

A LETTER FROM NEW MEXICO

By Miss M. L. Mills to Mrs. J. C. Beach Giving an Account of a

THRILLING AND DARING RIDE

Through a Dangerous Canyon and Up on Perilous Mountains, Covering Many Miles

Miss Mills is acting as teacher on Maybury's ranch near Aragon. She is 80 miles from the railroad, 15 miles from the postoffice and 5 miles to the nearest neighbors. The house is 7,000 feet above sea level at the foot of the Datil mountains. This letter is an account of a ride to the post office with Miss Edith Maybury, a girl of fifteen. The younger children are Grover, Ellen and Emma. Each of these children owns a horse and a ride of forty to sixty miles a day and a round-up of the cattle is an ordinary experience, but to an Eastern woman not accustomed to the saddle it is an exciting experience. Most of the RECORD readers would doubtless prefer an auto trip on Michigan roads.

Aragon, New Mexico,
June 9, 1907.

I will tell you that I rode about 40 miles yesterday and a good part of the way was climbing mountains where you would hardly dare to crawl on hands and knees let alone to walk upright. Well it was quite an experience. I had no idea what a treat was in store for me. I asked if we would go through a canyon and Ellen said "Yes," but she had no idea of the canyon we traversed. The Continental Divide is but six miles distant. The other side of that the canyons run parallel, and from N. E. to S. W. toward the Gila river which empties into the Gulf of California. We went too far to the left and took the wrong trail. I do not know whether horses had ever been over or not, but I saw wool on trees and bushes.

We had two of the best saddle horses on the ranch, and really I never supposed horses could and would climb as they did. Sometimes my heart was almost in my mouth to see Edith's horse climb, but mine was just as good and never hesitated, save once or twice he did not want to jump over trees and looked for a place to go around. I let him have his way after that, he jumped. Sometimes we would climb at an angle of 55 or 60 degrees, I think, while at other times we had to hold on to the pommel of the saddle to keep from falling off onto our heads. Oh! it was wonderful, wonderful! I, rather we, had no idea what it was like before we went. Ellen said she had been through last summer and that it was much nearer than by the road. Edith had never been through, but was sure she could find the trail. She was quite an expert at following a trail.

Often there was nothing to be seen for some rods, and once we crossed over a divide and there were several trails, but nothing to indicate which one to take. Once I noticed she stopped her horse to notice his shadow, but said nothing. We left here about 7:30 p. m. She said we would go in about three hours. It was 2:10 p. m. when we got there and we rode every minute, but once I stopped to find my knife I lost. Sometimes the way was so narrow I would have to stand in one stirrup and, even then, I got several bruises on both shins. Often we would have to lie low on one side as we went through the undergrowth, but the horses were used to that as well as the climbing. Sometimes I could not see how we were to go through, it reminded me of pictures that I have seen of burrows climbing the Rockies. These were the Rockies all right, but we had trained horses instead of burrows. We went to our left about five miles too far, so we had to return that distance, when we got to Aragon, making 25 miles for us instead of 15 as we had planned, but we were not sorry we made the mistake. I always want a new way to return when I am out in a new country, and though I was very tired, yet we were both glad of the mistake.

In this canyon there was but a narrow path or bed between the sides, often not more than a few feet, two or three, and the sides and both sides at times, and one side all the time, would be almost perpendicular. Often as we would look up those dizzy heights we would see beautiful flowers away up near the top on a ledge of rock jutting out somewhat as a window ledge, maybe not more room than just enough for the plant, it too looking as though it were placed in a crack. Sometimes these were isolated instances, while at others there would be a very bower of bloom. I noticed so many of our cultivated plants, verbenas, sweet peas, though these last were yellow, moss rose, mountain daisy, tulips, etc., besides many others; our wild flowers were there too. There is a plant in its glory just now that is called the Loco blossom. The children tell me that it makes the horses foolish if they eat it. Loco means foolish.

The return was through a canyon and along a trail, but it was very plain and very little climbing, though at times the scenery was very rugged, and we had to pick our way as best we could over rocks that looked as though there had just been an earthquake, which broke up whole mountains at a time. Once or twice my horse found the trail for us when we were returning. He had been over the trail before. When going we came out into the Tularose valley. Well, well, I cannot describe it, but it was beautiful in the extreme.

The post office at Aragon is in a store kept by a Mexican, but one of the better class. He furnished us with crackers, sardines, and a can of Mascot grapes—I never tasted anything better. I was thirsty and hungry. The grapes tasted a little as green currants do. We rested three quarters of an hour and then started out. There was quite a number of houses in close proximity to the post office and they appeared to be full and running over with children. We arrived home from our journey at 7:30 p. m.

NILES INFESTED WITH HOBOES

Gang of Yeggmen and Tramps Give Local Officers Trouble

Niles, June 24—Gangs of yeggmen, professional thieves and tramps have invaded Niles and vicinity and are giving the local officers considerable trouble. About the railroad yards they are gathered in large numbers, making empty box cars and other places of seclusion their living quarters.

What might have been a big hold up was effectively prevented recently when the officers charged and scattered a large gang of "non-descripts."

Two of the crowd were caught, men who are said to be professional thieves. Cars laden with valuable merchandise were surrounded and had not the officers acted promptly the Michigan Central railroad would have been a heavy loser.

The two vagrants caught gave their names as Harry Wilson and George Manning, leaders, it is believed, of an organized gang of professional robbers. The officers regard their capture as an important one.

Deputy Sheriff Redican took Wilson and Manning to the county jail, where each will serve a 30-day jail sentence for vagrancy.

DEFENSE IS OUTLINED

Darrow Promises to Show Orchard as One Who Invents Crimes to Boast Of.

DENIALS HE AGREES TO PROVE

They Include Every Material Charge Made Against His Clients.

Maintains as a Fair Inference That the Mine Owners and Pinkertons Did the Devilry in the Mining Region.

Boise, Ida., June 25.—In an address that occupied two sessions of the district court Clarence Darrow, of Chicago, outlined to the jury the detailed plan of the defense of William D. Haywood to the charge that he murdered ex-Governor Steunenberg. In broad description it is to be a denial of every material count in the testimony of Orchard, with a showing that Orchard killed Steunenberg because of a private grudge borne by the loss of a rich share in the great Hercules mine, and explanations of the independent circumstances that tend to connect three co-defendants with Orchard's life and operations.

Puts in Some Denials.

Darrow denied the existence of the great conspiracy to murder alleged by the state with Orchard's testimony as a basis; denied that the Federation was anything but an earnest fighting labor organization; denied the intimacy with the three co-defendants that Orchard laid claim to; denied that Orchard had even committed many of the crimes he had boasted of, and promised to prove his denials with many witnesses of credible character not connected by any tie with the Federation or its leaders.

Other Side Was the Plotter.

Darrow charged that agents of the Mine Owners' association, of Colorado, and the Pinkerton detectives had joined hands in a conspiracy to discredit and destroy the Western Federation of Miners. Agents of the mine owners had, he asserted, committed many minor crimes to discredit the Federation, and promised that the defense would show that it was a reasonable inference that they had engineered the Independence depot outrage as an "attempt" that had miscarried into a tragedy.

Treated Like "Any Other Dog."

Of the personal relations between Orchard and Pettibone Darrow declared that any one could make friends with Pettibone, and that Pettibone had fed Orchard as he would "any other dog." The money that Pettibone sent to Orchard at San Francisco was sent in a manner and under assumed names that Orchard had directed and suggested in a telegram he sent to Pettibone. Use of assumed names, counsel declared, was a common practice among the union miners of Colorado, made a stern necessity by the black-listing of union miners whom he declared had been abused, hounded, denied justice and driven from the state. Darrow's address took up the whole time of the two sessions of the court, but was concluded at adjournment for the day.

Child Was Buried Alive.

Westchester, Pa., June 25.—Irwin Lewis, stepfather of Mary Newlin, aged 5 years, whose body was found buried in a pit in the barn yard at her home near Avondale on Friday, has been committed to prison. The condition of the body when found and the testimony of the coroner's physician leave little room for doubt that the child was buried alive.

THOMAS BROADHURST IS DEAD

Mr. Thomas Broadhurst died at the home of his daughter, Irene Hagol at Elmhurst, Cal., on Thursday morning, June 18th, of heart failure.

The funeral services were under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Elmhurst, and were held on Saturday the 15th, at Mountain View chapel, Oakland, where there remains were cremated according to the wishes and requests of the deceased.

Mr. Thomas Broadhurst came with his parents from Wheeling, W. Virginia, then a part of Ohio, at the age of six years and settled in the bend of the river.

He was married in 1849 by Squire Reese to Miss Elizabeth Kirchner. They had a family of ten children all of whom survive their parents except the youngest son, who died two years previous. Mrs. Broadhurst passed away in January 1899, while on a visit to her oldest daughter, then residing in Washington.

Mr. Broadhurst became a member of the I. O. O. F. lodge at Buchanan in 1860 and has always been a brother of the order. Many of the old settlers of Buchanan will remember the deceased and his family, and will mourn the passing away of another old settler. He was 84 years of age.

Mead—Near

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday afternoon, June 19, at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mead, 256 Dearborn avenue, Chicago, when their only daughter Fannie Mae, was united in marriage to Mr. Floyd A. Near, of Ottawa, Ill.

As they descended the stairs, Miss Lucy Popeland rendered the wedding march. The bride was attired in a dainty dress of white and carried bridal roses, the groom wearing the conventional black.

The house was prettily decorated with roses. Very dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. Near is manager of the local Western Union Telegraph office at Ottawa, and is one of Ottawa's most popular and promising young men.

Miss Mead was formally one of Buchanan's charming young ladies and a member of the B. O. B.

Many useful and beautiful presents were received. They will soon be at home in their furnished flat, where they will receive the congratulations of their many friends in which the RECORD extends its share.

All The Sporting News

The steady reliability with which The Chicago Record-Herald presents the sporting news of the whole country each day has made it an authority in this field. It has a large staff of editors and reporters to handle the telegraphic matter and gather the local news in this important department alone. In the Sunday Record-Herald this department has a separate supplement of four full pages—a newspaper in itself—in which all the latest sporting news is presented with numerous illustrations. All that is of interest in baseball, football, racing, athletics, automobilism, golf, tennis, pugilism, aquatics and other sports can always be found here, along with many special articles by experts of national reputation. The Record-Herald is favorite among lovers of sport because its sporting columns are written by "men who know."

Miscreants' Prison Too Close to New Orleans—Trial of an Ex-Judge in Virginia—Poor Shooting at Pittsburgh.

New Orleans, June 25.—The state militia was notified by Governor Blanchard to hold itself in instant readiness to protect the Italians arrested in the Lamana kidnaping case. This order was issued because the prisoners will probably be transferred in a few days from the New Orleans parish prison, where they are considered safe, to St. Charles' parish, where the boy was killed and where the trials must be held. This parish is an entirely rural community with small police protection, and within such a short distance of New Orleans that mobs from this city could reach there in two hours.

Temper of the Crowd Indicated.

Although in the city the excitement has entirely subsided, yet the temper of the crowds was shown when about 100 men formed and made threats at the United States customs house against an Italian whose name closely resembled that of one of the murder suspects, and who was being quizzed by a police officer. Up to last night fifteen prisoners had been placed in the Orleans parish prison, one of them a woman. The state will attempt to charge conspiracy in the murder against about half of those under arrest, and the murder itself against one of them. During the day two prisoners whose safety was feared for in a neighboring parish jail were brought to New Orleans.

Still Searching for Criminals.

The Italian quarter of New Orleans has again sunk back into its usual lethargy. It was at first feared that there would be demonstrations of a more or less disorderly character, and every precaution was taken to protect the dozen or more prisoners held in the city. A search for other Italians who are implicated in the confession of Ignazio Campiciano is being made by the police, and it is probable that more arrests will follow during the next twenty-four hours.

EX-JUDGE ON TRIAL

Defense Is the Unwritten Law; His Daughter the Alleged Victim.

Houston, Va., June 25.—Ex-Judge W. G. Loving, of Nelson county, is on trial here for the murder of Theo. Estes, son of Sheriff M. K. Estes, of Nelson county. The trial began in the circuit court, Judge William R. Barksdale presiding. A jury was speedily secured and court took a recess until 2 p. m. Taking of testimony began on the reconvening of court at 2 o'clock. The twelve men selected as jurors consist of eleven farmers and one merchant.

During the reading of the indictment the prisoner raised his handkerchief once to remove a few tears. His daughter Elizabeth wept during almost the entire time of the reading. When she left the court room at noon her face was flushed. A few minutes prior to this she had been smiling like a child at amusing incidents in the court room. This daughter is the one for whose honor the judge committed homicide. She had gone driving with young Estes, who it is alleged, got her to drink whisky and then outraged her.

The ex-judge, on hearing of this, got his shotgun and killed the young man without giving him a chance to say a word in his own defense or to defend himself. The ex-judge does not deny the killing—he glories in it rather.

The testimony for the state is summarized in what a negro witness said—Fayette Foster—that he and another negro, on April 22, were assisting Theodore Estes in unloading a car of fertilizer at Oak Ridge. Judge Loving came up to the car, told him to "stand aside" and as soon as he saw Estes leveled his gun at him and said: "So you were the young gentleman who went buggy riding with the ladies last night, and were drugging them?" Estes threw up his hands, the witness declared, and said "No, no," but Judge Loving fired at him twice.

T. M. B. Perkins, a magistrate of Nelson county who held the coroner's inquest and conducted the preliminary hearing, testified that Judge Loving voluntarily made a statement. According to the witness the statement was as follows: "One near and dear to me went out buggy driving last night with Theodore Estes, and was brought home late unconscious and drugged. I sent for her and when I learned the story from her own lips I deliberately sought his life. My blood boiled, and every fiber in my body called for vengeance. No power except God Almighty could have prevented me from doing what I did."

The state practically closed with the foregoing and the defense immediately put Judge Loving on the stand. He spoke of his marriage, the birth of his eldest child Elizabeth, and his devotion and affection for her. The witness spoke quietly and calmly. Judge Loving told of his daughter leaving home on April 21st to visit the home of County Clerk E. L. Kidd at Livingston. Judge Loving was in the act of telling about a conversation with Harry Snead, who first brought to him the information of the alleged drugging incident, when the attorneys for the prosecution objected to his answering this question, and after discussion the court adjourned for the day.

PROMINENT MEN BAGGED

Grand Jury Gets Them on Charges of Conspiracy in Coal and Timber Frauds.

Denver, June 25.—Ten prominent citizens of Colorado have been arrested in connection with the indictments made by the special grand jury. The charges against them is conspiracy to defraud the government under the coal and timber laws. Those who were placed under arrest are:

John M. McMillan, conspiracy in regard to coal in Routt county, Colo.; Robert Forrester, chief geologist of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, conspiracy in connection with coal lands in LaPlata county; Otis B. Spencer, ex-clerk of the district court, conspiracy in connection with the Calumet Fuel company; F. W. Kettel, a coal operator in Routt county, Colo.; John A. Porter, ex-president of the Porter Fuel company, conspiracy in coal lands in LaPlata county, Colo.; Edgar M. Biggs, president, and John J. McGinnity and Charles D. McPhee, directors, of the New Mexican Lumber company, fraud in timber lands in LaPlata and Archuleta counties; Alexander Sulemberger, president of the Pagosa Lumber company, and Charles H. Freeman, of Pagosa, fraud in timber lands in rebuleta county, Colo.

All were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hinesdale and held in $5,000 bonds, with the exception of McMillan, whose bond was placed at $2,500. The bonds were supplied in each case.

Is a Mighty Poor Shot.

Pittsburg, June 25.—Thomas L. Harper, a prominent politician, has been arrested charged with assault upon Levi De Wolf, a well-known broker, in the latter's office. Harper was held for a hearing. According to the broker's employes Harper entered the office, and after a few words with De Wolf discharged a revolver four times. The broker was unharmed. Harper was overpowered by others in the place and turned over to the police. When searched at the police station two revolvers, one having four empty chambers, were taken from him. The men, De Wolf said, had been unfriendly for sometime.

MADE A CURIOUS WILL

So Framed That a Superannuated Horse Stands in the Way of the Legatees.

Chicago, June 25.—A superannuated horse named "King" is the only obstacle in the way of payment of bequests amounting to $200,000 to charitable institutions made by George C. Watts, a building contractor who died over a year ago, according to a report made by the executor of the estate to Probate Judge Cutting.

In his will Watts provided an annuity of $300 for the care of the horse as long as it was able to work, and of $150 thereafter until its death. "The provision was made for a dog, 'Billy.' The dog died last spring. By the terms of the will the property cannot be divided until after the death of the horse.

To Relieve the Thirsty.

Superior, Wis., June 25.—Chicago's gambling steamer, the City of Traverse, may be brought to the head of the lakes for the purpose of relieving the drought on Sundays, both Duluth and Superior now being dry. Saloon men have been figuring on a floating saloon to be anchored out in the lake with excursion boats running to it and negotiations are now on with the owners of the City of Traverse for that purpose.

The RECORD, issued twice-a-week, reaches the greatest number of people in Buchanan and the rural districts than any other newspaper. This is a snap for advertisers.

Undesirable Citizens?

Report from Supt. of Water Works, A. B. Clark, June 22, 1907: "May 31. 60 delinquent, total amount represented, about $200.00. At the end of ten days additional time, 35 delinquent representing about $122. At present there are thirteen who have been notified and have not paid; this number represents about $33."

After reading the superintendent's report we should think that taxpayers would be the last persons to dodge their just taxes. There are still thirteen delinquent water taxpayers, who either for the love of keeping the city waiting or have a misconception of their importance as persons who think they are entitled to exemption.

It has been necessary for the city to employ the services of an extra man to collect water taxes from 25 delinquents. It cost $3.00 for two days, or $1.50 per day, for a special collector to remind every taxpayer of his delinquency.

There are now 13 taxpayers who prefer to put the city to another added expense of a collector's services. Why should it be necessary to employ this procedure to compel a supposedly intelligent, law-abiding and regular tax-paying list of citizens to pay?

Do these thirteen delinquents consider themselves above the law? If they have any grievance and think their taxes too excessive, why not report them to the superintendent of water works? There is no excuse for any tax-payer to balk about paying what is justly due the city. We know of certain taxpayers who are always searching for loop-holes through which to escape payment of taxes.

It is easy for any of the thirteen delinquents to earn some respect right now by enclosing their checks, addressed to the superintendent of water works at an expense of one cent for postage, when every delay means added expense to the city which must follow when special collectors are kept employed for the sole purpose of getting those few remaining slow tax-payers to wake up.

The man who knowingly refuses to abide by the laws will always suffer the contempt of others who willingly adhere to them. These law defying persons constitute the "undesirable citizens."

BLUES BOOKED TO PLAY GAMES

Manager Hanlin of the Buchanan Blues announces the following schedule of games to be played on the home grounds:

Eau Claire vs. Blues, Friday, June 28th. This team claims to be the strongest in Berrien county. Watch the Blues wallop 'em.

July 4th—Two games, or what you call a double header, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon: Stevensville vs. Blues. The Stevensville team defeated Three Oaks and South Bend Reserves, two of the strongest teams in this southwestern section of Michigan, which gives assurances of two exciting and fascinating games.

July 19th, the Blues will try to tackle the Famous All-Chicagos, who are on a tour through Michigan. They are also booked to play Three Oaks and La Porte, Ind.

He Fired the Stick

"I have fired the walking-stick I've carried over 40 years, on account of a sore that resisted every kind of treatment, until I tried Bucklin's Arnica Salve; that has healed the sore and made me a happy man," writes John Garrett, of North Mills, N. C. Guaranteed for Piles, Burns, etc., by W. N. Brodrick, druggist. 25.

Copies of the Record are being sent to the Michigan State building at the Jamestown exposition during the summer months, where our readers may keep posted on Buchanan doings should they visit the show.

Charlie McCann, of New Carlisle, has just purchased the John McFallon saloon, and will immediately take possession. He and his family will move to this town at once.

BLUES LOSE ON ERRORS

Another game was lost by the Blues with the same opponents, Dowagiac. They lost on errors and it was a disappointed and blue crowd, numbering over one hundred, that returned from Dowagiac last Sunday, where the game was played. The score was 2 to 0, the two runs being secured on errors on the part of the Blues and which happened in the ninth inning, just at a time when everybody thought it would be a tie.

It is to be regretted that had errors should be responsible for failure to win a game. There are other matters to be taken into consideration, such as harmony and good discipline. When a player exerts all his energy while at play to the one thought—to do his very best at whatever position he is assigned—then, and not till then, can he be classed as a ball player who understands his business thoroughly.

The Buchanan Blues have several more games to play this season, which we hope, will be a string of victories that will surely add much to Buchanan's reputation for having the best ball team in southwestern Michigan. Give the boys all due encouragement for the next fray!

Children's Day was observed at the Advent Christian church last Sunday evening. The pulpit was beautifully decorated in white and green amid potted plants.
