EXCESS BAGGAGE

By Haws

Now comes Friend Winter once again. With boreal breezes loud and strong. To stop around in Michigan. And bring that icy grip along.

Since first he started coming south. It seems he's never taken ship. And came to pay his friends a call. Unless he brought that icy grip.

He ought to change his travelling kit. We've seen that icy grip enough. Why don't he bring a steamer trunk. And fill it with Canadian stuff.

Oh, leave that icy grip behind. Next time you hit the southward plike. And fill a suitcase with the kind of importations that we like.

Mr. Sterling will then re-capture them and the affections of Miss Peggy all at one fell swoop.

FATAL MISHAP IS SHROUDED BY MYSTERY

Harry Brown Finds Lifeless Body Friday

NO BULLET FOUND

Coroner's Jury To Wait For More Evidence

Sharon Sarver, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Sarver of Dayton, and an employee of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Company for the past three years, was killed sometime Friday morning while hunting in the woods, 12 miles south of Republic, Marquette Co., Mich., death being caused by a bullet which entered his abdomen slightly to the right and passed transversely through leaving the body on the left side of the spine, immediately above the belt line.

The circumstances surrounding the death of the unfortunate Dayton youth are shrouded in mystery. Although it is surmised that the occurrence was accidental, and the result of a stray bullet, or of one fired at him by some hunter who mistook him for a deer.

He arrived at Trout Lake camp Wednesday morning in company with William Ednie and on Thursday, the opening day of the season, he hunted in the vicinity. Friday he went out a section of the woods about 2 1/2 miles from camp where William Fette had shot a buck the day before. He was accompanied by Leo Richter and Joe Hamilton of Dayton. They arrived at about 9:30 at the place where the deer had been dressed and hung the night before, and Richter loaded the carcass on his horse and went back to camp.

Sarver and Hamilton started scouting through the woods in the vicinity in hopes of finding more deer. Hamilton stated that he sighted a buck later and that he hallooed to Sarver, who answered him. Hamilton then drifted out to another section of the woods and heard no more of him.

Shortly before noon, Harry Brown, who had been hunting in a distant section of the woods, entered the woods where the tragedy had occurred, having heard that some of the party were going there. He arrived within a few hundred yards of the scene and at a lunch, he had with him. Then he searched the woods for game, and at 1 p. m. posted himself on the brink of a ravine to watch for the possible passage of deer. While looking across the ravine, he saw a man lying on his face about 200 feet away. The fact that the man was lying in an unnatural position with his head down, aroused his fears and he hurried across to find that the body was that of his fellow townsman, to all appearance dead.

He at once fired his rifle in the air five times, waited a minute, fired again twice, thus expending after another brief interval he fired again twice, this expending the shells which he had taken with him. He then shouted and was at first answered by another party, who replied several times, and then ceased and was heard no more.

When Brown had made sure that help was not to be had in the vicinity, he started for camp. A short distance from the camp, he met Richter and Hamilton who had gone in for lunch and started back.

BUCHANAN IS ON POINT OF EXPANSION

Says Niles Attorney In Talk Before Men's Club

NEED LEADERS

Stewart White Is Speaker Friday Evening

"I have been watching your town for several years and I feel that you are nearing the beginning of a period of expansion," said Attorney Stewart White, in a talk before the Men's club of the Methodist Church Friday evening.

"I don't know what things will break but I feel sure nevertheless that large things are in the air here, and that at some time not far distant Buchanan will blossom from the village into the city class."

Attorney White complimented the men present on their organization saying that it might assume leadership in the building of a better city. The adoption of a program having the future good of the town in view, he stated, would be the best guaranty of healthy growth and long life for the club.

He especially complimented the club on its unimpeachable feature, stating that an organization open to all regardless of creed was best adapted to serve the town and community and to take a leading part in the development of the town along desirable lines.

Twenty-five men were present in spite of the rainy weather to share in the oyster supper and to listen to Attorney White. Immediately after the banquet an hour was spent in organization. The constitution which had been prepared by Messrs. Orniston, Zerba and Sargent was read and adopted in its entirety save for the matter of a name, on which action was postponed until a committee comprising Glen Haslett, Theron Childs, and John Fydel make a report.

Election of officers was then held, the following heads being selected: president, Dr. Sargent; vice president, John Fydel; secretary, Burton Montgomery; treasurer, Elmon Starr; musical director, Klen Blake; recreation director, Arthur Brown.

It was voted that the next meeting be held on the night of Wednesday, December 12, instead of December 14, in order to avoid conflicting with the Bridgman-Buchanan basketball game. The next meeting is to be Guest Night, on which occasion each member is entitled to bring with him a young man above the age of 14 years. The following committees were appointed to arrange for the meeting:

Bats—Ken Blake, Riley Zerba, Pfay Graffort.

Program—Alfred Hall, John Andrews, E. H. Orniston.

LOCAL FARMS BENEFITED BY FINE MARKET

Middle Charges Are Burden in Other Sections

COSTS REDUCED

Roadside Stand Is Aid, Says County Agent

The patronage of city consumers who buy the products from roadside stands places the farmers of Buchanan in an unusually favorable position to withstand the intensive competition now developing agriculture, according to County Agent Harry Larkins, who spoke before an audience of local men at the headquarters of the St. Joe Valley Shipping Association last night.

This is illustrated by prices obtained for apples and potatoes by local growers. By selling direct to the city consumer who comes to his door to buy the Buchanan farmer sells his potatoes and apples at living prices, in competition with the products of northern Michigan and other sections which are handicapped by transportation and other distribution charges.

Buchanan grown potatoes are now bringing from 40 to 50 cents per bushel while northern Michigan farmers are delivering their product as low as 14 cents per hundred. While the northern Michigan grower is confronted with marketing costs ranging a dollar or more per box on his apple crop, the Buchanan farmer gets $1.50 and over per box at his roadside stand.

"I know of few other sections that have been able to command 50 cents per pound for butter the year round," said Larkins.

"The Berrien County dairy farmer is one of the most favored in the United States. He gets unusual prices and his land is unusually adapted to the business."

"Improved machinery is now displacing men in the industries and we are now faced by the prospect, within the next ten years, of a four day week and a six hour day for the working man, at about the same wage he is getting now. The farmer must feed the industrial worker under this arrangement. How? By lower prices made possible by economies in operation. The farmer has no way to anticipate higher prices through limitation of production. His hope lies in production economies by more efficient methods. That is the trend today, and if an individual farmer cannot meet that development, he has no right in the business."

DOWAGIAC IS VICTORIOUS ON PLATFORM

Green Local Team Is Defeated By More Experience

ONE MAN JUDGE

First Defeat Does Not Eliminate Local Team

The Dowagiac high school debating team was awarded the decision over the Buchanan high school team in their forensic contest in the local auditorium Friday afternoon, the visitors taking the negative of the state interscholastic debating league question: Resolved, That the granting of a subsidy to our Merchant Marine would be a wise national policy.

The inexperienced Buchanan team, performed very creditably and showed the results of hard drill on the fundamental of the argument by Coach Hubbard. They were completely out-classed in ease and effectiveness on the platform by the more polished Dowagiac team, which secured its main lead on delivery and effective arrangement of argument.

The contest was judged by W. A. Butcher, debating coach of the South Bend high school, who gave the visitors a wide margin on delivery and a narrower edge in argument. He complimented Don Wood of the local team on effectiveness in rebuttal.

Maynard Post opened the affirmative for Buchanan with an interpretation of the question and a review of the history of the controversy. He also presented evidence to show that there is a present need for the merchant marine. Post was inexperienced, this being his first appearance in debate, but his platform appearance was pleasing and with time he should develop into an effective performer.

Kathryn Howell opened the debate for Dowagiac, outlining the argument of the negative, as mainly based on the contention that there is no present need for a large American merchant marine and that in any event the ship subsidy would be an unwise means of achieving that end. She stated that the subsidy has proven a failure in countries where it has been tried and is being discarded. She presented the affirmative with a demand that they cite instances where any subsidy they might recommend had proven successful.

Kathryn Reed then took up the burden of the argument for the affirmative. Miss Reed also showed also gave evidence of inexperience, but was most pleasing in voice and appearance. She reaffirmed the need of an American merchant marine, and stated that government ownership had been tried and had failed. She asserted that due to conditions, the costs of carrying a cargo is larger under the American flag and that a subsidy should be granted to offset these higher costs, or the American shipper will be forced to withdraw entirely.

Howard Anthony was the second Dowagiac speaker. He continued the thread of negative argument, contending that trade does not follow the flag, that the United States does not need a merchant marine, and the subsidy would be an unwise national policy. The service and rates which obtain now from foreign ships render it folly to subsidize a merchant marine, he stated. "He cited the $500,000,000 balance of exports over imports as proof that the United States commerce is not now hampered by lack of shipping facilities."

Don Wood was the third Buchanan speaker. He urged the need of a large American merchant marine to protect the shipping of the tremendous manufacturing output which the United States is now producing. He cited the outlay of $3,500,000 for an emergency fleet in the World War, and the failure of the government ownership experiment.

After short rebuttals which mainly covered the same ground as the direct speeches, the debate was closed.

LAND LEASED BEND RIVER

Twin City Pool Is Formed for Early Exploration

J. THEISON HEAD

3,000-Acre Tract Is Taken North of Niles

Oil explorations in the vicinity of Buchanan and Niles within the next few weeks loom as a definite possibility as the result of the leasing of 1,000 acres in the Bend of the River and 3,000 acres north of Niles by a syndicate of Twin City and Chicago men headed by J. Theison, Benton Harbor oil distributor.

The block which has been formed in the Bend of the River lies along the St. Joe River extending a mile and a half east from the River street bridge to the Charles Pears farm and extending thence a mile with and including a number of farms in that section.

The leases were taken last week for a term of five years, and are of the standard "Oklahoma" type, allowing the lessees one-eighth of all oil discovered in the territory and an income of $200 per year for each gas well located.

Representatives of the syndicate who solicited the leases stated that they would in all probability begin drilling somewhere within the next thirty days. The territory was leased as the result of advice from the state geological department stating that this section is considered favorable territory.

It is a matter of record that on Dec. 11, 1903 a showing of oil was discovered on the old Charles Umholtz farm four and one half miles north of Buchanan in the Bend of the River, but not in sufficient quantities to constitute a commercial well. Reports at that time indicated that the oil was discovered at a depth of 625 feet and that the first flow amounted to about 20 barrels per day. As is usual, the flow fell off after the discovery, to an amount that rendered it unprofitable to operate the well.

Present day ideas of oil exploration hold that drilling to the depth indicated above is not conclusive and the fact that oil in any quantity was discovered at that level render it likely that greater deposits may be discovered either at greater depths or at other places in the vicinity.

The block of 3,000 acres north of Niles centers about the farm of Fred Franz, who was instrumental in directing the attention of oil men there.

It is reported that the syndicate is made up of 50 Twin City and Chicago men who placed $2,000 apiece in a pool to finance drilling, and who are prepared to make further expenditures in exploration here in case indications are promising.

This movement is in line with extensive explorations now being undertaken in all parts of Michigan territory approved by the state geological department. Exploration has lately been stimulated by rich strikes made in the past month in the Muskegon oil field, which were made on territory approved by the state geological department.

About forty members of the Odd Fellow Lodge, also about 50 employees of the I. & M. company, and a few members of his graduating class, attended the services.

He was laid to rest beside his brother in Oak Ridge cemetery. Casket bearers were: Harleigh W. Riley, Archie Morley, Gilbert Turner, Albert Rohl, George Russell and Clifford Peters, fellow employees of the I. & M.

The honorary pallbearers were: Robert Rozan, Fred Richter, Joseph Hamilton, Fay Redder, Darcy Salisbury, Clarence Crisp, Meritt Martin and Carl Koenigs-hof, all boyhood friends and neighbors of Dayton.

About 100 cars were at the house, and 75 cars which followed in the funeral procession. Practically only women were able to enter the house, and a large crowd of men remained outside.

The high standing in which the Sarver family is held in the community was evidenced by the large number of people from Dayton, Buchanan and surrounding territory, who gathered for the funeral. Those attending the services from out of town were: Dr. and Mrs. C. Ash and son of Detroit; Ervin Sarver, William Tines, Frank and Harry Campbell, of Millerstown, Penn.

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." (11 Cor. 5:1).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals are not like immortals, created in God's own image; but infinite Spirit being all mortal consciousness will at last yield to the scientific fact and disappear, and the real sense of being, perfect and forever intact, will appear." THINKING OUT LOUD

King George enjoyed Ford car jokes so Henry Ford has sent him a Lizzie. That's what we call revenge.

They discovered a stowaway on the Graf Zeppelin, but didn't have the heart to give him the air.

Clyde Fox, New York, was given seven years in jail for having seven wives. Many men with only one wife get punished for life!

Dr. Charles Hose, returning from the Far East, says there are really no wild men in Borneo. So we guess our flappers might just as well stay at home.

Evangelistic meetings will continue until Thanksgiving night. We close the meeting with a great praise service.

OBITUARY

Sharon Henry Sarver, son of Austin C. and Katherine Sarver, was born in Philadelphia, Penn., September 10, 1903, and passed away as a result of an accident while on a hunting trip near Republic, Mich., Friday, Nov. 16, 1928, at the age of 25 years, 2 months and 6 days.

The deceased lived in Philadelphia until eight years of age, when he came with his parents to Dayton where they remained until 1917, when they moved to the present farm residence, one-half north of Dayton.

He spent his early life and attended school in Dayton. Later he entered the Buchanan high school, graduating with the class of 1923.

September, 1925, he went to Detroit where he accepted a position in the Ford printing office, and was there only two weeks when he was called home by the tragic death of his brother, Austin, Jr., Oct. 4th, 1925. Another brother, Eldon, and a sister, Vivian also preceded him to the Great Beyond.

For the past three years he has been employed by the local Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, as assistant engineer, and fraternally was identified with the Odd Fellow Lodge No. 214, and Modern Woodman of Dayton.

Sharon was held in the highest esteem in the community where he had lived since a lad, and was well liked because of his friendliness and cheerful nature, and he enjoyed a large circle of warm personal friends who mourn his passing.

He is survived by his grief-stricken parents, and a large number of other relatives.

We look forward to the Great Resurrection morning when we will again see Sharon, and we pray that he, and we all may hear the "Well Done" from the lips of our Saviour.

Lonely? Ah yes! I know your hearts near break.

God knows it, too, and sorrows for your sake.

Your earthly friends are mourning with too.

God alone can comfort as no man can do.

To Father, God, all your sadness tell.

He'll help you, for he doeth all things well.

Count not upon tomorrow or e'en today;

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

Life is uncertain, soon vanishes away.

S. Sarver Killed by Stray Bullet

tree for some time, since the leaves about the base were trampled.

The bullet made a small clean hole in front, but flattened during passage through the body. There was a large hole in the rear of his shirt, showing where the bullet had left, but none in his red hunter's jacket. It is believed that he had been leaning forward and that the rear of the jacket was pulled up over his belt, allowing the bullet to leave unimpeded. He had been called in a red hunting jacket and a red cap.

The party hunted through the gathering gloom of the woods with flashlights, but found no evidence of the bullet or of any place it had struck. As night was falling and flakes of snow had started to fall, they thought best not to await the arrival of the coroner, who had been summoned by telephone. The wrapped body in a blanket, placed it in a sling made from a pole and ropes, and started back. Seven men carried the sling and three went ahead, spotting the path and cutting paths through the brush.

On nearing the camp, they were met by the county coroner, who placed the remains in a truck and drove to Republic, where a jury was impaneled and the remains viewed. It was deemed best not to render a verdict at the time, in view of possible developments.

Bradfield's Fighting 11
Holds Allegan to TieVisitors' Goal Line
Is Threatened
TwiceFIELD IS MUDDY
Passes Fail, Both Elevens Unable to Gain

Buchanan closed its season last Saturday by giving Allegan a real good scare in a 0 to 0 game on the home field, which was one fine assortment of mud holes. The "Fighting Outfit" surely deserved its name by giving the big Allegan crew such a threat on a slippery field against their greater weight. The "Outfit" was in enemy territory most of the time, making Allegan dig in to hold the Maroon men back.

McNutt, the big Allegan, full-back, was their best ground gainer; however, in spite of his size, he was frequently thrown for losses and only once did he make a real run of 45 yards with an open field ahead, when Pierce overhauled him on the Buchanan 26-yard line.

The closest either team came to a goal was in the third quarter when Pierce punted to Allegan's seven yard line twice in succession. It was later in the third quarter when McNutt made his best run.

The passing game was out as neither team could hold the slippery pill enroute via air. The only completed pass being for Allegan, when Samuelson passed to Tripp for a three yard loss.

Penalties were frequent and mostly fifteen yards each, Allegan losing 75 yards, and Buchanan, 50 yards for misdeemeanors.

Each team made but three first downs throughout the game. Buchanan gained 96 yards through scrimmage and lost 12 yards the same way. Allegan made 95 and a half yards through scrimmage and lost 17 yards. Taking all losses off the gains, Buchanan made 34 yards and Allegan, but one half yard, chiefly due to Allegan's heavy penalties.

The lineup was:

Buchanan	Allegan
Smith	R. E. Damouth
Fette	R. T. Barlowe
Easton	R. G. Bentley
Squires	C. S. Miller
Bristol	L. G. Doggett
Knight	L. T. Gillett
Roe	L. E. Lince
Savoldi (c)	Q. B. Tripp
Cooper	R. H. Lange (c)
Wilcox	L. H. Samuelson
Pierce	F. B. McNutt

The officials were: Referee, Sickles, W. S. C. Umpire, Walker, W. S. C. Headlinesman, Miller, Kalamazoo College; Head Timekeeper, Ormiston, Albion.

Substitutions were: Buchanan, De Witt for Bristol; Allegan, McGeath for Bentley; Davidmeyer for Lange.

Twenty Members
Freshman Class
Ride the Goat

The Alpha Agrarian Club held their annual initiation on Tuesday evening, November 13.

At 7:30 o'clock, about twenty members of the Freshman class assembled in the high school waiting for their turn to be initiated. The initiation consisted chiefly of the following points: paddling, blackening, crawling under tables, meeting the fly family, and shaking hands with the porcupine which was nothing but a steel brush. The initiation committee consisted of Mike Boyce, chairman and George Hartline and Clall Sult who acted as his assistants.

After the initiation was over, the members all assembled in the domestic science room where a large feast was given. The meal consisted of scalloped potatoes, hamburger and buns, fruit salad, cake, coffee, ice-cream, and cider. The next meeting will be held on December 11. Anyone who wishes may attend.

Buchanan Takes Affirm. Against
Niles on Dec. 15

On Dec. 15, Buchanan journeys to Niles where they uphold the affirmative side of the question. So far this season Niles has won one debate and Buchanan has lost one. However, the first debate gave Buchanan some valuable experience and there should be an improvement.

Mrs. Dunbar, head of the English department, is in charge of this work.

Grade News

A schedule of demonstrations the different teachers in the grades have been arranged to be given by the different teachers in the grades including most of the subjects taught. This coming week, Mrs. Wilcox presents a language lesson, while Miss Ekstrom chooses one in geography.

Last week our moving picture machine was very much in demand by the teachers, much to the delight of the pupils. Our superintendent has favored us by allowing us some new films on the European countries, as well as of the U. S. These are being enjoyed very much, as the pictures are very clear and are true to present conditions.

The first work in Palmer to be sent to the Chicago office comes from Grade III under Miss Simmons' supervision. Returns will be received in about a week. We are expecting good results.

Last Tuesday, Mrs. Lura French staged a demonstration for the benefit of the teachers of the kindergarten and First and Second grades, in number work. Her pupils responded wonderfully well. Many of them showed a marked improvement over the work done even two weeks ago.

Examinations are always welcome, and we know they would especially enjoy the work being done by the pupils in Mrs. French's room.

First Grade

Theodore Walker is back in school. He has been in LaPorte, Indiana, for several weeks.

Evelyn Briney and Catherine Wynn are now on the Dental Honor Roll.

Friday, we made Indian head bands. This week we are making a wigwag. Mr. Miller made the frame for us.

Third Grade

The pupils in Miss Simmons's room are writing their examination drills for the Silver Star Palmer Button.

John Diment still remains quite ill.

We were sorry to lose Delos Dunbar who moved into the country.

We are reading Thanksgiving stories.

The children who are underweight are now drinking milk.

Twenty-three banded this week.

Junior High

The English 3 class have been studying Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and writing it from memory.

In a sentence and error recognition contest between the seventh and eighth grade language classes, Doris Campbell, Wilma Shipley, and Agnes Schmidt wrote perfect papers.

Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle is the study at present in the Literature 3 class.

All of the Junior High department and Mr. Muir's, Mrs. Heim's, Miss Clayton's, Miss Skeels' and Mrs. Dunbar's rooms were 100 per cent. in Thrift banking last Tuesday.

The above rooms have all received their quota of 100 per cent. Thrift buttons.

Health Department

Parents of underweight children are delighted with the way the school is cooperating with them in helping to bring their children up to normal. Milk is now served at school during the A. M. and P. M. recess periods. Last year many children were benefited by this extra food half way between meals.

The first day, a hundred bottles were sold at the High School building and fifty-nine bottles at the Dewey Avenue building.

This and That

This is a subject in which all the teachers are vitally interested, because if a pupil is much underweight the chances are that sickness overtakes him much more often than it does the pupil who is up to standard physically; and, of course, if a pupil is sick, necessarily he misses much of the work being done by his classmates.

Second Grade

Henry Snyder is a new pupil in Mrs. French's room.

Shirley Bauch, Tommy Fitch, and Laurence Newson had a 100 per cent record in spelling last week.

Last week, notices were sent to the parents of all underweight children offering to serve milk at recess time, twice a day. We are glad to say the parents are co-operating with us. In our building we are serving about 60 children daily. This will make for better school work.

Many girls and boys are absent because of chicken pox.

Maxine Harzell and Anna May Lintner have returned after a ten day's absence.

First Grade

The first grade are enjoying making an A. B. C. book.

Edward Pascoe is out of school on account of illness.

There are 12 children in the first grade who are having milk at least once a day.

Patricia Stange is absent on account of chicken pox.

Arthur Rohl and Jerry Bowman are absent because of illness.

Football Stars
Are Honored On
Eve Last Game

Another radio program by Damsch, similar to the one previous, was anticipated by the student body for Friday morning assembly. However, due to air disturbances, it became impossible to gain a clear reception so a "pep" meeting was held instead.

Mr. Muir, head of the Agricultural Department, gave an interesting and entertaining talk on "The Weakest Link," and by various comparisons made clear to every one the importance of having a strong chain to win the desired goal.

The entire squad made its appearance on the platform, thus giving the audience an idea of what material Buchanan really had for the last game of the year.

The ten members, who will either graduate or have played their limit, were extended the honor of standing in front that every one might see them. These were Clem Savoldi, captain of '28 team, Kenneth Dunbar, "Punk" Roe, Bob Morse, Don Fette, Phay Wilcox, Claude Dewitt, "Bus" Bristol, Fred Smith, and Dave Squires.

Circle Francais
Holds Programs
A la Parley Voo

"La Circle Francais," was organized the first part of the year and holds meetings every two weeks during class period. It is a French club, in which, of course, French alone is spoken.

The program for Nov. 16, consisted of a French poem by Helen Bauman, various jokes read from "Le Petit Journal" by Hazel Johnston, and a discussion of French menus, by Miss Schriver, the teacher in charge.

Buchanan Eleven
Has Good Record
In Spite Injuries

Buchanan has had a very good football season this year regarding scores and sportsmanship, but rather discouraging as to injuries. Coach "Curly" Bradford has done some fine coaching and conditioning this year, as he did in his other two seasons here.

The first game, with Decatur held September 28, was rather lopsided, the score being 31 to 0. The second game of the season, with Otsego was more interesting, the score being 24 to 6. It was played here. The third game, against Dowagiac was a history maker, being the first time in six years that we beat them. It was played here; the score was 13 to 0. Three Oaks was our fourth victim, October 20, here; the score was 21 to 0. October 27 there was a slump due to most of the team having injuries; two first string men were out, and we lost our game to Niles there 6 to 7. After Niles, Cassopolis gave us a real Friday, November 2, when they fell to the tune of 32 to 6, there. November 10, Western State High School gave the team a real tussle tying them 13 to 13 at Kalamazoo. November 17, the "Fighting Outfit" came back to real form and gave the husky Allegan team a good scare, keeping in their territory most of the time. However, they failed to score and the game ended 0 to 0, quite a difference from the way they topped off the season last year against Allegan.

Total score of Maroon and White, 140, while their opponents made only 32.

School News

The new sport is winning much favor with both students and faculty, since it was started two weeks ago.

The senior girls played the seventh grade girls last Friday afternoon, winning the set 3-0.

The high school library, which for the past week has been undergoing a thorough reorganization, is nearly completed.

An additional amount of books added this year caused this reorganization to be imperative in order to carry on the library efficiently.

Latin Nine classes for the past week have been making soap projects. The purpose of this is to give the student a clearer conception of Roman architecture and history, in connection with his language study.

Total Eclipse of the Moon Nov. 27

Visible from beginning to end everywhere in the United States, there will be a total eclipse of the moon early in the morning of November 27th. The chart above provides a graphic time-table of the eclipse.

Everyone in the United States will have the opportunity of seeing the total eclipse of the moon coming November 27—but the spectators will have to be pretty early. For the moon will enter the earth's shadow at 2:24 A. M., eastern standard time. Total eclipse begins at 3:33 and lasts until 4:29 o'clock, when the moon begins to emerge. At 5:39 A. M. the eclipse will be over. Central times are one hour earlier, mountain times two hours and Pacific times three hours.

The moon will probably not disappear from view although entirely within the shadow for nearly an hour. Considerable sunlight is refracted into the shadow through the ring of the earth's atmosphere around the base of the shadow. The moon at that time will be dim and noticeably red like the setting sun.

During a lunar eclipse, recent observations have shown, the moon's surface temperature drops from 170 degrees Fahrenheit immediately before the eclipse to 190 degrees below zero during the total phase.

A drop of 360 degrees in an hour or two! Some cold wave! Of course, no one lives on the moon, for it is airless and barren. The absence of atmospheric protection permits the sudden change in temperature. During the long lunar night, a thermometer at the surface would register not higher than 150 degrees below zero.

The earth's clinical shadow stretches nearly a million miles into space. At intervals of 29½ days the moon, then at the full phase, overtakes the shadow; but it passes usually above or below and there is no eclipse. The number of lunar eclipses in a year varies from three to none at all. Some of them are only partial and not visible from the earth. Astronomers now know far in advance the times and circumstances of eclipses. At the times of full moon, near the middle and the end of the year, conditions are most favorable for eclipses.

King of Kings at
Princess Tonight
For Last Showing

The last chance to see "The King of Kings", with its innumerable superlative qualities, is tonight at the Princess. It is the greatest of all "epics" and every religious man and woman, as well as every lover of great art, ought to see it.

For one day only, Friday, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," with Richard Barthelmess, the incomparable "Tol'able David," in the title role, will be at the Princess. It is a picturization of John Fox, Jr.'s very popular novel, and includes many kinds of action: horse racing, the Civil War, feuds, fighting, and the foiling of villains. The Kentucky scenery and folks is a revelation of that romantic state.

Hoot Gibson rides an "outlaw," captures a notorious thief, and wins a college girl, in "Fighting for Fame," to be shown at Saturday's matinee and evening shows. The author is Reeves Eason, and he also directs. Hoot has had so many successes and is so well known that every kid yells at the mention of his name.

Beatrice Fairfax, who gives advice, aid and comfort to the lovelorn, has written a story, "The Lovelorn," and two famous Irish girls, Sally O'Neil and Molly O'Day, play the part of the sisters in the piquant love story that comes Sunday afternoon and evening.

Jack Daugherty, who is making a big hit in the serial, "The Trail of the Tiger," Monday evenings at the Princess, was out the other day with a young sister of Mary Pickford, and the girl was abducted and Jack knocked cold, despite his seeming immunity from injury in the startling serial.

Clara Bow, the girl with it will be the attraction on Tuesday and Wednesday in "Red Hair." It is a story of a "gold-digging" maniac with lots of romance, comedy, action and good scenes. The opening scenes of Red Hair are shown in technicolor, revealing for the first time the flaming tresses of Clara Bow and her leading man Lane Chandler.

The month closes with Warwick Deering's absorbing novel of the fine friendship between Sorrell and Son, with H. B. Warner in the leading role. After seeing as you did his wonderful characterization of "Christ in the King of Kings" you will not want to pass up the opportunity to again see this marvelous actor. His portrayal of Sorrell in Sorrell & Son is considered to be one of the outstanding performances of the year.

U. S. Potato Crop
Is Largest Ever

A final United States potato yield of 121.2 bushels per acre places the country's crop at 465,651,000 bushels, which is the largest ever known, and amounts to about eighty million bushels more than the average consumption.

Potato prices are correspondingly low and the outlook is discouraging. Michigan did her part in producing this crop and ranks third in potato production this year with a crop of 35,880,000 bushels as a result of a large acreage and above average yield. Michigan potatoes are of better quality than last year in most sections.

The Michigan sugar beet crop is small. Reports indicate that only about 69,000 acres or three-fourths of the planted acreage remained for harvest, and the yield was only 6.2 tons per acre. The total crop is less than half of the usual.

The Michigan apple crop was larger than last year but not up to average because of the near failure of Baldwins and the light yield of other winter varieties. The pear crop for this state was above average. Although grapes were a large crop, they matured slowly and ripened unevenly which resulted in poor quality.

Owners of 3,000
Untaxed Dogs Will Get Theirs Nov. 24

There are at present about 3,000 dogs in Berrien County now pursuing the unlicensed tenor of their way, according to Deputy Sheriff Dunbar, and unless the owners of the said canines get busy and dig, there will be an unprecedented avalanche of wealth into the coffers of the county.

Officer Dunbar figures it this way: on November 24 which is Saturday of this week, the period of grace for delinquent dog owners will come to an end, after which the county authorities may, if they see fit, assess fines of $100 on any dog owner who has not paid.

The tax was due not later than March 1, since which time there has been a penalty of $2 in addition to the $2 tax for male and the $4 tax for female dogs.

Van Buren county authorities have already started assessing $25 penalties on delinquent dog tax payers. Berrien county now has a force of 10 officers collecting dog taxes. Officer Dunbar is collecting in the neighborhood of $50 daily around Buchanan.

The Five-Cent Cigar

There have been great changes in the smoking habits of the American citizen during recent years. While the use of cigarettes has been enormously increased, has quite run away from expectation and precedent, there has been another, if less spectacular, change. Men have turned away from the heavy and expensive cigar and are demanding a smaller and lighter cigar that retails at a more reasonable price.

These facts stand out prominently in the report of the internal revenue department for the last fiscal year. Nearly one-half of the cigars made in this country during the fiscal year were in the five-cent class. Official figures show 5,600,000,000 were distributed from American cigar factories and of that number, 2,000,000,000 were sold at a nickel each. That means the five-cent smoker was in the market, spent $150,000,000 for the smoke of his choice.

Any business man knows that a buying demand of that amount in the market is going to be met. Business never turns its back on a demand of that magnitude. Some of the foremost firms in the cigar trade have been quick to make and distribute a five-cent cigar bearing the name of one of the most popular high-priced brands. They are of superior quality, are much smaller than the high-priced ones and they help meet that national demand of which Vice President Marshall spoke when he said the need of the nation was for a good five-cent cigar.

Apparently that remark, uttered largely in jest, was found to be entirely true in fact. The result is that the best five-cent cigar in the history of the country is being sold now in most places and in large numbers. This is the day of the five-cent smoker.

The Vacation Habit

More and more the American people are adopting the vacation habit. They have learned the health and financial values of a season of play, away from the fatigues and surroundings of shop and office. They have learned that more and better work can be done in shorter time if one keeps fit for the task, and avoids the weariness of long continued toil.

About 300,000 Americans went abroad this year, and their expenditures amounted to about $800,000,000, according to statisticians in the department of commerce. That is about $100,000,000 in excess of the expenditures of foreign tourists last year.

The American tourist habit at home, however, is far better developed. The number of tourists at home this year is estimated at 44,000,000, all tours included, long and short, and the money expended in these trips ran well above $3,000,000,000, a golden train that helped all lines of established business.

Improved highways and motor cars have been the great aids in development of the home vacation habit. One may take a few weeks and travel over a new and interesting section of the country. There are no distant places in the United States, no matter where one may have a home. There is no way of showing the fine results in pleasure, in physical and mental betterment, in rested bodies and minds, good as ever and ready for the hardest tasks when the tour has been completed. These clever statisticians cannot show in figures the increased happiness in life that is the great result from these seasons of travel and play.

The vacation habit is easily acquired, can be made stronger if used regularly, life will be sweeter, and fortune, probably, quite as great even if the cost amounts high in the total figures. Physical well-being requires seasons of rest and play. Those who do not develop the play habit are heavy losers. Life becomes dull when toil runs on through the years. The brightness of the sunshine was given for the advantage of man, the beauty spots for his playgrounds, and life is sweeter and finer if the touring, vacation and play habit is made a real part of life.

General Motors New Stock

By its immensity the new stock plan proposed by the General Motors Corporation will attract public attention. The corporation plans to issue 43,000,000 shares of its new no par stock and exchange it for the stock outstanding, giving two and one-half shares of the new for one of the old. This immense number of shares compares with 7,000,000 shares of stock the Steel Corporation has outstanding. The steel shares are $100 par value, the present General Motors stock has a $25 par value but has been selling for about nine times par.

The changes proposed by General Motors will not alter the capital stock or surplus of the corporation. The new stock has been given assurance there would be a 5 per cent dividend rate fixed at the start and future dividends would depend on the measure of success the company secured.

General Motors stock has been one of the most active on the list in Wall Street trading during recent months, has made notable gains and given enormous profits to those who secured it when the quotations were far below the present figure. Bids of 90 have been made for the new stock as, if and when issued. General Motors has been tremendously successful during recent years, has made huge profits from its automobiles and it manufactures so many other articles of necessity and convenience that it has a golden stream of profits pouring into its treasury continually. It has had good management and its outlook today hardly could be better.

Whatever the public may think of the development of huge business corporations, and the concentration of vast wealth and production in a single company, the development of recent years shows that is the drift and even greater concentration may be expected. Mass production appears to be the dominant thought in manufacturing, and, with mass selling, it has been possible to win notable successes. But one might even grow dizzy in contemplating the issuance and distribution of 43,500,000 shares of stock by one corporation. The public may require time to become familiar with the top point in big business development.

Has Chicago Changed?

Apparently the voters of Chicago have had quite enough of the domination and leadership of William Hale Thompson, better known as Big Bill, the present mayor of that city. At the recent election his favorite candidates were defeated, and men known to be strongly opposed to him were elected. His political machine was broken badly when he lost his law enforcement candidate. It looks as if the first movement in dethroning Big Bill had been completed successfully. It was a great day for Chicago when that important decision was made by an overwhelming vote.

There is talk that the noisy mayor may resign his office, and the report is supported by statements that his health is not good. Last summer he was away from his office a number of weeks resting at a hunting lodge of a friend. In the recent campaign he took no active part, and his absence was explained by the statement that he was physically unable to meet the heavy strain.

Bad government does violence to the good name of any city, and the custom in this country is to place the blame on the mayor, when violent crimes are common and crooks are able to do their work almost unmolested. Chicago has plans for second World's Fair, wants to have it in 1932, and the Thompson administration has been in the way of the city. Chicago crimes have hurt business. If this economic feature serves to arouse the voters to the duty of providing better government, it will have rendered an important service to that great city. Bad as Chicago may be charged with having been, it is one of the great American cities, has a vast population of fine people and deserves a better mayor and a finer and more law-abiding administration than it has had for some years. And all that can be procured if the good voters unite and demand good government.

in declaring that the pedestrian who starts when the light conveys the invitation, has the absolute right of way and must be permitted to reach the opposite curb before traffic is started across this path.

Calling attention to the fact that the pedestrian is beset with many difficulties at best, Judge Josiah H. Van Orsdal, in the court of appeals, laid down a safety code and pointed to the duty of courts to see that it is enforced. As it is one of the early decisions on that point of law and because it will be pointed to as a precedent and may be applied in other states widely, the decision is of general interest. The court said:

What a difference color makes!

Pedestrians have the right of way, not only at uncontrolled crossings but also when they have entered an intersection on a green light, and until they reach the opposite curb, without regard to a change of lights during their passage of the crossings.

"Battering under" this invitation they cannot be charged with contributory negligence when they are in the street. Caught in this position the obligation rests upon the drivers of automobiles not only to observe the situation but to wait until the crossing is clear. Failure to observe these precautions constitutes negligence on the part of the driver, which, in case of accident is charged to him. The automobile is a vehicle of great weight, speed and power in contact with which the pedestrian is helpless.

As a matter of public policy and public interest drivers of automobiles should be held to the strictest accountability where pedestrians are injured at public crossings, and there should be no laxity on the part of the courts in applying the rule of negligence in such cases.

Here is a decision in a court of standing and importance on a point of law concerning which much will be heard in the future. Both to the pedestrian and the driver the decision has a vast importance. It puts forth a ruling that affects many thousands and is a step toward safety.

The Old Timers' Corner

Old Timer tells of Progress Since the days of Boyhood

I have been thinking of the many changes that have taken place at "home" since I was a lad about the town, and thinking it over with reference to the changes that take place with all. Where do the farmer boys go to? Where are the village lads? Where are the girls from both farm and town, that were among us when we were all there? It seems that every one is made for some sort of life and automatically they sort of shift around and find their little "groove" and sort of fit themselves into the scheme of things and become a part and parcel of some life work, and no matter where they were born nor what their surroundings have been, they will eventually become what they can, perhaps, do best with, as a life work. Take the lad that was a farmer boy. He learns about the things in Nature and knows where and how to get best results in planting and reaping, but back in behind all of this, there is a natural aptitude within him for something that is not furnished by work on the farm. Take the case of the boy who goes on in his study in school but is eternally drawing pictures. That was the case with George French. Finally he rebelled, and came to the city where he developed his art and has become one of the foremost in his line of work. His knowing the farm and what it was, did not in any way hurt him for his future in the city, in fact I believe that it helped him a whole lot. His mind and body are better balanced, and he has made more of his art than he would perhaps have done if he had been deprived of that early training and work.

We cast our eyes around and we find the boys and girls, too, in all sorts of lines, and they were all started in a similar way, one becomes a Teacher; one, a Mechanic; one, a Preacher; one, a Doctor, a Dentist, a Lawyer. Some have taken up the newer things that have come along that have attracted the minds of the American people, such as radio, airships, etc. Changes. Yes—they are changing all the time. The same old Nature that supplied us, that brought us here, and that will eventually garner us in, is Just The Same, but we are progressing, with minds that get new things and develop them. Our people live entirely different lives from what were accustomed to in our younger days, but Nature is the same. She has been scorned of some of her naturalness in vegetation, trees, etc., but that is only just a little local affair to her, on this old planet of ours that we have named "Earth." The rest of Nature and she is all and governs all. We are just a little dot in the universe of Nature. I sometimes think that Nature is the only God that there is and that the natural forces that were and have been developed are the laws of "Nature-God."

So the many changes that have taken place that we as little items in the plan of Nature, can hardly affect her to any marked degree, in the infinitesimal space of time that it takes to span a life time for us, as compared to the Eternity of Nature.

At home we see marks, changes that have been made with the old landmarks that were there and are still there, and it gives us a sort of comfortable feeling to note these old time places and things, just like we note the old time friends, who like ourselves have grown older in years and experience and the marks of time are showing on our faces and bodies in general, but we are known for what we are and have been. They say it is far better to be "a has been" than a never was, and so we will take places among the "has been" than a never was, and so we will take our places among the "has beens," along with the old trees and old fences and old buildings, and all remember each other with kindness that has been tempered with age and made mellow and charitable.

When we were young, we had all these qualities in us, but we were too busy "getting on," to allow them to come to the surface. But now as we, along with all the rest of us, grow mellow, and tired of the battle, are more sincere in our devotions, more experienced in choosing of friends, less apt to make enemies, and holding fast to the old friends and traditions. Then the time will come when we are folded away and forgotten, while the regular progress of time and change passes on, and we will be better off, perhaps for we would be ill at ease if we are to be brought back a hundred years or so from now and have to fit ourselves into the new ways and new things that are sure to take the place of what we now have around us.

Yes, from the farm comes the best, the best statesmen, the best business men the best mechanics, the best professionals in all walks of life, and so we can just be thankful that we were farmer boys, too.

Old Timer.

"WHO'S WHO"
By Claude Burns Roe

An old gray owl sat on his perch, so high
And sang "Who's Who? Who's Who?" to all who passed by.
And the night was so clear and calm and cool.
He sang for the fun of it, for the wise or the fool.

And as I sat and heard his lament I wondered if his singing by God had been sent;
For God is but Nature, with the spelling changed
When Nature is wrong then God is deranged.

The wind, the storm the waves the rain,
The seasons, that by Nature, come again
The Mountains, the earth, the sea, the sky

No flower that blooms, no bird that sings
But tells us the good that Nature brings.
The fishes, the birds and animals, too
Are part and parcel of Her crew.

Man, with a mind, and imaginings,
Sometimes loses sight of the real Nature in things.

For "God" is Nature, and Nature is kind—
All that's said of God is for Nature's mind.

We therefore have no fear of "hell"

For things in Nature "pass" and all is well.

Heaven is a word that means bliss and peace—

Heaven is here, by Nature's lease.

When Nature, pure and true,
Is given range with me and you—

Then Heaven is felt, with passion mixed—

And "hell" is gone. It's myth is fixed.

To do good for LOVE, is Nature's plan.

Not good for fear of hell, to your fellowman.

Nature is devoted love, each helps the other.

The rain for the flower as we help a brother.

So sing on, old owl, "Who's Who?"

Who's Who? You're part of our God, and you're like us, too.

We live and love a while, and fill our span—

Then pass the way that Nature planned.

Nature knows sadness only in brief.

For each dash of sorrow, she sends relief.

Then sing an old owl, and I'll sing too—

You and me are parts of this song "Who's Who?"

READY THEATRE

SIAMESE TWINS

Most twins like to dress alike. It's fun. It fools people. Mary can sometimes "cop" Marie's beau and laugh when she finally tells him he has been making love to the wrong sweetheart.

But it's one thing for twins to dress alike when they don't have to.

It's another thing for a set of twins not only to have to dress alike, but wear the same dress, because they're "Siamese Twins."

That's the way it is with Violet and Daisy Hilton, Siamese Twins from San Antonio, who come to the Ready Theatre Thanksgiving day.

Violet loves blue. Daisy loves pink. But since they must wear one dress, and since it would look funny for address to be half pink and half blue, they just have to take turns on the colors.

They make up for their sacrifice by having more pretty clothes than most twins who don't have to face life eternally together.

Why Not Put the Half-Billion to Work?

Six thousand lives lost—a half-billion in property destroyed by fire every year! What a tragic, needless sacrifice!

Every owner pays a share of the annual half-billion loss—whether he has a fire or not. He pays it in insurance, taxes and depreciation.

Most of this loss occurs in structures of comparatively small size; common sense has forced fire-safe construction of new large buildings.

Sound financing will not always permit making a small structure completely fire-proof. But a small increase in cost will yield a large increase in fire-safety.

Competent architects say that a fire-safe first floor of reinforced concrete will increase the cost of the average dwelling about two per cent—and even less in larger structures. Statistics indicate that at least thirty per cent of residential fires start in basements. A first floor of reinforced concrete will effectually protect the upper structure against a basement fire.

Single dwellings, small apartment houses, stores, hotels, factories, warehouses, theatres, and churches can have the fire-hazard reduced to minor proportions by employing reinforced concrete for first floors, stair enclosures and other vital locations. The additional cost is surprisingly low—and the reduced fire-risk only one of the benefits.

Why not put the half-billion to work?
