Now Here's the Proposition

IF WE PUBLISHED THE
NEWS AS WE GOT IT

By Haws

If our news, so to speak, may be slightly antique.
And our thoughts scarcely worthy of mention.
If our sheet, as you say, should be slightly passe.
And mostly a well meant intention I'm right here to tell, you'd have more room to yell.
If we set it down just as we caught it.
You would probably say, "How do they get that way?"
If we published the news like we got it.
Nooze-whoo-hoo-hoo? Gitouchoor-pensil. Missouellahigginbottomfell offabakporch onerhed andsprandernee. Yeh thass-whaisad anthassallino too — gitthehellout canchaseelme-bizzzy?

You would say it was rot and some more, like as not.
If we published the news like we got it.
Our brains, they are faint and our grammar it ain't.
And we don't know a dash from a colon.
Our manner is crude and our diction is rude.
As the blab of a campaigning solon.
Our facts, they are trite, and our logic is light.
And scarce worth the space we allot it.
But there's some guys, I'll bet, who would be howling yet.
If we published the news like we got it.

Whacahwan? Nooze! Whajoodu-thall rhusstuffyagolassweek? Oh well, Missionsvistsiderstater-insinipotozoo, yeh, thass-whaisad, Missjonson, yeh, issagelena, nowseefy'ngitt-tharvie.

We'll let that the town would be turned upside down.
If we published the news like we got it.

HEAD BROTHERS ELIMINATED IN FISTIC BOUTS

ENCOUNTERS ON FRONT ST.
END IN DONATIONS
TO COUNTY FUNDS

Any doubt as to the comparative pugilistic capabilities of U. S. (Muley) Bristol and the Head family was removed last week when the former disposed of the Head brothers, Carl and Will, in a series of elimination bouts held on Front street.

The first bout occurred in front of Sumner's Market and was of Bristol's seeking. Bristol had been harboring ill feeling since last April, when Carl Head is alleged to have slapped one of the Bristol children. Bristol nursed his wrath until it reached the explosion point when he met Head at the aforesaid place, and he assaulted him.

Head secured a warrant for his arrest and he appeared before Justice Al Charles, where he cheerfully paid his fine.

"It was worth it," he said, "I'd do it again for the same price."

Scarcely had Bristol been released after paying his fine when Will Head, dissatisfied with the stain of his brother's defeat, attacked the redemption of the family honor by assaulting Bristol in front of the Gross store.

Bristol repeated his victory, and then returned to Al Charles' office, where he secured a warrant for the arrest of his assailant. Will Head was then brought into court, where he admitted his guilt and was assessed with a fine.

Autos Damaged in Collision at Fourth And Chippewa Wed.

Two cars were badly damaged, but no injuries occurred in a motor accident which took place at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday when a Ford Sedan driven by Mrs. Harvey French came out of Chippewa on Fourth and collided with an Essex coach driven by Mrs. Clyde Burgoyne, who had her children with her.

WLS GIRLS IN MORNING
Clark Plant Gives Three Day
Holiday Friday
To Tuesday

The Dayton L. O. O. F. picnic, leading field day of southwestern Michigan, will feature the observance of Labor Day in this section, with a program of sports beginning with two horse shoe pitching tournaments in the morning and concluding with a dance which begins at 8 p. m.

Practically all workers of Buchanan will be released for the day, the Clark plant stretching the occasion to a three day holiday in order to allow its employees an opportunity to enjoy an outing while the summer recreation opportunities are available.

Work at the Clark plant will practically close from Friday evening until Tuesday morning, only a few workers remaining in each department.

Nearly all the stores have announced their intention of closing for the afternoon of Labor Day, and a few will close for the entire day.

The main entertainment feature of the day at Dayton will be the singing of The Harmony Girls, who start their program at 10:30 a. m. The Clark band will play during the day.

The program will be as follows:
Forenoon
Music by Harmony Girls of WLS.

Two horse shoe pitching contests with a total of 11 handsome prizes.

Big picnic dinner
Afternoon
Baby show beginning at 1 a. m.

OPENING OF NEW TROY SCHOOL IS DELAYED 2 WEEKS

TERM POSTPONED UNTIL THE COMPLETION OF NEW STRUCTURE

The opening of the fall term for the New Troy school will be delayed approximately two weeks in order that school may start in the new $75,000.00 building which is nearing completion. Every phase of construction is being rushed so very little delay will be necessary. A full force of carpenters is at work on the upper floors and will have them ready for moving furniture in by the last of the week.

Registration of high school students will be Tuesday, Sept. 5, at the old school building which is still standing. Some of the students have already registered so it will not be necessary for them to register again.

The school busses will run again this year as usual. More definite information as to the route of the busses and the opening of school will be in next week's paper.

You can tell an unfashionable resort. The guests don't make fun of one another.

3 OAKS FAIR IS SCHEDULED TO OPEN WED.

Agricultural Exhibit To Be Held September 5-8
Inclusive

HOME COMING FRIDAY

Horse Races and Baseball
Games To Feature
Entertainment

Interest in the Twelfth Annual Three Oaks Fair is increasing daily as the time for holding this big South Michigan Agriculture Fair nears. The dates this year are September 5, 6, 7, and 8. This event takes place next week.

Wednesday is the opening day and all entries must be in by noon. Judging takes place in the various departments Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning. This gives everyone an opportunity to see the judging and also to study the merits of the prize winning exhibits.

Entertainment features for Thursday in the afternoon are: 2:30 trot and the 2:17 pace. New free acts will also take place on the grandstand platform both afternoon and evening.

Then Friday is the Home Coming Day. The races are a free for all trot, a 2:24 pace and a free for all pace. Horses for all races are now on the grounds and many others have already entered.

The free acts also take place on this day, while in the evening a grand display of fireworks will illuminate the sky and the fair grounds.

On Saturday a general reviewing of all prize winning exhibits (Turn to Page 2, Third Col.)

84 YR. WOMAN ON HORSE HEADS BERRIEN PARADE

TOWN THRONED FRIDAY
TO VIEW EQUIPAGES
OF THE PAST

The spectacle of an 84 year old woman clad in a dress 100 years old and a black quilted bonnet 160 years old was one of the many quaint sights to be seen at the Berrien Springs Centennial celebration and Home Coming, held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Interest and attendance reached the high point Saturday when the parade of old time vehicles was held, headed by Mrs. Ann Dougan, the woman referred to above. She was followed by the fire and drum corps, dressed in costume and looking like battle-scarred heroes. A number of the boys and girls of the Pet Parade of Thursday were in the line of March, followed by the "Mark of Time Parade." First came the "Covered Wagon" of '49, drawn by one horse, driven by Glen and Edith Arnold, dressed as early pioneers. They are the small son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Arnold of Berrien township.

A formidable looking shot-gun hung within convenient reach of the driver, and on the rear of the wagon was fastened a pen of chickens. The family dog followed.

"Washington" Rides.
Then came an old-fashioned high wheeled coach, and two horses driven by Burton Burgoyne, dressed in full driver's costume.

In the coach were George and Martha Washington in colonial costume—Leon Burgoyne and Mary Louise Graham.

Lee Murphy, veteran blacksmith of Berrien Springs surprised his friends by wearing a high silk hat, carrying a small gaudy parasol and was seated in an open cart driving the "old gray mare."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McDuffie, 82 and 68 years old, were a typical couple of the old school and were riding in an Overland sedan seven-teen years old.

All of the old-fashioned vehicles brought hearty cheers from the big crowd.

In the evening, the Old Fiddlers contest drew a big and appreciative crowd. G. L. Parce won first (Turn to Page 2, Third Col.)

List of Jurors Drawn for Sept. Circuit Court

The list of jurors for service in the September term of the Berrien county circuit court which opens here Monday, September 10, have been drawn by County Clerk Ira Wagner, Undersheriff Charles E. Johnson and Justice of the Peace John W. Fletcher.

PROGRAM IS VARIED
Alumni From Three States
Gather To Renew
Old Ties

Graduates of Buchanan high school and their friends to the number of 100 gathered for the annual alumni banquet at the American Legion Hall Saturday evening, and for the annual business meeting and election of officers ensuing.

Selections for alumni heads for the following year were as follows: president, Francis Hiller, 20; vice president, Margaret Whitman, 22; secretary, Elizabeth Longfellow, 27; treasurer, Herbert Roe, Jr., 21.

The guests first participated in a fine banquet by the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Ada Schwartz.

The after dinner program was then opened, with Harold Hanlin, 25, as toastmaster. Mrs. Lee Mathie, 24, gave the address of welcome to the incoming class of seniors, and the response was made by Robert French, 28, president. Ada Allman then played a piano selection, entitled "Juba, an African Dance Melody," arranged by Percy Grainger.

Blanch McIntosh then responded to the toast, "Reminiscences" with some (Turn to Page 2, First Col.)

Services Resumed Next Sunday At First Pres. Church

Services will be resumed at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday, according to a letter received by the Record from Rev. Harry Staver, both morning and evening services being held at the regular hour on that date.

Rev. Staver and family are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. Greenberg of Byron, Ill., this week, but will be home Friday evening.

Germany borrowed nearly 3,000,000 marks from the United States last year.

SEWER BONDS ARE SOLD AT GOOD PRICE

Council Sells Issue To Detroit Firm For
$106.00 Prem.

FOUR OTHER BIDDERS

The forty thousand dollar issue of Buchanan village bonds to finance the Third and Portage street storm and sanitary sewers and the Portage street paving were sold Friday evening by the council to the Griswold First State Co., of Detroit, the successful bidder, who offered $106.00 premium and 5 1/4 percent interest.

This offer was considered excellent, in view of the present condition of the bond market, and the council members expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the sale.

Other bids were as follows:
Bank of Detroit, $184 premium, 5 1/4 percent interest. Stranahan, Harris & Oatis, Toledo, Ohio, $112 premium, 5 1/2 percent. First National Bank of Detroit, $83 premium, 5 1/4 percent. Detroit & Security Trust Co., of Detroit, $37 premium, 5 1/4 percent.

EVANGELICALS END RIVERSIDE MEETINGS SUN.

CROWDS, TAX TABERNACLE
TO HEAR DR. NEWLIN
ON LAST NIGHT

The camp meeting held last week by the Kalamazoo conference of the Evangelical Church at Riverside Camp ground closed Sunday with a series of afternoon and evening meetings which taxed the tabernacle to its full capacity of 1,200 and which brought visitors from all parts of southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana.

The closing meeting was addressed by Dr. O. N. Newlin, famed Presbyterian evangelist of Winona Lake, Ind., whose series of evangelistic talks during the meetings bore fruit in a number of conversions among the young people. Dr. Newlin's talks were the feature of the camp meeting.

On Sunday morning, 500 young and old gathered at the tabernacle for a Sunday school session. The collection at this time, consisting of $43, was given to the Battle Creek Mission.

The first event of the afternoon was a meeting for children which was by Mrs. M. Everett of Royalton. Rev. C. A. Glass, blind evangelist of Lansing, then gave a short musical program, in the course of which he played, "Listen to the Mocking Bird" on the violin for the children of the audience. The Priors, a colored family from Benton Harbor, also contributed several selections.

Rev. W. H. Watson of Kalamazoo, the presiding elder, then delivered the afternoon sermon to a large crowd.

At the end of the meetings, the executive board of the conference declared the series to have been one of the best ever held on the grounds.

Considerable comment was drawn from newcomers by the fine situation and scenic beauty of the camp grounds, and the excellence of the accommodations. The dining room at the hotel is able to care for 250 people per meal, and the tabernacle will hold 1,200. Lots are available to those who wish to build, for $1.00 each.

Village Tax Is Two Thirds Paid Runner Reports

A total of $33,000 out of the $45,000 taxes for the village of Buchanan have been paid, according to Clarence Runner, village treasurer, who is taking tax payments whenever presented at the hardware store.

The time for payment of taxes will close at 6 p. m. September 10, after which a penalty of 4 per cent will be applied.

Mead Announces A Test For Ball Game Attendance

The future of baseball in Buchanan goes on trial next Sunday, according to an announcement made by Fred Mead, Blue mgr., who states that a final attempt will be made to solve the attendance problem by admitting ladies free and extending the same courtesy to children under twelve years. This arrangement will be continued through September.

The attendance during the present season has not justified the continuance of the sport here on the same basis for another year, according to Mead, who has been paying part of the expense money out of his own bank account.

Mead is accordingly announcing one of the best contests of the season, a game between the Blues and the Niles New York Central League team and making this offer to test the truth of the claim that men working for wages and salaries are kept away by the expense involved in taking their wives and children. This objection will be removed Sunday, and if there is not a satisfactory crowd it will be taken as proof that baseball has lost its drawing power and can no longer be financed here by gate receipts.

The New York Central League teams play a high class brand of baseball, and the contest should be of unusual interest.

The lineup of the two teams will be as follows:

Niles	Buchanan
Smith	Belt
Wainwright	Kotal
Swanson	Nash
Cocoran	Hamilton
Fries	Miller
Schweinsinger	ss
Lee	cf
Benning	lf

ALICE C. NUTT LAID AT REST HERE MONDAY

Came to New Buffalo
With Parents 73
Years Ago

AT BUCHANAN 34 YEARS

Alice Clark Nutt, 74, died at her home at 111 West Fourth street at 5 p. m. Friday, Aug. 24, 1928, after an illness of six years during five weeks of which she had been confined to her bed.

She was born January 27, 1854, in Whitney county, New York, coming to New Buffalo, Mich., with her parents and grandparents when she was a year old.

Her grandfather, Abram Clark, was the first postmaster at Lakeside. Her father, Daniel B. Clark, a well known circuit riding minister in the early days of Michigan, and the family accompanied him over a number of circuits in Michigan, including Hastings, Three Rivers and River Junction.

She was married to Albert Nutt at Comstock, Kalamazoo, Mich., Jan. 27, 1876. Immediately after their marriage they came to Buchanan where they lived four years, and then went to Barry County, where they lived 18 years. They then returned to Buchanan, where they lived until her death.

She is survived by her husband, Albert Nutt and by an adopted son, William N. Nutt of Cloverdale, Michigan.

The funeral was held at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Rev. Camfield presiding, and burial was made in the Oak Ridge cemetery.

Berrien Teachers Meet Saturday At St. Joseph

Berrien county teachers will hold their first meeting in Community Hall at the First Methodist Church at St. Joseph, Saturday, will open at 10 a. m. and the afternoon sessions at 1:15 p. m.

Program numbers will be talked by Dr. Hockje of Kalamazoo Normal, Mrs. Stuck of the Red Cross, a representative of the Silver-Burdett text book company, and others.

J. TOYNE IS CLEARED OF INACCURACY

Alleged Variations In The Survey Readings Are Explained Away

ASKED BEFORE COUNCIL

City engineer John W. Toyne was cleared of responsibility for alleged differences between readings on blue prints and survey stakes for the sewer projects under construction, when he appeared before the special council meeting Friday evening and showed that the trouble originated in mistakes made by contractor Frank Read in reading the figures in question.

The council invited both Read and Toyne to the meeting, without informing either the contractor or the engineer of the other's presence. When the two men confronted each other, Toyne was able to show to Read's satisfaction that the alleged 3 feet difference in the sanitary sewer outlet, arose from the fact that Read had looked at the wrong figures on the blue print.

The only actual difference between the blue print and the stakes was at the junction at the corner of Third and Portage, where a variation of four inches is doubtless due to fills made in the street since the blue print was made.

In one place it was found that Read had failed to dig to the level designated by both stakes and blue print. Inasmuch as no damages are likely to ensue from the shallower depth, no objection was entered.

W. C. T. U. To Hold Special Meeting Friday Afternoon

The W. C. T. U. will hold a special business meeting at 2 p. m., Friday, August 31, at the Evangelical Church, at which time delegates will be elected to the state convention to be held at Detroit, Sept. 18-20. All members are urged to be present.

METHODISTS PLAN TO HOLD ANNUAL FLORAL DISPLAY

FINEST GLADIOLI AND OTHER
BLOOMS GROWN HERE TO BE SHOWN

Lovers of the well bred gladioli and the selected aster will find something to delight them at the Methodist Church Sunday evening, according to Rev. Liddicoat, who is working this week on preparations for a floral exhibit which will excel the fine show held there last year.

Rev. Liddicoat is a gladioli connoisseur of taste and experience himself, and promises the finest selection of that flower that can be secured from the "glad" gardens of Buchanan, which includes some of the leading growers of this section of Michigan.

The display is to be arranged by Mrs. Pennell, who will be in the church during the entire afternoon to receive flowers. All who have blooms to contribute are urged to bring them at that time. Already enough have been promised to assure a fine display.

Rev. Liddicoat will preach a special sermon for the occasion on the theme, "The Message of the Flowers." The service will be preceded by an organ recital beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Grays to Play New Troy Nine There Sunday

The Buchanan Grays will play the New Troy nine at New Troy next Sunday afternoon, the game to be called at 2:30 p. m.

The line-up for the Grays, as announced by Manager Bill Baker, will be as follows: pitcher, Simpson; catcher, Allen; first base, Proud; second base, Peck; third base, Chain; short stop, Pfingst; left field, Roff; center field, Conrad; right field, Marrs, Ferguson.

will be held and a ball game between old timers and present age players takes place in the afternoon.

The fair grounds and buildings are in fine shape. Entries for all departments are being received daily. The live stock buildings have been increased in size, and predictions are that they will be overcrowded with blooded stock. The ladies building this year will be especially decorated. Exhibits in this department will also be many. Merchants have secured all available space in the Art building for the showing of various wares. The 1928 Three Oaks Fair promises to be a banner county meet.

The fire department made a run to the home of Ralph Skinner at the corner of Portage and Dewey Avenue Tuesday night, but not fast enough to save the baseball togs of Leon Cottrell, whose sporting wardrobe comprised the sole loss in the conflagration. Mrs. Skinner had filled the stove with paper and set fire to it. Cottrell had hung his ball suit over the stove pipe, which ran up through the floor of his room.

Local News

Charles Sebasty, a farmer living near Dayton, escaped without injury to himself or team but with a wrecked hay rack when an automobile smashed into the front corner of it while he was driving on the highway this week.

Mrs. H. E. Squires submitted to an operation for appendicitis at the Clark Hospital Sunday.

John Upson, an employee of the Clark Equipment Co., submitted to the amputation of an injured finger at the hospital today.

Alfred Hall is improved after a severe illness.

Mrs. May Roe of Berkeley, Calif., sails September 6 from Vancouver for Tokyo, Japan, where she will visit her daughter, Miss Mildred, who is engaged in Y. W. C. A. work there. Mrs. Roe is a sister of Fred and Charles Tichenor of the Bend of the River, and formerly lived at Buchanan.

At the movies

Due to the numerous requests received from patrons, the Princess is inaugurating a new Sunday policy with matinees starting at 2:30 p. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon. Evening shows will start at the regular time of 7 and 8:45 p. m.

Special programs appropriate for Sunday showing will be secured and every effort made to make Sunday shows one of the worth while attractions of the week.

The first picture to play a Sunday matinee will be "Hot Heels", starring Glenn Tryon and Patsy Ruth Miller. Tryon who will be remembered as the peanut kid in "Painting the Town", again registers a very clever performance, that is destined to increase his popularity to a great extent. Patsy Ruth Miller needs no introduction to the movie fans. Her name alone means assurance of a worth while attraction. Special comedies and the latest in news will be featured on Sunday. Next Sunday you will have the opportunity of seeing on the screen views of the New York Subway disaster. Com. Byrd setting sail for the Antarctic. Helen Willis winning the tennis title for the fifth time and other interesting events of the day.

Another picture of exceptional interest is "The Patriot" starring Emil Jennings, coming Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 4 and 5. For dramatic acting Jennings has no equal, while the supporting cast carries such names as Florence Vidor, Lewis Stone and Neil Hamilton. Ernest Lubitsch directed the picture and is one of the most capable directors in the industry.

Henry Weiss and Family in Motor
Accident Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weiss and two daughters were involved in an automobile accident near Warsaw, Ind. Monday morning when their car collided with another machine at a highway intersection.

Mrs. Weiss and the two girls were cut and scratched by the broken glass, but not seriously injured. Mr. Weiss was unhurt. Their car, a Studebaker sedan, was wrecked beyond repair, according to reports.

They had been visiting at the home of a brother of Mr. Weiss in the country ten miles from Warsaw, and were enroute to the home of another brother in the town.

MAN WALKING FIREWORKS

Wearing an asbestos suit, a young man in London is giving exhibitions while a fireworks display that he wears is being set off. Although the asbestos entirely covers him, the task of walking about with several pounds of exploding pieces attached to his person has its risks of burns.

A campaign for the construction of an automobile highway between Venice and Trieste, Italy, is under way.

The Tools of Success

With such tools as a keen mind, health and energy, you can carve out temporary success. But to achieve lasting success, one other tool is required—the most helpful tool of all. It is systematic saving. For in the final analysis, true success is not measured by how much a man has earned but by how much he has saved. And don't you think it would be a good plan to open your Savings Account today?

MRS. ALICE E. NUTT

As the golden rays of the setting sun cast a holy benediction over the earth, the spirit of Mrs. Alice Nutt quietly slipped from its frail moorings into the Land of Endless Day.

Claiming the promise of three-score years and ten, Alice Eliza Clark, first born in the house of Daniel B. and Sarah Clark of Jefferson County, New York, first saw the light of day, January 27, 1854 and life's shadows depended on the afternoon of August 24, 1928.

When a year old, she came with her parents and grand-father to New Buffalo, later locating at Lakeside. Upon arriving in Michigan, the father entered the ministry of the Methodist Protestant Church, in which service he was successfully engaged for nearly forty-five years. It was the daughter's privilege to see much of the state on account of the many charges served by the early itinerant preacher.

After teaching school for a short time, Miss Clark was wedded on her twenty-second birthday to Albert Nutt at Comstock, Michigan. After their marriage they lived near Buchanan for about four years. The next eighteen years were spent in Barry County, Michigan. Thirty-three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Nutt returned to Buchanan, where, in 1926, the venerable couple celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Always deeply devoted to the church, it was a real cross to Mother Nutt that failing health deprived her of the privilege of church attendance. At the time of her translation she was affiliated with the Buchanan Evangelical Church.

As the last member of the Clark family she has gone to join her parents, a little sister and her own infant son. The blessed hope of a glad reunion is the heritage of the husband, Albert Nutt, an adopted son and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. William N. Nutt of Cloverdale, Mich., three grand-children, Howard of Kalamazoo; Margaret and Lois of Cloverdale and other relatives.

She was spared the "parting of tears," She was spared the mortal strife; It was scarcely dying—she only passed In a moment to endless life.

So low was her Master's call That it did not reach our ears; But she heard the sound and her quick response Was full of joy — no fears.

Weep not for her soft release From earthly pain and care, Nor grieve that she reached her home and rest, 'Ere she knew that she was there.

Weep not, for her toils are o'er; And thy race may soon be run; So with sandaled feet and staff in hand Let thy work for thy Lord be done.

Hints for the Home by Nancy Hart

Modernistic furniture has achieved a great vogue, and often comes unpainted so purchasers may decorate it according to fancy.

Many who enjoy doing this work however, find that, when applying a second color, the paint brush in untrained hands leaves wavy, crooked lines instead of straight ones.

If this be your experience, remember that adhesive tape may be used as a straight edge stencil to give clean, straight lines and edges. Ordinary zinc oxide tape, commonly referred to as ZO (zinc oxide) adhesive tape, may be applied directly to the surface to be painted and arranged in the desired design. If edges of tape are in close contact with the surface, no paint will flow under, and a first rate painting job can be done by a novice.

Old-Fashioned Applesauce Cake
Cream together a 1/2 cup butter and 1 1/2 cups sugar (beet or cane); add one egg, beaten. Dissolve a fourth teaspoon baking soda in a cup thick apple sauce and add. Sift a teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder and a teaspoon ground spices with 1 1/2 cups flour and add gradually to first mixture. If batter is thin, add more flour to make a fairly stiff batter. Bake one hour in moderate oven.

Removing Tea Stains from China
Salt rubbed on tea cups will remove tea stains, and also almost any other stain or discoloration on china or crockery.

Steaming Last Year's Velvet
Place a wet cloth over a hot upturned flat-iron, lay the velvet on it, lift the nap with another piece of velvet, working gently and quickly, and you will find last year's velvet will look almost like new.

ASK MY FRIENDS

A little inquiry will find some of my friends in every part of the county, ask them what they think of me. That is all I ask you to do. Then go to the polls and use your own best judgment. And remember I am not trying to influence your vote by hiring cars to take you to vote or men to hand out cards at the polls. A campaign of that sort would be too expensive for a man, in the laboring class, with a family to support, like myself.

BIG MEN FROM SMALL TOWNS

John J. Raskob

One of the biggest, most successful business leaders of the country hails from a small town in New York state. His name is John J. Raskob, and the town is Lockport. His enterprises are varied, his fame world-wide. Now he is very much in the limelight as the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

He was born in 1879 and educated in public schools and a business college. In 1900 he was stenographer to the chief engineer of a subsidiary of the Worthington Pump Company, at a salary of $750 a week, which helped his widowed mother and family. He asked for a raise, didn't get it, and then moved to Lorain, Ohio, to become the secretary of a man named P. S. du Pont. He asked for the magnificent salary of $1,000 a year—and got it!

When Pierre du Pont and his two cousins acquired the great E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Raskob came with du Pont to Wilmington, Delaware, as his secretary. When du Pont became president of the gigantic concern, Raskob was elevated to the post of treasurer. Still later the former stenographer was elected vice-president in charge of finance.

He began buying stock in General Motors and convinced du Pont to do the same, and soon du Pont and he were surprised to learn that through a peculiar combination of circumstances they held the balance of power in General Motors. The two big stockholders' holdings were so evenly balanced that Raskob and du Pont could tip the scale.

Raskob and du Pont became directors of General Motors. In a later reorganization Raskob became vice-president, and he has been chairman of the Finance Committee since 1918. The story of Raskob's rise is one of the most sensational success stories in the history of America. Today he is financial head of a billion dollar corporation, and a bigger financier than all but a handful of the country bankers.

He married in 1906, and the crowning glories of his life are his children. There are twelve of them.

His optimism, his enthusiasm, and his ability to work hard are the true secrets of his astounding success. He is a great organizer and administrator. His career, like the careers of so many of our national leaders, graphically illustrates the vast opportunities America offers to the small town boy.

Concrete Teepee—A Memorial To Famous Indian Couple

AN odd and artistically appropriate monument has been erected at Mont Rose, Colo., in memory of the famous Ute Indian chief, Ouray, and his wife, Chipeta. The memorial is in the form of a steel reinforced concrete teepee and was placed over the spring from which Chipeta carried water to the Indian camp. (Photo is a close-up of it.)

Sunday School Lesson

International Sunday School Lesson for September 2
PAUL IN THESSALONICA
Acts 17:1-12

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D., Associate General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association

Constitution filled the minds of the magistrates in Philippi the morning after the jail delivery, when Paul and Silas were released by a miracle at the midnight hour. These rulers sent sergeants to instruct the jailer to release these prisoners. Then Paul stood on the dignity that was rightly his. He insisted that these chief men come in person and acquit him for they had already done great violence to their own law by beating a Roman citizen who, as yet, had not had a trial. Then the magistrates came with great fear and humbly asked Paul's pardon as they invited him to carry on his mission of preaching the Gospel elsewhere.

In rather easy stages, of about thirty miles each, Paul went to Amphipolis, Apollonia and Thessalonica, the modern Salonica where numerous events took place during the recent World War. There the custom was followed of beginning work in the Jewish synagogue, and he addressed audiences on three successive Sabbaths declaring the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ "whom I proclaim unto you." Many devout Greeks and not a few chief women believed. Then the Jews were aroused with jealousy lest their hold on their own community be lessened. They gathered "certain vile fellows of the rabble" and soon had plenty of trouble started by those who loved to have part in a fight. These fellows rushed to the house of Jason where Paul had lodged, intending to drag him out for very rough handling. Paul, however, was not there at the time so they laid hold on Jason to make him the object of their rage. A most high compliment was paid to the evangelists when the matter was presented to the rulers. It was declared: "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also" and Jason was their host. The best that they could do was to bind Jason over to keep the peace, and court was closed.

Paul was no sooner well started in successful work than he had to move on. The brethren now advised Paul and Silas to leave even that night for Berea, about forty-seven miles further on. The story is somewhat different in this new preaching station. The Bereans had a mind to learn if there was more of truth than they possessed. So they first listened to Paul and then turned to their Scriptures, and examined the various prophecies concerning the coming of the Messiah that Paul indicated. After the most exact research they found that in Jesus Christ every reference was perfectly fulfilled. "Many of them therefore believed; also of the Greek women of honorable estate, and of men, not a few." This word Berea has come to mean those who are careful Bible students and is familiar, especially in the literature of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

It was not long before those who had stirred up trouble for Paul in Thessalonica came to Berea and started another round of strife, just by way of jealousy. Crowds were soon on the side of the misery lovers, and it again seemed wise for Paul to go forward. He left both Silas and Timothy there and sailed for Athens, in Greece. The Golden Text for this lesson, which should always be committed to memory, is "The opening of thy words giveth light." Psalm 119:130.

EMPLOYMENT REACHES A NEW LEVEL

Since 1924, there have been varying appraisals in Michigan of its standing as a market for human labor. There was a pronounced falling off in demand in that year, the policy of the employers turning out in favor of part time employment of the many rather than the dismissal of a large percentage, and the maintenance of the balance on full time. Then came along in 1926 the reorganization of the largest source of employment in the state, that of the Ford company, the preparation for a revolution in the manufacture of its product necessitating the shutting down of many departments to a large extent, and the reduction of the force employed was something like one-third of its maximum number.

The same situation obtained to a greater or lesser degree with the industries that go with motor car production, with a result that for a considerable period, Michigan industries, while employing a lot of people, did not have the name of being highly productive from the standpoint of individual incomes.

The pendulum has been swinging backward now for quite a number of months, at least. Last fall, the prospective offering of new models of motor cars, and the nature of the Ford industry to large production began re-employ men, and the situation has become one which is economically satisfactory and more comfortable to the individual.

As is unusual with such movements, they go farther than they are expected to go, and almost without notice, we find that Michigan employment has reached a new peak. For instance, the associated industries, which report to the Detroit Employers' Association, show for the week of August 7, 278,000 employed, which was a gain of 15,000 over the previous month, and 70,000 over the corresponding week of 1927. This figure of employment does not include the aggregate of the Ford industry and that of lesser employers who do not report to the association, but are considered to be a total in employment of fifty per cent additional to the number reported. Figured on this basis, the employment in Detroit for the week ending August 7, would indicate that practically 420,000 employees, men and women, are working in establishments of industrial production.

In addition to this, an industrial city such as Detroit supports approximately twenty-five per cent of other industrial employees; in its stores, offices, and those classes of business which are generally described as servicing the industries, so that approximately 525,000 people may be considered as being employed at this time in the metropolis of the state.

Nor has the increase in employment been confined to the leading city. We are advised that Flint is running at top notch, with the prospect of adding some thousands at the end of the year. Pontiac is working full time, and contracts are out for facilities requiring additional more people. Lansing has returned to full time employment, and, joining with Jackson and Detroit, makes a trio which at this moment has more remunerated employees than they have ever had in their history.

These figures indicate that the employment demands in these cities have not only caught up with the early requirements, but that they are now building up to new levels. It is important for the jobbing, the supply, and the real estate interests to pay attention to this fact, as they will be called on to provide for this increase in work. Cities grow and times get better when people are not looking. —Mich. Mfg. & Ind. Record.

Majority of Mankind Too Easily Excited

There are clubs and societies for every conceivable purpose under the sun, yet one of the most obvious needs of Americans today is a club for the purpose of being a "don't-get-excited club" whose object shall be to keep people from coming to the boiling point when it isn't necessary.

The trouble with most of us is, we get too excited over little things and not excited enough over the big ones.

Agitation, loss of temper and surrender of self-control over the trivial annoyances of life are a sheer waste of time and energy. It is most human affair, more can be accomplished through poise and placidity than through effervescence and seismic phenomena.

If a don't-get-excited club could be so organized as to conserve all the human voltage that now goes to waste through needless excitement, it would mean that mankind had reached the suburbs of a new era. —Harry Daniel in Thrift Magazine.

Police Woman in Society

The police force in a New York suburb includes a woman whose modest home is filled with prizes. She is playing bridge almost every day. All she has to do, ordinarily, is to report by telephone every few hours. That's irksome and interrupts the game, but she does it.

"This is Louise," she says to the officer at the desk on duty. "I'm down at Mrs. Cadwallader Smith's. Nothing doing, I hope."

"All right, honey," answers the fatherly voice from the other end. "On with your play. Hope you win the mother-of-pearl blackjack."

THANKS FOR BLESSINGS

BIG BRAINS BETTER

CARNEGIE'S FIRST $400

A $500,000,000 BABY

Mount Roketinda, on the Island of Peloweh, Dutch East Indies, blew up in a volcanic eruption. Half the island, six villages were destroyed, a thousand killed.

Yesterday news came that three more villages were wiped out by a tidal wave caused by a submarine earthquake.

We pay little attention to these deaths far away, a thousand or fifty thousand, little difference. But we ought to observe with gratitude how many things might happen to us that do not happen.

Raditch, Croatian statesman, murdered leader of peasants, is found to have a brain of abnormal weight, 1,450 grammes.

The average for eleven thousand human brains was 1,361 grammes. All things being equal, a heavier brain is better than a lighter brain.

But one of the heaviest brains ever weighed, that of Currier, the great naturalist, was lighter than that of a man who died in a British poorhouse.

Possibly the man in the poorhouse was also a genius, but never had a chance.

"Andrew Carnegie made his first $400 without spending a cent." That's how big fortunes often start.

Carnegie bought $400 of insurance stock, gave his note in payment, paid for the stock with its dividends, owned it for nothing.

Joseph P. Day, learned land scientist, says the three greatest letters in the alphabet are "O. P. M." meaning "Other People's Money."

A quicker way to make money without capital is to have a good "beat" and "beat" it. A way to plate metallic surfaces with aluminum.

something hitherto found impossible, is discovered and involves actually billions of dollars to be saved.

The invention will be applied to endless uses, from kitchenware to locomotives, and is expected to give automobiles a finish defying time and weather.

There are as good ideas in the human brain as ever came out of it. Try and find one.

Sears, Roebuck and stockholders yesterday voted to increase capital stock by $500,000 shares. At market prices that company is worth more than $500,000,000. Julius Rosenwald hardly expected that when he took hold of the company a few years ago.

Compared with other companies, General Motors, Standard Oil, U. S. Steel, etc., Sears, Roebuck is only a baby. We have the four billion dollar stock company. When will the 100 billion company arrive?

The death of Chang Tso-Lin, dynamited in his railway carriage, is attributed by a British writer, Lenox Simpson, to the Japanese "Black Dragon Society," which interests itself in patriotic Japanese affairs, and is said to have had a hand in the death of the Queen of Korea in 1895. In spite of the romantic name and the patriotism, the Japanese will probably dig out the facts.

They don't like any organization exercising powers outside of government, or controlling government, such as are tolerated, some times, in other countries.

Corn Prospects

Here Best In 5 Year Period

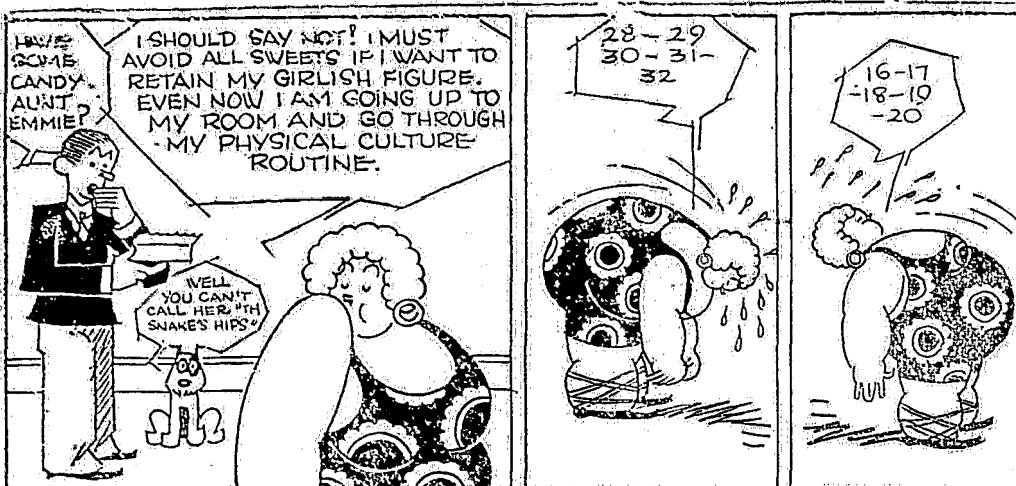

September 1 prospects for corn are the best they have been for five years, according to local farmers, who state that the hot days and nights and plentiful rain of August has enabled the crop to make up all the ground lost through adverse weather conditions early in the summer. The corn is now in the dough stage, already past danger from anything but a killing frost, and will be for the most part entirely out of danger with three weeks of favorable weather.

Galien Growers Store Mint for Higher Market

Present Price of $3 Held To Be 50 Per Cent Production Cost

YIELD ONLY 1-3 NORMAL

Stills Operate Day and Night To Complete Crop Harvest

Mint growers of the Galien section are resisting the overtures of buyers in the anticipation that the market, now hovering about the $3 per pound mark, will eventually strengthen to the $5 or $6 a pound which they believe to be requisite to placing the crop on a paying basis this year.

While the oil is remaining in the hands of the growers, the stills are being operated day and night in an effort to save the scanty harvest. While many of the growers have finished distillation, a number of them are just beginning, and the harvest in the fields of individual growers is in all stages of progress.

Distillation to date shows about a third of the average content of peppermint oil. One grower who secured 185 pounds of oil from 5 1/2 acres last year got 65 pounds from the same field this year. Will Mell of South Bend, who has 90 acres of mint on his farm near Galien, reported 47 pounds from the first 23 acres distilled, an average of two pounds per acre, as compared with a normal crop of from 25 to 30 pounds per acre. The best yield reported in the Galien section this year was 24 pounds.

Heavy rains two weeks ago are blamed for reduction of yields on much lands, the rain beating the plants to the ground and the steam rising from the muck on the following morning cooking the leaves. The leaves, which contain practically all of the oil, turned black and withered, leaving only a tuft at the top of the stalk.

3 Oaks Farmer In Car Wreck At Galien Sun.

Joseph Wojciechowski, farmer living south of Three Oaks, was involved in an auto accident in which his Chevrolet Sedan was partially wrecked, when he collided with a Dodge Sedan from New Carlisle at a road intersection two miles east of Hudson Lake. Wojciechowski was driving west on his way home. He stated that the Dodge sedan came from the south crashing into the left side of his car. The front bumper of the Wojciechowski car was mashed in, and the front fenders damaged. His car was taken to the Lintner garage at Galien for repairs.

L. D. S. Church To Hold 2 Day Meet at Galien

The L. D. S. Church will hold a two day religious service Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 1 and 2, at which ministers and lay delegates from southern Michigan and northern Indiana churches are expected.

The services will open at 9 a. m. Saturday, with George E. Harrington of Battle Creek in charge; Miss Louise Evans, field worker from Grand Rapids, is also to take part. The services will be of an evangelistic nature.

Galien Schools Begin Another Year Tuesday

Regular sessions will begin at the Galien schools Tuesday, Sept. 4, at 9 a. m. under the direction of Supt. C. F. Dorr, who announces the following faculty: principal, Miss Beatrice Phillips, Niles; assistant principal, Miss Mabel Marie George, Carson City; seventh and eighth grades, Miss Georgia Harper, Galien; fifth and sixth, Harold Laycock, Ithaca; third and fourth, Miss Agnes Phillips, Buchanan; first and second, Mrs. Charles Hohmann, Galien.

PEACH ORCHARD ON SWARTZ FARM HEAVILY LADEN

TREES OF GALIEN GROWER PRODUCE BANNER CROP THIS SEASON

The peach failure reported through this section of Michigan has not affected the fine 10 acre orchard of Charles E. Swartz, located just east of Galien on M-60, where a fine crop of Hale, Elberta, Rochester and Mathews peaches are approaching the harvest and will be ready to pick in about two weeks.

Mr. Swartz planted 1,000 trees five years ago, and 750 of the number are heavily laden with fruit this year, about 25 having broken down under the weight. The fruit is of extra fine quality and free from blemish. They were sprayed five times this year, and have escaped blights and insect pests.

Methodists Hold Farewell Party For Rev. B. Ede

Firman Edwards To Take Charge Until Successor Is Appointed

A farewell reception was held last night for Rev. Bert Ede, pastor of the Methodist Church for the past two years, who is leaving next week.

Rev. Ede has preached at Galien, Dayton and New Troy for two years, while attending the Garrett Biblical Institute, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. In June he graduated from that school, and will now join the Detroit conference, from which he had a leave of absence.

The young minister has made an excellent record while here, preaching each Sunday at New Troy at 11:00 a. m., at Dayton at 3 p. m., and at Galien at 7 p. m., while completing three years work in two at Garrett Institute. During that time he has regularly led Sunday School classes at Galien and Dayton, and the Epworth League at Galien.

He will preach his farewell sermon at his three charges Sunday, after which Firman Edwards, Galien minister, will take charge of the local church until a successor to Ede is appointed at the Ionia conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burger of Niles were the Tuesday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Best.

Friends and relatives to the number of twenty-five surprised Mrs. Thomas Britton by walking in unannounced to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary Tuesday evening, Aug. 28. The evening was spent in playing buncos, and other games, after which a pot-luck supper was served.

Miss Bernice Green returned home Tuesday from Grand Rapids, where she was the guest of Miss Cavanaugh.

State Line Beer Joints Closed by Co. Sheriff

Two more beer joints were added to the "closed" list by Sheriff Fred G. Bryant's deputies when two wet spots at Bertrand, near the Indiana-Michigan state line, were dried up.

James Nicholson, 27, and Ray Kukendahl, 43, proprietors of the beer joints raided, are being held at the county jail in default of $1,000 bond pending their examinations before Justice Hardy Langston at Niles on charges of violating the liquor laws.

The two men were arraigned before Justice Langston following the raids on their places. They demanded examinations, which were set for a later date.

Two hundred bottles of beer were found at Nicholson's place and 100 bottles were found at Kukendahl's joint.

Deputy Sheriffs C. H. Imholz, Chester Overcash and Clarence Dunbar made the raids.

Hunting Licenses May Be Secured At Matt Kellings

A supply of the new hunting licenses with button to match, which have just been issued by the state conservation department were placed on sale at Matt Kellings' Saturday by County Clerk Ira Wagner, who brought them when he came to spend the week-end at his home here.

Under the new plan for this year each hunter will be given a button which he will be required to wear while hunting. The buttons are red and white for residents and green and white for non-resident hunters. A small receptacle in the back of the button is where the license blank is to be carried. The blank is of thin paper and will fit the small container if properly folded.

Resident licenses will be sold to bona fide residents of the state of Michigan six months before the date of application. The price remains the same as last year, $1.25.

Non-resident licenses are $10.00. They will be sold to persons residing out of the state and alien residents of Michigan.

Persons under the age of 17 and over 12 years of age may obtain a license if their application is accompanied with a written order from the parent or guardian. An adult must also accompany young hunters in the woods.

THE CHURCH SUPPER

The season for the church supper and the festival is here. These delightful events crowd the late summer and early autumn evenings. They come in such numbers that a problem of selection is oft times presented. The pity is that there is no clearing house to regulate the dates so that cooperation might eliminate competition as it were.

In this day and generation of so-called high speed existence when we seem to depend so largely on manufactured enjoyment it is indeed a refreshing treat to attend the average county church supper or a grange festival. At these events there is to be found a wholesomeness and a plenty of food and association for greater value than the price paid for the ticket. These affairs are conducted for profit of course, but is a broader profit than monetary gain alone. The good folk who sponsor and provide them, and to the menu a measure of good will that makes one always want to come again.

If the movies lose their appeal, and enjoyment runs at a low ebb, at the appetite fails and life goes a little stale, crank up the car and seek out one of these suppers. In this prescription you will find a tonic that will restore lost appetite, soothe faded nerves and re-ignite a low spirit all in one evening. Such good food you have never tasted, unless perchance you are a "supper fan," and such quantities of it. The good folk who willingly serve you are never content until you cry quits after having eaten your fill. And such delicacies as you will find—plenty of food of course—but then added to it will be crisp pickles and a sauce that sharpens the appetite, tasty jellies, the pride of some neighboring housewife, perhaps a dainty cottage cheese and dozens of little touches that the average man lacks.

Added to this, one finds opportunity for widening the circle of acquaintance, of knowing one's neighbors just a little better. We Buchanan folks, who dwell together in happiness and material prosperity, know there are no better people to be found anywhere nor any better place to spend one's appointed years than here in Berrien, the gem of the counties. To get the most out of living is not such a hard job after all. There are plenty of opportunities and these countryside events are part and parcel of them.

INVEST IN BUCHANAN

Get rich quick schemes are not confined to bogus oil stocks and lured affairs. There is legitimate stock just as there is legitimate stock of other character. A man who is supposed to have more than ordinary ability, one who has been successful in life, will often laugh at those who invest a few hundred dollars in some wild cat oil stock game, and just because a slick tongued salesman comes along with a proposition offering something just as wild but with a strictly good name, the man who dodges the oil stock falls for the other. The American people like to be fooled, and one lesson is rarely sufficient.

There are laws to protect the public from illegitimate securities but there is no law to prevent an enterprise selling stock in a company which is unlikely to succeed. A good salesman, one who can picture that legitimate enterprise as possessed of qualities which preclude every possibility of failure, proves too much for the investor, and away goes the money. There is no law against the ability to paint investments by well worded speeches in glowing colors.

There are few cities where there are not opportunities ever at hand for the investor, opportunities where there is far less uncertainty than those offered in other places. When those opportunities loom so large that they may compare with the description of the investment offered by the salesman from another city, there is in nine hundred and ninety instances out of a thousand, that there are local investors who are ready and willing to finance it. Opportunities that are strictly gilt edged rarely have to be peddled.

With so many investments in Buchanan, or at least with the opportunity for such great investments, it is passing strange that there are not more of them taken advantage of. Surely it is not necessary to go to look for investors and say to them that Buchanan needs capital and ability to take care of its real needs. Why not a little more recognition by the people of this city of the opportunities, and instead of sending money way to develop other cities, keep it at home.

SCHOOL DAYS

Again the school bell sounds. It sounded, or some other signal was given, for Roman school children centuries ago. The children of the present are following the law of civilization. In tender years they must be prepared for the business of life, that they may be able to pick up the burden where their elders leave off, and carry it on.

The vacation is over for the children. They had a good time while it lasted. There was fishing and bathing and rambles through the woods and camping and trips through the country and mountain climbing and baseball and tennis and old games and other play. But life is not made up of such things. Some of it is grim. That last is what makes schooling the order of the day.

Life never stands still. The children of the present will be the controlling, achieving citizens of later years. Hence the schools, that the needs of the future may be met, that the men and women of tomorrow may be efficient, capable men and women.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Penwell and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fletcher spent Thursday at the Roy Casselman home in Benton Harbor.

The M. E. Ladies Aid Society spent a very pleasant day, Wednesday at the Mitchell home. The work for the day was sewing for Mrs. Mitchell. Several guests were present: Mrs. Guettler, Nina Piper Boyd, and Miss Rebecca Barnhart. Election of officers was taken care of during the business hour, the following being elected: President, Mrs. Dick Mitchell; vice president, Mrs. Rose Conant; secretary, Mrs. Penland and treasurer, Mrs. George Daniels. All were re-elected but the vice-president. According to the treasurer's report, the ladies have made and sold goods during the year to the amount of over $400, and at present have on hand nine comforters and two quilts to begin work on. A special meeting will be held to tie the comforts but the meetings will not begin regularly until some time in September.

The meeting of the Young People's Union, held in the Brethren Church was led by Miss Genevieve Boyd, captain of the third division and was very interesting. A special feature was a piano and clarinet duet by Edwin Pierson at the piano, and Marion Conant, clarinet, which was very much enjoyed. The young men did especially well. The next meeting will be held Sunday evening, Sept. 2, in the M. E. Church.

Miss Elizabeth Traxel of Chicago, who has been spending her vacation with Mrs. Belle Royce returned to her home Sunday.

Carl Guettler and mother returned from Chicago, where they had been making a short visit, Sunday evening.

There will be an all day meeting of the Ladies Aid at the home of Mrs. Fred Salisbury, Thursday, September 6, to quilt. Pot luck dinner will be served. A good attendance is desired.

What's all the loud talk in the dining room, sister?

"Father and mother are swapping animals."

"Swapping animals?"

"Yep. She passed the buck to him and got his goat."

Add smiles: "As happy as a Scotchman at a free-lunch counter."

There are "wets" and "drys" but most of our politicians seem to be either "dry wets" or "wet drys."

Improved Miner's Pan

To take the place of the familiar pan in separating gold from sand and gravel, a whirling bowl devised by a Nebraska man is operated on the same principle as a cement mixer or cream separator, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A revolving screen removes the coarse gravel before the material is run into the bowl itself. This is fitted with grooves that retain the heavy gold particles as the container turns. The outfit is operated by a small engine and there is a pump to furnish water. A small unit will handle from twenty to thirty tons of material a day.

The Old Timers' Corner

Old Timer Spins Reminiscences
Of Buchanan School Masters of Past

My first recollection of school was "California Johnson" and his private school that he had in what is now the Public school on Second street and Moccasin Avenue. Mr. Johnson was a tall thin Scotchman, I think. He had all the qualifications for a Scotchman. He was grim and very unnotional. He had his system and he held hard and fast to the rules. For the boys he had a small "black snake" whip, which he called "Tom Trusty" and for the girls, a regulation "riding whip" which he called "Susie Trusty." He played no favorites, and unless you had your lessons up to his qualifications, you would get a wee bit of the "trusty." Also for any infractions upon his rules of conduct. There are always certain ones that seem possessed to do the things they are forbidden to do, and I guess I was one of that sort, for I was often taken into the "Little black room" and admonished with a few cuts from old Tom Trusty. There were no grades in the schools at that time but "rooms" first, second, third, etc. and the rest of the children were attending the lower "grades" at the high school building which was then very new. But after two years in his school, I was sent to the public school which was then graded as now, and started off in the fourth grade. A little circumstance happened while I was attending school to Mr. Johnson that made quite a difference in my school life. It seems I was born with or soon obtained a pair of badly deformed eyes. So that when I wanted to read or study, I had to place the book at arm's length along the front of the desk and then by sitting well back in the seat I could see. Otherwise it made my head ache and I was taken to task by the teacher for being "too lazy to hold my book where it belonged." So to avoid the whippings I received for this digression from his rules, I used to "skip school" about 4 or 5 days a week, and finally word got to my father and I was given a beating that was well worthy of the misdemeanor, after which I explained to my father why I didn't attend school regularly. They took me to Niles to see Dr. Bonine and he said it was a wonder I could read at all, and put some nice silver rimmed glasses on me and I have worn glasses ever since. And then I learned to like school and went on thru the grades and thru college with never a hesitation. I often wonder if more kids are not given credit for being dumb or indolent when it is really no fault of theirs but thru lack of precautions by their parents and teachers.

Well, in the grades, I found congenial company, had to walk more than a mile to school and so like other farm boys and girls, I carried my luncheon with me. There was a big family of kids at our home and we all carried our luncheon and I often think of the work it meant to mother to get us all off to school along with her regular work of a farmer's home. If at this time, some women had to undergo the work and hardships that were imposed at that time, they would be in the divorce courts at once. But that time and NOW are as different as two things can well be.

But, school life was the happiest time of life, as I see it now. We had one teacher that seemed to follow us along, and as we advanced she also was advanced a grade each year and so we had "Flo Hartsell" (from down at Hills Corners), for about four or five years. It had one advantage, we knew all her little ways and knew what we could get away with and what we couldn't. She likewise knew all her kids and knew what to expect from them. Then we went into High school and Prof. Swain, Prof. Buck and Prof. Aleshire, were the ones we had to answer to. I think I felt more kindly toward Prof. Swain than any other man-teacher I ever had. He had whiskers, but he was HUMAN, and he would always hear your side of the story and if you were right, he would acknowledge it and if you were wrong he would punish you just as well. His children were all mighty fine kids, Ed and Mary and Esther. They were never shown any favors that the rest of us didn't enjoy, and they were just regular people but mighty fine friends.

Lilly Abell was our stand by, thru High school. She used to help me with my work, as I had to stay out of school and work on the farm as soon as warm weather came along and in that way I was enabled to take my examinations and keep up with my grade in school. She didn't help me, alone, for I knew of other instances where she was going out of her way to help some poor kid along. We had other teachers of that kind and I guess we were just lucky that we had such help and such teachers. They took a personal interest in us, and were just as anxious for us to pass a presentable grade as we were ourselves.

The old high school, which (with the top story taken off) is now the heating plant for the new and modern building to take the same place in Buchanan life that was held by our old building, was at that time a wonderful building, to us. Four rooms on the first floor, four on the second. The entire second floor was occupied by the High school grades, from the ninth grade through the twelfth, and even at that time it was a High school that was on the University list. We received good training and were able to pass on into the colleges from it without examination. In the basement of the old building, was the heating plant and the two front rooms were "dining rooms" for the country pupils who carried their dinners, and it was down there that Prof. Aleshire gave me a wonderful flogging, once, too. Mr. Ham was janitor and lived with his good wife in the rear. There was a big long wood shed at the rear of the building, with a small car that ran on a wooden track, which was elevated at the woodshed and ran down to the furnace room, in the basement of the building, and they loaded the wood which was cut in three foot lengths, onto this car and gave it a shove and it would run down to the furnace room. This shed was always piled high with wood and it was a great place to play games when the weather was bad. The water pails and later on the pump, was at the rear of the building and tin cups were chained to a long bench, and the water was good, as it always is in Buchanan. A nice little garden with flowers and vegetables, etc., was in the rear and everything kept in neat clean condition. Mr. Ham was crippled with rheumatism and was sometimes pretty cross but he had to be with a bunch of young heathens (?) such as we were at that time.

The trees that surrounded the two play grounds on either side of the school grounds, grew very low to the ground, pines, they were, and it was always cool and shady under them but full of pine pitch and "stickers" that made for dirty shirts and dresses if you got under the trees at all. As I remember it, we didn't play so much ball at that time but games that the girls joined in, such as "Pum-pum-pum" and "Some of the girls were mighty good runners and I remember Lila Bunker was the most fleet of any of them. She was a wonder. Once while she was running, she became tangled in her skirt, and it came off, but that didn't stop her in winning the race. Yes, she won, all right and no harm was done. She scrambled back into her skirt and went right on with the game.

It seems to me that they used to have more snow in winter time then, than in these later years. Maybe not, maybe it is like all the other things that seem so large as you "remember" but when you see them now they seem so small. But as I think of it, the walls of snow along the way to school, were very high. Sometimes our father would take us to school in the bob-sleds, and would gather in other children along the way until the sleigh was loaded, and there was a regular drive way in the front yard of the school building, where they could drive up with their teams and back out again, sort of a horse-shaped drive.

Many of the pupils were farmers' children and had to drive a horse and buggy, back and forth every day. Mary Reynolds was one of them. The Miller girls from down north, Nellie and Mae Miller, Adelaide Kelsey, and May Zerbe, and many others. It was no snap to get out and ride several miles in the cold or rain in a rattle old buggy, to get to school. Now the flivver takes the place of the horse and buggy and it don't take so long.

I am very glad that the old town has this wonderful new school building, but I do feel sorry for the old building that has to be a heating plant for it. That old building was a grand affair to me and when I now look at it and see how small it really was, I wonder that all the kids used to be able to get into it, and more so I wonder at the vast amount of learning that it fostered. Some very successful men and women received their training, mainly, from that old "heating plant." Well, anyway the old building is still of service, for the new building would be a very cold place were it not for the heat which our old building is supplying for its convenience. Just like in a way, the work of the old building paved the way and made possible the new elegance of the newer building as to learning and training. We were just stepping stones, along with the ones that had gone before our time, which made it possible for us to have the comforts that we did enjoy. It is so with life in general. We live and pave the way for the future and pass on our way. These today will live today, and pass on tomorrow and so on, without end, Amen.

Next week, let's talk some more about the funny people we used to know and their funny ways. To live in a small town means that you know every man, woman and child, their cats and dogs and their horses and cows and can call them by name and tell their characters. So, with Memory, let's talk about some of them, next time.

Old Timer.

WHAT HAPPENED BEFORE Simon Judd, amateur detective, and William Dart, an undertaker, are visiting John Drane, eccentric man of wealth, at the Drane place. Suddenly the household is shocked to find that John Drane has been murdered. The dead man is first seen by Josie, the maid, then by Amy Drane and Simon Judd. The latter faints.

Police officers call and investigations begin. Dr. Blessington is called, and after seeing the murdered John Drane, makes the astounding revelation to Amy Drane that her "uncle" is not a man but a woman.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The announcement of Dr. Blessington that the body of the murdered person above stairs was the body of a woman and not of a man did not shock Amy Drane as much as "cause her amazement. The shock had come when she faced the blood stained body of her supposed uncle John and her mind was still so dulled by that shock that she did not immediately grasp what the doctor was telling her.

"A woman? Uncle John was a woman?" she repeated gropingly. "But that—that couldn't be, you know. Why, he's always been a man. I don't know what you mean, doctor."

"The murdered person in the bed upstairs there," the doctor said, "is—of was—a woman. I am merely stating a fact. I thought you should know it immediately as you are I understand, the only relative here."

"I don't understand it," Amy said. "Why it's dreadful, isn't it! Oh, it is horrible. It's like some frightful nightmare! It doesn't seem as if it could be true, any of it."

"It is only too true," the doctor said. He looked at the girl with keen professional eyes. "You don't feel that this is too much for you? The shock and strain must be considerable, but you seem a normal sort of person. What I mean exactly is that if you feel too nervous over this I can give you a simple bromide until your nerves recover from the shock."

"No, thank you," she said. "I think I'll be all right."

"Are you going to be here awhile?" he asked Simon Judd. "I suppose you will," he added with a slight smile, "considering the circumstances and that the police will have to be finding a murderer. Just keep an eye on this young lady, will you? I'll leave my card; it has my telephone number. If she seems to be about to flop just send for me. Not," he added, "that I think you'll have to. Have you anyone by the way?" he asked Amy. "Who could stay here with you a few days? I'd suggest that you go elsewhere, but I have a notion the police will want you here, until they've done some questioning, at least."

"I'm not afraid to stay here, I think," Amy said. "No; Mr. Judd will be here; I'll not be afraid. I'll have Mr. Carter stay here during the days."

"That's Bob Carter?" the doctor asked. "Yes. He's—we're great friends. I expect him to come this morning."

"You've not had breakfast yet?" "No; I was waiting for it when I heard Josie. The maid screamed."

"Well, my prescription for you is that you go in now and eat a good breakfast. That will help you more than anything I could give you. And as for the things to be attended to in such cases as this, you may leave them to me. What is your name?" he asked Simon Judd, and Judd told him.

"Mr. Judd, I'm sure will act for you as far as necessary. There can be no funeral," he added, to Simon Judd, "until the law has gone through its formalities. However, if I might just speak to you hour or so—I have a call I must make now. You had better get some breakfast yourself; you're apt to have a long and hard day."

Dr. Blessington turned away, but Simon Judd called him back. "What I don't get, doc," he said, "is how you didn't know this was a woman all the while. You're the family doctor, ain't you?"

"That's rather peculiar, too," he said, frowning a little. "I am the family doctor here; I have a larger bill here each month than with any house in Westcote. I'm called here again and again. But I've never been asked to so much as feel John Drane's pulse or look at his tongue! The man—or woman—has never been sick, or if she has she never called me. The servants have had all my attention, and plenty of it, too."

"That colored man sure has a bad cough," said Simon Judd. "They're all sick," said Dr. Blessington. "I never knew such a household for sick help. It's as bad as a hospital; I don't see how a person can bear to have so much sickness around. But John Drane—or this woman who pretended to be John Drane—has certainly been good to them. I've never known her to discharge a servant for ill health; she's had me here twenty times a month. A good woman, even if she did choose to masquerade as a man."

"Well, I've read of such doings before," Simon Judd said philosophically, "and I don't think that I blame some of 'em for wanting to wear man clothes, and let on they're men. Sort of queer, though, somehow."

"It is queer," said the doctor. "It is apt to be queerer than we imagine."

Dick Brennan, the detective, arrived by that universal vehicle, the taxicab, while Amy Drane and Simon Judd were at breakfast. As he turned from the cab, after having slammed the door, he cast his eye over the Drane house, registering certain salient features: "Three story mansard-roofed house—painted white—veranda full width of house in front—fluted pillars, approximately six feet in diameter supporting the third floor mansard projection."

His brain registered physical objects in this way, a result of his innumerable appearances on the witness stand against criminals he had tracked down. A silver watch was never a silver watch to Brennan—it was "one white metal watch, hunting case No. 1,259,533, fourteen jewel movement No. 955-003." For Brennan no one ever lived at seven hundred and sixty-five South Street but at "seven six five South street." For Brennan no one ever stood on the corner of Elm Street and Grand Avenue; he stood "on South-west corner of intersection of Elm street and Grand Avenue." For Brennan gold was "yellow metal" and brass was "yellow metal"; it was not for Brennan to decide which was which. Not on the witness stand. In no respect, except that he resembled thousands of detectives, did Dick Brennan resemble a detective. He resembled no one in particular except himself; you were apt to say to yourself when you saw him, "I know that man!" and then, immediately, "No, I'm wrong—I know someone who looks quite a little like that man." You say this of people resembling the clerk, who waits on you in a grocery, or of people resembling the clerk who waits on you in the grocery. Dick Brennan's face was so like thousands of other faces that it was hard to remember. Not infrequently this was of value to him in his work. A man who so nearly resembled many other men could easily make himself look unlike himself.

Dick Brennan was forty-two, but he looked not over thirty. For twenty-years he had been picking up criminals. He had never "studied" crime, but the ways and habits of criminals had soaked in to him; an understanding of their probable actions and reactions had become instinctive in him; this was one reason why he was so valuable; another reason was that he had a brain that was able to recognize the times when a criminal was not acting according to rule. He could think when he had to.

Brennan was not particularly annoyed because he had been put on this case on a Sunday morning. He had planned to see a football game that afternoon but his intention had been to pick up a couple of pickpockets there, if they were still working the football crowds, and a murder was apt to be more interesting. He followed the circular drive to the veranda, glancing past the house toward the back where the drive curved farthest and when he had mounted to the veranda he rang the bell. Norbert, the colored houseman, came to the door.

"I'm the detective assigned to this case," he said without flourish. "The body upstairs or downstairs?"

"Upstairs, sir; yes, sir," Norbert assured him. "Two cops up there; you can go right on up. Should I take your hat, sir? No; you goin' take it with you. Right up these stairs. Yes sir!"

At the head of the stairs one of the officers greeted him with a "Hello, Dick!" and Brennan replied, "Hello, Joe!"

"Mean piece of business this is, Dick," the officer said.

"Stabbing, is it? What was that about it being an old lady?" (Continued next week)

Mr. and Mrs. Parrish of South Bend and Mr. and Mrs. Datchen of Chicago were entertained at the Wm. Weaver home Sunday.

Lee Weaver is with his grandparents this week.

Mrs. Withan had the misfortune to run a nail in her foot, which is very painful.

There were many from this neighborhood who attended the Home Coming at Berrien Springs. The flower display and also the fruit was very nice and also the fireworks. There were many other attractions worth while.

When Visiting Invalids

"When calling on an invalid, don't spend your time talking about her health or your health," advises a writer in Copper's Farmer who has been a long-suffering patient. "Don't spend your time talking about the illness of friends; especially do not describe the symptoms of people who are just like you. Meet her in the same friendly fashion that you would if she were well. Wear your prettiest dress and your newest hat; remember, all the clothes she sees are the ones her callers wear."

MANY OUTFITS USED BY WEST POINT CADETS

Eleven different outfits are required to equip a West Point cadet for his various duties. These do not include a dungaree to be worn inside an oily battle tank or when tinkering with motor trucks.

On Peace Mission

Secretary of State Kellogg en route to Paris, where he is to sign the Renunciation of War Treaty. Secretary Kellogg is a leading factor in the growing movement for world peace.

STUDEBAKER

President Eight

30,000 miles

in 26,326 minutes!

Greatest endurance record in history of transportation

BETWEEN July 21 and August 9, four Studebaker President Eights—all fully equipped, regular factory production cars—triumphed over the severest test ever given any automobile. This 30,000 mile run—a record distance achieved in record time—was conducted under the close and constant supervision of the American Automobile Association which certified each car to be a strictly stock model. In fact, all four motors and chassis were selected, not by Studebaker, but by A. A. A. officials who picked them at random from the assembly line at the Studebaker factory. If not chosen for this test, these regular factory Presidents would have gone out to dealers and you might have bought one of them at any Studebaker showroom.

Average 68 miles per hour

All four Studebakers—two President Eight roadsters and two President Eight sedans—completed 30,000 miles each at better than mile-a-minute speed.

Both roadsters completed 30,000 miles in less than 27,000 minutes, averaging better than 68 miles per hour for 19 days and 18 nights of continuous driving.

The two sedans averaged 63.99 and 64.15 miles per hour respectively for this tremendous distance.

The fastest thousand miles of each roadster was the thirtieth—71.67 and 69.65 miles per hour! Studebaker Presidents improve with use.

Engines sealed

Of 6 seals placed on the engines of these roadsters

STUDEBAKER PRESIDENT EIGHT

$1685

Other Studebaker-Erskine Models $835 to $2485. All prices f. o. b. factory.

What it proves

The Studebaker President's new record of 30,000 miles in 26,326 minutes is a feat unapproached in the history of transportation. It proves beyond doubt or question that The President Eight is an expression of engineering genius without peer in the automotive world. It is evidence of the inexhaustible resources of Studebaker performance—of high quality materials, precision manufacture, skilled workmanship and rigid inspections.

Why be satisfied with less?

You can pay more than Studebaker prices, but in no other car at any price can you buy more stamina or more finely balanced performance than in Studebaker's President Eight. And back of every One-Profit Studebaker is 76 years of manufacturing integrity.

Don't wait until November 6 to select your President—DO IT NOW!
