WOULD GIVE PRESTIGE Is Largest Incorporated Place in Village Class

That the time is ripe for the change in Buchanan from the village to the city form of government, thereby benefiting both the town itself and the remainder of Buchanan township from which its affairs would thereby be severed, appears to be a growing opinion here, as the reasons which dictated a temporary delay lose weight.

78 YEAR OLD BERRIEN NATIVE DIES FRIDAY

CHARLOTTE M'COMBER, WELL KNOWN BUCHANAN WOMAN IS CALLED BY DEATH

Charlotte McComber, 78, died Friday, after an illness of five weeks, her death occurring at the home of Miss Lilly Abel, where she had resided for the past five years.

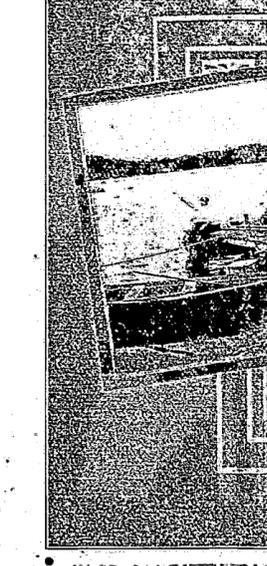

She was born near Niles, but the greater part of her life had been spent in Buchanan. She is the last of a family of seven children. She had been for many years an earnest worker in the Church of Christ and her funeral was held at that place Monday afternoon, with Rev. J. L. Griffith in charge.

The only known relatives surviving are two nephews, and two nieces, one of whom, Mrs. A. B. Foster, was present at the funeral from Paw Paw, Ill. Others in addition to the many Buchanan friends attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Carrahan of Paw Paw, Ill., Mrs. Sadie Enos of Edwardsburg, Mrs. Ida Hipp of Benton Harbor,

Mr. and Mrs. Arden L. Richardson celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary Sunday, August 12th. Forty relatives from Niles and Three Oaks were present.

Mr. Mansfield, Mrs. Carrie E. Willard, Hugh Willard and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Huntley of Niles.

Last year they plotted the area into lots of from 1 1/2 to 10 acres

SWITCH ENGINE STRIKES TRUCK AT CLARK PLANT

WEAVER ESCAPES WITH BRUISES AS MACHINE IS DEMOLISHED

A five ton truck was completely wrecked and its driver, Marion Weaver, escaped with minor injuries when it was struck by a Michigan Central engine when emerging from an alley back of the Clark Equipment grounds yesterday afternoon.

According to observers, the truck did not make the stop at the track which is required, and the engineer also failed to whistle until he was almost to the crossing. Nearby Clark employees shouted a warning, but too late to stop Weaver. The engine struck the truck and threw it against the brake band building, almost entirely demolishing it. Weaver remained in the cab during the wreck, but escaped with nothing worse than severe bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. Arden L. Richardson celebrated their twelfth wedding anniversary Sunday, August 12th. Forty relatives from Niles and Three Oaks were present.

Miss Ethel Craig of Jacksonville, Fla., is a visitor at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ashby of Berrien Street and of her brother, Ed Roland of Portage Street.

PLEASED WITH THIS CITY

The attractiveness of Buchanan in general and of the Clark Equipment Company plant in particular, received some invaluable free advertising during the past week through the radio programs of station KYW, when Uncle Bob, famous story teller for that station related briefly his impressions of a recent visit, prompted by the letters of nine year old Marie Montgomery of Days Avenue and Alexander Street.

NO TRACE CORN BORER FOUND BY CLEAN UP CREW

U. S. EXPERTS SPEND WEEK WORKING IN BUCHANAN TOWNSHIP

A crew of three men working under the U. S. Corn Borer Control service completed a week of inspection in the fields of Buchanan township today without finding any traces of the dread plague.

Previous to their work here they spent a week in Galien township, where they found no traces. Fields there which were burned over by government men last year are said to have been infested by a worm plague which was not the corn borer. No evidences were found there, or in Bertrand township where the crew spent six days.

While covering the local area the crew has worked from Niles as headquarters. The personnel of the force is: foreman, Melvin Erines of Michigan State College; A. C. Brown, instructor in the West Junior High School at Lansing; C. A. Blagdon, Jackson, Michigan.

Elizabeth Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery of Days and Alexander left yesterday to visit over the week-end at the home of Agnes Dolph at Barron Lake.

Mrs. Jesse Lowman Dies Friday After A Long Illness

Josephine Heine Lowman, 45, died Friday morning, August 10, 1928, at the South Shore Hospital, Chicago, after an illness of five months.

Mrs. Lowman was troubled with a complication of ailments and had submitted to five operations, two at Buchanan and three at Chicago, in a vain attempt to secure relief.

She was born at Chester, Mich., where she lived until five years ago when she moved with her family to Buchanan. She was married to Mr. Marsteiner, who preceded her in death ten years ago. Two children were born to them, Lorraine and Leslie. Seven years ago she was married to Jesse Lowman, who survives.

Other survivors are the following sisters and brother: Mrs. Charles Zimmerman, Buchanan; Mrs. L. B. Spafford, Chicago; Mrs. Oscar Willson, St. Louis; Mrs. Fred Attel, Chicago; George Heine, St. Louis.

The funeral took place at 9 a. m. Monday at the Catholic Church at Chester, Ill.

MORE COTTAGES CONSTRUCTED AT CLEAR LAKE

J. C. BERKSON SELLS FIVE MORE UNITS IN SUMMER COLONY SUNDAY

Development of Clear Lake Woods has progressed during the summer, two more cottages having been built by Irvin Christianson, Chicago plumber and gas fitter, and Arthur B. Curtis, superintendent of the People's Gas and Coke company of Chicago. Both these men have completed their houses and are occupying them as summer homes.

J. C. Berkson, head of the Chicago sales office, was a visitor at the resort Sunday with a party of prospective buyers to whom he was able to sell five additional units.

Three wells have been drilled to a depth of 66 feet each for a fine water supply.

Elizabeth Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Montgomery of Days and Alexander left yesterday to visit over the week-end at the home of Agnes Dolph at Barron Lake.

Scenic Advantages of Lake Chapin Lay at Buchanan's Door Unheralded and Unsung

In the shores of Lake Chapin, the name applied to the still water above the Berrien Springs dam on the St. Joseph river, the villages of Buchanan and Berrien Springs have a scenic asset which is unexcelled in its kind in the United States and which would be worth many hundreds of thousands of dollars if properly exploited, according to G. O. McComber of Berrien Springs, who has already made a beginning in that development.

Mr. McComber's credit it must be said that he came within three miles of Buchanan and opened the first successful summer home project that has been carried out to date on the south end of Lake Chapin. Three years ago he entered into partnership with A. J. Maujer of Chicago, buying a mile of frontage on the west side of Lake Chapin from the Great Western Live Stock Farm.

Last year they plotted the area into lots of from 1 1/2 to 10 acres and started building modern summer homes. To date they have sold cottages to the following: G. E. Tipton of the Tipton Machine Company of Chicago; Frank Rourke, Chicago divisional fire chief; Daniel Nelson, officer of the Fullman Company of Chicago; Russell J. Poole, Chicago financier; A. G. Kuhens, Illinois manager of the New Jersey Casualty Company; Edward Juneman, manufacturer of catgut for tennis racquets, violin strings, and musical uses; Seymour McEwen, realtor of Hammond and Chicago.

These plots were labeled with Indian names, such as Objibway, Weesaw, Pottawatomie, Chippewa, and were landscaped by McComber in such a way as to preserve the natural beauties. Each plot has several springs, from which water is raised by hydraulic rams to the cottages. Paths wind down thru the wooded bluffs over rustic bridges to boat docks at the lake edge.

Lake Madron Boy Scouts to Hike To Lake Michigan

The following notice was sent to the Record for publication by James O. Best of Galien, assistant Boy Scout director for Berrien and Cass counties:

The Scouts of Cass and Berrien counties are to enjoy a five or six day trip to Lake Michigan at Camp Wilderness at Bridgman and will leave for the camp on a hike from Camp Madron Friday, August 24th and will remain 5 days.

Registrations will not be necessary, however, James O. Best of Camp Madron would like to know if any desire to go.

Each scout is to bring his own rations, blankets, utensils or money for rations with blankets and utensils and pup tents.

EVANGELICALS TO HOLD STATE MEETING HERE

80 to 100 Ministers From All Parts of Michigan To Attend Sessions

CHURCH LEADERS COME Glass, Blind Evangelist of Lansing, Will Lead Song Services

The annual Bible and Evangelistic sessions of the Michigan Conference of the Evangelistic Church opens Sunday at the Riverside camp grounds on the north side of the St. Joseph River a mile west of Buchanan, with from 80 to 100 ministers of that denomination in attendance and some of the best talent in the church in charge of the program affording an unusual religious opportunity not only for members of that denomination but for the general public as well.

This is the first time that this conference has ever been held in this part of the state, and its programs are worthy of general patronage. Leading speakers of the sessions will be Rev. O. A. Newlin, noted religious leader who has been prominently identified with the Winona Lake meetings, and who has a long record as college president, minister of metropolitan churches, and leading evangelistic speaker. He will speak every morning at 10:00 A. M. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

MANAGER MEAD SIMPLY GLUTTON FOR PUNISHMENT

PUBLIC INVITED TO WRITE CRITICISMS OF LOCAL BASEBALL POLICY

Fred Mead, manager of the Blues, is apparently not satisfied with bearing the troubles that come his way with a resolute Record and cheerful, he just naturally has to go out and corral a few more.

It is in his official capacity as manager of the Blues that Mead craves punishment. He states to the Record that some people have the impression that as a baseball manager he is a first class barber.

In consequence Mead would like to have anyone who holds that opinion write out in detail his full reasons and send the result to the Record for publication.

Not satisfied with resting on his laurels after he has won a majority of his games, and taken the last two straight against hard teams, he thrusts his head through the canvas in the manner of the well known Ethiopian, and issues a general invitation to the public to crack away.

At his request, the letters will be printed in case they are of a constructive nature, dealing with policies rather than personalities.

WILLARD COLVIN IS RECONCILED TO YOUNG WIFE

Chicago papers of today are carrying the following story relative to Willard O. Colvin, son of Edwin M. Colvin, former Clear Lake hotel man:

Just as they dodged a fashionable wedding and eloped five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Willard O. Colvin, of 282 East Pearson street, last night were packing their trunks for another honeymoon, this time to avoid the divorce court. She filed a suit for separate maintenance last Saturday but her attorney, George L. Schein, said this will be withdrawn.

Colvin, a son and heir of the late Edwin M. Colvin, millionaire printer and publisher, has promised to give up airplane joy rides for the more leisurely transportation of the water wagon, his wife said.

Mrs. Colvin, a daughter of Irving MacLeod, stock and bond broker, had charged that her husband's idleness after he inherited a comfortable fortune from his father, had led him to occupy himself with highball shakers and numerous jaunts in the air.

"We're as happy as five years ago," said the young and blonde wife, whose wedding anniversary is next Tuesday. "We're taking a trip for a couple of weeks, making a new start in married life."

In 1922, Mrs. Colvin, 18 years old, had just finished at the Chicago Latin School for Girls. She was engaged to young Colvin, who was a recent graduate of Princeton university. Her parents had everything arranged for a society wedding on October 10. On August 28, the young couple eloped to Valparaiso, Ind.

Marks Beginning Modern Sewage System For Buchanan

TO BE SOLD AUGUST 24

Final approval of proceedings by the village council preliminary to the sale of $40,000 in village bonds for the purpose of construction of Portage Street paving and of storm and sanitary sewers on Third and Portage Street were received the first of the week from Miller, Canfield, Faddock & Stone, Detroit bond attorneys, and steps toward the sale were begun by the publication of advertising in this issue.

Village Attorney Frank Saunders went to Detroit Monday evening to lay the entire council proceedings relative to the construction before the bond experts and returned the following day with the stamp of approval on their legality. A meeting was called by President Claude Glover Wednesday night to prepare resolutions for advertisement and for any other purposes that might arise.

According to the resolution moved by councilman Paul Wynn, the bonds are to be sold August 24.

Opinion was expressed by council that this marked the beginning of a modern sewage system for Buchanan which would be completed within the next two or three years, and which would finally include a sewage disposal plant and an extension of the Chicago Street to cover the west Alexander and Smith street sections above the water works.

A resolution was also passed to install a drinking fountain at the Athletic Park.

Hartford And Blues Play On Local Diamond

The Buchanan Blues will oppose the Hartford nine, one of the chief aggregations of baseball talent in southwestern Michigan, here Sunday afternoon, the game featuring Belt on the mound for the locals and Westcott delivering for the visitors.

The batting orders will be as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Team, Player, Position. Includes Buchanan (Belt, Phillips, Nash, Hamilton, Bailey, E. Miller, Brown, Elyesse, Smith) and Hartford (Westcott, R. Miller, Smith, Bonanigo, K. Straight, A. Miller, W. Straight, Johnson).

LIGHTNING BOLTS HIT 3 LOCAL HOMES

(Continued from Page 1) struck near the chimney, tearing a hole in the roof and shattering the plaster on the interior. In its downward course the bolt connected with a picture wire and burned it off, letting the picture drop to the floor. The radio was also burned out and the radio itself damaged.

The Herman home was struck twice by bolts a few minutes apart in time. The first struck the chimney, razing it to the roof and scattering the bricks all over the yard. It then followed down the interior of the chimney, bursting out the iron-glass front of the stove and blowing a thimble from a stovepipe hole in another room, filling the house with soot. A few minutes later a bolt entered the house by the radio aerial wire, shocking Herman.

At the John Russell farm a bolt struck the house, tearing plaster from the interior. At the Artie Russell farm two trees near the house were struck.

A number of corn fields west of town were reported flat after the storm, and some havoc was wrought in peach orchards.

At the Edward Benke farm two miles south of New Troy the barn was struck and burned to the ground, with the loss of 60 chickens, and a large amount of hay and other supplies.

On the new Range Line road construction several hundred yards of dirt base was washed out by the heavy rain.

ATTY. J. J. PADEN BURIED SATURDAY AT EVANSTON, ILL.

(Continued from Page 1) only one survived him, Willard S. Paden of Big Rapids. Of his immediate family he is survived by his wife; by one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Tracey of Portsmouth, N. H.; and by three sons, David and Dennison of Evanston, Ill.; and Philip of Fort Worth, Texas.

The body was taken to Evanston Saturday morning, where the funeral was held at 2:30 p. m. at the chapel at Rose Hill cemetery, and interment was made there.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mitchell and Mrs. Mary Jane Mitchell motored to Butler, Mich., Saturday to spend Sunday at the home of Mrs. Melvina Ely.

Black Hawk Camp Is Closed Sunday

The Black Hawk Boy Scout camp, headquarters for the scouts of Aurora, Illinois, closed Sunday when the boys attending the third session broke camp and returned to the city.

A total of 286 boys attended during the entire session, according to the camp director, C. E. Eddy, the number being divided among the three sections as follows: first, 136; second, 96; third, 54.

The Aurora boys will return for a six day encampment between Christmas and New Years, according to Mr. Palmer, in order to gain experience in winter camping.

The camp management expressed themselves as well pleased with the selection of a camping ground, after the end of their first year here.

INTEREST WAXES IN MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

(Continued from Page 1) would have a better status in county affairs securing the advantage of four supervisors on the county board instead of one, with increased weight in matters of pro rata of taxation and general county affairs.

The internal affairs of the town would benefit by the change, which would entail the election of aldermen to represent wards, instead of at large as at present. The principal of direct representation would tend to the holding of ward caucuses with greater interest in local politics, and a consequent increase in care in the selection of men for office.

Added to the above and other advantages would be the undeniable fact that the town would gain in prestige by the change.

"I don't know anything about the ins and outs of the process of changing from a village to a city form of government," stated a factory head in the town recently. But I do know that any factory would rather do business in a city than in a village. The outside world would think better of us and we would think better of ourselves if we made the shift. To the world, the word 'village' implies an out of date, moss-back community. I am ashamed to admit to a visitor coming here to look over the plant.

Buchanan is reputed to be the largest town in Michigan to remain in the village classification. Whether or not that be true, it is a fact that in Berrien County there are two towns with less than a third of the population that have either changed to the city form or are now taking steps to that end.

Jim: "When she gave you a kiss did you pay it back?"
Tom: "No, I wanted to keep it so I ran away."

WIFE IS TRYING TO SHAKE DOWN SAYS TWOMBLY

FORMER BUCHANAN RESIDENT STATES HE WILL SPRING SURPRISE SOON

Alleging that the proceedings against him on the part of his wife are in the nature of a "shake down," Willard Irving Osgood Twombly, former Buchanan resident, told newspaper men that he would soon issue a statement that would "surprise Mrs. Twombly and the general public," just as soon as he had the permission of his attorney.

"Mrs. Twombly," said the inventor, "is using our 10-year old daughter, Gloria, as a club to gain her ends. She wants to get all my property and money and is apparently willing to go to any ends to accomplish her purpose."

"I have tried to evade this issue for the past year to save the name and standing of Gloria, an innocent party to the whole affair, but now that Mrs. Twombly has gone this far, I'll see it through to the finish and will clear myself of all the charges she has preferred against me."

Promises Surprise
Twombly further asserted that "when this thing is cleared up, she will no longer be Mrs. Twombly," and went on to relate some of the background of the case.

"Before I married her," he added, "Mrs. Twombly was married to a man by the name of Francis W. Reese of New York. They were married in California."

"She was never divorced from Reese before she married me and now that she has gone this far, I will give the complete story of this angle when the proper time comes."

"I have not mentioned this before, as I did not want to drag my innocent daughter through the muck of a horrible scandal. I wanted to protect her from the terrible stigma attached to being born out of wedlock."

Twombly stated that his attorney would not allow him to give a complete statement to the press at this time, but that he would be glad to do so later.

Tom Heeney lost to Gene Tunney—and made no alibi. That's what we call breaking all traditions.

The heroes of ancient tales used to go forth to battle dragons that breathed fire and had seven heads, and every time a hero managed to dispose of one of the heads two grew in its place. Modern heroes imbued with the same spirit become prohibition officers and slash at the speakeasies!

Berrien Springs Plans 2nd Annual Homecoming Days

Berrien Springs is making ambitious arrangements for its second annual Home Coming to be held this year, August 23 to 25, with a three day program including the pet parade feature which was so popular last year, an Old Timer's Fiddlers Contest, fire works, air plane stunts, Boy Scout work, comedy acts, and a boxing program which will be featured by an exhibition by Johnny Hoekstra, Berrien Springs scrapper who has been meeting the Big Boys.

There will also be a program of races and contests daily. The entire program is to be issued this week.

An added feature this year will be an Old Time parade, in which the oldest vehicles able to perambulate on wheels will be on deck, including automobiles, buggies, wagons, and the like.

PORTAGE PRAIRIE

Mr. and Mrs. Greeley Korn, with their guests Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moyer and family from Nebraska, motored to Detroit, Friday, where they visited their cousin, Mrs. Frank Blodgett, also H. B. Moyer, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moyer. They also stopped at Kalamazoo, where they called on G. M. Moyer at Galesburg. at Hudson Lake Sunday. A number from this place attended Crystal Springs Camp meeting, Sunday.

PRINCESS THEATRE

Belle Bennett is just about the most convincing "Mother" the screen has produced. She and Donald Keith furnish the high lights tonight and tomorrow at the Princess Theatre, in the fine family play, "Wild Geese." It is hard to find more wholesome movies than she helps produce.

Both Saturday and Sunday furnish keenly dramatic plays, the first, "The Final Extra," with Marguerite De LaMotte, and the second, "The Irresistible Lover," with Norman Kerry and Lois Moran. The Saturday offering is unusually good for the four popular shows of the week's end, and the Sunday play maintains the high standard set by Manager Homer P. Morley for his always large audience that night.

The serial, "Scarlet Arrow," in its fifth chapter Monday, is proving a man's upstanding plot, and now is becoming strenuously exciting. The big picture that evening is to be "Stage Kisses," by Kenneth Harlan and Helen Chadwick, who have done some of the best adventure stories.

Tuesday and Wednesday, Karl Dane and George K. Arthur come again in "Circus Rookies." There will also be a special two-reel technicolor production, "The Flag," with Francis X. Bushman, Alice Calhoun and an all-star cast portraying the events and trials that eventually caused this wonderful emblem to be made. "The Flag" alone is well worth the price of admission, educationally as well as in beauty.

PRIMARY ELECTION

Notice is hereby given that a General Primary Election will be held in the Township of Buchanan, County of Berrien, State of Michigan at—Precinct No. 1: H. House, South Oak Street; Precinct No. 2: St. Joe Valley Shipping Ass'n Building, Days Avenue; Precinct No. 3: Zinc Co. Park Building, Main St.; Precinct No. 4: Library Building, Main St., within said Township on TUESDAY, SEPT. 4, A. D. 1928. For the purpose of placing in nomination by all political parties participating therein, candidates for the following offices, viz.:
National—One candidate for United States Senator, full term; one candidate for United States Senator, full term; one candidate for Governor; one candidate for Lieutenant Governor.
Congressional—One candidate for Representative in Congress for the Congressional district of which said Township forms a part.
Legislative—One candidate for Senator in the State Legislature for the Berrien District, which said Township forms a part.
One candidate for Representative in the State Legislature for the Legislative district of which said Township forms a part.
County—Also candidates for the following county offices, viz.: Judge of Probate, Prosecuting Attorney, Sheriff, County Clerk, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, County Auditor in counties electing such officers, and County Commissioners, Drain Commissioners, Coroners, Surveyor. Delegates to County Conventions. There shall also be elected at said primary, by direct vote of the registered and qualified voters of each political party in each county, as many delegates in each township, ward or precinct, as the case may be, as such political party in such township, ward or precinct electing such delegates to the county convention, to be held by such political party within said county in that year for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention called for the purpose of nominating candidates for state offices, to be voted for at the November election. In case of any vacancy in any delegation from any election precinct, township, ward or precinct, the county convention, such vacancy shall be filled by the delegates present from the ward or township in which the vacancy occurs.

The state central committee of each political party shall, at least thirty days before the September primary herein provided for, cause to be forwarded by mail to the chairman of the county committee of such party a copy of the call for the Fall state convention showing the number of delegates to which such county shall be entitled in the state convention of such party; and the said state central committee shall apportion such delegates to the several counties in proportion and according to the number of votes cast for the candidate of such party for each office in each of said counties, respectively, at the last preceding November election.

Delegates to the Fall county convention shall be elected by election precincts and the county clerk shall notify by mail each person elected as such delegate. The required number of electors to receive the highest number of votes for delegates to the Fall county convention of any political party shall be declared by the board of primary election inspectors to be elected.

The board of primary election inspectors shall certify to the county clerk the names of the electors so elected, as delegates, naming the political party upon whose ballots such electors were elected. The county clerk shall notify each delegate so elected of his election as such delegate, and shall certify to the chairman of the county committee of each political party of the county, the delegates elected by such political party as delegates to the fall county convention.

Suggestions Relative to Voting
Separate ballots for each political party will be provided. The elector must name the political party of his choice when asking for a ballot and in marking his ballot must make a cross in the square to the left of the name of each candidate for whom he desires to vote, and can vote for only one candidate except where two or more candidates are to be nominated in which case he should vote for two or the number to be nominated.

TAKING CASH FROM WOMEN TUNNEY RETIRES COLOR IN MOTION PICTURES A PENNY PLUS 900 YEARS

In New York a nurse, fifty-two years old, about to retire from hard work, kills herself. Her life's savings had been lost in a mining swindle.

Women should not invest in what they do not understand. They should not buy land that they have not seen.

Don't believe fairy tales. Ask yourself, "Just how would I, me, myself, not somebody else, actually make a living out of that land?"

Gene Tunney, whom certain prizefight "fans" don't like, because he has brains and they have not, retires from the ring.

Tunney, you read, "is going to Paris to study philosophy." An excellent plan.

But the important thing is to be a philosopher, not merely a student of other philosophers.

Mr. Eastman, king of all kinds of photography, announces perfected moving pictures in colors.

Now you will see the heroine's, or the vampire's rolling eyes, hear the voices that lure men to their doom.

Talking movies will put a premium on intelligence. A cultivated voice indicates a cultivated mind, and cannot be created overnight.

Roman coins dug up after 2,000 years are worth in silver and gold only what they were worth when buried.

This shows the importance of keeping your money earning interest. A silver penny, like the one mentioned in the Bible, put out at interest compounded annually for only 900 years, would amount to $1,270,000,000,000.

A great fire ranging over farm lands in the Northwest burns 75,000 acres of wheat and pasturage. Homes and ranches are burned with crops, farmers fighting it in vain.

Would it be possible to equip a fleet of airplanes with chemical apparatus for extinguishing fire, to deal with a disaster of this kind?

Aircraft manufacturers and those that manufacture chemical fire extinguishers might answer that question.

Dr. Langsner, marvelous hypnotist of Vienna, does and says things to worry the criminal. By hypnotism he caused a young criminal, Verno Booher, to confess after fifteen minutes the murder of his mother, sister and two hired men.

BERRIEN CO. MINT FARMS FACE RUIN

Plantings Reduced in Face of Adverse Conditions and Falling Price

HARVEST IS NOW ON

Distillers Report Plants Contain Low Per Cent of Peppermint Oil

The Berrien County distilleries are working full time all down through the black muck belt, extending from Baroda to the state line southwest of Gallien, and the rare effluvia of peppermint is far flung over the lowlands, as this year's mint crop goes into the tub to be converted into flavor for next year's chewing gum and Life Saver crop.

But all is not well in the minds of the mint growers. The cards are doubly stacked against them this season, according to the statements of representative growers. In the first place the mint crop was reduced greatly by winter-killing. Then the three weeks of rain in the middle of the growing season gave the weeds a lead which enabled them to take many of the old plantings of mint. And the peppermint which was produced is not there this year with the essence. Instead of the 25 to 30 pounds of mint distillation per acre which is considered normal the fields are yielding from 5 to 15 pounds per acre.

Then there is the price factor. Two years ago the mint growers made fortunes, a peppermint famine boosting the price to as much as $25 per pound. As is usual, there was a grand rush by everybody that had mint land and some that did not into the business. Result—the market was flooded in 1927 by the greatest crop ever raised and the bottom fell clear out, the price tailspinning down and down until it was less than one tenth of the top price the previous year, sagging as low as $2.25.

This year it opened up slightly higher, at $2.50 per pound, but still less than half what the growers consider the bare price of production. As a result, the old mint growers who got in on the $27 price a year with those in the best industry, $23 per acre. In consequence, there are many peppermint growers now hanging by their eyelashes on the ragged edge of insolvency, and may go under unless the price bolsters before the end of the year.

Since the opening of the season the market has mounted to $2.85, and may mount higher yet, according to present indications.

Plantings of the old growers have dropped as much as 75 percent as a result of the price slump and winter-killing, but the rush of new growers has maintained the acreage at about the same level for the district. Ordinarily the fields are left planted from three to five years.

There will be no new plantings until the price rises, however, and as fast as the old fields are winter killed or are plowed up, they are being planted to sugar beets, or truck gardens.

The replantings are made in April, an old field being plowed up and the roots used to plant the new acreage, such as potatoes are planted. The planting is done by der of his mother, sister and two hired men.

Dr. Langsner says each has a sixth sense that can be made to receive the thought of another. Thought is something like a broadcasting operation.

Mexican laborers, who contract to plant and weed for $23 per acre, the same price received for the care of a hand labor on a beet crop. During the latter part of July or the first of August, according to the advancement of the season, the mowers are placed in the fields and the crop is dropped in the swath and raked much as an alfalfa crop is handled. As soon as it has wilted, it is hauled on wagons to the distilleries and placed in the tubs, each of which accommodates a load.

Once in the tub, a lid is clamped on tight, as steam from a boiler is turned on underneath the tub. For 35 minutes the steam is permitted to pass through the mint and out at the top through a galvanized iron or tin pipe, which enters a large tank, where it takes the form of an enclosed coil 110 feet long, which is gradually reduced from 5 to 2 inches in diameter. Over this coil cold water runs, distilling the steam until it runs into a receptacle, a mixture of water and peppermint oil. The tank into which it runs is so arranged that the water runs off, leaving the peppermint oil floating at the top.

The oil so left is a finished product, ready to go on the shelves of the druggist in bottled form. Among the heavy mint growers are Beebe & Sons of Baroda, with 300 acres, Holden of Gendora with 250 acres and The E. K. Warren Co., of Three Oaks.

Michigan Crop Prospects Move Upward in August

With reasonable weather in most sections of Michigan during July, the August 1st production forecast for practically all crops was increased over the previous month, according to the report issued today by Herbert E. Powell, Commissioner of Agriculture and Verne H. Church, Agricultural Statistician for Michigan. With the exception of corn, beans, sugar beets and apples the condition of all crops in the State on August 1st was as high as the ten-year average or above. Oats and barley are excellent throughout the State, and if average weather continues through harvest, these crops will have the largest production since 1918.

Threshing of wheat and rye was only partially completed on Aug. 1, but both of these crops are yielding above average. The quality of these grains is nearly better than seemed possible after the damage done last winter. There are many good fields of the Lower Peninsula, but threshing is late. The corn crop made decided improvement in nearly all sections during July, but the condition is still five points below average, and the production forecast is for a crop ten million bushels less than average. The buckwheat acreage is five percent less than last year but the condition is better than average.

Following disastrous rains in June which destroyed many bean fields and prevented some replanting in the heavy bean section, there was an excessive amount of rainfall in July over much of the same area. The condition is lowest in the heavy producing section and is only 70 percent for the entire State. This condition of beans forecasts a production of 5,460,000 bushels which is larger than last year. The United States August 1st bean forecast is practically the same as the final 1927 crop. Michigan's potato crop on August 1st promised a production of 34,538,000 bushels from a condition two percent above average. The United States forecast was for 459,737,000 bushels of potatoes from a condition of 55.8 percent. Prospects are for a crop of peaches, pears, and grapes in Michigan well above average, but the apple crop will be considerably short of average because of the poor prospects of winter varieties, and especially Baldwins.

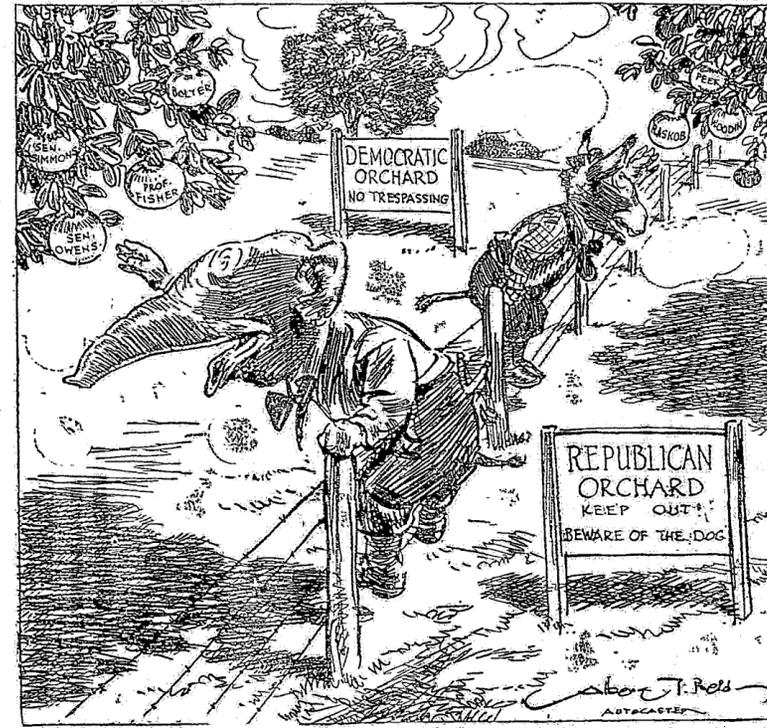

Practically all of the fruit and grain crops in the United States now promise a larger production than that realized in 1927.

PROSPECTS FOR BANNER GRAPE CROP BLIGHTED

ROT SPREADS RAPIDLY IN LOCAL VINEYARDS IN PAST TEN DAYS

Prospects for better than an average grape crop in the Buchanan district were blasted during the past ten days by the appearance in practically all vineyards of rot which is spreading rapidly.

Vineyards in this district were loaded with the best crop of recent years, offsetting shortages in apples and peach orchards, until the recent infestation set in. The presence of the blight apparently has no relation to the care given the grapes, as the vineyards which have been sprayed most constantly are in many cases affected the worst. The disease differs from the common dry rot, for which sprays with Bordeaux mixture are used and grape growers are puzzled by the situation.

Mich. Farmers Reap Fertility Profit From Fertilizers

M. S. G. Check of Harvest Fields Shows Returns From Commercial Fertilizer Use

East Lansing, Aug. 16—Reports from the harvest fields of Michigan this year give additional evidence that the use of commercial fertilizers on small grains adds materially to the farm income, according to reports by the soils department at Michigan State College.

The use of a 4-16-4 fertilizer for wheat seeded on the R. V. Tanner farm in Jackson county increased the yield 25 bushels an acre. Similar increases in wheat yields have been obtained in other tests located in other sections of the State.

A complete fertilizer containing considerable potash is recommended by the soils department, especially if a legume is to be seeded in the wheat.

High grade fertilizer is urged because the per unit cost of an element of plant food in the high grade fertilizer is less than it is in the low grade. In addition to the saving in the cost of plant food, there is less labor needed to handle the high grade product.

Holmes Tells Of Unique Concert By Roe Family

The publication of the Roe music recital of 1853 in the Record of last week started Editor Holmes on another of his interesting reminiscences, which we print below:

Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Editor Record: The very interesting program of the Jesse J. Roe music class of the "Gage age" being to mind, among other things, my having gone into town to attend a concert given by Jesse Roe and his daughter Clara, in which they used a very peculiar instrument of their own make, and comprised a lot of common table tumblers set about on a table top and arranged in accordance with the tone pitch of each, the bass at one end and treble at the other, and all nicely tuned by pouring water into each to secure the proper pitch. The more water in the glass the higher the pitch. The one piece that I remember the most distinctly was "Home, Sweet

IMHOFF STARTS FRUIT FARM ON ST. JOE RIVER

BEAUTIFUL TRACT ON RIVER BLUFF PLANTED TO FRUIT AND NURS

Among those who believe in the development possibilities of the St. Joseph River are Frank Imhoff, who is developing a future home on the east side adjacent to the Charles Lyack Fox farm.

Mr. Imhoff has purchased ten acres which he is setting out to apples and peaches, with intermediate settings of evergreens which he plans to sell for Christmas trees while fruit is coming to maturity. In the evergreen plantings are Norway Spruce, Australian Pine, Colorado Blue Spruce, Chinese Arbor Vitae, American Arbor Vitae, Concolor Fir and other varieties from which he expects marketable trees by Christmas, 1929.

Several acres have been planted to apples and peaches, the latter to start bearing next year. On the rugged bluffs of the river he has set out 200 walnut trees, 200 chestnuts, 200 hickories, and 150 pecans.

Mr. Imhoff has maintained his home in Buchanan while bringing his tract to a production basis, but has erected a shack where he and his family occasionally enjoy an outing, and a part of the beautiful natural attractions of the place. He had originally planned to raise guinea hens and turn them loose, but during the past winter he found 50 quail on his tract, and consequently relinquished his first intention and fed the quails through the season. There are ten fine springs in the river bluff on his acreage, and some fine natural timber.

REMEMBER THIS WHEN PRESERVING

In choosing fruit for preserving, remember that slightly under-ripe fruit is usually best because it contains more pectin or jellyifying substance than fully ripe fruit. If modern short-process preserving rules are followed, however, this point can be disregarded, as these recipes secure uniform jelly texture through the use of liquid pectin. "Home." I never learned what name they gave the instrument. The tones were of finest bell quality and produced by rubbing a moist finger across the edge of the tumbler. Perhaps some of your readers may be able to make tones in that way but I have never been very successful at it. Clara Roe is now Mrs. George B. Richards. J. G. Holmes.

APPLE PRICES REFLECT REPORT OF LARGE CROP

QUOTATION ON BEST GRADES DROPPED TO $1.00 TO GROWERS HERE

Local prices on early apples have dropped from $2.00 to $1.00 per bushel for the best grade, according to local growers, reflecting the effect of government reports which predict an increase in the national apple crop of 30 percent over last year. The total yield for the United States is estimated at 33,277,000 as compared with 25,900,000 barrels last year.

Washington will lead in apples this year, according to the report, with a crop of 9,983,000 barrels. New York state coming next with 4,079,000 barrels.

The crops of other states which are expected to exceed a million bushels is estimated in barrels: Virginia 2,508,000 California 2,374,000 Oregon 1,428,000 Idaho 1,310,000 Illinois 1,155,000 Michigan 1,122,000 West Virginia 1,087,000 Pennsylvania 1,054,000

Experts Predict Beef Price Will Soar Higher Yet

Improving Conditions Hold Promise for Cattle Producers, According to M. S. C. Survey

East Lansing, Aug. 16—A continued upward swing of the beef price pendulum is indicated by statistics obtained by the animal husbandry department at Michigan State College.

In the period from 1921 to 1927, beef animals were produced at a distinct loss to their owners. The result was that livestock men sacrificed many animals that would have been retained in breeding herds in times of normal price.

Beef production decreased more than 600,000 head in 1927 and the decline for 1928 will probably be still greater. This scarcity of beef has caused the upturn in the market which now is at a point which makes it profitable to produce beef, in the opinion of the college specialists.

Michigan farmers who have a surplus of hay or other coarse fodders which may be used to carry a herd of breeding cows through the winter, available pasture for summer, and can produce grain to finish calves for beef at 18 months of age, are advised by the animal husbandry department to breed suitable cows to a purebred beef sire.

Livestock shipping associations and the use of the motor truck have made it possible for the producer of a few head of beef animals to enjoy the same market advantages as the breeder who sells animals by the carload, it is said.

Grange Works For Lower Tariff On Products Of Farm

Two important projects which the National Grange is now pushing at the National Capital have a direct bearing upon the farm interests over a wide area, especially relating to the business of the poultryman and the potato growers. Consequently those engaged in these lines of agriculture are watching very closely what the Grange is trying to do.

The organization is urging the United States Tariff Commission to recommend a sharp increase in the tariff rates on imported eggs and egg products, pointing out that heavy importations from China are raising havoc with the domestic market and endangering the very existence of American poultrymen. Present duties are eight cents per dozen on eggs in the shell, 18 cents per pound on dried eggs, and six cents per pound on eggs frozen or otherwise preserved; the latter products, coming almost exclusively from China, being used principally in the baking and confectionery trades.

At the hearings so far held in Washington, at which the Grange has urged its case for higher duties, strong opposition has developed from a group of dealers, importers and brokers, who vigorously resist any raise proposal.

Likewise the Grange is fighting hard for higher tariffs on potatoes, and as a result of this agitation the tariff commission has ordered a thorough investigation into the costs of potatoes as compared with those over the border in Canada, from which chief competition comes. Growers of early potatoes in this country contend that they are facing disaster because of prevailing low prices, and a similar situation threatens the northern growers unless something can be done to secure higher import rates. One member of the United States Tariff Commission, and recently reappointed to another term by President Coolidge, is a former master of the National Grange, Sherman J. Lowell, of New York.

A woman, suing her husband for divorce, says he threw a cooked chicken at her. Well, the price of poultry being what it is, she certainly can't dispute his generosity.

Grange Extends Activities Into Southern States

Increasing Call for Farm Fraternity in States Hitherto Without It

Extension of its activities into the Southern States is apparently about to be experienced by the Grange organization of the country, the farm fraternity already established in 30 of the states but up to the present time chiefly north of Mason and Dixon's line. Already nearly a score of new Grange units have been formed in Virginia and a State Grange organization will be perfected early in September. Some subordinates have already been instituted in South Carolina and revival work is in progress in Kentucky; while Tennessee, Texas and Florida are among the states clamoring for the Grange.

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, was invited to address the Southern Rural Life Conference at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, and there announced the National Grange program as being "to add one Southern state to our organization every year." This assurance was cordially received and has done much to focus attention upon the probable early extension of Grange activities into the South.

The Grange owes much of its present success to the early contributions of Southern men to its rebuilding, in the period forty years ago, when the organization flourished in many states south of the line. There was a time when there were more Granges south of the Ohio River than north of it and two National Grange masters were men of the South—Put Darden of Mississippi and John Thompson Jones of Arkansas. One of the strongest Grange leaders of his day was D. Wyatt Aiken of South Carolina, a member of Congress, while the basic code of Grange law known as its Declaration of Purposes, was written by Major James W. A. Wright, a native of Mississippi and a soldier of the Confederacy, who afterwards removed to California, and became first master of the California State Grange.

All these facts in early Grange history make it natural to attempt to extend the organization into the Southern states, where there appears to be a growing demand for it. This is due in part to the migration of many Northern people southward, but more than this to an increasing call for a rural community organization, along civic, educational and social lines, which the Grange has long demonstrated its ability to supply.

COMES BACK AFTER 57 YRS. AND FINDS MANY OLD FRIENDS

MRS. MOLLIE FERRIS PHILIPS REVISITS BUCHANAN TO RENEW OLD TIES

To revisit the scenes of one's youth fifty-seven years afterward and still find, in the words of the old ballad, "one face there you loved when all was young," is remarkable good fortune, but it is the fortune of Mrs. Mollie Ferris Phillips of Fillmore, N. Y., who arrived here Saturday morning in company with her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Parker, to renew old ties with any friends that might still remain. Mrs. Phillips came to Buchanan in 1871, when she was Mollie Ferris, 15 years of age. Her father was a contractor who travelled over the country, and she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. John S. Howard, the former a member of the meat market firm of Howard & Button. The residence was the same now occupied by E. W. Saxon on Fortage Street. She left in 1871. Among the friends of her youth she has located are Mrs. Charles Treat, Mrs. Tom Hayes, Mrs. Lottie Bailey Smith, Mrs. Walter Webster of South Bend, who was formerly Miss Nellie Black.

Among the particular friends whom Mrs. Phillips has not located is Miss Jennie Gephart, who is believed to be living under another name assumed by marriage. Anyone who has any information concerning Miss Gephart may get into communication with Mrs. Phillips by calling the E. C. McCollum residence, phone 72F2.

Evan. Delegates Return Mon. from State Convention

Local delegations attending the state convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evan. Church, which was held from Thursday until Sunday at Sebawing, 40 miles east of Saginaw, arrived back Monday. On their return they stopped at Galesburg for a visit at the home of Mrs. Lula Chase, nee Moyer. The delegations were as follows: Mrs. Ed Arney, Mrs. John Keplar, Mrs. Oliver York of Portage, Prairie; Mrs. W. L. Willard, Mrs. Mae Mills, of Buchanan.

VETERAN HOTEL MAN REVISITS THE OLD HOME TOWN

A. C. STEPHENS, TWICE MGR. OF HOTEL REX, PROMOTES BIG TOLEDO PROJECT

To engage in the greatest enterprise of one's career after reaching the age which is ordinarily considered man's allotment is not in line with the experience of the ordinary man, but it is the case with A. C. Stephens, leading hotel man of Toledo, Ohio, who visited here several days last week in company with his wife and the latter's aunt, Miss Hattie Gates.

After a career in the hotel business which includes five states and nine hotels, and after fighting off the threat of blindness which over-shadowed him two years back, he is now embarking the energy and enthusiasm of a young man in the promotion of a 290 room hotel, the Stephens Hotel of Toledo, which is to represent a new departure in the public accommodation line.

To start at the beginning, Mr. Stephens is visiting in Buchanan because both he and his wife were born here and spent their childhood here, and because on two separate occasions they operated the Hotel Rex. Consequently, although they now rank among the 'old timers,' they yet have hosts of friends remaining.

Mrs. Stephens was originally Miss Elma Glover, daughter of Harrison Glover, a pioneer meat market man, who had a shop on the south side of Front Street. Mr. Stephens belonged to one of the earliest families in this district, his grand-father, 'Uncle' Joe Stephens, having pioneered in the city of Niles when it boasted one log hut. Later he acquired the 1,000 acres of farm land in the Bend of the River district, of which he still owned 300 acres, located on both sides of the road immediately south of the George Tichenor farm, at the time of his death.

A. C. Stephens worked as a boy in the pad factory. In 1874 he married Elma Glover and together they set out to try their fortune in new fields, going to the Black Hills. Here Stephens got his start in the hotel business, opening a boarding house for the rough and ready frontier mining element. After a few years of this stimulating experience, he went to Chicago and ran a dining room there during the World's Fair. At the end of the exposition he returned to his native town and leased the Hotel Rex, then known as the Dunbar House, from A. J. Crothers, who kept a saloon in the basement. After a few years in charge here, he went to Iowa, where he operated the Dexter House until May, 1898, when he returned to Buchanan at the solicitation of Fred Lee, then head of the Round Oak Stove company of Dowagiac, and interested in what was to become eventually the Clark Equipment company, and once more took charge of the Hotel Rex.

After a year, he sold out again and went to Ironton, Ohio, on the Ohio River, where he operated the Sheridan house and the Ironton House until 1910, when, in company with Stanley Burt he went to Toledo, Ohio, and took charge of the Jefferson Hotel, later adding the St. Clair Hotel. Eventually he sold his interest in the Jefferson hotel and acquired sole title to the St. Clair, which he operated until 1923, when he sold on account of threatened blindness from cataracts on both eyes.

After operations and treatment had cleared up the trouble, Stephens plunged into the hotel business again, in 1925, promoting the Ft. Meigs hotel, which he eventually sold at a good profit.

"I am going to build a hotel for the people," he stated Monday. "No banquet rooms, no ball rooms, no sample rooms,—in other words, the patrons' who stop at my place will not have to pay the fiddler. The top price will be $2.50,—and 'down' and no 'ups'."

Old Timer Tells Funny Angles of Buchanan Churches of Lang Syne

In our little town of two thousand, counting all the dogs and cats and the stray mules, etc., we had a total of seven churches, all open for weekly services and doing (more or less) well.

One of the principal things this country is known for, and the thing that brought about the colonization of this great country of ours, was the fact that they could here worship God as they saw fit and according to the dictates of their conscience. So it seems that this little town of ours, was never of "one mind" in that regard. They had so many churches that none of them could boast a large pulpit morning, but they were none the less sincere, and none the less satisfied in their own minds that they were RIGHT and ninety percent of the rest of the denominations were all wrong and they often had their serious doubts as to the final disposition of the several members of the other denominations. They of course, felt sure that they were right and so any one that did not believe as they saw the interpretation of the Holy Writ, must surely be wrong. They felt very sorry for their erring friends, but could see no other way but to follow the law of God as they saw it.

We had seven churches, as I remember it. The Methodists, as we called them, more properly called Methodist Episcopal, the Presbyterians, the Latter Day Saints, the Christian Church (or Campbellites) as they were sometimes called) also the Church of Larger Hope, the Advent Christian, and others.

Each church had its ardent supporters, and depended upon them as does the business for its customers, and they would sometimes have their little spats and quarrels, among themselves, just as those in a family too much associated, will. But in all and thru all the churches was the loving thing and the thing that always in the end was predominant.

Whenever I think of the Christian Church, I think of Jim Case and his horse and wagon, his good wife Myra, and of Jesse Roe, "the McComber girls," Edna Smith, Calvin Myler and scores of others that used to congregate there. I shall never forget when I was a very tender age that I was privileged to be Santa Claus at the Christmas Cantata that was given by the youth of the church. To my knowledge there wasn't any one that really taught us our parts, for we just met a few thousand (?) times and rehearsed until we absorbed them. Then on the fatal night, Horrors! I was Santa Claus, and a very young and green one, and right at the most of my touching part, where the children came forward to kiss Santa, my fool whiskers came off, and the "fat was in the fire," right.

Another time, in the same church, Anna Weaver was a then promising young actress, and I was, (in the play), a bashful suitor for her hand. Just as she was proposing to me, my false mustache (which was hooked in place with some sort of a wire arrangement placed in the nostrils) came off and my nose started to bleed plenty. But I will say this for Anna, she was never at a loss to know what to do and say on the spur of the moment, so she took her perfectly good "hanky" and with some well chosen words about my nose bleed and its suggesting that I was in love, all right, she covered up my nose and face so that the audience never knew that my whiskers had come off, but simply knew that I did have a nose bleed and that she made me promise (in the play, mind you) to MARRY HER.

So there were many funny things that happened at these serious church affairs. Dr. Berrick, remember, used to talk Sundays, at the Church of Larger Hope. He wasn't a preacher, the congregation could not afford to pay a regular preacher, had spread themselves over Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and following in the track of General Wayne, this advance army of civilization had established their pickets in these counties, picking out the choicest locations in the country.

Up to the years 1835-6, when land speculation set in, nine-tenths of the settlers were from the south. They were a cheerful contented people, whose wants were few and easily supplied, hospitable to a fault. The latchstrings of their doors had knots on the end and were always out. No one was refused accommodation, white or Indian; the cabin was never full. They had plenty of time to visit or for amusement. Clearings were rarely made, as they settled the prairie first. When they settled in the woods, several acres were cleared for corn, which was all that was needed, that crop furnishing bread for themselves, food for horses, cattle, sheep and hogs and the stalks were fodder. The food of the early settlers was usually corn bread, pork fattened in the woods, fish, venison, turkey, water fowl, and other game of the season, turnips, potatoes, sweet and Yankoe pumpkins, cabbages and other vegetables of the common varieties. Fruits consisted of cranberries and crab apples, sweetened with dried pumpkins, wild plums, grapes, strawberries, huckleberries and blackberries.

like many of the good people of the old town have changed. The Advent Church was down town on Oak Street, south of the Crist Mill, which was run by the Peas family. The Methodist Church was up on Days Avenue, at the top of the hill on the west side of the street. It burned down and they rebuilt down town on Oak Street, at Roe Street.

The Presbyterian Church was on Third Street, just west of Al Emerson's home. They sold the old church to Howard Roe, who made it into a home for himself and family out on the west edge of town, and they built down on the Front Street Hill. They had the misfortune to have to build it all over again, caused by fire, but they are still on the job and looking forward as ever.

Many a perfectly good "match" was made between the young folks of this little old town, at the Church Socials. The girls would be engaged to the very best effort at the culinary art to attract the swain that appeared at the time to be her best bet. He would look over her cooking and decide that she would do and while they rode home in the squeaky old buggy, holding hands, and gazing at the same old moon that has had to witness so many tragedies of this sort, he would vow his love and the length of it. But there were always those at these socials that were the "village cut-ups" and whether married or single, they would caper and cavort around among all those present, and perhaps get a calling down from some serious old maid or matronly old lady who could not see a Christian smile. Heaven must be a place of sedate and serious folk, for her kind. I am glad that the newer generation has learned to smile and be decent at the same time. I always thought I could, and I see that the idea is getting better and better known as time progresses.

To me there were always a lot of really "funny" people in the churches, which in no way reflects upon the calling of their church, nor affects its mission among its people. But they were down right funny, just the same, and I have always had a good laugh thinking of old times and old friends in the church circles in Buchanan.

Historian Tells Of Berrien Farm Life 100 Years Ago

The following general account of the settlement of this part of the state of the farming methods and modes of life here 100 years ago is taken from a paper contributed by A. B. Copley to Volume V of the Michigan Pioneer Collection, published in 1885:

In 1825 the Chicago road was laid out and built as a military measure, leading from Detroit to Ft. Dearborn, Chicago, by the United States government at a cost of $20,000. The Erie Canal had just been completed, steamboat navigation had just been inaugurated on the Great Lakes, and the descendants of the Puritans and the followers of Hendrick Hudson came hand in hand by the aid of these improved facilities for migration. Landing in Detroit, they divided, one party following the Chicago road peopled the second tier of counties; the other stream went directly west on the line of the territorial road, established about the year 1834 and settled the second tier of counties.

But when they reached the counties of St. Joseph, Cass, Berrien, Van Buren, and Kalamazoo, they found themselves preceded by the adventurous successors of Daniel Boone and his coadjutors, who having crossed the Cumberland and Allegheny mountains, had spread themselves over Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and following in the track of General Wayne, this advance army of civilization had established their pickets in these counties, picking out the choicest locations in the country.

Up to the years 1835-6, when land speculation set in, nine-tenths of the settlers were from the south. They were a cheerful contented people, whose wants were few and easily supplied, hospitable to a fault. The latchstrings of their doors had knots on the end and were always out. No one was refused accommodation, white or Indian; the cabin was never full. They had plenty of time to visit or for amusement. Clearings were rarely made, as they settled the prairie first. When they settled in the woods, several acres were cleared for corn, which was all that was needed, that crop furnishing bread for themselves, food for horses, cattle, sheep and hogs and the stalks were fodder. The food of the early settlers was usually corn bread, pork fattened in the woods, fish, venison, turkey, water fowl, and other game of the season, turnips, potatoes, sweet and Yankoe pumpkins, cabbages and other vegetables of the common varieties. Fruits consisted of cranberries and crab apples, sweetened with dried pumpkins, wild plums, grapes, strawberries, huckleberries and blackberries.

Spurns Boyish Bob!

Jackie Wells of Chicago claims the world's record for long hair. Her tresses are seven feet and two inches long.

Drinks at meals were wheat, corn, Evans' root, sassafras tea and coffee, with whiskey for callers, house raisings, hog rollings, harvest, and hog killing times. As a general rule their chief business was to live, as there was little opportunity for speculation. Markets were not of much importance, as they had few products to sell, necessarily few to buy.

A farmer's outfit of implements was an ax, iron wedge, bull plow, which was a bar share and land side combined, with wooden stock and mouldboard, a harrow which was often a tree top or crotch with wooden teeth and a sickle.

Most small grain was harvested with a sickle as late as 1830 to 1833, and that instrument was in use up to 1835. Wheat and oats were stacked around a circle, in the center of which was the threshing floor of dirt, raised a little in the middle where the sheaves were placed and trodden out by horses. The winnowing was first done by two men waving a sheet while a third threw up the grain. Threshing machines began to make their appearance about 1842, at first without separators.

The dresses of the women were commonly linsey; sometimes for summer, cotton cloth, home-woven, was used, colored yellow by home made dyes, or sheeting colored a variegated brown with oak bark with waist and skirt made in one piece and gathered at the waist with a cord run in a shirr. Sunbonnets were used for ordinary wear and for dress occasions an antiquated straw did service for years, regardless of styles. Shoes were home made from leather dressed in tanneries on shares, and made up by local or traveling shoemakers.

Men were clad in home made jeans, blue or butternut, with varied shades of color as the skeins of yarn took a lighter or a darker hue. Pantaloon were frequently made of buckskin or faced with that material in the places where it would do the most good. The upper garment was something like a blouse, called a wamus, reaching nearly to the hips; no waist or belt; sleeves gathered at the wrist; fastened at the throat by a single button and tied at the bottom by the corners. Vests were not worn ordinarily. Coon or fox skin caps were not unusual.

GROWTH OF RURAL DELIVERY

It is 33 years since rural free delivery was introduced. Great caution was exhibited in trying out the idea. It had been advocated for a number of years, but aroused interest slowly on the part of those destined to benefit most by it.

an annual expenditure of $39,250,000 to keep the service functioning.

Of course, the adoption of the plan resulted in a frightful slaughter of fourth class postmasterships and no small part of the earlier opposition to the extension of the system came from these officers.

It is significant, too, that all three of these means of facilitating communication between farm and town were fairly coincident in arrival. All three may be credited with accelerating the march of progress. If any one excels the others in value it is the rural free delivery.

BIDDY'S PART

When the farm wife depended upon "Biddy," the hen, to reproduce her kind through the medium provided by nature, little attention was paid to any of the ailments of the flock.

The situation is different today. The last decade has witnessed an amazing change in the scope and method of poultry and egg production. The humble hen is now a recognized asset, a chief source of income and as such is favored with the best food, shelter and attention.

Chicken breeders sold 800,000,000 baby chicks last year and American hens lay 700 eggs every second, or 2,000,000,000 dozens a year. The annual value of poultry products in this country is in excess of $1,000,000,000, which is 15 percent of the value of all livestock production.

And yet, in spite of her importance in the commercial life of the country, the hen has never come into her legal rights, in the way of recognition by law, and has not had her fair share of congressional favor.

Congress has taken steps to protect the consumer from the dangers following the use of diseased pork, beef and mutton and milk from diseased cows, and in view of the extensive use of poultry products as human food it would seem that the next step toward insuring wholesomeness for the American table must concern these products.

COMMUNITY PROGRESS

While Buchanan has much to boast of as it considers past achievements, it would be sheer folly at this stage of its community development to rest content with past laurels and cease striving for further advancement.

Buchanan's present high standing among centers of equal population has been won by foresight and aggressive policies in the past. This generation should be just as eager to assure an enviable future for the community as were those men of former generations who often fought a stiff, up-hill fight to gain those things upon which the city's present prestige rests.

Never before in its history has Buchanan been in such good position to go forward in rapid and substantial development as right now. It has all its pristine attractions plus many of relatively recent acquisition.

But to do the things that must be done if the community is to progress along desirable lines of commercial, industrial and residential expansion and betterment, there must be no diminution of that spirit of cooperation and willing effort on the part of a considerable number of citizens which has been manifested in all its past accomplishments.

And just as men and women of vision and civic consciousness have always been available in the past, so will they come to the service of the community in future hours of need.

BLUES DEFEAT MERCHANTS IN 11TH INNING

Miller Bros. Pull Gamo Out Of Fire After Two Extra Frames

ERWIN IS BLUE PITCHER

The Buchanan Blues turned the tables on the East Side Merchants Club and his effort went wild. Captain Miller also starred on defense, blocking a threat of the Merchants by catching a hot liner by Groom and then throwing out Eamer before he could double back to second.

With the score tied 7-7 at the end of the seventh, the two teams remained deadlocked for three more innings.

Then, in Buchanan's half of the eleventh inning, after Erwin had fanned, Everett Miller made first when Naney dropped his grounder. On a sacrifice bunt by his brother, Jay Miller, the captain of the Blues raced to third, and on home when first baseman Groom attempted to stage a double play to third and his effort went wild.

Captain Miller also starred on defense, blocking a threat of the Merchants by catching a hot liner by Groom and then throwing out Eamer before he could double back to second.

The score read:

Kalamazoo Rider Wins Main Event In Hill Climbing

Five motorcycle hill climbing events were staged under the auspices of the South Bend Motorcycle Club, on the hillside across the Michigan Central tracks from the Athletic Park Sunday afternoon, with fifteen professionals from three states competing, and a few amateur entrants from South Bend.

The events were run off in good style, with no serious accidents and some excellent performances. Only a small crowd turned out to witness it.

The 61-cubic inch event for professionals saw Elmo Huttenlocher of Indianapolis winning, being clocked in six and four-fifths seconds. Ed Wegner of South Bend was second in .07. Two bad spills hurt his chances. Third was Ralph Moore of Indianapolis, his time being .07.1.

In the 35-inch placement contest, Ralph Moore was adjudged the winner, mounting the crest in

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE
John Drane, prosperous West-coast man of mystery, is visited by William Dart and by a boyhood chum, Simon Judd. As he speaks to them, a young girl, Amy Drane, approaches him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"What was it, Amy?" John Drane asked.
"Oh, nothing!" she said. "It was only about Robert; whether you wanted to see him now, but if you have visitors—"
"This evening, perhaps," John Drane said. "But, one minute, Amy. This is an old friend of mine—"
"Chum, black my cats, when we were kids, why don't you say, huh?" Simon Judd demanded. "He's afraid to tell how long ago that was, huh?"
"Yes, one of my boyhood chums," John Drane said, smiling slightly. "Simon Judd, in fact, and Judd, this is my grand-niece, Amy."

The girl gave Judd her hand and for a minute or two they talked, the girl smiling and Judd laughing for no reason but because of his own unfeeling good humor; then she said, having learned that the old fat man might stay a day or two, that Bob was waiting for her and, after a word of greeting to Dart, she hurried away. She did not like Dart; she had never liked him; she could not imagine what her uncle John saw in him.

Dart stood stroking his gray beard, studying Simon Judd as the big man climbed the veranda steps. From the rear the movements of the man from Riverbank were almost grotesque as he hoisted his great bulk from step to step.

"I think," Dart said, when John Drane turned at the top of the steps, "I'll come back later on—tomorrow, perhaps."
Drane scowled his annoyance. "Now, don't do that, William," he said. "You know I don't like to have my plans disarranged. You said you would stay the night and I have counted on it. I want to thrash that matter out with you. Don't be a fool."

"I only thought, as you had Mr. Judd here—"

"Now, that's just why I want you to stay," John Drane said. "If Sime and I get to talking boyhood days we'll never go to bed. Don't you see? We'll be talking over the old days. We'll never stop."
"Can't stop me, once I get started, that's sure enough," laughed Simon Judd. "Talkin' my long suit, and always was, I guess. But don't you folks let me bust up any plans you've made. If you want to talk, I've got a lot of stuff I've got to read over sometime—stuff I come down to New York to get hold of. I been made Chief of Police back home, John."

"That is interesting. At seventy, too, Simon," Drane said.
"Yes, I guess they got around to where they thought they needed some brains at last," Simon Judd chuckled. "Folks do, sometimes. Yes, sir; made me Chief of Police of Riverbank, sure as you're a foot high!"

William Dart had come up the steps and taken one of the wicker chairs. He put his elbows on its arms and now began revolving his thumbs, leaning forward and looking off over the lawn.

time?" he asked.
"She's making her home with me now—yes," John Drane answered.

"That's nice—nice to have young folks around," Simon Judd said. "And, as I was sayin' about the changes in Riverbank—you know that field where we used to go to hunt rabbits? Bailey's field, John? Well, you'd never know it—all built up with houses; streets and all, gas and electric, sewers, everything! You remember little Ross Gartner—father used to run the Western Hotel? He developed that part of town—"

With Simon Judd talking and John Drane asking a question now and then, they remained there on the veranda until dark, when Norbert called them to dinner.
On Sunday mornings John Drane and his household usually slept later than usual and breakfast was not served until nine. At nine, this morning, Mrs. Vincent—who for many years had sat at the foot of John Drane's table behind the coffee pot and roaster—stood in the breakfast room waiting for her employer. She stood near her chair and she seemed to be suffering, for her eyes were closed and she held one hand against the small of her back. She was actually in great pain, for she was

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

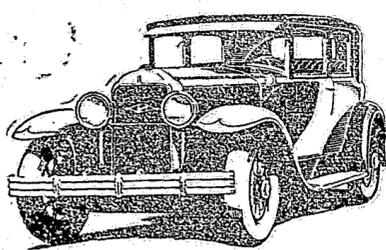

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1882 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

people are especially benefited by Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most obstinate cases. It is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.
Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.
We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

The old man lay with his head thrown back against the pillow.

"Yes, sir, John," Simon Judd continued cheerfully. "I been all my life tryin' one thing and another, but you can't discourage a good man; sooner or later he's goin' to find out what he's made for. There was one time I tried preachin' and it looked awfully like that was goin' to be it, but I ain't got the voice for it—when I go to get loose the voice gets squeaky on me. There was awhile I tried the butcher business, but sight of blood always did make me faintish, so I sort of gave that up, too. But I got the right thing now, John. Pretty near ever since I was a boy I've had a leasin' toward it."

"Being a policeman?" William asked.
"Crime tracin'," explained Simon Judd, turning toward the little man in black. "Huntin' out who done the crime. What you call detective work. I feel I got genius that way."

"And that's what brought you to New York, Simon?" Drane asked. "Are you on the track of a criminal?"
"Lands o' goodness, no!" laughed Simon Judd, slapping his huge thigh. "Why, I ain't started in yet, John! I don't get my badge until first of the year. No, sir! I come down here to have a look around and see how these New York detective fellows manage the business. And I must say they're right kindly to strangers; told me a lot of things; gave me a lot of pamphlets and one thing and another. It's goin' to help me a lot, John; I got the genius for it, all right, but I got to brush up on the technic more or less. I guess, though, maybe I'll get along all right."

Norbert, as if knowing what was desired, appeared on the veranda with cigars—long slender light cigars of admirable quality. Dart and Drane took cigars, but Judd hesitated.
"Mostly I smoke a pipe, John," he said, "and when I do go in for a cigar I kind of like 'em dark and strong. But, I don't know; I'll risk one. Now, if you fellows had any thing to talk over—"

"We can do that later," John Drane said. "Tell me about Riverbank; not many changes, I suppose?"
"Well, yes," Simon Judd said, puffing at his cigar. "Say, this ain't such a bad smoke, is it? Yes, quite a few changes, John. Main Street ain't changed much, but out around—you'd be surprised. Say, that niece of yours is a mighty nice girl, ain't she? You didn't say she was your niece, did you?"

"I said she was my grand-niece," said John Drane, and William Dart looked up at him suddenly. There was a question in his eyes—a question of fright. If he feared anything, however, there was no sign of anything to fear in Simon Judd's face. The fat man was finding unexpected pleasure in his cigar.

a diabetic and at times the pains caused by her condition were almost more than she could bear. Presently, as no one appeared in the breakfast room other than the maid Josie, Mrs. Vincent drew out her chair and seated herself, ready to arise at momentary notice. Her face was unusually pale, of the hue natural to those suffering from her disease, but she was dressed as always, neatly.
"Josie," she said presently and with considerable effort, "I think you had better have Norbert call Mr. Drane and the other men again. They can't have gotten up."

"Yes, ma'am," the maid said. "If they feel the way I do they never would get up."
"You're not so well this morning?"
"Oh, I feel just awful!" the girl exclaimed, almost in tears. "I don't hardly feel like I could drag thru the day. I'm that weak, Mrs. Vincent!"

"Your heart again?"
"Yes, like always—only last night it pained me worse than ever it did. It was something, terrible," Mrs. Vincent said.
"I don't know what's the matter with us—all sick like we are," the housekeeper said. "You better tell Norbert."

The girl went to find the negro houseman. She returned almost immediately.
"He's got one of them awful coughing spells again," she said. "I guess I'll have to go myself, and I don't feel hardly able."
She looked at Mrs. Vincent, but that poor woman was suffering.
"I guess you'll have to go, Josie," she managed to say. "I've got to save myself for breakfast; Mr. Drane don't like it for me to be away from breakfast," and the girl went.

On the veranda—for it was there the small family gathered before breakfast in nice weather—Amy Drane was sitting on the arm of a chair looking through the pages of the huge Sunday newspaper, and she had just opened wide a double page of brown illustrations when she heard a piercing scream from the floor above and the fall of a body to the floor. She threw aside the paper and, swinging open the screen door, ran up the wide stairs.

In the hall Simon Judd, trousersed but coatless and with his suspenders hanging, was coming down the passage from the yellow guest room as hastily as his huge bulk could move, and at the open door of John Drane's room the girl Josie lay outstretched on the floor unconscious. Amy Drane was about to bend down to raise her when her eyes glimpsed her uncle on his bed and she stood white and speechless, petrified with horror. The old man, her uncle, lay with his head thrown back against the pillow, his glassy eyes staring at her, and the front of his pajama coat was sodden with blood from a spot over the heart to the bed covers drawn close about him.
"She stay here with you all the

"What's the matter?" Simon Judd asked, and then he too, looking past Amy, saw the dead man. "He's been murdered!" he exclaimed, and Amy felt something huge lean against her back. "Black my cats!" Simon Judd said weakly; "I'm goin' to faint!" and he did, his vast bulk thrusting Amy into the room as he fell across the body of Josie, the maid. (Continued Next Week)

SEVEN CHANGES IN PONTIAC

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 9—Oakland Motor Car Company announces seven improvements, designed to make the new series Pontiac Six more powerful, faster and more flexible of operation.
Major changes include a new carburetor, new intake manifold, new air deflector, higher gear ratio, larger tires, smaller wheels, and smart new Duco colors on the sport landau sedan.

Outstanding among the new improvements is a one-inch carburetor of the approved type used on the Oakland All-American Six. Not only is it simpler of adjustment and more accurate than the old type, but increased speed, power, acceleration and fuel economy achieved by its use in conjunction with the new manifold and gear ratio. Connected with the carburetor is a new mushroom type air deflector.

The intake manifold has been changed to accommodate changes in the carburetor and the rear axle gear ratio stepped up to 4.3 to 1. Marked improvement in every phase of performance is instantly noticeable, behind the wheel, with a higher top speed and an ample reserve power at all driving ranges.

With the increase in gear ratio, the rate of piston travel is still considerably less than that of any other car in the low priced six cylinder field. Thus Pontiac retains an advantage it has held since its introduction: minimum wear of moving parts, which means longer life for the car.
Greater beauty and a big car appearance, in line with the current vogue, is achieved by the use of larger 29 by 5 inch balloon tires and smaller wheels with ten sturdy spokes, and a larger seven-and-a-quarter inch hub flange. The larger tires result in greater riding comfort and lessening of tire wear.

Simultaneous with these mechanical changes is the announcement that the smart sport landau sedan will take on new dress. The body will be of a dark Standish green Duco, with fenders of lighter Virginia green—a combination similar to that now used on the Oakland All-American cabriolet. Wheels are in natural wood finish.

Special sport equipment, consisting of a trunk rack and six wire wheels with tires, also is available for the first time on a low priced six. Spares are mounted in front fender wells on either side of the car, while non-corrosive chrome plated rims add a brilliant touch of color to the swanky model. New and distinctive bumpers also are available.

In view of the bettered performance and new beauty effected by these changes, it was felt in automotive circles here that the Pontiac Six would take on an added spurt in the record setting pace it has consistently maintained since its introduction.
