

Now Here's
the PropositionST. JOE
St. Haws

Back in the days when April came
And red birds were a flying flame
Before her footsteps as she went
Until her last bright days were spent
And May her emerald cloak unfurled
Across the shoulders of the world.
Till now when through the long June days
The white towers of the dogwood blaze

No fairer river may be found
Within the wide horizon's bound.
Mid all the streams that seaward flow,
Than my own river, old St. Joe.

More famous streams in storied lands
May seaward slide o'er fabled sands
Where towers and crumbling turrets keep
Their watch above the centuries sleep
And ruined chapel towers enshrine
The dust of many a royal line.

But even there no stream descends
By silver beach and sweeping bends
Among green-mantled hills that bring
Their tribute of a thousand springs.

With staidier sweep, with prouder flow
Than my own river, old St. Joe.

Where swaying willows dip their tips
As mincing ladies wet their lips
A bit in wine and turn away,
The trailing grasses lift and sway,
And far-turtles lie in ranks
On fallen logs along the banks

Or vanish with a dull kerplunk
With ripples showing where they sunk
And barefoot boys by twos and threes
Go fishing mid the alder trees

To share the secrets that I know
Of my own river—old St. Joe.

JUVENILE BAND
STARTS PRACTICE
WITH 15 PIECESINSTRUCTOR ROBINSON OUT-
LINES INSTRUMENT NEEDS OF ORGANIZATION

"All we need is a trombone, a baritone horn, clarinets, oboes, bassoon and drums, and we'll be all set for a full fledged band," said director R. R. Robinson of the Buchanan Juvenile Band, "and also you might say that a few more girls would be welcome. This is a juvenile band, not a boy's band."

Practice is now well into the second week, and the sounds that emerge from the rear of the Chamber of Commerce rooms daily, while not yet bearing any close resemblance to the well-known product of the Marine band or to John Philip Sousa's brand of melody, are nevertheless beginning to take some of the semblance of music.

Starting week after next the hours of practice will be changed from the present schedule of from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. to from 8 to 9 a. m.

M. P. Snyder Makes
Generous Offer
To Early Risers

Free breakfasts to all who arrive before 5:30 a. m. in the morning are now a regular feature in the program at the Snyder Cafe, the first to benefit by the new regulation having been Sam Rouse, manager of the A. & P., who managed to get up early from some cause or other not stated, Tuesday morning of this week, and stormed the doors of the well known eating house at 5:15 a. m. to claim an order of waffles and syrup. It seems that the offer had been standing for two years in Rouse's case, and Tuesday morning was the first time in that interval in which he had been able to make the grade and cash in.

"Mr. Snyder told me two years ago that any time I got into his cafe before 5:30 in the morning, I could have a free order of waffles and syrup," said Rouse in his statement to press representatives, who were spectators, although not participants in the free breakfast. "About a year ago I almost made it, only missed it by an hour."

GYMNASTS SHOW CLASS

Girls Stage Attractive Program of Folk Dance
And Song

The supple grace and the flying foot of youth were attractions par excellence at the high school auditorium Friday evening when some two scores of the pupils of Coach Harold Bradfield and Mary Jo Allington staged a gymnastic and song program before an audience that occupied two thirds of the seating capacity.

Some real thrills were provided in the first part of the evening by the boys who displayed a brand of gymnastics and tumbling work that was not far behind that of professionals, and which surprised most of those who had not witnessed the brand of work developed in the high school physical education department. A group of seventh grade boys under the leadership of Lyle Mitchell furnished the evening's entertainment with some excellent tumbling work.

After that the high school boys came on the stage and furnished several gasps by their flying flip-flops. Those performing were Ralph Pfingst, Ward Mitchell, Al White, Ottawa Wolford, Don Wood, Lyle Mitchell, Lauren Mollen, Clem Savolant and Gaylord Shreve, with the Ryan brothers, Herbert and Sheldon as the burlesque performers with some laugh making travesties of the stars of the evening.

The boys then cleared the stage and the Misses Dorothy Charles and Cecelia Elsenhart appeared before the curtain attired in natty sailor togs as the announcers for the girls' program.

The feminine section of the menu furnished some clever and pretty work, opening with a comic Dutch dance and ending with the "Nightcap Girls" who furnished the "goodnight" touch to the evening.

Among the distinct hits in this section was the "Sidewalks of New York" skit, put on by Ruth Riley, Marjorie Hickey, and Clarissa Patterson, the former impersonating the snappy dame of the city streets with a touch of real cleverness.

The "Mississippi Mud" coon impersonation minus the burnt cork which was staged by Miss Allington and Alene Riley was also effectively done.

The pirates jig and the dolls dance were also two well received numbers.

The program was: Dutch dance—by Kathryn Port and Marjorie Sands.

Bellhop dance—Bertha Desenberg, Korol Kool, Marjorie Kool, Victoria Zackman.

The Sidewalks of New York—Ruth Riley, Marjorie Hickey, Clarissa Patterson.

The Irish Jig—Helen Hamilton, Vera Lomaugh, Mary Howe, and Marie Mitchell.

Cloves—Cleo Cook and Mary Jane Harlander.

Wooden Soldiers—Clarice Banks, Victoria Zackman, Donna Belle Weaver, Bessie Bradley, Mayne Proseus, Ruby Boltz, Bertha Desenberg.

Pirates Jig—Helen Kane, Zeldia Schuemaker, Thelma Whitaker.

The Nightcaps—Kathryn Allen, Janet Thompson, Karol Kool, Bertha Desenberg.

Rev. Staver to Speak On "Things Worth While"
At Baccalaureate

Commencement week will be inaugurated Sunday evening with the Union baccalaureate services, at which all the churches of the city will combine.

Rev. Staver will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, taking the subject, "Things That Count". Rev. Staver's ability as a pulpit orator is well known here and his address Sunday evening will doubtless be of even higher order than usual.

On Tuesday the 1928 graduates will appear in their final contribution to school entertainments, in the regular Class Day exercises, which will be held in the evening in the high school auditorium.

On Wednesday June 6, the Seniors will step over the border that divides them from their high school days when they receive their certificates of graduation from the hand of M. L. Hanlin, and listen to the address by W. H. McAndrews, former superintendent of the Chicago schools, and one of the outstanding figures in American education.

The program in full of the three nights is as follows:

AGED WOMAN
DIES THURSDAY
AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Angenette Allen Anderson was born at Hamilton, Ohio, November 8, 1848, and passed away at the home of her son, Samuel Dickey near Glendora, May 28, 1928, aged 79 years, 6 months and 17 days.

She was the daughter of Francis and Mary Raymond Allen, and while yet a child came with her parents to New Troy where she grew to womanhood.

On April 18, 1865, she was united in marriage to Jonathan Dickey and to this union was born ten children. Three, Willie, Fred and Nettie, passed away in infancy. The other seven survive and are: Frank of Montana, Elsie of Chicago, John of Galien, Mrs. Ada Bensbach of Chicago, Samuel of Glendora, Mrs. Laura Beattie of Chicago and Edward of Montana.

There are also seventeen grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. One brother, John Allen of Galien and one sister, Mrs. Flora Batch of Los Angeles, California, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. John English, of New Troy with burial at Galien. The casket bearers, six grandsons were: Albert, Kenneth, Francis and George Dickey and Clarence and Roy Bernhard.

S. F. A. MEETING.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2.

The June meeting of the S. F. A. will be with Mrs. Jennie Burbank, 508 Dicks Ave. at 2:30 p. m. June 2. Roll call will be remembrances of early Decoration Days. A full attendance is greatly desired, as there have been so many sad interruptions these last few months.

CONCERTS JUNE 6NEW TALENT AND MORE EXPERIENCE ASSURE A BETTER BAND

Public concerts by the Clark Equipment Company band will begin June 6, according to a statement by Harry Berry manager of the organization, and will continue at weekly intervals throughout the summer.

The band is again directed by Harleigh Meeker, and contains practically the same personnel as last year, with a year's added experience, which should assure this community of a better band than ever. Also there has been added some new talent of more than average caliber.

Twelve concerts will be given in all, in accordance with a contract with the township, which appropriated $750 for the band. The concerts are to be given Wednesday evenings, on the portable band stand which is always erected for the occasion at the south end of Main Street, between the Buchanan State Bank and the First National Bank.

Five Generations
Observe Birthday
Of Mrs. Lydia Paul

The presence of five generations was the distinguishing feature of the birthday celebration held in honor of the 56th anniversary of Mrs. Lydia Paul, Sunday, May 20, at the home of her son, James M. Paul of 405 Moccasin Avenue.

Sixty-seven in all were present, of whom 26 were grand-children, 23 great grand-children and two great great grand-children of Mrs. Paul.

The following relatives were present: Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Schadel of Berrien Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schadel and daughter Francis of Berrien Springs; Mrs. Fred Wooley of St. Joseph; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Paul of Galien, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. George Paul, son Rex and daughter Audrey of Galien, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Will Kiley and daughter Geraldine of Galien, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Salisbury of Dayton, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Salisbury of Dayton; Mr. Wash Paul of Rosedale, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paul and son Walter of Paoli, Indiana; Mr. Charles Bahr and son Carl of Marion, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bowker and son Dean of South Bend, Indiana; Miss Cora McKinnis of Lafayette, Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Paul and son William and daughters Lucille and Marion of Dowagiac, Mich.; Mrs. Marjory Durren and son Gene of Dowagiac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. DeForest Carney and daughter Violet of Dowagiac, Mich.; Mrs. Marguerite McCoy and daughter Joyce of Dowagiac, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Denny and daughter Kathryn of Dowagiac; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Schryver and daughter Marylin of Dowagiac; Mrs. Adeline Paul and daughters and sons, Elsie, Lewis, Valentine, Vanessa and Hubert of Buchanan; James Paul, at whose home it was held; Mrs. Lydia Paul, his mother; Pearl Paul, Loretta Paul and Leland Paul of Buchanan; Mrs. Lydia Dempsey and daughters Fern and Gladys

Nash and Zeigler Share
Batting Honors of
The Day

The Buchanan Blues won the first of the series of three baseball games from the Three Oaks Greens Decoration Day at Three Oaks, 10 to 7. But the big bunch of Buchanan rooters almost had heart failure, when, after trailing the Blues, 8 to 2 up to the ninth inning, the Greens turned savage, and the Blues made five errors, which accounted for the five runs in a procession about the bases.

Manager Mead injected another left-hander into the game, sending Fitch, an old Alma college star, to the left field. Evidently it is lucky to have bats over the left shoulder, for the new lineup with six port-siders, proved a slugging aggregation, getting 15 hits off Krone, the Greens pitching ace.

Both pitchers were steady in the face of a stiff, icy wind off Lake Michigan, and clouds of dust, Starnap allowing 11 safe ones and Krone 13. Simpson, however, had stone-wall defense back of him up to the ninth, barring one bobble in the second frame, when Three Oaks scored their first run. The outfield is full of ruts and holes, making it almost impossible for any fielder to keep his eye on the ball and his feet under him.

Buchanan led off in the first with two hits, but failed on the paths, while the Greens went out, one-two-three. Each team got three hits in the second, and the Blues turned them into three runs, while the Greens only tallied once, and were unable to head off the Blues the rest of the way.

"Czar" Nash, elongated first baseman, veteran of a quarter of a century, shared the batting honors with Zeigler, Buchanan's peppy catcher, each getting three hits. Ziggy one home run and the Czar a double. Ott, Kraft and Krone each came through with a single, and a double for the Greens. Ten hits went for extra bases.

Miller, captain and third sacker, puzzled Krone when he took two strikes right handed, then switched to left-handed and lined out to short. Starnap speared a hot one off King's bat in the ninth that brought a cheer. Fletcher went in for Starnap in the seventh and Pfingst for Fletcher in the ninth. A Klute and Starnap replaced

LOCAL POLICE
INTERFERE WITH BUNION DERBY

Buchanan and Niles police are seriously impeding the progress of the great cross continental bunion derby now being held under the combined auspices of the U. S. Marines and the Loyal Order of Moose, according to the statement of Ernest Oberloff, formerly of Elkhardt, who was taken in charge late Tuesday afternoon by state police who found him wandering aimlessly on a by-road east of Buchanan.

Hardly had the police taken Oberloff in charge, when a woman giving the same name and claiming to be his wife, applied to Fred French, saying that she was his wife, that she had become separated from him at South Bend, and that she was stranded here. With the aid of police she wired Chicago for money, and three hours later a remittance arrived. Meanwhile Mrs. Oberloff had again disappeared.

In the meantime, Mr. Oberloff, the long distance hiker was keeping in trim by marathoning about the corridor of the Niles jail, begging Francis to let him out. "I'm 59 hours ahead and I just ran down to South Bend yesterday to keep in trim," he said. "If I win this race, I get $10,000 and a new Pontiac car, and I will give you $1,000 if you will let me out. There is an Indian who is running second, and I don't want him to catch up."

"I am due to walk from Chicago to Toledo today. I pull myself along with a stick, and you'd be surprised to know the time I make. I walk and run 12 hours per day, and I average 17.2 miles per hour. I killed five dogs that tried to keep up with me along the way. Just simply walked 'em to death."

"My last two laps will be from Washington, D. C. to Boston, and then from Boston to 42nd and Broadway, New York City."

A Bicycle Double
Collide With Car

Richard and Gerald Hemphill, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hemphill, 301 Liberty avenue, suffered painful but not serious injuries when the bicycle on which they were riding collided with a car driven by Miss Belle Landis on Rynearson Street about 8 p. m. Thursday. The two boys were both riding on the same bicycle, and were coasting down the hill, when they angled into the direct path of Miss Landis, who was driving up the hill.

They were taken to Clark hospital, where Richard was found to have a broken collar bone and a deep gash on his cheek, and Gerald to have severe lacerations on one leg and other minor injuries.

I. O. O. F. NOTES

The local I. O. O. F. Encampment is scheduled to go to Benton Harbor this evening to put on the Royal Purple degree and enjoy a fish supper.

On next Tuesday night, the Buchanan Subordinate Lodge of I. O. O. F. will confer the third degree in tableaux for two local candidates and eight from New Buffalo.

Improvement of Buchanan's public playground facilities is now under way under the direction of G. W. Merfield, head of the Park committee of the village council, who states that Martin Mann has been placed in charge of the playground at Kathryn park and is now engaged in overhauling and painting the equipment in readiness for the summer recreation season which begins as soon as school is out.

Coach Curly Bradfield of the high school is to be in charge of regular playground activities, and will arrange a play schedule two mornings of the week, with baseball programs and other sport. The grounds have already been cleared off.

An extensive program of improvement has been planned for the athletic park, where an eight lap to the mile cinder running track is to be installed this summer for the encouragement of track work. The football field is also to be moved to higher ground east of its present location, and the wet places will be built up, so that the difficulties which were experienced during the past season will be avoided.

The tennis courts are also to be rebuilt to the east of the baseball diamond.

Mother of Well

People Expires

Mrs. Warren Willard, 502 South Portage, and Roy A. Pierce, 502 East Front St., were called to South Bend the day of the week by the death of their mother, who expired suddenly at 4:40 a. m. Monday.

Mrs. Pierce was 73 years old at the time of her death, and had been a resident in St. Joseph County, Ind., for 40 years, first at Lydick and later at South Bend. She was a native of Paris, Canada, where she was born July 27, 1854. She was married to Frank H. Pierce, who survives her, in Illinois, March 8, 1875. In addition to the husband, eight children survive, and 15 grandchildren. Funeral services were held at 10 a. m. Thursday at Westminster Church, South Bend, and burial was made at the Highland cemetery in that city.

Boy Scouts Get Ready B. H. Meet

Troop 41 of Buchanan held its weekly meeting last Tuesday at the M. E. Church. Fifteen boys and two officials were present. The fellows are working hard on the various events which the Troop has entered at the Benton Harbor Boy Scout Field meet this coming Saturday.

Everything from the dressing relay to knots are being carefully worked out for speed and neatness. A final rehearsal of the events will be held at Troop headquarters next Friday at seven. In the meantime, the various patrols are working on the events assigned them.

Buchanan was favored with one of the most beautiful Memorial Days in its history yesterday, the traditional rain which even the weather prophets had presaged failing to materialize, and the trees and lawns of the cemetery being at their finest.

Outstanding in the exercises of the day was the presence of the seven Civil War veterans, with John Dick, chairman of the day, at their head. Buchanan had perhaps the privilege of including in its population more G. A. R. members than any other city. Of the ten veterans in this vicinity the following were able to be on the platform at the cemetery: John C. Dick, Ashley Carlisle, Samuel Bunker, George Hanley, Henry Russell, Rev. A. Geist, and John Curtis.

A short stirring address was made by Attorney W. M. Cunningham of Benton Harbor, which drew favorable comment from the large audience of listeners. Following the address, the customary firing squad exercises were held by the firing squad under the leadership of Gene Steele.

In addition to the G. A. R. members, the Spanish-American War men, and the American Legion and their auxiliary organizations, the parade to Oak Ridge cemetery was distinguished by an unusual number of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and school children, whose young faces brightened the procession and formed a pleasant contrast to the war worn veterans.

Parent-Teachers
Hold Last Meet
Of Year Monday

Although there was an unusually small attendance, an interesting program featured the final monthly meeting of the year of Buchanan Parent-Teachers association, held Monday night in the junior high assembly room of Buchanan high school.

Mrs. Edward C. Pascoe, recently re-elected president of the organization, officiated as chairman.

Mrs. Thelma Childs Peck rendered several vocal solos and cello duets were given by the Misses Jane Easton and Jane Hahlich.

Mrs. Edward C. Pascoe and Mrs. Leon J. Campbell gave reports of the recent state P. T. A. convention held in Battle Creek, to which they were delegates. The treasurer also submitted the financial report for the year.

Refreshments were served. The following are the new officers who will serve when the association reconvenes in September: President, Mrs. E. C. Pascoe; vice president, Ray Miller; secretary, Mrs. Ekstrom; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Arnold.

Long Distance
Order Doughnuts;
Delivered Sunday

What is probably the record long distance order for doughnuts ever received here was delivered Sunday afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Snyder delivered a dozen of her own baking to Mrs. H. M. Robinson, 350 South Harvard St., Los Angeles, at the Niles station, the latter having ordered them before leaving her California home. Mrs. Robinson had met Mr. Robert Stapp, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Snyder, at Lake Arrowhead, above Los Angeles, and was told about the extra quality of Mother Snyder's "fried cakes". Mrs. Robinson had planned to go to northern Michigan for a visit, and finding that her route lay through Buchanan, she asked the Snyders to meet her at the train with a dozen. Since the through train does not stop here, they drove to Niles to meet it.

LOUISE BLACK IS
WEDDED, MAY 26

Miss Louise Black, daughter of Lyle S. and Cora Plympton Black, was married on May 26 to James M. Pons, at the home of her parents in Chattanooga, Tenn. The many friends of Mrs. Black will be sorry to hear that she is critically ill.

News Around Galien

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon May 26, Rev. William Schanow tied a nuptial knot at the Lutheran church at Sawyer, which united the lives of two young people of Galien, Mr. Adolph Hartfert and Miss Linda Haase. The bride was attended by her sister, Elsie Haase, and the groom's sister, Elsie Hartfert. The groom's attendants were Ed. Scheming and Rinnerd Stelling. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hartfert. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Julia Haase. Both are old families of this community. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the groom's home and attended by 400 guests. Many beautiful and useful gifts were bestowed upon the happy young couple. They will make their home with the groom's parents on the farm, surrounded by a host of well wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Metzger were the Sunday guests of Carl Hill at Niles.

Mrs. Guy Best and children spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cuthbert at Buchanan.

Patsy Doyle, who suffered three strokes about ten days ago, remains speechless and in a very critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Sizer from Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer from Buchanan, were Sunday afternoon callers on Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vinton.

William Hess is very sick at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holman, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hess were Sunday callers on Mrs. Geo. Lane at the St. Joseph hospital, South Bend, where she has been taking treatments the past five weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hess entertained at their home the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. William Troutsetter of Jackson, and Mrs. Kate Ketter of South Bend.

Mrs. Albert Jemnasah and daughter Marie, and Mrs. C. C. Glover were business callers in Benton Harbor, Saturday.

Miss Bernice Green entertained over the week-end, Miss C. Moore and Miss C. Redding from Gary, Ind.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. McNight left Monday for Warsaw, Ind., where they will conduct meetings the next two weeks.

Marylin Lintner left Monday afternoon for Flint. Upon returning he will have charge of six new Chevrolet cars.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED OPENING OF LIGHT HOUSE

The Light House, at New Buffalo, daily dina and dance pavilion opened for the season Saturday night last, over 1000 devotees of the dance attending, Fred Elger's orchestra of LaPorte furnished the musical inspiration. The popular place has a large number of tables on each side of the dance floor, most of them were occupied by parties of friends, the large parking place was comfortably filled.

The Light House will be open on Saturdays only until June 23 when the formal opening will take place, remaining open from noon to closing thereafter. Before then some improvements are to be made, the front glazed, more space added and the place thoroughly renovated.

The pick of the various orchestras playing there in past seasons have organized what will be known as the White House Aces they will be the stellar attraction for the regular season, celebration of the stage, silver screen and radio have been engaged by the management to appear on special nights. The management will be the same as in the past and will conduct the place on the same high plane assuring patrons of courteous treatment and efficient service, the cuisine will be the best procurable.

PRINCESS THEATRE

Seven outstanding movie producers in America make about 300 pictures a year, and Buchanan sees just about all of them at the Princess Theatre, more than can be seen at any other theatre in America, in all probability.

The Princess presents five completely changed programs each week, which multiplied by 52 weeks is 260 different shows in a year. Usually the show consists of a feature long picture, a short comedy, and news reels, fables, novelties or some other specialty besides the extra reels of serials that the crowds follow so eagerly.

A count reveals fourteen features in each week, making 728 selections to be made annually by Manager Homer P. Morley for your entertainment. And that is why he can show you more than 300 a year, including long features only.

The producers and the theatres are now struggling with the problems of increasing demand for artistry in acting and photography," says Mr. Morley, "and the corollary of that problem, a declining interest in the merely unusual phases of movies. All sorts of experiments are being tried, but these do not attract the fans as do the great successes of yesterday even today.

"We had more people last Friday night to see 'A Lost World' than we had in two nights to see Douglas Fairbanks' great production, 'The Gaucho.' Why? I can't tell, except that 'The Lost World' caught their fancy and they stood in line to see it. I know they flock to see the 'Westens,' and so I get the best of them at least twice a week, and many of the mid-week features are adventure stories."

None of the theatres in Niles, South Bend, St. Joseph, and Benton Harbor are changing their programs as often as the Princess, and none can offer as many different pictures or high a percentage of great features in a year as does the Princess. That explains why theatre parties to Buchanan from surrounding towns are not unusual.

Morley's June program opens tomorrow with Harry Langdon in the most highly developed comedy ever produced, "Three's a Crowd." In this all slap-trap and slapstick, the fun and the laughs depends on the situations growing out of the story. "People are weary of seeing folks hurt unnecessarily for their amusement," says Morley. "This picture sets the pace for quality for June."

Outstanding artists are Ramon Novarro in "The Road to Romance," the star of "Ben Hur," Joseph Schildkraut in "His Dog," William Boyd in "The Skycraper," Gloria Swanson in "Sadie Thompson," her first since "The Loves of Sunya," Jean Hersholt in "Alias the Deacon," the same type actor as Schildkraut; Clara Bow in "It," Helene Costello in the old time favorite play, "In Old Kentucky," and Clara Bow and Laura LaPlante and Mary Astor and Billie Dove; and Syd Chaplin in two plays, "The Missing Link" and the best of all war stories on the stage, "The Better Glory." The premier cowboy artists will be seen, Buck Jones, Hoot Gibson, Bill Desmond, Ken Maynard and others, and then there will be Dynamite, the big dog.

The Navarro drama, "The Road to Romance," from the Conrad novel, with pirates and sea mystery and adventure, comes Sunday, and Joseph Schildkraut brings "His Dog" Monday. The popular actress, Dorothy Mackall, Jack Mulhall appear Tuesday and Wednesday in "Ladies Night in a Turkish Bath."

AUTOS KILL 21 PEOPLE IN BERRIEN COUNTY LAST YEAR

PRESENT WEEK DESIGNATED SAFETY WEEK FOR STUDY SITUATION

In connection with the designation of the present week as Safety Week over the entire state of Michigan, H. O. Rounds of the Detroit Automobile Club presents the following analysis and discussion of traffic mortalities for the past six years, with suggestions for their reduction. It will be noticed in the analysis of mortalities by counties that Berrien County stood 15th among the 54 counties of the state, with 21 deaths in auto accidents, out of 1,326 for the year 1927.

His plea for enforcement of the traffic laws follows:

"In order that we may answer that question understandingly, let us analyze the conditions of traffic and see if there are any that need our attention; physicians recognize the disease by the symptoms and prescribe the remedy, and in the same manner let us discover, if possible, the ailment in traffic that we may decide what remedy, if any, should or could be applied to correct it.

In 1920 the population of the State was 3,668,412, and there were 419 of our fellow citizens killed, or 11.3 per 10,000; the population increased in 1926 to 4,395,651 and in that year 1,091 were killed, or 24.4 per 10,000, making an increase per 10,000 of 53.1 per cent.

In 1920 there were registered 416,428 automobiles and there were killed 419, or one fatal accident to every 994 cars registered. This increased in 1926 to 1,125,855 cars registered and 1,091 fatalities, or one to every 1,031 cars registered, a decrease of 3.6 per cent per 10,000 cars registered.

It sounds like a paradox, however, when we compare the population, registration, and fatal accidents for the increases are as follows:

Population increased — 16.5 per cent.
Registration increased — 63.0 per cent.
Fatalities increased — 61.6 per cent.

When we consider the increase of population as 16.5 per cent and the increase of fatal accidents as 61.6 per cent, our nervous system receives a shock, but when we compare again the registration increasing 63 per cent and the killings increasing but 61.6 per cent, we feel encouraged, realizing that the immense amount of energy expended during the last six years has borne fruit and we are encouraged to put our shoulder to the wheel again, and then we add up the number killed during this six years and we find 6,543 have gone "over the divide" and again we suffer a relapse.

Think of it, 6,543 of our fellows killed in six years, and every one of that number preventable. Do you realize what the economic loss is to Michigan? It almost staggers one.

Economic Loss

If the citizen is of any value to the community at all, he is worth at least $5,000. That means a loss of $32,715,000, to say nothing of the property damage which we are unable to estimate owing to the fact that there is no State Department whose duty it is to gather statistics, and were it not for the State Board of Health records, we would be living in a state of air of security and complacency.

You may think that these killings are all in the larger cities and therefore, let them bury their own dead; why interest ourselves as a State as a whole, and that you may realize some of the dangers hovering around your own doorstep—look at the following list of killings as reported by the State Board of Health by counties for the year 1927:

Awaken Public Opinion
We are prone to let the troubles of our neighbors roll off our conscience like water from a duck's back and it leaves about as much impression, for when the wreath is hung on our neighbor's door, we sympathize, send flowers and when the wreath is taken down, we forget it—but when the wreath is hung on our door, it is not so easy to forget. Then why wait for the wreath on our door, let us do something now to prevent it.

If 1,326 people had been killed in our State last year by thugs, murderers and highjackers, the National Guard would have been ordered out and every available policeman detailed on twenty-hour shifts until the culprits were apprehended, but they were not so killed, they were killed by beautiful, highly-polished high-powered cars and that seems to be all right.

Take it home, how do you prefer being killed? Rolled around in the mud and crushed so that your friends will hardly recognize you, or be killed in a nice sanitary manner by a piece of lead pipe or a shot gun; you don't seem to have much choice, as the greater percent are killed by automobile.

Well, what is the answer? During the dozen years I have been analyzing accidents and their cause, I have been watching the experiences of the various cities as different methods of procedure have been adopted and I have noticed that when a strict enforcement of the existing laws has been obtained, fatal accidents reduce one-half. Cleveland had a couple tries at it, Detroit had four, St. Louis is making it permanent through the co-operation of their two splendid judges and the Police Department. The last one in Detroit started December, 1927, during which in one week about 9,000 violators were written up, who paid $35,000 into the City Treasury, and during that week only two were killed compared with twelve the previous week and this has been carried on "off and on" since then, and gave us an experience never expected; a week passing without a single traffic fatality, and at this writing about three months with a 33 per cent reduction.

The howl goes up this don't kill, that don't kill, which are only the expression of the desires of the hoppers, but something kills and that something is the automobile when there is a strict enforcement of the law and it is not necessary to pass new laws or regulations to get a 50 per cent reduction either, then why will not our police officers and our Courts co-operate to reduce this terrible slaughter?

Enforcement vs. Friends.
Is it because they are afraid to their jobs? If so let us prove to them the police that we want only men who will do their duty regardless of a political pull. I should like to ask who gets punished if the Council takes care of their friends, and the Police department takes care of their friends, and the Judges take care of their friends, is it not true that the only people that have to suffer are those without friends and with out money. And is that the American style of doing business? If so we need a little English enforcement; for, as stated before, the result obtained from this strict enforcement has been almost a fifty per cent reduction in killings on our streets and why should we hesitate to say to the driver that he must drive in such a way that the pedestrian whether he be careless or indifferent shall not be injured? The danger was not in the street until the automobile brought it there, then why should not the drivers of the automobile be expected to obey the few simple rules that have been passed to procure the safe operation of the car? Strict Enforcement the Answer.

And, in answering the opening paragraph, I maintain that the time has not only arrived for a strict enforcement of the rules of driving for the protection of the careful driver as well as the pedestrian, but it has already passed ten years. In other words, we are ten years behind the time when a strict enforcement should have been started.

Fernside Accident Rate Low

Chief of Police Roy Reynolds announces that during the months of February and March Fernside escaped without a traffic accident. This is the first time in the city's history that such a record was made. Chief Reynolds attributes the record to the new traffic regulations which permit driving up to thirty-five miles an hour, but providing for strict enforcement of rules regarding turning corners, obeying stop lights, etc. Until the thirty-five-mile-an-hour limit was introduced on February 1 accidents were common, according to Chief Reynolds. He attributes this to the fact that cautious drivers drove slowly and others attempting to pass them came to grief. Since this rule went into effect traffic violations of all kinds have been reduced. Effort is being made to have the municipalities along Woodward Avenue adopt a similar traffic regulation.

Standard Street Sign and Signals.
The American Engineering Council has made a nation-wide survey of street signs, traffic signals, and markers in more than a hundred cities with a view to recommending standards which can be adopted throughout the nation. This is a work of great importance. No doubt the wide variation in the type of signs and their markers and their meanings has contributed to the increasing accident toll on our streets and highways.

Success Through Failure
Failure to appreciate his own limitations has enabled many a man to succeed in life.

Men Stood In Constant Fear

Before the days of Banks—and the modern Checking Account, men with money stood in constant fear of the brigandage of that lawless time.

How different today, with our highly organized Banks acting as guardians of the community's funds. But, safety, is only one link in the chain of modern banking service.

Your bank also furnishes you with banking stationery such as checkbooks, bank books, etc., establishes a source of credit and gives you a system of valid receipts in the form of cancelled checks.

And—all it asks in return is something that helps you more than it helps the bank—an adequate balance in your Checking Account. If you keep an adequate balance in your Checking Account you merely make it possible for the bank to render you this highly organized service.

George Exner Incurs Fractured Ankle at Indianapolis Races

George Exner met with an unlucky accident at the Indianapolis speed races yesterday, when a driver over-anxious to get into the track ran into the crowd at one of the entrances, a wheel of his machine striking Exner and breaking one of his ankles in two places. He was brought back to his home here, where he is confined for some time.

Buchanan Outdoor Life

More Birds In Town Than Ever Before Says Atty.

The feathered population of Buchanan is larger this year than ever before in his fifty years of residence here, according to A. A. Worthington, who has been keeping cases on birds in this locality for most of his lifetime.

It is not that there are necessarily more birds in the country, according to Worthington, but that they seem to be becoming bolder about venturing into town. A pair of brown thrushes, very shy birds that are seldom seen in town, have been observed daily about the Worthington home. Recently while trying to drive English sparrows from his trees, Worthington saw an oriole, catbird, wren and a blue jay all in the same apple tree.

The increased boldness of the birds, in venturing into the city limits, Worthington ascribes to the better treatment which they have been receiving from the public, and especially from small boys, who have been educated to respect wild life, and who no longer kill birds promiscuously with airguns and slingshots.

EARLY JUNE NATURE CALENDAR

Freak wild rose blossoms entice one down the country roads where they grow like hedges along the fence, mingling their thorns with the barbs on the wire. On either side of the brown dirt road, neglected fields are white and pink with hosts of daisies and robins' plantain.

A stumpy woodlot beyond the fields shines with yellow buttercups. A grassy lane makes an exciting trail to follow in June. At any moment a small brown bird may suddenly rise from almost beneath one's foot. Directly in front lies a small round nest with four brown spotted eggs nearly hidden by the grass.

From the top of a shrub a small blue bird is singing lustily to his sparrow-like mate on her nest in the blackberry bush. He is father indigo bunting.

A red-eyed vireo's short sentence-singing rings from the trees high overhead but out in a fork at the tip of a maple limb, scarcely shoulder height, sits his little red-eyed mate on her nest. Three eggs are inside it.

One hears a "chuck-burr-pillawilla-wills" then "chuck-burr, chuck-burr" as he enters the woods. Somewhere in that dense leafy tangle overhead is a scarlet tanager in full courting plumage.

Along the edge of a meadow the square-stemmed, lip-petalled mint family thrives; nearby is the four petalled yellow-rocket mustard. In the marsh which borders the meadows lies a pool, full of yellow cow lilies.

Beyond the pool grows a patch of blue squills and near them tall rank grasses open wide their white umbrellas.

Delicate sweet cicely or wild anis grows temptingly along the river bank. Loud whistling sounds from the top of a nearby cottonwood where a pair of orioles are nesting. A cuckoo calls from a clump of willows.

In the shrubs and bushes bordering the swamp is the home of the Maryland yellowthroat whose peculiar song, "Witchity-witchity-witchity" always announces his presence.

A loud "Con-per-eater, con-per-eater" of the red-winged blackbird tells of nearby cattails and mucky land, where, if you approach cautiously, you may surprise a long-legged bittern stalking about through the ooze.

Lake beaches have nests too. Down in the weeds and panicum grasses lie the sandpiper's speckled eggs which are pointed like tops.

Perhaps a newly hatched sandpiper may be running about like a pebble walking on toothpicks. When he stands still, you can't see him.

Back in a hole in the sandy bank, a kingfisher has its nest. The young are nearly an arms length back from the opening of the nest hole.

Many young mammals roam through the June woods. Tiny fawns, born in the middle of May, are protected by their speckled coats which resemble flecks of sunshine.

Red squirrels are nearly two-thirds grown. Chipmunk babies are just old enough to run out of their burrows and take their look at the sunlight.

About the middle of the month, young woodchucks born in April, make their first appearance above the ground.

June bugs, more properly called May beetles, walk about in their dark brown coats. Some of these bugs are two years old, but up until now have lived under the lawns as fat white grubs, greedily devouring grass roots.

Migrating Monarch butterflies arrive this month. These butterflies are several generations younger than those that left last fall. Monarch butterflies carry on their migration in relays, by generations.

Mayflies dance by the thousands along the lakes, trailing their two streamers after them. As adults they have scarcely a day to live, to mate, lay their eggs and die.

Nearly overhead, at night shines a brilliant star, Vega, in the constellation Lyra. It is said that if the distance to the sun were one inch, then Vega would

Wild Ducks Fly In Pairs Only In Nesting Season

The northward flying wild ducks which return through Michigan every spring on their way to their nesting grounds, mainly in Canada, are practically gone. A few still remain but the first of June will find them settled down to the serious business of rearing their broods to the north of us.

Michigan today has only a few resident or nesting species of ducks. The mallards, both green-headed and black mallard, nest sparingly throughout the state. The beautiful little blue-winged teal also raises its ducklings on our waters, and a few other species have been found during the nesting season now and then the pintail, shoveller, etc. But the large numbers of ducks seen during the migrations have flown over the northern horizon to less settled and wilder territory.

Fly in Pairs Now. The swift-winged wild duck of the autumn season is a different creature now. This is the time of the year when his parental instincts are coming into full play. Whenever seen, they are seen in pairs—duck and drake. This is just as true in the air as it is on the water.

Most birds have some peculiarity, or song or action characteristic of the nuptial season, and the ducks are no exception. The antics of the courting drake or drakes are sometimes ludicrous in the extreme. After the nuptial bonds have been sealed the solicitude of each pair for each other is striking, as is the anxiety of the duck for her nest of many eggs and later for her web-footed ducklings.

Stand on Their Heads.

The black duck or dusky mallard, which arrives in Michigan during early April, is now nesting. Last spring it had the opportunity of watching several broods of very young black ducks. These little fellows were constantly standing on their heads in the shallow water, feet paddling furiously and futilely in the air, picking up duck edibles from the bottom. A slight movement on our part caused the mother to give her warning note—and the ducks vanished into adjacent reeds. We thought we would try to locate the ducklings and learn how they concealed themselves so well. After many minutes, we found two of them, both among the reeds, lying flat on the water, head and neck outstretched, as quiet and as invisible as could be.

Mother Ever on Guard. All the while the mother hovered in the distance constantly uttering her warning call, occasionally flying near to fall into the water as if every bone in her body were broken, then to flap slowly away, the picture of a mortally injured and helpless duck.

But we were versed in the ways of mother ducks and did not waste time following her, which is what she would have had us do, and had she succeeded, just as soon as she had enticed us far enough away from her concealed brood she would have staged a complete and sudden recovery and flown away, knowing that her ducklings had used the time well in scattering themselves to better hiding places.

Face Many Enemies. Young ducks that will come into the world during the early part of June will face many enemies. Prowling minks, hawks and owls will swoop down upon them; large fish, turtles, etc., will rise from the bottom of streams and lakes to drag them down. So by the time the brood is ready to fly the original number will have been much depleted.

It is a wise provision of nature that decrees that all ground nesting birds shall lay large quotas of eggs. Otherwise none of these species could withstand the inroads of countless enemies. The number of eggs found in the nests of some ducks reach two dozen.

The naval observatory says that Donati's comet in 1853 was a very conspicuous object, with a tail said to be at one time 90 degrees long. Tebut's comet in 1861 was another comet, seen in June of that year, with a tail 100 degrees long.

OAKLAND'S SERVICE ARMY TO WEAR NEW UNIFORM

An army of something more than 15,000 men, representing the service station personnel of the Oakland Motor Company throughout the United States, is being outfitted in a standard uniform. Soon this entire group of Oakland-Pontiac service specialists will be wearing the uniform recently adopted by the Oakland Motor Car Company.

The new service garb includes one uniform for the "privates" of Oakland's shop army and another for the "officers." The former will wear coveralls of special two-tone twill—powder blue with trim on pockets and collar of dark navy blue. The "officers" or floor men will wear a long coat of similar color and materials. Both the mechanics and the floor men will wear hats to match their uniforms.

According to R. A. Armstrong, service manager for the Oakland Motor Car company, the decision to uniform his nation-wide organization is the latest development in an unceasing campaign to raise still further the standards of Oakland-Pontiac service.

"We train our men with painstaking care and maintain a force of factory service representatives who visit every Oakland-Pontiac service station at frequent intervals," Mr. Armstrong said. "We have decided upon a standard service uniform not alone because of the more favorable impression that a neatly uniformed service department will make upon the public, but also because of the psychological effect that the new uniforms should have upon the service men themselves."

Elimination of Pullman Surcharge Will Involve Loss of $40,000,000 to Railroads and Will Shift the Burden Upon Those Who Do Not Enjoy the Service

THE Senate Committee has reported out favorably the Robinson bill eliminating the Pullman surcharge. This action, while apparently a popular one, is class legislation and as such is bound to involve losses not only to the railroads, but to the traveling public who ride in the day coaches and to a number of communities that now enjoy sleeping car service.

TO the Railroads, it involves immediately a loss of $40,000,000 in revenue annually, which will have to be made up somehow. The surcharge is the only revenue that the railroads get for the hauling of the heavier equipment and the incidental special service of parking this equipment at the stations and in coach yards. In fact, the railroads have always had to pay to the Pullman Company a certain small charge for the mileage of each Pullman car and besides a guarantee of a certain minimum of return covering a period of years. All of the returns for berths, etc., go to the Pullman Company excepting the surcharge.

THE surcharge was found necessary by the United States Railroad Administration. Its continuance has been recommended by the Interstate Commerce Commission after an exhaustive study of the entire question of passenger-travel returns.

THE Pullman sleeping car after all is a hotel on wheels. It provides an unusual service. It represents a heavy investment per passenger. The berth charge and the surcharge of 50 per cent (which later is the only revenue the railroads derive from this high class service) together, are not out of line with the charge for a room in a modern high class hotel.

SINCE the Pullman sleeping car passenger enjoys greater comfort than does the passenger in the day coach, he should expect to pay for the added comfort. The Pullman passenger is allotted two and one-half times as much space as the person riding in the day coach. The car weight per passenger of the average day coach—assuming that it is filled—is about 6,800 pounds. The car weight per passenger of the average Pullman sleeping car—assuming that sleeper is filled—is about 12,260 pounds. The cost to the railroad of hauling a sleeping car passenger is, therefore, approximately twice as much. Should not the sleeping car passenger pay for these additional privileges to the passenger and the obligations devolving upon the railroads?

ANOTHER illustration: The sleeping car lines to Michigan resorts in summer and to Florida or California resorts in the winter, are seasonal movements. The travel is all in one direction, which means that the return movement is an empty one.

RAILROADS have only two main sources of income—passenger revenues and freight revenues.

THE wiping out of $40,000,000 annually in passenger revenues involved in the abolition of the surcharge on Pullman fares must inevitably do one of three things—

1. Result in cutting down of passenger train service now provided by American Railroads;
2. Restricting sleeping car service on the less profitable lines;
3. Or, shifting the burden of the loss upon the shippers of freight.

ANY one of these expedients is unfair to the general public, that section who ride in the day coaches.

IT is a good principle of business at all times to require the person who enjoys a special service to pay for that special service.

THE Pullman surcharge requires just that.

THE abolition of the surcharge, therefore, constitutes class or sumptuary legislation, which is not desirable in this day and age.

THE railroads do not object to governmental regulation by the proper tribunal—the Interstate Commerce Commission—constituted to deal with the transportation industry exclusively.

WRITE your senator or congressman to-day protesting against this uneconomic and unfair measure.

Saturday Tag Day Starr Commonwealth

Everybody Should Wear A Tag
Saturday for A Most Worthy
Michigan Institution.

On Saturday, June 2, citizens of Buchanan will be given an opportunity to lend a hand, and thereby a bit of encouragement, to the remarkable work that is being done at the Starr Commonwealth for delinquent boys, located near Albion, Michigan. On that day, several Commonwealth boys will be in Buchanan to assist in putting on a tag day for the benefit of this home.

It is taken for granted that everyone who is interested in the work at Starr Commonwealth will welcome an opportunity to help financially in this human enterprise, but there are those who, knowing intimately of the good that is being done in that little school have given largely and by such support the school has grown and developed.

Fourteen years ago, Floyd Starr, founder of the school, bought a forty acre farm near Albion, on the shore of Montcalm Lake. Here he began with very small and limited materials, the building of a life-long dream into a thing of reality. Seven boys whom nobody else wanted, went to this farm home with Mr. Starr and helped him build their first shelter, "Gladstone Cottage."

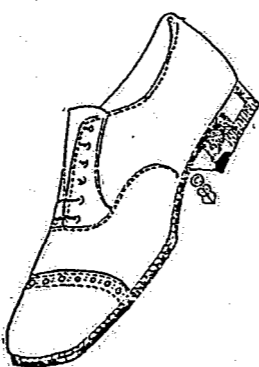

As knowledge of the work spread about the country, more and more boys came to Mr. Starr's family until Gladstone Cottage could no longer hold them. Then, by the hands and heart of one who deeply sympathized with the work, another cottage was built and furnished, and still the family grew. In this way, another and much larger cottage was financed and built, besides a school house and community house.

These cottages shelter sixty-one homeless boys, all under age, who had blundered into criminal paths not understanding their probable destination, or just what had led them in that direction. Nine times out of ten, it has been a lack of love and sympathy and home training that has been to blame; but had it not been for Mr. Starr's interest and understanding and love, the boys must have paid the price with lives of failure and tragedy.

Under the best home influences with which the Starr home is surrounded, these boys forget the mistakes of the past, are encouraged to develop their best, rather than their worst traits, in the end every one of the two hundred and forty boys who have thus far come under this hospital roof, has not only redeemed himself but has been instructed in helping other boys.

Union Memorial Services at Church Of Christ Sunday

Rev. Nebelung Delivers His Farewell Address To Crowded House

The annual union memorial service of the Buchanan churches last Sunday evening drew a crowd that filled the Church of Christ to the doors. The Rev. L. P. Nebelung, pastor of that church, was the speaker of the evening, and the other pastors of the village were on the rostrum to assist. A union choir sang.

The address was the farewell sermon of Rev. Nebelung, who said, "I am not going to deliver a formal Memorial Day address, but shall preach the gospel that I usually preach." He read a report showing that during his ministry, from September 19, 1926, to the present time, he had won 69 new members to the Church of Christ, 47 by baptism, 4 by letter, and 18 by statement of faith. He came here from Hebron, Ind., and removes this week to LeRoy, Illinois, where he has been elected pastor of a large church.

"It is our task to carry forward the work of the world," said Mr. Nebelung. "We have a right to be proud of our great men of the past, and to emulate their spirit of unselfishness, rightness and devotion. But they do not solve today's problems. Men have never yet generally stood straight and faced moral issues in politics and religion, party and church. And they never will until they come together of one accord in one place and seek shelter and counsel under Jesus Christ."

"At Pentecost there never should have been an answer had they not been together and of one accord. So we are together here tonight. That is the only effective peace resolution." And then he pointed out that true Christians will be together and of one accord to prevent the nomination and election of "that saturated wet" candidate for president, Governor Al. Smith of New York.

A resolution was read, calling on both the Democratic and Republican national conventions to adopt a plank in their platform pledging themselves to the enforcement of the prohibition laws of the nation, and to nominate only candidates whose record and promises prove them to be unalterably for such enforcement and maintenance of the dry laws. Miss May Mills, as president of the local W. C. T. U., took the resolution, after it had been adopted unanimously by the big crowd in a rising vote, to send it on to the political leaders of the two great parties.

"Peter's key to heaven was used for the first time," continued Mr. Nebelung, "when he preached the pentecostal sermon and called on the people to 'repent and be baptized.' That key was passed on to us in the great commission. 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel, baptizing them into the name of the father, and of the son, and of the Holy Spirit.'"

"We shall have peace when we become one without ecclesiastical authority. It is coming to pass, for God said so. His will shall be done in earth as it is in heaven. And where his will is done, there is heaven."

Mr. Nebelung will move his family, wife and three children, Robert, Mary and Paul, to LeRoy, Illinois, this week. Last Friday, the regular family night of the church was turned into a farewell for them. The Westminster Choir of South Bend furnished the program of music. The church is fortunate in having a number of officials capable of conducting services, and includes as members a former pastor, the Rev. J. J. Terry, and a younger preacher, Claude Small.

The pulpit committee has secured the Rev. G. W. Hall, of Cincinnati, Ohio, to hold the regular services next Sunday. A pastor will be called some time this summer, it is expected, and the regular services will be held as usual in the meantime.

"Oh, I suppose so," said Sara, softening.

right to have it at our house? My parents would be furious if they weren't present at their little daughter's wedding."

"Aw, no, darling. If we tell them they'll make us invite all of our relatives and friends and it would turn out to be one of those elaborate affairs. Let's surprise them and when we're on our honeymoon we'll write and tell them."

Sara, who had been eavesdropping, became exceedingly jealous of Roxy, because Ramon seemed to be so sincere in the plans that he was making. In a fit of jealousy she rushed into the room and found Roxy in Ramon's arms. When Ramon saw her he stared at her in amazement, from one to the other.

"A fine accomplice you turned out to be, Roxy Ann; trying to double-cross me, aren't you? Well, you're not going to get away with it. I'm going to tell Ramon everything."

"For heaven's sake, do. Have I become cross-eyed or just plain stupid?" said Ramon.

"Neither, my dear boy. This hypocrite is my sister and furthermore, I am the one whom you love. You see, when I met you I fell for you hard and Roxy agreed to help me land you, so we both had dates with you and let you believe that we were one and the same girl, and now, what does Roxy do but turn right around and try to cop you for herself, but she shan't have you, 'cause I'm going to. Now, get out, worthless."

"Wait a minute, wait a minute. Not so fast, there—first let me get this straight. You mean that one night I had a date with one of you and the next date with the other one. Is that right?" asked Ramon.

"Yes, that's the idea," said Sara.

"Well, then before I go any further, I want to ask you both a very important question, but before doing that I want you, Roxy, to remain sitting where you are and you, Sara, to sit in this chair," said Ramon, pulling up a chair.

The two girls, immediately obeyed.

"Now for the important question, 'Do you both love me?'"

"No, we don't," said Sara. "I do but Roxy doesn't; at least, she had not better."

"Now about it, Roxy?" said Ramon.

"Well, I suppose for my sister's sake I should say I don't, but, truthfully, I do love you very much, Ramon," answered Roxy.

"How dare you?" shouted Sara, stamping her foot.

"Now, don't get excited, Sara," returned Ramon. "I want only truthful statements, get me?"

Sara replied only by giving her sister an exceedingly dirty look.

"Fine. And now who is it that can wiggle their ears so cute," continued Ramon.

"Guilty again," said Roxy.

"Yes, that always was one of Roxy's tricks," put in Sara, sarcastically.

"No remarks, please," interrupted Ramon. "Who was it that used to muss up my hair about the time we were ready to go in to dance?"

"Not guilty, thank God," said Roxy.

"It was I, Ramon dear," answered Sara.

"Not so good, my dear Sara," said Ramon, very much to Sara's disappointment, for she thought that was quite a clever trick.

"Now, just one more question," concluded Ramon, "which one of you went with me the time we went mountain climbing?"

"I did, Ramon," answered Roxy.

"What are you going to do, for heaven's sake," asked Sara, "make your decision as to whom you want to marry according to this quiz?"

"Exactly, and my decision is already made. Come, Roxy, darling, we are going to elope right now."

Ramon went over to the sofa, picked Roxy up in his arms and started for the door.

"Well, this is one time my clever little sister didn't succeed, isn't it, Sara dear?" put in Roxy, as Ramon carried her through the doorway.

"I didn't want him anyway, smarty, there are plenty of others that are worth having," returned Sara.

Sara, to prove her point, immediately went to the telephone and called:

"Lincoln, 2693, please. Hello—Jack? How are you? Prettier than ever? That's swell, then I'll let you come over and have dinner with me tonight, isn't that nice of me? Well, you see we'll be all alone and after dinner we could go out dancing, couldn't we? You know, Jack, you always have said you love to dance with me. Oh, that's an old dear! Then I'll expect you about 8:30—O. K. Alright then, 'long."

Sara, exceedingly happy, rushed up the stairs to dress, but when she got about half way up she suddenly stopped, turned and rushed down again as fast as she had gone up. She went to the kitchen door and yelled: "Oh, Bridget, prepare some sort of a meal for two for 8:30."

Having made the arrangements for the dinner, she went back upstairs as excited as before, happily looking forward to the approaching evening which would bring forth new adventure.

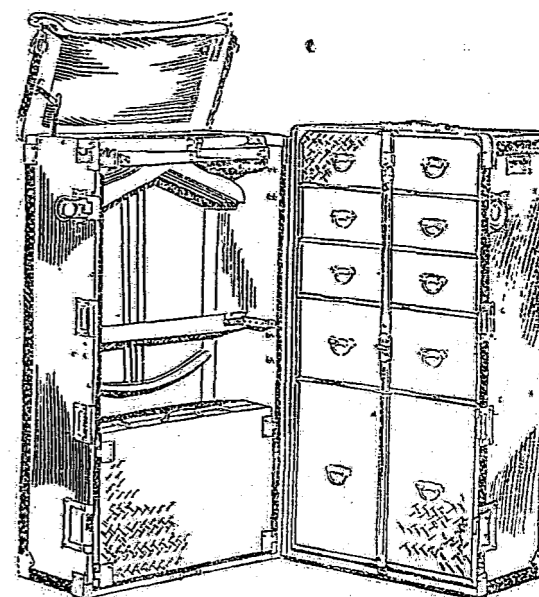

The End.

NEWS OF STUDENT LIFE GATHERED AND WRITTEN BY THE UPPER CLASSMEN OF BUCHANAN HIGH SCHOOL

JUNIORS, SENIORS
SHINE IN ANNUAL PARTY SATURDAY

The most brilliant social event of the year, the Junior-Senior Reception, was held in the high school gymnasium Saturday evening, May 26.

The tables were arranged in the form of a huge horseshoe, the theme being "Good-Luck", with places set for over one hundred people. The tables were lighted with candles, and made brilliant with flowers, a rose being placed at every lady's place. Cocktail, made of a combination of delicious fruit, was the first course. This was followed by roast chicken, tender and beautifully cooked, potatoes, peas, and a tempting salad. Everything was served hot and there was no tiresome wait between courses. Lastly, came lovely strawberry shortcake. Quinn Waters cooked the dinner and it was deftly served by the Sophomore girls. Many danced between courses to the music furnished by Harris Simpson's orchestra.

After everyone had eaten all they could possibly consume, Mr. King, toastmaster, announced Zelma Shumaker who, in a very clever little speech, wished the Seniors "Good-Luck." Robert French responded, expressing the appreciation of the Seniors. Hazel Johnston, a Junior, then gave a talk on "Lucky 13" explaining certain superstitions. The St. Joseph High School Quartette then gave several of the numbers used in the contest. Following this, Donald Wood gave a very interesting speech on "The Dark of the Moon." Miss Dorothy Gooch was next called upon to tell what she knew of "Seven Come Eleven." She seemed well informed.

Theresa White favored the guests with an interpretation of a Turkish Slave Girl. She was truly wonderful, her talent in dancing being heartily acknowledged by every one present. Her characterization of the difficult role was excellent.

Kenneth Wallis, the engraver for this issue of "The Pines" and a very good friend of all the students kept the audience laughing for about a half hour by a varied group of numbers.

Again, the assemblage was entertained by Theresa White in a Spanish dance. This was a very effective number and was done beautifully, her poise and grace being remarkable.

Lastly, the male quartette gave another group of numbers which were greatly enjoyed. Then the floor was given over to dancing. From the enthusiasm of the guests, the fact that everyone enjoyed himself immensely was assured. This was an exceedingly elaborate and beautifully decorated affair and will be remembered by every one present.

B. H. S. Tennis
Team Trims South
Bend and 3 Oaks

In spite of all disadvantages the girls' high school tennis team has been very successful this season.

On Friday, May 18, the team, composed of Marjory Hickey and Emma Bohl played with Three Oaks. They easily won both the double and singles matches. The score was: Doubles 6-1, 6-0. Singles: M. Hickey 6-2, 6-0. E. Bohl 6-1, 6-1.

On Tuesday, May 22, the same girls met the South Bend high school team. They were successful in winning two out of the three matches played.

Tuesday, May 29, the girls go to Kalamazoo.

A return match will be played with South Bend, June 4.

The girls deserve a great deal of credit for not only having ability, but also the spirit and determination to play even though they have had no court on which to practice.

GRADE NEWS

On Friday, June 1, from one o'clock until nine o'clock, all grade rooms will be on display to the public. This is the annual art exhibit, and it is your opportunity to come and see the work done during the past year by your children. Some work of each child will be on display. Remember the date and plan to come.

On Monday May 28, the last P. T. A. meeting of the year was held in the H. S. Auditorium at seven thirty. Good music and a report of the convention made up the program of the evening.

Miss Abel returned to school Monday morning after a long absence on account of illness. We are all very glad to see Miss Abel back again. We are hoping she can remain with us now till the end of the year.

Walter Marks returned to the fourth grade Monday morning after a six weeks absence. Plans are being made for a faculty picnic to be held sometime during this week.

Memorial Day comes on Wednesday, May 30. There will be no school on that day.

The Junior High graduating exercises are to be held in the Junior High assembly, June 7 at 2:30. The following program will be rendered:

Solo—Mrs. H. C. Stark.

Address—Co. Commissioner of Schools, E. F. Egert.

Solo—Mr. Charles King.

Presentation of Gift—Mrs. Leah Weaver.

Presentation of Diplomas—Supt.

H. C. Stark.
The parents and friends of the class are invited.
The third grade in Mrs. Heim's room is making dolls of linen, silk, cotton and wool, along with their geography study.

Jack Marble has brought different pieces of wood, as cherry, walnut, ash, and white pine for the second grade to study.
Mrs. Russell's first grade made bright colored flowers for a border in their room.

The various grade rooms are planning their picnics for the last week of school. All grade picnics will be held either Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Practically all time is being spent on review now in all the rooms. Examinations will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

In both the second grades there have been fifty-five children who have won their Palmer buttons.

The girls and boys in Mrs. Wilcox's and Mrs. Fischman's rooms are much interested in making booklets containing samples of their regular school work. They will be on exhibit Friday of this week.

The following names are on the honor roll in spelling this week in Miss Pears' room: Kathryn Hamilton, Harry Hemphill, Edwin Ingelright, Charles McCoy, Billy Snyder, Jeanette McGowan, Kenneth Phiscator, Marjorie Wheat, Lawrence Newsome, and Billy Carlisle.

Mrs. Hinman visited our room last Monday afternoon and Mrs. McGowan visited us last Wednesday afternoon.

Harvey Hinman returned to school last week after a long absence due to whooping cough and flu.

HOWE SCHOOL GIVEN
PICTURE OLD IRONSIDES

The teacher and pupils of the Howe School were greatly pleased with a beautiful framed picture of "Old Ironsides" which was presented to the school by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dale.

True American Spirit

The phrase, "Don't give up the ship!" is attributed to James Lawrence, American naval officer, who commanded the Chesapeake, an American ship, in the encounter with the British ship, Shannon. Lawrence was wounded early in the encounter in the leg, but retained his post on the deck. He was mortally wounded a second time, and while being carried below, noticing that the crew hesitated, cried, "Boys, don't surrender the vessel!"

STRAWBERRY CROP SHORT AT BUCHANAN

Freezes Late April and Early May Ruin 50 per cent

EARLY APPLES GOOD

Sheep Men Winding Up Shearing; Wool Goes At High Price

The strawberry crop in the Buchanan district will be in the neighborhood of one half loss, and will come on late this year, the first berries going on the market on or a little after the middle of June, according to Andrew Huss, grower who lives on the Walton Road across the river. The series of freezes which came during the last days of April and the first days of May took a heavy toll of the strawberries, according to Mr. Huss. The frost apparently went in streaks, destroying the berries on one old patch so that he was obliged to plow it up and leaving a new setting almost unharmed. When the frost struck, one or two berries were left live on clusters wearing from eight to ten.

The early apple crop, including the Yellow Transparent, Wealthy and Dutchess varieties, will be good this year, according to A. A. Hall, the chief loss in his large orchard being in the late and winter varieties.

Mr. Hall completed his third spraying the first of the week and will begin the fourth the first of next week. County Agent Lurkins is expected to make a visit to orchards in this district this week.

Growing conditions are excellent for field crops, all of which are reported to be in good shape.

Wool Harvest Over. Shearing is nearing completion among the many Buchanan farm-flocks, and the country is reported to be over-run by wool buyers, who are offering the almost unprecedented price of 50 cents per pound, reflecting the late commotion in the London wool market. The price has advanced here eight cents during the past month. The wool crop is reported to be normal, but the lamb crop, most of which came in April, is considerably under 100 per cent. Frank Harrington, manager of the St. Joe Valley Shipping association, was one of the fortunate sheep men, securing a crop of over 150 per cent or 75 thrifty lambs from 51 ewes.

Main breeds found on Buchanan farms are the Shropshires, some Hampshires, and some grade Lincolns and Southdowns.

U. S. Experts End Corn Borer Clean-up in Berrien Co.

N. H. Dunlap, representative of the United States Bureau of Entomology in charge of the corn borer clean-up in Berrien county, left at noon today for Toledo, Ohio, to continue work there, having completed his work in Berrien county.

He stated that the rain today had stopped some stalk-burning and consequently that his associate, Howard Rowden, would remain until tomorrow to finish.

The two men directed the clean up work this spring on the Shopback farm, at Three Oaks, the W. A. Bond farm at New Buffalo, and the Uniker farm, Edwardsburg, ending their work at the latter place. During the five weeks in which they worked here, they made their headquarters at the Four Flags hotel.

Dunlap stated that they had paid the Berrien county farmers for their clean up work, due to the fact that the farms were isolated and they wished to be sure of a thorough extermination. There is at present no fund available for paying farmers, although a $7,000,000 fund has been voted by the house and senate and is waiting the president's signature, to be available in July.

Dunlap and Rowden cleaned up all corn fields on adjacent farms within a half mile radius of the infestations, first plowing under and then gathering and burning all stalks that remained in evidence. They also burned all corn stalks about farm buildings.

The infestation which was found two years ago near Galien was found to be completely cleaned up last fall.

Illinois Farmers Attack Coolidge Veto Relief Bill

Galesburg, Ill., May 26.—Threats of an agrarian uprising in which farmers and business men of the middle west will bolt the Republican and Democratic parties unless presidential candidates favorable to agriculture are nominated, were made at a mass meeting of over 3,000 farm men and women here today.

President Coolidge was lashed unmercifully by half a dozen speakers for his veto of the McNary-Haugen bill. Herbert Hoover was called the "most over sold man in the United States" and notice was served on political chiefs that he could never be acceptable to the farmers. Frank O. Lowden was hailed as the savior of the west and every mention of his name was greeted with wild cheers.

Ten counties were represented at the gathering. They included Kankakee, Fulton, McDonough, Henderson, Peoria, Henry, Rock Island, Mercer and Stark.

Resolutions were unanimously adopted demanding that the middle west be taken into consideration at Kansas City and Houston and that a candidate be nominated. New party alignments have come about for issues of far less consequence, the resolutions stated.

"Herbert Hoover can never be accepted by this section," the resolutions said. "He has not only evidenced supreme ignorance of the problems of agriculture, but has refused to admit there is an agricultural problem. We will not accept any candidate standing for the policies of the present administration."

—Chicago Tribune.

THE FARM RELIEF BILL

While in the moment of this writing the farm relief bill, which took its original form in the McNary-Haugen measure, has not been passed in its amended form by the senate, it seems likely that it will be. This measure is intended to provide for the carriage of crops in storage from periods of low demand and low prices over to periods when demand accentuates itself and prices thereby rise to a higher figure. The future of the bill, even though the senate passes it, is problematical, because there are those who say the President will veto it. It is novel legislation in this country, and the presidential mind has been trained in a section where novelties in public finance are looked at with a great deal of care.

If the bill becomes a law, it is at most an experiment. It has behind it an economic necessity. The farmers have no such solidarity as a class as will enable them to control their production. Given a good year of prices in one line of agricultural products and, to and behold, all the farmers begin to put into their fields larger efforts to produce the same thing with the natural economic result that in the second season of production there is a surplus and prices necessarily go down. Over-production can beat out any increase in demand, thereby defeating the purposes of production by making the reduction from it become less and less.

So far as American business has heretofore treated this situation in the industrial field, it has either consciously or unconsciously limited production when the incentives to increase it were not present. Some of these operations have been deliberate, by organization, which in its turn, has been restrained by the law, lest the result be too high prices for products, which will limit their use and lead from farm to the general consumer. But consciously or unconsciously, these operations have been directed by well organized information as to the prospects and demand of the nation, a situation which the farmers, as a class, seem never to have been able to bring about. Therefore, they have been made the victims of many plans and programs, on the advice of many who were not trained in economics, and of some others who sought for the moment only the profits of the demagogues.

One thing is certain and that is that the farmer's turn-over is an annual one, that his capital and his market are both pretty well used up at the time that his crops are fit to reap, and that economically he is forced to throw his products upon the market when they are ready for the market. Of course the consuming power of the nation will not then take all his products for immediate use and therefore, there must intervene some organization of middlemen who can take them and carry them to the consumer when the latter needs them, meantime charging a good return for the investment of its money in this operation. The farmer has had an ambition to realize some of the spread between the prices on the day of the dumping of his crops upon the market and that later day when they are consumed. So far he has had no financial organization which will let him have on his non-perishable products as security a credit advance of some portion of their value, leaving him in the possession of the title to the property, so that he may later realize at least a part of the enhanced prices which come the day before consumption.

The new farm relief bill seeks to provide such a financial machine. It has its apparent defects. One of them is that if it be made easy to realize profits upon this year's surplus, another surplus crop may affect it and eventually the machinery become clogged. It has its other apparent defect in that it seems to be applicable to the needs only of the producers of the great staple crops, such as cotton, the staple grains and beef cattle. Perhaps it will work as to these and perhaps it will not. But if it does and brings relief to these large classes of producers, the reaction may be favorable to the producer of other agricultural products, or the operations of the law may be extended to them.

On the whole it is an experiment, and this country has made its way very largely through making experiments that originally seemed hazardous. In the case of the farm relief bill, nobody can tell accurately just what will happen from it. If it is approved by the President, its results alone can tell its virtues.

Kauffman Farm Is Purchased By South Bend Man

H. I. Kauffman has sold his 80 acre farm, 5 miles south-west of Buchanan to John Kotell of South Bend, who is now in possession, and is making his home with his daughters, Mrs. May Best and Mrs. Belle Heims of Bakers-town. Mr. Kauffman stated that his future plans are not fully made, but that he is thinking of going to Detroit with his wife for the coming winter to stay with their son there.

Rural Men Meet To Plan For Co. Farmers' Picnic

Dean Clark and Jesse G. Boyle were representatives of the Buchanan district at the meeting of Berrien County Farm Bureau and Grange representatives who met at the office of County Agent Lurkins, Monday evening to make arrangements for the Farmers' Picnic to be held during the latter part of July at the Old Indian Field at Berrien Springs. An attempt will be made to secure either President Thompson of the American Farm Bureau, or ex-president Bradford of that organization as speaker.

Press Comment on Coolidge's Veto of McNary-Haugen Bill

President Coolidge vetoed the act known to Will Rogers as the Mary McNary-Haugen bill, and the Congress failed to pass it over his veto. This action was a foregone conclusion, but that does not temper the wrath of the farmer.

Right or wrong, we believe that President Coolidge should be acclaimed as a man who, regardless of political expediency, acted as he thought best. It took courage, in a year when his party is seeking the approval of the nation. Dyed-in-the-wool politicians will say that he was not "loyal" to the G. O. P.

There is something radically wrong with agriculture. Every one will admit that millions of farmers are dissatisfied. They pay high prices for the things they buy in the city, and they get low prices for the things they sell. The middle man, the commission man, and the gambler get most of the profit from agriculture, and there seems to be no way in which the farmer can control his market.

The McNary-Haugen bill sought to give the farmer a chance by regulating the law of supply and demand (i.e., the market) by government bureaus, and by a sort of "insurance" which would protect the farmer from the economic results of a surplus.

Mr. Coolidge said, in no uncertain terms, that this was a hideous scheme, a snare and a delusion, a trap for the unwary, and a lot of other things too numerous to mention.

The farmer's complaint will not be based by any knowledge of whether the act would have worked or not. Nobody can tell that. It will be based upon the promises made to him by politicians that "something" would be done. Now, nothing has been done and the farmer won't forget it for a long time.

The episode has not strengthened the chance of Mr. Hoover to any perceptible degree, although it may be that Mr. Hoover already has the necessary delegates to win the Presidential nomination on the first ballot. Nor will it help the Republicans if Mr. Hoover should be nominated.

Everything, at this writing, seems to be playing into the hands of the gentleman from New York. —S. E. News Times.

Wagner Grange Holds Interesting Program Fri. Eve.

The Wagner Grange held its regular meeting Friday evening, main numbers on the program being a talk by Mrs. J. G. Boyle on her trip last summer to Mackinac Island, and a paper by Mrs. Hess on the early history of the Grange Movement.

Roll call was responded to by answers to the query, "What breed of chickens do I like best, and why?"

Mrs. Bert Mitchell led the discussion on the topic, "The Care and Feeding of Baby Chicks."

Miller and Nash Bring In Four Out of Six Runs

With Simpson on the mound in his best form and with all the holes in the outer and inner gardens, which showed up so painfully in the previous game, well plugged, the Buchanan Blues lifted their season's average to .500 Sunday by trimming the Elkhart Merchants 6 to 2.

Every cog in the Blue machine was meshing properly in Sunday's contest, Bailey coming out of the slump which caused him to help the Reliabilities to a victory with four muffed ones, and playing the errorless game of which he is capable when he settles down to play ball. In addition to his fielding record, he departed from his usual game by gathering a hit off Lewis, which he stretched to a Czar Nash held down the initial sack in Big League style losing only one poor chance out of 11, and hitting twice out of three times at bat, crossing the plate both times. Miller was the other hitter for the Blues, gathering two hits out of four times at bat, both of which materialized into scores.

Simpson shaded Lewis in the pitching duel, holding his opponents to 5 hits, while the Blues touched Lewis for nine safeties. Simpson showed his usual control, walking none and fielding everything that came his way perfectly. He struck out five men, to two for his opponent.

The longest drive of the day was credited to first baseman, Stamatetz of the Merchants, who poled out a three bagger in the seventh, which he turned into a tally when Nash made his lone error on Hoffmaster's drive.

Verow, Keckner and Whitehead of the Merchants also gathered two baggers and King and Gallagher of the Blues turned in similar performances.

The performances of the players as analyzed from the score book, were as follows:

Four Members of Blues Play With Singer Dept. Nine

Four members of the Buchanan Blues are getting some valuable practice these days by playing week nights in the Two-Light League of the Singer Sewing Machine Company of South Bend, having secured positions in that plant.

"Zig" Zeigler, catcher for the Blues, has been serving for some time as catcher for the cabinet department of the Singer plant, which has the leading nine at present. Everett Miller has been playing in the team representing the Tool and Millwright department. Last week he secured berths for Harris Simpson and Floyd Bailey, who began work there Tuesday and enlisted in the department team. They are to play their first regular game against the champion Cabinet nine next Tuesday, when Simpson will pitch and Bailey will play at his usual position of shortstop.

Bailey and Simpson are driving back and forth night and morning between Buchanan and South Bend.

Orchard Hills Club Golfers Compete in LaPorte Open Meet

Six Orchard Hills golfers were entered in the annual invitational tournament of the LaPorte Country Club Sunday, two getting inside the prizes, in the B and C flights, although none approached the 120 mark for the 27 hole course turned in by George E. E. Richards, star South Bend golfer who was low man for the tournament.

C. R. Funk of Orchard Hills was listed in the Class A flight with 138 strokes, D. A. Macintosh, Buchanan member of the Orchard Hills Club, ranked fourth in the Class B flight with 142 strokes, while D. S. Hoffman ranked next in that flight with 145.

F. B. Eycleshymer ranked first in the Class C flight with 152 strokes. J. F. Viele of Buchanan was listed in the Class C players with 159 strokes.

LOCAL BOWLING SEASON CLOSED SATURDAY NITE

Buchanan's first bowling season ended Saturday night, May 26, after a season which was more than satisfactory from the management point of view, according to Dr. L. F. Widmoyer, majority owner in the Club alleys, and after providing several months of much appreciated indoor sport to the local public.

From a standpoint of combined sport and exercise, bowling is undoubtedly the finest of the winter sports, and the opening of the Buchanan Bowling Club alleys represented a real recreational opportunity for which the local public is deeply indebted. While the patronage was greater than was expected, it was not as great as it will undoubtedly be when the alleys open again with the close of the outdoor sport season in the neighborhood of Nov. 1st.

The alleys were first opened December 9, under the combined ownership of Dr. Widmoyer, Bernard Widmoyer of Nappanee, and Sam Rouse, and under the able management of Fred Schwartz, whose diplomacy and pleasant personality have been chief assets in the success of the project.

After the club had run for about two months with three alleys, it was found that the increasing popularity of the sport demanded more facilities, and three more alleys were added, all of which were played to capacity during the late winter and early spring. So popular was the sport that the management were able to keep the alleys open for two weeks after they had closed in Niles and in most of the neighboring cities.

During the present summer, improvements will be made, that should add greatly to the popularity of the sport next winter. A heating plant is to be installed in the room immediately south which will make it possible to keep an even temperature all over the large club room, next winter. The room will be treated with a two-tone decoration.

Also, in order to secure a certificate of approval from the American Bowling Congress, William Treachler, who has charge of 800 alleys in Chicago, and who has the care of the LaSalle Hotel, will visit South Bend to inspect the Buchanan Bowling Club alleys according to the Congress regulations.

Next year the management plan to cater to the lady trade, and it is likely that a ladies' league of six teams will be fostered.

The management state that they feel well satisfied with the initial season but wish to assure the public that they will be able to afford better service for the coming season.

"We've learned some things," said Dr. Widmoyer, "and we will not make the same mistakes again."

George Roe Takes Second in Orchard Hills Tournament

C. T. Johnson of Niles was low stroke man in the Orchard Hills Club tournament yesterday, with an 85 for the 18 hole course, with George Roe of Buchanan as runner up, with 87 strokes.

L. G. Platt of Niles was the third prize winner in the first flight, with 90 strokes.

Thirty-four players in all participated, divided into three flights. The winners in the two lower flights were:

First, L. R. Wood of Niles, 95; second flight, M. H. Newberry of Buchanan, 95; third, A. S. Bonner of Niles, 96.

Third flight—first, Judge Chas. White of Niles, 101; second, Glenn Merrellfield of Buchanan, 102; third, F. Eycleshymer of Niles, 102.

M. J. KELLING WILL FEATURE FISHING TACKLE DISPLAY NEXT WEEK

Anglers, with fishing fever already coursing in their veins, will find their feet irresistibly turning this week toward M. J. Kelling's Sporting Goods Store. The occasion is a special display of Fine Fishing Tackle items offered during "Shakespeare Week." This is a sort of at-home week to anglers, who are cordially invited to walk in and look around and reminisce to their heart's content.

There's something in the air these days that makes the invitation to browse among new items of fine fishing tackle particularly appealing. It's the urge to hark back to the customs of our fathers, to lead a healthier, simpler existence. The mere mention of fishing tackle sends our thoughts scurrying away—oh, yes, you feel it too! Somewhere there is a curling rattle on a well-loved stream hiding the trout that got away last year; somewhere the water is gently lapping against a shore that you know well, calling, calling, calling for you to come and heed. And you take down your tackle, and look it over, and dream of days that were and days that are to be.

M. J. Kelling well knows that you need new tackle. Every man does. And there is that new outfit you have been planning for the Benton Harbor were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Crandall, Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Roudy returned to her home Sunday after spending two weeks caring for Mrs. Clarence Arend and baby at Mt.

as spending broken fences, refishing furniture, and tending the garden! But we needn't be ashamed of our interest in fishing. Fishing has been sponsored by leading Washington officials and a whole host of notables besides. It has also been a favorite pastime of many divines including in our own time, the well-loved Dr. Henry Van Dyke. These gentlemen allow nothing, if possible to interfere with fishing!

It is told of Stoddard, the great poet of angling, that once when he visited a friend he was asked what his profession might be. His answer is characteristic of the prevailing spirit of the brotherhood. "Man," said the fisherman, "Man, I'm an angler."

So you needn't apologize if you do take time off this week to go see M. J. Kelling's fishing tackle display, and even if you weaken still further and pack up your tackle and go a-fishing!

Mr. and Mrs. Will Garlinger of Benton Harbor were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Crandall, Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Roudy returned to her home Sunday after spending two weeks caring for Mrs. Clarence Arend and baby at Mt.

Label Them
Family photographs should be labeled on the back with the person's name whose picture it is. Otherwise, they will prove useless to a future generation who might otherwise prize them very highly.

Years of Service in Model T Fords

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

New fenders, for instance, cost from $3.50 to $5 each, with a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. Tuning up the motor and replacing commutator case, brush and vibrator points costs only $1, with a small charge for material. Brake shoes can be installed and emergency brakes equalized for a labor charge of only $1.25. A labor charge of $4 to $5 will cover the overhauling of the front axle, rebushing springs and spring perches, and straightening, aligning and adjusting wheels.

The labor charge for overhauling the average rear axle runs from $5.75 to $7. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon can be done for $3 to $4.

A set of four new pistons costs only $7. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. Parts are extra.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of re-conditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.
