the Proposition

SOMETHING TIMELY
Said the clock upon the corner
To the clock upon the bank,
"You are always several minutes off your base."
If I told the time like you do I would quit, so help me thank!
And I'll dare you to come out and show your face."

To the clock upon the corner said
The clock upon the bank
As it tinkled in the scornfullest of chimes:
"It takes the whole police force
when they wind you with a crank,
And even then you never are on time."

Then the clock upon the corner and the clock upon the bank Fought on across the street with gibe and scoff—
But I pulled the ancient turnip that I carry on my flank
And I proved that both those time pieces were off!

MALTA FEVER IS LOCATED IN
THIS DISTRICTORIGIN OF DISEASE FOUND IN MILK COWS AT
PATIENT'S HOME

The first case of Malta fever to be located in the Buchanan district was found last week, laboratory tests having isolated the germ in the case of a patient of Dr. J. C. Strayer. In this case, the origin of the disease was located in the milk herd at the home of the patient, 17 out of 19 cows being found affected.

Eight cases were found in the South Bend district, and the sale of raw milk was forbidden as a preventative measure. The disease is invariably contracted from the milk of cows affected with Bang's disease, involving inflammation of the udder.

In humans the disease is characterized by a preliminary fever, followed by an intermittent fever sometimes lasting from a few months to two years.

LOCAL BOYS GET
RIDE TO CHICAGO AGAINST WILL

"Travel broadens," according to the old saying, and it is a fact that there are two Buchanan lads whose experience was broadened considerably by a "buggy ride" which they started but were unable to finish according to their intended schedule.

The two young men, Roy Hinman and Loren Johnson, aged 15 and 12, started down town Monday morning to send a postoffice money order for the mother of the former, Mrs. David E. Hinman. After they had sent the order, they were hailed by a car driver and asked if they wished to make a trip to Niles. On being promised that they would be returned here in time for school, they accepted the offer.

On their arrival at Niles, however, their benefactor "shook" them, and they were without means of returning. A freight train was trailing slowly through Niles at the time, and the lads boarded a box car, on the chance of returning here that way. On leaving Niles, however, the freight speeded up and went thru Buchanan at an express train rate. The boys ran back across the tops of the cars to the caboose and attempted to persuade the conductor to let them off. The conductor told them that the freight was operating on a through schedule and that he could not let them off until they arrived at Michigan City. Being unwilling to turn the lads loose "on their own" in that town, he took charge of them and carried them on to Chicago, wiring back to local police, who communicated with their parents late Monday night. The parents immediately wired money, and the boys arrived home by passenger at 5:12 p. m. Tuesday, wiser but somewhat scared.

H. S. HONOR ROLL CUT
Robert French, George Wynn
Head Graduates in Scholarship

Buchanan people will have an opportunity of hearing the most noted figure in educational work in the United States on June 6, at which time W. J. McAndrews, recently deceased superintendent of the public schools of Chicago, will deliver the address for the commencement exercises for the Buchanan high school, graduating class of 1928.

While some of McAndrews' fame has been accidental, through the unholy war waged on him by Big Bill Thompson, he was known as one of the ablest educators of America before he was brought to Chicago in an effort to set to rights an admittedly corrupt school system. He is now retained by the Century Publishing Co. to edit all their forthcoming historical works.

His coming here was arranged through the negotiations of Superintendent Harold Stark, who deserves the thanks of Buchanan for the opportunity which he has afforded them.

The honor roll of the class has already been determined on the basis of three and one-half years of work, an unusual feature being that the roll of 1928 is headed by three boys—Robert French, Geo. Wynn, and Alfred White.

Robert French, a star debater and outstanding student during his high school period here, heads the class as valedictorian with the splendid average of 96.26 per cent. George Wynn follows close with an average of 95.73 per cent, and will be salutatorian.

The other students who averaged over 90 per cent for the three and one-half years are: Betty Kollenberg, 94.38; Irene Imhoff, 92.89; Louisa Cook, 92.32; Lyle Mitchell, 92.18; Mary Louise Drew, 91.74; Bernice Harhoff, 91.67; Anita Boyle, 90.82; Ella Siekman, 90.66; Harvey Letcher, 90.64; Bertha Desenberg, 90.35; Donnabelle Weaver, 90.

NILES CAVE MAN
MEETS UP WITH
CAVE LADY HERE

AND AS A RESULT THERE'S A BLACK BLACK EYE
IN NILES TODAY

Somewhere in the neighboring city of Niles today there is a young man who carries on his sad and disillusioned map a 100 candlepower incandescent shiner as a memento of a tender love affair that blossomed and faded in one fleeting hour in the Buchanan skating rink last night.

It seems this young man was a would-be cave man, and he met up with an honest to goodness cave lady. She was apparently under the protection of another Niles youth, and our hero set out to acquire her by the simple process of licking her escort. So far, so good. He laid the escort out for a count that ran considerably longer than the famous Tunney count. Then he turned to claim the tender regard of his prowess.

And he got it, zowie!! right in the eye!

The more or less innocent bystanders report that the lady was too short to reach his eye, but she achieved that height by leaning a blow that both feet and planting a blow that had a ton of enraged femininity behind it. One blow only was struck. No more was needed.

And then, while the cave man made astronomical observations, and listened to the nightingales, and other birdies, the cave lady drooped herself to nursing her drooping escort back to life and health.

Announcing Our Arrival

As announced in last week's issue of The Record, A. B. and M. W. McClure, of Chelsea, Michigan, have purchased the Record of Harry L. Hayden and took possession on Monday morning. With this issue we introduce ourselves to the community in which we expect to make our homes.

McClure Brothers, as the firm will be known, have been in the newspaper and printing business for a number of years. For the past seven years we have owned and operated the Chelsea Standard, selling that paper to E. E. Brown of Ann Arbor, the first of March. During the month of March we have traveled widely throughout Michigan on the lookout for a newspaper and plant such as might give us an opportunity to expand our interests and develop a real community newspaper proposition. Buchanan, at all appearances, is the best place in the state for such location and development.

Our predecessors have given to this village and vicinity a good newspaper and have served the community well. Perhaps we should be satisfied to do as well. Nevertheless we shall strive to give you, not only the best newspaper which hard work and consistent effort can give, but also the best service from the commercial printing department of the plant.

A cordial invitation is extended to friends and patrons of The Record to drop in and get acquainted. It will take quite some time to meet all the folks, and we will appreciate an opportunity to widen our acquaintanceship. As soon as houses can be secured both McClures will move to Buchanan and anticipate with pleasure a long period of residence here.

VILLAGE DADS
INQUIRE INTO
WARD BLDG.

HOPE EXPRESSED THAT
BLDG MAY BE TRANS-FERRED TO WARD
MAILBOX

A movement was started at the meeting of the village council held Tuesday to inquire into the feasibility of acquiring the Ward Refrigerator plant, for the purpose of transferring that property to the Ward Mailbox Company, thereby retaining the industry here as a future industrial development for the city.

W. J. Miller, holder of the mortgage on the building, was present, and stated that his lien amounted to $9,500, plus arrears in interest and taxes for over a year. Unless some adjustment was made at an early date, Miller stated that he would consider it necessary to foreclose, in which case it would take him a year to acquire title.

James H. Ward, president of the Ward Mailbox Company, was quoted as having stated that he would be willing to take up the contract of the Ward Refrigerator Company at the point where they left off, completing payments on some arrangement based on his payroll.

A friendly sentiment was manifested toward the Ward Mailbox Company by the trustees, the belief being stated that the industry had a real future, and should be retained here if practicable arrangements could be made.

President Glover appointed the finance committee, comprising Trustees Kelling, Wynn and Pierce to look into the matter. Village Attorney Frank Sanders was later appointed to the committee.

H. S. Thornton, head of the General Safety Department of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., will talk before the High School assembly Friday, illustrating his talk by slides.

JOE ROSS SELLS
CANDY KITCHEN
TO DOWAGIAC MAN

Paul Caruso of Dowagiac took possession of the Buchanan Candy Kitchen Saturday, having purchased that property from Joe Ross.

Caruso is an experienced confectionery and ice cream parlor man, having been engaged in that work all of his life. He is accompanied here by a relative, Michael Spadafora, also from Dowagiac.

Caruso stated, in answer to a question as to whether he was any relative to the famous Caruso, one time leading tenor of the Metropolitan Grand Opera of New York City, that he was a distant relative but that none of the vocal powers of the family had been allotted to him.

Mr. Ross is planning to devote his time to his candy kitchen at Three Oaks.

PRES GLOVER RE-NAMES OFFICERS IN HIS APPOINTMENTS

City officials remain unchanged as far as possible as a result of the appointments made by village president Claude Glover and confirmed by other members of the council at the Tuesday evening meeting.

The chief discussion centered about appointments for marshal and waterworks engineer, there being considerable competition for the first named position. Other applicants for the marshal's post were Charles Patterson, Clarence Dunbar, Ed. Mitchell, Charles Koons. The appointment of Ed. Mitchell was favored by a minority of the council members, who also endorsed the appointment of Bert Dalrymple in place of Arlin Clark as waterworks engineer.

A compromise was proposed, to the effect that Clark should remain in the waterworks post, but that Mitchell should replace French. The lack of a majority in favor of such change influenced President Glover to re-appoint both Clark and French.

The re-appointment of Fred

DEMOCRATS WINNERS IN TWO OUT OF TEN CONTESTS

Democrats were successful in three out of ten contests in the Buchanan township election held here Monday, their lack of success being partially balanced by the fact that they captured the post of supervisor at the head of the ticket, when Harry Beck was returned to that position after a year's absence by a margin of 147 votes over Alonzo Howe.

Meffert, the other Democrat who won his contest, took the post of highway commissioner by a majority of 48 votes over Perry Wallace.

Irenus Sparks had no opposition for the post of township clerk. Burton Montgomery was elected treasurer by a majority of 50 votes over Fred Howe, a cousin of Alonzo Howe.

BUSINESS MEET
TO CHOOSE HEADS

The Buchanan Chamber of Commerce re-organized Thursday night in a short business session held after its annual banquet at the Clark Cafeteria Thursday night. Harleigh W. Riley, president of the organization during the past year, Charles F. Pears, Harry Boyce, and Walter Shoop were re-elected to the directorate. New directors elected were: Frances Hiller, Dr. E. T. Waldo, and H. A. Hattenback, who succeeded Jesse Vile, Fred Mead, and Harry B. Thompson.

The new directors met the following evening and re-elected Harleigh Riley and Walter Shoop as president and vice president. They will meet again tonight to elect the secretary and outline activities for the coming year.

The banquet was served in the best style of Quin Walters, cafeteria manager and chef, and was a pronounced success.

DR T. J. BURNS HITS HOME IN
C. C. ADDRESS

RECOMMENDS ORGANIZATION
OF JUNIOR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Dr. John T. Burns, one of the premier civic society workers and organizers of America, was the speaker of the evening at the Chamber of Commerce banquet at the Clark Cafeteria Thursday evening, delivering to the 35 assembled members what was probably the most pertinent and inspiring talk on city building ever heard here.

Dr. Burns has an experience in this line that is remarkable, as the following partial list of the positions he has held, will testify:

State secretary of the Colorado Associated Commercial clubs, Secretary of The Trans-Missouri Dry Farming Congress, secretary of the International Dry Farming Congress, manager of International Land Shows held in several cities, western secretary of the American Mining Congress, chief of Foreign and Civic Exhibits at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial.

Dr. Burns was introduced by Dr. E. T. Waldo, a friend of long standing, whose guest he was when he first came to Buchanan during the New Year holiday season.

His fine address, in part, follows:

"I did not come to you to compliment you—neither to condemn. I have given no promises to do either—and I feel much like the philosopher who said: 'I hesitate to criticize or to advise because in doing so one assumes a responsibility—and he is never thanked for either. I am going to talk to you just as if we were old friends gathered here to talk over a common interest."

"In another five years you will be observing your centennial—may I correct and say 'celebrating' your centennial—for that SHOULD be your objective from now on. Why not check up on your own progress and history and the ways and means of making the coming observance something worth while."

"You have reasons for rejoicing and reasons for gnashing of teeth. First you have enjoyed a steady growth of clean, prosperous citizens. You have a history of contentment and civic righteousness and are—as a whole, healthy, contented and living an uninterrupted small town existence. You have devoted yourselves to your churches and your schools and your neighbors. Your city has a restful look to the wayfarer, your homes are comfortable."

"Twenty five years ago your population was fifteen hundred. Today you are credited with three thousand seven hundred souls. In fifteen years you have doubled your population. The total valuation of your residence and business property is something over five millions. You are on a main

Notable Group Farm Leaders
At Formal Opening of
New Building

OVER 1200 INVITATIONS

Marks High Point in History of Farm Co-Operation in This District

S. H. Thompson, president of the most powerful farm organization in the world, The American Farm Bureau, will be present in Buchanan Tuesday evening, April 10, to speak on the occasion of the formal opening of the St. Joe Valley Shipping Association, his coming marking one of the high points in the history of co-operative agricultural meetings in this section.

Before his election to the head of the national Farm Bureau, Thompson was a successful "dirt farmer", carrying on a general farming and live stock breeding business near Quincy, Ill. Since his elevation to his present high position, he has made a world wide study of the problems of the farmer, spending several months in European countries last summer, where he investigated the progress of co-operative buying and marketing.

Accompanying him on the program that evening will be President M. L. Noon of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, from Jackson; C. L. Brody, state secretary and general manager of the Farm Bureau, with headquarters at Lansing; F. Thomas, head of the supply department of the Michigan State Farm Bureau, Lansing, Mich. This array of speakers constitutes the most notable gathering of farm leaders ever held in this section of Michigan.

The presence of President Thompson is due to the efforts of Jesse G. Boyle, who became personally acquainted with the national leader while they both were serving on a committee under the National Farm Bureau. They served without recompense, and when Boyle was asked how he valued his services, he exacted only a promise that Thompson would visit Buchanan.

There will also be a program of special music. The program will open at 7:30 in the hall of the St. Joe Valley Shipping Association building on Days Avenue. Invitations have been issued to 400 members of the organization in St. Joe County, Ind., to 400 members in Cass County, and to the 700 members in Buchanan county. Special invitations were also issued to the 100 holders of stock in the shipping association and to the business men of Buchanan.

The St. Joe Valley Shipping Association was organized in 1919 by the four granges of Mount Tabor, Bend of the River, Moccasin (Wagner), and Portage Prairie. The organization was engineered by Hale Tennant, a Berrien County farmer, who was then connected with the Michigan State College. At first only live stock was shipped, at one time worth of $500,000 and $1,000,000 worth of hogs, cattle, and sheep being shipped to Chicago. When stock shipments decreased after the farm repression set in, the Association purchased the building site on Days Avenue for $10,000, and started the present store business in the old Newt Bachelor livery barn the first manager being Edward Arney.

After the store business had been developed, Frank Harrington, a farmer living midway between Niles and Buchanan, was elected manager. A choice building site was secured in the downtown section of Niles at a cost of $10,000 and a branch store was started there, Harrington managing both, with the assistance of Wesley Swartz. Under their able management the business here has attained a gross of $200,000 annually. Against the present worth of $38,000, only the $10,000 stock in the hands of the 100 stock holders is outstanding.

Last July the construction of the present fine store building was begun by W. J. Miller. The presence of these notable leaders of organized farming is due to the outstanding success which agricultural associations have attained here.

Beautiful Specimens of Oriental Rug Weaving at Siraganian Home

"Oriental rugs! For a millionaire, perhaps, but not for me!" That would be the natural reaction, doubtless, of the average home owner to an opportunity to buy Asiatic floor covering, the products of the famous weaving districts of Asia. Such furnishings are regarded as luxuries, on the same basis as original oils and solid silver services, out of the reach of the person of average means.

An Oriental rug as an investment seems outside the pale of common sense. But is it?

If you could buy any article of household furnishings for the sum of—let us say—$100 to $500—with the assurance that such article would be eminently serviceable, as well as a thing of beauty,—that it would not only serve you during your life time, but your children and your children's children, and that if at any remote time your heirs and assigns might wish to sell it, they could not only find a market for it, but could get more for it than you paid for it, would you, or would you not, consider it a good buy?

If you were assured that while contributing a genuine service and lend to your home the distinction that goes with the possession of rare art, and would at the same time have a value as permanent as gold bullion or a government bond,—that you could place it under your feet and walk on it daily and yet it would be as imperishable as a diamond,—in fact would acquire value with wear,—would you not consider it within the range of possible consideration as an investment?

But if you want to hear any more arguments for Oriental rugs we will have to refer you to M. Siraganian, Oriental rug connoisseur and salesman, who is making Buchanan his headquarters. Mr. Siraganian is an Armenian by birth, reared in the home of an Armenian minister. His father was a man of wealth in whose home there were 153 rare Armenian rugs. In the old Armenian home, the Oriental rug was the chief furniture. There were the prayer rugs on which the faithful Moslem knelt five times daily; there were rugs designed for every room in the house; there were rare silk weaves which were hung on the walls. These rugs were handed down from one generation to another, acquiring added value as they became "mellowed" with wear and age.

Then came the terrible massacre when thousands of Armenian homes were laid waste by the "unspeakable Turk." When the Turk destroyed the home, he was too well educated in values to destroy the rugs. They were a form of property which could be carried away, and which were as valuable as gold.

In this manner thousands upon line of railway and on one of the through arteries for automobile travel.

"Somehow my fellow Michiganders I get the impression—in fact have more than an impression—that you are just like most of the small cities in my home state. When I was a younger man I was lured into the big West where things move with a bang—where no one is satisfied until his town is the biggest and best possible to make it—fortunes are made by being alive to every opportunity. Small towns are built into prosperous cities by team work between the live wires of the community. To be called a dead town is everlasting disgrace. When, after twenty years I returned to Kalamazoo and visited several of the cities of southern Michigan—I found the same old buildings standing on many of the main corners—four cities that seemed to have shrunk, somehow, into the surrounding scenery, villages that were scarcely villages any more and all tied together by miles and miles of connecting farms—sometimes looking neglected. The contrast between the newer West and the old Michigan made me sad. It all seemed tragic.

"It isn't that there has been no progress at all but rather that there hasn't been enough to convince one that the state is keeping up with the pace set by the younger and more distant communities.

Civic Revival Needed

"The cold, hard fact is that if you want to live in a Buchanan that is apace with the spirit of 'outh of today and of Nineteenth century progress, you will have to organize a great Civic Revival—give something that will sell your own to yourselves. Did some ever salesman ever come to you 'd sell you on an intangible ing—something that you could see or taste or feel, yet knew 'u wanted? If he did, it is a bet that you were so well sold 't you referred him to your ends because you wanted them share your own pleasure. That just what I want to do tonight 'o sell you on Buchanan so roughly that you will go out 'orrow and sell it to everybody. I want to sell you an ir-ible thing—TOMORROW. I t you to be so thoroughly sold 't that you will sell it to your 'bor.

Center of America Near-by
You are sitting here, in the 't of America. Do you know the center of American 'tation lies just two hundred 's to the south of you? Do realize that the greatest mar- in the West lies within three 's ride of your city limits and 'o city in Michigan has a ' opportunity for metropol- 'rowth than that open to you? 're you doing to take ad- 'ge of it? What use are you 'g of the fact that you are ' heart of one of the richest 'ies in the nation, with great 's of grain, miles of vineyards, 'eds of orchards sending 'ruits somewhere—with 'nds of men and women ' through your city on steel 'ber every week and with 'ds of thousands of men and ' seeking for investments 'mes all over America? ' a man came to Buchanan 't to look over your town 'tely decide upon its vic- 's a business center and ' town, what would be his 'pression, from the appear- 'g things at your station? ' what sort of community 'ould he encounter when he 't out to look over the city ' morning? If you were look- 'r a location you would consider certain things—some of these you have, and some you have not and what you have not are vitally important.

"If you were here to look over manufacturing possibilities, you would consider railroad service, proximity to market, taxes, power, labor conditions and housing, and right there you have at this very hour a problem. There is plenty of money in Buchanan but you are hundreds of houses short of your needs. The employees of the Clarke Equipment company alone need two hundred more homes, why don't you build them? Labor is not contented nor efficient unless well housed. New citizens will not overrun your town if they are forced to camp. New factories will not locate where labor is scarce and labor will not live where rents are high and homes hard to find. You have the capital right here. If you have not—advertise for it. Millions of dollars are idle and ready for investment.

In Ol' Cheyenne

"At one time I was the secretary of the Cheyenne Wyoming Commercial Club. It was the State club and the center of state activities. Cheyenne had no pavements. Its leading hotel was an old grey brick shack on the leading corner—known as a sporting place and owned by a Denver gambler. Its streets were poorly lighted. It was the home of Fort D. A. Russell with accommodations for thirty five hundred soldiers. It was Jack Pershing's home town. Yet there was no transportation and the soldiers were obliged to walk three miles into the stores. It was the State Capital but it had no pride in its position. It was on the main line of the Union Pacific railway and the end of a stub of the Colorado and Southern—now the Burlington. It had a few wholesale houses and no factories and few good buildings.

"We started on paving, hotel, lighting and street railway campaigns all at once. We advertised for capital but our own men got the idea before the foreign money arrived and everything went with the typical western bang. The Plains Hotel is one of the finest stopping places between Omaha and San Francisco. The street railway has never lost money. The streets are as fine as engineers can make them, the lighting is elaborate and modern and the entire place—in a few years was transformed into a real city with a population growing by leaps and bounds. And Cheyenne hadn't one fiftieth of the reason for its existence that Buchanan has right now.

"When I became secretary I met with the Directors. There were three bank presidents, two newspaper publishers, two merchants, one garage man and a theatre owner on the Board. They pledged me that they would make it a year of work and that they would back me to the limit. We had just sixty five men on the membership and most of those had paid no dues for two years. When we closed a thirty day campaign we had 365 paid up members and liberal additional pledges of publicity funds.

"I have seen the same thing many times. What others can do YOU can do and if I am not mistaken Secretary Charles is going to have to hustle to keep up with his lieutenants from now on. Get Ready For World's Fair. "And how is all this accomplished? There is just one well tried and proven method. It is organization. An organized army of a thousand would destroy a rabble of ten thousand. So an organized city working under discipline may do whatever it wills. There is one place in your city where every man with a grain of local spirit belongs, your Chamber of Commerce. It is or should be, one common ground upon which all men of whatever religious, political or business standing may meet his fellows, forget selfishness and plan for his town. You should bring every citizen, young or old, into its membership. Your larger business houses should make up any deficit that may develop from publicity campaigns or committee work. You should take advantage of the fact that you are soon to celebrate your centennial and that Chicago—your nearest market and big neighbor is to open the greatest Exposition in American history, early in 1933. The Chicago fair will make that city and its surrounding territory the cynosure of all American eyes. Hundreds of thousands of travellers will visit that Exposition. Some will pass through Buchanan. You can organize yourselves through committees, to bring in more pay roll producers, and to house the people, to pay factory taxes for the first ten years. You should plan your future parks and your boulevards with relation to the expected development, arrange for future water and sewerage. You can erect great announcement boards at your station—lighted at night and attractive by day. You can force your railroad to make this a main line stop in reality, and not a "stop on signal" town. You can encourage your farmers to make this the market town and arrange a shipping committee to help them. You can advertise your many surrounding lakes and build attractive resorts to bring the wealthy and influential business men from Chicago and other cities. You can put your city on the automobile maps and routes and arrange attractive advertising and welcome signs and stopping places.

Quarantine the Knockers

"You all know that psychoanalysis sometimes makes new men and women of some who seem to be failures. Why not appoint a well balanced psychoanalyst committee for your city and find out what the trouble is. Maybe you will find hardening of the arteries and you may even find things that you don't like to find but remember that men and cities are alike—when they are sick—the doctor is better than a layman to direct the application of the cure. Take a good dose of Optimism, united with Vision and Determination in equal proportions—and you will feel better.

"I'll wager that there isn't a man in this city who wouldn't feel better inside if he were able to tell his friends that he had taken an oath to help build Buchanan into a city of ten thousand by the time the Chicago World's Fair opens its gates. If there is, it would be well to arrange some nice quiet retreat for him and move him forcibly to it, to remain while you move ahead. Why not organize a permanent 'Ten Thousand Club'.

"Community Building is a great science. You can't go at it haphazard. You don't build a business that way and you can't build your town except along intelligent lines. Get your membership first. Whip them into enthusiastic determination. Analyze and decide what you can do and what you want to do. Lay your lines as scientific builders. I don't know a thing about your past nor your present officers nor whether Mr. Charles is paid or a part time man or what he thinks about it. I have purposely kept away from this information. A secretary must beg for postage stamps and expenses. And if your secretary isn't a full paid, full time man you are placing your town upon a cheap-town basis and you have little self belief or civic spirit. The most important thing in your city is your city itself and to build it should be your duty. If it hurts to put up a few dollars every year for the work of building it ask yourself where you get your income anyway. If you are not willing to split with your city from the profits it brings to you, you are a very selfish and short sighted business man.

A Junior Chamber of Commerce

"Some of your older men may feel that they have done all that they care to do—that is, they may be willing to finance some sort of a movement but they don't desire to get into the harness for work. All right. These are the days of the Young Men. You have young men here, plenty of them who, if brought into your councils would be glad to take the burdens and to look to you elders for advice and cooperation and endorsement. These young men will work if they can feel that their efforts will meet with approval and arouse a little applause but they won't work long if they are subjected to criticism and ill feeling. Get them busy. Even in the larger cities they have learned the value of training youth to take over the burdens. In St. Louis one of the greatest things they have ever accomplished was the organization of the Junior Chamber of Commerce with a full time paid secretary to direct the energy of the youths. The Juniors are furnishing every year the new material, all trained for the great work that the St. Louis Chamber is doing. It pays to remember that the boy today is your successor tomorrow and nothing builds manhood in a boy like trust and confidence and kindly comradeship on the part of his elders.

Don't be afraid of any group of men who may through selfishness, try to control your organized energies. Don't be discouraged because some leading property owner tries to discourage you. It is human nature and you will find the hole in the doughnut when least expected. The Optimist always sees the doughnut but he may be influenced to think that the hole is the more important unless he is kept busy on the building program. Don't be afraid to raise money and don't be afraid to spend it. Stagnation lets you nowhere. But you never find a sick city where there is an active chamber of commerce properly organized and financed. So, if you just stretch your legs and start somewhere you will arrive, being just as sure that if you don't start you will never arrive anywhere. Ask yourselves why Niles is larger and better than Buchanan. There is no mystery about it. You have the power to dig in and die of dry-rot or to go over the top fighting. "My friends I have tried to be impersonal about all this. You do not know me and I don't know you but you do know that I have given you some good gospel. I rather feel that you will awaken to a new Buchanan tomorrow and that you will begin to get ready for the big things of life. It is better for Buchanan that you keep just a little ahead like the darkey soldier in the Civil war. He had been drafted into service and wore a uniform but he couldn't get used to the noise. When the first big battle started the darkey started for the rear as fast as he could go. An officer met him a couple of miles back of the lines and asked:

"Hey nigger, what's the hurry? Are the Johnnies sending a shell for you?"

The darkey got his breath long enough to answer:

"Boss, I 'clare I donno efn they is or efn they ain't but efn they is I ain't let nothin' pass me yit."

The Cost of Banking

When you open a Checking Account at this bank we make it possible for you to safe-guard your funds, pay bills by mail by check, create an automatic system of receipts in the form of the cancelled checks—the bank does your bookkeeping and renders you an accurate statement of your income and expenses—and it does all this free of charge. In other words, the bank absorbs the cost of everything and depends upon its ability to loan a part of the average balance you maintain to reimburse itself for the cost of service rendered—

And isn't that a fair proposition?

THE BUCHANAN STATE BANK

WHO HAS PLACE
IN THEIR HOME
FOR A 5 YEAR OLD

If there is any reader of this paper that has a vacant place in their heart and home that a fine five year old boy could fill, the Record can provide them with the opportunity.

Somewhere within this section (definite address provided on application) there is a coming American citizen who needs your help. He has a good mother, who is now holding a responsible position, and caring for four children. She feels that if she is able to find the right sort of home for this lad, with people who want him and who have hearts of the right sort, she would be doing the best thing for the boy to let him go, to those who might be able to do more for him than she could. This would leave her able to do better for the three that would still be with her. She has stipulated that the home must be an "American home" and she states that she can give the best of references, both morally and physically.

If there is anyone who wishes to go further into the matter, they may do so by securing the address at the Record office.

AQUATIC SPORT
SEASON OPENED
TUESDAY NIGHT

The 1928 aquatic sport season was formally inaugurated at 9 p. m. Tuesday when a delegation of local youths getting impatient for the first bath after the long winter drove to Clear Lake and "broke the ice," so to speak, by taking a plunge. Attired wholly "au naturel," the four young men dove into frigid waters, each making a short address appropriate to the occasion and circumstances, and then hastily emerging. Any way they were the first to go in this year. The names of the young men are Ward Conrad, Spot Dempsey, Chick Boyce, and Loren Ferry.

Beautiful Rug

thousands of rugs went on the world markets, and found their way finally to that chief haunt of the wealthy connoisseur, the United States.

Rugs which may be seen at the Siraganian home doubtless could tell appalling tales, if only they could speak. It was this reign of terror that drove the Siraganian family to America. M. Siraganian himself escaped massacre by flight three times.

When he came to America he sought employment here and after various experiments, he took up the calling for which he had been trained by experience from a lad—selling Oriental rugs. For years he was in the employ of New York and Chicago importing houses, becoming known from coast to coast among Oriental rug connoisseurs as an expert in rug values.

Two years ago, having married a Buchanan girl, he decided to establish an independent selling agency of his own here, making this city his headquarters while working this section. As a consequence Buchanan people have been privileged with the opportunity to see specimens of the handiwork of the famous weaving districts of Asia which would ordinarily, never be seen outside the rug emporiums of the great cities.

It is educational experience to visit the Siraganian home and see the beautiful importations which he has there from time to time, especially if you have Mr. Siraganian there to initiate you into the mysteries. Every rug has its story. To hear their names—Anatolian, Ispahan, Shiraz, Hamadan, Kali of Karabagh, Saraband, Kirman—is like harking to a roll call from the Arabian Night Tales.

The art objects in the Siraganian home are not confined to Oriental rugs. Hung on the walls are some mellow old paintings bearing the superscription of French, Italian and German artists. One painting is the work of H. M. Kitchell of Chicago, a painter whose work is fast winning a place among American classics.

But the article of greatest interest is a tall clock of German, of the kind commonly known as a "grandfather's" clock, which stands fully seven feet in height, and which once stood in the study of Eugene Field, patron saint of newspaper men, and one of the best loved writers in American literature. This clock is made of mahogany, and is known to be at least 175 years old. Its face is of hammered brass. Mr. Siraganian no longer keeps it going although it kept the best of time as long as he kept it wound, striking the chimes every quarter hour, with a change of tone for each quarter. Mr. Siraganian acquired the clock in 1898, as partial payment for a service which he performed for Mrs. Field, three years after her husband's death. Due to the impecunious habits of the famous writer, his family were not in good circumstances after his death.

NILES TWP. VOTES
EARLY AND OFTEN
IN HOT POLLING

NILES, April 3.—In one of the most exciting elections held in Niles township, one in which a record vote of 671 ballots were cast, Noah Anderson, republican defeated Edward S. Bunbury, democratic incumbent, for the office of clerk by but three votes. Anderson's vote was 325; Bunbury's 322.

There was no contest for the office of supervisor, the democratic incumbent, John J. Winn, having no opposition, as C. B. Stafford, the prospective republican nominee had previously withdrawn.

Lyle E. Young, republican, defeated William H. Malone, democrat, for the office of treasurer. Young's majority was 34. Milton Kelsey, republican, was defeated by Oscar Wyatt, by a majority of 46 for the office of justice of the peace. William E. File, republican candidate, emerged victorious in the race for highway commissioner over Howard E. Nieb. File's majority was 21.

FORMER EDITOR
RECORD TELLS OF
DEATH PIONEER

J. G. Holmes, a former editor and owner of the Record, sends from Cedar Rapids, Ia., a notice of the death of B. F. Bishop, son of Samuel Bishop and grandson of Joel Bishop, both pioneer farmers of this district. Joel Bishop was one of the first settlers of Buchanan Township, his farm being the south half of the northeast quarter of Section 32. Joel was born in 1797 and Samuel in 1828. They moved to Greeley, Ia., in the late fifties, and there B. F. Bishop was born. He was a first cousin of Mrs. Hamblin of this city.

The clipping follows: Benjamin Franklin Bishop, 56, president of the Bishop Cafeteria company with cafeterias in Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Sioux City and Des Moines, died at his home in Waterloo, at 2 p. m. Saturday following a long illness of heart disease. He was born Sept. 10, 1873 at Brush Creek, which later became Arlington. After working for leading hotels in this country he entered the cafeteria business in 1919 at Mason City and rapidly became a leader in this business in the middle west.

Mr. Bishop devoted much of his time to helping others. He was talented in art and music and was a lover of the outdoors. In fraternal circles he was a Mason, Knight Templar and a Shriner as well as being a member of the Elks, the Izaak Walton league, the Rotary club and the Presbyterian church. Surviving are his wife, four sisters and two brothers.

LADIES AID OF
PRESBY CHURCH IS A THING OF PAST

Last week marked the passing of one of Buchanan's time honored and historic institutions, the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian Church. Since the foundation of the church here, the Ladies Aid has fulfilled the customary duties of that organization, building the churches, paying the ministers salaries, contributing to the conversion of the heathen at home and abroad, ministering to the sick and needy of Buchanan and to those of far Senezambia and Armenia as well, in fact, carrying the main heft of the burden, aside from such incidental and sporadic aid as the male section of the church might contribute from time to time when their cigar budgets had not wholly depleted their finances, as is usual in all religious organizations.

But that is all over now. However the same functions will be carried on by the Home Activities Department, which title was applied to the organization at the annual business meeting last Tuesday, as more in accord with the actual work carried on. So the church will keep going and the minister will get paid.

J. G. HOLMES
TELLS OF FRANK
FISK FIDDLE

J. G. Holmes, an old time editor of the Record, and now living at Cedar Rapids, Ia., sends us the following note of interest regarding Frank Fisk, Buchanan pioneer who died lately. The Record thanks Mr. Holmes for his interest and prints his communication, as below:

Cedar Rapids, Iowa,
March 24, 1928

Editor Record,
Buchanan, Michigan
Dear Sir—

Frank Fisk, mentioned in current Record, was a left handed fiddler and unlike most left handers did not play a right hand fiddle backward, but had a left hand instrument made for him to order, with the strings reversed and the bass board on the right hand side.

FLORA MORGAN CLASS
HOLD SPECIAL MEETING
AT RUNNER HOME
A very pleasant event took place last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Runner, on Dewey Ave., where the members of the Flora Morgan Bible class had gathered by special invitation for a social time and to enjoy reminiscences of the double golden wedding celebration held in Vicksburg the previous Sunday, March eighteenth.

No set program had been arranged, however, during the afternoon Mrs. Runner, present teacher of the class, told briefly of the many beautiful things and events which helped to make that day full of beautiful memories.

Mrs. Runner read quite extensive accounts as given in the Kalamazoo Gazette of March 18 and 19th, after which Mrs. Runner read a poem of eighteen verses which she composed especially for the occasion at Vicksburg, and which formed a part of the program of the afternoon there.

Yellow roses and plants with yellow blossoms brought from Vicksburg formed the chief decorations. Twenty guests participated in the dainty refreshments served which included a piece of the wedding cake.

NEW TROY SCHOOL NOTES

Several students from near-by schools visited the New Troy school last week.

The Manual Training display at the Merz drug store last week end was declared a real success.

Excavation for our new school building has begun and has caused considerable excitement among the pupils. The new $75,000.00 structure is expected to be completed soon after school begins next fall. It will be the most up-to-date building in the county and one of the finest of its size in the state. The New Troy school had a high rating among the educational authorities of the state and will surely continue in the new and modern structure.

The date for the Senior Play has been set for April 20th. The next P. T. A. meeting will be one week from tonight, April 13th and will be one of the big meetings of the year. Professor Harlan of the University of Michigan Faculty will be the speaker. The shop class will sponsor the project of refinishing school furniture the rest of the year instead of the regular manual training work.

MENARY HAUGEN BILL SPONSORED BY FARM BUREAU

Since the revised McNary Haugen bill is being actively sponsored by the Farm Bureau, which has 750 members in Berrien County, a resume of the provisions of that bill furnished by the state representative Jesse H. Boyle.

The act is termed the "Surplus Control Act". The two earlier McNary-Haugen bills were surplus fixing measures and were defeated in Congress largely for that reason. This bill makes no direct reference to price fixing, although it also was vetoed by the President on that ground. Its supporters deny the charge.

The title of the bill states three broad purposes:

1. To establish a Federal Farm Board.
2. To aid in orderly marketing.
3. To aid in control and disposition of surplus.

Congress names six specific objects:

1. To promote orderly marketing.
2. To that end to provide for control and disposition of surplus.
3. To enable producers to stabilize market prices.
4. To preserve advantageous domestic markets.
5. To minimize speculation.
6. To encourage cooperative marketing.

Three separate and distinct forms of relief are offered by this bill, each constituting a government commercial activity, namely:

1. Dealing with surplus.
2. Lending money.
3. Insuring prices.

The analysis of each one of these separate and distinct forms of relief follows:

BUCHANAN BUILT TRANSMISSION IN GRAHAM BROS CAR

NEW TRANSMISSION MAKES
CAR GO FAST AS ENGINE
GOES SLOW

General interest in the first passenger cars to bear the name of the three Graham brothers has been so keen that but little time has been placed on one of the most significant features of the Graham-Paige announcement—that is, that the modern type four-speed transmission, providing superior pick-up and climbing ability, smoother running at high speed, ease of operation and low fuel economy, has been adopted for use on three series of six-cylinder cars as well as the eight.

For years, it has been the ideal of engineers to build automobiles capable of high road speed at low engine speed without sacrificing rapid pick-up and hill-climbing ability. However, these two performance characteristics are directly opposed, for a high gear ratio necessary to hold down the engine speed, decreased accelerating and climbing ability, while a low gear ratio, for good pick-up and hill-climbing, requires excessive engine speed for low road speed, with its evils of noise and vibration.

The Graham-Paige solution of the problem is a high-geared rear axle, insuring low engine speed at high road speeds, with a quiet and efficient internal-gear third speed that provides brilliant acceleration and hill-climbing ability.

The action of a car with the improved four-speed transmission is quite new. In third, it has the increased pulling power ordinarily obtained by the use of second, yet this third gear is capable of driving the car at 50 or 55 miles an hour, and does so without the usual gear noises.

In direct drive, with a rear axle ratio of 3.63 to 1, engine speed is 25 per cent lower than in first of average gear ratio. At 50 miles an hour, the engine of the Graham-Paige revolves at 1,700 r.p.m. in a three-speed car at 55 miles an hour. At this comparatively low engine speed, engine noise is minimized, and there is not the jarring, or the vibration of engine and drive shaft, that results from very high engine speeds.

The improved four-speed transmission is not an experiment. It was used during the last year in a regular eight-cylinder, 12-horsepower model, where its advantages were found to be so great that it was adopted for three series of the new Graham-Paige cars. It now becomes available to the many motorists whose purchases are made in the medium price class.

The Graham-Paige four-speed transmission is controlled exactly as in the usual three-speed transmission for the standard shift, as used in virtually all American cars of this class. This desirable feature is possible because the latest gear of the four speeds is used only for extremely hard pulls in mud or sand, or on grades of extraordinary steepness.

The car is regularly started in second gear, and shifted through third into fourth (direct drive), and these three gears are engaged by moving the lever in exactly the same manner as in going from first to second to high in three-speed cars.

The driver of a standard shift car, in fact, would drive a Graham-Paige car in even if he were not aware that it had a four-speed transmission.

Most hills are taken by the Graham-Paige in third gear, but no driver will delay shifting to third whenever it is advisable, as he can have no uncertainty about making the shift positively and silently. Changing from fourth to third, in fact, does not require

WIRE YOUR PLOW for BORER CONTROL

Wires, properly attached, assist greatly in holding down corn stalks and trash so that the furrow slice will cover them thoroughly. The borers live in corn stalks and stubble and come to the surface when plowed under. Where a clean job of plowing has been done, the borer is out of luck. Wires work equally well on either horse or tractor driven plows.

any study, anyone can do it on his own or let it be used not the first attempt even at very low speed. This ease of changing gears permits a driver to take full advantage of a run for a steep hill, continuing in the internal gear that enables him to do what he does. This form of shifting is seen to be advisable, and then shift at 45 miles drive shaft with a loss not over 2 per cent, while with external spur gearing the loss is from 5 to 20 per cent. Drivers who have felt the heat from a transmission after a long climb in second gear realize that much power is wasted in the gears. The quiet operation of the third-speed internal gear drive is a direct index to its efficiency.

Drivers habitually impose undue loads on their cars in high gear to avoid a climb in intermediate because of its noise. With the quiet third gear of the Graham-Paige, they will no longer have any reason for remaining in high when a change would be advantageous. Third speed, being capable of driving the car 50 to 55 miles an hour on the level, will take it up steep hills faster than high gear, and without either overloading the engine or accelerating it too fast.

Economy in operation, not only in fuel and oil consumption, but in general maintenance and increased re-sale value, is an important advantage of the four-speed transmission.

VERNON W. TOURJIE

Vernon W. Tourjie, son of Orville and Alice Weaver Tourjie, was born in Buchanan, Michigan, August 26, 1882, and passed away in Harper hospital, Detroit, Michigan, Thursday morning at 5 o'clock, March 8, 1928, after five days illness of pneumonia, at the age of 44 years, 6 months and 12 days.

He received his education in the Buchanan schools and attended the Valparaiso college. In June 1904 he was united in holy wedlock to Miss Irma Thickett of Cassopolis. To this union were born two daughters, Helen, a nurse at the Kalamazoo Methodist hospital, and Jane, at home.

After living for a time at Cassopolis, they moved to Durand, and from there to Alpena, where Mr. Tourjie entered the People's State Bank, rising to the position of vice-president. After that he went to Detroit where he was associated with the American Bond and Mortgage company while still retaining his connections with the Alpena bank. He was also state bank examiner for several years. Fraternally he was affiliated with the Elks and Masons of Alpena, Michigan.

Mr. Tourjie had a rare gift for friendship and at each place where they had lived, Mr. and Mrs. Tourjie gathered about them a circle of warm personal friends whose loyal friendship has followed them.

He is survived by his wife and daughter, Jane, of Alpena, and daughter, Helen of Kalamazoo; his mother, Mrs. Alice Tourjie of Buchanan; two brothers, Carl of Chicago, and Fred of Youngstown, Ohio; also his aunts, Mrs. Ida Emerson and Miss Helen Weaver of Buchanan, besides other relatives and a host of friends.

The body was brought to Buchanan on the 12:30 p. m. train from Detroit, Friday afternoon and removed to the home of Mrs. Ida Emerson on North Oak street, where his mother resides, where short funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, March 10. Rev. Henry Liddicott, pastor of the M. E. church conducted the services. Burial was made in the Cassopolis cemetery, Cassopolis, Michigan. The casket bearers were Jay Glover, G. H. Richards, Cress Weldon, C. Hathaway, Oscar Swartz and Wm. J. Miller.

The floral tributes, both profuse and beautiful, were from social, business and fraternal organizations, and a long list of friends in Buchanan and Alpena. Those who attended the funeral from out of town were: Carl Tourjie of Chicago, Fred Tourjie of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Reynolds of Alpena, and Mr. Schuyler, of Detroit.

MOVIES BENEFIT YOUNG PEOPLE SAY KIWANIS

Movies are good for young people, according to a nation-wide symposium prepared from reports from secretaries by the Kiwanis International. Of the hundreds reporting, only one pronounced them bad. Some had suggestions for improvement: Place more emphasis on the play than the starless stress on sex problems and illogical and childish stories; more intelligent management of studios and direction of pictures; more glorifying of banditry; more natural and scenic wonders and news; elimination of "eternal triangles;" less "blood and thunder;"

punishment of criminal invariably. The advantages stressed by the Kiwanians are:

Keeps minds in clean channels; wholesome entertainment in place of pool rooms and dance halls; clear vision of men and women at their best; brings travel education to home town; broadens education and entertainment; presents the masterpieces of literature; makes history interesting; elevates standards of living more than anything else except installment buying; eliminates street gangs at low expense; varied recreation cheap; parents know where children are; stimulates reading and school attendance; presents moral problems in everyday life.

EVERY DAY SABBATH SOMEWHERE

It is a singular coincidence that there is at present a perpetual Sabbath upon the earth, since the Greeks observe Monday, the Persians Tuesday, the Assyrians Wednesday, the Egyptians Thursday, the Turks Friday, the Jews Saturday, and the Christians Sunday.

DRESS REFORM OF 60 YEARS AGO RECALLED

BOBBED HAIR—SHORT SKIRT REFORM OF 1870 IN BUCHANAN

Memories of a Buchanan woman of sixty years ago who started a movement here to reform the fashions in feminine dress, to the extent of anticipating short skirts and bobbed hair, were recalled last week by Mrs. Emma Weaver Pierson, who lives now at the home of her niece, Mrs. Edith Houk, 210 East Third St.

The daring lady who braved the puritanical notions of those days was Mrs. Mansfield, the wife of an Advent minister here, and herself a noted speaker and singer in those days.

Mrs. Pierson came here about 1868, at the age of 15 years. At that time both Rev. and Mrs. Mansfield were preaching to the local advent congregation, services being held in the school house. Shortly after that date, Mrs. Mansfield began her movement to emancipate women from the tyranny of long hair and skirts, bobbing her own locks and donning a costume, which was a combination of short skirt and trousers. Her skirts were cut about six inches above the ankle, and underneath them she wore a trouser much like those worn by men, extending to the tops of women's boots.

She did not preach the doctrine of dress reform from the pulpit, and her converts were limited to two local women. It required much courage to brave the storm of criticism aroused, but Mrs. Mansfield's strong character and reputation for brilliant mental qualities saved her from open ridicule. Several members left the church on account of the innovation. Mrs. Mansfield was known as an ablest pulpit speaker than her husband, and as the possessor of a wonderful voice. After a few years, she and her husband left Buchanan, Mrs. Mansfield still adhering to her advanced ideas in styles. It is believed by Mrs. Weaver that they went to Wisconsin, where they originally came from. They have a son, Rev. Elijah Mansfield, who is still preaching on the Pacific Coast, and who occasionally returns to Buchanan.

SHOES FROM WRECK DUTIABLE

Sudden appearance of new overshoes on pretty girls at Courtenay, Vancouver island, attracted notice of customs officers stationed to watch a wrecked steamship. Believing the merchandise had come from the wrecked ship, they declared it dutiable and proceeded to collect. Residents protested to Ottawa with no result.
