BUCHANAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1907

NUMBER 74

The Constitution Is Outworn.

By EDMUND J. JAMES, President of the University of Illinois.

IT is highly demoralizing for an individual, a state or a nation to pretend to live up to a principle and make no attempt to do so; TO PRETEND TO OBSERVE A LAW AND YET HABITUALLY VIOLATE IT; to pretend to keep within the limits of a written constitution and yet constantly overstep them. It is equally if not more demoralizing to go our own way, do what we please without regard to anything but OUR OWN VIEWS OF EXPEDIENCY and then maintain that all these things are in harmony with our professed principles, our accepted laws and our written constitution, when in order to justify this view it is necessary to interpret these principles, laws or constitution in such a way as to VIOLATE ALL RULES OF LOGIC and accepted canons of interpretation.

THIS IS WHAT WE ARE DOING IN THE UNITED STATES TODAY IN RESPECT OF OUR FEDERAL CONSTITUTION. So far has this process of construction been carried that the confidence of the average man in the protections and guarantees of the constitution has been profoundly shaken. It is no uncommon remark that if the constitution is the only thing that stands in the way of a proposed law some means can be found of evading that.

OUR CONSTITUTION IS INADEQUATE TO ENABLE THE NATION TO SOLVE THE MANY PRESSING PROBLEMS RELATING TO OUR SOCIETY, INDUSTRY AND POLITICS.

The question now is, What of the future? The cry of some people who see with clear eyes the necessity of some change in our policy is: "Back to the fathers! Give us the constitution as it was! Let us return to the good old ways!"

THIS IS, OF COURSE, IDLE PRATING. THE PAST IS GONE NEVER TO RETURN, AND WITH IT THE OLD CONSTITUTION, THE OLD PROBLEMS AND THEIR SOLUTIONS.

Ours are the twentieth century problems, and our faces must be toward the twentieth century, with all its THREATENING BUT GLORIOUS OUTLOOK.

We have our choice of one of several policies:

(1) Retaining the present constitution and trying to observe its provisions. This is destined to be a FAILURE, and the attempt may do us great harm by putting off the day of ultimate solution.

(2) Retaining the present constitution IN FORM, but proceeding with necessary legislation, trusting to the courts to find justification for such action by a progressively liberal interpretation and construction of the constitution.

AND, FINALLY, WE MAY ADOPT THE SIMPLE AND STRAIGHT-FORWARD AMERICAN POLICY—VIZ, CALL A NATIONAL CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION, ADOPT A NEW INSTRUMENT AND SUBMIT IT TO THE PEOPLE FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION.

No Shortage In Crop of Good Men.

By Governor HUGHES of New York.

IT is a GREAT MISTAKE to think that this country is full of men who pursue only dishonor and chicanery. It is wrong. This country is full of men who are anxious to attain in their lives what is HONORABLE AND BRAVE and who ask for nothing but a fair chance and a square deal in the pursuit of their respective labors or profession. There is one thing we should always remember. We must never think of ourselves as APART FROM OTHER MEN or other classes of men. The farmer must regard the man who works in the factory as his brother and the state as the state of all.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO THE STATE THAT WE SHOULD GROW HERE SOMETHING MORE THAN CORN, HAY OR APPLES. WHAT WE NEED MOST URGENTLY IS TO GROW GOOD MEN—MEN WITH CHARACTER. AND, THANK GOD, THE CROP OF GOOD MEN IN NEW YORK STATE IS BIGGER TODAY THAN IT EVER WAS IN ALL ITS HISTORY.

Perhaps I have had as much opportunity as any man to look into the forms of corruption that have arisen in connection with our financial life and the vast opportunities it offers. Far be it from me to minimize the AWFUL waste of manhood, the waste of splendid opportunity for noble attainments by men whom we have seen go down before the awful temptations of that prosperity.

BUT I CANNOT FORGET FOR ONE MINUTE THAT IN THIS COUNTRY WE HAVE UNTOLD NUMBERS WHO ARE WILLING TO DEAL JUSTLY WITH THEIR FELLOW MEN AND ASK NOTHING MORE FROM THE STATE THAN AN EQUAL CHANCE.

Township Does Not Give Subsidy to Traction Company

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 9.—The refusal of two townships in Marshall county to grant a subsidy of $66,000 to the Indianapolis, Logansport & South Bend railway has caused the company to change its route between Logansport and South Bend. Instead of coming to this city via Plymouth, the line will now run through Bourbon and Mishawaka, Plymouth being entirely cut off.

A Criminal Attack

on an inoffensive citizen is frequently made in that apparently useless little tube called the "appendix." Its generally the result of protracted constipation, following liver torpor. Dr. King's New Life Pills regulate the liver, prevent appendicitis, and establish regular habits of the bowels. 25c at W. N. Brodick's drug store.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Regulators. They operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

Chicago Grand Opera House

"The Red Mill," Chicago's favorite entertainment of the season continues its record breaking run at the Grand Opera House. This musical gem, rich with Victor Herbert's best work as a composer and enlivened with the wholesome mirth of Montgomery and Stone, is now beginning its ninth week in Chicago, playing to capacity at every performance. Without a doubt, it has broken all theatrical records.

Messrs. Montgomery and Stone are more amusing in "The Red Mill" than they were in "The Wizard of Oz." They dance and sing there through the entire piece, and are on the stage, putting forth their best efforts most of the time. To hear them sing "In Old New York" and to see them imitate Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson is to acquire a fund of cheering memories that are as good as a vacation. Miss Ethel Johnson, who has the soubrette role, is an important factor in "The Red Mill." Her dancing is poetry itself, and sustains her reputation as the best dancer on the American stage. Edna Fassess who was the prima donna in "The Tattooed Man" last summer, is another engaging member of the excellent cast.

Henry Blossom has endowed "The Red Mill" with an exceptionally clever libretto, and Mr. Charles Dillingham has given it one of the most beautiful productions ever seen in Chicago. There is real art in the stage settings of the two acts, one showing a scene in Holland with the red mill in the foreground, and the other the interior of a rich Dutch burgomaster's house, in Delft blue. "The Red Mill" has all the elements needed in a musical entertainment, and has them in abundance. In addition, it has Montgomery and Stone, who are geniuses unique in their line. Herein lies the explanation of its amazing success.

POSITIVE PROOF

SHOULD CONVINCE THE GREATEST SKEPTIC IN BUCHANAN

Because it's the evidence of a Buchanan citizen. Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof read it.

Wilbur J. Killner, carpenter, living at south end of Detroit street, Buchanan, Mich., says: "For many years I suffered from kidney troubles, backache and headache. The headache were more severe than my backache and would prevent me from doing my work. Backache, however, at times was very severe, and the sharp, shooting pains that would strike me when I bent over or moved suddenly made me sick, and a dull aching pain would keep me awake at nights, and it soon began to tell seriously on my general health. I suffered from sick headache, and the pains in my head were excruciating, and I would be several days recovering from one of these attacks. I tried all kinds of remedies, also consulted doctors, but I never received any relief, until I tried Doan's Kidney Pills which were recommended to me by a friend who had used them for the same complaint with the most beneficial results. I procured a box at W. N. Brodick's drug store and began taking them, and I noticed immediate improvement, and which continued until I was completely cured, and I have not had one of my old attacks since. I do not hesitate to say that I believe Doan's Kidney Pills are exactly as represented, and would advise anyone who is suffering from kidney trouble in any of its forms to give a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

EDWARDS NOT GUILTY

Niles Young Man Acquitted Wednesday Afternoon

It took a jury in the circuit court Wednesday afternoon a little better than two hours to find George Edwards, of Niles, innocent of the crime of which he was accused by a 17-years-old girl from the same town. Edwards was represented by Judge Van Riper, of Niles.

MOTHER GETS LITTLE GIRL

Judge Coolidge Gives Mother Custody of Her Daughter

Niles, Oct. 9.—The habeas corpus case, wherein Mrs. Edna Nolan, wife of Albert Nolan, sought to recover possession of her six-year-old daughter, who has been in the custody of Mrs. Ollie Buick for nearly four years, was decided by Judge Coolidge Saturday.

A pathetic scene was enacted in the court room when the decision was read, the little girl shedding copious tears as she clung to her foster mother, upon whose countenance anguish was depicted. Attorney Burns was granted a week in which to decide as to whether or not he would appeal the case, but the court stated that the child must be given into the custody of the mother.

30 Club

The 30 Club met Wednesday afternoon with Miss Elsie Sellers. It was "Travel Day" and roll call was responded to by each member giving a brief description of something she has seen while traveling. Mrs. E. W. Sanders gave an interesting talk on "A Day in Venice" and told some of her own experiences while in that city. Mrs. Chas. Boyle's "Sidelights on Arizona" was much enjoyed her photographs and mineral specimens added greatly to her description of the country and mines. Miss Effie Sellers favored the club with a vocal solo "Sing on" and as an encore sang "A Japanese Maiden." "New York by Megaphone" was Miss Mansfield's subject and was illustrated by pictures of some of the most noted places of interest. Mrs. Chas. Pears gave an account of a trip to "Chinatown" which was much enjoyed. Each number was followed by questions on the subject and this made the afternoon's work not only pleasant but profitable as well. After a vocal number by Miss Effie Sellers the club adjourned to meet Oct. 16, with Miss Mansfield.

A "Peach" of a War Story. Humor is not associated with the bloody days of Kentucky in Revolutionary times. But a bit of fun of the gawdies kind is recited by Lynn Tew Sprague in the Outing Magazine in an article entitled "General Isaac Shelby, First Governor of Kentucky." The incident follows:

"A patriot soldier of the neighborhood named Culbertson, who subsequently became a captain, was at the time acting as a scout to Shelby's command, and while gathering information before the action he came suddenly upon a British dragoon, far from support, who was eating a peach. Both were startled by the meeting, and the Britisher swallowed the fruit, stone and all, and reached for his gun. A shooting match ensued. The dragoon perished in the duel and was hastily buried by the scout in a shallow hole. Visiting the grave next year, Culbertson found a peach tree growing from it, and he boasted of living to enjoy fruit rooted in British soil and fertilized by his adversary. The story, we may add, is Culbertson's very own, but who shall say that the patriot army lacked constructive imagination?"

When You Are Bilious.

The only salvation for the person with a torpid liver, according to What to Eat, is through a changed system of dietetics, combined with exercise in the outdoor air, calisthenics and deep breathing. The person with a bad liver should habitually practice deep and long breathing, filling the lungs at each inhalation. The curative dietary must consist principally of nerve or brain food, including fish and a reasonable amount of beef, with generous quantities of cereal foods and the fruits that are rich in acids. In warm weather it is best to abstain from milk altogether. Butter and vegetable fats, olive oil, boiled rice, baked apples, baked potatoes, graham or whole wheat bread, soft boiled eggs, all constitute a safe and nourishing diet for the bilious person. At the first symptom of biliousness squeeze the juice of half a lemon in the water you drink just before breakfast and before going to bed at night.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

NOT DIFFICULT TO GET JURORS

Late Act of Legislature Increases Pay From $2 to $3 a Day.

LOOKS GOOD TO FARMERS

Sheriff Will Not Be Compelled to Take County With Fine Tooth Comb For Competent Talesmen in Future.

Competent jurors will not be difficult to procure in Berrien county in the future.

On Monday, Sept. 30, last an act of the legislature became effective whereby all jurors, grand and petit, receive an increase in pay from $2 to $3 per day. The increase has been hailed with enthusiasm by the farmers. In the parlance of the street, it "looks good" to them.

Not until yesterday was the increase mentioned at the court house. In fact, it had been almost forgotten. The regular panel of jurors for the September term of circuit court was drawn and the jurors drew their pay at $2 per day.

Yesterday when it was discovered that the dollar increase had become effective the regular jurors were immediately informed. Jurors who served last week were paid at the old scale of $2 per day. However, they are entitled to the extra dollar and will have no difficulty in securing it.

Sheriff Tennant and the other court officers see an abundance of jurors in the future. Under the two-per-day scale talesmen were hard to find and when they were secured every conceivable excuse was put up to avoid jury work.

Farmers have always complained of the jury wages. Like city jurors, they have always pleaded that the cost of hiring some one to fill their place on the farm or at the store was always more than they received from the county.

The increase, however, alters things. Three dollars a day is not so bad.

Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by W. N. Brodick, druggist, 25c.

A Trip Through Russia and Siberia. Friday evening, Oct. 18 at the M. E. church you will have an opportunity to hear Capt. S. Alberti, ex-officer, ex-engineer and ex-convict of Siberia, Russia, picture to you Siberia with all its horrors, prisons and prison life, the way the convicts work in the mines, and the way they are punished. Capt. Alberti will not only enable you to actually feel the thrilling experiences by words but you will be in a position to see Moscow and other great Russian cities with the assistance of scientific stereopticon views and moving pictures. You will learn a great deal of wonderful things if you hear Capt. S. Alberti.

The Swiss Bell Ringers at the M. E. church next Wednesday evening, Oct. 16, 120 Swiss bells, 64 musical glasses, 24 musical rattles, 81 chimes, an illumination harp and violin. Tickets on sale at Binn's store, price 25c. Everyone come, well worth the price.

Gooseberries on Trees.

Travelers in Burma see many strange things, and perhaps one of the strangest is the way in which some kinds of fruit grow. For instance, gooseberries that at home grow on small bushes in this part of the world grow on trees over twenty-five feet high. They are not a soft, pulpy fruit, but are as hard as marbles. The real Burman grapes also grow on high trees and not on vines. They hang from the branches and trunk of the tree in clusters on a long stalk and are covered with a thick outer skin, which cannot be eaten. The cáchou, or monkey nut, is also peculiar and consists of a large, juicy fruit of soft pulp, with its nut or kernel attached to the outside of the fruit at the end farthest from the stalk from which it hangs.—London Standard.

Ruby R.F.D.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Across the fields the heat waves shimmered "like an invisible jelly," as Dabney Forbush put it to his sister. "I wouldn't go to town with the handsomest man in the postal service," he declared laughingly as Ruby firmly stamped a tiny foot on the floor. "I don't think you're fair to the poor chap," he went on, more seriously. "Suppose he becomes so hopelessly in love that at the end of the season, when you go back to town, he finds the Parkvale girls dull and uninteresting. Perhaps he will commit suicide." "I wish you would keep quiet," said Ruby hotly. "I have to go to town to get some silks for that sofa pillow I am making for you. If Mr. Perkins is so kind as to take me in, you should be grateful to him." "If it's for that class pillow you're making for me, I'll go in after it myself."

"I WANT TO SAY GOODBYE TO YOU HERE UNDER THE TREES."

self," offered Dabney. "It will save Perkins the trouble of hitching up and driving back here again. That's no part of his postal labors."

Ruby stamped her foot again. "I think you are perfectly horrid," she declared. "Just as though you could pick out the right colors!"

"A man ought to know his own class colors," Dabney defended. "You say I never do anything for you, and then when I offer to take a hot trip to town and walk all the way back you call me horrid. Here comes Peter Perkins now. I guess I'll slide into the house. Great emotions always upset me."

He dodged into one of the low windows before Ruby could reach him with the cushion she had caught up from one of the chairs, and his mocking laugh rang out as the girl gave a little shake to her ruffled plumage and started down the shady walk to the gate.

The ramshackle wagon used in the rural free delivery service was just drawing up to the block, and she climbed lightly to a place beside the stalwart young fellow, whose glad smile showed all too plainly the pleasure he felt.

"It was awfully good of you to come back this way for me," she said after her hand had lingered an instant in his muscular grip. "Dab does make such a martyr of himself when he does anything for me, and Mr. Slocum will not let us have the horses in the harvest-lug season."

Live, active and energetic. The paper with the ginger in it. That's the Record.

The Record is the oldest newspaper in and is the best advertising medium in the county.

"I was only too glad to come back," said Perkins simply. "You can't blame Slocum about the horses. He needs them all just now. If you come to a real farmhouse to spend the summer, you can't expect a livery outfit like those places where the biggest crop they raise is summer boarders."

"It has been such a real summer," she said smilingly. "I hate the round of fashionable hotels. This has been ideal."

"Parkvale is a pretty nice place," he said reflectively. "I don't know when I ever spent a more pleasant summer myself."

"You have done a very great deal toward making things pleasant for me," said Ruby. "I don't know when I ever saw Dabney so disobliging. If it had not been for you, I don't know what I should have done."

"We are supposed to be polite," he reminded. "It's in the regulations." Ruby wondered if the regulations required him to hitch up a fresh rig and drive her back to the farm after her purchases were made, as he had done a score of times.

From the first she had been attracted to the handsome young driver of the rural delivery. He was so unlike the men she knew in town. She shuddered at the name of Peter Perkins. It did not match his manner, or his appearance, but she had almost forgotten his name except when her brother teased her about it. At first

Ruby had simply utilized her inherent flirtatious instinct, but later she had come to realize that she loved the mail driver, and at times the knowledge frightened her.

Peter broke the silence.

"You'll be going back home pretty soon now, won't you?" he asked.

Ruby nodded.

"We expect to leave Saturday. Dabney must visit an uncle from whom he has expectations, and mother wants me to come to her for a few weeks. She is in the mountains."

"I'm glad that you're going," he said abruptly.

"Glad!" Ruby turned in her seat to face him. "I don't think that you are very polite!" she cried.

"I couldn't bear to think of your being here after I am gone," he exclaimed simply.

"You are going?" she asked. "I thought you lived here."

"I was here only for the summer," he explained. "I must go back home too."

"I suppose you will carry pleasant recollections of this delightful country," she said. "I know that I shall always remember this summer most pleasantly."

"I want to take away something else," he said slowly. Ruby turned her face away and let her gaze wander over the fragrant flowering buckwheat. "I want to take with me your promise that some day I may come for you," he went on—"that some day I may come and claim you for my bride. May I, dear?"

Gently Ruby drew from his grasp the hand he had seized. Her heart cried "Yes," but there came into her mental vision the prospect of her ambitious mother. Mrs. Forbush would never consent to their union, and Mrs. Forbush could make life very unpleasant when she elected.

"I am sorry," she said softly, "but I cannot answer you as you want me to. I shall always remember most pleasantly this happy summer. Please do not ask more of me."

"You do not love me?" he demanded bluntly.

"I do like you," she said. "I—I cannot say more."

Peter flicked his horse with his whip, and the patient animal jogged on. He spoke no more of his love, and Ruby was grateful to him.

She went about her shopping while Peter drove over to the postoffice to report. When he returned to meet her it was with a livery rig.

"I cannot use the delivery horses now," he explained. "I am no longer working for the contractor. Shall we go home by the river road?"

Her eyes made answer. The river road was the longest and prettiest, and she would not deny herself this last trip with the man she loved. Tomorrow he must pass out of her life. Tonight she wished only that she might drive on and on far into the soft summer night.

But Peter kept the horse at a trot, and presently they were at the farm. He was a favorite with Mrs. Slocum, and she insisted that he come in and take supper with them. He lingered in the gloom of the trees until the moon was high, but at last he had to go.

"I want to say goodbye to you here under the trees," he said as he rose to his feet. "After I have harnessed up the whole family will come out. I am sorry you could not say "Yes," dear, but I do not blame you, and I shall always love you and cherish the memory of this summer."

He bent over her and lightly brushed her forehead with his lips. Then he strode off toward the barn, and presently she heard the grating of the buggy wheels upon the gravelled walk. There was the sound of voices as he took farewell of the group on the back porch, and then the carriage came down the drive and turned into the road.

For a moment the world seemed to stand still for Ruby; then she leaped from the hammock and went flying down the dusty road after the buggy.

"Peter! Peter!" she called softly. "Come back. It was all a mistake. I do love you, and I will marry you, no matter what mother says."

In an instant he had sprung from the buggy and had her in his arms. Dabney came running up.

"I want to be the first to congratulate you, old man," he said as he grasped Peter's hand. "I knew you'd win, even if sis does hate all the men I know."

"All the men you know!" gasped Ruby.

"This is Pennington, Pete Pennington," he explained, "my roommate at college. He took the job to meet you without the disadvantage of my indorsement."

"I would have loved him anyhow," declared Ruby stoutly, "millionaire or R. F. D. clerk, as you like."

Hard Times in Kansas

The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me."

The safest and most reliable cough and cold remedy and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by W. N. Brodriek's drug store 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
