FIFTY-FIFTH YEAR

BUCHANAN, MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JUNE 2, 1922

NUMBER 218

REPUBLICANS FIND WILLING BARKISES

BERRIEN COUNTY G. O. P. HAS SEVEN CANDIDATES WOULD BE REGISTERS, TWO ARE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

While most of the offices in Berrien county next year will be filled by second term men, and tradition prescribes that they shall be allowed to succeed themselves without any great obstacles being put in their paths, members of the G. O. P. have shown a willingness to scramble for the two offices open.

Arthur I. Mollhagen, St. Joseph supervisor, is willing to enlarge his activities to state matters. Loomis K. Preston, an attorney, also of that city, would also like to go to the legislature.

The seven to whom the register's office looks alluring are:

Leonard E. Merchant, of St. Joseph, a member of the Republican county executive committee, and long an active participant in city and county politics.

Miss Ada Lukens, of Coloma. Mr. Dukeshorer's deputy for some years. Lynn Whipple, of Eau Claire, publisher of the Berrien County Journal. Sherman G. Penwell, of New Troy, a retired merchant.

Don Pears, of Buchanan.

E. A. McAulay, of Benton Harbor, secretary of the state boxing commission.

Miss Lou Claybourne, of Benton Harbor.

Don Pears, it will be noted, is the only candidate from the southern end of Berrien county, and this alone should give him some prestige, as it is appropriate that this vicinity should be recognized by an endorsement of this lone candidate. Don is a World war veteran, high school graduate, college student and is entitled to the place for which he asks. Democrats will have a ticket in the field, but so far they have not shown any excitement.

REACH AGREEMENT ON FREIGHT RATE

SOUTHERN MICHIGAN SHIPPERS WILL BENEFIT BY NEW SCHEDULES PLANNED BY COMMISSION

Lansing — Detroit, Grand Rapids and all other lower peninsula points will be able to compete with Chicago in the markets of the upper peninsula as a result of an agreement for freight rate reduction between points in the two peninsulas, announced just before the close of the hearing in the Michigan Traffic league case before the interstate commerce commission examiner and the Michigan public utilities commission Saturday.

Ernest L. Ewing, attorney for the traffic league, who negotiated the agreement with the attorneys for the railroads of the two peninsulas, announced that the rates accepted by the carriers are satisfactory to his clients and eliminates the upper peninsula rate questions from the traffic league case. He estimates the reductions obtained amount to from 25 to 30 per cent of the present rates.

The new rates are to be put into effect as soon as they can be filed with the Michigan public utilities commission and the interstate commerce commission and passed upon. They are subject to the approval of both commissions.

Brigadier General Earl R. Stewart, member of the Michigan commission in charge of railroad rate matters, says, "if the rates prove satisfactory, they will solve one of the chief rate difficulties in the state. There has been complaint for years, he points out, because Chicago shippers could get their goods into the whole of the upper peninsula on rates so much cheaper than those between the two peninsulas that Detroit and other lower Michigan cities could not compete.

Under the plan outlined in the agreement, each peninsula is divided into three districts. The group described in the agreement as the "Detroit group," includes all of the lower peninsula lying south of a line drawn across the state just south of these cities: Grand Rapids, Ionia, Owosso and Flint. From Flint, the line runs north to Bay City, so that the Detroit group includes all of the Thumb territory, except cities along the Saginaw Bay shore. This group also includes Toledo.

NILES WOMAN INJURED

Mrs. Earl Vanderbeck, Niles, was painfully injured Tuesday noon when an unknown autoist struck her at Main and Third streets. She was thrown to the pavement, breaking her ankle and dislocating her shoulder.

FRANK IS ON THE JOB

Frank Kean is on the job again as town marshal, superintendent of streets, chief of police and general manager of the bastille, Edward Mitchell having resigned to work at the foundry. Mr. Kean took Greeley's advice about going west, tried it, and reports that Greeley probably had never been there himself. Mr. and Mrs. Kean were in Seattle, Washington, where they have two daughters. He found but little work available, and that not much to his liking. Hence they feel fortunate that they left their furniture and household goods here, and the first thing they did after arriving in Buchanan was to polish up the "Home, Sweet Home" Slogan.

EVERY AMERICAN WAR REPRESENTED

GRAVES OF VETERANS OF SIX WARS DECORATED, A LARGE NUMBER GATHERING FOR SERVICES

The living soldiers of three wars and living and dead of six wars were honored Memorial day at Oak Ridge cemetery, where a large number were present to pay homage to those who have fought under the Stars and Stripes.

Buchanan is among the few towns in which it is possible to decorate graves of soldiers who fought in every war in which United States has been engaged. The Revolutionary war is represented by the grave of Edward Otis, whose body was removed to this cemetery by relatives many years ago. The body of Julius Montague, who fought in the war of 1812, is among those which lie in this cemetery. The graves of three Mexican war veterans, Charles Day, Enoch Ross and Peter Estes, and possibly one or more were decorated.

The Civil war, of course, furnished the longest list of deceased soldiers, there being 134 resting in this cemetery. One Spanish war veteran, W. L. Merritt, was buried here, and the bodies of five who served in the World war lie in Oak Ridge. This makes a total of 147 dead.

A long procession started from Oak street about two o'clock Decoration day, headed by the colors, the Clark band next, then the ten Civil war veterans who were able to march, Spanish and World war veterans, girl scouts, a large number of school children, each carrying a flag. Behind the marchers were machines carrying other veterans, their wives and widows and citizens.

The band played several selections at the cemetery, and a male chorus led in the singing and rendered one selection. John Dick was chairman. He told of the order for celebration of Memorial day being issued by General John A. Logan, Commander-in-Chief of the army, in 1868. In Buchanan, he said, it was first observed in 1876, and has been observed every year since. It is not a national holiday, he mentioned, but in 4 states the legislatures have set it aside as a holiday.

The address was delivered by Rev. W. H. Irwin. Fear that, with the passing of Civil war veterans Memorial day observance may be forgotten, is now a thing of the past, as the sons and grandsons of these veterans, who served in the Spanish and World wars will continue this custom, he said. Long after the last Civil war soldier is gone the nation will gather at their graves each Decoration day to pay homage to the men who served.

The world's ideal soldier fought under the Stars and Stripes, the speaker said. He made the ideal soldier, because he was inspired by an ideal; he was not in war as a trade, but as a sacred duty. Best soldiers are not made from men born in barracks, but from citizens who turn the energies they have been devoting to other channels into the paths of war. The man who fights for principles outlives the world, the speaker said.

Examples of the bravery of the soldiers of both the North and South were mentioned by the speaker, as well as instances of heroism in the World war.

Following his address the band led while the audience sang America, after which taps were sounded by the bugler and three volleys shot by the firing squad.

Sunday afternoon, at the Evangelical church, veterans and others gathered to hear the Memorial Sunday sermon, which was delivered by Rev. E. D. Riebel. There was special singing by a men's chorus, and a good attendance. Following is a summary of the speaker's sermon, the subject of which was "In God We Trust."

BERRIEN SCOUTS DO WELL AT MEET

ST. JOE VALLEY MEETING IS WON BY ELKHART, WITH BERRIEN SECOND IN CLOSE CONTESTS

Elkhart scouts nosed Berrien county out of first place by winning with 69 points to 64 points the St. Joe Valley scout meet. Boys from South Bend, Mishawaka, Elkhart and Berrien county completed for the championship at Pottawatomie park, South Bend, last Saturday afternoon. There was a splendid turn out of scouts and the events were witnessed by a large gallery. Scout executive, C. H. Greene was the marshal of the occasion, assisted by the executives from South Bend and Elkhart.

At the opening of the meet a formal flag raising was held with the scouts from different sections on the sides of a hollow square. The buglers blew "to the colors." The South Bend scouts had made splendid preparations for the reception of visitors. A bean supper was provided and afterward each delegation put on stunts at campfire. It was a very impressive sight to see 400 scouts in uniform competing on the field.

The affair was a big success and it was voted to make it an annual fixture. The heavy point winners for Berrien county were Benton Harbor 3; St. Joseph, 1; Three Oaks, 1 and Niles, 3.

The knot tying relay was won by Elkhart, 7 in 4 minutes and 20 seconds; Benton Harbor 3 was second and Elkhart 1 was third.

The signal tower was won by Elkhart 7 in 1 minute 32 2-5 seconds. No other teams presented a correct message.

Marvin Harger of Niles 3 won the water boiling contest in 14 minutes, 55 seconds. Roy and Lynn Lauby took second and third places.

Berrien county scored a clean sweep in fire by friction by getting all three places. Ed. Narceau, Benton Harbor 3 was first in 1 minute, 56 seconds; Graydon Wilson and Vic. Moore of St. Joseph 1 were second and third.

Elkhart secured first and second place in bugling with F. Holtz and Robert Bliss. Norman Butt of St. Joseph 1 placed third.

The patrol antelope race was closely contested. Elkhart 7 was first; Niles 3 was second and Three Oaks 1 was third. Time 13 seconds.

Joe Martin and Charles Harrington of Elkhart won the ten-pitching contest in 3 minutes, 37 seconds. Julius Johnson and M. Harger of Niles 3 were second. Philion and Egendeer of Mishawaka 5 were third.

The last event was wall scaling, won by Benton Harbor 3 in 22 3-5 seconds. Three Oaks 1 was second in 23 3-5 seconds and Elkhart 1 was third in 24 seconds.

STORM DAMAGE IS SLIGHT

But slight damage to crops in Berrien county was done by the heavy rain last Friday. In the northern part, where the rain was accompanied by hail, County Agent Simanton reports that the immense fruit crop promised was not seriously damaged. In this end of the county water stood in many low places, hurting the crops there.

GALIEN WOMAN SEEKING DIVORCE NON-SUPPORT

Mrs. Emma Moran, of Galien township, the wife of Dr. John J. Moran, a Chicago dentist, has started suit in the circuit court for a divorce, charging non-support.

Mrs. Moran, whose maiden name was Best, says that she has been living with her parents for some time because her husband declined to support her.

They were married on July 30 1919; but have not been living together since March 3, 1920 according to Mrs. Moran, who is represented by Attorney Rolland E. Barr.

MARRIAGE FAILS AFTER 33 YEARS

NANCY STUDEBAKER, ONCE A RESIDENT OF BUCHANAN OBTAINS DIVORCE FROM AGED HUSBAND

Mrs. Nancy Studebaker, formerly Mrs. Nancy Bliss of Buchanan, has obtained a divorce from her husband, Rudy, after a third of a century of wedded life. Following is the dispatch from Las Vegas, New Mexico, which tells the story:

A marriage that resulted from a matrimonial advertisement and which endured for thirty-three years came to an end here when Nancy Studebaker, aged 65 was divorced from Rudy Studebaker, aged 86. It was brought out in the hearing that Mrs. Studebaker came here as the result of correspondence engendered by a matrimonial advertisement; that after having given the prospective bride an opportunity to inquire about his character among the people of Las Vegas, Mr. Studebaker led the woman to the altar; that after a short time the bride learned that Mr. Studebaker, who was a cattleman, was not so well off as she had supposed; that unpleasantness developed; that of recent years Mr. Studebaker, who is blind, has been cared for by a daughter of a former marriage. Judge Leahy gave the decree, and ordered that the community property be divided after settlement against the couple.

The method of obtaining the suit is interesting to those not conversant with the industry. The salt wells, as the depositories of the product are known, are located far below the ground, some of them being 2,000 feet deep here. Water is pumped out. The water is evaporated and the salt that is brought up with it remains.

Other salt beds are found in Michigan, one being located at Port Huron and another in the vicinity of Saginaw.

ENGINEER LOOKS OVER DAM

Mr. Charlotte, engineer from the American Wells company, of Chicago was in Buchanan Wednesday to look over the Bainton property, on which the village has an option to purchase for the waterworks and sewer of the village. He believed that the proposition was feasible, and is to make a report to the village later. He estimated that at present 98 horsepower can be developed and with a seven foot higher head 148 horsepower.

NILES WINS COUNTY MEET

Niles won the county high school track meet at St. Joseph Saturday with 57 points. Other schools stood as follows: Benton Harbor, 41; Three Oaks, 22; St. Joseph, 6. The heavy rains made conditions of the track poor, and no past records of Berrien athletes were broken.

FIND BODY OF SUICIDE

The body of Alexander Wieder-span, Russian, was found floating in the canal at St. Joseph Saturday. He was an ex-service man. It is believed that he ended his life about January 1st.

NORTH MICHIGAN PRODUCING SALT

IN MASON AND MANISTEE COUNTIES LARGE OUTPUT PROMISED BY PLANTS UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Ludington—Mason and Manistee counties in which are located the cities of Ludington and Manistee, promise to become one of the chief salt producing sections of the world as a result of recent developments in that direction, according to leading business men here.

Ludington already has two salt companies in operation, one producing about 1,000,000 barrels of salt a year and the other company half that amount. A new plant is being constructed in Manistee, total output of which will equal that of both the Ludington concerns. This will mean, according to business men, that the two counties will place on the market about 3,000,000 barrels of salt a year when the Manistee company gets under way.

The salt market is said here to be much stronger than it was during the business depression. Salt, it is explained, is used in the manufacture of a large number of articles and the slump in business generally affected the industry. Contrary to the common belief the salt used on the tables of the country is only a small proportion of that put on the market. With a general revival of business Ludington and Manistee are looking for a strong salt market.

The Ludington salt plants give permanent employment to between 400 and 500 men.

Other salt beds are found in Michigan, one being located at Port Huron and another in the vicinity of Saginaw.

The method of obtaining the salt is interesting to those not conversant with the industry. The salt wells, as the depositories of the product are known, are located far below the ground, some of them being 2,000 feet deep here. Water is pumped out. The water is evaporated and the salt that is brought up with it remains.

PLAYGROUND IS OPENED

MRS. H. RYAN IN CHARGE

Buchanan's playground is now open again, with the movable apparatus replaced and ready for use. The equipment has been painted and the grounds cleaned. Mrs. H. M. Ryan will be in charge of the grounds this year, and is planning to entertain the children with story hours, as well as with use of the fun machines. Mrs. Ryan will have supervision afternoons and evenings until eight on week days only. Those who allow their children to play in this park mornings, Sundays and holidays are expected to look after them.

FORD TURNS OVER, MEN HURT

Clarence Jones and Glen Sanford were driving on the Galien road Sunday afternoon, in the Ford coupe which belongs to the former, when in passing another machine their car upset. It grazed a telephone pole, and the fenders and top were badly smashed, necessitating about one hundred dollars worth of repairs. Both occupants were badly shaken up, Mr. Jones requiring the services of a physician for an injured arm.

When you have news call phone 8.

RECORD CROP OF FRUIT EXPECTED

GRAPES PROMISE BIG YIELD; EMERSON LOOKS FOR SIX MILLION DOLLAR FRUIT HARVEST IN BERRIEN

While Buchanan is not exactly in the fruit belt, the increased prices which are being paid for grapes make it an inducement to add vineyards to general farming in this vicinity. It is an open secret that the juice of Concord does not all go into jell, but is mighty handy for those who wish to build a drink with a little kick to it and do it with little work. Berrien and VanBuren county vineyards will produce a record crop this year. Cass county, spreading out as a grape district, also will figure in a record yield. Vineyard men already are receiving offers from the market gamblers. Some have sold as the vines stand, but the majority of grape owners are not feeling the financial depression. The bumper crop of two years ago enriched them more than any had anticipated.

In this county fruit growers will collect $6,000,000 in the markets this year, according to F. W. Emerson, secretary of the Berrien farm bureau, who believes the orchards yield will exceed the bumper crop of two years ago.

Ideal weather conditions, he said, made fruit look better than it ever did at this time of the year. Emerson says the critical period for fruit has passed and that orchardists may just as well take paper and pencil in hand and reckon profits. Except possibly Baldwin apples, all other fruit will yield copiously.

ST. JOSEPH KIWANIS ENTERTAIN BUCHANAN AT PLEASANT DINNER-DANCE

Twenty-five members of the Buchanan Kiwanis club, their wives and ladies were guests of the St. Joseph Kiwanis club at Edgewater Beach hotel Friday night, where covers were laid for 300.

It was a very delightful affair, amusing stunts running through the dinner hour which was followed by dancing. Cotillion numbers with the usual personal adornments prevailed during the early part of the dancing. Mr. Greening of Monroe, the speaker for the evening, was taken seriously sick after reaching the hotel and was unable to appear on the program. President Hanlin of the Buchanan club was called to fill the place which he did most acceptably, giving a humorous talk which kept the large crowd in an uproar.

VALUATION DECLINES

The assessed valuation of St. Joseph has been placed at $7,891,860, a drop of $142,540 from last year. The shrinkage is due to the loss of three large properties.

The Bend of the River garage gave a chicken pie supper and a play entitled "City Rube in the Country" on Thursday evening, followed by dancing which was much enjoyed.

Friends and neighbors numbering sixty, gathered at the home of Clarence Huss Friday evening to remind him of his birthday. He had said he could not be surprised, but he was surprised to find he could be. Music by Mr. Sherman and Mrs. Huss was much enjoyed by the hearers. A pot luck supper was served, and a social good time had by all. Clarence received many useful gifts. All departed at a late hour wishing him many more happy birthdays.

A large crowd of neighbors and friends attended the shower held for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rumsey at the Henry Hess home last week Saturday evening. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the bride and groom.

Fashions in Flowers.

Flowers have not always meant beauty alone. In the days of the French revolution to wear or even possess the proscribed fleur-de-lis meant death. Likewise, after Waterloo and the fall from power of the Napoleonic regime, the violet, which had been chosen as the emblem of the Napoleons, was forced to disappear from public view. Yet later, as times changed, history found the Empress Eugenie wearing the violet on her breast at a ball in the Tuilleries to signify to the world that she had accepted the hand of Napoleon III.

Nor have the same flowers always found favor in the eyes of the world. Some flowers have their fashions, too, as, for example, the camellia and the once despised sunflower and marigold. It was through Dumas that the waxen beauty of the camellia came into general favor, and the pre-Raphaelites restored to high place the sunflower and the marigold, the mythical goldflower of the Greeks.—Exchange.

GIRLS CLOSE EYES IN MOVIES

Were Determined For Once to See a Picture From Its Beginning to Its End.

The last scenes of a film drama were flickering to their inevitable denouement. The fight between the hero and the villain was over, the chasing of automobiles had been so far exhausted that there was hardly a character who hadn't chased or been chased by every other character.

Suddenly a woman in the audience noticed two nice girls near her whose eyes were peacefully closed. Her heart went out to them in sympathy, for she assumed that they were blind and that they went to the movies just to hear the professor punch the piano, although that seemed too awful to be true.

But when the picture ended and the lights flashed on, the two girls opened four perfectly good eyes, looked at each other and smiled.

"Did you really keep your eyes shut?" demanded one. "Honest to goodness I did—but did you?" countered the other.

"Cross my heart and hope to die," averred the first, "but it took a lot of self-control. However, I was determined for once to see a picture from the beginning instead of from the middle."—New York Sun.

DESERVED HONORS PAID HIM

Monument at Washington Recalls Notable Services Rendered by Indian Chief to Young Republic.

In the old Congressional cemetery at Washington stands a monument, the subject of which is known to very few of even the well-informed citizens of this country. It commemorates Pushmataha, a Choctaw Indian chief whose remains lie underneath. The monument was erected by his brother chiefs who were associated with him in a delegation to Washington in 1824.

Pushmataha was chiefly celebrated for his unflinching friendship for the young American republic, and throughout his life he was able to demonstrate this friendship in various valuable ways. During the War of 1812 he headed the Indians who composed a portion of Andrew Jackson's army, and his services in that conflict were so noteworthy that Jackson granted him a commission as brigadier general. He cooperated with the white authorities in the removal of the Choctaws from their original location in the Mississippi country to what was later Indian territory. He died in 1824 while on a visit to Washington in connection with this removal.

RADIO

THIRD ELEMENT IN THE VACUUM TUBE

Grid Added to Fleming Valve by Dr. Lee DeForest Was a Big Improvement.

Any device which will pass electricity in one direction and will wholly or partially obstruct the flow in the opposite direction is termed a rectifier. Because when connected in the path of an alternating current it will suppress one-half of each cycle and therefore the circuit will be traversed by pulsating direct current. A rectifier also is said to possess unidirectional conductivity, meaning, of course, that it will conduct electricity in one direction only. Its ability to rectify currents of extremely high frequency determines its application in radio.

Due to its ability to rectify high frequency alternating currents the two-element (filament and plate) vacuum tube can be used in a radio receiver as a detector.

Fig. VI is a simple radio receiving circuit employing this type of two-element vacuum tube in place of a crystal detector.

Dr. J. A. Fleming of London, England, was the first to use a two-element tube of the type just described as a medium of rectifying high frequency radio currents. Fleming called his product a valve because it would let current flow in one direction but not in the other direction. The Fleming valve as a forerunner of the vacuum tube of today marked a very important step in the progress of the radio art. The Fleming valve, however, in its original form was not much better than other forms of rectifiers then in use and, owing to the greater ruggedness and ease of manipulation of the latter, did not come into general use as a detector.

Dr. Lee DeForest, an American, greatly improved the Fleming valve by adding a third electrode called the grid, which served the function of a control element and thus made it possible to utilize the feeble incoming signal currents to control more powerful local currents. The three-electrode vacuum tube of DeForest is the tube used so extensively today.

The third element which is called a grid and from which the three-electrode vacuum tube derives its name was placed by DeForest between the filament and the plate in the path of the electrons. The grid is a perforated plate or mesh of fine wire through the openings of which the electrons must pass in their journey from the filament to the plate.

Fig. VII is a diagrammatical sketch of the circuits of a three-electrode vacuum tube and is identical to the same as the sketch in Fig. III for a two-element vacuum tube with the addition of the grid circuit I-J-K-L. The battery in the grid circuit is called the "C" battery.

As a start let us suppose that "C" battery voltage is zero. The operation of the three-electrode tube would then be exactly like that of a two-electrode tube, just as though there were no grid. Like a two-electrode tube when the filament C-D is brought to incandescence by the "A" battery a steady stream of electrons will be given off, which will be drawn over to the plate E. Plate E is maintained at a positive potential with respect to the filament by the "B" battery.

Now if the grid is made positive with respect to the filament, it is possible to accelerate the flow of the electron stream from the filament to the plate; if the grid is made negative with respect to the filament, the flow of the electron stream from the filament to the plate will be retarded. Or in other words, by making the grid positive or negative with respect to the filament, it is possible to increase or counteract the space charge. The third electrode or grid thus offers a means of controlling the current in the plate circuit without changing the plate potential or the filament temperature.

The characteristic curve of a three electrode vacuum tube is shown in Fig. VIII. This diagram shows the relation of grid potential to plate current, assuming that the filament temperature and plate voltage remain constant.

It can be seen from the curve that by applying a negative potential of value E to the grid, the plate current can be reduced to zero. The negative charge on the grid will have the effect of a negative potential E with respect to the filament, making the negative charge so strong around the filament that the electrons cannot leave it. On the other hand, if a positive potential of value F be applied to the grid with respect to the filament, the maximum or saturation current will flow in the plate circuit. Applying a greater positive potential than F to the grid with respect to the filament will not cause an increase in the plate current because the electrons given off are being attracted to the plate and grid.

When the grid is maintained positive with respect to the filament a small current will flow in the grid circuit. Because of its being positive it will attract the electrons and have a charge given up to it by them.

Light Affects Wood.
There is a figure which may be seen prominently in certain kinds of woods, mostly those of tropical origin, says the American Forestry Magazine. This is variously known as roe, ribbon grain, feather grain, etc., and appears as narrow to broad longitudinal stripes, alternating light and dark. This is due, not to actual differences in color, but to the way in which the light is reflected by the different layers.

Uncle Eben.
"Education don't do much for some folks," said Uncle Eben, "but it teaches 'em how to use their brains with a lot of long words."

Discrimination.
A salesman recently told the Bow Street magistrate that no swearing is allowed nowadays in Covent Garden Market. This exclusion of all golfers, racketeers and other cleaning victims is surely rather drastic. Punch (London).

"Sideboard," Really Modern.

The French have since time immemorial had banquet halls and salons and pieces of furniture on which they placed their "cassings bottles," etc.; so very complicated is the history of the sideboard, and the word itself is of comparatively recent introduction. Even in its original meaning it did not occur before the latter half of the Sixteenth century, and the earliest usage of it is found in 1573. One woman in mentioning her furniture wrote of "two long tables of syddes-boards in the hall."

DULCIE PROPOSES

By AGNES GRAHAM BROGAN

Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

The man and the girl sat on the bank of a stream that, loosed from winter bondage, went leaping across its shining stones. In a blossoming tree above the two, robins twittered joyously.

The man stretched long and lank, at the girl's side, had tired-old lines about his mouth, but his eyes were as ineffably young as his rare smile. "John Prim," said the girl, "I love you."

The man looked perplexed, unbelieving; then frowned. "Love is no subject for joke, Dulcie," he reproved.

The girl thrilled a bar of a gay little song.

"I do not joke, when I say that I love you, John," she returned seriously.

"Such a declaration should come from me, and not the woman," he suggested.

"But you won't make it," she answered him, and laughed.

"I brought you here," John Prim said, "to tell you that I am going away. It may be for a year, perhaps longer. The business needs a foreign representative, and I have signed to go."

Dulcie nodded cheerfully.

"So I heard," she said, "that is why I decided to propose today. And if you refuse to marry me, John, a year will be a long time to go following you around Europe."

Her blue eyes plaintively viewed the apple tree. The man turned toward her impatiently.

"You could travel on your Aunt Dulcie's money I suppose?"

The girl nodded.

"What a fine means of revenge that would be, for the spiteful manner of her bequest. John, have you any idea why Aunt Dulcie left her money to me, upon condition that I should not marry a Prim?"

"There was," John replied, "an old love affair between your departed aunt, and my father. She refused to marry him, I believe, because she was rich, and he poor, and then with the inconsistency of woman, never forgave him, when later he did marry my mother. The present will, however, was probably drawn with a fact in mind of my general unsuitability. Why a possible thought of marriage between you and I should have occurred to her, I cannot understand."

Dulcie hummed another note of her song.

"I told Aunt that I intended to marry you, John," she said, "I always have."

"My dear, my dear," sighed the man, "look at my hair, it is growing white."

"I have looked," remarked the girl, "I like it that way, movie-actorish."

"And even if I loved you," he went on, "do you think I would allow you to make so great a sacrifice?"

"You do love me," Dulcie said comfortably. "I tested you John, before I decided to propose; you are jealous."

"One may be jealous, and still not love," he defended.

"And," she continued calmly, "you missed me terribly, when I was away."

"How could you know?" he questioned miserably.

There was no sympathy in Dulcie's merry glance.

"I saw the glad look in your eyes the day I came back," she told him.

"I am a failure," the man said sadly.

"I have no right to hope for or expect happiness. I have failed in everything. My mother with her savings sent me abroad to study art, to realize for her the dreams of a lifetime. And I came back with only my pitiful dabblings."

"Were you to blame," cried Dulcie, "because your mother had set her heart upon making an artist out of a business man?"

"A business man!" contemptuously repeated John Prim, his voice broke, "when I came home to ruin the business under my supervision, that my father had built through years?"

"You know very well," Dulcie returned, "that war ruined your father's business, and you had no power to prevent it. You shall not wrong my future husband, John, and as for that matter, I, too, am a failure. I failed mother, in refusing to marry the pop-eyed young Van Haysen, of her choice; and I failed Dad at the start, in not being the son of his desire."

"Now," the gay note of her laughter rippled, "I have failed Aunt Dulcie, handing over her fortune to a graceless nephew."

John Prim jumped to his feet.

"Dulcie," he cried, "surely you have not been so rash as to waive claim to that legacy."

"Surely I have," answered Dulcie pleasantly, "its condition is impossible. And though we may have failed others, John, we have not failed the test of love. For here we are quarreling as to which shall make the greater sacrifice for the other. And as love is the greatest thing in the world—"

Close in his eager arms, her pleadings ended. And after a time, when John raised the girl's radiant face to his own, the tired lines about his mouth vanished in the ineffable youth of his smile.

"Dulcie hummed a bar of her spring song; then, 'My, my, John Prim,' she said, 'what a time you did give me, proposing.'"

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

Four years ago the words "Over There" meant a boy away from home and loved ones; hardships, rain, mud, privations, fighting, wounds and perhaps death. In the "Flapper Dictionary" of today, according to the American Legion of Omaha, Neb., "Over there" means a warning "that the girl lives too far to take a taxi." The Legion is trying to do something about it.

A second great vessel of the United States merchant marine now bears the name American Legion. In re-naming the so-called state boats after presidents, the shipping board made an exception in the case of the steamship Badger State, which was given the name American Legion instead. The fastest boat of the Munson Line also is named after the service men's organization.

In re-naming the boats, the shipping board undertook to re-christen the Leviathan, greatest American troop ship, after President Harding, who directed, however, that the giant liner retain the name she had during doughboy days.

A straw vote on the subject of enforcement of the prohibition law conducted by The Legionaire, official organ of the American Legion of Cuyahoga county, Ohio, showed that 62 per cent of the ex-soldiers were in favor of stricter enforcement of the dry law.

Whether the crown of best all around athlete in the military forces of the United States shall rest on the head of a soldier, marine or sailor will be decided when the men from the three branches of the service meet in competition at the third annual track and field meet of the Philadelphia American Legion, June 9 and 10.

The last word in modern surgery is announced at Paris, France where a French army surgeon has inserted an artificial tongue in the mouth of Serg. Villa, a Verdun wounded war veteran. A shell tore away Villa's jaw, but skilled surgery has now made him able to talk, sing and whistle.

When the S. S. New England was 150 miles at sea the bursting of a steam line wounded Boyd O'Neal former navy man, in seventeen places. His shipmates sewed O'Neal's abrasions with sail twine and three cornered sail needles, the rough sea surgery saving his life.

The $800,000 remaining unexpended following the payment of the New Jersey state bonus to former service men be used by the American Legion to provide hospital accommodations for ex-soldiers who are or may become incapacitated.

The world owes us a living; We hold this truth to be, But nevertheless it always comes To us marked C. O. D. American Legion Weekly.

The oldest member of the American Legion is believed to be Col. F. A. Bouetelle of Seattle, Wash., who recently retired from the regular army after 60 years service. He is more than 80 years old.

Scores of fire stations, school houses and other municipal buildings leased by the city to the American Legion and other veterans' organizations are to be refitted to meet the ex-soldiers' needs following an order passed by the Boston, Mass. city council.

After furnishing an average of 550 former service men a month with jobs from which it is estimated they received in pay more than $50,000, the American Legion employment bureau at Seattle, Wash., has been closed, due to the improved working conditions.

Baby's Big Cigar

A traveler in South America writes: "So far as we observed, the landlord's four-year-old daughter had not acquired a taste for rum, but she had already laid the foundation of a habit which Colombian women, at least the rank and file, have acquired in advance of their northern sisters. Sitting cross-legged on a bench clattering baby-talk, she contentedly smoked a large black cigar, around or partly around which her tiny forefinger coiled in stereotyped form. Her mother gave her a light and seemed unfeignedly proud of her offspring's accomplishment."

JAZZ IS WICKED, VILE, WEIRD, DEGRADING AND SINFUL, SAYS MUSICIAN

New York — "Jazz, reeking of crime and sexual appeal, is rapidly becoming the national anthem of America," Willem Van de Wall, noted musician, declared Saturday.

At the present he is co-operating with various institutions to discover just what effect music has upon delinquency, insanity and crime.

"A nation is just as great as its music," explained Van de Wall. "Heaven pity America if her standards of art and morals are to be judged by the weird syncopations of the 'Coontown Blues' sample of present popular taste."

"Jazz music in its various forms covers up a multitude of sins and is the greatest advertisement for haunts of vice and crime."

"My experiments with delinquency, insanity and crime all show that jazz brings out the worst in such people; music of Rubenstein, Wagner and other composers brings out their best side."

"The only music publishers who are making any money at present are the ones who feature the weirdest and wildest sorts of jazz. The youth of the land is getting it for a daily diet and know it better than 'The Star Spangled Banner' and 'America.'"

"Our better class of musicians are becoming extinct. Jazz originated among the lowest forms of civilization," Van de Wall asserted.

"We pride ourselves upon being the highest form of civilization, yet cater to such music."

"We need a musical house cleaning from composer to consumer."

Birds in the Dark.

Not a few birds practically rear their nestlings in the dark, says the American Forestry Magazine. Well known examples of this are seen in sand martins and kingfishers—birds that dig, or scrape out, long burrows in banks, and lay their eggs at the farther end of them.

Still More Juvenile.

A small boy, aged four, had just communicated the fact to his uncle that he had started on his school career. "Indeed," said his uncle, "why, you must be the youngest there." "Oh, no," answered the youngster in a very lofty manner, "there's another gentleman who comes in a perambulator."

MOTORIST LEAVES VICTIM ON ROAD

SPEEDER DRIVES AWAY, MAN HIT DIES; WAR AGAINST MOTOR FIENDS WILL BE PUSHED HERE

A speeding motorist struck and fatally injured a man on the Lake Shore drive, near St. Joseph, Wednesday night, drove on and left his victim in the road. A broken light was the only clue which police possessed. The injured man was George Williams, 50, who was a farm hand. He was struck about ten-thirty at night, and rendered unconscious. He was dragged several feet and left on the road, and found by a later motorist. He was taken to a hospital where he died a short time later.

All over the county efforts to stop speeding are being doubled, and this latest motor atrocity has added zest to the hunt for speed fiends in the county, and in St. Joseph a special war has been declared, as some drivers have mistaken the boulevards for private speedways. Two special motor cops have been appointed and furnished with motorcycles.

STRAWBERRIES FLOODING MARKETS, PRICES DROP

Strawberries are flooding the local markets, prices dropping to as low as a dollar a case wholesale, and in small quantities berries today were selling at two quarts for a quarter. There are 16 quarts to a case. A case and boxes costs 28 cents, and the price generally paid for picking is 35 cents, which leaves the producer a little margin at present prices. However, the dollar price mentioned is the bottom one, and more is paid in many instances. Many farmers are selling strawberries from house to house.

DAM BUCHANAN WATERWORKS

Perhaps the above would be a good slogan for those who are in favor of this dam proposition.

A careful investigation into the matter from all angles will be necessary, of course, to determine the value of the proposed plan to buy the Bainton mill and water-power rights, and to operate Buchanan's waterworks by that power. The village has engaged an engineer to go into some of the details of this project, and his word will be awaited with interest.

MENTAL SETBACKS

One reason for the backwardness of the Chinese, according to Wells, is the fact that their written language is so difficult to master that merely learning it takes about all of the scholar's mental energy, leaving little for original thinking.

American language is full of difficulties which burden the mind, just as a heavy stone would burden a runner. Spelling is important, of course, but it should be merely a tool so easily handled that the person using would not be conscious of it. Making spelling an end in study, such as used to be done, was over emphasizing that subject. A person might be able to spell all the words in the dictionary, and still be far from bright.

Considerable mental energy is now taken, because pupils must learn elusive spellings, such as receive and believe, words which contain one to three silent letters and odd formations, such as thorough, to mention a common example. American is simpler than many languages, but these variations are obstacles to pupils learning it, a hindrance to foreigners acquiring it and of no benefit whatever.

And why is every effort to remedy this matter opposed? For exactly the same reason that progressive Chinese meet with opposition in their efforts to lighten the burden of their complex language.

COLLEGE PROFESSORS

A large group of college professors has issued a pronouncement on Wells' outline of History, calling that work inaccurate, muddled and more visionary than historical.

For years professors have taught and written books about history in such a manner as to make it exceedingly dull. In the class room students slept when they dared, and took their history classes with the same gusto that an experienced child takes castor oil. Outside the class rooms no one ever thought of reading one of their books, any more than he would read an agricultural year book, the Congressional Record or a copy of the Michigan compiled laws. Dull fellows made an interesting subject dull.

Then came along Wells, and made history so interesting that the reading public became absorbed in the Neanderthal man. Alexander, the movement toward democracy and the future of the so-called human race. Most historians were so concerned that they totally failed to see history as a whole.

It is natural that, when Wells took this scarecrow that the professors had been dissecting for years, and transformed it into a living figure, which drew the attention and admiration of the world, said pros, should feel their blood boil with jealousy. They are in the same position as the sailors who laughed at the first steamboat.

If prohibitionists really want to see this country dry, they should turn it over to the college professors, who have the faculty of making a subject dry developed to a wonderful degree.

In due justice, it must be added there are those among the faculties who see the thing in a broader light, and stand up for Wells.

Many Bug Varieties.

We have in the United States a long list of insects we usually designate as beetles, says the American Forestry Magazine. There are some fifteen thousand different kinds of them, and they range in size all the way from little ones that it almost requires the use of a microscope to see, to such giants as the Spotted Horn beetle.

Living Room Important.

A living room of all rooms in the home is the most important, and one writer says: "Furnishing a living room is like starting out on a voyage of discovery." This room should be furnished with thought for the need and comfort of each individual member of the family. Give to the master of the household a comfortable fireside chair, a table beside that chair on which he can place a paper, magazine, book or any other things that he may wish there; give him his own reading lamp and a comfortable stool in front of his chair.

PREJUDICES BOOKISH

Dancers in the Dark, by Dorothy Speare. Published by Dorothy Speare.

In youth we ransacked the Sunday school libraries for copies of Boccaccio, de Maupassant, Tolstoy's Resurrection, and the poems of Chaucer, Burns, Byron and Whitman, which are generally omitted from the school textbooks.

Then, in middle age, we poured over one of Robert W. Chambers' cesspools, Eleanor Glynn, one copy of Saucy Stories, an excerpt of the report of some blooming vice commission, and to make a full confession of mental degradation, read the Cosmopolitan for a year.

Now, as the years have rolled away nigh onto a third of a century, with the sun sinking into the west and hastening to hide his face from an evil world, we pick up Dancers in the Dark, advertised as a wicked, jazzy, shimmering concoction, about the flappers, by a flapper and for those whose minds have not entirely ceased to flap. And behold! Here we find The White Life, distributed at five cents a copy by an evangelist at a meeting for men only, novelized.

Briefly, this book pictures a group of flappers, ex, present and would be who do a bit of tolerable flapping for the spectators, then find honest, home-loving men waiting for them, and decide that, after all is said and done, washing dishes, dusting furniture, raising babies, cooking meals and mending clothes is the real Life.

In some particulars this book is rather clever, particularly in the first part, where some college students are vividly and honestly portrayed. Later it becomes artificial and stilted, and is burdened with fatuous monologues about the modern woman. It appears that Robert W. Chambers is father of the fist half and Harold Bell Wright godmother of the latter half.

Take it in all, this book is spoiled as many pictures are, by the belief of popular writers that what the public wants is a story that promises a little devilry but turns out pleasantly and properly.

Life is a series of events, many of them meaningless, which leaves a person puzzled, wondering what is next. Man is half master of his fate, and half victim of circumstances. There doesn't seem to be any plot, and a large part of life is merely dull, unromantic plodding. But all the while there goes on a development of character that is interesting and worth reading about. A good story may thus be written about a life in which unusual events took place, and this story may be practically without a plot.

Thus Dancers in the Dark fails to be a good novel, because the characters are pulled through the plot, about as Punch and Judy are made to perform. It is no great loss that this book is not in the Buchanan library.

The Great Deception, by Samuel Colcord. Published by Boni & Liveright.

The contention of this book is that the overwhelming vote for Harding was not necessarily an indication that America was against entering the League of Nations, with reservations. Words of President Harding, while he was a candidate, favorable to the League, as well as of the many pro-League republicans are quoted to show that this party was not entirely opposed to the League. Also straw votes taken on this matter, separately, indicate that but a small minority favor isolation.

In other words, Mr. Colcord believes that this country, on the whole, favored entering the League, with reservations, but that the irreconcilables, on both sides, gradually drew those who wished the League as it stood and the reservationists apart.

Mr. Colcord's theories are interesting, well stated and probably true. But it is something like discussing how the matter of slavery might have been settled without a war. The book is unfortunately named.

The Young Visitors, by Daisy Ashford. Published by Doran, and in the Buchanan library.

Three years ago, when this book was published, it aroused considerable discussion. It is claimed to have been written by a girl nine years of age, and is a complete, but brief novel. It is well connected, and in all is a remarkable book for a child to produce. The chief value lies in the point of view which a girl of that age has in respect to social events, courtship and marriage. It may be read in an hour and is well worth reading.

Origin of Names.

No matter who you are it is likely that the origin of your name lies in the occupation of some of your remote ancestors, the evolution of which in many cases is remarkable if not romantic. Sometimes personal appearance or characteristics were seized on to designate one person from another, or resemblance to some animal.

FARM HOUSE OF COLONIAL DESIGN

Type of Home That Brings City Comforts to the Farm.

ITS SIMPLE DIGNITY APPEALS

Hospitable Character of Design Like This Is in Harmony With Rural Surroundings—Has Six Rooms and Large Porch.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 327 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

There are two qualities which we might say are almost inherent in farm homes, at least they are always expected—hospitality and informal comfort. There are some other qualities, perhaps not so good, which have been associated with farm homes for many years but which, happily, are gradually losing ground. They are poor water supply and bathing facilities, lighting and heating. Thanks to inventive genius and American progressivism, running water is now the regular thing and many farm homes boast of electric lighting and heating plants.

But aside from these accessories, the farm home has always been a place of real but unpretentious com-sized cedar needed for heating plant, fuel, vegetable and fruit storage.

Porch room is one of the essentials of the farm home. No real farm is complete without a large porch. To satisfy this requirement a large living porch has been added on to one end of this home and it has been screened in to form a delightful lounging place for the farmer and his family after a hard day's work out in the hot sun. At night this porch can be used for outdoor sleeping. This porch is 24 by 7 feet, and is covered by a balcony accessible to the large master bedroom.

Of course the entrance is one of the most pleasing features of the colonial design and we believe it lives up to its true traditions in this case. Two permanent porch seats have been built alongside the little landing, adding a hospitable touch that will not be denied. This door opens into a small vestibule or reception hall which opens on one side into the living room, on the other into the dining room.

Stepping into the living room, one finds himself in a great room, 13 by 24 feet, with a big open brick fireplace in the center of the room, the magnet which draws on cold and chilly nights. The room is spacious, emphasizing those essentials to comfort and happiness—light, cheer and warmth. It has windows on three sides and also has a door opening into the rear hall. If you have not noticed it before this it should be called to your attention. Note the lightning rod equipment on the roof, another important piece of equipment on not only the farm home but other farm buildings as well.

The dining room is 13 by 12 feet, also quite bright and well lighted. It is connected with the kitchen by a passageway through an intervening pantry in which an outdoor ice refrigerator is installed. The kitchen is typically modern, in striking contrast to the usual size of the farm kitchen. It is 12 by 9 feet and has been fort. What more satisfactory medium of expression in the building line can be used to achieve this result than the colonial home? It is really surprising that more homes of this type are not seen in the country, although there are many in the East. The colonial house embodies simple dignity and irresistible hospitality as well as delightful informality that should appeal tremendously to the farmer. It affords generous opportunity for the many little comforts sought after by the farmer and his wife and is perhaps the most economical type of home that can be built in this section. The country home is predominantly frame and this is one material which is particularly adapted to colonial design. Consider, for instance, the charming colonial farm home shown here. It is built of frame, set low on a concrete foundation with a good-

Valuable Food Neglected.

The neglected tropical American food plant, the pejibaye or chontia, is the rival of the famous Oriental date palm, and, like it, is capable of supporting human life almost unaided, Wilson Popenoe, agricultural explorer of the Department of Agriculture, declares. While Arab tribes utilize the date palm as their principal food, the aborigines of southern Costa Rica and other countries of northern South America subsist almost exclusively during part of each year on the pejibaye.

"Provocation" Is Good.

In an examination a schoolboy gave this definition: "Holy matrimony is a divine institution for the provocation of mankind."—Boston Transcript.

"Tally-ho!" and "Tantivy!"

"Tally-ho!" was the English hunter's cry to encourage his hounds, especially when the fox broke covert. The term is also used to denote a four-hand coach, or drag. "Tantivy" was the hunting cry to denote the chase was in full swing. It was probably formed in imitation of the note of the hunting horn.

COCOANUT OIL IN MILK AS CREAM SUBSTITUTE IS HIT BY CONGRESS

Washington—After a 25-years fight against her hated rival, the famous "cocoanut cow" of the South Sea Islands, the American-bred dairy cow won a congressional victory today with the passage of the Voight pure milk bill in the house by a vote of 256 to 40.

The bill will prohibit the interstate and export traffic in all "oiled" or similar imitations of evaporated milk which are made out of skim milk and cocoanut oil.

Friends of the measure denounced the skim-milk-cocoanut oil compounds as "deficient in the butterfats and vitamins which have made real milk a standing and universal article of food for ages." They declared that the labels tend to deceive the public and that retailers commonly sell it as milk, making a huge profit thereby.

Those who opposed the bill argued that "there should be less government in business" and that the labels conformed to the pure food and drugs act and that the public could easily read just what the contents were. They denied that the compounds were poisonous or injurious in any way and declared that congress had no constitutional right to destroy the industry which has been built up to large proportions since the war. Alice Robertson, Oklahoma, declared she spoke for "the babies whose mothers cannot give them the supreme gift of their own milk."

"You can talk about race control, but I tell you this traffic will accomplish all and more than that, if it continues," she said. "The war brought starvation to millions of babies in Europe. Will you let commercialism bring starvation to our babies in America by supplanting honest cow's milk with this mixture?"

"In the south, large quantities of it are being consumed by the ignorant and illiterate. There will soon be no race to cause a problem there if they continue using such compounds instead of milk for their babies."

Cong. Voight, Wisconsin, author of the bill, led the fight for it. Cong. Aswell, Louisiana, led an attack by southern Democrats against it on the ground that such products has a certain place in the market and could be made equally well of peanut, cottonseed and sunflower oils.

HAD FIRM'S MONEY, TRAVELED

Bruce Cunningham, 16 year old messenger boy of Windsor, Canada, was carrying $250 and checks when, with two companions, "he just kept on going." He landed in St. Joseph broke. He obtained a job there and slept in a coal wagon, where he was found and the police chief took him. His companion skipped. He was sent back to Windsor.

NITROGEN INCREASES FRUIT TREE BLOSSOMS

East Lansing—Applications of nitrogen caused much heavier blossoming in fruit trees this spring, in a fertilizer experiment of the Michigan Agricultural college horticultural division, than was found on other trees in the same orchard.

In 1921 there were practically no differences in the number of blossoms produced in the different plots in this orchard, according to Prof. R. E. Marshall, of the college department, although there were contrasting differences in yield, the fertilized plots producing from three and one-half to seven times as much as the unfertilized ones.

This spring the percentage of spurs which produced blossoms was determined, and the results showed nitrogen to have played a very important part in increasing the blossoms.

som percentage. Only six per cent of the spurs on unfertilized trees produced blossoms, while slightly more than four per cent of the spurs on a plot receiving 10 pounds of acid phosphate per tree during each of the past three years produced blossoms.

Four plots received applications of nitrogen alone or in combination with phosphorus and potash, and while there are some differences in number of blossoms produced in the different plots, nitrogen is apparently the only element responsible for increasing the average percentage of spur forming blossoms to more than forty.

Much in a Name.

A rose by any other name may smell as sweet, but—there is a lovely rambler rose known as "Lady Gay." This flower was originally named "Amelia Jenkins," but no one bought it or troubled to cultivate it. Under its new name it has met with wide popularity.

Each Balloon Carrying a Tag Worth $1.00 in Merchandise at Wyman's

Here's something to keep the kiddies busy, for what youngster won't have his or her eyes turned skyward looking for these balloons.

The balloons are large red ones, which when filled to capacity measure about two feet in diameter. 24 of them will be released each day at noon from Wyman's roof. Each balloon will carry a tag entitling the finder to one dollar's worth of merchandise from any of the Twelve Specialty Shops. In all, 500 balloons will be sent out during the 24 days.

The final landing places are bound to differ due to different atmospheric conditions so that South Bend and the surrounding towns are all apt to see some of these balloons land.

You'll hear more about these balloons before long and the tag, worth a dollar in merchandise, is some inducement to keep eyes aloft for the giant red balloons.

PERE MARQUETTE HEAD SEES CUT IN RATES AS DOOM TO SHORT HAULS

Lansing—Frank H. Alfred, president of the Pere Marquette railroad, Friday, told the state utilities commission that many short haul roads of Michigan are doomed if their revenue is decreased. He declared some of them may be compelled to discontinue operations even under existing schedules.

"The burden of carrying along short haul lines, which are showing a deficit month after month is becoming too great," he declared. "Even under existing revenue conditions, approximately 300 miles of track in this state are showing no return and the interstate commerce commission will be asked to permit their abandonment."

Alfred declared the average income on the invested capital of all short haul railroads in Michigan is about one quarter of one per cent. He argued that any attempt to discontinue the zoning system would be disastrous unless a new zone distinct, from the rest of the Central Freight association territory, is set up for the entire state.

FINE BRONZE TABLET TO HONOR MECOSTA HEROES

Fig Rapids—A large bronze memorial tablet, costing $500, has arrived here to be placed in the Armory in tribute to the boys of Mecosta county who lost their lives in the World war. The tablet is four feet high with the seal of the state of Michigan at the top. The tablet will be in memory of the 52 men of this county who died in the service, and in recognition of the services of Company 1, 126th Infantry, 32nd division, composed mostly of men from this vicinity. The tablet was purchased with the money obtained one dollar subscriptions from residents of the county.

Frank W. Fox, Benton Harbor, has started suit in the circuit court against the Pere Marquette railroad for $50,000 damages. Circulars were sent broadcast in which he was described as the thief of a battery from a freight car at New Buffalo.

MICHIGAN ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE WILL MEET AT LANSING NEXT THURSDAY

Lansing—The annual meeting of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league will be held at the Central Methodist temple at Lansing, June 8.

Trustees, representing churches, civic organizations and farmers clubs, will gather from all parts of the state for the single day session. National Anti-Saloon league leaders including P. A. Baker, president of the Anti-Saloon league of America, are expected to attend.

The report which will be given by W. V. Waltman, superintendent of the Michigan league, now attending the district convention at Milwaukee, will review the enlarged organization of the league, the formation and growth of law enforcement, in leagues of 30 Lower Peninsula counties, and steps taken in a canvass of candidates for office as to their stand on prohibition and law enforcement.

During the early part of the new year, issues with which the league will devote its energies include elections, legislation, preparation for a beer and light wine fight and extension of law enforcement leagues. Officers will be elected.

FISHERMEN SPARE WHITE BASS

No matter how much Buchanan anglers may desire white bass, they must wait until after June 16 to catch them. This is the warning given by a game warden who reports that fishermen are taking fine catches, from nearby lakes, because May and early June is the white bass spawning season, and if the regulation is violated a severe injury may be done the sport.

CUSTER MEN ENJOY DANCING

Camp Custer—Resumption of social activities, after a lapse of two years came Saturday night when the hostess house was opened for an enlisted men's dance. A hundred girls from Battle Creek, under a special chaperonage, were taken to camp to provide dancing partners for the 200 soldiers expected to attend. These are the men who camped near Buchanan a few weeks ago, while enroute to Custer.

Meaning of the Carat Mark.

When you buy a watch or a ring or any other article of jewelry you generally find the mark, "14K," on it. It is made of gold of that proportion. But as to just how much gold there is in a 14K gold ring, few people know. Some gold is 18K and some 22K.

Just as the name "sterling" stamps silverware as being made of solid silver, so the carat marks on goldware indicate the amount of gold used in making it. Gold is divided into twenty-four carats, the "K" mark meaning "carat." Pure gold contains twenty-four carats. The mark "14K" on an object made of gold means that there are fourteen parts of gold and ten parts of alloy, generally copper, in its makeup. Articles made of pure gold would not retain their shape, so the alloy is added, 14-carat gold being most generally used in the manufacture of jewelry.

OWNER PURSUES STOLEN CAR AND THIEF ACROSS STATE; NABS TWO MEN

Manistee—A thrilling 48-hour pursuit across state culminated here in the capture at the point of a gun of Earl Haefner, of Detroit and Louis Haefner, his father, of Manistee. The capture was made by Fred J. Ryan, Detroit, and police officers. Both men are now in jail, facing charges of stealing an automobile by Ryan.

The car, a sedan, was stolen in Detroit the night before the owner was to take it to New York and ship it on a boat to Panama, where he is doing electrical work for the government. As soon as the identity of the man taking it was established, Ryan obtained the service of his step-brother, Lawrence Aubrey, Toledo, and together they set out from Detroit in pursuit of Haefner. Even though the license plates had been changed the men were able to trail the car to Manistee.

Haefner is said to be a member of an automobile thieves' gang. Officers are now looking for his brother, Ray, who is said to be implicated.

OBJECTIONS APPEAR TO PROPOSED I. & M. DAM

Objections are coming forward to the proposed dam of the Indiana & Michigan Electric company, at King's landing, and Berrien county supervisors are planning to make a complete investigation before granting the privilege.

A number of county road officials went to the point where it is planned to erect the million dollar dam on Wednesday. Owners of summer resorts along the river are voicing objections, it is said. The supervisors also wish to know the effect the dam will have on the river at the mouth.

ENTERTAINS YOUNG GUESTS

Mrs. J. A. White entertained Friday afternoon with a pretty lawn party in celebration of the eighth birth anniversary of her daughter, Teresa. Twenty little friends helped her to observe the day. The hours from four to six were passed in the playing of games and telling of stories until time for the little guests to gather around the tables on the porch where luncheon was served. Miss Marjorie Hickey assisted the hostess in serving the following little guests:

Jane Habacht, Jane Easton, Charlotte Arnold, Elizabeth Geyer, Madeline Hamilton, Norma and Helen Shoop, Alene Riley, Kathryn and Freddie Portz, Norman Welden, Philip Hanlin, Phillip and Harold Wisner, John and Bob Strayer and Donald Blaney.

COLLEGE CLUB MEMBERS INVITED TO MISHAWAKA

Next Monday evening, June 5th, the University women of southern Michigan and northern Indiana are invited and urged to attend a dinner at Hotel Mishawaka. The "College club" the name by which the Niles Buchanan branch of the association is known, is urging all women eligible to send their names to some member of the club. About one hundred and twenty-five college and universities give degrees which make their graduates eligible to active membership in the American Association. Any woman, however, who has completed work in a college or work in an accredited university, is admitted to associate membership. Following are names of the Buchanan members:

Mrs. Emma Estes, Mrs. Enrie Terrier, Mrs. W. E. Sargent, Mrs. J. A. White, as active members, and Mrs. A. S. Bonner, Mrs. A. W. Charles, Mrs. G. S. Easton, Mrs. A. H. Heller, Mrs. Helen Mills, Miss Doris Peck, Miss Potts and Miss Peet as associate members. The College club meets on the second Saturday of each month during the school year for a luncheon, but the purpose of the club is not entirely social as its members take an active part in practical educational work. The club, this year, is sending away to school and paying all expenses of two girls. The association of College Alumnae was founded in 1882. At the national convention at Washington last year, the southern association of College women united with the Collegiate Alumnae to form what is now known as the American Association of University women. The national headquarters is located in Washington in a beautiful home just opposite the White House. This home for many years leased by the association, was purchased last year. Any member of the association, when visiting in Washington, is expected to make this club house her home if she so desires. It serves not only as a center of hospitality for college and university women of this country, and other countries. As the organization is not alone national, but is affiliated with the International Federation of University Women.

Auntie Remembered.

Auntie, getting along in years, is an earnest advocate of the "blank" system of memory training. By its use she has had remarkable success lately in recalling names, always so inclined to slip away from her. The other day, however, it took three attempts to get the rightful appellation. Nephew went up to her at a dance, requesting an introduction to the new and decidedly sturdy and stout young kindergarten who was substituting in our town. "Yes, yes, I know her name," said Auntie eagerly; "Just let me think a moment—it was entirely appropriate, so I didn't bother much with it. Let me see. Strong, no; Hetty, oh, no; I remember it applied to her calling as well as to her person. I have it now. Powers—Miss Powers," said Auntie triumphantly.—Chicago Journal.

Gold Knives Used to Carve Sacrifices.

At Chichén-Itzá, in Yucatan, where there is a sacred sinking well, there has been found all sorts of beautiful sacrifices imbedded in the mud. Jade necklaces, gold plates and small jars heavily studded with jade, sometimes containing human hearts, have been found in this well. The Maya Indians made these sacrifices when they wanted rain or a blessing for their crops. Beautiful gold knives that were undoubtedly used to carve up the victims of sacrifice, usually young women, have also been found. The Maya Indians of northern Yucatan probably use the same language as the builders of the ruins among which they live, says Prof. A. M. Coe, of Harvard university.

DOWAGIAC'S TWO PHONES ASK UTILITIES PERMIT TO MERGE COMPANIES

Dowagiac—The Dowagiac Telephone Co. has applied to the Michigan Public Utilities Commission to sanction a merger of the Home Telephone and Bell interests here. At present both companies are operating at a loss and service unsatisfactory to subscribers.

The company announces that if the merger is approved a single central office will be established and Bell receiving instruments installed in place of automatic machines maintained by the Home Telephone Co. The latter company went into the hands of the receiver years ago and at an auction sale a year ago George B. Phillips, banker purchased the franchise and equipment for $40,000. Rates, the new company announced, will be increased in accordance with an extension of the service.

START SENDING UP BALLOONS

Yesterday marked the beginning of the 24 day balloon race being sponsored by the George Wyman Co. of South Bend. On that day the first of the 504 balloons which will be started during the race was released.

The balloons are bright red in color and measure, when filled with hydrogen gas, about two feet in diameter. They will be sent out from the roof of the store at noon each day except Sundays. In case of rain a double number of balloons will be released the following day. To each balloon will be attached an invitation to the finder to visit the twelve "Specialty Shops" of the Wyman store, the same entitling him to one dollar's worth of merchandise from any department in the store. The tags will be dated and will contain space for the name and address of the finder, so that at the end of the race a chart may be made showing the landing places of the balloons and the time taken to reach their destinations.

As an advertising stunt the balloon race is unique. It is not known just how far the balloons will travel, but it is thought that under favorable conditions they will cover considerable distance. The different air strata and air currents will influence their course and speed, so that balloons sent up at the same time may reach different heights, encounter different currents, and travel in opposite directions. The balloons will be filled with a varying amount of the hydrogen gas so that a difference in the height attained will be assured.

Some of the balloons may descend near the place of release, but it is thought that many will be carried for some distance. The children, along with the adults of this vicinity, are expected to keep a sharp eye for the red balloons. The names of the finders will be announced from time to time, along with the conditions under which the balloons were discovered.

MICHIGAN BATTLE INTERESTS NATION

influence against any senator who voted for Newberry, who was elected by 8,500 votes over Ford in one of the hottest campaigns the state has ever seen.

Then, too, the action of the Michigan Democrats in holding a pre-primary convention to determine their candidate and avoid a rift in the party ranks is seen by Townsend's friends as a move to permit them to throw their whole strength behind Kelley in the Republican primary. Chairman W. J. Smith of the Townsend committee publicly charged such collusion between Kelley, Ford, and the Democrats as the principal Kelley strategy.

Beyond the Newberry issue there has been little bitterness between the candidates, although lately the campaign seems to be drifting rapidly in that direction. Definite public espousal of the Kelley cause by the Ford interests and the throwing of the immense Ford power behind the latter will mean one of the most bitterly fought campaigns in years.

Republican "regulars" are more or less definitely committed to the Townsend cause, among them scores of men who were active in the election of Newberry four years ago. According to the Townsend committee, the so-called "organizations" in sixty-three of the eighty-three counties are working actively for Townsend.

A few years ago there was considerable agitation in this country when it was proposed to remove the inscription "In God We Trust" from the coin of our land. However, it is not only necessary to have these words upon our coin, they must also be engraved upon our hearts.

There is only one sure foundation for any nation and that is an abiding trust in God. The Bible explicitly states that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people," and history of the nations has verified this as-assertion completely.

The American nation was founded upon a trust in God. As we read of the early history of our nation, we observe that religion was a vital factor. A few years ago in trying to account for the difference in the stage of civilization between North and South America, the President of Brazil stated to a prominent American business man that he believed the reason lay in the fact, that the early settlers in North America came to seek God, and the early settlers in South America came to find gold.

The church, business enterprise based upon character, and liberty, political, religious, social and educational, have all played an important part because of our nation's trust in God.

But there are still bloodless battles of peace to be fought, the crime wave, the enemies of home and school and stage, atheistic and anarchistic tendencies prevalent in some quarters of our country.

We honor our heroic dead by being true men, true to God and home and native land.

TOOK OUT DREADFUL SORENESS

When the kidneys are weakened or overworked so that they fail to filter and throw all impurities out of the blood, the poison remains in the system and backache, soreness, lameness and rheumatic pains are likely to develop. Mrs. David Henry, 65 S. Lincoln Ave., Washington, N. J., writes: "Foley Kidney Pills are doing me much good, both my kidneys and the rheumatism. They took all the dreadful soreness out of my limbs."

FOR GROWTH BODY NEEDS VITAMINES

DEAN SWEENEY, M. A. C. TELLS OF FOODS THAT CONTAIN
ELEMENTS TO BALANCE
DIET BEST WAY

Lansing—It's a very odd thing—as odd as can be—But whatever Miss T. eats, turns into Miss T.

And it promotes growth and health if it contains vitamins A, B, of C, according to an article on nutrition by Dean Mary E. Sweeney in the May number of Public Health, monthly magazine of the state department of health.

"Vitamins means life," says Dean Sweeney. "The body lives a hand to mouth existence, depending upon a constant external supply of these indispensable factors for the proper promotion of growth and adequate protection of life. Absence of vitamins is noted by appearance of certain diseases known to be due to deficient diet. Investigations with British, Indian and French troops have proved that vitamins are quite as essential in adult diet as in that of children."

Dietaries kept by 100 children in a typical public school clinic in Michigan, showed, during February, only bread and potatoes, no milk, no fruit, no green vegetables. Every one of these children was from 7 to 40 per cent underweight. By adding milk and some green vegetables to their diet it was possible to increase their weight from 7 to 20 per cent.

"Vitamin A occurs in such human foods as butter-fat and lard, in spinach, carrots, yellow sweet potatoes and tomatoes, in the yellow of eggs, in orange juice and in the glandular organs of animals, the liver, kidneys, heart and pancreas. Of these the most important sources are butter-fat and spinach. Vitamin B is found principally in spinach, whole wheat flour, eggs, whole milk, yellow fruits, animal organs, nuts, legumes, cabbage, potatoes, carrots, onions, turnips, beets and tomatoes. Vitamin C is also found in fresh vegetables and fruits."

"If the day's ration contains sufficient quantities of whole wheat bread and crackers, butter and meat, fresh fruit and green vegetables," concludes Dean Sweeney, "there will undoubtedly be complete safety."

UNIFORM ACCOUNTING TO START THIS WEEK IN 26 OF STATE INSTITUTIONS

Lansing—State auditors and accountants will begin this week to install uniform stores accounting systems in 26 penal, correctional and charitable institutions. The preliminary work will be completed, it is expected, before July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year.

The operation of the stores accounting system was explained to institution officers and stewards and members of the various commissions at a meeting here this week.

Gov. Groesbeck, explaining the new system to the commission members, said:

"The system being installed is simplified in every respect and will eliminate considerable of the book-keeping that has been done locally in the past."

"Haphazard buying and selling must be stopped. It is up to the institutional storekeepers to receive and disburse under absolute accounting for every dollar's worth of goods handled."

State accountants will go next week to install the new stores accounting system at the Industrial Home for Girls at Adrian and the State Public School at Coldwater. Later they will go to other institutions.

THE REAL REASON FOR A PRETTY SKIN

Why is it that one girl has a fresh smooth complexion and another a skin which is lifeless, dull and sallow? Is it a gift of nature or some guarded beauty secret?

It is a secret, but an open one in which every woman may share. It consists in knowledge of the care which keeps the skin free from clogging, poisonous accumulations in the removal every day of all dirt, oil secretions, excess cold cream, powder and rouge.

To do this, use mild soap, massage it thoroughly into your skin and remove with many rinsings. The mildest soap you can choose for this purpose is Palmolive. It contains Palm and Olive oils. These rare oils are the mildest cleansers nature ever produced. They are the oils used by Cleopatra thousands of years ago.

Their combination in Palmolive produces a profuse, creamy lather which penetrates every tiny pore, removes every trace of dirt, oil, rouge and powder and leaves the skin smooth and fresh as a rose.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first class groceries and drug stores.
