KIWANIANS HEAR NOTRE DAME MAN

COACH ROCKNE SPEAKS WHEN CLUB HAS HIGH SCHOOL ATHLETES AS GUESTS MONDAY EVENING

Buchanan Kiwanians and members of the athletic teams of the high school listened to Newt Rockne, coach from Notre Dame university last evening.

Mr. Rockne spoke on the value of athletics in schools, saying that the games go far toward building up school spirit. It takes intelligence to play football today, he said, as the player must be able to think quickly in emergencies, and must learn to depend on himself. In professional sports so much crookedness has been found that people have become suspicious, and naturally turn to college and high school games for clean sport.

Mr. Rockne complimented the Buchanan football team for the splendid record made last year, when all but two games were won. He said that some persons think football is a little rough, but that in these days of too many refinements a little roughness is needed.

Walter Fegan, president of the South Bend Kiwanis, Warren Miller, Jack Schaub and Jack Hatch, members of the inter-city committee, were visitors, each responding with a brief talk. They invited the local Kiwanians and all music lovers to attend the concert of the Little Symphony orchestra and Jessie Isabel Christian, soprano, which will be held at the Blackstone Thursday evening. South Bend is the only city of less than 250,000 population which this organization is playing.

The boys, members of the football and basketball teams, who were guests of the club, were given a hearty welcome, and President Haulin urged the Kiwanians to give these teams loyal support.

Boyd Gurley, of South Bend, who has recently been in Europe, will speak next Monday evening, and each member is to bring a guest.

BOOST TUITION FEES AT U. OF M.

Ann Arbor—It will cost students more for fees in the University of Michigan next fall, and thereafter, than it ever has before. The board of regents of the university, in session Friday fixed the student fees, beginning with the fall of 1923.

The greatest increase will come to students in the medical school and the dental college, with the increase of $88 for residents of Michigan, and $58 for all others. For other schools and colleges the increase is $3. Beginning with the fall of 1923, the student fees will be as follows: Medical school, $100 for resident, and $260 for non-residents. By resident and non-resident is meant those who do or do not reside in Michigan.

College of dental surgery, $180 for resident and $260 for non-resident students. This fee does not include all laboratory fees. College of literature, science and the arts, $85 for resident and $110 for non-resident students.

In the graduate school and school of education, the fees are the same as in the literary college. In both the college of engineering and architecture and the college of pharmacy the new scale of fees will be $100 for resident students and $125 for non-resident. The law school fees will be $110 for resident and $125 for non-residents. For women students the fee is $5 less throughout.

The regents approved the suggestion that the model high school building, now in process of erection be called the University high school of the University of Michigan and will be completed in time for the opening of college next fall.

BETHANY HAS BANNER MEET

The best meeting in the history of the Bethany class of the Methodist Sunday school was Monday evening according to the president, Mrs. W. E. Pennell. It was "musketeer night" and three tables had been filled with war souvenirs, which interested all present. The program lasted from eight until after twelve. Harold Hiller read selections from his diary, made while in the service; Charles Landis gave a long talk on his experiences at the front; Arthur Johnson, who was in the postoffice section, told of that work and Arthur Mann, who was in the artillery, told about a number of battles in a vivid manner. Refreshments were served.

ODD FELLOWS MINSTREL TO PLAY THREE OAKS

The Odd Fellows' minstrel, "Looking for Riffa," will be given in Three Oaks on Friday evening. The production filled the Clark theater here two evenings, and proved highly acceptable. There are some pretty scenes, gorgeous costumes and plenty of fun every minute.

The Three Oaks Odd Fellows are selling tickets, and assure the local organization of a large attendance.

BERRIEN PEOPLE PICNIC IN SOUTH

MANY BUCHANAN RESIDENTS AND OTHERS FROM GALIEN AND GLENDORA ENJOY FLORIDA PICNIC

January 21, 1923, was a wonderful day for some of the Berrien county, Michigan people who are spending the winter at St. Petersburg, Fla.

The day was perfect, with a sky of azure blue and a summer temperature of 75 degrees, which excluded the thought of overcoats or wraps, and made white dresses and Palm Beach suits a seasonable as well as comfortable attire. After an auto drive of six miles out Central avenue, a street which extends across the peninsula from Tampa bay to the Gulf of Mexico, paved all the way, and for the most part lined on either side with beautiful homes and tropical trees and plants. The auto party crossed the shallow waters of Boca Geiga bay on a mile of Pass-a-Grille, where turning south two or three miles more of brick pavement ended at a big pavilion on the beach.

The white sand, sparkling waters of the Gulf, blue sky and blazing sunshine made this place even a brighter spot than Ellsworth's store in South Bend. After the party had exchanged greetings, which in every instance either began or ended with "isn't this a wonderful day" the gentlemen arranged tables and benches, and the ladies proceeded to unpack the well filled baskets. When the coffee had been made and the food distributed, picnickers were seated and partook of as bountiful a dinner as was ever spread before fifty-three hungry people.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bish, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Boyle and son, Chas. Boyle, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Andrews and niece Winifred Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. John Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Babcock and children, Walter and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. John Burrus, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Richards of Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Weaver and daughter, Marjory of Glendora; the Brown family, composed of Arlin, Verley, Marian, Alma; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Menser and son, L. F. Hindle, all of Baroda; Mr. and Mrs. Will Weaver of Sawyer; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Price and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Russell, of Benton Harbor; Mrs. H. D. Roberts and daughter, Lela, of Galien; Mrs. Clara Sturtevant of South Haven, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. Norris and son, Ledarell, F. E. Simpson, all formerly of Galien, but now residing in St. Petersburg.

On account of the heat, the rules of etiquette were suspended and the men were allowed to eat in their shirt sleeves. All did full justice to the dinner except Fred Andrews and Charlie Boyle whose appetites seemed rather delicate. This weakness on their part caused considerable complaint and some uneasiness until explained by the fact that they have been deprived of their usual January exercise of shovelling snow, coal and ashes.

After dinner while every one was in more or less comatose condition, a rather mean advantage was taken when the crowd was requested to form into a compact group, facing the glaring sun, and four experienced camera men proceeded to snap the strained, set countenances of the victims who vainly hoped that they were looking pleasant.

The combination of a perfect day, beautiful surroundings, a good dinner and genial companionship made this an occasion that will never be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to attend.

Mrs. George B. Richards.

TO ORGANIZE NEW CHURCH

Twenty-five of the local members of the Church of Christ went to Niles Sunday afternoon, where they assisted in the organization of a Church of Christ, which is under way. Rev. 13, J. S. Raum, state evangelist, will open meetings in Niles. Rev. J. J. Terry and others will officiate at Sunday services until that time. There are 15 who have signed the articles of agreement for the incorporation of a church.

BUCHANAN STILL HAS HARDY BAND OF CIVIL WAR VETERANS REMAINING

While it is well over half a century since the close of the Civil war, nearly 62 years since that great conflict began, there are still nearly two score veterans of that war living in this vicinity, and above are shown 28 of that number. The above picture was taken by M. L. Thrie of the gathering of veterans

CONSIDER BOVINE T. B. ERADICATION

THREE BILLS ARE INTRODUCED AT STATE HOUSE TOWARD THAT END; INCREASE COMPENSATION

The importance of the campaign for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Michigan was emphasized in the House when three bills bearing on this subject were presented, two by Representative Eugene Kirby of Covert, and one by Representative John Holland of Bessmer. The first of Kirby's bills provides an emergency appropriation of $200,000 to be paid out of the general fund of the state to cover existing claims and finance the work for the rest of the fiscal year.

In order to decrease the cost of the bovine tuberculosis eradication campaign and allow for carrying it out on a larger scale, the other Kirby bill slightly reduces the amount of state reward. The amended section would read, "In case of tuberculosis cattle, whenever the commissioner shall direct the killing of such cattle, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to appraise the animal or animals condemned, and the owner or owners thereof shall receive from the state a sum equal to one-third the difference between the appraised value of each animal so destroyed and the net value of the salvage thereof; provided, that in no case shall any payment by the state be more than $25 for any grade animal nor more than $50 for any registered pure bred animal." This would be in addition to the federal award. The present maximums are $100 each for registered cattle and $35 for grades. The Kirby bill also would pave the way for county cooperation by authorizing supervisors to name veterinarians to cooperate with the state commissioner of animal industry. Thirty-six Michigan counties already have made such provision.

INDIAN RELICS DISCOVERED IN ST. JOSEPH COUNTY

Three Rivers Michigan, is in a region that offers opportunity for the paleontologist. Beneath the surface of the ground where the rivers join in St. Joseph county have been uncovered many articles that were the handiwork of the aborigines.

David C. Beerstecher, painter and decorator, makes the study of these regional antiquities a fascinating hobby. Within easy reach of this village he has located more than 100 mounds mostly the tombs of Indians, but in part, he says, the work of the ancient mound-builders. In his barn at the back of the lot on which his home is built, Mr. Beerstecher has a considerable museum. In it are several thousand finds from his excavations. Of arrow heads alone there are about 2,000. There are hundreds of spearheads, tomahawks and other Indian weapons and a fine collection of pipes, beads and primitive utensils. Some of these are of the famous "tempered" copper, the art of producing which is said to have been known only to certain prehistoric races. Mr. Beerstecher tells interestingly of finding the grave of a supposed chief whose skull is one of the features of the collection.

GIRL'S TIP LANDS THREE IN KAZOO FORGERY CASE

Kalamazoo—A tip given to the police by a girl friend, of William Slater, resulted in his arrest in Detroit on a charge of forgery. Information supplied by the girl also brot about the arrest of Earl Jennings and Clifford Barker. Jennings is said to have told the officers Slater asked him to write the bogus check. The girl's name is being kept secret by the authorities.

DETROIT CHICAGO ROAD BUILT 1822

FIRST HIGHWAY IN MICHIGAN, WHICH PASSES SOUTH OF BUCHANAN, ENDED ISOLATION

The Michigan citizen of today, blessed with a network of improved highways that reach into nearly every part of his state, little realizes the problems in road building that confronted the Michigan folk of a hundred years ago. One of the first important highways built in Michigan traversed the "Black Swamp," thirty miles in extent, and wound around the southeastern border of Michigan, ending on the north at the border of Lake Erie. This was the Detroit-Chicago road, a section of which passes a few miles south of Buchanan.

The history of the successful fight to persuade the federal government to build this road, a fight carried on by William Woodbridge, former territorial governor of the district of Michigan, is told in Charles Lanman's "Life of William Woodbridge," just reproduced in part by the Detroit public library as a historical document.

The federal act authorizing the surveying and construction of a road through the Black Swamp was passed in 1822. Two years later an act authorizing the Detroit-Chicago road was passed, the latter bringing about direct communication between the east and the then far west. Other highways were opened during the next decade and central Michigan, far from being a pestilential swamp, as had been reported, was found to be a country which became a Mecca for thousands of homeseekers who laid the groundwork for the Michigan of today.

One hundred years ago Michigan was an isolated part of the country. On three sides it was bounded by wilderness into which only Indian trails reached. On the fourth side was the Black Swamp, passable for only six months in the year and even during that time in such a condition as to make its crossing an adventure to the hardiest.

Leaders in Michigan's citizenship, led by Mr. Woodbridge, realizing that the development of the state hinged upon the opening of a means of communication with the outside world, began an active fight in Washington in behalf of the Black Swamp project. The state legislature of Ohio finally was asked to advocate the improvement and the sister state gave valient support.

Mr. Lanman had the following to say concerning the matter:

"Separated as Michigan was from the settled portions of Ohio by a wide extent of country (so disastrously known during the war with Great Britain as the Black Swamp) and from other states on the southwest by an untrodden wilderness, Michigan had continued—down to the period when that war had brought it into notice—almost entirely unknown to the people of the United States. For many years after the peace of 1783 it had remained under the government of Great Britain, practically a part of upper Canada.

"The social and commercial intercourse of its people was with Canada almost exclusively. To and through that province all the artificial roads were constructed, and when navigation on the lakes was closed by winter no other lines of intercourse existed. "Such a course of things did not comport with the general safety, as was lamentably demonstrated at the very commencement of the war, for the entire territory unquestionably was lost by it. Neither did it accord with the provident care and wise policy that looks to the future."

The writer explains that the first step necessary to building the Black Swamp road to procure a strip of land from the Indians by treaty and points out that this was agreed to by the Indian chiefs as a distinct benefit to the Redmen.

MARJAH DELAYED, WIFE ILL

Marjah, the mind reader and crystal gazer, who was to appear at the Princess this week, has been compelled to postpone his engagement on account of the illness of his wife. He expects to come next Sunday, to be at the Princess all the week, his act being given without additional charge. The ladies' special matinee will be Tuesday instead of Wednesday.

MICHIGAN FIFTH IN AUTO OWNING

HAS OVER HALF MILLION CARS OF TWELVE MILLIONS OWNED IN NATION LAST YEAR

In Michigan there were 578,980 automobiles in 1922, an increase of 20 per cent. over the number in 1921, according to the annual statistics on motor vehicles compiled by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., which give a total of 12,281,445 cars and trucks registered in this country in 1922. A gain of 1,757,050 or 16.7 per cent is registered over 1921 which gave a total of 10,524,395. 1922 was the biggest year the automotive industry has known. Every state in the union shows an increase in the number of cars operated, as opposed to the preceding year. From the standpoint of production, manufacturers enjoyed the biggest year since the inception of the motor car, with 2,576,219 cars and trucks produced. There can be no doubt that the motor vehicle is essential to the social and industrial welfare of the country. Today there is one car for every 8.6 people in the country. In the past two years more cars have been produced than were registered in 1916. This enormous growth is unparalleled in any industry.

In the agricultural section, such states as Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri and North Dakota, show increases ranging from 7 per cent. to 15 per cent, any one of which is greater than the gain made in Massachusetts, namely 6.4 per cent. The gain throughout the southern states is generally greater than in the middle west.

It is interesting to note that six states have nearly 40 per cent. of all the motor vehicles registered in the country. New York, Ohio, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan accomplish this with a combined total of 4,898,863.

The gain made in these states during 1922, 859,326, is greater than the total registration of Great Britain and France combined. Any one of these states has more cars than the entire Dominion of Canada. Their aggregate total is nearly equal to the 1917 registration for the entire country.

Today there is one motor vehicle for every 8.6 people in the United States as opposed to one for every 10 in 1921. California has the greatest number of cars per capita with one for every 4.1 inhabitants, virtually one car per family. When this rate is attained throughout the country we will have over 25,000,000 motor vehicles. If the world could support such an average there would be over 400,000,000 cars in use.

The 1922 car and truck production was 2,576,219. Deducting from this the increase in registrations of 1,757,050, the result, 819,169 vehicles, represents the number of cars discarded last year. For the most part they were produced six or seven years ago and have outlived their period of usefulness. For 1923 manufacturers must build at least 1,000,000 cars for replacement alone.

AIM TO BUILD UP NATION'S HEALTH

FEDERAL HEALTH BODY BEING PLANNED, WOULD MAKE U. S. LEADER IN WELFARE ORGANIZATIONS

Lansing—A new era of public health work is dawning in America. The proof of this statement lies in the recent meeting of the executive committee of the Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities called at Washington at the request of President Harding.

Dr. R. M. Olin, commissioner of the Michigan Department of Health, as secretary of the executive committee, attended the meeting.

There Brigadier-General C. E. Sawyer explained to the executive committee that a reorganization of federal departments is contemplated. The committee in charge of the plans for this reorganization believes that a new Department of Education, Health and welfare should be created with its secretary holding a portfolio in the President's cabinet.

When these plans are submitted to congress they will provide for a department of four bureaus, education, health, social service and a veteran's bureau with a director general at the head of each.

The Washington meeting was called to inform the general medical profession of the intent of this change which amounts practically to a reorganization of the federal department of health to correlate and aid the work of the various state departments, with the purpose of eventually giving the United States a public health service superior to that of any other nation.

SUSPEND JUDGMENTS
 It requires a certain narrowness of mind to be certain and positive. The more breadth and knowledge a person has, the less sure he becomes of everything; he learns to suspend his judgments. Abroad-minded man in politics is out of the question; to succeed there he must see but one side, in other words, be narrow-minded. On nearly every question there are positive persons taking both sides, clearly proving that some of them are wrong.

For instance, there is the question of the present French invasion of Germany. When one considers the damage that Germany did to France, and how Germany escaped damage and how little that country has paid in reparations, one can scarcely blame France for taking drastic steps. Then on the other side bobs up the fact that France is endangering the peace of the world, and that France is actually doing immense damage to her own chances of collecting reparations and the invasion looks foolish, diabolical.

Prohibition offers another of those puzzles where positivists on both sides prove that one side is mistaken. That some good has resulted from prohibition is quite evident; that some harm has come is also made plain. Figures can be gathered to sustain the contentions of either side of this question. There is no doubt but that John Barleycorn is "pretty lively" today, legally he may be as dead as a door nail, but any person who is alive to the present conditions knows that the law has not been successful, chiefly because about half the people are against it. On the other hand, it is quite generally admitted that drinking is harmful and that actual prohibition will be realized only after many years.

There is Fatty Arbuckle. It is a great indoor sport to arise and condemn Fatty, and say that he should not be permitted to do the only work that he knows how to do, because of his misdeeds. There is also a mellow spirit, which suggests giving him a chance, following the rules of forgiving and judging not. Perhaps this is a matter for the individuals to decide themselves. If his productions nauseate them, they do not need to attend, and if attendance drops off he would soon fall as a star.

The present increased interest in theological and scientific questions is one of the best signs of the times. For those who have closed minds the controversy on evolution, for instance is of no value. For those who are willing to listen to both sides, this controversy is a vitally interesting movement. It is important to the individual to know the truth, or as nearly the truth as possible. Reaching a decision from hearing one side only is the best method in the world of not getting to the point where falsehood is welcomed as truth, and the individual warped accordingly. For the person who wishes to form an opinion on this matter which amounts to anything, he must suspend his judgment until he has considered it from more than one angle.

Perhaps the greatest test of this ability to suspend judgments is in regard to individuals. When one sees a person resort to a degraded act, one which indicates a lack of any moral sense at all, how is a person to suspend judgment? It is difficult but it is quite probable that the person is deficient morally, and totally unable to distinguish between truth and lies, right and wrong is such a one to be blamed more for this lack of any more than for a lack of any other sense, such as hearing?

By these intimations we do not mean that a person's mind should be suspended in mid-air, never reaching a conclusion; but we do mean that most of us reach judgments prematurely. At a farmer's institute one time a certain question came up, and a farmer present stood up and said he had tried the thing for two years, and it did not work, and so he was positive that it would not work. The speaker replied that at the experiment station they had been experimenting with the same thing for twenty years, but considered that too short a time to render any certain judgment.

GRANGE NOTES
 The month of January has been a very prosperous one for Moccasin Grange. January 13, a pot luck dinner was served to twenty-two, after which the installation of officers took place.
 J. C. Hollenbeck of Mt. Tabor Grange acted as installing officer, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Clark.
 Mrs. Hollenbeck gave a very good report of the state grange at Kalamazoo, Jan 18 and 19, the regional deputy, E. E. Salisbury, was in the community to help carry on a membership drive campaign, which resulted in the addition of nineteen new members for Moccasin Grange, this number making twenty-five new members within the past six months.
 The grange is expecting to give a banquet for these new members soon. Sometime early in February the plays will be given, namely, "The Kinko in Keezie's Wedding," and "The Persecuted Dutchman."

OBITUARIES
Henry Nathan Place
 Henry Nathan Place, son of Jesse and Caroline Place, was born at Lagrange Center Oct. 9, 1848, died at his home at Summerville Jan. 17, 1923, after a prolonged illness. He had a stroke of paralysis Jan. 5th, from which he never recovered.
 He was married to Etta L. McCollum of Buchanan Nov. 25, 1875. To this union was born 8 children, three who preceded him in death. The surviving children who, with the widow, mourn the death of a loving husband and a kind father are Frank of South Bend, Mrs. Will Russell, Harry of Buchanan township and Helen who resides at home, seven grandchildren, two brothers and one sister.

STATE DAIRY-ALFALFA DRIVE TO BE PUSHED
 East Lansing—The Michigan dairy and alfalfa campaign, after an inactive period of two months, will get under way for the coming year on February 5 when a two-weeks' drive starts in Genesee county. The campaign, work, which is sponsored by the extension staff of the Michigan Agricultural college in the interests of better farming in the state, has already reached nearly a dozen counties and will be carried to many more during the next few months.
 More than 8,000 farmers attended campaign meetings held in Clinton, Kent, and Washtenaw counties last fall, according to a report made recently by the college authorities. District or "barn yard" meetings were held on 240 farms in these counties.
 The value of alfalfa as a soil builder, as a high producing forage crop, and as a means of cheapening milk and beef production on Michigan farms is brought out in the special campaign drives. Increased acreage and better handling, with resultant added prosperity for the districts, have followed the campaigns already held, it is said.
 The dairy drives bring out the need of increasing the average production of cows in state herds by better breeding, feeding, and handling. The cow test and the bull associations are given as definite means of bringing about greater efficiency in the dairy industry.
 Other county campaigns already scheduled for this spring include: Gratiot, Feb. 19 to March 2; Macomb, March 5 to 16; and Livingston, March 19 to 30.

PROCLAMATION
 It is desirable to avoid closing the schools and other public places, and to that end we would request the citizens of Buchanan to postpone any functions where a considerable number of people are brought together until the present epidemic of hard colds, with a tendency to influenza and pneumonia, has subsided. Also where a case has developed in any household to isolate the same from contact with other members of the family and use all precautions possible to prevent the spreading of the disease. Strict attention to this warning we believe to be necessary.
 G. G. Rogers, Village President
 O. R. Curtis, Health Officer.

CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT IN LIVE STOCK SHIPPING
 At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the St. Joe Valley Shipping association it was decided to place another man along with Mr. Swartz in the store at Buchanan. It will be the duty of this man to handle the livestock shipments out of Buchanan, Niles and other points. The new man will also help in the conduct of the store business and be a full time man. The board of directors are now considering applications and as soon as a choice is made the members of the association will be notified. From this date all live stock should be listed at the store in Buchanan and Niles. Buchanan phone 54—Niles 465M. For further particulars call at either of these stores.

HOUSE RICH IN TRADITIONS
 Bradford Homestead, Built in 1674, is Preserved as a Memorial of Colonial Days.
 One of the oldest houses in Massachusetts and one rich in Mayflower traditions is the Maj. John Bradford homestead at Kingston, in Plymouth county, about thirty-three miles south of Boston. It was built in 1674. The land on which it stands originally was part of Governor Bradford's farm. At his death that portion of the farm passed to his son, Maj. William Bradford, for some years deputy governor of the colony, and he gave the farm to his son, John Bradford, on his marriage in 1675 to Mercy Warren, granddaughter of Richard Warren, one of those on the Mayflower. The house was built for their occupancy the previous year. Maj. John Bradford and his wife lived there for 82 years and brought up a family of ten children.
 The house is a large plain frame structure with deep, slanting rear roof, and recently was renovated and furnished by a community organization known as the Jones River Village club, the town of Kingston being on the Jones river. Previous to that the ancient home had been occupied by an Italian family and there was danger that this memorial of the Bradfords would fall into ruin. Many of the residents in Kingston contributed old furniture and the principal rooms have a typical old-fashioned seventeenth century atmosphere.

College Bars Ministers as Visitors.
 Girard college bars ministers. When Stephen Girard, noted merchant, died in 1831, he left $5,200,000 for the establishment of a college for "poor white male orphans." By a provision in his will, no ecclesiastic, missionary or minister of any sect whatever is to hold any connection with the college, or even be admitted as a visitor, or for any other pretext.
 However, the institution is required to instruct its pupils in purest principles of morality, leaving them to adopt their own religious opinions.
 The founder explained that exclusion of clergymen was intended to keep the minds of the boys free from confusion of denominational controversies. There is an explanatory clause in the will stating that this exclusion is not a "reflection upon any sect or person whatsoever."

Rune Stones.
 Every one admits that runes were among the earliest forms of writing, and some claim Odin the Old was the inventor. The common people attributed all sorts of mysterious powers to runic inscriptions found on stones over the dead and in other places. Uneducated people thought that kings, prophets and witches had the power to make queer signs, and a mighty spirit lurked behind all runes written on stones. Gradually, this idea wore away as runes were more commonly placed over the dead. Fifteen hundred rune stones have been found in Sweden alone, and some runic inscriptions are on rings, arrows and cooking utensils.

MONDAY CLUB
 On account of the illness of Miss Eva Chamberlain, Mrs. C. D. Kent again acted as hostess to the Monday Literary club yesterday afternoon. All enjoyed the carefully prepared papers on the subject of Forestry. "Value of Trees," read by Mrs. E. Terriere; "Timber Depletion," prepared by Miss Chamberlain and read by Mrs. A. Worthington, and "The Maine Birch," by Miss Lufkin. For roll call various samples of wood were exhibited, each member contributing some item of interest concerning these samples. All enjoyed the candy served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. M. Dodd and the program intended for Feb. 27, will be given at this time.

This is regarded by music critics as the greatest musical organization on the road and South Bend is the only city under a quarter of a million population to be visited by them. A few seats have been reserved for Buchanan music lovers. Those desiring tickets should notify A. A. Worthington before ten o'clock Wednesday.

The special evangelistic services held at the Evangelical church for the past three weeks, came to a close last Sunday night. Notwithstanding the numerous cases of illness in the community during this time the attendance has been large throughout the entire campaign. Niles, Portage, Prairie, Galien and even Detroit were represented. Eighty-two decision cards were signed and turned over to the several pastors, but many of these were signed by persons already professed Christians and members of various churches. Altogether it is felt that the meetings have resulted in a decided spiritual uplift to the community and the results would have been even more apparent if fuller cooperation could have been secured on the part of the entire community. Now that the special efforts are over, the various churches, participating will return to their regular schedules of service in their own buildings.

SIDE NOT SHOWN TO PUBLIC

While I am reminiscing about my relations with Mr. Cleveland, I will jump ahead about ten years and speak of a visit he paid me for three days during March, 1903.

He was to deliver an address at the Henry Ward Beecher memorial meeting in the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Sunday evening, and he arrived from Princeton on Saturday. He was like a boy out of school.

We were going to the theater on Saturday evening, and I suggested Justin McCarthy's "If I Were King," played by Sothorn.

"I hope it is not sad," he said. "I want to see it from start to finish," and, with a smirk, he added: "For I am a hayseed." I discerned afterward that he would rather have seen a comedy or vaudeville.

When we got to the theater many in the audience recognized him, and heads were constantly turning in the direction of our box. I mentioned it to him, but he said:

"Oh, no; they don't know me any more."
After the theater we had a supper of delicatessen and beer at home, which I knew he would like, and he amused us with several funny stories and mimicry. My wife remarked that he might have made a success on the stage, and he replied that his friend J. Merson had often deplored his having missed that profession.

He mimicked the humorous Congressman Campbell of New York, who used to come to the White House, and pointing to the room occupied by Cleveland, asked the clerk, "Is his royal nibs in?" "And sometimes Tim Campbell made requests that Cleveland had to deny as unconstitutional; then Tim would come back with, "Oh, I wouldn't let the Constitution stand between friends!"—Oscar S. Strauss in the Outlook.

No Fatalist.
There have been a good many misconceptions about the Turk, and the prevalent idea that he is a fatalist may be one of them. A Cleveland man whose shoe repairer is a Turk, and both skillful and conscientious, likes to chaff with him now and then. "I suppose you are a fatalist?" he said to him on one occasion. "The Turk stopped his hammer. 'What is it like?' he slowly asked. 'Why, a fatalist is a man who believes that what will be, will be,' the customer explained. The hammer strokes began again. 'What will be, will be,' the Turk repeated. 'Yes,' said the caller. 'But just suppose you are crossing the street and a big automobile is rushing right at you. What would you do?' 'Me jump like sheep,' replied the Turk. 'You're no fatalist,' laughed the caller. 'Me just good cobbler,' replied the Turk.

Useful Flycatchers.
Flycatchers are gray birds. They always perch on the tips of twigs, for their food consists of gnats. Watch one sweep out gracefully, seize an insect that is next to invisible to our eyes, then soar gracefully back to the perch. You can tell a flycatcher by his flight if by nothing else.

"Pied Piper" of Hamelin.
The "Pied Piper of Hamelin," has a reputedly historical basis. According to an old chronicle, the affair happened very much as described by Browning, at the town of Hamelin, in Brunswick, on July 22, 1370.

CONFLAGRATION JUST AVERTED
 Heroic Work of Fire Company Saves Domicile

A conflagration was narrowly averted Tuesday morning about nine a. m. when fire nearly destroyed the palatial domicile of our esteemed fellow townsman, Herman Buckenmeyer.

Mrs. Buckenmeyer heard the hot flames sizzling on the roof. She called the fire department and he arrived promptly, his heroic work saving the residence from demolition.

We wish to thank the fire department for his prompt, heroic work in saving our home from destruction Tuesday morning.

BALLARD SAYS WHY WHEAT IS HIGHER
CREDITS THE ST. JOE VALLEY SHIPPING ASSOCIATION WITH BOOSTING PRICE CHICAGO LEVEL

Ballard brothers submit the following communication:
 A few days ago an item called attention to the fact that for the first time in 25 years the price of wheat in Niles has been as good or better than the Chicago price.
 Probably few who saw the item thought to ask why this is so, and it is equally probable that if they did ask the question, not many were in a position to answer it.
 Yet the answer is easy, and lies in the fact that for the first time in many years there has been active competition in the Niles wheat market.
 Ever since the establishment of the St. Joseph Valley Shipping association stores in Niles and Buchanan it has been the intention of the management to, as soon as possible, serve the farmers of this part of Berrien and Cass counties, by handling wheat, rye and other grains.
 This year the program was started in a limited way at Niles, with the result noted, that the price of wheat in Niles has equalled that in Chicago, instead of bringing from 10 to 18 or more cents lower.
 The cooperative handling of their products by the farmers is increasing with wonderful rapidity, and in this respect Michigan is taking a leading part.
 Over a hundred cooperative marketing concerns in Michigan, similar to the St. Joseph Valley Shipping association, are united in a great central organization, the Michigan state elevator exchange handling millions of dollars' worth of grain, hay, etc., each year. The Michigan potato exchange, the live stock exchange, the Michigan state fruit exchange, the dairy interests, the poultry interests, the muck farmers' interests and one or two others, are all in working order or soon will be.
 Each commodity organized by itself, yet all functioning together to provide better markets, the elimination of waste speculation, etc., the production of better products, and a fair deal to both producer and consumer.
 The St. Joseph Valley Shipping association is only a cog in this vast system of organized industry, but it is an important one to Niles and Buchanan, and the territory around them, especially to the farmers who are coming more and more to see that it is their organization, asset only in its infancy, its possibilities of service only limited by the degree of support they give it.

FARMERS COULD CUT FERTILIZER BILLS

East Lansing—That Michigan farmers who purchase fertilizers could effect an annual saving of $300,000 by using only the high grade or Michigan standard fertilizers instead of low grade or low analysis materials, is the statement of Dr. M. M. McCool, head of the soils department at the Michigan Agricultural college.

"Lack of standardization and the use of low analysis fertilizers have resulted not only in an unnecessarily high cost of plant food to the farmers, but also in less efficient use," says Dr. McCool. "The cost of manufacturing and handling a given amount of plant food in high analysis fertilizers is less than it is for those of low analysis.

"The Michigan farmer should purchase fertilizers on the basis of their plant food content, rather than on a cost per ton basis. A standard fertilizer is conceded to be one which contains fourteen or more per cent total available plant food.

"Last season one fertilizer company placed on the market more than 100 brands, which did not vary greatly in their analysis or plant food content. As a matter of fact, the brands were of only 23 different analyses. The lack of information on the part of the farmer was made use of in selling these goods.

"If the farmer would make a study of the composition of fertilizers, which is easily done through the county agents or the college authorities, there doubtless would be only a relatively few fertilizer brands sold in the state."

A list of fertilizers which have been adopted as standard, together with information concerning their use under different soil conditions for all crops, has just been published by the soils section of the Michigan Agricultural college experiment station, and is known as Circular Bulletin No. 53. It may be had on request.

VARIETIES DETERMINE PEACH ORCHARD FATE

East Lansing—Success or failure in Michigan peach growing is often determined directly by the varieties which are grown, according to Prof. R. E. Loree, of the M. A. C. horticultural department. Even when trees are grown on ideal sites and under the most favorable cultural conditions, yields and returns are often disappointing if the varieties are not wisely chosen.

Making selections from catalogue illustrations and descriptions is probably responsible for more errors in choice of varieties than any factor, says Professor Loree. Many varieties are listed in nursery catalogues, and while all undoubtedly have some desirable qualities, many have serious faults which are often overlooked.

Hardiness is an important factor to consider in making selections for Michigan growing, because of the susceptibility of many varieties to injury by winter cold or late spring frosts. Quality, size, color of fruit, season of ripening, vigor, and productiveness should also be taken into account.

A special list of varieties recommended as most desirable for growing in Michigan has been prepared by the M. A. C. horticultural department. These have been selected with particular reference to hardiness and the ability of the trees to produce good crops of quality fruit wherever peaches can be grown. The varieties are listed in order of their ripening season.

For general commercial planting in the state, the Elberta is the only variety recommended. For local markets, Prolific, Engle, South Haven, Elberta, J. H. Hale and Salway are named. The list for the home orchard includes, Dewey, Early Michigan, Engle, Hill's Chili, Gold Drop and Lemon Free.

Local Mention

Toonerville is certainly taking on city airs. Marshal Ed. Marvin has just replaced three lights in the street lamps which had burned out and Main street blazes like Broadway.

A stranger was seen on our streets Wednesday, who arrived on the 2-57, but the Bugle reporter was unable to learn his name.

John Barr was in Detroit on business Wednesday.

Ye Editor was the recipient of a half dozen of the finest cabbage heads we ever saw, which were brought to the Bugle office on Monday by Marvin Ogden, one of our progressive prosperous farmers. Come again, Marvin.

Mrs. John Barr entertained at bridge Wednesday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Bert Atkins, of Watrousville.

There were 137 Fords parked on our streets Saturday afternoon. People from all around are beginning to realize that Toonerville is one of the best trading centers in this vicinity. We have progressive merchants, who treat their customers right, which Cnfinu"lelmfwyp mfwyp THR(*-., makes Toonerville popular.

Mr. and Mrs. John Barr entertained Ye Editor and his Better Half at dinner Sunday, the hostess again proving her ability to arrange a nifty, tasty meal.

Mrs. George Miller entertained a number of ladies at bridge Monday afternoon. Dainty refreshments were served. Mrs. John Barr had the highest number of points, and received a dainty manicule set.

Mrs. Bert Atkins returned to her home in Watrousville Thursday after.

School Behind the Times.
 Robert's father has an office with all equipments a modern office has. Robert has been told their different uses. When he came home from school after being in the second class, he said: "Daddy, I think our school must be an old-fashioned one. It makes you do your adding by hand."

Good Quality Long Neglected.
 Although phosphorus was discovered by Brandt in 1869 and exhibited to Charles II as "a wonder of nature," it was not until 1884 that it was first used in the manufacture of matches.

A Sales Manager's Letter

LONG DISTANCE helps one large wholesale house serve its 4,500 customers in Southern Michigan and builds business for the Company.

The General Sales Manager of that Company, comparing the work of a modern telephone salesman with that of one of the old school, writes:

"In 124 days the telephone salesman called on 4,628 merchants, 4,522 of them by telephone, averaging 37 calls per day.

"The old school salesman made 3,750 calls in 216 days, less than half of them by telephone, and averaged only 18 calls per day.

"The average daily sales of the man who sold by telephone were two and one-half times those of the member of the old school."

The telephone is quick, handy and a sure card of admittance. It builds business and good-will and lowers selling costs.
