started. Newspapers have long contended that every court proceeding should be public. It is the public who pays the judge. The public who pays the clerk. The public who builds the court houses and lights and heats and maintains them. And the business transacted in the offices of the public is public property.

Some time ago the Kalamazoo Gazette objected to the custom of the clerk in that county in withholding information in cases and marking his records with a "don't publish." The supreme court has just sustained the newspaper and has decided that the files in divorce and other cases should be open to the inspection of newspaper men and all other persons interested.

The Detroit Journal in commenting upon the ruling of the court says:

The contention is sometimes made that divorces are of a semi-private nature in which the public is not the one concerned, and that it is in the public interest that files in such cases should be kept away from the newspapers. The fallacy of this contention is made plain almost every week in courts where suppression has been permitted. Sometimes a man divorces his wife and remarries before she hears anything about it. The files are suppressed, from the bill to the order of publication; the defendant is notified through a legal paper which she never reads, and because she does not put in a defense the court presumes that she is guilty of the charges made by her husband.

Why Do Country Boys Flock to Big Cities?

Most small towns are short of young men. As a rule there are plenty of agreeable girls who would not object to matrimony; there are plenty of old people and enough babies to go around. But the boy—oh, where is he?

The boy, the young man, has gone to the city, where he imagines there are opportunities. To him the old home town is dull and stupid. He sees no future for himself there. Both for social and financial considerations he rushes off to the great city. Very frequently he finds that he is lonelier there than at home—nearly always so; and even more frequently he finds that riches do not grow on ten story walls.

BUT STILL HE GOES TO THE CITY.

In going there the boy simply follows his daddy's dollars. For years his daddy and his mother and big sister and his Aunt Mary Ann have been mailing their money to the big city for Mail Order bargains.

Result: Home merchants don't thrive, grass grows in the streets, no jobs are to be had, no opening for a new business, and the young man goes to the city because it is a place where people have traded at home and built up their own community and provided opportunities for outsiders as well as for themselves.

If you want to keep your boy at home build up your town so that he can build up his career among his home folks.

Contractor John M. Alimendinger, of Benton Harbor, began work on the new ship canal yesterday. This will mark a new era in the commercial prosperity of that city and will prove of as great value to the prosperity of the city as the canal that was dug in the early '60s.

The waterway at the present time will be only the beginning of a ship canal. It will be dug only 20 feet wide at the top, 10 feet wide at the bottom and 6 feet deep. This will allow the floating of small flat bottomed barges and pleasure craft. The waters of Ox creek will flow through this new channel.

The Loyal Americans, of which many in Buchanan are members, at their general assembly at the South Bend Oliver hotel Wednesday voted down a proposition to increase the rates for new members after a most spirited debate, which was opened in the morning and was continued until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The proposition includes an additional $250 policy and a $3,000 policy, the lowest policy under the old plan being $500 and the highest $3,000. The rates are on a graduate scale according to the ages and vary one cent for each year on the smallest policy, two cents for the next highest policy and so on up the scale. This plan is followed until the 40-year mark is reached, then the rates vary materially, 70 being the limit of ages for writing new policies.

Tuesday night the delegates and visitors enjoyed the show at the Springbrook Casino as a compliment from the local assemblers. Wednesday night a big banquet was given in the New American hall. The Benton Harbor lodge exemplified the work. Addresses were made by supreme officers and other prominent men.

The Record is in receipt of a brochure from the James McMillan Memorial association. An explanation of the association's accomplishments will be interesting.

The war department at Washington has named the new filtration park in the city of Washington. "McMillan park," in honor of the illustrious services of the late James McMillan, for many years United States senator from the state of Michigan.

Senator McMillan was for a long series of years chairman of the committee on the District of Columbia, and his duties were practically that of mayor of the capital city. The beauty of Washington is due in no small measure to his untiring efforts and the war department in honoring his memory has bestowed a just recognition.

The "James McMillan Memorial association" has been formed in Michigan with Don M. Dickinson, Cleveland's postmaster general, as president; Peter White, as treasurer and Elwood T. Hance as secretary.

It is proposed to make the organization state wide, and in every county there will be appointed a local committee that will take up the matter of raising funds for the building of a monument to be erected in the new park in memory of a statesman that served this state well in the United States senate.

Berrien county will be asked to form such an organization and the people of this section will not be lagging in their desire to assist in the proposed tribute to the late Senator McMillan.

for two months—piled with marvelous instinct by Durnovo—Meredith made one or two changes in the organization. The caravan naturally moved slowly, owing to the enormous amount of baggage to be carried, and this delay seemed to irritate Victor Durnovo to such an extent that at last it was obvious that the man would go mad unless this frightful tension could be relieved.

An advance column, commanded by Meredith and Durnovo, was selected to push on to the plateau, while Oscar and Joseph followed more leisurely with the baggage and the slower travelers.

Victor Durnovo would never know rest now until he reached the spot where the simlacine should be. If the trees were there, growing, as he said, in solitary state and order, strangely suggestive of human handiwork, then Victor Durnovo was saved. If no such spot was found, madness and death could only follow.

To save his companion's reason Meredith more than once drugged his food, but when the land began to rise beneath their feet in slight billowlike inequalities—the deposit of the glacial age—Durnovo refused to stop for the preparation of food. Eating dry biscuits and stringy tinned meat as they went along, the four men—three blacks and one white—followed in the footsteps of their mad pilot.

"We're getting to the mountains, we're getting to the mountains! We shall be there tonight! Think of that, Meredith—tonight!" he kept repeating with a sickening monotony. And all the while he stumbled on. The perspiration ran down his face in one continuous stream; at times he paused to wipe it from his eyes with the back of his hands, and, as these were torn and bleeding, there were smears of blood across his cheeks.

The night fell. The moon rose, red and glorious, and the beasts of this untrodden forest paused in their search for food to watch with wondering, fearless eyes that strange, unknown animal—man.

It was Durnovo who, climbing wildly, first saw the break in the trees ahead. He gave a muffled cry of delight, and in a few minutes they were all rushing, like men possessed, up a bare slope of broken shale.

Durnovo reached the summit first. A faint pleasant odor was wafted into their faces. They stood on the edge of a vast tableland melting away in the yellow moonlight. Studded all over, like sheep in a meadow, were a number of little bushes and no other vegetation.

Victor Durnovo stooped over one of these. He buried his face among the leaves of it, and suddenly he toppled over.

"Yes," he cried as he fell; "it's simlacine!"

And he turned over, with a groan of satisfaction, and lay like a dead man.

Judges Not in Agreement.

The judges of the supreme court were divided on questions involved in the proceedings brought by the Pere Marquette Railroad company to condemn for its use certain properties owned by the United States Gypsum company, of Grand Rapids. The condemnation proceedings have been in the probate and circuit courts for some time. Judge Perkins lately ordered that the objections of the Gypsum company be overruled, and that the sheriff empanel a jury to meet at the court house in Grand Rapids May 6 to pass upon the question of the necessity and assess the damages. A writ of certiorari was granted by the supreme court for the review of the proceedings, the action to condemn being temporarily stayed. Now the court, standing four to three, has decided that certiorari is not the proper remedy in the case, and issued an order to show cause why a mandamus should not be issued requiring the circuit judge to set aside his order authorizing the condemnation proceedings, which are also ordered stayed. As indicating the proper steps to be taken in appealing from the decision of courts in condemnation proceedings, the decision of the supreme court is of considerable importance.

For Constitutional Convention.

The senate passed the committee substitute provided for the constitutional convention. It establishes a body of 60 members to be elected on a basis of five from each congressional district. Candidates are to be nominated on the first Tuesday in August, the election to take place the first Tuesday in September, the convention to convene on the third Tuesday in October. No limit is set on the life of the convention, but there is a provision to the effect that the salary of ten dollars per day shall not be paid after January 15, 1908. Representative Bland tried to have the membership increased to 100 but this was voted down.

Plan Addition to Capitol.

The senate committee on finance and appropriations reported the Tuttle bill for building a north wing extension to the state capitol at a cost of $406,000. It is claimed there are enough votes in the senate to pass the bill. The bill is a Lansing measure. Lansing people feel that if a big extension is put on the building the capitol will always be at Lansing. Hence the passage of the bill will be a great local victory for Senator Tuttle.

Plain Marks for Autos.

A most important change in the new automobile bill is that auto numbers are to be increased in size from three to six inches, and shall be placed high up in sight in both front and rear. This amendment was offered by Representative Newkirk, who said with the present position and size of numbers they are often hidden in the dust.

Smallpox Under Control.

Dr. F. W. Shumway, secretary of the state board of health, who returned from a tour of investigation in sections of Livingston and Genesee counties thickly infested by smallpox, found the epidemic under control.

Excise Bills for Several Towns.

The house has passed a number of local bills giving excise powers to councils and limiting the number of saloons. Bills of this kind were passed for Benton Harbor, St. Johns and Stanton.
