

Europe Not Anxious to Send Us Emigrants.

By Senator W. P. DILLINGHAM of Vermont, Chairman of the United States Immigration Commission.

WE HAVE STUDIED THE MORE IMPORTANT PHASES OF THE IMMIGRATION QUESTION IN EVERY COUNTRY OF EUROPE, AND, SPEAKING BROADLY, WE HAVE REACHED THE CONCLUSION THAT THESE COUNTRIES LOOK UNFAVORABLY UPON EMIGRATION TO THIS COUNTRY.

Whole districts in southern Italy have been almost depopulated of their rural labor, and there is great difficulty in getting even the crops raised. Because of the scarcity of labor the condition of those remaining at home is somewhat improved, but THE GENERAL CONDITION ABROAD IS CAUSING MUCH ALARM AMONG LANDOWNERS, and a strong sentiment against emigration has developed.

In some parts of Europe at least emigration is not without GOOD results. For example, many aliens send a large share of their earnings back to their native land. Each year an ENORMOUS sum thus finds its way across the Atlantic, and a greater part of it goes to localities where it is NEEDED AND APPRECIATED. Besides, nearly all seaboard countries desire to build up a merchant marine. The carriage of emigrants aids materially in doing this, and so this desire has its effect on the government's attitude on the subject.

These are the REAL FORCES THAT CONTROL THE SITUATION IN EUROPE today, and the trend of affairs indicates that more attention to and greater supervision of emigration by the countries most concerned will result.

PERHAPS THE CHIEF CAUSES FOR THE INFLOW OF ALIENS INTO THIS COUNTRY ARE THE WIDESPREAD KNOWLEDGE THAT LABOR IS MORE GENERALLY REWARDED HERE THAN AT HOME, THE ADVICE AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE OF RELATIVES AND FRIENDS WHO HAVE ALREADY EMIGRATED AND THE ACTIVITY OF AGENTS SELLING STEAMSHIP TICKETS.

How Agitation Harms the Railroads.

By President W. W. FINLEY of the Southern Railway.

MEN and women with money to invest hesitate at the moment to put it into railway property. The man with money to invest has no SENTIMENTAL favorites. He is not guided by sentiment, but by plain business considerations. He may know that present and prospective traffic is sufficient to make railway investments profitable if charges that are FAIR AND REASONABLE for the service performed are permitted.

BUT WHEN HE SEES THE ENACTMENT OF LAWS FOR THE REDUCTION OF CHARGES WITHOUT DUE REGARD FOR REASONABLENESS AND LAWS SUBJECTING RAILWAYS TO EXCESSIVE AND INEQUITABLE TAXATION IN COMPARISON WITH OTHER FORMS OF PROPERTY IT IS NATURAL THAT HE SHOULD HESITATE OR LOOK ELSEWHERE FOR OPPORTUNITIES FOR INVESTMENT.

I am reluctant to believe that legislative acts which tend to HAMP THE COMMERCE OF THE COUNTRY by placing barriers in the way of railway development express in any way the sober views of a majority of the people.

Railways of the United States have NOTHING TO FEAR from the light of publicity. They have no reason to shun the widest possible discussion of their policies, provided such discussion is based on FACTS and on a recognition of the economic principles underlying the business of transportation. Heretofore the railways have suffered from the lack of such discussion. There has been NO LACK OF UNREASONING DENUNCIATION, but there has been no such general and INTELLIGENT discussion of the transportation problem of the country as has been given to other economic questions.

WE MUST STRIVE AT ALL TIMES TO KEEP THE TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM IN THE REGION OF ECONOMIC QUESTIONS ON A HIGHER LEVEL THAN THAT OF PARTISAN POLITICS. WE CAN THEN SAFELY RELY ON ITS CONSERVATIVE SOLUTION BY THE INTELLIGENCE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The process of pulling down and of destroying the old has continued long without abatement. It may be safely concluded that such abuses as were in existence have been SUFFICIENTLY EXPOSED AND CURBED for the process of rebuilding to begin. The welfare of the country, the interests of its commerce and the prosperity of its citizens now demand the establishment of A NEW BASIS OF STABILITY in the place of the old conditions which have passed away.

A Criminal Attack
on an inoffensive citizen is frequently made in that apparently useless little tube called the "appendix." Its generally the result of protracted constipation, following liver torpor. Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the liver, prevent appendicitis, and establish regular habits of the bowels. 25c. at W. N. Brodrick's drug store.

The Wisdom of Dorothy.
Dorothy does not relish being left alone to go to sleep. One night after she is tucked in bed by her mother, who then leaves her, she calls to her father and asks if he isn't coming to bed after he finishes his dinner.
"Yes; I'll go to bed as soon as my dinner digests."
"All right; come upstairs now. Your dinner will digest upstairs just as well as down," argues the young hopeful—Judge's Library.

REGULATE LOBBYISTS

Lansing, Oct. 3.—Although Gov. Warner's call for the special session of the legislature, which convenes at Lansing Monday noon, specifies only the primary bill and Mt. Pleasant appropriation, the message he will send to both branches will deal with at least one other proposition. If the legislators have any spare moments he will ask them to consider some measure for governing lobbyists, so that their identity may be known. The governor knows the influence that lobbyists exert, and he believes that the should be required to register and work in the open.

It is not likely that much will be accomplished the first week of the session as the house and senate committees will want two or three days to consider the provisions of the primary bill, and it is more than probable that the senate will wait until the house passes the measure.

There is but one bone of contention regarding the primary bill, the question whether or not the 40 per cent proposition should be eliminated from the present law as is demanded by the administration. This will be fought out in the senate.

Aside from the 40 per cent provision it is absolutely essential that the primary law should be amended, so as to provide for but one primary day, state, county and city. Two primary days are provided for under the present law, and to combine them would not only mean the saving of an immense amount of money, but experience has shown, that any reasonable percentage of voters cannot be gotten out no more than one primary day. Such a measure should have been passed last session, but as the senate was evenly divided on the 40 per cent proposition, the administration refused to permit the passage of any bill that did not eliminate that provision.

PASTOR RAPS THE Y. M. C. A. POLICY

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 3.—Less pool and more prayer is the specific Rev. W. P. Lovett, of the Wealthy Avenue Baptist church, advocates for the more successful work by the local Y. M. C. A., which put in a couple of pool tables this fall in order to hold the boys. The remedy was advocated in a sermon delivered Sunday. Later in an interview he made the following statement:

"I was discussing the supreme spiritual aim in religious work and said it was easy to lose sight of that aim, and cited the Y. M. C. A. as an example of the danger. Pool rooms in Grand Rapids have a worse influence on boys than saloons. Last week I saw a boy from our Sunday school playing pool in the Y. M. C. A. The question is, will they always confine their playing to the Y. M. C. A. tables? This new method I believe to be based on a theory utterly wrong. "I would not venture to make a public reference even in my own pulpit if it were not for the fact that more than a year ago I protested with the Y. M. C. A. officials against the proposition to establish pool tables. I believe the Y. M. C. A. will do more good in Grand Rapids by investing money and time and effort in the Sunday afternoon religious service than by furnishing this questionable amusement to boys and young men."

"I have been somewhat constive, but Doan's Regulents gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

WILL BE ONE OF STATE'S RICHEST

Benjamin Purnell, of Benton Harbor—now a true capitalist.

Under the new order of things at the House of David the leader of the Flying Rollers stands all supreme—more powerful than he was before. When the colony was operating under the church act of the state, Benjamin and Mary were possessed with very little of the world's goods. Now that the members have decided to deed everything over to Benjamin, the Purnell family will be able to count their wealth in more than one figure.

The members of the colony are content, however, that Benjamin will not violate the trust that has been put in him. The colony will go along in the same smooth way as it did before the attorney general's department began making investigations.

Many believe the Israelites have won a victory over the state.

A month ago it looked as though the House of David would be the center of a lively legal battle. But so admirably has the case been handled by the Israelites and their attorneys that everything has practically blown over.

It is believed that Attorney general Bird is satisfied with the changes that have been made. The old charter has been forfeited, hence the state department has no complaint to make.

Officially or legally, the Israelites are not an incorporated colony or as a society. The matter has in a way passed out of the attorney general's hands entirely. As a citizen of Michigan, Benjamin Purnell is amenable to the laws of the state, but in no other way.

As it is now the state has no recognition of the House of David. It is merely a case of several hundred people working for one man—much the same as a farmer employing many field hands or a manufacturer hiring a large number of employees.

Benjamin and Mary Bag Land and Members' Cash

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 1.—Benjamin Purnell, the man who has founded and built up the Israelite House of David and who has 300 followers from Australia, England, and the United States, today secured complete control of deeds to every tract of land under control of the organization and every dollar which it has in the treasury. By his coup he has defeated the state authorities in their efforts to drive him from the state.

At a meeting today Purnell explained to his followers that the state officials were attempting to drive out the society, and he appealed to the members to aid him and save their society and their religion. The state objected to the Israelites, he said, because they were conducting various business enterprises while under the articles of a church, and to stop this, he said, it was necessary for the members to throw all of their property into the hands of himself and his wife, dissolve the society, and leave everything in their control as private property.

A Real Honest Man

He Rode Thirty Miles on a Bicycle to Return $2

Three Oaks, the center of the world boasts of having a real, live, honest man.

Many years ago Diogenes, with the aid of a lantern, looked for an honest man. He failed to find him. Should Diogenes return today, he would need to look no farther than Berrien county. The honest man would be found at Three Oaks. This is the story:

Edwin V. Smith rode thirty miles on a bicycle in order to restore to County Treasurer Cass of Laporte county $2 which he had been overpaid when paying his taxes. Mr. Smith, who owns land in Laporte county, traveled to Laporte to pay his fall taxes and also the taxes of his son-in-law. In looking over his receipts in the treasurer's office he found that his son-in-law was charged with a poll tax of $2. His son-in-law is only 20 years old and so Mr. Smith called attention thereto, whereupon he was referred to Auditor Miller, who upon the statement of Mr. Smith issued to him a voucher for $2, as provided by law. Mr. Smith went to the treasurer's office, where Mr. Cass handed him $2. Mr. Smith went home and in looking up his last spring's receipts and figuring over his taxes he made the discovery that his son-in-law had been allowed the $2 when the taxes were paid in the spring. Mr. Smith realized that he had unintentionally got the best of the county by $2. His conscience hurt him and if it hadn't been so late he would have returned to Laporte that night. During the night he was worried and as soon as he could get started he was on his way to Laporte on a bicycle to return the $2. He hastened to Auditor Miller's office first, where in an excited frame of mind he explained that he wished to return $2 which he had been overpaid. He was directed to the treasurer's office, where he hastily turned in the $2 that was burning holes in his pockets and received from Mr. Cass the voucher which the auditor had issued.

"30 Club"

The "30 Club" spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Claude Baker. It being Indian Summer the afternoon was given to the study of the Indian. Roll Call was responded to with quotations from "Hiawatha." Mrs. Ida Bishop had an interesting paper on the "Arts and Industries of the Indians." Mrs. Claude Baker then gave a talk on "Indian Legends" which was much enjoyed by all. Mrs. Blake assisted by Mesdames Boardman and Peck and Miss Wilcox gave an Indian song. Mrs. E. S. Roe read a poem "The Legend of the Pipesbane." This was followed by general conversation with Miss Wilcox as leader, each member giving some fact in regard to the Indian. Miss Mansfield read an article on "Ojibway Music" and the religion, etc. was discussed.

The home was decorated with Navajo blankets and rugs. Instruments of war were on exhibition, also Indian jewelry and pottery. A medicine man's hat attracted much attention as did also two specimen of blankets in the loom. After singing "Juanita" the club adjourned to meet Oct. 9, with Miss Elsie Sellers.

Sale of Gasoline

An act to provide for the regulation of the sale by dealers and the keeping on hand by consumers, of gasoline.

(Act No. 178, P. A. 1907.)

The people of the state of Michigan enact:

SECTION 1. Every person dealing at retail in gasoline, benzine or naphtha shall deliver the same to the purchaser only in barrels, casks, packages or cans painted vermilion red and having the word "gasoline," "benzine" or "naphtha" plainly stenciled thereon. No such dealer shall deliver kerosene in a barrel, cask, package or can painted or stenciled as hereinbefore provided. Every person purchasing gasoline, benzine or naphtha for use shall procure and keep the same only in barrels, casks, packages or cans painted and stenciled as hereinbefore provided. No person keeping for use kerosene shall put or keep the same in any barrel, cask, package or can painted or stenciled as hereinbefore provided. Provided, however, That in case of gasoline, benzine and naphtha being sold in bottles for cleaning and similar purposes, it shall be deemed sufficient if the contents of such bottles are so designated by a label securely pasted or attached thereto with the words "gasoline, benzine or naphtha," printed in bright red ink in letters not less than one-fourth inch in size.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the State Oil Inspector and his deputies to enforce the provisions of this act; and their compensation and expenses while so engaged shall be paid from the fund derived from inspection of illuminating oil.

SEC. 3. Any person violating any of the provisions of section one of this act shall be punished by a fine of not less than five nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court, before whom such conviction was had.

SEC. 4. Act number one hundred eighty-one of the laws of eighteen hundred ninety-nine is hereby repealed.

This act is ordered to take effect November one, nineteen hundred seven.

Hard Times in Kansas.

The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Goddell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me." The safest and most reliable cough and cold remedy and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by W. N. Brodrick's drug store 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

No Change in Policy

President Roosevelt is to be commended for making it emphatic that the policy of the administration is to remain unchanged. His earnestness in this regard can only be taken as an indication that he has again heard the call of the interests, which have been hit, and that he has again refused to heed.

It means the president will go right on enforcing the law against wrong doers of great wealth. This he will do regardless of the cry which has gone up from Wall street, that to continue his policy is to imperil the business prosperity of the country. The president doesn't admit that it has been the cause of any unrest which may have developed. He is right. The people hold the same opinion. The men, or corporation, if the word is preferable, who have been guilty of wrong doing are the ones to blame. Even if the policy of the administration could be held accountable the public would still have no fault to find. Why? Because it will mark the finish of frenzied finance. The president's policy means an eventual return to honest business principles, even by those who have assumed that water is the best policy.

The president said in his Keokuk address that if a man does well, if he acts honestly, he has nothing to fear from the administration. Honest enforcement of the law never need cause fear and trembling to one who honestly obeys the law. The president does exceedingly well to make the point strong. The man who disregards the law, whether he be capitalist or pickpocket, should be punished. The administration deservingly has the public back of it in its law enforcement program.

The rights of the many should never be prostituted to the desires of the few. President Roosevelt means just this when he says that the man who transgresses the law, be he rich or poor, shall be brought before the impartial justice of a court.

Everybody Has Met Him.
The melancholy man looked more than usually downcast—so depressed, in fact, that one of his acquaintances was rash enough to ask him what was the matter.
"Oh, everything!" replied the melancholy man.
"Market been against you?"
"No-o, not exactly," was the rejoinder, "but I'm considerably worried over what may happen next week."
"Sickness at home?"
"Not yet," replied the melancholy man, "though I'm afraid that I'm getting ready for my regular touch of malaria about this time of year."
"Forewarned is forearmed," returned the other with as much cheerfulness as he could summon up under the circumstances. "I see. Some one of your friends is in trouble, and it's preying on your mind."
"Friends?" sniffed the melancholy man. "Much good it would do my friends if I gave them advice. Think of them? Of course I do, but for all the benefit they derive from what I tell them I might as well never give them any thoughts at all."
"Well, what in thunder is it?" asked the other, coming back to first principles.
"Oh, everything," replied the melancholy man as he despondently turned away.—New York Press.

Shadow Sketches.

Nature was the first artist, and a shadow sketch was the first picture made. She is still spreading her beautiful designs wherever a beautiful object stands in the sunlight, and we are about to learn what she can teach us of her method. In going along country roads and paths have you not admired the shadows that the flowers and all graceful plants cast on the ground? Those of leaves and vines actually display the outlines of the plants to even better advantage than can be seen in the objects themselves, because shadows have no perspective and no shading. An easy way to arrange a vase of flowers or of leafy twigs for drawing is to study their shadow on a wall while the vase is slowly turned until the shadow shows them to be suitably placed.

As a rule objects like large leaves and birds' nests are best for simple outlining, while delicate and complicated shadows like those cast by vines and, by most flowers are best for the blackened surface of the silhouette. Shadow outlines make good records of flowers and plants if accompanied by the usual notes on color and habit.—St. Nicholas.

When You Are Bilious.

The only salvation for the person with a torpid liver, according to What to Eat, is through a changed system of dietetics, combined with exercise in the outdoor air, calisthenics and deep breathing. The person with a bad liver should habitually practice deep and long breathing, filling the lungs at each inhalation. The curative dietary must consist principally of nerve or brain food, including fish and a reasonable amount of beef, with generous quantities of cereal foods and the fruits that are rich in acids. In warm weather it is best to abstain from milk altogether. Butter and vegetable fats, olive oil, boiled rice, baked apples, baked potatoes, graham or whole wheat bread, soft boiled eggs, all constitute a safe and nourishing diet for the bilious person. At the first symptom of biliousness squeeze the juice of half a lemon in the water you drink just before breakfast and before going to bed at night.

Health in the Canal Zone

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear, well knowing they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney.

A "Peach" of a War Story.

Humor is not associated with the bloody days of Kentucky in Revolutionary times. But a bit of fun of the grewsome kind is recited by Lynn Tew Sprague in the Outing Magazine in an article entitled "General Isaac Shelby, First Governor of Kentucky." The incident follows:
"A patriot soldier of the neighborhood named Culbertson, who subsequently became a captain, was at the time acting as a scout to Shelby's command, and while gathering information before the action he came suddenly upon a British dragoon, far from support, who was eating a peach. Both were startled by the meeting, and the Britisher swallowed the fruit, stone and all, and reached for his gun. A shooting match ensued. The dragoon perished in the duel and was hastily buried by the scout in a shallow hole. Visiting the grave next year, Culbertson found a peach tree growing from it, and he boasted of living to enjoy fruit rooted in British soil and fertilized by his adversary. The story, we may add, is Culbertson's very own, but who shall say that the patriot army lacked constructive imagination?"

Battle Creek Has Cleaning

Stall Saloon Must go in City of Peace and Pure Food.

Battle Creek, Oct. 3.—Following some sensationally direct statements by Prosecuting Attorney Stewart, before the Men's League, and sermons by nearly all local preachers, newspaper criticism, editorially and from the news standpoint, visitations by the National Purity women, and other powerful levers, the common council has at last succumbed to the call for cleanliness and on Monday evening will pass an anti-stall saloon ordinance.

The women's crusade revealed that stalls were not only existent here, but well populated by young girls. Degrading scenes were unearthed and the newspapers unhesitatingly told the truth. Then Sunday evening Prosecutor Stewart delivered his red-hot argument.

Prosecutor Stewart said the laws were not carried out because the business men objected to any action against bawdy houses or the like. He even declared that if a half dozen business men openly dared to stand for the eradication of the evil, the evil would be eradicated. Then he, as a public official, exposed the city's action in working "hand in glove" with the bawdy house proprietors.

"The law" said Stewart, "plainly allows a fine of $1,000 or five years in prison for violations. But the police have been in the habit of making raids spasmodically, the proprietresses knowing their fine would be $25."

Mayor Earl talks about the town being bonded to the limit, but he claimed to the contrary when he wanted the city to buy the VanNoppen building for $4,500, with a view to making improvements thereon that would have cost several thousands additional. The fact is that the town is bonded for only about $170,000, whereas, according to the assessed valuation, $30,000 more could be raised without exceeding the limit fixed by law.—Niles Star.

Various Kinds of Hypocrites.

HERE is constant danger that the Christian attitude may be lost in the UNSCRUPULOUSNESS OF BUSINESS. A competitive world lamentably succeeds in developing men whose ambitions do not rise above the standards of mere wealth.

COMFORTING WORDS.

EVERY BUCHANAN HOUSEHOLD WILL FIND THEM SO

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Buchanan readers.

Mrs. E. Skibbe, living at 812 Broad street, St. Joseph, Mich., says:

"Doan's Kidney Pills are no doubt the best remedy I have ever used. I suffered greatly with kidney trouble. The secretions from my kidneys were very frequent and annoying during the night. They were dark in color, of an offensive odor, and contained a heavy sediment if left standing. My back was very weak and my house work was performed only with great misery. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and was surprised at the quick cure they effected. (From statement given Nov 2, 1901.)

CURED TO STAY CURED
On Oct. 31, 1906, Mrs. Skibbe was interviewed and said: 'I am glad to confirm what I said in 1901 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. The cure they effected at that time has proved to be a permanent one. I am very glad to again recommend them.'

Rev. Graff, Accused; Is Taken to Joliet, Illinois

Benton Harbor, Oct. 2.—Rev. B. F. Graff, formerly of Hartford, who was arrested in Benton Harbor several weeks ago on a charge of giving fraudulent checks has gone to Illinois where he will answer a charge of obtaining money under false pretense in Joliet. Graff was released on the charge here but objected to accompanying the Joliet officer back, but while Attorney C. M. VanRiper of Hartford, and Mrs. Graff were applying for a writ to prevent being taken there, it having been granted and the hearing set for the afternoon, Graff was induced by the officials to take the train for Illinois.

Upon learning of his departure, Mrs. Graff and Attorney VanRiper returned to Hartford, and the outcome of the proceedings at Joliet has not yet been learned.

"The Red Mill"

The third and last month of the record-breaking engagement of Montgomery and Stone in Charles Dillingham's production of "The Red Mill" at the Grand Opera House, Chicago, has now been entered upon and as the closing performances draw near the crowds get bigger than ever. It is apparent that the piece could run for six months in Chicago, and perhaps longer. Nothing like this engagement has ever been known in the history of western theatricals. The receipts are said on good authority to have been close to $20,000 a week for two months and there is not the slightest cessation in the attendance. It is a great pity that the run has to be interrupted but at the end of this month the entire company and production will be transported to Boston, where a long booking has been arranged. The organization will not be seen again in the West this season and this will positively be the last chance that people in this section will have to witness the delightful musical play and to enjoy the work of the wonderfully active stars, Montgomery and Stone, and their talented colleagues, Allene Crater, Ethel Johnson, Edna Fassett, Maxine Verande, D. L. Don, Edward Begley, Neil Macay, Stanley Hawkins, Charles Dox and Claude Cooper.

A specific for pain—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, strongest, cheapest liniment ever devised. A household remedy in America for 35 years.

Schoolroom Humor

No story illustrates the curious mixture of associated ideas better than the following: I asked a small boy one day after a long and labored scripture lesson, "What did Peter do to prove that he was penitent?" Up rose a dozen hands, and I selected one. "Please, teacher," came breathlessly. "He crows three times?"

Another time I was explaining about the gathering of the manna in the wilderness, and how the Israelites had to collect a double quantity on the Saturday so as to last over Sunday. "But if," I pointed out, "they gathered enough for two days on the Monday, the heavenly food would be unfit to eat by Tuesday." A little girl of five was deeply interested, and anxiously asked, "But, teacher, s'pos'n that Toosday was Washin'ton's burf-day?"—"Humor of the Schoolroom," in the Ladies' World for October.

His Dear Old Mother

"My dear old mother, who is now eighty three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by W. N. Brodrick, druggist, 50c.

Knowing Miss Knowlton

By MARSHALL LEONARD.

Copyright, 1907, by William Darcy.

It seemed to Travers that life really began for him when he came to Lester to superintend the building of the electric works, for until then life had been uneventful, and he had not known of Ada Knowlton.

Even now he merely knew of her, for Travers was not a ladies' man. He was too terribly in earnest to shine in society, and, though he had been in Lester for nearly two months, he seemed as far from his goal as ever. Every Sunday he went to church and sat where he could watch the choir where Ada sang, the stained glass forming a background for the shapely golden head. The Rev. Josiah Rumford watched approvingly the expression of rapt interest that was upon Travers' face all through the sermon. He could not notice that the keen blue eyes of the young contractor were upon the choir rather than upon the pulpit, and he felt gratified that he should hold his auditor so well.

So it happened that the Rev. Josiah stopped at the new factory one morning and extended an invitation to Travers to join a church picnic the following week.

"It is almost a family affair," he explained as Jimmie's hand went down into his trousers pocket. "I am not selling tickets. It is purely by invitation and only for the members of the Sunday school, but I thought that perhaps you might like to meet some of the young people and get acquainted."

Jimmie beamed upon the kindly old man as he thought of Ada Knowlton and accepted the invitation with an effusiveness that caused the minister to wonder at certain comments he had heard regarding the unsociability of the newcomer.

"He is most cordial," he told his wife. "I am sure that he needs only to get acquainted to be a decided addition to our little society. I am sorry that I did not look him up earlier."

Travers echoed the same sentiment as he went about his work. Surely at

"DON'T MOVE," SAID A GENTLE VOICE. the picnic he should meet Miss Knowlton, and meeting Miss Knowlton had almost become an obsession with him. He climbed over the stagings and platforms with a light heart as he imagined the manner in which they should meet. He rather fancied an introduction under the trees. He would advance with bared head and bow low over her hand. Then she would give him one of those sunny smiles that almost seemed to be her habitual expression, and they would go walking together in the leafy shade. Over and over he mentally rehearsed this scene until it became almost real to him.

But at the last moment there came a complication at the factory, and it was after 11 when Travers finally got away. He lost his way trying to drive out in a livery buggy, and when at last he came to the lake lunch was over and the merry-makers had scattered through the woods.

The minister and his wife insisted that he have something to eat, and then motherly Mrs. Rumford took him in charge and introduced him to every one in sight, but Ada Knowlton was nowhere to be seen.

He made himself agreeable to the others, but his eyes continually sought a sight of the pink dress and golden head that had been the attraction. He had seen them drive past on their way to the lake, and he had carefully noted the dress, but not a glimpse of it did he get until well along in the afternoon.

Here and there the surface of the lake was dotted with small boats and canoes, and in one of the latter he saw the flash of pink that seemed to communicate its color to his face. Miss Knowlton, and alone! And she was paddling in to the landing!

With assumed carelessness, he directed his steps toward the tiny wharf to which the boats were tied. He would be on hand to assist her from the canoe, and perhaps after he had introduced himself there might be a chance for the walk after all.

He had just reached the dock and the frail craft was but twenty yards away when some one called to the navigator, and she turned to respond with a wave of her paddle. As she did so the canoe tipped over and she was spilled into the water.

White with horror, Travers stripped off his coat and his low shoes and dived to her assistance. He was a splendid swimmer, and his heart beat high as he thought of the opportunity that had been offered him.

Then something loomed dark above his head. There was a shock, and all became black. It was half an hour later that Travers opened his eyes again and looked up into Ada Knowlton's face bending anxiously over him. His head throbbled with pain, and he was conscious that it was done up in bandages.

"Don't move," said a gentle voice. "You will be all right in a few moments. You were struck on the head by the canoe."

"You were the rescued instead of the rescuer," laughed Dr. Pyfrom. "Miss Knowlton brought you to shore."

"I am so sorry," she said, bending over. "I was pushing the boat in front of me and did not notice that any one had dived after me. I should have been more careful, but I never supposed that any one would imagine that I was in danger."

"You see," explained the doctor, "the lake is only three or four feet deep, and when we spill out we just walk ashore."

"And I, like an ass, didn't know that," murmured Travers. "I only saw that Miss Knowlton had gone overboard, and I did not know but what she might be in trouble. She seemed to be struggling."

"That was my skirt," explained the girl. "It caught in the gunwale, and I had to detach it before I could find my footing."

"I guess that's about explanation enough," put in the physician. "I don't want to have you come down with a cold on top of a cut scalp. I guess you'd better drive into town. Miss Knowlton needs to go too. She is soaked. Do you think you can handle your horse?"

"I'm all right now," declared Travers, rising to his feet with the doctor's aid. The crowd melted away, and Dr. Pyfrom and the minister led him to his buggy. Miss Knowlton climbed in after him, and they started off.

"I suppose," said Travers as they cleared the grove, "you must think that I am lacking in courtesy in not thanking you for saving my life, but I am so upset."

"You ought to scold me for injuring you," she declared. "It was very awkward of me."

"You couldn't know that I was going to swim out to you," he reminded. "I think I should apologize for being in the lake at all."

The girl's laugh rang out at the suggestion. "I'm rather glad that you were there," she said, "though I am sorry that you were injured. I never was rescued before."

"Nor performed a rescue," he reminded. "I don't suppose that you can claim a gold medal for life saving."

"I don't want a reward," she insisted. "You should be entitled to the reward, if any one was, because you did not realize that a rescue was not dangerous."

"I am sufficiently rewarded in that I know you," he declared. "I have been wanting to meet you for some time."

Miss Knowlton blushed and changed the subject. She could not admit that she, too, had felt an interest, but in her heart she was glad that they knew each other, and when Travers took advantage of his unconventional introduction to call frequently it was not long before she consented to reward him with her hand in the conventional fashion decreed by custom.

"It's such a short courtship," she said, "but I feel that I have known you for years."

"It all depends upon the introduction," said Travers smilingly. "Bless that boat!"
