Senator Burrows for U. S. Ownership of Wire Lines

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 16.—Government ownership of telegraph system is predicted by Senator J. C. Burrows in an interview on the strike of telegraph operators.

"The time is ripe," said the senator, "for the government to take steps to establish a postal telegraph system in conjunction with the present mail system, in order to prevent a repetition of the present difficulty with the two big telegraph lines."

The senator endeavored to file a telegram with the Western Union and was told no promise could be given as to the delivery of the message, and this prompted the statement quoted.

"I can't say as to which would be better for the government to purchase the present systems or construct one of its own. Anyway, the rate would be lower, and in a short time the government would be getting the bulk of the business and the public would be insured excellent service. There was considerable agitation on this subject at one time; I think John W. Wainwright presented it before congress, and I believe the present trouble will reopen the subject."

Tongue Cutter Has Mania $500 for Fiend's Capture

The farmers of Pipestone township, this county, especially in the neighborhood of Sodus and Hartman, are thoroughly aroused over the outrages being perpetrated in that section by a fiend who seems to delight in cutting the tongues out of horses' mouths, and it is possible that they will organize and make a strenuous attempt to apprehend the culprit.

The last brutal act of this sort was committed Wednesday night, when the tongues of two horses belonging to Adam Kird of Shanghai were cut off close to the roots, and the animals left to suffer untold agonies.

This is the third time that the same outrage has been practised upon the horses of farmers living in the vicinity of Shanghai and Sodus. Each time the arch fiend who committed the deed chose two fine animals on which to practise his dastardly work and each time he has escaped without detection.

Bloodhounds were placed on his track on one of the former occasions, but the animals lost the scent after leading the officers in close proximity to the home of a man suspected by many of the farmers of being guilty of the crime.

There is a well defined idea entertained by many of the residents of the vicinity as to the identity of the devil in human form who is practicing these cruelties and they have sworn to bring him to justice if such a thing is possible.

The farmers are rather cautious in their action, however, and they are almost afraid to speak the name of the suspect aloud, for they fear that he would not stop to resort to any means of revenge, if once aroused.

It is believed that the fellow has a mania for this cruel and inhuman manner of venting his spite upon those he dislikes and there are many who think he is mentally unbalanced.

None of the farmers feel safe and the majority of them are taking precautions to guard their animals from like depredations. So cleverly does the criminal work, however, that it is impossible to gauge him.

After committing one deed he waits until the excitement has blown over and the community has settled again before attempting another.

It is probable that a big reward will be offered for the arrest of the criminal and the officers state that they are determined to catch the fiend. The residents of the district will back them in their action and stand ready to give any aid necessary.

SOUNDS HIS KEYNOTE

Secretary Taft, Before Leaving on a Globe-Trot, States His Position.

STANDS FOR ROOSEVELT IDEAS

With the President in Every Policy He Has Advocated.

Thinks It Possible That the Tariff Should Be Revised, but Not Until After the Next National Election.

Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—William Taft, secretary of war, made what he was pleased to term his "political confession of faith" at Memorial hall. The auditorium, which has a seating capacity of over 5,000, was packed to the doors, and several thousand people who came to hear the secretary speak were unable to gain admittance. The secretary spoke under the auspices of the Buckeye Republican club, and the address was notable from the fact that it is regarded as the platform upon which he will make his campaign for the Republican nomination for president. Taft made no formal announcement of his candidacy, but he was introduced by Governor Harris as the next president of the United States, which was the signal for a prolonged outburst of applause.

Stands by the Rate Bill.

Taft compared the policies advocated by President Roosevelt—all of which he endorsed—with those advocated by Bryan, and declared there was a wide difference between them, and that Bryan had not been the originator, as he claims, of the policies the president had advocated and enforced. Of the rate bill he spoke in the highest approval and replied to Bryan's objections thereto. But he added that the rate law does not go far enough, and he advocated granting the interstate commerce commission power to classify freight. Then he proposed an amendment to prevent over-capitalization, the purchase of stocks in competing lines and against common directors.

Not a Socialistic Measure.

He insisted that the rate bill and similar legislation was not socialistic, but just the contrary, and he opposed government ownership. He endorsed all the president's propositions as to liability of railways to employees for injury, the "swollen fortunes," graduated inheritance tax, income tax—the two latter not now, but when the government revenues need an increase or readjustment, the prime objection being to discourage the "swollen fortunes."

Not a Roosevelt Slump.

He denied that the slump in Wall street was due to the president's policy, but said that if war or bad methods was to produce slumps the slumps must be borne. He declared himself in favor of imprisonment for those who violate the railway regulator laws, as the most effective day of treating those violators.

TAKES UP THE TARIFF ISSUE

What He Considers the Republican Principle on the Subject.

Coming down to the tariff Taft defined the Republican tariff principle as follows: "Through the customs revenue law a tariff should be collected on all imported products that compete with American products, which will at least equal a difference in the cost of production in this country and abroad, and that proper allowance should be made in this difference for the reasonable profits to the American manufacturer." He said that the claims made for protection as a policy of prosperity were fully justified over and over again.

One thing that was the result of this policy was it brought about stronger competition for the home market, which in turn induced improved methods and economy in production that greatly reduced prices to the home population and also made it possible to reduce the tariff without injuring the manufacturer. But he said: "The present business system of the country rests on the protective tariff and any attempt to change it to a free trade basis will certainly lead only to disaster."

He added immediately: "It is the duty of the Republican party, however, to see to it that the tariff on imported articles does not exceed substantially the reasonable permanent differential between the cost of production in the foreign countries and that in the United States, and therefore when changes take place in the conditions of production likely to produce a very large reduction in the cost of production in the United States, it is time that schedules be re-examined, and if excessive

Peck Family Held Their Annual Gathering

The annual reunion of the Peck family was held at the home of Capt. I. F. Peck, Thursday, August 15. Those present were: Capt. and Mrs. J. F. Peck, Mary Peck, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Brenner, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith and son, Elmer, of Elkhart, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Myron S. Peck and Henry M. Null and son, Lester, of Benton Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Peck and daughter, Pearl, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Weaver, of Glendora, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Rough and son, Lester, of Goshen, Ind., Clinton Smith, of Hammond, Ind., Clarence Peck, of Coloma, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Peck, Allene, Doris, Edwin and Hubert Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Smith and son

Rexford, Mrs. Chas. Bishop, Rev. and Mrs. Arnold and daughter, Grace, all of Buchanan.

After a most sumptuous dinner to which all did ample justice, the company were called to order by the president, Myron Peck, who called upon Mr. Arnold for a toast. This was very ably responded to. The report of the secretary was then read by Mrs. H. D. Rough and the report accepted as read. The same officers were elected for another year. After an afternoon of lawn games and visiting the company adjourned to meet in another year. A number of the family remained in town for a visit of a few days with relatives and friends.

.. An Outing in .. Western Oregon

By Rev. W. J. Douglas, Independence, Ore.

The party that started out from Independence consisted of eleven people beside the dog, Gypgia, a large enough crowd for company.

The outfit was two double teams, a two-seat surry and a light, two-horse wagon. The wagon had a canvas cover. The rigs were well loaded as a person can readily see when he thinks of the food, bedding and clothing necessary for two weeks' camping. There were also two good sized tents.

On account of rains and a funeral the start was not made till three o'clock, Wednesday, June 12. Because of the shortness of time, the first day's journey was not very long, about 15 miles. We pitched a tent about 7 o'clock. The beds for that night were a little hay spread on the ground, and covered with a few quilts and blankets. We thought them rather hard, but they were not so hard as some we had later. Under these new conditions sleep was not as long nor as sound as we usually had in our home beds and as we had later on in our trip.

Early the next morning we were up and on our way. The team that the day before drew the surry was hitched to the wagon, but rebelled the first thing. No, sir! they would not submit to such a change. No amount of persuasion would move them. In common terms, they balked. We changed the teams and on we went. Soon it began to rain, a cold, wet rain. We wondered if it was to continue long—no one knows when an Oregon rain will cease. That day it did not rain very long. A nine-mile drive brought us to the thriving village of Corvallis, where the Oregon State Agricultural college is located. It has the largest attendance of any college in the state.

We camped for dinner about six miles south of Corvallis. We may say right here there was no lack of appetite with any of the company, nor did any one fail of an appetite during the trip. For 15 miles from Corvallis the road was straight and level, through a rich farming country.

Eighteen miles south of Corvallis came to the village of Monroe (three or four hundred inhabitants.) It is what is called a one man town, as one man owns the large flouring mill, the big store, etc. The store is a department store, handling almost anything a person is apt to need. It is said to be one of the best in the state outside of Portland. The town is about ten miles from the railroad.

We camped the second night on the banks of the Long Tom river. That night we had no straw or hay for beds, only the ground, but sleep was sweet and refreshing.

The road traveled Friday forenoon was much rougher than any passed over thus far in our journey. We passed through the small village of Smithfield. A little before noon we came to the home of friends who were to join our camping party. There we staid till Monday morning. (To be continued)

TRAVEL FAR TO MARRY

St Joseph, Mich., Aug. 19.—From Michigan City, Ind., came a lovelorn couple yesterday morning. They were Michael Cunningham, aged 68, so he said, and Margaret Adams, aged 37, so she said. They had driven all the way from the Indiana town to the Gretna Green center in an open buggy. They had made the drive for the purpose of being united in holy matrimony.

Justice Bracelin, St. Joseph's marrying justice, tied the knot. After the couple had wended their way to the court house and had secured a license they drove back to the justice shop. In two minutes they were man and wife.

Though he modestly declared he was only 68, the groom had a fatherly look which might easily best any one of three score and ten. The bride blushing declared that she might possibly be 37, was well never mind. Set it down at 37.

TO MAKE PROTEST

The management of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Fair and Driving Association have sent us their preliminary list of the third annual Southern Michigan State Fair to be held in Benton Harbor, Sept. 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27. To the public they had the following to say: "In connection we wish to thank all those who have helped make the Fair what it has been from the first—those who gave their time—those who aided financially and those who 'boosted'. This will include nearly every person in this section of the State. Give 'em your hand."

MME. QUI VIVE BACK FROM PARIS

Mme. Qui Vive, who writes entertainingly and chatily on beauty and other feminine topics in The Chicago Record-Herald, has recently returned from Paris, where she went to study beauty as the French see it. It is safe to say that it will take her a year to give her readers all the new ideas she gathered abroad. Reminna readers will be glad to learn that these are to appear from time to time in her well-known department, "The Woman Beautiful," in The Record-Herald. The immense popularity of Mme. Qui Vive's articles is largely due to the fact that her advice is of real value to women and is given in a delightfully original style. Even men are known to read with secret chuckle, the piquant epigrams with which she heads her column every morning. Her wholesomeness and remarkable versatility have made her an eagerly looked for visitor in thousands of American homes.

Weiser, Idaho, Aug. 19.—The world's pitching record of 54 innings without a run has been broken. Walter Johnson, of the Weiser baseball club, of the Idaho State League, has just made the phenomenal record of pitching 57 innings, in straight games, without a single tally being scored against him.

In a game in this city with the Boise club of the Idaho State League Johnson struck out 19 men. He is 19 years old, and is tall and strong as an ox. He has arms that for length will put Fitzsimmons to blush.

A Great Advertiser Fatal Blunder

Col. Albert A. Pope, head of the $21,000,000 automobile firm that has gone into hands of receiver, was a staunch believer in the theory that business success is dependent on advertising. In one year he spent $500,000 in this method of publicity. "The cessation of advertising killed the bicycle business, and the way to revive it is to resume advertising," said Col. Pope after the demand for machines had abated. The colonel spoke the deathless truth. But there still rings in our ears the song from those who never advertise and those who advertise spasmodically that "advertising does not pay." It doesn't pay for the man who refuses to put advertising to a practical test. The bankruptcy court always yawns for those who cease to advertise and complain about "too much taxes to pay, excessive prices for this and that."

The Ladies Bible Class of the M. E. church will give an afternoon tea Thursday, instead of Friday, from 2 to 5 at the home of Mrs. Alice Rose.

Mrs. S. H. Davis is improving the looks of her house on Berrien street with a new coat of paint. William Van Every is doing the work.

The first fatal accident to occur at the Berrien Springs dam happened this morning when the switchman, whose name is Smith and who lives in Niles was instantly killed by a Pere Marquette train.

A surprise was given in honor of A. B. Camfield's 49th birthday Saturday evening. A very enjoyable time was had. Lunch was served to about 25 persons. Music was added to make the evening a pleasant time.

The regular meeting of the National Protective Legion will be held Wednesday evening, Aug. 21, at the home of Mrs. J. L. Dodd. A full attendance is solicited as business of importance is to be transacted.

Saturday occurred the annual reunion of the East family and was held at Birch Lake church near Vandalia. It was very largely attended, 251 being seated at the dinner tables, nearly all of whom were relatives. Those who attended from here were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. East, Miss Ruth East and James East.

The Benton Harbor News-Palladium has just been elected to full membership in the Associated Press, and unless strike complications continue, will give telegraph news up to the hour of going to press.

The police officials at Niles are still baffled and unable to make any encouraging progress towards the capture of the murderer of Night Watchman Schockley. Many theories have been advanced but the officers are still undetermined as to which clue to cling to.

Arthur Beevy, proprietor of a grocery store in Benton Harbor, and well known the business circles, was adjudged insane and taken to Kalamazoo. It is said that illness and business worry unbalanced his mind.

J. O. Geeting, editor of the American Criminal Record and a prominent Chicago attorney, is advocate of a novel method for reforming criminals. Mr. Geeting wants to establish a peach colony near Benton Harbor, believing that peaches, roses and a vegetable diet with plenty of beautiful scenery is the latest cure for crime.

Detroit ever progressive, aggressive and bubbling over with ideas has an advertising club, "The Ad-crafters," consisting of more than one hundred bright and shining lights in the advertising field who answer to each roll call and contribute their position to booming Detroit and its products. Among the list of members is D. H. Bower, formerly editor and proprietor of the BUCHANAN RECORD, of whom his many friends will be pleased to hear of his remarkable success.

The result of the Three Oaks Buchanan game played at Three Oaks last Saturday is still undetermined owing to a perplexing point involved which must be settled before a victory can be declared official. Manager Potts of the Three Oaks team is absent from the city and a final decision cannot be reached until his presence at a conference is effected. When they reach a satisfactory decision in the matter an account will be published in the Friday's issue of the RECORD. In this issue we print below the score of the game which gives an accurate record of each player's batting and fielding.

It is to be regretted that such deplorable conditions should have occurred when the matter of a batted ball should arise and cause our team to leave the field arbitrarily, even though the umpire should decide unfavorably against us, and the Buchanan fans who witnessed the game would rather the Blues stick to their posts and let the other team earn the disgrace of a 'stolen victory' than to desert at an unfinished stage of the game.

"Here we are at Lady Cantourne's," continued Sir John, "where, as it happens, I expect to meet Jack. Her ladyship is naturally interested in the affair of tomorrow, and has kindly undertaken to keep us up to date in our behavior. You will come in with me?"
 Osgard remembered afterward that he was rather puzzled, that there was perhaps in his simple mind the faintest tinge of suspicion. At the moment, however, there was no time to do anything but follow. The man had already rung the bell and Lady Cantourne's butler was holding the door open. There was something in his attitude vaguely suggestive of expectation. He never took his eyes from Sir John Meredith's face, as if on the alert for an unspoken order.
 Guy Osgard followed his companion into the hall, and the very scent of the house—for each house speaks to more senses than one—made his heart leap in his broad breast. It seemed as if Millicent's presence was in the very air. This was more than he could have hoped. He had not intended to call this afternoon, although the visit was only to have been postponed for twenty-four hours.
 Sir John Meredith's face was a marvel to see. It was quite steady. He was upright and alert, with all the intrepidity of his mind up in arms. There was a light in his eyes, a gleam of light from other days not yet burned out.
 He laid aside his gold headed cane and threw back his shoulders.
 "Is Mr. Meredith upstairs?" he said to the butler.
 "Yes, sir."
 The man moved toward the stairs.
 "You need not come!" said Sir John, holding up his hand.
 The butler stood aside and Sir John led the way up to the drawing room.
 At the door he paused for a moment. Guy Osgard was at his heels. Then he opened the door rather slowly and motioned gracefully with his left hand to Osgard to pass in before him.
 Osgard stepped forward. When he had crossed the threshold Sir John closed the door sharply behind him and turned to go downstairs.

CHAPTER XXIII.
GUY OSCARD stood for a moment on the threshold. He heard the door closed behind him, and he took two steps farther forward.
 Jack Meredith and Millicent were at the fireplace. There was a heap of disordered paper and string upon the table, and a few wedding presents standing in the midst of their packing. Millicent's pretty face was quite white. She looked from Meredith to Osgard with a sudden horror in her eyes. For the first time in her life she was at a loss, quite taken-aback.
 "Oh-h!" she whispered, and that was all.
 The silence that followed was tense, as if something in the atmosphere was about to snap, and in the midst of it the wheels of Sir John's retreating carriage came to the ears of the three persons in the drawing room.
 It was only for a moment, but in that moment the two men saw clearly. It was as if the veil from the girl's mind had fallen—leaving her thoughts confessed, bare before them. In the same instant they both saw—they both sped back in thought to their first meeting, to the hundred links of the chain that brought them to the present moment—they knew; and Millicent felt that they knew.
 "Are you going to be married tomorrow?" asked Guy Osgard deliberately. He never was a man to whom a successful appeal for the slightest mitigation of justice could have been made. His dealings had ever been with men, from whom he had exacted as scrupulous an honor as he had given. He did not know that women are different—that honor is not their strong point.
 Millicent did not answer. She looked to Meredith to answer for her, but Meredith was looking at Osgard, and in his lazy eyes there glowed the singular affection and admiration which he had bestowed long time before on this simple gentleman—his mental inferior.
 "Are you going to be married tomorrow?" repeated Osgard, standing, quite still, with a calmness that frightened her.
 "Yes," she answered, rather feebly.
 She knew that she could explain it all. She could have explained it to either of them separately, but to both together, somehow it was difficult. Her mind was filled with clamoring arguments and explanations and plausible excuses, but she did not know which to select first. None of them seemed quite equal to this occasion. These men required something deeper and stronger and simpler than she had to offer them.

HIS PATIENCE COSTLY

Bore with a Demented Wife Until She Did All the Damage Possible.

NOW SHE GOES TO THE ASYLUM

Novel Experience of a Live Man—Houghton Citizen Lays a Ghostly Musician.

Wolverine, Mich., Aug. 20.—Although his wife recently took poison, tried twice to drown herself, attempted to cast herself under a moving engine, and later jumped through the window of a rapidly moving passenger coach after she had swallowed two $20 bills, Joseph Garlepy, of this city, refused to have her committed to a hospital for the insane. As a result he now has only a pile of ashes to represent the savings of a lifetime, $3,000 in all, which the woman burned, under the delusion that the bills harbored evil spirits.

They Were Distrustful of Banks.
 Garlepy and his son work in the copper mines here, and by frugality and simple living saved the money, which they cached in the cellar, being distrustful of banks. They have known for months that the wife and mother was insane, but have had her closely watched at home. It was while visiting near Menominee, under the name of Mrs. William Devereaux, of Republic, that Mrs. Garlepy made her five attempts to die, after which she was brought to her home here.

Learns His Lesson at Last.
 The money which was burned was all in bills. The only portion which was saved was $11 in gold and silver, and the local bank despairs of securing any salvage from the ashes of the currency, which was burned almost to ashes. The woman will be committed to a hospital for treatment.

Had an Unusual Experience.
 Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 20.—Mourning as dead, and so reported in the press, Peter Pariseau, a business man of Norway, Dickinson county, has had the unusual experience of seeing his own obituary notice in public print. Reported to have fallen out of a buggy and to have broken his neck, friends had already set in motion arrangements for his funeral when he suddenly appeared and put a stop to the preparations. Then it developed that he himself had telephoned the news of the alleged fatality.

HE THOUGHT IT WAS A GHOST
But It Was a Breeze That Was Playing a Guitar in His Bed Room.

Hancock, Mich., Aug. 20.—Awakened in the middle of the night by the melodious tones of a guitar which he knew had been standing against the wall near a window when he retired, Henry Seeling, of Houghton, had a ghostly experience until he screwed up courage enough to solve the mystery. The notes of the guitar were struck loud and clear, as if some one were playing the scales. For a time he thought his little daughter was manipulating the instrument and he called her name. There was no response.
 The ghost-like music continued, and finally the man decided that if anybody was going to kill him he would have deferred the death march until after that event. He made a quick leap to the center of the room, and turned on the light. The brass rod in the bottom of the window curtain, swayed by the breeze, was gently riding across the strings of the guitar.

Was a Friend of McKinley.
 Cadillac, Mich., Aug. 20.—Rev. Charles Carroll Miller, who was a friend of President McKinley and of the late United States Senator Alger, and who held for some time a position in the interior department at Washington, is dead, aged 77. During McKinley's first term he declined the post of United States minister to Brazil. Rev. Miller preached forty years in Baptist churches in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Ex-Newsboy for a Solon.
 Lansing, Mich., Aug. 20.—Preliminary caucuses are being held by both parties in anticipation of a warm fight for the seat in the legislature made vacant by the resignation of Stanley D. Montgomery. Alexander Cohen, formerly a Detroit newsboy, will probably be the Republican nominee, and ex-Mayor John F. Crotty will be the Democratic candidate. The election will be held Sept. 17.

Paying Taxes Under Protest.
 Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 20.—The library recently presented to the village by the Ladies' Library association is now open to the public and those opposed to it are paying the library tax under written protest. They admit they are beaten for the time being, but say they will knock the proposition into the air at the next charter election.

Death of Professor Bogue.
 Lansing, Mich., Aug. 20.—Professor E. E. Bogue, head of the department of forestry at the Michigan Agricultural college, is dead after a lingering illness. He had a national reputation as a forestry expert. Professor Bogue was 42 years old, and before coming here was professor of botany in Oklahoma university.

Gathering Scheduled for Columbus, O., to Discuss State and Local Revenue-Raising.
 Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—A national conference for the consideration of the subject of state and local taxation will be held under the auspices of the National Tax association, in this city, Nov. 12, 1907. ## KILLED BY A WILD BEAR

Well Known Passenger Engineer, Goes Camping Out and Has a Fatal Encounter with Bruin.
 Ogden, Utah, Aug. 20.—Word has reached here that James Chapman, one of the best known passenger engineers on the Union Pacific railroad, has been killed by a bear near Evanston, Wyo. Chapman formerly lived here but had moved to Evanston. He was with a party of friends camping out and had wandered away from the others.
 He was missed and when search was made for him his dead body was found in a thicket. His face and neck had been badly clawed by the bear and death had resulted from the severing of one of the arteries in the neck. Tracks of the bear were all about, but the animal had disappeared.

The Limit of Life
 The most eminent medical digesters are unanimous in the conclusion that the generally accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical, that determines its duration, seems to be between 60 and 65; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity; Nature's best helper after 60 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every organ of the body. ## Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

 We give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
