Easy Divorce Leads to Free Love.

By MARGARET DELAND, Author.

DIVORCE is supreme INDIVIDUALISM. Divorce is something which is insisted upon since the brute became the man. Man apparently must first seek that which is natural and second that which is spiritual. Man bases his civilization on the family idea. THE FAMILY IDEA RESTS ON THE IDEA OF MARRIAGE.

But after the scheme of marriage has arrived the individual begins to voice his objection. He or she declares that as he or she is UNHAPPILY married he or she should be freed from unhappiness by the community. It may perhaps be admitted that an unhappy married man or woman is experiencing THE NEAREST APPROACH TO HELL likely to be undergone on earth.

A mere legal SEPARATION, however, satisfies every idea of HONOR AND SAFETY, despite the fact that individualism labeling its righteousness attacks marriage.

THE NEW SENSE OF INDIVIDUALISM IS AT THE BOTTOM OF THE DIVORCE LAW, AND THAT INDIVIDUALISM, WITH THE DIVORCE LAW IT HAS ENGENERED, IS AIMING AT FREE LOVE UNDER THE COVER OF CHASTELY WORDED EXPRESSIONS REGARDING AFFINITIES. THIS SHOULD NEVER BE FORGOTTEN—THAT INDIVIDUAL HAPPINESS WHICH CONFLICTS WITH THE IDEALS AND GOOD OF SOCIETY SHOULD BE RENOUNCED.

We Are Suffering From "Scathing Indictments."

By WOODROW WILSON, President of Princeton University.

SCATHING indictments" of our present industrial and political conditions are exactly what we are suffering from at the present moment, and they are to be offset not by other "scathing indictments," but by a very CALM AND SELF POSSESSED EXAMINATION OF THE ACTUAL CONDITION OF THINGS. What we need at present is NOT HEAT, BUT LIGHT. A just view of the existing situation would not, of course, excuse any of the GROSS EVILS which have sprung up in our business management or rather in our manipulations of industrial enterprise.

IT WOULD, ON THE CONTRARY, SEEK TO DISCOVER JUST WHAT THOSE EVILS ARE AND JUST WHAT THE BEST REMEDY FOR THEM IS. AT THE MOMENT WE ARE SUFFERING QUITE AS MUCH FROM THE BLUNDERING AND UNINTELLIGENT METHODS BY WHICH OUR GOVERNMENTS, STATE AND FEDERAL, AND PUBLIC OPINION THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY HAVE BEEN ATTEMPTING TO REMEDY THESE EVILS AS FROM THE EVILS THEMSELVES.

Indiscriminate abuse is clearly NO REMEDY and does not create the state of mind in which a remedy is possible. We need above all things else at present MODERATION IN COUNSEL AND A CAREFUL DISCRIMINATION OF THE GOOD FROM THE EVIL. The vast bulk of our business is SOUND. The vast majority of our business men are upright and honest.

It would be deeply unjust to say that our great corporations are "predatory" in their intentions or in their methods. No doubt there are individuals who SCRUPLE AT NOTHING in the accumulation of wealth and who use the wealth they have accumulated without regard to the laws either of public justice or of private morals. But these men IMPAIR the business of the country more than they assist it, and it is in the interest of all concerned that they should be singled out and separated from those who are carrying forward the LEGITIMATE undertakings of the country.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

A marriage license was granted to Charles W. Patterson, 28, Buchanan; Lydia May Matthews, 31, same.

Berrien Springs' Lights

Turned on Saturday for the First Time. System Giving Satisfaction. Accepted and Paid For.

Berrien Springs' new electric lighting system is finished inspected and paid for. Engineer Hammond of South Bend, who inspected the system, says the town the best lights has in Berrien county.

To say they are proud of their well lighted little city would not half express their feelings. The people have been in the dark so long that a tallow candle set on a fence post would look good to them. But the best is none to good for Berrien Springs—hence their fine system.

Ask $30,000 for Life.

Anna F. Smith, widow of Howard T. Smith who was accidentally killed by a passenger train at a grade crossing near the village of Stevensville January 1, 1905, filed a $30,000 damage suit in circuit court Wednesday against the Pere Marquette system.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZABETH HARWI,

Wife of A. J. Harwi, died at 4:10 o'clock last Saturday afternoon. For several days past hope of her recovery had been abandoned and loved ones summoned. Dr. Knerr, the family physician, says Mrs. Harwi has been troubled four or five years with a rare condition known in medical parlance as myedema, which is a wasting away of the thyroid gland of the neck; a condition directly opposite in outward demonstration, to goitre. A complication of kidney trouble set in, which was the immediate cause of death. Mrs. Harwi consulted a specialist in Chicago several years ago, who gave her but two months to live. All her life she was of an exceedingly cheerful and sanguine disposition, and clung to life, contending even to the last, that she would get well. She was a most estimable woman, and relatives and friends were devoted to her. Mrs. Harwi was born October 20 1846, in Cleveland, Ohio, and came to Atchison in September, 1876, as the head of the musical department of Mrs. H. E. Monroe's institute. Fifteen months after coming here, on January 8, 1878, she was married to Alfred J. Harwi, and had been his constant helpmate, a perfect wife and mother. Three children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harwi. One died in infancy, and the others are Mrs. H. P. Shedd, of New York, and Frank Harwi, of Atchison. Mrs. Shedd arrived here some time ago on account of her mother's illness. The deceased is survived by one sister, Mrs. Emma Pears, of Buchanan, Michigan, who was also at her bedside when the end came. The funeral occurred from the residence at Eleventh and Atchison streets, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. F. D. Altman, president of the Western Theological seminary, conducted the services.—Atchison (Ia.) Daily Globe, Dec. 16.

SEES A TAFT LANDSLIDE

Walter Wellman Seizes Up the Situation

There is no doubt whatever that the movement to make Judge Taft the Republican nominee is rapidly gaining strength, says Walter Wellman, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Tennessee, West Virginia, Minnesota, most of the far western and Pacific states are falling in behind Ohio. The movement in favor of Taft is widespread, more spontaneous, more truly national, than that for any other candidate. There are so-called favorite sons in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Wisconsin and perhaps other states. But the candidacy of none of these appears to be attracting much attention or many followers outside their own common-wealths.

Judge Taft returns home to find himself easily in the lead in the presidential race.

A REAL WONDERLAND

South Dakota, with its rich silver mines, bonanza farms, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mound City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed near death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhausting coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs. Clapp, "when I began giving Dr. King's New Discovery, the great medicine that saved his life and completely cured him." Guaranteed for coughs and colds, throat and lung troubles, by W. N. Brodrick, druggist, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CHANGE AT THE PROBATE OFFICE

Rolland E. Barr, Former Buchanan Boy, Leaves Position of Probate Register.

Rolland E. Barr, who for seven years has served as Probate Register of Berrien county, under Judge Frank H. Ellsworth, tendered his resignation Wednesday and will open a law office in the rooms with Hon. Lawrence C. Fyfe says the St. Joseph Herald. This fact will come as a surprise to many, particularly his many friends in Buchanan, he having attended our public schools.

Mr. Barr came to St. Joseph from Three Oaks where he established law offices directly after his graduation from the law department of the Ann Arbor University, and has endeavored to fill the office to which he was appointed to the best of his ability.

Since coming to St. Joseph he has become prominent in Masonic circles and is just finishing a term as Worshipful Master of St. Joseph Lodge, No. 437, F. and A. M. He is complimented by all as filling the position with marked ability and satisfaction.

Mr. Barr announces that he will be a candidate before the Republican primaries, next year for the office of Judge of Probate of Berrien county. No one has yet been decided upon by Judge Ellsworth for the vacancy in the Probate office.

BADLY MIXED UP

Abraham Brown, Winterton, N. Y., had a very remarkable experience; he says: "Doctois got badly mixed up over me; one said heart disease; two called it kidney trouble; the fourth blood poison, and the fifth stomach and liver trouble; but none of them helped me, so my wife advised trying Electric Bitters, which are restoring me to perfect health. One bottle did me more good than all the five doctors prescribed." Guaranteed for blood poison, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, by W. N. Brodrick, druggist, 50c

Settled for Bad Eggs

Mention was made in a recent issue of Dowagiac Herald of the sale of $5 worth of eggs to one of the grocers by a farmer residing east of that city.

The man was in the city recently, and upon having the law explained to him promptly settled, his claim that the trouble grew out of defective packing of which he was not aware, saving him from arrest.

The eggs could not be distinguished from good ones until broken open. The law is very severe in violations of this kind, and in this case the man was not aware of it.

BOYCOTT ALBION GROCERS

Have Secret Combine to Keep up Prices

Albion grocers and butchers must lower their prices. The Gale Manufacturing Co., which employs about 400 men, has been taking an interest in behalf of their employes in the prices charged for necessities there, with the result that some things have been found selling at higher figures than in neighboring towns. After a refusal to lower prices the Gale Mfg. Co., sent an order for $300 worth of groceries to Jackson. If the grocers and butchers, who have a secret organization, do not lower prices to a level with prices elsewhere the Gale Co. intend to send out of the city for all the supplies needed by their employes.

W. A. D. ROSE, CANDIDATE

Active Republican Candidate for County Treasurer

W. A. D. Rose of Benton township, is an active candidate for the office of county treasurer, and has an ambition to succeed the present incumbent, Carl J. Schultz, says the St. Joseph Press. Mr. Rose is visiting sections of the country, and has given out the information that he intends to make a campaign, and if possible secure the nomination. Mr. Rose is a fruit grower, but has had a lifetime of experience as an accountant, and is a thorough bookkeeper. He has never held office except one term as supervisor of Benton township.

Cat Sucks Breath

A stray cat wandered into Clarence Stearns' home in South Gladstone, Mich., Friday night and the father was awakened by the crying of the baby. He found that the cat had nearly smothered the child by sucking its breath. The claws lacerated its breast as the cat was pulled off.

Four other children were attacked and physicians think two will die.

PRETTY CHRISTMAS WINDOW DISPLAYS

Call for Still Greater Skill and Care Each Year—A Feature of the Modern Store

Each year an increasing amount of attention is paid to the window displays of the stores, and during this season special efforts are always made in this direction. Formerly a few samples of the goods handled inside were considered to be enough, but now the display must not only be artistically and neatly arranged, but must have enough of novelty and originality to attract attention.

In most of the stores this department is given to one man who can give part of his time to "studying" the work as an art, and he is usually allowed to carry out his own ideas. Another source of designs and ideas is the big wholesale houses, many of which furnish their customers with out-fits and material for displaying their own products.

As the importance of this specialty is acknowledged, the attractiveness of the display has been increased until now this is one of the features of the holiday make-up of every city and town.

Minister Who Upheld Saloon Replied

Albion college students serenaded Rev. H. F. Grimm, who recently upheld the saloon, last Friday evening. They sang, "Tis beer, 'tis beer that makes Grimm act so queer," and "Oh, how Grimm loves Grand Rapids silver foam." The German Lutheran pastor came out on the porch to speak a word of greeting.

BOOBY BUCHANAN
 CHRISTMAS

The one holiday that never wears out, that never grows old, that renews itself from year to year is Christmas.

Largely because it appeals with most force to childhood is this true. Children are always young, and the phase of life that most appreciates this festival is always present and never changes.

In modern days Christmas has been made the occasion for a manifestation of good will toward men in practical ways to an extent never before known, and today in the centers of population there are thousands of happy children, both old and young, made so through the generosity of those who have found that giving is a greater privilege than receiving.

It seems as though such an observance once a year is a good thing for everybody, as it is a sort of stopping place, where most of us pause and take stock of our lives, measure our progress and make our plans for the new year just about to open.

Probably the meaning of the day changes as we view it from different periods of life, but there is no doubt that Christmas gets better and better with the added years and memories.

It recalls old friendships and associations, it brings out the reflective element of the mind, it is a sort of milestone, and around it must ever cluster many of the pleasant associations of every life.

There is no danger of losing our Christmas. Would that it might be as comfortably celebrated everywhere as in such rich fine spots as Berrien county.

INGRATITUDE OF FRIENDS

Chicago Journal: We have been speculating lately upon the actual quality of friendship and wondering if it is a real attribute of human existence.

One thing we have proved beyond per-adventure and that is if you wish to keep your friends you must not do too much for them. There is a quality in human nature which shrinks from any sort of obligation or duty, and the moment you become a duty friend you are making loans payable in ingratitude.

If you get a friend a position in business, or throw a good chance in his way, or sacrifice yourself in his personal interest, look out; there is something in the perverse human temperament which curdles against disinterested kindness, and you need not look for a return for your exercise of pure friendship.

When your service is done you are one of the stepping stones to your friend's success, nothing more; he wants something ahead, to which he cannot go hampered by old obligations, so he casts them aside unhesitatingly and you are left with the stinging consciousness of benefits forgotten.

We are all unreasonable in our own demands upon friendship—blind to our own transgressions and alert to those of the people we feel are indebted us. Few, indeed, of us have the breadth of mind to see all sides of the question and make allowance for human weakness. We fail, too, to consider how persistently our personal interests clash with those of our brothers.

Even in the family circle the question of personal rights is always a danger point and lifelong bitterness often exists between brothers and sisters when just a little generosity and willingness to serve even by sacrifice would make all smooth and friendly.

Love is a tyrant by nature, and wishes everything to bend to his desires, resents everything but entire allegiance and can not endure a thought of insubordination on the part of his subjects; but love has a lot to learn before he develops into the real thing, and it is when he wears the guise of friendship that his genius is put to the strongest test.

Can he remain the same through all sorts of treatment, through slights and indignities, through trials that touch the pocketbook and affect the bread and butter of his family? If so he is, indeed, a friend and has learned the Christ principle of forgiveness.

It is a noticeable fact that the Chicago Tribune gives undue prominence in the framing of its headlines to any little unpleasant thing that may be said by way of unfriendliness or criticism of President Roosevelt. The slightest manifestation of disfavor is magnified into bitter hostility. What can this mean? The Tribune, though a great newspaper, is intensely selfish and mercenary. The fact that The Tribune has been divorced from the diplomatic service of the present administration doubtless accounts for its inclination to magnify whatever hostility may be found to exist toward the present occupant of the White House.

Don't attach too much credence to the reports concerning Secretary Cortelyou's alleged presidential aspirations. What evidence does anyone possess that this gentleman has at any time schemed to secure a presidential nomination? Because Washington correspondents have sought to make him an aspirant does not by any manner of means make him such. In justice to him it must be said he has attended strictly to business. His advance in public station has been remarkable and extraordinary. A mere clerk under Cleveland's second administration, private secretary to President McKinley, made a cabinet officer by Roosevelt, is surely swift enough to gratify any man's ambition, without necessarily awakening presidential hopes in his bosom.

Bread is the staff of life only when the right kind of flour is used. The blended flour, Gerebelle is what you want. Treat has it. 98.

Future Wars Will Be Fought In the Air.

By Major GEORGE O. SQUIRES, Government Aeronaut.

THE success of aerial navigation has been established, and the success of aerial navigation means the introduction of NEW AND RADICAL METHODS IN WARFARE, extended possibilities of producing decisive results by strategic movements against untenable positions rather than by the loss of human life. IT MEANS THE ULTIMATE PASSING AWAY OF WARFARE in the present sense and the eventual dawn of the era of peace. Its radical influence on the methods of warfare will compare only with the invention of gunpowder and the tactics of Frederick the Great.

The last great war was conducted strictly in line with the text books and was accompanied at times with terrific slaughter. The great object of war, however, is to bring about a DECISIVE RESULT WITH A MINIMUM DESTRUCTION OF HUMAN LIFE. If we can utilize SCIENTIFIC principles to bring about this result without killing any one a great advance will be made. We have but three military arms—infantry, artillery and cavalry. The cavalry is designed to scout and develop information, and the other arms furnish the means of using the information thus obtained.

AERIAL NAVIGATION FURNISHES AN ADDITIONAL AND MORE COMPLETE MEANS OF OBTAINING INFORMATION AND ENABLES US TO MANEUVER ARMIES BY STRATEGIC MARCHES AND SURPRISES AND BRING ABOUT DECISIVE RESULTS WITH A MINIMUM DESTRUCTION OF LIFE. TRAINED OBSERVERS CAN LEAVE A FRONTIER, SCOUT ABOUT AN ENEMY'S COUNTRY AND SECURE INFORMATION OF VITAL IMPORTANCE. ADD TO THIS THE POSSIBILITY OF AIRSHIPS DROPPING HIGH EXPLOSIVES ON A DEFENSELESS PEOPLE AND THEIR IMPORTANCE BECOMES AT ONCE APPARENT.

It is possible even now, to tow a load of high explosives with a dirigible balloon and DROP the destructive load at such points as are desired. Against such an attack there is no effective resistance save by waging an AERIAL WARFARE, AIR FLEET AGAINST AIR FLEET. The possibilities are UNLIMITED, and they mean the revolutionizing of military methods with the result that decisive victories may be gained with a minimum loss of life.

Put Trust Officials In Jail.

By HENRY CLEWS, New York Banker.

THE TRUE REMEDY FOR REBATING AND OTHER WILLFUL VIOLATIONS OF LAW IS NOT TO BE FOUND IN THE INFLECTION OF HEAVY PENALTIES ON THE GUILTY CORPORATIONS, BUT ON THE RESPONSIBLE AND GUILTY OFFICERS OF THOSE CORPORATIONS, AND NOT ALONE BY FINE, BUT BY IMPRISONMENT.

Heavy fines inflicted on corporations FALL FINALLY ON THEIR STOCKHOLDERS through a corresponding loss of dividend paying power and the lowering of market prices for their stocks. The PROPER remedy is punishment behind iron bars.

The apprehension excited among investors and speculators by the Standard Oil's $29,240,000 fine—did an IMMENSE AMOUNT OF HARM through the enormous losses to which it led. In combination with the prosecution of the Southern railway by southern states, involving the conflict between North Carolina and Alabama and the United States courts, that EXTRAVAGANT fine, so suggestive of opera bouffe, was the immediate cause of heavy liquidation that turned the New York stock market into a storm center.

The righting and correction of wrongs practiced in violation of the interstate and antitrust laws of congress would have had no disturbing effects upon investors and the public mind IF PROPERLY VIEWED.

Remember the deserving poor by a Christmas present of a sack of Gerbelle flour. Treat has it. 98

Last Saturday Mrs. Nettie Lister entertained Mrs. Poyser's Mandolin and Guitar club at their last rehearsal before the holidays. The dining room was beautifully decorated in holly and cotton just as it came from the South. Oysters were served.

The Christmas exercises at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening, and at the Evangelical and Christian churches last evening were well attended. The churches were decorated in Christmas green and the programs given were exceptionally good. The programs at the other churches will be rendered this evening.

Joe Tichnor, who had the misfortune to have three fingers of his left hand torn out by a corn husker last Wednesday, was taken to South Bend to the Epworth hospital, last Friday where the hand was amputated two inches above the wrist. He is doing as well as could be expected at this writing.

For the past several days boys were throwing snow balls on Front street and it has become a dangerous nuisance. It is all right to indulge in many sports but this kind of sport ought to be confined to some other territory where innocent citizens are not subject to this outrage and where there should be no broken windows.

Jno. McFallon, who went to Ann Arbor last week to receive medical treatment, died Saturday morning about 11 o'clock, cause of death being due to the hardening of the muscles of the heart. The remains were brought here Sunday on the noon train and were taken to his home on Front street, where the funeral was held this morning at 10 o'clock.

The heavy snow which rendered a lot of inconvenience yesterday to many who had to walk knee deep on the principal sidewalks was the source of much indignation. It was almost afternoon before the village snow plow was put in action, when, if it was done earlier there would have been no discomfort at noon hour. It is hoped that when the next snow comes the snow plow will be out early. Property owners, of course, should do their share by shoveling off snow in front of their property.

Members of the Dowagiac fire department have tendered their resignations to the city council to take effect Jan. 1st. The reasons for these wholesale resignations are attributed to the alleged infringements upon the rights of the department by the city. They claim their rooms have been visited by chronic borrowers who have carried away wrenches, hose, etc., thus rendering the work of fighting fire ineffective and delayed.

There seems to be no legitimate reason why Buchanan people should go elsewhere to do their trading. A glance into the windows of local business houses presents to view almost anything and everything man, woman or child could long for as a Christmas souvenir and some of the business men of Buchanan are to be congratulated upon the elegant displays which have been prepared and upon their enterprise in securing the large and varied stocks which can be found in their places.

A barn belonging to Irving Jaquay, on the farm formerly belonging to Erastus Kelsey, located four miles north of Buchanan on the Berrien road, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning about 4 o'clock. The fire was discovered by John Montague who lives just north of there. The granary was saved. Three cows and three horses were burned to death. The barn was insured for $555; the corn crib, live stock and farm implements were insured for about $370.

Cupid's Lucky Day.

"What is the best and luckiest day to be married on?" somebody once asked an old gypsy whose fame as a sibyl had spread far and wide. The venerable dame smiled a sardonic smile and answered in oracular fashion: "Today is never lucky, nor yet tomorrow. The only lucky day is yesterday."

But there is a popular rhyme, so popular and so well known that perhaps I ought not to quote it yet again, that tells us definitely what sort of luck, good, bad or indifferent, we may expect according to what day we have chosen on which to appear before the altar of Hymen.

Monday for wealth, Tuesday for health, Wednesday the best of all; Thursday for crosses, Friday for losses, Saturday no luck at all

October is said to be the luckiest month for marriage, though June is almost equally fortunate. May is supposed to be the most unlucky month out of all twelve, but I have known several May marriages that have been more fortunate, prosperous and happy than the majority.—Modern Society.

On Both Sides

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1907, by E. C. Parcels.

"Looks pretty, doesn't it?" demanded Ted Barrion as Nella Fenway came out on the broad piazza.

The girl glanced over the well kept lawn, past the road and so across the fields to the cool dark of the woods beyond.

"Pretty!" she repeated scornfully "It's just the loveliest thing I ever saw. It looks almost like the country."

"Almost," echoed Barrion. "I say, that's a bit rough on a fellow. Sincerely guaranteed that it would be the real thing."

"That's just the trouble," she explained. "You just go to the man and tell him you want to give a barn dance regardless of expense. Your jack-o'-lanterns are carried by an artist, and they are illuminated by electric lights instead of candles. You dance in the barn, but the dancing floor you laid down costs more than some of the real barns themselves, and the band you imported from town will play the same music that we are going to have all winter and by the same men."

"I SAY, NELLA, HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO CRUCK IT ALL?"

"I wanted to have the best," he said a little sulkily as he turned away. A little hand rested upon his arm for a brief instant, though he felt the impress long after it had been removed.

"It is the best—your best," she said. "But it's not a real farm dance any more than this is a real farm, Ted. It's all a play and a pretense. We were to wear print dresses, and Rita Farnum is upstairs getting into a decollete mulle gown trimmed with real lace. That's her idea of the way a farmer's daughter dresses."

Ted glanced approvingly at the simple little print frock that suited so well the fresh, rounded figure and the piquant face above.

"It is useless to paint the lily—until the lily is faded," he said, with a little laugh. "When Rita Farnum gets to heaven and she finds her angelic robe is not to her liking she will search the other place for a dressmaker to fix it over. All dressmakers will go to—the other place," he added.

"That's the feminine belief," assented Nella, with a rippling laugh that reminded Ted of the song of birds in the early morning.

"That's where they ought to go," he growled. "Even eternal torture will not atone their crimes against art and nature in the way they fix over the human form to make it conform to the dresses they have built on those wire models."

"How about the way you have made this farm over into a toy? That is just as bad."

"What's the matter with the farm?" demanded Barrion. "It's one of the show places of the country. You are the only one who has said anything against it."

"I am disappointed," explained the girl. "You see, dad does not like to be reminded of those times when—er—" "Before they found coal on his farm and he got into society," completed Ted, who knew the story of Joel Fenway's sudden rise to riches and his subsequent avoidance of any reference to his country life.

"Well, dad has hated the country ever since, but I love it. This has been my first visit to a farm since the old days. I was like a little girl promised a new toy when I heard I was to be one of the house party for the barn dance, but it's not the same," she added wistfully. "You are wearing overalls and a cotton shirt, but you've got your society manner on, Ted."

The arrival of a hay wagon loaded with guests from a nearby "farm" closed the argument. Others of the house party hurried out on the piazza, and Nella was free to wander to the side porch.

From a society point of view the arrangements were perfect. At the foot of the side lawn was a stubble field in which lay the great yellow pumpkins cut into jack-o'-lanterns and lighted by electricity, as were those that lined the front lawn. At the rear was the huge barn lighted by arc lights hung in great Japanese lanterns, which made curious patches of color on the polished surface of the specially laid dancing floor. On the lawn were scores of small tables served by negro waiters looking oddly unhappy in their overalls, which for the night replaced their usual service clothes.

Yes, it was all perfect, but Nella smiled a little sadly to herself as she recalled the anticipations which the invitation had aroused. She still loved their old farm, but her stepmother would never permit her to go to the country. It was something she was supposed to forget.

Ted's fashionable "farm" had been a great disappointment to her. It was all so unreal, so insincere, and most of all she was disappointed in the dance itself. She made herself comfortable in one corner of the dark porch, where the music came but faintly to her ears and where she was not liable to interruption.

For an hour she sat huddled in a rustic chair that had cost as much as a whole parlor suit in real farm-houses, and it was not until she heard Ted's voice that she recalled herself to the present.

"I've been looking for you everywhere," he announced as he came toward her. "The ball is making a great hit. Every one says it is the best of the season, and as a reward Bess says that I may have leave of absence for half an hour."

"Your sister makes a charming hostess," said Nella, with an approving smile. "It must be a great relief to have some one to take from your shoulder the burden of entertaining."

"You bet," declared Ted, with more fervor than elegance. "This dance will cover a multitude of social debts. But come; let's get out of this and into the real country. It lies just across the road. We can sit over there with the real rustics and imagine that we are enviously looking on and listening to the music."

Nella fell in with the suggestion, and laughingly they stole across the road to where a little knot of the real farmers had gathered to watch the fun. Ted found a seat for her on a smooth stone and took his place by her side.

"It's funny," he said, "that we on the other side of the fence want to come over here, while those over here wish that they could be over there. It's human nature, I suppose, to want what we know nothing of."

"I have been on both sides," she reminded, "and I like this side best. Society is all right for those who know nothing else, but I am awfully tired of it, Ted. It is all so artificial and so unhuman."

"Inhuman, too, for that matter," chuckled Ted. "I say, Nell, how would you like to chuck it all? I'm sick of it too. This is a real farm in spite of its society trimmings. I'll cut out some of the trimmings, and we'll make it real. Then we can live on both sides of the fence, content on either side with the knowledge that we have the key to the gate."

Nella's hand stole into his. "It would be very nice—on both sides of the fence—with you," she said softly.
