

Now Here's the Proposition

ON DECENCY

By Haws.

There's nothing pays like kindness pays. And courtesy and pleasant ways. Just smiles and decent words and such.

NOW IT CAN BE TOLD

One of the minor tragedies of life is the fact that so often you learn a lesson from hard experience and then never have a chance to use the knowledge again.

WE STAND CORRECTED

Our statement that the new postoffice will take up the quarters formerly occupied by the Woman's Rest Room in the rear of the Chamber of Commerce quarters was all to the wet, according to Enos Schram, chairman of the reception committee at that place.

WHAT, IF ANY

What we have been spending our spare time (which is unlimited according to some people) during the past week is just what is the innate difference, plus the subtle distinction, and the varying degrees, between a "flat tire" and a "wet sprocket."

A plaintive note was added to the aftermath of the womanless wedding by the sight of a well known attenuated gentleman galloping around the dressing rooms, remarking querulously: "Where's my pants? I know right where I left 'em and they're gone. Now what would anybody want to steal them for?"

It was just too bad about that poor Michigan woman who had to give her life for a pint, but there's boys in this town who would give nine lives if they had them, if they could be sure of the pint.

"If I ever get back home to Scotland, you'll never see me again in this man's company," remarked one of the Hawaiian troupe playing at the Princess over his breakfast at the Snyder Cafe this morning.

When you suddenly spin around three times, in front Street, and then sit down, with your legs in a V position straddling a fire plug, be nonchalant, smoke a Lucky Flop.

GALIEN MAN RUN DOWN BY RUNAWAY CAR

Clarence Pennell Is Crushed When Car Runs Wild.

NEAR STATE LINE

Wind Starts Auto In Downhill Skid Over Ice.

Clarence Pennell of Gallien, is now receiving treatment for serious injuries in a South Bend hospital as a result of being run down by a car in a peculiar accident on U. S. 18, a half mile south of the state line Thursday.

Mr. Pennell had been to New Carlisle in company with R. C. Groom in the latter's car and was returning to Gallien, when they were stopped by a truck which had stalled in the road in front of them. Groom stopped and set the brakes on his car at the top of a hill, and the two men walked down to assist the truck driver. The wind started Groom's car coasting noiselessly down the hill with locked wheels. The two men were unaware of the pursuit, until the skidding vehicle caught them, just brushing Groom and picking Pennell up on the running board. He was carried several rods with the flying car and then crushed against the side of the truck as the car sideswiped it.

A nearby farmer came to their assistance and rushed Groom to the Epworth Hospital at South Bend, where it was found that he had incurred a double fracture of the collar bone, four broken ribs, and a lung puncture. He is reported to be making a satisfactory recovery.

After striking the truck, Groom's car careened into a bank at the side of the road, mashing two fenders and bending an axle.

Looking Out—Over The Top!

AS if the side windows of an automobile weren't enough from which to view the scenery. Now look. The English have gone and created a car with a roller-blind sliding roof! Maybe, the excuse for it is to give the occupants a chance to see airplanes overhead—or something like that?

Mr. Aronson sold his dairy to the creamery shortly before the close of 1928.

SUPT. CLARK TO REBUILD TOWN PUMPS

EXPERT SAYS HALF OF POWER BEING WASTED.

Arrangements have been made to rebuild the pumps at the town pumping plant according to Arlan Clark, superintendent at the plant, who has been contending for a plant renovation for some time. According to a check made by a representative of the Indiana & Michigan from South Bend recently, the pumps are now expending 52 horsepower to raise a load of water that 28-horse power should take care of. In other words, according to Mr. Clark, there is a large waste within the pumps themselves which is equivalent to permitting all the facets in town to run about half open. The parts for rebuilding have been ordered from Manistee and Supt. Clark will begin work as soon as they arrive.

FIRE LEAVES 9 CHILDREN SHELTERLESS

Leazenby Home on N. Main Guttered By Flames.

NO INSURANCE

Second Time Family Loses Residence In That Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leazenby, 808 North Main Street, and nine children were homeless Monday night as the result of a blaze which gutted the upstairs and roof of their house, destroying all bedding, and most of their clothing.

It is practically certain that the fire started around a stovepipe which went through the floor into an upstairs room before entering the chimney. Mrs. Leazenby was home at the time, with the two youngest children, baking bread. She smelled paper burning and went into the adjoining room to see if the children were playing with fire. Then she rushed up the stairway, but when she opened the door into the south room, she was met with a blast of flame that drove her back. She ran out doors and her screams managed to attract the attention of neighbors, who turned in a fire alarm.

When the fire engine arrived, the flames had burned out the interior of the upstairs room and damaged the roof. The firemen soon had the blaze under control, and the downstairs part was undamaged save by water. In addition to the damage to the building, the Leazenby family lost four beds, a dresser, washstand, and other bedroom furniture, and most of the family clothing.

Mr. Leazenby had purchased the house, but had allowed the insurance to lapse during a ten month period when he was out of work last year, following the close of the cotton mill at Niles, where he had been employed as fireman. He was without work then until he secured employment with the Shearwater construction outfit on the Clark plant addition. He was employed in digging a sewer in the interior of the River Street addition while his house was burning.

He has one arm, having lost the other in an industrial accident, 15 years ago. A year after the loss of his arm he lost his home by fire at Logansport, Ind. He has 11 children, two of whom are working in Eremen, Ind., and the oldest boy at home is employed in the axle department of the Clark Equipment Co.

A unique incident was the fact that after the fire had been put out, in the charred body of the bureau which had been through the flames, an old violin was found practically unharmed, which had gone through the previous fire 14 years before.

ICE BLOCKADE IS RELEASED BY SNOWFALL

Record Tie-up of Car Traffic Ended Tuesday.

The ice blockade which held automobile and bus transportation in this district practically paralyzed for a week, was lifted Tuesday by a snow storm which fell on the ice in sufficient quantities to lessen the danger of skidding. Snow has continued intermittently until this morning, with several inches now on the ground and travel both on foot and by car practically safe. Temperatures have been mild for the past week, with a mark of 10 above as the low point. The mercury was only slightly above freezing all of last night and today.

Wrecking cars reaped a harvest during the period just closed, which exceeded anything ever experienced during the regime of auto transportation in this section. The latest accident to be reported was that of Kelsey Bainton, whose closed car skidded and upset in the ditch on the stone road opposite the Oak Ridge cemetery Tuesday morning. The car lighted on its top in the ditch, from whence it was extricated by a wrecking car with only a broken glass to show for the mishap.

To gain such things, one should eat the correct foods, etc.

As Miss Hutzell says, the modeling of one's life is nearly established by the age of twenty, so let's have that modeling done right, and elevate still farther the standard of women's health. Dr. Foote of the State Department of Health, also gave an appropriate talk to the boys at the same hour.

Investigating Prohibition.

Perhaps some good will come of President-elect Hoover's plan with respect to prohibition. Early in his administration he will appoint a nonpartisan commission to conduct a thorough investigation of the enforcement situation and to make recommendations looking toward its improvement. It is said that the inquiry will not be broad enough in its scope to raise the question of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment but will be limited to an effort to find out what is the best thing to do to better conditions under it. It might be hard to enforce that restriction if the commission, or a minority of it, should hold that the repeal or modification of the amendment is advisable and necessary.

A great difficulty about such an investigation is to find investigators who can do their work with open minds. Almost everybody has his own strong opinion about prohibition. If Senator Fess, for instance, were placed on the commission, no amount of evidence would convince him that prohibition is anything but a great national blessing, working well and sure to work better. If Senator Bruce were a member nothing would convince him that it is anything but a curse, hopelessly unworkable. The commission is almost certain to split in accordance with its preconceived ideas. Thus its report may not have much influence on public sentiment, which in the end will decide the big question.

A Limestone College President.
 Dr. Clarence Cook Little, whose resignation as president of the University of Michigan has been accepted with unanimity and apparent satisfaction by the board of regents, has been much in the limelight since he became head of the famous institution a little more than three years ago. Among his acts which caused much public comment were his denial to students of the privilege of owning automobiles and his rather sensational investigation, with accompanying observations, of drinking among undergraduates. His government policies, or perhaps his methods in endeavoring to enforce them, made him enemies among students and alumni and he went out of his way to antagonize outsiders, as when, disappointed in the amount of money appropriated for the university two years ago, he denounced the legislature and the governor and the "whining taxpayers," as he called them.

Another grievance against Dr. Little is his frequently advocacy of birth control, which does not appear like a particularly appropriate subject for public discussion by a university president. Dr. Little, who made a brilliant record in special fields of medical research before going in for college presidencies, perhaps has scattered too much, as they say, in his recent endeavors. The president of a great university would have his hands full, we should think, in attending strictly to his own immediate knitting and might well leave the saving of the world through birth control or other expedients to persons not so weighed down with responsibilities and problems. He also must be able to compromise occasionally and to accept defeat, at the hands of a legislature for instance, gracefully. Probably our most successful university presidents are not in the newspapers very much and not at all in a controversial way. The great university president does not scatter and he is a diplomat.

Price Dictation Failures.
 Great Britain failed after four years of determined effort to control the world's supply of crude rubber and dictate prices to other nations. She had control of immense crude production, controlled the marketing, the world had need for the supplies she held, but the world rebelled at autocratic domination, branded as unfair the business ethics employed and revised plans to reduce pressing needs. That attempt to dictate in an important line of business to the world ended in failure.
 Cuban capitalists with others wanted control of the cane sugar market, had laws passed governing production, perfected an organization to handle the trade the promoters felt they could control, and felt certain they would dictate in the sugar market. It was not difficult for the world to find new sources of supplies, or revise its plans for the world to find new sources of supplies, or revise its plans for consumption, and the Cuban sugar corner has ended in failure. One group of producers may plan a world corner, but attempted dictation to the world has not been successful.
 Brazil grows an abundance of coffee for which the world is willing to pay a price that brings profit to the growers, but the coffee leaders there wanted larger profits and control of world supplies. Some legislation was secured and the plan was put into force. The result is that Brazil has more than 13,000,000 bags of coffee waiting sale, while the coffee from Java and Sumatra is being poured into the markets of the world. There has been some change in price, but the coffee corner in Brazil failed in effect, the expectation is that the failure will be admitted shortly.

Here are three recent illustrations of greedy men trying to force their will on the rest of the people of the world, three strong efforts and three notable failures. The big producers in each case had failed to estimate correctly the willingness of the people to do without an article on which an unfair profit was sought. There is a vast amount of human independence, an unwillingness to live under hard dictation, the world can adjust its plans to escape injustice. Profit is secured only on goods sold, goods on hand bring no revenues, if the public will not buy, price dictation fails, just as the proud and courageous British Empire learned in its rubber adventure. Rebellious and unwilling buyers can stop unreasonable price dictation, even on articles of daily necessity. These three instances prove that point plainly. This good old world still is quite independent and very powerful.

Good News From Indiana.
 The new governor of Indiana, Harry G. Leslie, in his inaugural address requested the legislature to amend the laws so that the statute of limitations would not apply to and protect public officers, elective or appointive, who may be charged with malfeasance in office or other crimes committed during the tenure of their official relation. There is a disposition among the legislative leaders to comply with the request, although the time may not be left entirely open: One bill has been prepared that holds these officials liable to prosecution if any crime is discovered within 10 years after the close of their official career. The governor wants all the protection taken away and will ask the members personally to help him secure that provision.
 The immediate predecessor of Gov. Leslie was indicted on the charge of offering a bribe to Gov. McCray while he was in office but was able to escape prosecution and be freed through the operation of the statute of limitations. That statutory provision is one that requires that any charge of wrong shall be made against an official within a prescribed time and after that cannot be made. In most of the states the limitation fixed by the statute is three years.
 Indiana has had a painful experience with some of her governors, the old state has been humiliated repeatedly and Gov. Leslie wants to put up the bars so that hereafter, if one does wrong, one may be held to make answer in court no matter how cleverly or for what length of time the wrongdoing may have been kept hidden. It is a step for clean government and the legislature will do well to heed the advice given by the governor.

Chicago's World Fair.
 Chicago is going ahead with plans for a World's Fair to be held in 1933, has formed her general committee to carry on the work and secured introduction in Congress of a bill pledging the co-operation of the federal government in making the fair successful. That approval is important, as it gives the fair officials standing when it is presented to other countries and co-operation is sought. No appropriation was provided in the bill.
 Chicago is not disheartened over the failure of other fairs held in American cities in recent years. Having planned and held one great World's Fair, the city by the lake feels quite confident it can repeat the performance and with conspicuous success. There is courage shown by the city in taking that stand, because the history of other large expositions shows much to discourage and little to enthrall those who seek to hold another and larger one. There are those in this country who feel inclined to the view that the day of great expositions has passed.
 Chicago will need to clean house, provide better government for the city and end the activities of machine gun bandits and organized crime, and no more convincing publicity for the city and the fair could be provided than the story of the cleanup under way actively. If that is done, and the fair leaders claim it will be, then the story of what Chicago did in the great fair a generation ago would provide an appeal to millions to make plans for seeing the big show in 1933.

A certain noble woman says the most aggravating thing about a middle-aged husband is the way he acts so surprised every time he spills something else on the tablecloth or burns another hole in it, as if it were simply unaccountable how such a thing could happen to a careful man like him.
 There are still marked divergencies of opinion among the neighbor women on the question of the proper pronunciation of gladiolus but the agreement appears to be universal that poinsettia is a word of three syllables, with no more second i in it than a rabbit.

Our conservative reflection for the day is that, even if Mr. Hoover didn't really spread more than five per cent as much good will around Latin America as we enthusiastic Republican editors claim he did, the battleship probably paid for her oil.
 The mental attitude is a highly important factor in cases of illness and there is a man in this neighborhood who caught the flu from a visiting wife's relative and is so mad about it that his recovery is almost despaired of.

It may have been true once that half the world doesn't know how the other half lives but the neighbor women have been pretty busy for a good many years.
 We often get up in the morning feeling like a Bengal tiger and go to bed at night feeling like a Kansas jackrabbit.

Cows and Men.
 What Name for Hoover?
 The Duke Brothers.
 Farmers in Japan.

Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, gave a dinner to Ben H. Thompson in honor of his Holstein-Friesian cow, Canary Cordyke. The Saskatchewan Government bought the cow for $10,000.

Canary is world's champion in butterfat and gives enough milk in a day to last the average family a month. In 305 days, this wonder cow produced 1,080 pounds of butter and 26,396 pounds of milk.

Too bad there is no way of improving men's brains, as we improve cow's udders. Only time can do that, and time is slow. The average intelligence in the British House of Commons today, according to Lecky, is lower than the average of all the free men in Athens, 3,000 years ago. Science goes ahead, man stays about where he was, a little less brutal, a little less selfish.

If Americans call President Coolidge "the silent President" what will they call Mr. Hoover? He has been elected President of the United States, will begin his work in less than two months, has been in Washington several days at work. How much has he talked? Not at all.

Eight years more of business without conversation will suit this country very well. We have had, at various times, considerable periods of conversation without business.

Sometimes farmers succeed, but usually they must leave the farm to do it.

Benjamin N. Duke, who died recently in his Fifth avenue home in New York, began as a farmer, working with his brother, James Duke, on their father's farm. They grew tobacco, started a small factory, introduced cigarette making machinery, and made hundreds of millions. And farmers note this, they bossed the middle man instead of being bossed by him. Ask Mr. Hill of the American Tobacco Co. or Mr. Belt of Lorillard's how that is done.

Again farmers have their troubles, farmers in Japan have worse ones.

When our farmers complain Government at least Makes Promises.

When thousands of Japanese peasants marched to express dissatisfaction, forty were shot dead and many wounded.

An intoxicated lady told the judge that her trouble was due to an alcoholic rub. She had swallowed nothing. Doctors said it was just possible, the judge excused her.

A gentleman, very drunk, led in by the policeman, told the judge, "My mistake was eating raisins while drinking ice cream" soda. They let him go.

Prohibition develops new excuses.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Gaines, M. D.

Feeding the Aged.
 Old age is in reality a second childhood. The infant needs certain food-elements to sustain and produce growth; it will tolerate even more than is needed. But the aged need only sustenance and cannot comfortably bear more food than that necessary to sustain life. Perhaps it is instinct that leads the old man to insist on the plainest, most nourishing, unstimulating diet.

If grandpa insists on his cornbread and milk, don't deny him; if he just must have roast potato, you need not call him a back number because he abhors scalloped potatoes. If you cajole him into eating some new fangled dish with a little of everything in it, yet no real fuel for the waning fire, you may give him an alarming fit of indigestion away into the night. If he refuses shrimp salad, try him on graham mush!

The oldest machine of today was probably built out of the best material at the outset. It has lasted this long by being properly housed, its joints correctly lubricated, no overloads having been heaped upon it and having had the proper fuel for its engine. If you desire your (human) machine to last a long time, do nothing to hinder its normal action. It is easy to rid ourselves of the effects of over indulgence.

By giving your aged ancestor the food he likes, you are adding to his comfort and longevity, besides gathering blessings on yourself that are mighty nice to have; then, freak dieting is harmful at any age.

Chevrolet Plans Include Million and Quarter Cars

With the demand for its cars at the highest level in the history of the company, the Chevrolet Motor Company is preparing for the greatest year in its history with its sixteen giant factories now busy on a 1,250,000 car production program for 1929.

This statement was issued here today by John Russell, local Chevrolet dealer, who recently returned from Detroit, where he attended the tenth of a series of 40 nationwide sales meetings that are being sponsored by the company this winter and spring.

Through the medium of these meetings the company hopes to bring the 1929 Chevrolet sales message directly to every Chevrolet dealer in the United States. The day's program which embraced a graphic sales presentation in the Oriole Theatre in the afternoon and a banquet in the Statler Hotel in the evening, was one of the most elaborate ever attempted by an automobile manufacturer.

Rufus—Why on earth do you take all those magazines and papers? You certainly can't read them.

Music Groups of High School To Present Program

A concert is going to be given soon by the two Glee Clubs and the High School Orchestra.

This will be the first time our Music Department has presented a concert and it is hoped it will be well received, for it is only one means of showing what rapid strides forward our school is making in cultivating a taste for music in the students.

The Glee Clubs have a membership of seventy-five this year, and of the new semester finds many more waiting to be taken into the two clubs.

It is quite probable that there will be several professional singers on the program as well as the students.

No tentative date has been set, but it will be announced in the near future.

Another Business Course Is Offered

A new course has been introduced into the High School this semester. It is Business English. It is taught by Mary Jo Allington.

You may have your tropical weather hat. Your gleamy moon so white. But give me a book, and a cozy nook. With a cheery fire so bright. Let the wind roar loud. And the waves beat high. Secure and warm by the fire, sit I.

Snow Flakes. As I gaze from my bedroom window. With a look that is blurred with pain. And I see the cool white beauty. Of that wonder frozen rain. And my tired head stops aching. With my weary brain at rest. I watch the lazy movements. Of the snow flakes God has blessed.

French Club Gives La Marseilles At Friday Assembly

The Friday morning assembly program was in charge of Miss Shriner. The French Club, assisted by the beginning French Class, gave the play, "La Marseilles," in which the writing of the French National hymn was portrayed. The main characters were: Don Fette, mayor of the city; Hazel Johnston, his wife; first citizen, Robert Roe; second citizen, Fred Smith; Harry Banke, Rouge De Lisle, author of the song; Clem Savoldi, a general; as well as many others.

The plot of the play was as follows: the mayor of the city offered a prize for the best National Song written by one of the citizens of the city. It was written by Rouge De Lisle. This song at the end of the playlet was sung by the French club members and the beginning class.

Jolly Home Ec.'s Victorious Over Clever Cookers

During the first semester, competition has been rife between the two Home Economics Clubs, the Jolly Home Ec.'s and the Clever Cookers.

The contest which the clubs maintained throughout the semester has closed to find that the Jolly Home Ec.'s beat their opponents by five points. Points were given for scholarship, banking, laboratory work and class problems. The Clever Cookers are giving a banquet for their jolly sister cooks, Wednesday evening at six o'clock in the Home Economics room.

Ruth Pierce is president of the victorious Jolly Home Ec.'s and Pauline Van Every, president of the Clever Cookers.

Two new club will be formed within a week, new officers will be elected, and the same competition will be practiced with sewing.

ANDROGLES AND THE LION

Many long years ago there was a poor Roman slave called Androgles who lived in Africa. His master was cruel to him, so the slave wanted to leave. So, one night as he was lying awake, he thought that he would run away. Not long after he started out, going through bushes, shrubs and over hills, but was unable to find either food or water. After several days of wandering in the hot boiling sun through the thickets, he could go no longer. He was longing to throw himself down, but was fearful of being eaten by some wild animal, so he continued his trip. As he got out from the thicket he saw nothing but cliffs, hills, mountains and rugged lowlands.

RICHARD F. FULLER 121 Days Avenue. Phone 191

Leaving the thicket and taking the trail up the mountain, he saw a cave where he thought he might find a rest. In entering he found the air very cool, and some dry grass on the floor. After sleeping many hours he was awakened by a savage roar of a lion.

Shaking with fear, that he might be torn from limb to limb he sat very still. On looking out of the cave, he saw a large shaggy lion snarling fiercely, showing his handsome white teeth. However, the lion was doing something else. Every once in a while the lion would lift one of his front feet, lick it and put it down carefully, as if in pain. In a very short time a stream of blood was trickling down from the injured paw.

Androgles aroused by the anguish that he knew the lion must be suffering, walked over to him, and on examination found a thorn in the fleshy part of the foot. This he removed as best he could, and doctored up the sick membrane.

This relief was so appreciated that the lion threw him self at the feet of the boy, wagging his tail, like a dog would.

After awhile the lion limped away, and on returning brought a rabbit which he put at the feet of his master. The rabbit was soon cooked and eaten, and then the lion led the boy to a bubbling spring where his thirst was satisfied with fresh cool water.—Robert Smith, 7th Grade.

Scout Troop 41 Hits Attendance Record Tuesday Evening

Troop 41 of Buchanan broke all attendance records last Tuesday evening when all officers and scouts except one were present. The meeting opened with the Scout Oath followed by business and a talk by Commissioner Ken Blake.

Mr. Blake announced that the troop having the most adults present at the Buchanan Court of Honor February 14 would have its name engraved on a wall plaque, the troop winning the plaque three successive times will become possessor of the trophy. A new troop ranking system is to be put in operation in the area soon. Troops 41 and 42 are after each others hide at the coming Court.

After the business was over several new games were tried with much fun resulting. One called baseball is played by two teams, one being at bat and the other in the field. Those in the field sit in the players' positions and the batter of the other team is asked questions by the pitcher, the runs and strikes depend on the batters answering them. To get around bases the runner must question his way by the basemen. The game produced many questions and arguments over scouting topics.

The fun over the meeting was dismissed with the seventh Scout Law, A Scout is Obedient. After dismissal several remained to work on or pass tests.

New Troop School Notes.

The Faculty play at the high school auditorium. We expect to see every seat in the house occupied. According to the advance sale of tickets there is no doubt but what a record crowd will be on hand to watch the faculty performance. "His Uncle's Niece" is the title of the play and promises you an evening of fun. There are ten members in the cast and they appear to be well chosen for the part.

Not only the faculty will perform, but some of the students as well. The tenth grade sewing class in Home Economics will present a style show between acts together with some musical numbers sponsored by Mrs. Kelly.

Primary Room.

We have had a very poor attendance the past month, seventy-four. We hope the flu and inclement weather will allow us to improve this record next month.

Our teacher bought a Christmas tree and the little folks who were there certainly had much enjoyment from it. The Carpenter boys furnished a Christmas treat of popcorn. We all received many pretty gifts.

Our honor roll for the month is as follows: Beginners, Shirley Liskey; First grade, Mary McKeen, Jean Stratton, Alden Sexton, Max Yeske.

Second grade, Billy Bihlmire, Peter Ritchie, Robert Keefer.

Intermediate room honor roll: Third grade, Mary Marx, Helen Ritchie, Roger Decker, Hazel English, Edward Goodline Jr., Vera Penland, Bobbie Liskey, Jimmy Bihlmire.

Fourth grade, Theodore Sexton, Harold Wisner.

Fifth grade—Henry Marx, Henry Koupe, Doris Liskey, Wallace Keefer.

Will Whitaker either believes in system or that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." Any how, he does not walk when he can slide while feeding his pigs. He will be asked to demonstrate his method at the next strange meeting.

COURSE IN AVIATION

The course offered at Kelly Field is particularly designed for men who wish to become regular army pilots and includes maneuvering in military formation, and all has completed the course offered there, which covered not only learning to fly but also training in adjusting, repairing and construction of aeroplanes. This training has prepared him for work as a commercial flyer or for a position in the engineering or construction departments of companies manufacturing planes.

Paul would have liked to have taken the advanced course at Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, during the next few months but owing to a shortage of the DeHavilland planes, and because the government has stopped making this model, it was found that only a few out of his class could be provided for. The course offered at Kelly Field is particularly designed for men who wish to become regular army pilots.

Lansing, Jan. 31.—It may prove a surprise to some citizens of the state to learn that deer are not confined exclusively to the northern counties of the lower peninsula and the upper peninsula. Only recently the department of conservation prosecuted a man in Barry county, which lies further south than the state capital, for the shooting of a deer. The animal was one of three that are known to live in that section of the state. They are frequently sighted by residents and are said to be exceedingly tame. The deer in Barry county are not the only ones in the southern counties. Several years ago some deer were brought into Livingston county for display purposes on a private preserve. Later they were released. They now roam the surrounding country and are multiplying, according to last reports which state that there are now 23 in the band. Mitchell Ranks of London characterized the institute of brewing as holy and sacred because it was finding the "best way to use God's malt, hops and water." We know a newspaper man who thinks Hoover's election was just a publicity stunt for a certain vacuum cleaner company. Policeman George Clements of Chicago stopped two men pushing a baby carriage at 3 a. m. and found the perambulator contained stolen silver worth $3,000.

POINTS TO WATCH IN BUYING HOUSE ON LAND CONTRACT SEC. MICHIGAN BLDG. & LOAN GIVES ADVICE TO PURCHASER It is frequently desirable for a husband and wife to purchase a house on a land contract. In carrying out such a program, there are several points concerning which they should have a clear understanding. They should be sure that the contract specifies the property which they have in mind. Solving the problem which would arise if the wrong property were involved might mean great expense. The question of special assessments and who is to pay for them should be settled definitely. In these days of frequent improvement, there are often such assessments attached to property. This is almost always true in new and rapidly-growing districts of a city. In making a land contract, it is best to deal only with well-established and responsible companies or individuals. The contract should provide that a full abstract and tax history be furnished the buyer when payment is complete. Such papers are necessary to show good title. Payments should be made at a place of business, but regardless of whether this is done, the place where payment is to be made should be specified. Contracts sometimes provide for the payment of the balance due and unpaid at the end of a certain number of years. This clause provides the seller with a guarantee, but is not beneficial to the buyer. If the house is unfinished or is to be altered by the seller, this fact should be specified. The buyer should read his contract carefully and have the meaning of every clause in it clearly in mind. Every agreement in connection with the contract should be placed in it, rather than being left to verbal understanding. "What budget should be planned? Hoover's election next." Irving B. Rich, secretary of the Michigan Building and Loan League, and president of the New Michigan Building and Loan association of Jackson, has been named chairman of the committee which arrange the program for the meeting of the state organization. The state league will hold its convention at Jackson, probably in the fall. President E. B. Tyrrell of the league has confirmed the appointment of the Jackson committee which will handle the convention. Other members are W. J. O'Dwyer, W. J. Lepard, Christian Schlenker and J. A. Reynolds. With its five building and loan associations boasting resources of more than $23,000,000, Jackson has one of the largest per capita investments in building and loan of any city in the country. Michigan Farmers Guests at Lansing Conference Feb. 4-8 With final details of programs completed, the stage was set here this week for the annual M. S. C. Farmers Week and housewives conference, scheduled this year from February 4 to 8. Predictions that well over 5,000 Michigan farmers and their families would gather from all corners of the state for the meetings were being made by college authorities in charge of arrangements for the week. Attendance has grown steadily in recent years and a record breaking crowd would not be a surprise, if road conditions make for even reasonably safe travel. Walter Thaning Is Attendant at Delco Convention A word picture of the agricultural America of the future, with electricity taking up the slack in farm labor and in farm management, has been brought back by Walter E. Thaning, local Delco-Light dealer, from the regional sales convention of his company which was held at Chicago, Ill. "It was demonstrated at the convention that this idea of a completely electrified agricultural America is not a visionary dream—it is a coming reality and will be brought much closer to actual existence during 1929," the local dealer says. The Old Timers' Corner

"Troubles" Rest Lightly on Old Timer's Shoulders

Troubles. That's what seems to be the prevailing item of interest in all the papers of late and it is the one thing that besets us in our every day climb through life. Trouble! Have you noticed that as we grow older and more accustomed to it, that trouble does not make the "hit" it used to, and that it sort of glances off our back and we plod on just the same? We are used to trouble and would be lonesome without it. Like a man with a meddlesome and quarrelsome wife, one that he can have trouble with every day in the year, he must be very lonesome when she dies, for he has grown so used to it. As we grow older we expect some unforeseen thing to "bob up" in the highway and stop us for a while or make us take a long unexpected detour, in the highway of life, but "what does it matter?" We have seen landlides and tornadoes and sand storms and all sorts of things that blocked the roadway before, and so one or two more or less don't worry us at all. It just means a little delay and we have more time than anything else.

You will say, "that is all very well for one that is not nervous" and I will say that nervousness, in ninety percent of the cases, is in the "mind" and not in fact. If I hear some one say, "O Doctor! I am so nervous!" I put that one down as a person who don't know what nervousness really is. Maybe they are a little jumpy when a door slams, or a dish falls and breaks, but nervous? I doubt it very much. Maybe their digestion is out of order. You know I believe that indigestion is accountable for about seventy-five percent of the ills of all of us. That is another "trouble." One that some old fashioned common sense and some "liver powder" will probably fix up all right.

Trouble comes in many forms and ways. For the city man it comes in the way of dull business; big rents to pay and no money at hand to pay it with and with the eternal rush and "huffra!" that goes with the cosmopolitan life, and if it isn't one thing it is another. It seems that some days are just laid out for you to have trouble. You will have a puncture or a blow out on your way to the office, or if you ride a trolley car, they hit a wagon or a pedestrian and "delay the work" for a while, some one that owes you some money and has agreed to pay today, does not account for himself and your obligations seem to get higher and higher, and still with it all and through it all, you think "it might be a whole lot worse" and smile trouble away. Or, do you? I know that it can be done, for I have been doing it for a long time. That's why I weigh so much, I guess. Let the other fellow worry. The farmer has his trouble, it rains when he has hay "down" in the barn when he wants to thresh the wheat and oats, it snows when he wants to husk the corn, the potatoes don't yield as much as they ought on a certain season and it seems that the price is always high when he hasn't so many for the market and low when he has a big yield. That's the trouble and we all have it. I've known some sick and he hasn't had the "D" and maybe loses his horse, there's sickness in the homes for us all. Trouble? What of it? There will be troubles after we are laid away with the "lily" in our hands, and they march around and say "How nice he looks." Don't take them seriously. Let the other fellow worry.

That reminds me of a story, once more.

A collector called on the farmer for his installment on his life insurance and the farmer had been having "troubles" and didn't have the cash and the collector threatened to "make trouble for him" if he didn't produce. The farmer took the wheat straw he had been chewing out of his mouth and looked at the collector and smiled. Then he said:

"Say, listen, young man: You say you want to start a little trouble for me. All right go ahead and start it. In the last year or so I have had so darned much trouble that I am getting lonesome, without it. America has got these such trifling little things as these. The lightning struck my barn and burned up the hay and corn and four horses and three cows, the pigs got the cholera and all but two died for me, and those two were little runts that I couldn't even sell, and June-bugs ate up my best crop, potato bugs ate up the vines before they could peep through the ground, my five, wore out and the fires all went burn inside of no time at all, my daughter married the hired man and wife ran off with the lightning-rod agent, and you stand there and tell me that you are going to start some trouble for me. All right let her go, I will be wondering what you can start that will be trouble for me."

So, I say that with older and more seasoned years, trouble don't mean a calamity, it is a simply a delay and we struggle along the way and arrive more or less on time. We are still on the job and ready for what ever the day may bring around. Let it be trouble or what-not. Don't let it scare you at all. They can't put you in jail, for laughing at trouble.

Now to change the subject:

I mentioned last letter about the Chicago-Buchanan Society, and the dinner they are to "pull" on Feb. 13, here in Chicago. Don't you think you could arrange to be here with us? You know that anyone that lives in or has ever lived in Buchanan is invited. We had a lot of fun talking over old times with old timers and we would sure enough like to have you with us. Ask Mrs. Chas. Boyle all about it. She will tell you what and how to do to get the most out of it. Come along, I would like to see you.

Old Timer.
