Headliners of Grappling Science to Stage 3 Bouts

SET FOR OCT. 25 One Title At Stake; Net Proceeds To Flood Relief

Three wrestling bouts, of which at least one has bearing on a world championship title, are to be staged at the Clark Theatre on the evening of Thursday, Oct. 25, beginning at 8:15, under the auspices of the Buchanan Athletic Club.

The main event on the evening's program will be a finish wrestling match between Freddie Hall of Buchanan, who bears the distinction of being ex-world's champion lightweight, and 'Cub' Hamilton of Elkhardt. Hamilton has been a persistent challenger, having offered to meet Hall on any basis, for the past two years, and the meeting of these two speedy grapplers should be well worth the price.

The other main bout will bring together Leo, Alexander of South Bend, present holder of the light heavyweight title, and Young Lewis (White) of Benton Harbor, who has aspirations for said title. Alexander needs no introduction to sport fans in this vicinity, as his bouts at Playland Park have been a mecca for sport followers all summer.

In the semi-windup match, Carl Runyan, Buchanan's coming welterweight will tackle Dick Geber of South Bend, the latter out of Alexander stable. These two boys are very evenly matched and should put up an extra hot battle.

Hall is working out every evening at Clark Theatre, from five to six, and invites the fans in to see his training bouts. Freddie suffered a fractured elbow in one of his bouts last summer at the country club, and has been taking particular pains to bring this member back to full strength for the match with Hamilton.

The Home Service Department of the Presbyterian church presents Mrs. Mabel Powley Harper, talented Niles Dramatic leader, in a popular program at the church auditorium Friday evening, Oct. 19, beginning at 8 p. m.

REED GETS THIRTY DAY EXTENSION

Has Until November 6 To Complete Contract UNDER CONTROL Springs Capable Of Furnishing Town Are Curbed

Frank Reed, Dowagiac contractor who bid the installation of storm and sanitary sewers on Third and Portage Streets here last summer, contracting to complete them by October 6, received an extension of 30 days allowing him until November 6, at a meeting of the village council held last night.

Reed asked for 60 days extension, all of which will probably be necessary to complete the contract. He has now less than half of the sewer installed, although he has been on the work nearly three and one half months.

Expected difficulties in the way of buried pig iron, cement, and debris of all description in filled in land, and heavy flow of spring water played a part in the delay. Springs flowing at the rate of between 500 and 1,000 gallons per minute in the bottom of the sewer excavation on Portage street between Front and Central Court were brought under control during the past week by the installation of 14 well points connected with a pump lifting 400 gallons per minute, and installation of tile is now progressing slowly there.

An equal amount of water is carried away by the 10-inch sanitary sewer tile which is laid to that point. Delay is caused by the necessity of moving the well point system ahead as fast as the tile is laid.

Reed stated that installation work would be completed from the top of the hill by the end of the week, weather permitting.

Twits Vandenberg With Dodging Issues DENIES ECONOMY Says Administration Not Sincere In Farm Relief

A small audience of faithful but wet Democrats braved the weeping skies yesterday morning to listen to an eloquent address by William Comstock, the party selection to contest the election to the governorship with Smiling Fred Green.

The wetness, it should be stated, was in garments more than principles. Candidate Comstock was attended by a bodyguard of prominent Democrats, including Fred Cook and Atty. Holbrook of Niles and Ford Thompson of Buchanan. His speech was prefaced by a brief introduction by Harry Beck.

Comstock opened his remarks by a plea for evenly balanced parties in Michigan as a safeguard of honest and efficient government. "The people of any state were more sure of satisfactory service, he stated, when the minority party was strong enough to constitute an ever present threat to the party in power, ready to replace them in the event of any considerable failure or betrayal of trust.

Those who liked "Beau Geste," with its stark pictures of the Foreign Legion, will be prepared to enjoy the story at the Princess tonight and tomorrow, "The Foreign Legion," with two brilliant stars in the cast, Norman Kerry and Lewis Stone. The Sahara and the Soudan, with their almost endless spaces of practically unknown territory, sheltering weird, cruel, restless races of outlandish men, will be the scene of startling adventure for ages to come. "The Foreign Legion" is almost the only organized body that is really penetrating, conquering, and ruling portions of this deadly waste.

Another delightful time this coming week will be had with the oldest of the cowboy favorites, Hoot Gibson, on Saturday afternoon and evening, in "The Flying Cowboy." Since Hoot won the world's riding championship in 1912, he has never been long absent from the flash of the Klieg lights. Furthermore, he retains his marvelous skill in horsemanship and in histrionics as well.

The Sunday offering will be the most remarkably unusual picture for the month of October, with Paul Wegener in "The Strange Case of Capt. Ramper," whose loss of pictures of the frozen wastes of the air, and of human recovery from disaster, will be satisfied with Captain Ramper. For the Captain was wrecked in the frigid North when flying on an exploring expedition and never rescued. Yet he found ways to sustain life. However, the fight with heartless nature in the North took all his strength, and he in time lost all his civilized qualities and when finally discovered and brought home was a "Wild Man." The potential possibilities of a human being are scientifically portrayed in the ultimate reawakening of his mind through the magnetic influence of the girl who had loved him, and remained true to him. The picture is said to be worked out in the psychopathic laboratories, and is true to the nature of man, which means a smashing adventure thrill for the educated as well as the common variety movie fan.

Along with the fourth chapter of the serial, "The Trail of the Tiger," Monday evening will be seen "Ted Wells," "Made to Order Hero." Ted is one of the most dashing of lovers, as well as a finished horseman and all around gallant.

Three Buchanan Men Fight Battles

While he was conducting these two business ventures, Jordan experimented in a small room which he had fitted up as a laboratory, until he developed an improved brand of roof paint. He then opened a paint factory on his lot on South Day's Avenue, with Burton Montgomery in charge. Montgomery made the paint and sold it on the road, running the lunch counter in the slow months during the winter.

Still later Jordan carried on delicatessen and confectionery business. He was able to work behind the counter with the clerks, locating any article without difficulty and weighing on the scales "without missing a notch", filling molasses jugs and kerosene cans without spilling a drop.

In 1914 he sold out his business, when Charles Pears started the construction of the Princess Theatre, and left for Saginaw, where he spent the winter. When he returned he entered into the pure food business with John Morse, mixing blends of buckwheat and breakfast food in the building where the Kennedy Hatchery is now located.

For several years he has been retired from business, living alone in his little house on South Day Avenue, where he does his own work and keeps his premises scrupulously neat. He has a number of books in the Braille system, including parts of the Bible, and is a deep student of religion. Several hours a day he listens over the radio to news broadcasting from Chicago and South Bend, and to readings of books from the Chicago Tribune station.

Sid Mott is another blind man who has been independent of public charity, living by himself in a home on South Oak which he bought six years ago when the shades of darkness were already falling over him. There he does his own housework better than most men with sight and cares for himself without asking favors. He came to Buchanan as an orphan boy from New York City in 1866 and until he became blind he worked steadily on farms and on the Michigan Central railway here. For seven years he had charge of the crossing by the Depot, during that time receiving letters of commendation from the superintendent of the road and the president of the Michigan Central safety council. He also received honorable mention in the Roll of Honor in the Railway magazine for stopping a train on which a brake beam was dangling loose, saving much damage and possible disaster.

BUCHANAN TWP GETS $10,000 TAX INCREASES

SUPERVISORS VOTE FOR $43,000 MORE ON ENTIRE COUNTY

Tax payers of Buchanan township will contribute to the support of state, county and township to the extent of $179,540.33 in the coming winter payments, or $10,351.99 over the payment of last year, according to the findings of the board of supervisors in their session at St. Joseph Friday.

The levy adopted is an increase of only $43,950.97 over $3,053,331.36 for the entire county. A state tax reduction of $64,446 is included. Last year the state tax was $325,000 as compared with $264,354 for this year.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches on Sunday, Oct. 14.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts? Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?" (Luke 5:22-23).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If a sense of disease produces suffering and a sense of ease antidotes suffering, disease is mental, not material. Hence the fact that the human mind alone suffers, is sick, and that the divine Mind alone heals" (p. 270).

The remaining 14 townships were handed slight increases due largely to the roads constructed under the Covert act.

SQUIRREL, PHEASANT SHOOTING SEASON OPENS OCT. 25

Deputy Game Warden Dick Condon has issued a warning to muskrat trappers, reminding that they must have a license to trap muskrats under the 1928 laws.

The muskrat season opens on October 15, but licenses must have been returned by the state to the trapper before he may lawfully take the animals. Application for licenses should be made at once either from Warden Condon, Deputy Warden Frank Small at the Court street garage, or the county clerk's office. The applications must then be sent to Lansing, and the license is mailed direct to the applicant.

On October 25, the squirrel season in Michigan opens, and remains until October 31. Fox squirrels are the only legal game. Black and gray squirrels are protected until 1932. The legal fox squirrel limit is five in a day, 15 in a season.

The Old Timers' Corner

"Politics" in Other Days is Old Timer's Topic

Someone has said that "an egotist is a man who is always talking about himself, when you want to talk about yourself."

Someone else had said "an Optimist is a person that can see a light in a room where there is NO light at all, and that the East must be that comes along and blows that light out."

Well, whatever it is, we see and hear them, of all sorts and kinds, during these hectic days of POLITICS.

I do not mean to "talk politics" this morning, but I want to wander back thru the times when we were on earth, in Buchanan, and remember some of the political things that happened then. In the rough, politics is much the same as it was in those times, the same promises, the same oratory and the same "bull" all the way thru, but the politicians didn't get rich quite so fast in those days. Now I don't mean to say that ALL politicians are crooks, but the odds are against them, all right. It is like Shakespeare (or some one) said about a man who wears diamonds. He said: "A man that wears diamonds MAY be a gentleman, but the odds are against him." So it is with people in politics. They may be the best ever when they get into the game but they see so many chances to get "easy money" that they (sooner or later) "snitch" a little here and there and if they don't get caught at it, they will "snitch" some more and in larger denominations until they see that it is a game and they play it for all they can get out of it. It always was that way and they are doing nothing new at all when they graft in these newer days.

But, to turn back the pages and glance over the days when we were kids, do you remember the old "fambo" torches and the long lines of horses and riders and those on foot, the bands, etc. that were employed to hurrah for the political candidates? Those old "fambos" were the wonder of my boyhood days. They had some sort of a mouthpiece on the side of the handle thru which you blew, and the torch would flare up. It was a great sight when the signal was given and everybody in line, hundreds of them, sometimes, would "blow" and the torches which otherwise were just a kerosene torch, burning along in a nice quiet way, would suddenly belch out a three foot flame and the horses would prance and the bands would start to play and the "pe-rade" was on. Up one street and down the other. All the horses were specially groomed and primed up for the occasion and when the music started, it was a great sight to see the antics of those staid old nags, some of them, and note the horsemanship of the riders. Some of the riders were ladies, too. At that time they rode side-saddles, wore long skirts that hung half way to the ground, and with big broad brimmed beaver hats, and well trimmed with gay flowers, they sure looked fine.

Once, when there was to be a big parade, my sister, whom, when she reads this, will recognize it, I am sure, was to ride a fine black mare in the parade. She was sick and couldn't go. I was but a kid, perhaps 10 years old, and so I dressed up in her clothes and rode a side saddle and lead the parade, on the same black mare, and the next issue of the RECORD came out, stating that my sister lead the parade and how nice she looked, etc. I wore a veil, to hold the bloomin' hat in place and that kept the people from knowing that they had a "he-she" rider that night. My sister is six years older than myself and her clothes just fitted me. That was the only time I was ever a "girl" that I know of and I didn't care for it, either, for it isn't so easy to ride a side-saddle.

The streets were well lined with flags, for mostly every one in those days were Republicans, in and around Buchanan, and of course this was a Republican Rally. A Democrat in Buchanan was rather a lonesome proposition, those days. As time has passed they have imported quite a lot of their kind, so that now they put up a better showing, but then, it was a foregone conclusion that you were a Republican if you were a regular Buchanan-ite.

You know, I think the old American Flag meant more to us in those times than it does to the younger generation. It was shortly after the great war with the South, and either our fathers were in it, or some one we knew well and their stories meant a lot to the younger ones. Now-a-days they use the flag as a decoration, more than for what it stands for. Its color scheme seems to lend the right tone to stores, automobiles and what-not. When we put the flag afloat, those days, it meant that we stood for what the flag represented, and not at all as we went with it that said we were at attention and ready to go if called.

Politics hasn't changed much from our day, just a different way of showing it. Now instead of the rallies, etc., we listen to long, hurrying speeches over the radio. They "throw mud" at each other just as they did fifty years ago. Each tells you that they are right and the other fellow is all wrong. In politics I believe it is well to vote for the PRINCIPLE that you think is best and trust one of each to become immoral, as I see it, and so if they would first look to their own door yards, or could clean politics, they must

Flag Poles? Do I remember them? I'll say I do, and "how" we used to go to the woods and cut a tall straight "stammerack" out of the limbs and there was always a "rally" to accompany the "pole raising" as a rule. And when the old flag was pulled up and floated out on the breeze, every Buchanan-ite would cheer and make a new vow to uphold Old Glory. We are older and wiser, perhaps, but the same Old Glory is over us and we stand for the same things she stood for in the older times. Let Politics be what it may, WE ARE THE COUNTRY, and we are still the same Old Glory and the people that stand for her, will always be the same. It was a long hard fight and will ever be remembered by us and those that come after us "United we stand", and united we shall always remain. Speaking of good men going wrong when they get into politics, reminds me of a story, told by a friend of mine, during the time when all the banks of the country were going to the wall, and half the Presidents of the banks were being sent up for stealing the funds, etc. He said: "Why not elect a crook and thief for the President of the banks? Why spoil an honest man?" So much for Politics. Next week, we will talk about something else.

Welfare Work

Eloise is a dear little girl who decided to go in for welfare work. So she came home and explained to her mother that she had made 40 calls on poor people.

"Do you mean to say you saw 40 people in one day?" "I didn't see all of them, mother. At some places I left cards."

So Show's Done

"The show went broke? How did it happen?" "The illusionist changed an old lady's half-dollar into a motor car and the old lady kept it."
