

COMMITTEE TO CALL ANOTHER UNION CAUCUS

Likely That Republicans and Democrats Will Nominate Joint Ticket.

Messrs. H. F. Kingery, H. A. Hathaway and J. C. Rough, the committee named at the Citizens' caucus last spring, will probably issue a call next week for another joint caucus to nominate a ticket to be submitted to the voters at the village election that he will not be a candidate for re-election. The trustees whose terms expire are Curtis, Kelling and Leiter, while Trustees Butts, Geo. H. Richards and Adams hold over. Irenus Sparks has served one term as treasurer, and will be a candidate to be held March 11. There seems to be much sentiment in favor of a union ticket, hence the Republican and Democratic parties may join hands and nominate a joint ticket again.

Washington, Stripped of Romance, Shown as a Man

Not a Saint by Any Means, but One Who Will Ever Be Counted Foremost Among the First

TO THE weakness of human nature, perhaps, may be attributed the fact that people are more likely to admire a brilliant failure than a solid, substantial success. And to this, also, may be attributed the additional fact that, of all the heroes of the Revolutionary period, posterity has been inclined to dwarf the stature of Washington.

For a time his biographers tried to transform him into a saint. Obviously impossible, this, because, above all things else, he was a man among men, a figure in his time which, so far as obtained to his personality, was not unlike that of the late King Edward of England—prone to human weaknesses, but at the same time a gentleman of rare tact and dignity.

After it became apparent that Washington was not a saint, the trend of opinion was to consider him a respectable numskull, a creature of circumstances, who managed by luck never to do the wrong thing. At the same time, men who, in his day, took minor parts were exalted into heroes of the first rank, largely because of their fondness for epigram and that further weakness of the general public, which would rather scent out a hero of its own than acknowledge to the greatness of the obvious, outstanding figure.

All of which would indicate that the time has about arrived when Washington should be rescued from his biographers. Moderation and determination are the two dominant characteristics of which time has not robbed Washington. Of them, the first is the one which has deprived him of a great deal of the appreciation which has been lavished on less deserving characters.

Whatever the vices of the man, they were always held within respectable restraint. Whatever his virtues, he never gave them undue prominence. So it is that, after more than a century, there has come a tendency to depreciate the ability of the one man who, more than any other, would naturally be exalted. For a long time it was held that his fame was tarnished because he swore real oaths at the battle of Monmouth. That was succeeded by the present epoch, which has chosen to regard him as a lovable gentleman, with enough horse sense not to make a fool of himself and, by a series of events over which he had no control, to become the father of his country.

And yet it is doubtful if another character of the age is more to be admired for its many-sided excellences. As man, warrior and statesman, Washington yields to no figure of his time. What place Washington held, in his own day, must now become a matter of interest. Shortly after his death, Felix Faulcon voiced the opinion of the French parliamentarians when he addressed the legislative assembly as follows: "The tomb has claimed him who was the model of republican perfection. This is not the time to trace all this truly great man has accomplished for the liberties of America, the generous inspirations which he imparted to the French who were attracted to his school of arms; the sublime act which will ever add luster to his memory, when, after having exerted his talents in giving liberty to his country, he voluntarily relinquished supreme power to conceal his glory in the obscurity of private life."

Naturally, Napoleon was attracted to the great general who led an army of ragamuffins to victory, after a long campaign of almost unparalleled vicissitudes, and whose power was attested by the fact that none of his generals, except Wayne, accomplished much after they left him. When the news of his death reached France, the first consul issued the following order:

"Washington is no more! That great man fought against tyrants. He firmly established the liberty of his country. His memory will ever be dear to the French people, as it must be to every friend of freedom in two worlds, and especially to the French soldiers, who, like him and the Americans, bravely fight for liberty and equality. The first consul, in consequence, orders that, for ten days black crepe shall be suspended to all the standards and flags of the republic."

At almost the same time the Gazette de France said: "Washington is dead! This news in the time of the directory it would have been imprudent to announce. Now, the heart may with confidence abandon itself to all the generous emotions of the soul, and we may dare to weep at the tomb of a great man. A general funeral service has been ordered in America, and this will be observed by the citizens of every nation. No period has sustained a loss so irreparable as the end of the eighteenth century."

This concluding sentence may be taken as generally expressing the estimation in which the great man was held.

ASKED AID OF WASHINGTON

Frenchman, in Financial Distress, Turned for Help to His Great Commander.

A letter from the Chevalier de Lambert to George Washington, asking pecuniary aid, brought $10,500 recently. The letter is dated Philadelphia, May 26, 1789, and reads as follows: "Honored Sir: I came into this country recommended to your excellency by the Marquis de La Fayette. I served in the American army two years in quality of lieutenant of artillery under the command of Colonel Porter. I have the honor to be of the Order of the Cincinnati.

I am at present disagreeably circumstanced, being in debt to my landlord. The favor I have to ask of your excellency is that you would lend me $100, for which I will give you a bill of exchange on the President Front de Ville at Roien, and shall think myself forever obliged. I have remained in this country in hopes of serving it in a military quality, but, having now no prospect of that, my intention is to return to France.

It is to pay my landlord for my bed and board and to defray the expenses of my passage that I want the money just mentioned. I have the honor to be, with the greatest esteem and respect, your excellency's most humble and obedient servant,

CHEVALIER DE LAMBERT.
P. S.—I earnestly beg the favor of an answer as soon as your excellency conveniently can. My directions are at Mr. Perret's at the Golden Swan, Third street.

The letter is addressed to "His Excellency, Genl. Washington, President of the United States, New York." On the back is Washington's indorsement: "From the Chevir. de Lambert, 26th May, 1789."

WEYMOTH-WILSON NUPTIALS

Popular Buchanan Couple Wed in California Recently

The Fresno Herald of Fresno, Cal., under date of Jan. 23, contained the following account of the wedding of two well known and popular Buchanan young people, who arrived home last Sunday:

An interesting romance which had its inception months ago in the East, was culminated yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schell, at 1324 San Joaquin street, when Miss Helen Weymoth and Emory E. Wilson, both of Buchanan, Mich., were united in marriage by Rev. Duncan Wallace. Miss Weymoth, who is Mrs. Schell's cousin was making a tour of California and has been the guest of Mrs. Schell for several weeks, when it was decided to continue the trip together, so the groom came out and the wedding yesterday was the result. After the ceremony a delicious wedding dinner was served. The table was prettily adorned with violets and smilax in honor of the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Emory Weldon, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schell, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar VanMeter, Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Henning, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Garner and Miss Olive B. Smith.

MEETING OF B. M. A.

Minutes of the Business Men's association meeting held in B. M. A. hall on Feb. 15, 1912:

The meeting was called to order by President Hathaway.

The minutes of the meeting of Jan. 12 were read and approved.

No committees reported.

A talk on the street car situation was given by President Hathaway.

The treasurer's report showed $1.83 on hand.

Bills to the amount of $12.87 were read and ordered paid.

Communications from J. Ellsworth Griffin, of the Saginaw board of trade, were read. The motion prevailed that the Public Utility committee join issues with the Saginaw board of trade and enter complaint of poor service with the board of trade of Saginaw as suggested by the latter.

After talks by A. A. Worthington, F. A. Stryker, M. L. Hanlin, Sig. Densenberg, Jas. Clark and J. C. Dick, it was moved by Mr. Hanlin that a committee of three be appointed by the Chair from among those most enthusiastic in the project, this committee to compute cost of improvements on said Chapin tract, draw up prospectus which should also report on cost and probable results of the deal. All this to be done and the committee to sell stock, if possible conditional upon their being able to bring certain items to pass as talked.

Cash receipts during the evening $7.00.

Building and Loan matters then occupied the gathering for a short time. Messrs. Hanlin, Kelling, Dick and others explained the system and stock subscriptions were called for resulting in the sale of about 60 shares of B. & L. stock.

The matter of changing the charter or of otherwise enabling the village of Buchanan to grant a 30-year gas franchise, was discussed and a motion was made that the Business Men's association request the council to call an election for the purpose of electing freeholders to change charter provided said council is convinced that the Gas company is acting in good faith.

The motion was carried and the meeting adjourned.

Jack Bishop, Secretary.

MURDER CASE WILL GO OVER

Shortly after he had been removed from the hospital to the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Frank Steiner at 706 North St. Joseph street, South Bend, following the accident, his clothes caught fire from a spark from a cigar and he was badly burnt about the limbs, causing him again to be removed to the hospital where he died.

He is survived by one son, Charles A. Case of Niles, the granddaughter with whom he has been living and three great-grandchildren.

KIMMEL CASE GROWS MORE COMPLICATED

Big Law Battle at St. Louis is Puzzling Tangle.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 22—Al H. White, of Hannibal, Mo., a witness for the defense in the Kimmel identity-mystery and insurance case on trial in the United States district court, testified that he had been called "Turkey" White. The defense introduced him in an effort to show he was the "Turkey" White that Bruce L. Cosner testified to having known in Arkansas City, Kan., in 1898 shortly before George A. Kimmel disappeared.

Cosner testified that the claimant, Andrew J. White, was known as "Turkey" in Arkansas City. Al H. White in his testimony, said he had never seen Cosner in Arkansas City and he never knew Cosner. He does not resemble the claimant in any respect save the lack of a thumb.

Al White's presence in the case has tended to add confusion to the already complicated situation, in which four personalities have been introduced. In addition to Al White they are Kimmel, Andrew J. White, the claimant, and Melvin ("Turkey") White, of Parkins, Kan., who was also mentioned by Cosner.

One of the most notable social functions of the season took place at Rough's opera house Monday evening, when Buchanan Lodge No. 68, F. & A. M., inaugurated the annual Masonic ball. The hall was decorated in a perfectly beautiful manner in blue and white. Box-like transparencies surmounted the electric, and the square and compass emblems of the order, appeared on either side thereof. Emblems of the order also appeared on the walls between the windows and blue and white streamers depended from the ceiling over inviting cozy corners well supplied with blue and white pillows.

At about 8:30 Wheeler & Seymour's orchestra of Michigan City, struck up the grand march, and in the van of the glittering array of handsomely gowned ladies and gallant gentlemen appeared four little tots in colonial garb. Little Miss Dodo Portz and Alfred Roe were dressed to represent George and Martha Washington, and were accompanied by little Miss Cleo Portz and Master Lee Bob Roe.

The grand march was led by Mrs. C. D. Kent, Worthy Matron of Sylvia Chapter of the Eastern Star and Dr. Garland, Worshipful Master of Buchanan Lodge No. 68, F. & A. M., and presented one of the most brilliant spectacles ever witnessed in Buchanan. And when it was over the ladies were presented with carnations and the gentlemen with souvenir programs.

There were about 60 couples present, and under the magic of string and of horn they tripped the light fantastic toe throughout the evening. At midnight the ladies of the Eastern Star served luncheon in the Masonic hall.

It was said that Mr. Needham had presented a petition, representing 90 per cent of the "business men of St. Joseph."

Mr. Needham is well known in the county. He has been a resident of St. Joseph for about 16 years. He has played a prominent part in republican politics. IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

The Modern Priscilla club gave a linen shower in honor of Mrs. Emory Wilson Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Margaret Devin. A delicious three course luncheon was served. The table was beautifully decorated in hearts and arrows, with red streamers forming a canopy over the bride. A bride cake formed the center piece from which favors were drawn and which afforded much amusement. Miss Alta McDonald, having received a supply of soap, will take orders for laundry work during the freezing season. A ring and a pair being among the favors drawn, it is safe to conclude that wedding bells will soon ring again.

Caroline Warren and Fleda Schradler of Three Oaks, and Mildred Wright, Ethel Woodard and Hazel Fisher of Niles.

A birthday surprise party took place Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. Harriet Adair. The guests indulged in various games and social converse, nor was there any lack of good music. All present did full justice to the fine supper which was served.

The 30 club will meet with Mrs. Pasco next week when the two weeks' work will be combined, as this week's meeting was not held on account of the storm.

DAN'L A. WAGNER WRITES THE RECORD

Founder of the Paper Spending The Evening of Life in Sunny California

Writing The Record from Los Angeles, Cal., under date of the 11th instant, Dan'l A. Wagner says:

Mrs. Wagner, my wife, says she must have The Berrien County Record, so I enclose herewith one dollar for which mail to my address The Record and oblige. We frequently get a copy thereof, mailed by some friend in Buchanan. We wish the B. C. R. great success, especially as it first saw life under our administration in 1867. As we remember those days long ago we shiver even now, as we think of the storms and cold of the Eastern winter time, which in our boyhood we truly enjoyed. As age has crept upon us after a residence of almost thirty years in Los Angeles amidst the orange orchards and sunshine and flowers of the Pacific coast, we feel satisfied and contented to spend the remaining evening of life beneath the skies of our Western coast.

With regards and a desire for The Record's success and the prosperity of its editor, I am
Yours sincerely,

Greater Farm Efficiency

Cows That Make Most Money

By PROF. G. C. HUMPHREY, Wisconsin College of Agriculture

The Dairy Cow Must Have a Tendency to Produce Milk Rather Than to Lay on Fat.

A dairy cow is one of the specific dairy type and breed capable of making a large and economical production of milk and butter fat. A careful study and analysis of this definition and its application to cows whenever one has opportunity to apply it will greatly aid in getting in mind the correct ideal of the dairy cow and in judging and buying cows.

"Type" refers to the conformation of an animal and is indicative of utility. "Specific dairy type" refers to an animal having a large, deep barrel, a prominent, well developed udder, and sharp, clean cut features about the head, neck, shoulders, back, hips and rump, due to the absence of thick flesh. Such a type indicates dairy utility and that she is of little value except for milk production.

The dairy cow must be of distinct dairy breed as well as of dairy type; otherwise she may convert her feed into flesh rather than milk and thus result in a beef animal. The National and International dairy shows of this country recognize the Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey, Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, and Dutch Belted breeds of cattle as distinct dairy breeds. High grade and pure bred animals of these breeds are found in this state and rank in number in the order named. Pure bred animals possess 100 per cent. of the blood of their respective breeds while the grade animals have a predominance of the blood of a given breed but less than 100 per cent. Grade cows are generally by pure bred sires and out of native or grade dams.

A large production of milk and butter fat is a necessary requisite for a dairy cow. The production for at least a year should be taken into consideration because some cows make a large production during the early part of their lactation and then dry off soon. It is characteristic of beef cows and of many poor cows of the dairy breeds to dry off soon. A strictly dairy cow tends to make a large and economical production of butter fat throughout her life time which means that she converts a comparatively large amount of the feed that she eats into milk and butter fat, and only a small portion of it into building up the tissues of her body. A dairy cow shows marks of dairy breeding and constitution; and not only produces milk and butter fat in large and economical quantities but also at regular intervals progeny which tends to be satisfactory for dairy purposes.

Essential Features of the Dairy Cow. The dairy cow is a living machine which, when in perfect health and form, has four prominent features. These are: a body indicating a large, strong digestive capacity, a dairy temperament which is nervous and results in milk production rather than flesh production, a large well developed udder of healthy gland tissue, and a strong circulatory system that distributes the blood actively to all parts of the body and gives vigor, health, and activity. A cow usually fails in the production of milk as she fails in one or more of these essential features. Each part of the body bears some relationship to one or more of these essential features and enables one to judge of their prominence. Where one is able to consider all the parts of the body and judge these essential features he is not likely to err seriously in his judgment.

Digestive Capacity.—A large body, more especially the barrel in proportion to the size of the animal, is indicative of capacity. The body of the dairy cow should be wedge shaped as viewed from front, side and top. That is, wider at the hip points and between the fore legs than at the withers, and deeper from the hip points to the lower line of the rear flank than at the fore quarters. This character of the body has led to the term, triple-wedge-shaped conformation, and in giving consideration to the digestive capacity of the cow one should remember that it is the base ends of the wedges, rather than the sharp ends which indicate her capacity. Long, well sprung ribs, openness of chine, width of back over loins, size of barrel, depth and width between the hips, and fullness of rear flanks all combine to indicate large digestive capacity. A wide forehead and a comparatively long face are indicative of the size and feed capacity of the body and likewise the broad muzzle, good sized mouth and strong, sinewy jaw

The tail is often measured in judging the cow and should reach to or below the hocks and carry a good switch. This renders it most useful in brushing flies, which appears to be its chief purpose.

In judging the quality and condition of the muscular tissue of the body one should remember to take into consideration the size, age, and stage of lactation of the animal. The bone and muscular tissues in a large cow are naturally heavier than in a small one and there is not the apparent refinement and sparseness of form in the large breeds that is noted in the smaller ones. Marked coarseness, however, in any animal is usually accompanied by a sluggish disposition which in a dairy cow prevents her from performing satisfactorily. Young heifers with first calf usually carry more flesh than cows of mature form. All properly fed cows usually show a higher condition of flesh development toward the close of their lactation and prior to freshening than they do when four or five months advanced in lactation.

The Udder.—The udder is the milk secreting organ and its proper development is, therefore, essential. In many instances cows of large digestive capacity and of dairy breeding have failed in production apparently on account of poorly developed udders. The udder consists of two large glands, each of which is more or less distinctly divided to correspond with each of the four teats and form the quarters. The duct of each teat enters a small cavity termed the milk cistern. The milk cistern of each quarter is more or less surrounded by lobes of gland tissue held in position and closely together by connecting tissue. These lobes may be likened to thick bunches of grapes since each lobe has several lobules corresponding to the grapes. The lobules are made of small divisions called alveoli which correspond to the seeds of grapes. These alveoli are constructed of small cells surrounded by a fine network of blood vessels and nerves and it is by these cells that the milk is secreted.

The best cows have comparatively large udders with equally developed quarters extending well forward underneath the body and a good distance up behind and between the thighs. Poor attachment giving a swinging or pendant type of udder and deficiency and irregularity in the development of the quarters are criticisms to be offered on many cows. The quality of the udder when examined by handling should reveal gland tissue of fine, plastic texture rather than fatty tissue or a texture that is coarse and hard.

The Circulatory System.—This system determines the activity of the cow with respect to all parts of the body. Only when in perfect health and all parts of the body are actively performing their respective functions can the dairy cow be expected to yield a large flow of milk. When the cow is sick or by virtue of her poor individuality is dull and morbid there is an inactivity of all the glands of the body resulting in a dry, harsh condition of the skin, a staring coat, and a low production of milk. The circulatory system includes the heart, lungs, arteries and veins since these organs respectively force, purify and carry blood to and from all parts of the body. When food becomes digested and assimilated the blood must carry it to the parts of the body demanding it and in the dairy cow the glands of the udder demand a large share of the nourishment of the blood for the secretion of milk. The size and character of the milk veins, more properly termed "mammary veins," and the milk wells on the underside of the body are the best indications of how much blood passes through the udder. These veins do not carry milk as some people believe, but carry a large portion of the blood away from the udder. The blood passes into the udder through arteries located deep on the inner side of the thighs. If one were standing below a mill propelled by a water wheel and the race filled with water from the mill he would have reason to believe that the mill was in operation and performing its work. Likewise when one observes large, branching mammary veins entering the body through wells of sufficient size to avoid a vein becoming gorged he has reason to believe that the udder is performing its work well.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Washington and Steuben at Valley Forge

BETWEEN one and two hundred thousand people every year visit Valley Forge.

Everything possible has been done to attract them. On the hills where Washington's army suffered and bled there are now beautifully kept macadam roads and bridle paths that meander through the trees.

By train, auto, bicycle, motorcycle and afoot the crowds come—but always in the spring, summer or autumn.

When snow falls fresh marvels of beauty are revealed. But few, save the fox hunters, ever see them.

In many places the views do not differ greatly from those of that memorable winter, 1777-78, when Washington and his men fought against cold and starvation. An army of ragamuffins, many of the troops even without shoes, poorly and insufficiently nourished, it was almost a miracle that any of those patriots survived.

and on Christmas day they proclaimed their dashing leader "William I, conqueror and king of England."

In apportioning the estates of the Saxons to his followers the conqueror bestowed on William de Herburn the extensive estate known as Wessington, and entitled him to heraldic denomination of his choice. Historic records show him as one of the favorite knights of the king.

As a further demonstration of the importance of the De Herburns, or "Wessingtons," history furnished the information that the estate in question was under the command of the bishop of Durham, and situated in a locality exposed to the attack of the Scots of northern England. On this border there was constant warfare, and the king naturally selected the bravest and most warlike of his adherents to hold lands in the disputed district. For nine years this country between Durham and York was laid waste, and for ten years it was practically a desert, no man having the courage to attempt cultivation of the blasted fields or inhabit the ruined towns.

One hundred thousand people died in this debatable strip of land, and there, where active hostilities ever reigned, the De Herburns, or Wessingtons, were stationed. This record of the great family is absolutely authentic in every detail, having been proved by minute research and personal visits to the locality where its members were lords of the soil—a task which embraced fifteen years of heraldic investigation.

Later the estate known as Wessington was spelled and entered officially as Wessington, the proprietors assuming the same name. Then it was recorded as Washington, and a natural change of the owner's name in accordance with that of his land followed. The proprietors became known as William, John, Lawrence, Robert and Nicholas De Washington. Finally the heraldic shields and French prefix of "De" was dropped, and the modern spelling of W-a-s-h-i-n-g-t-o-n prevailed.

The Washingtons were very prominent in the military as well as the civic phases of English life. In the days of Henry the VIII, when that monarch was in conflict with the pope of Rome, Lawrence Washington sided with the king, and the latter confiscated the monasteries, convents and churches of the Roman Catholic church, giving to this Washington the Sulgrave estate, where for over a century the Washington family ruled supreme. A decline in their fortunes then appears to have taken place, for in 1620, the year the Pilgrims set sail for America, the Washingtons were practically driven from the Sulgrave estate to take up residence at Brighton with minor manors and holdings. The loss of hundreds of acres of rich meadows and harvest fields was in a measure counteracted by the marriage of a Sir William Washington to a sister of George Villiers, Duke of Buckingham. This union brought about new alliances and affiliations which made Washingtons possible in America, and ultimately led to the rearing of George Washington to be the military leader of the colonies and eventually our first chief executive.

Opie Read's Occupation. Opie Read, the big, genial novelist, story teller and ever popular entertainer, was at a Chautauqua out west last summer, where, after his lecture, he met a fellow platformist and invited him to have a smoke. "Come, H—" said Read, "get your pipe and let's get comfortable." "No, thank you, Mr. Read, I don't smoke," "What don't you smoke?" exclaimed Opie. "No," declared the other, "I never smoke, chew, drink nor swear." "Great Caesar, man," cried Read, "I'm doing one of those things all the time!"—Cosmopolitan Magazine

Truly a "Lightning Calculation." Arthur Griffith, the "lightning calculator," who died recently, was able to multiply any nine figures by any nine figures in less than eight seconds. In the auditor's office at Springfield, Ill., he did the day's work of fourteen clerks in three hours' time. He once solved this problem and had the correct answer almost as soon as the question was put: "What is the compound interest on 1 cent at 6 per cent, from the birth of Christ to the present time, and how far would that many silver dollars reach in the air if placed on a floor 25,000 miles in circumference?"

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Fall is the time when peach stains find a home on our best linen. To remove them, wet with water and cover with cream of tartar, then place in the sun, wetting the spots as they dry. Afterward wash and rinse in the regular manner.

The custom with many thrifty housekeepers is to use yellow napkins, which may be used during the fruit season, and stains will not show on them.

When washing glass, slip it sidewise into the water to avoid cracking.

If a new silk skirt is pressed with a hot iron before wearing it will take out the stiffness and the rustle but keep it from cracking.

Cushions filled with excelsior make a good back for softer cushions on the couch. Dampen a scorched spot, and if it is not really burned, place in the sun, and it will become white again.

Stuffed Spanish Onions.—Peel six even-sized onions and parboil in boiling water until partly done. Drain and remove the centers, and stuff with sausage. Put some slices of bacon in the bottom of a baking dish, put a little of the onion centers and cooked carrot over each and place on this the parboiled onion. Add stock and bake until thoroughly tender.

Instead of using raisins in the rice pudding try a few bits of chopped carrot ginger. A tablespoonful to a quart of milk will be sufficient to give the pudding a flavor.

Put your hyacinths for winter blooming in their glasses or pots before October is gone or the blooms will be late.

A nice way to keep cheese when a whole one or large pieces are purchased, is to cover the cut side with paraffin, which can easily be removed when the next piece is cut.

Paper dollies come now in such delicate and beautiful patterns that we may save much wear and tear of hand work by using them where ever possible.

GOOD THINGS TO TRY.

The culinary architect is keenly alive to anything new in combination or serving and a few recipes of new dishes are always hailed with delight. Here are a few to tickle the palate:

Bohemian Pear Dalnty.—Dissolve two heaping tablespoonfuls of gelatine in a cup of boiling water, add six ripe pears that have been peeled and rubbed through a sieve, four tablespoonfuls of sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla and two cups of whipped cream. Mold in a wet mold and turn out when set. Decorate with sweetened whipped cream and peeled pears.

Chocolate Sponge.—Take two and a half squares of chocolate, melted, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered gelatine, and two cups of milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stir over the fire until melted and smooth, then strain into a basin. Add one cup whipped cream and the white of egg beaten stiff. Pour into a mold and let stand to set.

Lamb Chops With Cucumber.—Cook the chops until brown on both sides. Peel a good-sized cucumber and cut into small dice; simmer in boiling water until almost done, drain and season with butter and cook until quite tender. Add salt, chopped parsley and pepper. Arrange the chops around the edge of the platter and heap the cucumbers in the center.

Orange Pudding.—Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornstarch which has been mixed with a little cold milk, then add the yolks of two eggs and a cupful of sugar. Cook until smooth then remove from the heat. Peel and slice thin two oranges, sprinkle with sugar, then pour over them the chilled custard. A meringue may be added and browned in the oven. Chill and serve cold.

Nellie Maxwell.

Distant Courtesy. "As an artist I suppose you assume to be indifferent to money?" "No, I'm not indifferent. But I'm not sufficiently acquainted to attempt familiarity."

The women of this country who are postponing motherhood, or refusing it altogether, are denying themselves the greatest happiness that can come to women."—New York Sun.

THIRD TERM BOGIE.

Colonel Roosevelt's words spoken March 8, 1904, and repeated December 11, 1907, that under no circumstances would he be a candidate for or accept another nomination did not mean quite that. The Outlook, in its current issue, says so, in effect, and since the return from Africa, the Outlook has been recognized as the official mouthpiece of the colonel.

What the colonel did mean, according to the Outlook's editorially expressed opinion, was like this:

"Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination unless I am allowed to become a private citizen for a while, so that I can't use the patronage of my office of president to get votes for myself."

"In Jefferson's time," says the Outlook editorially, "there were real dangers against which the anti-third term sentiment was directed. In the early history of the country it was possible that a president might so entrench himself by the use of patronage and the support of office holders as to make it difficult to elect an opponent, even when the country desired to do so. We think those dangers have passed away, and we see no reason why an efficient president of the United States might not be reelected, like the president of a business corporation, as long as he does his work satisfactorily. We repeat what was said 33 years ago, when the debate was acute regarding a possible 'third term' for Gen. Grant."

George Washington
Once Lived in Old
New York

Great Statesman and Patriot Had Residence There, and Citizens Today Are Proud of the Fact

INTIMATELY associated with the years 1789 and 1790, when Washington, as first president of the United States, was living in New York city, is the original Trumbull portrait of him, painted from life, the oldest portrait owned by the city, and now hanging in the governor's room of the New York city hall.

Flippant young Manhattanites make merry over the tiny watery blue eyes and red nose of that dignified gentleman and the enormous hand, which rests on the wooden horse, a caricature of the spirited war charger. In the background of the portrait is shown the old Kennedy house, now No. 1 Broadway, where Washington held his first headquarters during the earliest days of the Revolution. He then removed to the Richmond Hill mansion at the corner of Varick and Charlton streets, afterward the home of Aaron Burr. It was during these days that his troops drilled in the City Hall park, then the "Fields," or "Commons," and here on July 9, 1776, on horseback, surrounded by patriotic soldiers, the general listened to the first public reading of the Declaration of Independence in New York city; for that one time New York was slower than Philadelphia.

After the disastrous defeat of the Battle of Long Island, August 27, 1776, Washington was forced to abandon the city. During the Battle of Harlem Heights, September 16, and for five weeks afterward the Jumel mansion, in One Hundred and Sixtieth street, near Amsterdam avenue, then known as the Roger Morris house, sheltered him. For seven years, until 1783, the British lion swished his proud tail and roared through our New York streets, but on November 25 of that year General Washington returned to his own. The previous night the Van Cortlandt Manor house, in Van Cortlandt park, opened its hospitable doors to the victorious general, and you may see the room he occupied, the bed in which he slept.

He entered the city on Evacuation day at the head of his ragged but triumphant soldiers after Lord Howe and his troops had sullenly departed.

Quaint little Frances tavern, at Broad and Pearl streets, then came in for its share of the glory, for that very night the patriots gave Washington a banquet, which ended with the toast, "May the remembrance of this day be a lesson to princes." Again, on December 4, a farewell dinner was given by Washington to his officers in the "Long Room," and here you may read the tablets describing the affecting scene on his departure to his home in Mount Vernon.

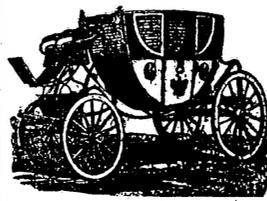

But on April 30, 1789, little old New York went wild with joy when the idol of the nation returned to be its president, and the pomp and ceremony of that first inauguration took place in the old Federal hall, now marked by the Subtreasury building, in Wall street. Here you may see the very stone on which the president stood while taking the oath of office, and the Bible is owned by St. John's lodge, in the Masonic Temple.

The fine mahogany furniture of Sheraton design used at that time is shown in the Governor's room of the city hall, the high-backed inaugural chairs, and the desks and armchairs used by the cabinet and the senators. The flag that waved over all this rejoicing is carefully preserved in a glass case.

Two different houses were used by Washington during the year 1789 and 1790 as presidential mansions—the first, a beautiful colonial house belonging to Walter Franklin, a wealthy merchant, that stood at No. 1 Cherry street, now shadowed by the gloomy Brooklyn bridge pier; the second was at No. 39 Broadway.

Each day he drove in courtly style to the federal hall, in Wall street, and so thoroughly did he acquire the habit that he is everlastingly glued to the spot in the bronze statue on the subtreasury steps.

On Sundays the president worshipped at St. Paul's chapel, in the commodious box pew, as large as a room in our modern apartments, being of sufficient area to admit of the comfortable stretching of his long, dignified legs, and far enough removed from the pulpit to encourage a few yawns or a sly nap unheeded by the rector.

As we celebrate the birthday of Washington, patriotic New Yorkers will point with a pride that is pardonable to the four buildings still in fine preservation, which were honored by his presence—the Jumel mansion, the Van Cortlandt Manor house, St. Paul's chapel and Frances' tavern.

Can proud Philadelphia or boastful Boston show more?

Historic and Beautiful Ground. There is no more historic ground in the country than that around Valley Forge. The very mention of the revolution suggests Valley Forge, the scene of its greatest crisis. And the work of beautifying and improving it is continually progressing. But recently it was that congress was urged to pass a bill granting $100,000 for the erection of suitable memorial arches. Already a memorial chapel and a museum are under way, in addition to historic buildings that are maintained as nearly as possible in their original condition.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of a

Old Times Recalled

Items from the Berrien County Record of October 10, 1887: Myron Mead had one of his hands badly sawed last week, but none of the fingers had to be taken off.

E. J. Roe and Henry Vite have purchased the old machine building on South Oak street, known as the Chandler building, and will carry on some kind of manufacturing business.

Village lots for sale in Ryneerson's addition by E. Ballengee.

Wm. Osborn's house on Main street came near being burned Sunday morning. Their little boys, about four years old, set fire to a pile of kindling near the house, and but for the prompt action of Mrs. Osborn and some neighbor women the house would have gone up in smoke.

At a fire on Main street in Niles Thursday the following losses were incurred: John Wing, grocery, $1,200; Nash & Shepland, $1,000; H. C. Partridge, $100; R. Vemes, $1500; W. B. Beeson, $1500; John Kingsley, $1000; P. Morris, $4000; S. P. L. Hunstable, $3000; John Hensler, $300.

Almost Lost His Life

S. A. Stid, of Mason, Mich., will never forget his terrible exposure to a mercurial storm. "It gave me a dreadful cold," he writes, "that caused severe pains in my chest, so it was hard for me to breathe. A neighbor gave me several doses of Dr. King's New Discovery which brought great relief. The doctor said I was on the verge of pneumonia but to continue with the Discovery. I did so and two bottles completely cured me." Use only this quick, safe, reliable medicine for coughs, colds, or any throat or lung trouble. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by E. R. Stauffer.

In Praise of Courage.

Certain virtues are divided from vices by so narrow a line that we must discern very clearly to see the difference. Few men can distinguish pride from vanity; perseverance from stubbornness; economy from avarice. The same is true of courage as distinguished from effrontery. The courageous man must have ambition, not merely dream of what he would like to have. The audacious have been found fault with for their brutality in overcoming all obstacles—but force is necessary to accomplish any real purpose.—Chicago American.

CHIROPRACTIC

THE WORLD'S GREATEST SCIENCE

The Only Method Discovered for Eradication of Dis-ease by Going Directly at the Cause.

A NEW ROAD TO HEALTH

HEALTH! What a heritage of riches, of untold possibilities that word contains. How careless are those who possess it of its priceless worth and how those who have once lost it will offer everything of worldly possessions to regain it. "Health, spake one of the apostles, is the priceless gift of God to His Children."

Through the ages that man has dwelt upon the earth, health, disease, death has been his. Life has been a mystery, disease has been a mystery and death horrible certainty. For ages man has employed the services of those supposed to be skilled in knowledge of the human body to preserve his health and lengthen life and these men have waxed fat upon the miseries of the people.

Centuries ago medicines were first used to destroy the demon disease. The "Old School" has had the healing art under its thumb for untold generations; the concoctions that have been distilled and poured into the stomachs of our poor ancestors would, if gathered together, cause a second Noah's flood, and with all this disease has remained a mystery. Drugging and dosing does not reach the seat of King Pain; it is a makeshift at its best and the people demand something better.

During the past century Drugless Healing has claimed the attention of some of the world's best scientists. Swedish Movements, Massage, Osteopathy and Mechano Therapy have all done their share toward relieving human disease, their theory being the freeing of blood circulation—giving the body physiological exercise through manipulations—would eliminate waste material, hasten secretion and excretion and thereby return the body to health. Although each method was superior to medication they still held the erroneous idea that disease was foreign to the body, and through their manipulations they still treated effects and overlooked the one true and only cause.

Unconsciously, however, each system came nearer and nearer to the underlying truth, that all ease or dis-ease emanates from that great nerve center, "The Brain," that all feeling of comfort or discomfort had but one source, the Nervous System, and today there has been developed a New Science, a New System that recognized that disease and its opposite, health, are conditions of the body and that the power which created man also placed within him the mechanism which, if kept in perfect ADJUSTMENT would carry him from the cradle to the grave in uninterrupted ease and comfort.

This System is called Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik). It is coined from two Greek words which taken literally mean a doing by hand. The name, then, simply signifies the mode of application of this new Science and Art.

Chiropractic teaches that the Brain is the storehouse of Life; all energy is a direct result therefrom. The body depends upon the nerve impulses that leave the Brain and pass down the Spinal Cord through the nerve fibres to every tissue and cell of the body, and as long as the pathway over these nerves is free from interference, so that these impulses have free play, there will be PERFECT HEALTH, but when through some mishap the pathway becomes obstructed and the nerve impulses find it partially impossible to supply the needed stimuli to the part affected there is a weakening in that part and THIS WEAKENING IS CALLED DIS-EASE.

Let us briefly examine the structure of the human body. The skeleton is the bony framework composed of head, trunk, upper and lower extremities. The Muscular Tissue is attached to the bones and gives the body form and used in movement. This is commonly known as the flesh. The Internal Viscera comprises the Heart, Lungs, Kidneys, Liver, Stomach and Intestines. The Venous and Arterial Systems are the blood vessels that carry blood to and from the Heart to all parts of the body. The Lymphatic System is composed of minute vessels going to all tissues and carrying a clear fluid (blood plasma). The purpose of this is to keep tissues fed and lubricated and act as exchange between blood and tissue.

Lastly, the Nervous System, beginning with the central station called the Brain. The Brain has a prolongation called the Spinal Cord. The Spinal Cord gives off thirty-one pair of nerve trunks, that are scattered all over the body. So minute is this nerve distribution that you cannot prick the body anywhere with a fine needle without striking a nerve filament. The Nervous System controls all parts of the body above enumerated; no action of any kind is possible without nerve stimuli. As the Heart could not beat, the Lungs expand and contract, the Stomach digest its foods or the Kidneys cast off poisons without nerve action, you can see how true it is that THE BRAIN IS THE CENTER OF ALL LIFE AND THAT THE NERVOUS SYSTEM IS THE MOST IMPORTANT IN THE HUMAN BODY.

INTERFERENCE WITH THE FREE TRANSMISSION OF NERVE IMPULSE OVER THE PATHWAY OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, says the Chiropractor, WILL RESULT IN DISEASE. THIS IS AS TRUE AS GOSPEL, but where, let us inquire, is the interference most apt to be? Let us return to the skeleton. The Backbone or Spinal Column rests upon the Pelvis and extends upward, comprising the posterior portion of the trunk. The twelve pair of ribs are attached thereto and superiorly it supports the head. This Spinal Column is composed of twenty-six individual bones, twenty-four of which are movable and known as Vertebrae. Through the center of these Vertebrae there is an opening which extends the entire length of the Spine and known as the Spinal or Neural Canal. On each side and between each two Vertebrae there is an opening called the Intervertebral Foramen. The Vertebrae are separated one from the other by discs of cartilage about one-fourth inch in thickness, which is elastic. The Vertebrae are also bound together with ligaments and muscles, but are freely movable, so that the body can bend and sway in all directions. Now let us follow the Nervous System.

The Brain is enclosed in the cavity of the skull. It has a prolongation, the Spinal Cord, which passes out at the base of the Notice enlarged portion of spinal column. First and second opening are intervertebral foramina. See how small opening No. 2 is. This is caused by the vertebra being thrown out of position (subluxated). This produces pressure on nerves, result—dis-ease. Be wise and have pressure removed.

skull through an opening called the Foramen Magnum. This opening corresponds exactly with the Spinal Canal extending down through the Spinal Column. The Spinal Cord, which is nothing but a bundle of nerves and cells, passes through this canal downward; as it descends it gives off thirty-one pair of nerve trunks, which pass out through the Intervertebral Foramina on either side. From here they are distributed to all parts of the body. These nerves, with their sheaths and accompanying blood vessels, entirely fill the Intervertebral Foramina, so that if one of the Vertebrae should move but slightly out of normal position it would 'cause pressure upon the nerve. A momentary pressure brought about by bodily movements would cause no harm, but a continuous pressure is another matter. HERE THEN, SAYS THE CHIROPRACTOR, LIES THE SECRET OF NEARLY ALL DISEASE. Through a sudden fall, twist, wrench or contracted muscles these vertebrae are thrown out of position. This is called a subluxation. For a time this subluxation pressing upon nerve tissue may cause no inconvenience. Slowly but surely, however, the tissue or organ which should receive its nerve impulse from these nerves becomes weakened and suddenly there is Bright's Disease, Liver Troubles, Appendicitis, Consumption, Heart Disease, etc., etc. THE EDUCATED CHIROPRACTOR CAN DEMONSTRATE A SUBLUXATION OF A VERTEBRAE IN EACH INSTANT and by a quick and peculiar ADJUSTMENT removes the pressure and gradually Nature will restore health to the organ or part.

SO DEFINITELY HAS THIS CLAIM OF CHIROPRACTIC BEEN PROVEN THROUGH THOUSANDS OF CLINICAL DEMONSTRATIONS THAT THEORY HAS BECOME FACT, AND FACTS ARE HARD TO DISPUTE.

Death will remain the inevitable sequel of Life, but an Adjustment of the Spinal Column, allowing freedom of nerves, will prolong Life and turn the agonies of disease into the joys of robust health.

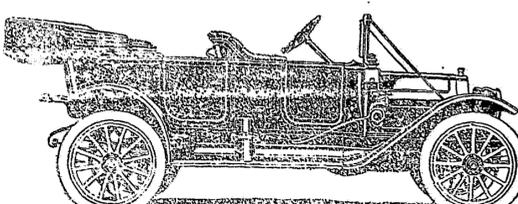

A Subluxated Vertebra Causes Pressure Upon the Nerve, Interrupting Normal Nerve Stimuli. This Will Weaken the Tissue or Organ Supplied, and the Result Is Dis-ease. A Chiropractor "Adjusts" the Offending Bone to Normal Position, Relieving Nerve Pressure, THUS REMOVING THE CAUSE, So Nature Can Restore Health.

Two Pickered on One Line.
A humble and honest fisherman who set his traps for pickered on a Maine pond the other day is ready to make affidavit as follows: "I hereby declare on oath that I did catch two pickered on one hook. The first pickered swallowed the bait and didn't like it. Apparently he tried to cough it up. At any rate he spewed the hook out under his gills and it floated off in the water to be grabbed by a second pickered. Thus there came up two pickered, all strung on a line.—Lewiston Journal.

Snakes in Plaster.
In a small part of a South Carolina swamp represented on the second floor of the American Museum of Natural History is included a snake group among the logs, vines and water hyacinths. The group shows side by side poisonous snakes, the water moccasin, and the non-poisonous, the brown water snake.

An example of the deadly moccasin water snake of the south is made from a wax cast by James C. Bell, with color work by Frederick H. Stoll. It is extremely lifelike and realistic, quite enough to give the visitor an acquaintance with the species.

The DANCING of NELL O'HARA

Thick, when crippled Perry Finn Acks his fiddle til' chhn An' goes coakin' out th' music wid a wheedle in each note, Thin O'Hara's Nell shoves out While th' rick star' round about— An' so soft she thrills th' measure that she fairly seems to float.

Sure her feet they are that small That they are not feet at all! An' th' cheeks av her are ricker than th' roses are in June, An' her eyes are snappin' bright As the gladiolus shatters at night, While she thrills th' r'oo all th' rompin' an' th' racin' av th' tune.

O'er th' fairies that wance left Her th' grass where moonbeams crept Nivver danced wid shins as graceful as those av O'Hara's Nell— Nivver fairy had th' chance To th' r'oo how an' whin to dance So th' rick av th' astephin' wove a nivver-dyin' shupel.

Thrippin' fast an' thrippin' slow— Wid her lips half parted, so, An' cur' bruck loose to nestle on th' curvin' av her cheek! Back an' forth an' here an' there, An' th' rick av her hair, That th' dancer an' th' music both was playin' hide an' seek!

Was there ever was like Nell! Sure, a blind man—he could tell That th' sunlight av th' mornin' steals its glory from her smile! An' th' light av her hair Is like wind across th' wheat, As she dances to a tune me heart is battin' all th' while!

The First Time.
Poets have written wonderful things about first kisses, and the first roses, and such like beautiful thoughts, but it is doubtful if any man can recall a happier time in his life than the first time he was allowed to go to a tailor for his suit. The first time he was really measured for clothes by a real tailor! Of course there are people who were pampered in the lap of luxury, and had even their swaddling garments cut and fitted to measure by a tailor with a crest on his stationery, but the ordinary human being of the male sex who had to wear his older brother's clothes the second season has a different outlook on life.

Do you remember how timidly you approached the tailor, and with what awe you admitted his brisk way of whisking the tape measure through the air. And he took your name and wrote it in a book and had Julius take down the cabalistic figures. And you stood up on that little pedestal while he chanted "34, 36, 18, 6 1/2, 37, 27, side and two hips," or something like that. And you grinned a grin of foolish, enchanted delight all the time—and wondered if he saw and understood it. He did, he did. But he wouldn't have let on for the world. He knew. He knew just how you felt when he told Julius to write "raise left shoulder half an inch. He knew what agony of mind was yours when you couldn't tell whether you wanted the knees wide or medium. He knew the soul throbs that was yours when you took the bit in your teeth and answered right off the reel that you wanted a collar on the vest.

Why, even now, thinking of it, the same old sickly grin comes over your face, and you feel yourself standing there, with the old tailor peering at you through his thick glasses, and Julius moistening the pencil on his tongue while he wrote the details.

Great, wasn't it?

Not Constitutional.
"Stop, sir!" The fair young typewriter lady spoke in tones of haughty command to the young man who was trying to hold her lily white hand.

"Do you not know," she asked, "that such conduct is unconstitutional?"

"How it that?" inquired the fresh young man.

"Because you are interfering with my writes!"

Must Ring Off.
Miss Helloguri—I don't see how I am going to hold my position in the telephone exchange if the manager doesn't change his mind.

Mr. Askit—What's wrong?"

Miss Helloguri—He says if we girls don't stop talking so much he will discharge us.

Practically Immune.
Curacao, the most important of the Dutch West Indies, is without fire insurance and a fire department, though the island has a population of over 50,000. The buildings in the town are all of stone, hence this happy condition of affairs. Recently the first sawmill was installed, being furnished by an American firm. "It is hoped," says a consular report, "that this will not increase the erection of wooden buildings and necessitate insurance and a fire department."

Philadelphia Park Development.
The trend is altogether for a more widely diffused city with many open spaces and green areas freely distributed. Public-spirited citizens have contributed to this by their gifts. The City Parks association is a development of this movement and is a most active agent. Its twenty-third annual report, just issued, presents us with the conception of a greater park system, which shall checkerboard with green parkways many of the choice spots and wooded ravines within twenty miles or more of Philadelphia. Highways which were once regarded merely as a means to get somewhere are now viewed as important in themselves, a source of pleasure and comfort to those who use and enjoy them.—Philadelphia Press.

The Poet's Mission.
"I can't see," the poet's wife complained, "why you don't give up writing poetry and go in for something that might be more profitable."

"My dear, you don't understand the poet's mission."

"I suppose I don't. I wish you'd tell me what it is."

"Can't you see how great a boon I am conferring upon posterity? A hundred years from now orators will be quoting my lines without mentioning me, and it will be supposed that they themselves are the authors of them, just as orators of the present day embellish their speeches with quotations from poets who have long been dead, without taking the trouble to mention the fact that they were borrowing."

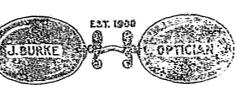

"But how will that help you?"

"It won't help me at all. But do you want oratory to become a lost art?"

Big Trade in Frozen Meat.
Argentina supplies 90 per cent. of the frozen beef and frozen mutton consumed in Sheffield, England. Australia and New Zealand provide the remainder. Its use is constantly increasing. Frozen meat is never sawed, but it chopped with a cleaver. The retailers receive the meat in quarters which they chop into angular blocks, from which the quantities desired by customers are cut. These blocks afford material for fine window displays, and the windows of frozen-meat shops are generally piled high with all sizes and shapes of solid red beef.

Part Played by Heredity.
Heredity plays an important part not only in tuberculosis and cancerous affection, but likewise in diabetes, rheumatism, gout and many other diseases. We do not inherit tuberculosis, but we do inherit a lessened vitality, or a tendency to contract tuberculosis infection. Underweights are usually people who have inherited such a lessened vitality, and they run the further risk of infection from their underweight brothers or sisters who are apt to be infected.

The Circuit Court for the County of Berrien.

In the matter of the application of John Curran for the lease of a new parochial certificate of Primary School land to replace a lost certificate.

At a general term of said court held at the Court House in the city of St. Joseph in the county of Berrien on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1912.

JENNEY OUT OF DOWAGIAC BANK TO STAY

State Bank Com'r. Doyle Says He Won't Be Allowed to Remain in That Bank

MAY BE PROSECUTED

The Department Will Wait For Complete Audit Before Taking Any Steps

Dowagiac, Feb. 21.—You can say from me that Mr Jenney will never again be connected with the State Savings bank of Dowagiac so long as I am state banking commissioner," is the startling statement made to The Daily News over long distance phone by State Banking Commissioner Edward H. Doyle.

Mr. Doyle was asked for a statement in regard to the Dowagiac banking situation, and this is in part what he had to offer.
This does not mean that the State Savings bank will not reopen, or that it will wind up its affairs in a receiver ship, or entail loss to its creditors, but it means simply that Mr. Jenney will not be permitted by the state banking department to longer remain at the head of the State Savings bank or any other state bank in Dowagiac. The bank may reopen and continue business in a re-organized state, but it will be with a new president and a new cashier.

Mr. Doyle was asked if the department meant to make any prosecutions. He replied: "The banking department has nobody to prosecute excepting Mr. Jenney. It has nothing to do with any of the private banks over the state in which he is interested."

When the department is satisfied of crooked work prosecutions will be made, but he was not ready to state when that will be; much depends on the evidence, and the criminal phase will not receive attention until after the audit is complete.

Banker Jenney is giving all his attentions apparently to his private banking affairs. A report from Len non is to the effect that his father has arrived and is making arrangements to take care of the $11,000 shortage there. The Jenney bank at Sheridan has a $5,000 surplus.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FACTORY WORKERS' PARKS

Pennsylvania Manufacturer Lays Out Permanent Grounds About His Buildings.

In a large town in Pennsylvania the owner of a factory started to lay out ornamental grounds about his buildings and everybody marveled. Flower beds and green lawns made their appearance, vines clambered over the buildings and shade trees reared their heads in places needing shade. And still the people marveled. Soon afterwards a new lot was bought, an office building erected, the upper story was fitted up for a recreation room, tables, a hundred chairs, magazines, newspapers, etc., were furnished, and the announcement made that the room would be kept open Sunday afternoons. At this stage the curiosity of the people was so aroused that they asked for an explanation.

The factory owner stated that his business was prospering, enlargement contemplated and so he had recently made a tour of inspection to factory districts noted for business success, no strikes or labor disturbances and the improvements to be seen resulted from that trip to the best industrial centers. To be brief, satisfied employees are a business man's best asset, for without a certain amount of loyalty no concern can endure. This view has evidently come to be the general one, for factory owners for the comfort of employees is now looked to both indoors and out. Some firms, and even some cities, are noted for the landscape beauty on their factory grounds. Some have gone so far as to plant grapevines as ornaments so employees may enjoy fresh grapes in season. Everything for beauty and comfort is provided in summer and dreplaces, games, etc., take care of idle moments in winter.

ADD BEAUTY TO THE STREET

Park-like Effect Is Easily Given by Using a Little Care in Planting.

With informal planting in a wide parkway a park-like effect could be given on each side of the street that would go far toward counteracting the harsh, monotonous lines of formality in curb, sidewalk and property line; also the fatness and inefficiency of it all from a standpoint of beauty of outlook. Street trees could be planted at various distances between curbs, singly, in twos and in threes, interspersed with clumps of shrubbery. This would give a narrow park-like effect on each side and could be rendered still more beautiful and picturesque. The walks could gently curve from near one side to the other; the curves not so abrupt or pronounced as to deter the hurrying pedestrian from covering the shortest distance between two given points, yet enough to give beauty and variety to the whole that would prove very satisfying to all observers. All herein outlined has been carried out in many places, not all abroad, but in our own country—in Chicago, for example—therefore there is nothing impracticable about it. The chief drawback is that the returns are not quick enough for our wild-cat real estate boomers. Few can be found sufficiently unselfish or generous enough to plant for future generations and nothing worthy of emulation in this line may be built on a less stable foundation.

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It makes Weak Women Strong. It makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glycoeric extract of healing, native American roots.

Mesdames Emory Rough and Rob. Franklin of Portage Prairie entertained last Friday evening at the home of the former, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Long who expect to change their place of abode. The spacious rooms which were tastefully decorated, were filled with merry throngs, there being about 50 guests present. In the different contests, Mrs. Daniel Boone and Mrs. William Demsey were prize winners. In behalf of the company Mr. Rough in a few well chosen remarks presented Mr. and Mrs. Long with a beautiful mission rocker as a token of esteem from their friends and neighbors. A two course luncheon was served. The guests departed at a late hour declaring Mrs. Rough and Mrs. Franklin royal entertainers.

The W. C. T. U. will meet promptly at 2:30 o'clock Friday with Mrs. Grace Nutt, instead of with Mrs. Chubb as previously announced.

Rene Sparks has returned from Ishpeming to which place he was called on account of the critical illness of his brother, Miles.
