TODAY'S STATE NEWS

LUCK WAS WITH HIM

Did His Duty and Has the Pleasure of Knowing That He Hurt No One.

HE HAD TO DERAIL A TRAIN

It Was Risk the Freight Crew or a Load of Passengers—Boy Kills His Father—Items.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 4.—Edward Egan, operator of the train signals in the tower of the crossing of the Michigan Central and the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroads near this city, is being heartily congratulated by his friends and fellow railroad men upon retaining his presence of mind and averting a train wreck with serious loss of life when the situation seemed at the moment to promise fatalities which ever choice he made of two alternatives that were open to him.

Freight Was Running Wild.

A Michigan Central freight train that had gotten beyond the engineer's control was bearing down on the crossing, its whistle shrieking out appeals for a clear track. At the same moment a Grand Rapids and Indiana passenger train came along at full speed. Towerman Egan threw the derailler against the freight train. Nobody was hurt, but freight cars were piled up.

Hardly Knew What to Do.

"For a second I hardly knew what to do," he said, in speaking of the incident. "I knew that to leave the derailler thrown meant that the freight would be wrecked. My imagination pictured the bodies of the freight engineer and fireman buried beneath their train—killed by a turn of my hand. But if I gave the freight a clear track it would have run squarely into the Grand Rapids and Indiana passenger train, and then there might have been many killed. All these things flashed through my mind, and I tanta-lly knew that there was but one thing to do, and that was to let the freight go into the ditch. I stood and shuddered as the two trains came toward the crossing and it was with a sigh of relief that I saw the freight engine stay right side up. Four cars behind it were tumbled and broken into a pile, but fortunately nobody was hurt."

ANOTHER BOYISH PARRICIDE

Kills His Father Because the Latter Is Beating His Mother While Drunk.

Stephenson, Mich., June 4.—Aroused to fury because his father was dragging his mother around the house by the hair and beating her over the head, William Laycock, 16 years old, shot his father through the head, killing him instantly. The elder Laycock was drunk and in addition to beating his wife had attempted to stab his older son.

William, the younger son, was asleep when the trouble started and awoke thinking burglars were in the house. His mother's screams disclosed the true condition of affairs and he seized his rifle and went to her assistance. Although the boy has been arrested, it is said he will be released without prosecution.

Final Notice

There are several unpaid Water Bills due from Consumers which should have been paid before May 31st. The water will be shut off on June 10th on all who are still delinquent. If shut off a penalty of $100 must be paid before the water is turned on. Payments are to be made to Arlin B. Clarke at pumping station.

By Order of Common Council

British Soldiers' Heavy Helmet.
The British soldier wears the heaviest helmet in the world, for his headgear weighs no less than 18 ounces, while that of the Prussian infantryman is only a trifle over 14 ounces and that of the Italian just under 12 ounces. The forage caps of both France and Russia weigh less than eight ounces, while that of Japan is the lightest of all, as it turns the scale at a little over four ounces.

A girl with pretty arms will never admit that elbow sleeves are responsible for her bad cold.

Bales of Hay Are Gold Bricks.
Traverse City, Mich., June 4.—Every bale of hay in Grand Traverse is a veritable gold brick. The price jumped to $20 a ton two weeks ago, and since that time it has hovered between $20 and $23, and local feed stores are begging for it at that. The cold weather has held the pasturage down to a minimum and farmers have been forced to buy back hay that they sold for $12 a ton.

He Needs It All This Time.

Pontiac, Mich., June 4.—A reliable and respected farmer near South Lyon relates that following a recent heavy rain he went to the rear of his farm and at a place where the ground gradually rises he found a whole wharf of fish. There were hundreds of all sizes and the farmer found the row led to a pond which had been overflowed by the heavy downpour.

Makes 100 Men Idle.

Fenton, Mich., June 4.—The plant of the Egyptian Portland Cement company, of this place, employing more than 100 men, has been temporarily shut down owing to the sinking of their machine boat on Silver lake in thirty feet of water. A wrecking outfit and crew from Detroit was called to raise the boat.

Buzz Saw Split Him Open.

Gaylord, Mich., June 4.—Henry Robinson, aged 18, of Petoskey, was instantly killed while working in front of a buzz saw in a mill here. The cable broke, allowing the saw to swing forward, and it struck him just below the breast bone, tearing its way down to the knees, dismembering him.

Has a Streak of Diabolism.

Port Huron, Mich., June 4.—Herbert Hall, aged 16, has been arrested, charged with assault upon Francis Lamb, 13-year-old son of James Lamb, Hall, it is alleged, waylaid Lamb and took him into a barn on Ninth street. There he fastened chains to his hands and feet and abused him.

Sees His Victim's Funeral Pass.

Alpena, Mich., June 4.—Mrs. Charles Mallette, who was killed by her husband, has been buried. Her husband, in the county jail, saw the funeral procession pass on its way to church. He said he did not want to attend.

SCORES ON THE DIAMONDS

Chicago, June 4.—Following are the base ball scores:

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

his arm, and after being carried to his home was reported in a serious condition. He is 85 years old.

Kasson is ex-special reciprocity commissioner of this government, ex-member of congress, ex-member of the American Canadian joint high commission, has held many other high offices and is a member of numerous clubs.

MUCH ADO OVER $60

Thief Burns Property Worth $50,000 to Hide His Other Crime—Then He Confesses.

Newport News, Va., June 4.—Charged with arson and embezzling the funds of his employers, the United States Express company, George P. Decker, 21 years old, was arrested at Old Point Comfort by a detective. Decker confesses that he set fire to the federal wharf at Old Point Comfort yesterday after robbing the safe of the express company of $60.

The wharf house was destroyed, with all its contents, the loss being estimated at $50,000. The building contained the offices of several companies.

Done to Avert a Lynching.

Henderson, Ky., June 4.—James Troutman, a negro aged 12 who is alleged to have attempted to rape Bettie Willett, aged 12, a simple-minded girl at Morganfield, Ky., Saturday afternoon, has been brought here for safe-keeping and placed in jail. There is some excitement at Morganfield and threats have been made to lynch the negro.

Prof. Burr Is to Wed.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 4.—George Lincoln Burr, professor of medieval history in Cornell university, and historical advisor of the Venezuelan boundary commission under President Cleveland, has announced his engagement to Miss Mattie Alexander Martin, graduate student of Cornell.

Anti-Gambling Bill Invalid.

Nashville, Tenn., June 4.—A dispatch from Memphis says Judge Palmer, of the criminal court of Shelby county, holds in a test case that the anti-race-track gambling bill [as] passed by the recent legislature is unconstitutional because the caption contains more than one subject.

Our Boxers Are the Best.

London, June 4.—In a boxing carnival at the National Sporting club Sam Langford and Sam McVey, from the United States, easily got the best of their British opponents. Langford knocked out Jeff Thorn in the first round and McVey put away Ben Major in the third round.

Wellman's Balloon Goes North.

Tromso, Norway, June 4.—The Arctic steamer Fritjof has left here for Spitzbergen with the airship and all the other appurtenances excepting the Siberian sledge dogs of the Chicago Record-Herald expedition on board. The dogs have not arrived here yet.

Mexicans Spoiling for a Fight?

El Paso, Tex., June 4.—Acting Governor Sanchez, of Chihuahua, has telegraphed President Diaz offering troops from Chihuahua to protect the national honor against Guatemala. He says every man in the state is anxious for service.

Plaeds Guilty and Gets Five Years.

St. Louis, June 4.—On a plea of guilty, Charles Grotefeld, defaulting teller of the Washington National Bank of St. Louis, has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment by Judge Trieber in the United States district court.

Timepiece Paperweights.

Novel and useful are the glass paperweights with a clock inset in the top. They are octagonal, so can be made to stand, but the clock is more plainly seen when face up.

MEN TO TRY HAYWOOD

Twelve of Them at Last in the Jury Box at Boise, and Sworn.

ONLY TWO TALESMAN EXAMINED

One Qualifies and the Other Is Rejected by the Defense.

Most of the Jurymen Are Farmers or Ex-Farmers—Views of Counsel on the Panel—Defense Is Critical.

Boise, Idaho, June 4.—Twelve men to try William D. Haywood for his life on the charge that he murdered Governor Frank Steunenberg have been chosen and bound by oath to honestly deal justice between state and prisoner. Haywood has heard the indictment charging him with the crime, and today, after the state has recited its case and made promise of proof, the first chapter of the tale of the Caldwell crime will be retold. The wearisome work of jury selection ended quickly and unexpectedly. Alfred Eoff, the first talesman examined, was declared qualified after strong and repeated protests from the defense.

Defense Gets Rid of Eoff.

Eoff said he had an opinion; that he would carry his opinion into the trial; that he could not presume the defendant innocent, and that he would not like to be tried himself by a man who had any opinion, but despite these conditions of his mind he thought that if sworn as a juror he could fairly try the case according to the law and evidence. Four challenges for cause against him failed, but the minute he was passed the defense expended its tenth and last peremptory challenge to get rid of him.

Next Talesman Proves the Last.

Q. V. Sebern, the next talesman called, proved the last one needed. When a resident of Wyoming Sebern served as a member of the Tom Horn jury and the defense went into the question quite thoroughly, but in the end the talesman qualified in a manner satisfactory to both sides. The defense had contemplated making a request for permission to re-examine certain jurors, but this plan was abandoned, and when Judge Wood ordered the jury sworn no objection came from either side.

Jury Is Duly Sworn.

The court room came to silence as the twelve rose in their places and facing the clerk's desk raised their right hands in solemn asseveration of their pledge to do exact justice by the accused. It was an impressive scene and there came another two hours later when, after the mid-day recess, Haywood listened to the reading of the indictment against himself, Moyer, Pettibone and Simpkins.

COMPOSITION OF THE JURY

What Is Thought of It by Counsel on Each Side.

The jury is composed of Thom as B. Gess, real estate; Finley McBean, rancher; Samuel D. Gillman, farmer; Daniel Clark, farmer; George Powell, rancher; O. V. Sebern, farmer; H. F. Messecar, farmer; Lee Scrivener, farmer; J. A. Robertson, farmer; Levi Smith, carpenter, A. P. Burns, retired rancher, and Samuel F. Russell, farmer.

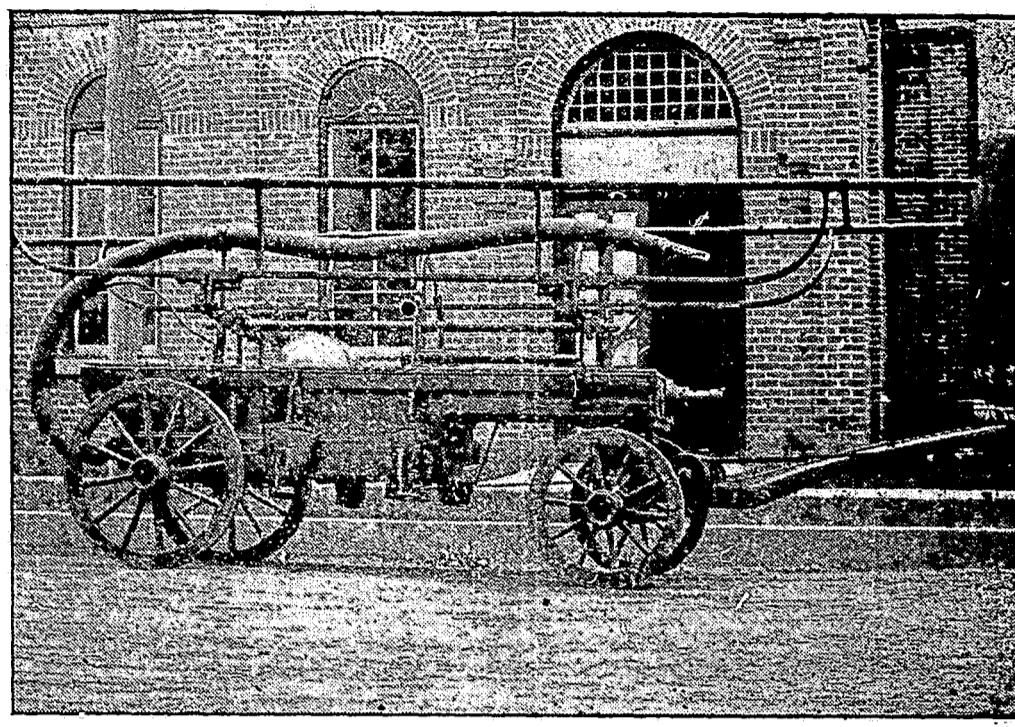

In a joint interview with Darrow and Richardson after the empanelling of the jury, the following statement was made by them: "The Haywood jury is made up of eight Republicans, three Democrats and one Prohibitionist.

"There is no man on the jury who works for wages or who has ever belonged to a labor organization excepting Burns, who was a member of the carpenters' union fourteen years ago, or who has ever been a student of trades unionism or the labor question.

"In the 200 or odd jurors drawn not more than three trades unionists were placed in the panel, and these were excused for conscientious objections to capital punishment and fixed opinions. The jurors drawn have been mainly farmers, interspersed with a large number of bankers and some business men. The jurors appear to be men of honest purposes, determined to give the defendant a fair trial, but it is uniformly made up of a class to which none of the defendants ever belonged, and who have no natural kinship to labor organizations.

"In addition to this, they are drawn from a small county almost wholly agricultural, and each member for a year and a half has read little about the case except what has been contained in the Boise daily papers, and this has uniformly been hostile to the defendants. Nearly all of them admitted that they had formed opinions and impressions from what they read and necessity these must have been against the defendant."

To Have Place of Honor at South Bend Celebration

The above illustrates Buchanan's old Hand Fire Engine, used for fighting fires in the early days of the village, and which is much in demand at many celebrated exhibitions. At the last meeting of the Council permission was given to use the engine in the industrial parade at South Bend, where the city's firemen will hold a big celebration on July 4th. The request was made by the chief of the South Bend fire department, who also desires any old fire volunteer having a former connection with the engine to come to South Bend to participate in the great celebration. This pumping engine is the oldest of its kind in southwestern Michigan and will be a special feature in the parade.

Commenting on the jury, James H. Hawley, leading counsel for the state, said: "We are thoroughly satisfied with the jury. We have twelve fair-minded men who will do even justice between the state and the defendant."

Haywood Again Taken Ill.

Boise, Idaho, June 4.—Late last night W. D. Haywood was again taken sick. He asked the sheriff to send for a doctor, and the county physician was at once summoned. Dr. Lewis prepared a prescription which Haywood took and afterwards said that he felt better.

Attempt to Bring in Politics Is Frowned Down—Bryan Given an Ovation by the Multitude.

Richmond, Va., June 4.—Under a perfect sky, with bands playing "Dixie" and "Maryland," the remnants of the armies of the gray passed through the streets of Richmond, and out on splendid Monument avenue unveiled an enduring memorial to Jefferson Davis, the first and only president of the Confederate States of America. The event came as the climax of the reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, and every member of the body of old men who was able to walk at all took part. Second only to the tribute given by the speakers to the memory of Dixie land's great chieftain were those offered on every hand to the women of the south whose gift the monument is.

Great Ovation to Bryan.

The speeches counselled the teaching of loyalty to the cause for which the southern states struggled, but there was nothing in the teachings but what excited the sympathy and approval of visitors from the other section. That the great multitude had gathered for one purpose alone was evidenced by the attitude of the people toward William J. Bryan, who was the guest of the reunion. He was given a remarkable ovation as he drove through the streets in the line

He bade her goodby and went his way, wondering vaguely what had happened to them both. The conversation had taken a different turn from what he had expected and intended. But somehow it had got beyond his control. He had looked forward to a very different ending to the interview. And now he found himself returning somewhat disconsolately to the wretched hotel in Loango—dismissed—sent back. The next day he actually left the little west African coast town, turning his face northward with bad grace. Even at that distance he feared Jack Meredith's half veiled sarcasm. Durnovo had only been allowed to come down to the coast under a promise, gracefully veiled, but distinct enough, that he should only remain twenty hours in Loango.

Jocelyn avoided seeing him again. Four days later she was riding through the native town of Loango, accompanied by a lady friend, when she met Victor Durnovo. The sight of him gave her a distinct shock. She knew that he had left Loango three days before with all his men. There was no doubt about that. Moreover, his air was distinctly furtive—almost scared. It was evident that the chance meeting was undesired by him as it was surprising to her.

"I thought you had left," she said shortly, pulling up her horse with undeniable decision.

"Yes, but I have come back for—for more men."

She knew he was lying, and he felt that she knew.

"Indeed," she said. "You are not a good starter."

She turned her horse's head, nodded to her friend, bowed coldly to Durnovo and trotted toward home. In the forest she applied the spur, and beneath the whispering trees, over the silent sand, the girl galloped home as fast as her horse could lay legs to ground.

CHAPTER XV.

On nearing the bungalow Jocelyn turned aside into the forest where a little colony of huts nestled in a hollow of the sand dunes.

"Nala," she cried, "the paddlemaker. Ask him to come to me."

In a few moments a man emerged from a shed of banana leaves. He was a scraggly man, very lightly clad, and a violent squint handicapped him seriously in the matter of first impressions.

"I came to you," said Jocelyn, "because I know that you are an intelligent man and a great traveler."

"Where do you wish me to go?"

"To Msala, on the Ogowe river. When can you leave?"

"Now."

"You can hire a dhow," she said, "and on the river you may have as many rowers as you like. You must go very quickly to Msala. There you must ask about the Englishman's expedition. Some of the men are at Msala now. They were going up country to join the other Englishmen far away—near the mountains. They have stopped at Msala. Find out why they have not gone on, and come back very quickly to tell me."

She gave him money and rode on home. Before she reached the bungalow the paddlemaker passed her at a trot, going toward the sea. She waited for three days, and then Victor Durnovo came again. Maurice was still away. There was an awful sense of impending danger in the very air, in the loneliness of her position. Yet she was not afraid of Durnovo. She had left that fear behind. She went to the drawing room to see him full of resolution.

"I could not go away," he said after relinquishing her hand, "without coming to see you."

Jocelyn said nothing. The scared look which she had last seen in his face was no longer there, but the eyes were full of life.

"Jocelyn," the man went on, "I suppose you know that I love you. Will you marry me?" he asked.

"No!"

"Why?"

"Because I not only do not care for you, but I despise and distrust you."

"Then," he said, "I will be candid with you. I intend you to marry me. I have intended it for a long time. I am not going down on my knees to ask you to do it. That is not my way. But if you drive me to it I will make your brother Maurice go down on his knees and beg you to marry me."

"I don't think that you will do that," answered the girl steadily. "Whatever your power over Maurice may be, it is not strong enough for that. You overrate it."

"Suppose," he said in a low, hissing voice, "that I possess knowledge that I have only to mention to one or two people to make this place too hot for Maurice Gordon. If he escaped the fury of the natives it would be difficult to know where he could go. England would be too hot for him. They wouldn't have him there. I could see to that. He would be a ruined man, an outcast, execrated by all the civilized world."

"What is your knowledge?" asked Jocelyn in a coldly measured voice.

"If you will have it, your brother, Maurice Gordon, is a slave trader".

She drew back as she might have done from some unclean animal. She knew that he was not telling the truth. There might be extenuating circumstances. The real truth might have quite a different sound, spoken in different words, but there was enough of the truth in it as Victor Durnovo placed it before her to condemn Maurice before the world.

"Now will you marry me?" he sneered.

"Supposing," said Jocelyn, "for one moment that there was a grain of truth in your fabrication, who would believe you? Who on this coast would take your word against the word of an English gentleman? Even if the whole story were true, which it is not, could you prove it? You are a liar as well as a coward and traitor! Do you think that the very servants in the stable would believe you? Do you think that the incident of the smallpox at Msala is forgotten? Do you think that all Loango, even to the boatmen on the beach, ignores the fact that you are here in Loango now because you are afraid to go through a savage country to the simian plateau, as you are pledged to do? You were afraid of the smallpox once. There is something else that you are afraid of now. I do not know what it is, but I will find out. Coward! Go! Leave the house at once, before I call in the stable boys to turn you out, and never dare to speak to me again!"

He heard her close the window after him as he walked away beneath the trees.

Jocelyn went out by the open window, and presently Nala came grinning toward her. He was evidently very much pleased with himself—he held himself erect and squinted more violently than usual.

"I have been to Msala," he said, with considerable dignity of manner.

Nala squatted on the chumau floor and proceeded to unfold a leaf. The operation took some time. Within the outer covering there was a second envelope of paper, likewise secured by a string. Finally the man produced a small note, which showed signs of having been read more than once.

This he handed to Jocelyn with an absured air of importance. She opened the paper and read:

To Marie, at Msala—Send at once to Mr. Durnovo, informing him that the tribes have risen and are rapidly surrounding the plateau. He must return here at once with as large an armed force as he can raise, but the most important consideration is time. He must not wait for men from elsewhere, but must pick up as many as he can in Loango and go the way up to Msala. I reckon that we can hold out for three months without outside assistance, but after that period we shall be forced to surrender or try to cut our way through without the simian plateau. With a larger force we could beat back the tribes and establish our hold on the plateau by force of arms. This must be forwarded to Mr. Durnovo at once, wherever he is. The letter is in duplicate, sent by two good messengers, who go by different routes.

He Fired the Stick

"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklin's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett, of North Mills, N. A. A. WORTHINGTON, P. M.

Rev. W. F. Putnam, of Niles, gave a very fine address to mixed audience last Sunday afternoon. He gave a very graphic and vivid picture of the deadly effects of intemperance. He illustrated his lecture by a unique chart. He was greeted by a good sized audience.

All water consumers who have neglected to pay their water rates after being duly notified by the city water collector will have their water shut off June 10th. The Council has issued a final notice which appears on front page and delinquent payers are urged to comply with the notice.

F. Lyddick was the winner of the first Y. M. C. A. Marathon race held at South Bend last week. He covered the six-mile course in 42 minutes and five seconds with Clarence Cripe second. The many friends of Lyddick will be pleased to know of his success and predict many more laurels for him.

Here's a tip for Buchanan carpenters and builders out of a job: The Era deplores the fact that Berrien Springs has no houses to accommodate the growth of the village. Coloma finds herself faced with a similar situation. Even the Courier man finds it necessary to take up a "suburban residence" in Watervliet, to one-half mile away. Buchanan will soon face this house famine?

In a recent issue of the RECORD appeared an item to the effect that "Fred Miller" of this place was arrested at South Bend for drunkenness. The only Fred Miller known here is a farmer, son of Wm. Miller, and respected and who never indulges in intoxicating drinks. Therefore, the item did not refer to him, but to an hobo who gave the fictitious name which unfortunately did an injustice to our real Fred. The RECORD makes this explanation to save the innocent man from being unjustly treated.

Next Friday evening Elder E. F. Collier will deliver another of his free lectures at the Larger Hope church. His subject will be the Biblical prophecies concerning Turkey, its past, present and fatal future. He will show that the dismemberment of the Ottoman Empire, (the loss of Egypt), took place on the very day set in the prophecies 1800 years previous. This lecture will be of double interest to all those who are conversant with the international conditions which render it possible for "the sick man of Europe" to continually defy all the great nations of the earth, and constantly borrowed ample funds with no prospect of ever being able or willing to pay even the interest (let alone the principal), to trample on the civil and religious rights of all foreigners located within his territory, and yet to enjoy absolutely immunity from retribution and justice.

The crowning interest of this prophecy is that the political fall of Turkey is expressly and unequivocally designated by the scriptures to take place immediately prior to Christ's second advent. On Sunday evening, June 9, he will lecture in the same church on "The fall of Spiritual Babylon." All are invited to attend admission free.

Remarkable Rescue

That truth is stranger than fiction has once more been demonstrated in the little town of Fedora, Tenn., the residence of C. V. Pepper. He writes: "I was in bed, entirely disabled with hemorrhages of the lungs and throat. Doctors failed to help me, and all hope had fled when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. Then instant relief came. The coughing soon ceased; the bleeding diminished rapidly, and in three weeks I was able to go to work."

Talk up Your Town.

Wherever you go and whomsoever you meet, say a good word for the town in which you make your home. Be a boomer to that extent at least.

There are larger cities in the United States than Buchanan but none so important to you if you are a citizen of Buchanan.

To put it in more positive form, Buchanan is the most important city in the state and nation to all who dwell within its boundaries.

This same truth applies to every town on earth. If you reside in any other town or village that is the place above all others that has a claim to both your loyalty and pride.

When a man gets ashamed of the town in which he lives it is time for him to move. No matter how big the city nor how small the village, it will have some defects—just as there is no human being who is perfect—but it will have its full share of good points in which a just pride may be reposed.

Some people are never satisfied with the town in which they live. But that proves nothing—some people are never satisfied with themselves.

They knock because they enjoy "knocking," and because they can do it easier than they "boost".

Some people do not seem able to "boost" anything—not even themselves.

These remarks are meant for general application. Incidentally, they apply to this town. The "best citizens" of Buchanan are not limited to those who have the highest opinions of themselves. Counted at their real worth, the BEST citizens of Buchanan are those who, realizing that a town is what we make it just as home is loyalty or civic pride, who talk and plan to build up instead of to tear down, who always have a good word to say for Buchanan, and say it everywhere they go.

OLD SETTLERS PICNIC

Big Annual Event to be Held at Berrien Springs June 12.

Berrien Springs, Mich., June 3—The 33rd annual Old Settlers' picnic will be held in this place Wednesday, June 12. The preparations indicate that with good weather it will be the greatest gathering of old settlers ever held in this county.

The orators of the day, both Michigan men, will be Rev. H. L. Potter, Waggoner, and Willard J. Banyon, of Benton Harbor.

Music during the day and at the big open air concert in the evening will be provided by the Berrien Springs-Niles band. Special rates have been secured on the Pere Marquette railroad and the interurban cars running between St. Joseph, Mich., and South Bend will pass the picnic grounds every half hour so that facilities for attending the big picnic will be ample.

HEN A CLEVER PICKPOCKET.

Short of Leg and Long of Neck It Won Many a Penny.

A hen with a neck like a turkey and one leg an inch shorter than the other attracted attention here a few days ago and caused as much merriment as a one-ring circus, says the New York World man at McKeever, N. Y.

The fowl, which was said to be two years old, was the property of an organ grinder, who carried it on top of his organ instead of a monkey. He had taught it to do several tricks, and it is safe to say that it collected more pennies than the average simian.

When the organ grinder struck the village the hen was perched on top of one shoulder, emitting sounds between a crow and a squeal. This naturally attracted attention, and soon a small crowd was assembled. As soon as enough had arrived the hen dropped to the ground and began to navigate in a series of circles toward possible donors of coin.

Owing to the fact that one leg was shorter than the other it could not proceed in a straight line, and its efforts to pick up pennies tossed on the ground were extremely ludicrous.

Once it had a coin in its beak the hen would flutter and squawk and circle back to the grinder and place the treasure in his breeches pocket. Then it would navigate back to the crowd and look for more. The long neck of the fowl was of advantage, for, by standing on the toes of its long leg, it could search vest pockets for pennies. In this way several were added to the collection. The hen, in fact, was as good a pickpocket as was ever found operating at the county

Legislative Happenings at Lansing

Primary Bill in Senate.

The senate committee on elections reported the Dickinson primary bill and it was speedily taken up, with Senator O. B. Fuller in the chair. The first vote on the bill was a vote in committee, when the bill was reported. Senators Fife, Bland, Ely and Seeley voted to report. Senator Kane opposed it. The bill as reported eliminates the newspaper advertising clause and the clause restricting state employees from acting in campaigns. The opposition won in the first clash in the senate by refusing to concur in the committee's two amendments. Russell, of Kent, voted with the opposition, making the vote 17 to 15. The executive committee of the Michigan State Grange met and decided to recommend to the people and the legislature the Dickinson bill as passed by the house, without the 40 per cent restriction.

State to Make Analyses.

Secretary Shumway, of the state board of health, is already making preparations for establishing a state bacteriological laboratory, fully expecting that the bill passed by both houses of the legislature will be signed by the governor and give him authority to make the outlay. It is proposed to furnish free analyses to public officials of the state, and that the laboratory department will be of great benefit to the health department in ascertaining sources of contagion. Five thousand dollars is to be appropriated for the first year and $3,500 for each subsequent year for the maintenance of the laboratory.

No Ban on Cigarettes.

By a vote of 43 to 31 the house killed off the anti-cigarette bill. Its passage was urged by Representative Dickinson in the committee of the whole and opposed by Representative L'Esperance, and a motion to strike out all after the enacting clause carried 45 to 31. Later the house concurred. There is already a law on the statute books prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors under 17 years of age, but there are some who believe that more stringent measures should be formulated and their views are taken advantage of every session to put the manufacturers on the ten-throats.

Glanders Horse Is Killed.

The state live stock sanitary commission reports that it has caused the destruction of a horse belonging to J. B. Page, 605 scribe street, Grand Rapids, the animal being afflicted with glanders, a disease extremely dangerous to man and beast. Very few cases of glanders are reported in Michigan. When the disease is discovered steps are promptly taken by the state live stock commission to wipe it out. The animal is condemned and no matter

Grand Opera House.

No entertainment in Chicago seems to be enjoying greater or more deserved patronage than Frank Daniels' amusing comic opera, "The Tattooed Man," which is now in its third week at the Grand Opera House. It is a musical diversion of a novel type, exceptionally well constructed, well staged and well produced. The music by Victor Herbert is up to the best standard of Herbert compositions, and the libretto by Harry B. Smith and A. N. C. Fowler is better than the usual run of modern musical pieces and affords Mr. Daniels exceptional opportunity for the peculiar humorous traits which have long ago made him popular with theater goers.
