LET US HAVE A GALA TIME ON LABOR DAY

Concentrated Effort Is the Secret of Success

What are your plans for Labor Day? Why cannot Buchanan citizens concentrate all their enthusiasm and loyalty towards bringing up a grand celebration for just one day?

Let us have a gala day—let it come off on Labor Day!

If other cities—smaller in size, bankrupt in finances and with meager facilities for accommodating big crowds, can have a big Memorial Day or a grand Fourth of July, why then, cannot Buchanan with a good sized population, liberal and generous citizens and excellent facilities, out-do those other towns with a grand Labor day?

There is no such thing as impossible—a disguised term for weakness.

Concentration of all the forces—fraternal societies—the Elks, Odd Fellows, Woodmen, Masons, Macca-bees, Loyal Americans, Royal Neighbors, Lady Macca-bees, etc.—all the churches with their Sunday schools and the band and the ball teams Each force linked together, working for one object—Labor Day—will naturally become a powerful organization.

There can be one big parade comprising all the above societies, churches, Sunday schools and private organizations.

Idea will later suggest themselves. The time to think of putting them in practice will soon arrive.

Those big days that we wonder how other cities accomplished in the past are nothing but that self same "concentration."

Merchants will have a chance to derive benefits from the Labor Day crowds

Everybody will enjoy a relaxation from a tedious monotony.

INDICTMENTS AGAINST LEWIS

St. Louis Publisher Accused by the United States Under the Mail Fraud Law.

St. Louis, July 9.—Seven indictments have been returned by the federal grand jury against Edward G. Lewis, president of the People's United States bank, charging fraud. The indictments were returned Saturday, but the fact was not made public until yesterday. In one indictment Lewis and Francis V. Putnam, cashier of the bank, are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud the bank's stockholders.

Another indictment is against Lewis, Frank J. Cabot and William N. Miller, charging conspiracy to defraud the government postage rates on the mailing of the publication issued by Lewis. The other indictments stand against Lewis' alone, charging him with a scheme to defraud through the People's United States bank. All the defendants gave bond.

GAY LONG STREET FARM

Merry Party at a Hospitable Home

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Long Gathered to Play Whist and Spend an Evening of Pleasure

Those who attended the housewarming and "dedication" of "Long Street Farm" Saturday evening, June 22, will ever remember the happy event.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Long are the very best of entertainers. To cross the threshold of their hospitable home is to be welcomed with open-hearted cordiality.

Mr and Mrs. Long have made of their home on the old Vachell Lane, now termed Long Street, one of the most comfortable and attractive of the suburban residences in the county. They decided on a housewarming and invited a number of their friends to spend a pleasant evening with them in celebrating the event.

There was not a dull moment at the party. It was one continuous round of merriment.

In the whist games there were eight tables and there was a close contest for honors. Mr. Merlin Hazard with 13 points won the first and Mrs. L. A. Enos the second prize. The consolation prize went to Mrs. Paulis.

Elaborate refreshments were served and then came the expressions of appreciation and gratitude to Mr and Mrs. Long. Chas. A. Younglove was the toastmaster and those who spoke were: L. A. Enos, Chas. A. Palmer, A. W. Mills and Warren M. John. Mr. Long responded to the many kind things said of himself and his estimable wife and expressed their pleasure at having all present.

Long Street Farm will never be forgotten while it has associated with it the pleasant recollections of this very enjoyable party—San Luis Obispo, (Cal.) Morning Tribune.

DYNAMITE WORK AT CHICAGO

Attempt to Blow Up the Home of John Condon, a Race Track Magnate.

Chicago, July 9.—An attempt was made to blow up the home of John Condon, the race track magnate and leader in the recent fight between the Western Jockey Club and the American Turf association. Either dynamite or some other powerful explosive was used by the person or persons who sought to harm the owner of the place and his family. As a result of the explosion a hole seven feet in diameter was made in the building, several windows in the house were shattered, costly bric-a-brac and three large oil paintings were badly damaged.

None of the occupants suffered any injury. At the time of the explosion the street in front of the house was crowded with automobiles and carriages, but no one saw any one in the vicinity of Condon's residence when the explosion occurred.

No Law's Delay in This Case.

Hankow, China, July 9.—The governor of the province of Nganhwei was murdered by a student. Accompanied by the director of police, the governor was about to enter a school at Ngankung, capital of the province of Nganhwei, when several shots were fired at him, three bullets inflicting mortal injuries. The director of police seized the assassin and decapitated him on the spot.

Delegates Are to Have Fun.

Evansville, Ind., July 9.—There are now about 400 delegates attending the national convention of the American Flint Workers that has convened here. Entertainment has been arranged for the delegates for nearly every night during the next two weeks.

Russia to Build Warships.

St. Petersburg, July 9.—The council of ministers has authorized an annual expenditure of $15,500,000 from 1908 to 1911 for the construction of new warships and their armaments.

The batteries of the catalogue houses are carrying destruction to the smaller cities and towns. Are you helping in this work of hurling destruction at the local schools, churches and industries? Are you assisting in the distribution of mail-order literature and sending ammunition in the way of home dollars with which they will continue the campaign?

Latest Happenings of a Day In Michigan

COMIC OPERA RIOTERS

They Exhibited at St. Clair and Did a Whole Lot of Shooting Up the Town.

ONLY THING HIT WAS A DOG

Incident of the Labor Troubles There—Shipyards Closed Now—That Jackson Faker.

St. Clair, Mich., July 9.—The Great Lakes Engineering works has announced an indefinite shutdown of the company's local shipyards owing to the unsatisfactory condition of the labor market here. The native employes have been clamoring for the dismissal of all the Italians employed, and only a small force has been at work at the yard since a week ago, when the employes declared a strike and the company countered with a lockout that affected the greater part of the force.

Riot of the Comic Opera Kind.

The labor situation was the cause of a sort of comic opera riot Saturday night. Some leaders of the Italians drew a gun on City Marshal Castleton in resisting arrest at the city park, and everybody else in the park rushed home or to the hardware stores and got revolvers, army muskets and Winchester rifles and took a shot at his next neighbor. Although thirty or forty shots were fired, nobody was hit, except one dog. The tense situation was not eased up when Sheriff Davidson came down from Port Huron and by mistake began shooting at Lewis Corey, who had been sworn in as one of Davidson's own deputies.

Thought Him a Rioting Italian.

The sheriff supposed that his deputy was a rioting Italian and therefore took a few cracks at him on suspicion. Corey ran two blocks and then jumped through a plate glass window into a vacant store. Corey broke all July records for a 100-yard dash, because the citizens with their army muskets were reinforcing Davidson and trying to score a bull's-eye with the rear elevation of Corey's trousers as a target.

Wanted That Kind of Job.

Monday the company tried to end the trouble and made a proposition, which was that the minute a native showed up and wanted to work as a common laborer at $1.75 a day he could have a job, and one of the Ital would have to go. A crew of 100 men could have supplanted the force of Italian workmen, but the crew didn't show up.

YOUNG MAN OF "OUR TOWN"

He is a Candidate for Membership in the Ananias Club—That Tillman-Dolliver Fake.

Jackson, Mich., July 9.—The "sweet lyre" of the north woods, the plain-every-day liar and all other newspaper prevaricators have got their hats off to the young man of "our town" who sent broadcast throughout the country the tale of Senators Tillman and Dolliver meeting here and Tillman challenging the Iowa senator to a duel, because Dolliver had announced that Tillman should be in jail for his "anarchistic" talks on the negro question.

According to the tale sent out to various papers only the intervention of bystanders prevented the two from flying at each other's throats. The name of the correspondent who filled up the big papers of the country with the story has already been sent to President Roosevelt as a candidate for the Ananias club.

He Is All Sewed Up.

Bellevue, Mich., July 9.—While returning to his home in Partella from Bellevue, Will Williams, aged 32, was struck by a train on Hall's crossing two miles east of town. His horse was killed, his buggy demolished and Williams was fatally injured, the attending surgeon taking seventy stitches to close his wounds. The livery stable proprietor says that Williams and a companion were intoxicated.

Blueberries to Break the Record.

Negaunee, Mich., July 9.—The blueberry harvest in upper Michigan this season promises to be a record-breaker. Cold weather kept the crop back, and blossoms did not appear until about June 1, since which time no frost has fallen. Last season the blossoms on bushes that grew in open spaces were destroyed by late frosts, and only those plants that flourish in heavy timber lands bore fruit.

Ca i rds of Logs Ablaze.

Standish, Mich., July 9.—Two carloads of logs on the M. C. railroad caught fire from a hot box north of here, near Stedling, and, having no water, the engineer put on steam and ran in here at about fifty miles an hour, whistling for the fire department. The boys responded promptly and soon had the fire under control, although cars and logs were badly damaged.

Railways Can Discriminate Here.

Lansing, Mich., July 9.—Attorney General Bird has answered an inquiry of the railroad commissioner by holding that a railroad is not compelled to allow transfer and hack men on its trains. A railroad company can refuse to allow any or all of them on its trains.

Obituary

MARY MILLER MOWREY was born in Buchanan October 12, 1844, and died June 24, 1907, aged 62 years, 8 months and 12 days. Her early life was spent at the home of her father, Jacob Weaver, six miles west of Buchanan.

October 4, 1862, she was married to Aaron Miller, now deceased, and lived in happy union forty-two years. To them were born two sons and three daughters, John H., Buchanan; Anna L. Kelley, South Bend, Ind.; Susie Rouse, Elkhart, Ind.; William J., and Katie L. Huff, Buchanan.

About twenty years ago she accepted the Larger Hope faith as her faith, and lived faithfully to the end.

On June 17, 1906 she was married to Hiram N. Mowrey of this place. Every thing seemed to be resplendent with the glories of earth; happiness seemed unbounded, until about two months ago, when the loved one was stricken with heart trouble and asthma. With her loving husband always at her side, she bore her pain and sickness without a word of complaint, praying to God and asking Him to take her with Him, where pain and sickness are no more; and the words from her Father's lips will say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joys of thy Lord." The funeral services were held from her late home on Main street, Elder J. H. Paton officiating, after which the remains were laid at rest in Oak Ridge cemetery. Precious mother she has left us, Left us, yes, forever more, But we hope to meet our loved one On that bright and happy shore. Lonely is the house and sad the hours Since our dear one has gone; But oh! a brighter home than ours, In heaven is now her own.

Our printing will please you.

Bring your printing to the Record. I want an Ounce John.

Washington, July 9.—Rear Admiral Brownsön, chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department, said he was satisfied that the Japanese admiral, Sakamoto, who is reported in the Hochi, a Japanese anti-government paper, to have questioned the patriotism of United States naval crews and the ability of the United States naval officer, has been misquoted. At the Japanese embassy Mr. Masano Hanihara, the second secretary, expressed his strong belief that the admiral had not given voice to any such utterances as those printed, or anything like them, and that if he spoke about the matter at all he has been badly misquoted. Such alleged sentiments by the admiral he declared were absurd and nonsensical.

Jap Naval Expert's Views.
Tokio, July 9.—Asahi publishes an interview with an influential Japanese naval expert, who says: "It would be improper to infer a demonstration in the transfer of the American fleet to the Pacific. This movement is part of a prearranged plan and is a result of the constant growth of the American navy and the increasing importance of Pacific interests from the strategic point of view. No significance need be attached until at least thirty ships have been transferred to the Pacific."

Eminent Editors Keep Calm.
Almost all the newspapers treat the matter with calmness, finding it is natural for the United States to redistribute its naval forces as a result of its imperial policy. They generally express regret that it will be impossible for Japan to extend hospitality to the United States officers in return for that shown the Japanese officers at Jamestown.

Up-to-Date Editor Portentous.
London, July 9.—The Daily Mail in an editorial on the Japanese-United States situation says: "Around the immense area of the Pacific-ocean the embattled nations of the world are gathering as the nations gathered around the Mediterranean two thousand years ago. Careful observers universally will agree that the great events of the twentieth century probably will be occupied with the rim of this vast saucer. War between Japan and America is almost unthinkable. We believe the intentions of the statesmen of both countries to be profoundly pacific, and that the incidents at San Francisco are not responsible for the movement of the American fleet."

THAT BRADLEY EXPLOSION

Was It Gas or One of Orchard's Bombs?—Day Devoted to Hearing Depositions.

Boise, Idaho, July 9.—Part of the San Francisco depositions, dealing with the Bradley explosion were read to the jury that is trying William D. Haywood, and the rest of them will be presented today. The reading began directly after the court sat, with Clarence Darrow and Senator Borah alternating for their respective sides. Bradley had testified in a suit for damages at San Francisco that the explosion was caused by gas, and damages were awarded against the gas company for a gas explosion. This was before Orchard's story was published. Since then depositions have been taken at San Francisco for use in this trial, and both sides declared themselves satisfied with the showing made.

The state counted it a victory that Bradley had receded from his first and positive statement that it was a gas explosion, and was prepared to believe that a bomb might have been used. The prosecution was also pleased to have it shown that Bradley was still inside the door when the explosion occurred and particles of glass from the doors, hairs from the rug outside the door, and pieces of stone and cement from the mosaic floor of the vestibule were blown into his body.

The defense, on the other hand, is satisfied that the depositions show that it would have been impossible for Orchard to have reached the vestibule and placed the bomb in the manner and time described by him; that the evidence, and particularly the effect of the explosion, shows that a gas leak was the cause.

Will Try to Hatch Ostrich Egg.

New York, July 9.—A keeper in the Bronx zoo found a huge egg in the ostrich cage. Chief Curator Beebe, in charge of the bird department, says it is a rhea egg. A rhea is a South American ostrich. The egg is about six inches in diameter and weighs three pounds. It is of a golden color. A big incubator was rigged up and the zoo attendants will attempt to hatch an ostrich. Beebe says the hatching of the egg is a $1,000 proposition, an ostrich chick being worth that sum.

ALL-CHICAGOS TO PLAY THE BLUES ON FRIDAY

Other Games of an Exciting Nature Have Been Booked

The baseball program as arranged for the next few weeks should meet with the approval of all of Buchanan's fans, no matter how exacting they may be. The games already booked are with teams of good calibre and promise to be close and exciting.

On Friday, June 12th, Buchanan will be visited by the All-Chicagos, a team of exceptionally fast, semi-professional players from Chicago. Among the pitchers carried is Tony Mullane, famous ex-National leaguer, so long identified with Cincinnati.

Manager Potts of Three Oaks, who has seen this team play, assures us that we may look for an exciting contest, that the team is composed of old players who thoroughly understand the game and how it is played.

A number of Three Oaks citizens expect to witness Friday's game here.

No game is scheduled at Buchanan next week as the Blues go to Three Oaks, Saturday afternoon, July 20th, for the first game of the series of five which has been arranged with the Greens. The second game will be played at Three Oaks, August 17, and Buchanan people will not have an opportunity to see the Greens here until Labor Day, when two games are scheduled with the Blues on the local diamond.

On Thursday, July 25th, Buchanan will again meet Doe-wah-jac here and it is hoped that we will be able to down the hoodoo and beat them.

In addition to the games already cited, Manager Hanlin is now closing terms with the strong Clark team of Kalamazoo and the Hyde Park Blues, who defeated Three Oaks July 4th, for games at Buchanan during August. It is intended to retain the line up which played so well July 4th and it is to be the aim of the management to give the people the best that can be had from now on.

To insure good games it will be necessary to bring teams a long distance and it is earnestly hoped that the attendance will be large and the gate receipts will conform to the high standard of sport provided.

One Generation to Another," Etc.

So Jocelyn told him. And what she said was only a recapitulation of facts known to such as have followed these pages to this point. Suddenly he broke into the narrative. He saw, keen old worldling that he was, a discrepancy. "But," he said, "there was no one in Loango connected with the scheme who—he paused, touching her sleeve with a bony finger—"who sent the telegram home to young Osgard; the telegram calling him out to Jack's relief?" "Oh," she explained lightly, "I did. My brother was away, so there was no one else to do it, you see."

"Yes, I see." And perhaps he did. Sir John took his leave. He bowed over Jocelyn's hand, and Millicent, watching them keenly, could see nothing—no gleam of a mutual understanding in the politely smiling eyes. "Perhaps," he said, "I may have the pleasure of meeting you again?" "I am afraid it is doubtful," she answered, with something that sounded singularly like exultation in her voice. "We are going back to Africa almost at once."

And she, also, took her leave of Lady Cantourne. One afternoon Joseph had his wish. Moreover, he had it given to him even as he desired, which does not usually happen. He is given a part, or the whole, so distorted that we fail to recognize it. Joseph looked up from his work and saw Jocelyn coming into the bungalow garden.

He went out to meet her, putting on his coat as he went. "How is Mr. Meredith?" she asked at once. Her eyes were very bright and there was a sort of breathlessness in her manner which Joseph did not understand. "He is a bit better, miss, thank you kindly. But he don't make the progress I should like. It's the weakness that follows the malarial attack that the doctor has to fight against."

"Where is he?" asked Jocelyn. "Well, miss, at the moment he is in the drawing room. We bring him down there for the change of air in the afternoon. Likely as not, he's asleep." And presently Jack Meredith, lying comfortably somnolent on the outskirts of life, heard light footsteps, but hardly heeded them. He knew that some one came into the room and stood silently by his couch for some seconds. He lazily unclosed his eyelids for a moment, not in order to see who was there, but with a view of intimating that he was not asleep. But he was not wholly conscious. To men accustomed to an active, energetic life a long illness is nothing but a period of complete rest. In his more active moments Jack Meredith sometimes thought that this rest of his was extending into a dangerously long period, but he was too weak to feel anxiety

Jocelyn moved away and busied herself noiselessly with one or two of those small duties of the sickroom which women see and men ignore. But she could not keep away. She came back and stood over him with a silent sense of possession which made that moment one of the happiest of her life. She remembered it in after years, and the complex feelings of utter happiness and complete misery that filled it.

At last a fluttering moth gave the excuse her heart longed for, and her fingers rested for a moment, light as the moth itself, upon his hair. There was something in the touch which made him open his eyes, uncomprehending at first, and then filled with a sudden life. "Ah!" he said, "you—you at last!"

He took her hand in both of his. He was weakened by illness and a great fatigue. Perhaps he was off his guard or only half awake.

"I never should have got better if you had not come," he said. Then suddenly he seemed to recall himself, and rose with an effort from his recumbent position.

"I do not know," he said with a return of his old half humorous manner, "whether to thank you first for your hospitality or to beg your pardon for making such unscrupulous use of it." "Sit down," she said quietly. "You are not strong enough to stand about." He obeyed her with a little laugh.

"You do not know," he said, "how pleasant it is to see you, fresh and English looking. It is like a tonic. Where is Maurice?"

"He will be here soon," she replied. "He is attending to the landing of the stores. We will soon make you strong and well, for we have come laden with cases of delicacies for your special delectation. Your father chose them himself."

"We did not expect you for another ten days," said Meredith after a little pause, as if anxious to change the subject. "Marie said that your brother's leave was not up until the week after next."

"We do not always take our full term," said she vaguely. And he never saw it. "As a matter of fact," she said lightly, "I suppose that you loathe all food?"

"Loathe it," he replied. He was still looking at her, as if in enjoyment of the Englishness and freshness of which he had spoken. "Simply loathe it. All Joseph's tact and patience are required to make me eat even eleven meals in the day. He would like thirteen."

At this moment Maurice came in—Maurice—bearty, eager, full of life. He blustered in, kicking the furniture, throwing his own vitality into the atmosphere. Jocelyn knew that he liked Jack Meredith, and she knew more. She knew, namely, that Maurice Gordon was a different man when Jack Meredith was in Loango. From Meredith's presence he seemed to gather a sense of security and comfort even as she did—a sense which in herself she understood (for women analyze love), but which in her brother puzzled her.

to see you. I am glad to see you. Thank heaven you were bowled over by that confounded malaria, for otherwise we should have missed you." "That is one way of looking at it," answered Meredith. But he did not go so far as to say that it was a way which had not previously suggested itself to him.

"Of course it is. The best way, I take it. Well, how do you feel?" "Oh, much better, thanks. I have got on splendidly the last week, and better still the last five minutes! The worst of it is that I shall be getting well too soon and shall have to be off."

"Home?" inquired Maurice significantly. Jocelyn moved uneasily. "Yes, home."

"We don't often hear people say that they are sorry to leave Loango," said Maurice. "I will oblige you whenever you are taken with the desire," answered Jack lightly. "Loango has been a very good friend to me. But I am afraid there is no choice. The doctor speaks very plain words about it. Besides, I am bound to go home."

"To sell the simiacine?" inquired Maurice. "Yes."

"Have you the second crop with you?" "Yes."

"And the trees have improved under cultivation?" "Yes," answered Jack rather wonderingly. "You seem to know a lot about it."

"Of course I do," replied Maurice boisterously. "From Durnovo?" "Yes; he even offered to take me into partnership."

Jack turned on him in a flash. "Did he indeed? On what conditions?" And then, when it was too late, Maurice saw his mistake. It was not the first time that the exuberance of his nature had got him into a difficulty.

"Oh, I don't know," he replied vaguely. "It's a long story. I'll tell you about it some day."

Jack would have left it there for the moment. Maurice Gordon had made his meaning quite clear by glancing significantly toward his sister. Her presence he intimated debarred further explanation.

But Jocelyn would not have it thus. She shrewdly suspected the nature of the bargain proposed by Durnovo, and a sudden desire possessed her to have it all out.

"If you mean," she said, "that you cannot tell Mr. Meredith because I am here, you need not hesitate on that account."

Maurice laughed awkwardly and muttered something about matters of business. He was not good at this sort of thing. Besides, there was the initial handicapping knowledge that Jocelyn was so much cleverer than himself.

"Whether it is a matter of business or not," she cried, with glittering eyes. "I want you to tell Mr. Meredith now. He has a right to know. Tell him upon what condition Mr. Durnovo proposed to admit you into the simiacine."

Maurice still hesitated, bewildered at Jack, as he men are when a seemingly secure secret is suddenly discovered to the world. He would still have tried to fend it off, but Jack Meredith with his keener perception saw that

"Did he indeed? On what conditions?" Jocelyn was determined; that further delay would only make the matter worse.

"If your sister wants it," he said, "you had better tell me. I am not the sort of man to act rashly on the impulse of the moment."

ROOSEVELT IS COMMENDED.

Resolutions Adopted at the New Mexico Irrigation Celebration.

Carlsbad, N. M., July 5.—The second day of the New Mexico Irrigation celebration found several thousand people added to the crowds already here. Every part of New Mexico is represented. The program Thursday included speeches, a horse show, contests in driving, competitive events by the various departments represented, a formal flag-raising, steer riding and bronco busting.

Resolutions adopted at a mass-meeting commend President Roosevelt for his broad grasp of western conditions, especially in connection with the irrigation projects of New Mexico. Mention was also made of the president's wise policy in reference to the public domain and the conservation of public forests. The resolutions declared unalterable adherence to the plan of single statehood for New Mexico.

SEVENTEEN DIE IN STORM.

Many Others Injured and Great Damage Done in Wisconsin.

St. Paul, Minn., July 5.—It is now believed that at least 17 lives were lost in the severe storm which swept over a portion of western Wisconsin Wednesday evening. Numerous other persons were injured and much damage to farm property and to dwelling houses is reported. According to reports received here, the little town of Oakdale, on the Milwaukee road near Camp Douglass, was entirely wiped out.

The list of dead, so far as reported, is as follows: At Oakdale, Mr. and Mrs. John Dame, and two others, whose names have not been learned; at Millston, Mrs. Jasper Poff and infant; at Wyeville, Andrew Baumel; near Wardles, two children of Joseph Buckner; at Neillsville, Lyman A. Charles; at Grand Rapids, five persons, whose names have not been reported; near Gillsville, Mrs. Augusta Beyers and her son.

BUENA VISTA FLOOD SPREADS.

Grain Fields Burn at Same Time That Levee Breaks.

Bakersfield, Cal., July 5.—The flood of water in the rich reclaimed wheat lands in the lower part of Kern county caused by the breaking of the Buena Vista Jake levee continued to spread Thursday and all resistance is useless until the auxiliary levee being constructed at the San Amedeo road is completed and the waters reach that point. The entire levee seems doomed.

Coincidental with the break in the levee was the breaking out of two large fires in the grain fields of Miller & Lux, nearly 20 miles distant from the lake. After burning all day the fires were finally extinguished Wednesday night before midnight. Two whole sections of grain were destroyed, aggregating between 15,000 and 20,000 sacks. Suspicion has been aroused from the fact that the fires and the levee break occurred simultaneously.
